This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFATORY NOTE

The "Consolidated Laws" of the State, prepared by the Board of Statutory Consolidation, were enacted by the Legislature as part of the statutes of the year 1909. This Board did not, however, make a revision of the Code of Civil Procedure. "It was deemed advisable at this time," says its report, "not to attempt a revision of the practice, but merely to remove substantive provisions, and to this extent to prepare the way for actual revision."

The Board accordingly transferred nearly 600 sections of the Code to the "Consolidated Laws," where, it was considered, they more properly belonged; and, on the other hand, transferred a few sections from the general statutes to the Code. Of the remaining sections of the Code, about seventy-five were amended by the Board, but these amendments were chiefly in the way of inserting cross-references, to connect these sections with those which had been transferred.

This Code, therefore, remained the same, in the main, as it was before the "Consolidated Laws" were enacted. But the omission of almost 600 sections without changing the numbering of those that were retained rendered the section-numbers no longer consecutive. Moreover, though many of the transferred sections might be more appropriately placed where they are now found, it was certainly very convenient to have them (since they related to procedure) in the Code itself, with the other provisions as to procedure. Before 1909, for example, the method of proceeding to punish contempt of court, and what constitutes such contempt, was contained in the Code, but since that time it has been found in the "Judiciary Law." To have such provisions in a handy edition of the Code has certainly had some advantages over the condition that now prevails of having to seek them in the bulky volumes of the "Consolidated Laws."

Until the suggested revision of the Code is accomplished, which may not be for some years, the present Code must continue to be published, and the changes which have been made indicated therein. In the present edition every section that has been transferred to the "Consolidated Laws" has prefixed to it the words [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] This is the Table printed immediately after this Prefatory Note (pp. iii to xx, inclusive), and a reference to it will show at a glance to which Law of the "Consolidated Laws" the particular section has been transferred. Sometimes the transferred sections are still, by reason of their importance and for convenience' sake, printed in full in this edition, but the heading shows that they no longer belong to the Code, but are a part of the other statutes.

The new Surrogates' Courts Act (L. 1914, c. 443) which went into effect September 1, 1914, is embodied in this edition (pages 682 to 802). It is, in the main, a rearrangement and condensation of the former sections of the Code upon the same subject, but it also confers important powers upon the Surrogates' Courts which they did not previously possess. Tables on pages xxa to xxf show what sections of the new Surrogates' Act correspond with those of the old.

The Decedent Estate Law (contained in the Consolidated Laws) bears so close a relation to this Surrogates' Courts Act, that the one forms the complement of the other, and it is a daily experience that consultation of the one leads necessarily to an examination of the other. In the belief, therefore, that lawyers and law students will find it very convenient to have both these statutes in the same volume, I have included the Decedent Estate Law in this edition as Appendix II (pages 1022a to 1022u).

The new Municipal Court Code of New York City (L. 1915, c. 279) is also incorporated in this edition. It went into effect September 1, 1915.

The Code of Civil Procedure

OF THE

STATE OF NEW YORK.

AN ACT

Relating to Courts, Officers of Justice, and Civil Proceedings.

Passed June 2, 1876; three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

CHAPTER I.

General Provisions relating to Courts, and the Members and Officers thereof.

TITLE I.— The Courts of the State; their General Powers and Attributes, and General Regulations pertaining to the Exercise thereof.

TITLE II.— Provisions of General Application, relating to the Judges, and certain other Officers of the Courts.

TITLE I.

The courts of the State; their general powers and attributes, and general regulations pertaining to the exercise thereof.

Article 1. Enumeration and classification.
2. General powers and attributes of the courts.
3. Miscellaneous provisions relating to the sittings of the courts.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Enumeration and classification.

Sec. 1. Courts.
2. Courts of record enumerated.
3. Courts not of record.
4. General provision as to jurisdiction, etc.

§ 2. [Am'd, 1909.] Courts.

The courts referred to in this act, are enumerated in sections 2 and 3 of the Judiciary Law.

Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65.

§ 2. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Courts of record enumerated.

Each of the following courts of the State is a court of record:

1. The court for the trial of impeachments.
2. The court of appeals.
3. The appellate division of the supreme court in each department.
4. The supreme court.
5. The court of claims.
6. A county court in each county, except New York.
7. A surrogate's court in each county.
8. The court of general sessions of the peace in and for the city and county of New York.
9. The city court of the city of New York.[1]
10. The city court of Yonkers.
11. Such other local courts as are now constituted courts of record.

From Co. Proc., part of § 9; 2 R. L. of 1813, § 8; 2 R. S. 218 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 6), §§ 4 and 9; L. 1841, c. 319, § 1; L. 1843, c. 374, § 1, am'd L. 1849, c. 134; 2 R. S. 224 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 3), §§ 1–5; L. 1821, c. 47; L. 1854, c. 96; L. 1849, c. 125; L. 1822, c. 218; L. 1871, c. 461, § 4; L. 1872, c. 627, and c. 866, tit. 4, § 1; L. 1873, c. 61; L. 1874, c. 171; L. 1875, c. 68. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1897, c. 36 (in effect March 9, 1897).

§ 3. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Courts not of record.

Each of the following courts of the State is a court not of record:

1. Courts of justices of the peace in each town, and in certain cities and villages.
2. Courts of special sessions of the peace in each town, and in certain cities and villages.
3. The police courts in certain cities and villages.[2]
4. The municipal court of the city of New York.[3]
5. The municipal court of the city of Rochester.[4]
6. The municipal court of the city of Syracuse.[4]
7. The municipal court of the city of Buffalo.[4]
8. Such other local courts as are now constituted courts not of record.

From Co. Proc., § 9; L. 1834, c. 271, and amendatory acts; L. 1872, c. 129, § 11; L. 1876, c. 196. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 479; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 4. [Am'd, 1877.] General provision as to jurisdiction, etc.

Each of those courts shall continue to exercise the jurisdiction and powers now vested in it by law, according to the course and practice of the court, except as otherwise prescribed in this act.

From Co. Proc., § 10, and part of § 469. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

[1] Called the "Marine Court of the City of New York" until 1883. Name "City Court" adopted by L. 1883, c. 26.

[2] The police justices of New York city have been superseded by judges called "city magistrates." (L. 1893, c. 601, §§ 1–11, 18, 19; L. 1897, c. 378, §§ 1392–1400, 1412–1418; L. 1910, c. 659.)

[3] By the present charter of New York city (L. 1897, c. 378, §§ 1350, 1351; L. 1901, c. 466, §§ 1350, 1351), the former district courts of that city have been consolidated with the former justices' courts of Brooklyn and Long Island City, etc., into a new court, called the "Municipal Court of New York City." This court has, however, a number of districts, and a session is held in each district. As to the districts, number of judges, etc., see L. 1907, c. 603.

Sec. 5. The sittings of courts to be public.
6. Courts not to sit on Sunday, except in special cases.
7. General powers of courts of record.
8. Criminal contempts defined.
9. Punishment for criminal contempts.
10. Such contempts in view of court; how punished, etc.
11. Requisites of commitment.
12. Preceding sections limited.
13. Indictment, if offence is indictable.
14. Contempts punishable civilly.
15. No imprisonment for non-payment of interlocutory costs.
16. Id.; money due upon a contract.
17. Rules of courts of record, how made and revised.
18. Rules to be published.
19. Courts to order calendar printed.
20. Expense to be a county charge.
21. Certain papers may be destroyed.
22. Writs, etc., in name of the people, and in English; abbreviations.
23. Id.; teste and return.
24. Id.; to be subscribed or indorsed; when error, etc., not to vitiate.
25. No discontinuance by reason of vacancy, etc.
26. When one judge may continue proceedings commenced before another.
27. Provisions respecting the seals of courts.
28. Seals of counties.
29. [Repealed.]
30. New seals.

§ 5. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] The sittings of courts to be public.

The sittings of every court within this State shall be public, and every citizen may freely attend the same, except that in all proceedings and trials in cases for divorce, on account of adultery, seduction, abortion, rape, assault with intent to commit rape, criminal conversation, and bastardy, the court may, in its discretion, exclude therefrom all persons who are not directly interested therein, excepting jurors, witnesses, and officers of the court.

From 2 R. S. 274 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), § 1. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 210.

§ 6. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Courts not to sit on Sunday, except in special cases.

A court shall not be opened, or transact any business on Sunday, except to receive a verdict or discharge a jury. An adjournment of a court on Saturday, unless made after a cause has been committed to a jury, must be to some other day than Sunday. But this section does not prevent the exercise of the jurisdiction of a magistrate, where it is necessary to preserve the peace, or, in a criminal case, to arrest, commit or discharge a person charged with an offense, or the granting of an injunction order by a justice of the supreme court when in his judgment it is necessary to prevent irremediable injury or the service of a summons with or without a complaint if accompanied by an injunction order and an order of such justice permitting service on that day.

From 2 R. S. 275, § 7. Am'd by L. 1900, c. 135 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 7. General powers of courts of record.

A court of record has power:

1. To issue a subpœna, requiring the attendance of a person found in the State, to testify in a cause pending in that court; subject, however, to the limitations prescribed by law, with respect to the portion of the State in which the process of a local court of record may be served.

2. To administer an oath to a witness, in the exercise of the powers and duties of the court.

3. To devise and make new process and forms of proceedings, necessary to carry into effect the powers and jurisdiction possessed by it.

From 2 R. S. 276 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 1.

§ 8. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Criminal contempts defined.

A court of record has power to punish for a criminal contempt, a person guilty of either of the following acts, and no others:

1. Disorderly, contemptuous, or insolvent behavior, committed during its sitting, in its immediate view and presence, and directly tending to interrupt its proceedings, or to impair the respect due to its authority.

2. Breach of the peace, noise, or other disturbance, directly tending to interrupt its proceedings.

3. Wilful disobedience to its lawful mandate.

4. Resistance wilfully offered to its lawful mandate.

5. Contumacious and unlawful refusal to be sworn as a witness; or, after being sworn, to answer any legal and proper interrogatory.

6. Publication of a false, or grossly inaccurate report of its proceedings. But a court cannot punish as a contempt, the publication of a true, full, and fair report of a trial, argument, decision, or other proceeding therein.

From 2 R. S. 278, § 10.

§ 9. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Punishment for criminal contempts.

Punishment for a contempt, specified in the last section, may be by fine, not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment, not exceeding thirty days, in the jail of the county where the court is sitting, or both, in the discretion of the court. Where a person is committed to jail, for the non-payment of such a fine, he must be discharged at the expiration of thirty days; but where he is also committed for a definite time, the thirty days must be computed from the expiration of the definite time.

From Id., § 11.

§ 10. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Such contempts in view of court; how punished, etc.

Such a contempt, committed in the immediate view and presence of the court, may be punished summarily; when not so committed, the party charged must be notified of the accusation, and have a reasonable time to make a defence.

From Id., § 12.

§ 11. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Requisites of commitment.

Where a person is committed for such contempt, the particular circumstances of his offence must be set forth in the mandate of commitment.

From Id., § 13.

§ 12. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Preceding sections limited.

The last four sections do not extend to a special proceeding to punish a person, in a case specified in section 14 of this act.

From Id., § 14.

§ 13. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Indictment, if offence is indictable.

Punishment for a contempt, as prescribed in this article, does not bar an indictment for the same offence; but where a person who has been so punished is convicted on such an indictment, the court, in sentencing him, must take into consideration the previous punishment.

From Id., § 15.

§ 14. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Contempts punishable civilly.

A court of record has power to punish, by fine and imprisonment, or either, a neglect or violation of duty, or other misconduct, by which a right or remedy of a party to a civil action or special proceeding, pending in the court may be defeated, impaired, impeded, or prejudiced, in either of the following cases:

1. An attorney, counsellor, clerk, sheriff, coroner, or other person, in any manner duly selected or appointed to perform a judicial or ministerial service, for a misbehavior in his office or trust, or for a wilful neglect or violation of duty therein; or for disobedience to a lawful mandate of the court, or of a judge thereof, or of an officer authorized to perform the duties of such a judge.

2. A party to the action or special proceeding, for putting in fictitious bail or a fictitious surety, or for any deceit or abuse of a mandate or proceeding of the court.

3. A party to the action or special proceeding, an attorney, counsellor, or other person, for the non-payment of a sum of money, ordered or adjudged by the court to be paid, in a case where by law execution cannot be awarded for the collection of such sum; or for any other disobedience to a lawful mandate of the court.

4. A person, for assuming to be an attorney or counsellor, or other officer of the court, and acting as such without authority; for rescuing any property or person in the custody of an officer, by virtue of a mandate of the court; for unlawfully detaining, or fraudulently and wilfully preventing, or disabling from attending or testifying, a witness, or a party to the action or special proceeding, while going to, remaining at, or returning from, the sitting where it is noticed for trial or hearing; and for any other unlawful interference with the proceedings therein.

5. A person subpoenaed as a witness, for refusing or neglecting to obey the subpoena, or to attend, or to be sworn, or to answer as a witness.

6. A person duly notified to attend as a juror, at a term of the court, for improperly conversing with a party to an action or special proceeding, to be tried at that term, or with any other person, in relation to the merits of that action or special proceeding; or for receiving a communication from any person, in relation to the merits of such an action or special proceeding, without immediately disclosing the same to the court.

7. An inferior magistrate, or a judge or other officer of an inferior court, for proceeding, contrary to law, in a cause or matter, which has been removed from his jurisdiction to the court inflicting the punishment; or for disobedience to a lawful order or other mandate of the latter court.

8. In any other case, where an attachment or any other proceeding to punish for a contempt, has been usually adopted and practiced in a court of record, to enforce a civil remedy of a party to an action or special proceeding in that court, or to protect the right of a party.

From 2 R. S. 534 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 13), § 1.

§ 15. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] No imprisonment for non-payment of interlocutory costs.

But a person shall not be arrested or imprisoned, for the non-payment of costs, awarded otherwise than by a final judgment, or a final order, made in a special proceeding instituted by State writ, except where an attorney, counsellor, or other officer of the court, is ordered to pay costs for misconduct as such, or a witness is ordered to pay costs on an attachment for non-attendance.

From L. 1847, c. 390, § 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 16. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; money due upon a contract,

Except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, a person shall not be arrested or imprisoned for disobedience to a judgment or order, requiring the payment of money due upon a contract, express or implied, or as damages for non-performance of a contract.[1]

From L. 1831, c. 300, § 1.

§ 17. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rules of courts of record, how made and revised.

The justices assigned to the appellate division of the supreme court shall meet in convention at the capitol in the city of Albany, on the fourth Tuesday in October, 1895, and at least every second year thereafter. They must also meet from time to time at the same place whenever called together by at least five of said justices at a time to be fixed in the said call, a copy of which shall be delivered at least one week before the time fixed to the presiding justice of each department. The convention must establish rules of practice not inconsistent with this act which shall be binding upon all the courts in this State and all the judges and justices thereof, except the court for the trial of impeachments and the court of appeals. A majority of the members of such convention shall constitute a quorum. The rules thus established are styled in this act "the general rules of practice." The convention shall have power to appoint and remove a reporter; and must also adopt a seal for each department of the appellate division of the supreme court. A description of each of the seals specified in this section must be deposited and recorded in the office of the secretary of State and must remain of record. The expense of such seals must be paid from the State treasury.

§ 18. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rules to be published.

A rule thus established, or a general rule or order of the court of appeals, does not take effect, until it has been published in the newspaper published at Albany, in which legal notices are required by law to be published, once in each week for three successive weeks.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 4.

§ 19. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Courts to order calendar printed.

The supreme court or a county court may, from time to time, by order, require the clerk to cause to be printed for the use of the members and officers thereof, the necessary copies of the calendar of causes, prepared for a term of the court. But this section does not apply to the city and county of New York.

From L. 1862, c. 86, § 1. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 20. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Expense to be a county charge.

The expense of printing the copies of the calendar for a term, shall be a charge upon the county in which the term is held; and must be audited, allowed, and paid, by the board of supervisors thereof. In like manner as other contingent county charges, except that the expense of printing the copies of the calendars for the terms of the appellate division of the supreme court which[1] shall be a charge upon the State and shall be audited by the comptroller and paid out of the treasury of the State.

§ 21. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Certain papers may be destroyed.

The appellate division of the supreme court, in any department, may, upon petition, by order made at any term thereof direct a county clerk or a commissioner of jurors to destroy any papers or books or surplus copies of any papers or books now deposited, filed, or of record, or hereafter to be deposited, filed, or of record, in his office, which the court deems to have become useless. Provided, however, that in those counties where commissioners of records have been appointed, a copy of said petition, if for the destruction of any papers or books, or surplus copies of any papers, books or records in the office of a county clerk, shall be served upon the commissioner of records at least five days before application is made to said court. But this provision does not authorize the destruction of a judgment-roll, or a paper incorporated or necessary to be incorporated in a judgment-roll.

§ 22. Writs, etc., in name of the people, and in English; abbreviations.

Except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, a writ or other process must be in the name of the people of the State, and each writ, process, record, pleading or other proceeding in a court, or before an officer, must be in the English language, and, unless it is oral, made out on paper or parchment, in a fair legible character, in words at length, and not abbreviated. But the proper and known names of process, and technical words, may be expressed in appropriate language, as now is, and heretofore has been customary; such abbreviations as are now commonly employed in the English language may be used; and numbers may be expressed by Arabic figures, or Roman numerals, in the customary manner.

§ 23. Id.; teste and return.

A writ or other process issued out of a court of record, must be tested, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, in the name of a judge of the court, on any day; must be returnable within the time prescribed by law; or, if no time is prescribed by law, within the time fixed by the court, and therein specified for that purpose; and when returnable, must, together with the return thereto, be filed with the clerk, unless otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From 2 R. S. 278 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 9; L. 1847, c. 280, § 57; Id., c. 470, § 43.

[1] So in the original. This " which " is superfluous.

§ 24. Id.; to be subscribed or indorsed; when error, etc., not to vitiate.

A writ or other process, issued out of a court of record, must, before the delivery thereof to an officer to be executed, be subscribed or indorsed with the name of the officer by whom, or by whose direction it was granted, or the attorney for the party, or the person at whose instance it was issued. A writ or other process thus subscribed or indorsed, is not void or voidable, by reason of having no seal or a wrong seal thereon, or of any mistake or omission in the teste thereof, or in the name of the clerk, unless it was issued by special order of the court.

Id.

§ 25. [Am'd, 1877.] No discontinuance by reason of vacancy, etc.

An action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, in a court of record, is not discontinued by a vacancy or change in the judges of the court, or by the re-election or re-appointment of a judge; but it must be continued, heard and determined, by the court, as constituted at the time of the hearing or determination. After a judge is out of office, he may settle a case or exceptions, or make any return of proceedings, had before him while he was in office, and may be compelled so to do, by the court in which the action or special proceeding is pending.

§ 26. [Am'd, 1890, 1910.] When one judge may continue proceedings commenced before another.

In the counties within the first and second judicial districts, a special proceeding instituted before a judge of a court of record, or a proceeding commenced before a judge of the court, out of court, in an action or special proceeding pending in a court of record may be continued from time to time, before one or more other judges of the same court, with like effect, as if it had been instituted or commenced before the judge, who last hears the same.

§ 27. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Provision respecting the seals of courts.

The seal of the court of appeals, and of each other court of record in the State, now in use, shall continue to be the seal of the court in which it is in use; and the seal kept by the county clerk of each county, shall continue to be the seal of the supreme court, in that county, and, except in the city and county of New York, of the county court in that county. The seal of the surrogate of each county shall continue to be the seal of the surrogate's court of that county, and must be used as such by an officer, who discharges the duties of the surrogate. A description of each of the seals, specified in this section, must be deposited and recorded in the office of the secretary of State, unless it has already been done; and must remain of record.

§ 28. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Seals of counties.

The seal kept by a county clerk, as prescribed in the last section, shall continue to be the seal of the county, and must be used by him where he is required to use an official seal.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 36.

§ 29. [Repealed by Statutory Construction Law, L. 1892, c. 677.]

This section provided how the seal of a court might be affixed. Section 43 of the General Construction Law (in Appendix I, post) contains the same provision.

§ 30. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] New seals.

When the seal of a court is so injured, that it cannot be conveniently used, the court must cause it to be destroyed; and when the seal of a court is lost or destroyed, the court must cause a new seal to be made, similar in all respects to the former seal, which shall become the seal of the court. The expense of a new seal for a county clerk, a surrogate's court, or a local court in a city, must be paid as part of the contingent expenses of the county or of the court, as the case requires. The expense of a new seal for any other court must be paid from the State treasury.

From 2 R. S. 277 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 7.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Miscellaneous provisions relating to the sittings of the courts.

Sec. 31. Rooms, fuel, etc., how furnished.
32. No liquors, etc., to be sold in court-house.
33. Penalty.
34. Trial of causes at adjourned term.
35. Adjournment of term, judge not appearing.
36. When court to be adjourned to a day certain.
37. Causes tried elsewhere than at court-house.
38. Governor may change place for holding courts of record.
39. Such appointment, etc., to be recorded and published.
40. Judge may change place for holding court of record.
41. Actual session may be adjourned to another place.
42. Place for holding courts in city of New York, how changed.
43. When court-house is unfit to hold court, another place to be appointed.
44. No action or special proceeding abated, etc., by failure or adjournment of court.
45. Trial once commenced may be continued beyond term.

§ 31. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rooms, fuel, etc., how furnished.

Except where other provision is made therefor by law, the board of supervisors of each county must provide each court of record, appointed to be held therein, with proper and convenient rooms and furniture, together with attendants, fuel, lights, telephone, postage and stationery suitable and sufficient for the transaction of its business. If the supervisors shall neglect so to do, the court may order the sheriff to make the requisite provision; and the expense incurred by him in carrying the order into effect, when certified by the court, is a county charge.

From Co. Proc., §§ 15, 24, 28, 51. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 67; L. 1913, c. 394; L. 1915, c. 443 (in effect April 28, 1915).

§ 32. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] No liquors, etc., to be sold in court-house.

Strong, spirituous, or fermented liquor, or wine, shall not, on any pretense whatever, be sold within a building established as a court-house for holding courts of record, while such a court is sitting therein.

§ 33. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty.

A person violating the last section is guilty of a misdemeanor.

§ 34. [Am'd, 1895, 1909.] Trial of causes at adjourned term.

Causes may be noticed for trial for any term of a court of record adjourned, as provided in section 7 of the Judiciary Law, as if it was held by original appointment.

From Co. Proc., § 24. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 35. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Adjournment of term, judge not appearing.

If a judge, authorized to hold a term of a court, does not come to the place where the term is appointed to be held, before four o'clock in the afternoon of the day so appointed, the sheriff or clerk must then open the term, and forthwith adjourn it to nine o'clock in the morning of the next day. If such a judge attends by four o'clock in the afternoon of the second day, he must open the term; otherwise the sheriff or the clerk must adjourn it without day.

From 2 R. S. 197 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 3), § 6; Id., tit. 4, §§ 19, 20, 21. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 36. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When court to be adjourned to a day certain.

If, before four o'clock of the second day, the sheriff or the clerk receives from a judge, authorized to hold the term, a written direction to adjourn the term to a future day certain, he must adjourn it accordingly, instead of adjourning it as prescribed in the last section. The direction must be entered in the minutes as an order.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 37. Causes tried elsewhere than at court-house.

The parties to an action or special proceeding, pending in a court of record, may, with the consent of the judge who is to try or hear it, without a jury, stipulate in writing, that it shall be tried or heard and determined, elsewhere than at the court-house. The stipulation must specify the place of trial or hearing, and must be filed in the office of the clerk; and the trial or hearing must be brought on upon the usual notice, unless otherwise provided in the stipulation.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 41.

§ 38. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Governor may change place for holding courts of record.

If the governor deems it requisite, by reason of war, pestilence, or other public calamity, or the danger thereof, that the next ensuing term, or the next ensuing adjourned sitting, of the court of appeals, or that the next ensuing term of any other court of record, appointed to be held elsewhere than in the city of New-York, should be held at a place, other than that where it is appointed to be held, he may, by proclamation, appoint a different place within its district for the holding thereof; and at any time thereafter he may revoke the appointment, and appoint another place, or leave the term to be held at the place where it would have been held, but for his appointment.

From 2 R. S. 290 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 87.

§ 39. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Such appointment, etc., to be recorded and published.

Such an appointment or revocation must be under the hand of the governor, and filed in the office of the secretary of State; it must be published in such newspapers and for such time, as the governor directs; and the expense of the publication must be paid out of the State treasury.

From Id., § 88.

§ 40. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge may change place for holding court of record.

If a malignant, contagious, or epidemic disease exists at the place, where a term of a court of record is appointed to be held, and the governor has not appointed, under the last two sections, another place to hold the same, the judge, or, if there are two or more, the chief or presiding judge, designated to hold the term, may, by order, direct the term to be held in another place, designated by him, within the district for which it is to be held. The order must be forthwith filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the term was to be held, and published in such newspapers, and for such a time, as the judge directs therein; and thereafter the governor shall not appoint another place, for holding that term.

§ 41. [Am'd, 1891. Bracketed part omitted, 1909; see Table, p. iii.] Actual session may be adjourned to another place.

[If, during the actual session of a term of a court of record, the judge, or a majority of the judges, holding the same, deem it inexpedient, by reason of war, pestilence or other public calamity, or the danger thereof, or for want of suitable accommodation, that the term should be continued at the place where it is then being held, the court may, by order, adjourn the term, to be held at any other time and place within its district.] A court of record may, in its discretion, where the parties to an action file a stipulation that the same be tried at a place within the county where said action is triable, other than the court-house, adjourn the term to such place for the trial of said action. Notice of such an adjournment must be given, as the court directs by the order.

From L. 1883, c. 159, first clause of § 5; L. 1866, c. 174, § 2. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 159; L. 1909, c. 65.

The mayor, or, in case of his absence, or other disability, the recorder of the city of New-York, may, by proclamation, direct that the next ensuing term of any court, other than the court of appeals, appointed to be held in that city, shall be held in any building, within the city of New-York, other than the building where the same is regularly to be held, if, in his opinion, war, pestilence, or other public calamity, or the danger thereof, or the destruction or injury of the building, or the want of suitable accommodation, renders it necessary that some other place should be selected. The proclamation must be published in two or more daily newspapers, published in the city of New-York.

From 2 R. S. 290 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), §§ 89, 90.

§ 43. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When court-house is unfit to hold court, another place to be appointed.

If the building established as a court-house in any other county is destroyed, or is, for any cause, unsafe, inconvenient, or unfit for holding court therein, the county judge of the county may, by an order filed in the office of the clerk of the county, appoint another building in the vicinity for temporarily holding courts. The building so appointed becomes the court-house of the county, for the time being; and business transacted therein has the same effect, as if it was transacted at the usual place.

From Id., §§ 93, 94.

§ 44. No action or special proceeding abated, etc., by failure or adjournment of court.

When a term of * court fails or is adjourned, or the time or place of holding the same is changed, as prescribed in this chapter, an action, special proceeding, writ, process, recognizance, or other proceeding, civil or criminal, returnable, or to be heard or tried, at that term, is not abated, discontinued, or rendered void thereby; but all persons are bound to appear, and all proceedings must be had, at the time and place to which the term is adjourned or changed, or, if it fails, at the next term, with like effect as if the term was held, as originally appointed.

From 2 R. S. 204 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 4), § 22; Id., 277 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), §§ 3, 5, 6; Id., 291, § 91; L. 1833, c. 159, § 3; L. 1847, c. 280, § 28; L. 1886, c. 174, § 2.

§ 45. Trial once commenced may be continued beyond term.

Where the trial or hearing of an issue of fact, joined in an action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, has been commenced at a term of a court of record, it may, notwithstanding the expiration of the time appointed for the term to continue, be continued to the completion thereof; including, if the cause is tried by a jury, all proceedings taken therein until the actual discharge of the jury; or, if it is tried by the court without a jury, until it is finally submitted for a decision upon the merits.

TITLE II.

Provisions of general application, relating to the judges, and certain other officers of the courts.

Article 1. General powers, duties, liabilities and disabilities of judges, and officers acting judicially.
2. Attorneys and counsellors at law.
3. General provisions concerning certain ministerial officers, connected with the administration of justice; and special provisions concerning officers of that description, attached to two or more courts.

ARTICLE FIRST.

General powers, duties, liabilities and disabilities of judges and officers acting judicially.

Sec. 46. Judge not to sit when he is a party, etc., or has not heard argument.
47. Judge not to be interested in costs.
48. Disability of judge in certain appeals.
49. Judge or judge's partner not to practice in his court.
50. Judge's partner or clerk not to practice before him; judge not to practice in a cause which has been before him.
51. Judge not to take fees for advice in certain cases.
52. Substitution of one officer for another in special proceeding.
53. Proceedings before substituted officer.
54. Judge to file certificate of age, etc.

§ 46. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge not to sit when he is a party, etc., or has not heard argument.

A judge shall not sit as such in, or take any part in the decision of, a cause or matter to which he is a party, or in which he has been attorney or counsel, or in which he is interested, or if he is related by consanguinity, or affinity to any party to the controversy within the sixth degree. The degree shall be ascertained by ascending from the judge to the common ancestor, and descending to the party, counting a degree for each person in both lines, including the judge and party, and excluding the common ancestor. But a judge of the court of appeals, or a justice of the appellate division of the supreme court, shall not be disqualified from taking part in the decision of an action or special proceeding in which an insurance company is a party or is interested, by reason of his being a policyholder therein. A judge other than a judge of the court of appeals, or of the appellate division of the supreme court, shall not decide or take part in the decision of a question, which was argued orally in the court, when he was not present and sitting therein as a judge.

From 2 R. S. 275 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), § 2; L. 1847, c. 280, § 81; L. 1850, c. 41, § 2. Am'd by L. 1883, c. 234; L. 1895, c. 267; L. 1897, c. 268; L. 1903, c. 216 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903). See additional provision in Const. of 1894, art. VI, § 3 (Appendix I, post).

§ 47. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge not to be interested in costs.

A judge shall not, directly or indirectly, be interested in the costs of an action or special proceeding, brought before him, or in a court of which he is, or is entitled to act as a member, except an action or a special proceeding to which he is a party, or in which he is interested.

From 2 R. S. 275 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), § 5.

§ 48. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Disability of judge in certain appeals.

A judge of a court of record is not disqualified from hearing or deciding an action or special proceeding, matter or question, by reason of his being a resident or tax-payer of a town, village, city, or county, interested therein.

From 2 R. S. 210 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 5), § 10. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 49. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge or judge's partner not to practice in his court.

A judge shall not practice or act as an attorney or counsellor, in a court of which he is, or is entitled to act as a member, or in a case originating in that court. A law partner of, or person connected in law business with a judge, shall not practice or act as an attorney or counsellor, in a court, of which the judge is, or is entitled to act as a member, or in a cause originating in that court; except where the latter is a member of a court, ex-officio, and does not officiate or take part, as a member of that court, in any of the proceedings therein. An ex-officio judge shall not, directly or indirectly, be interested in the costs, or the compensation of an attorney or counsellor, in the court of which he is ex-officio a judge.

From 2 R. S. 275 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), §§ 4, 5; L. 1839, c. 308, as am'd by L. 1841, c. 272; Id., c. 346; L. 1847, c. 280, § 82; Id., c. 470, §§ 48, 50, 51.

§ 50. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge's partner or clerk not to practice before him; judge not to practice in a cause which has been before him.

The law partner or clerk of a judge shall not practice before him, as attorney or counsellor in any cause, or be employed in any cause which originated before him. A judge shall not act as attorney or counsellor in any action or special proceeding, which has been before him in his official character.

From L. 1847, c. 470, §§ 51, 52. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416. As to the right of judges to practice as attorneys and counsellors, see also Const. of 1894, art. VI, § 20 (page 1386, post).

§ 51. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge not to take fees for advice in certain cases.

A judge or other judicial officer, shall not demand or receive a fee or other compensation, for giving his advice in a matter or thing pending before him, or which he has reason to believe will be brought before him for decision; or for preparing a paper or other proceeding, relating to such a matter or thing; except a justice of the peace, in a case where a fee is expressly allowed to him by law.

§ 52. [Am'd, 1899.] Substitution of one officer for another in special proceeding.

In case of the death, sickness, resignation, removal from office, absence from the county, or other disability of an officer before whom or in whose court a special proceeding has been instituted, where no express provision is made by law for the continuance thereof, it may be continued before the officer's successor, or any other officer residing in the same county, before whom it might have been originally instituted; or, if there is no such officer in the same county or in case such officer be disqualified, then before an officer in an adjoining county, who would originally have had jurisdiction of the subject matter, if it had occurred or existed in the latter county; and in case such special proceeding be pending in a county court and the county judge of the county be disqualified to hear and decide the same, then in such case all further proceedings therein may be had in the county court of any adjoining county, which court shall have jurisdiction to hear, try and determine the same and to enforce its order.

From 2 R. S. 284 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 51. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 378 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 53. Proceedings before substituted officer.

At the time and place specified in a notice or order, for a party to appear, or for any other proceeding to be taken, or at the time and place specified in the notice to be given, as prescribed in this section, the officer substituted as prescribed in the last section, or in any other provision of law, to continue a special proceeding instituted before another, may act, with respect to the special proceeding, as if it had been originally instituted before him. But a proceeding shall not be taken before a substituted officer, at a time or place, other than that specified in the original notice or order, until notice of the substitution, and of the time and place appointed for the proceeding to be taken, has been given, either by personal service or by publication, in such manner and for such time as the substituted officer directs, to each party who may be effected [1] thereby, and who has not appeared before either officer. Where, after a hearing has been commenced, it is adjourned to the next judicial day, each day to which it is so adjourned, is regarded, for the purposes of this section, as the day specified in the original notice or order, or in the notice to appear before the substituted officer, as the case requires.

From 2 R. S. 284 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), §§ 52, 53.

§ 54. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judge to file certificate of age, etc.

A judge of a court of record must, within ten days after he enters on the duties of his office, make and sign a certificate, stating his age, and the time when his official term will expire, either by completion of a full term, or by reason of the disability of age, prescribed in the constitution. The certificate must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, who must keep a record of the time of the commencement and termination of the official term, of each judge of a court of record.

78. Partner of district-attorney, etc., not to defend prosecutions.
79. Attorney not to defend when he has been public prosecutor.
80. Penalty.
81. Limitation of provisions.

§ 55. Party may appear in person or by attorney.

A party to a civil action, who is of full age, may prosecute or defend the same in person or by attorney, at his election, unless he has been judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs. Each provision of this act, relating to the conduct of an action, wherein the attorney for the party is mentioned, includes a party prosecuting or defending in person, unless otherwise specially prescribed therein, or unless that construction is manifestly repugnant to the context. If a party has an attorney in the action, he cannot appear to act in person, where an attorney may appear or act either by special provision of law, or by the course and practice of the court. (236)

From 2 R. S. 276 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), § 11.

§ 56. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Examination and admission of attorneys.

A citizen of the State, of full age, applying to be admitted to practice as an attorney or counsellor in the courts of record of the State, must be examined and licensed to practice as herein prescribed.[1] A State board of law examiners is hereby created, to consist of three members of the bar, of at least ten years' standing, who shall be appointed from time to time, by the court of appeals, and shall hold office as a member of such board for a term of three years, except under the first appointment which shall be for terms of one, two and three years respectively, until the appointment of his successor. Such court shall prescribe rules providing for a uniform system of examination which shall govern such board of law examiners in the performance of its duties and shall fix the compensation of its members. There shall be examinations of all persons applying for admission to practice as attorneys and counsellors-at-law at least twice in each year in each judicial department and at such other times and places as the court of appeals may direct. Every person applying for such examination shall pay such fee, not to exceed fifteen dollars, as may be fixed by the court of appeals as necessary to cover the cost of such examination. On payment of one examination fee the applicant shall be entitled to the privilege of not exceeding three examinations. Such board shall certify to the appellate division of the supreme court of the department in which each candidate has resided for the past six months every person who shall pass the examination, provided such person shall have in other respects complied with the rules regulating admission to practice as attorneys and counsellors, which fact shall be determined by said board before examination. Upon the state board of law examiners certifying that a person has passed the required examination, the appellate division of the supreme court in the department in which such person shall have resided for at least six months prior to such application, if it shall be satisfied that such person possesses the character and general fitness requisite for an attorney and counsellor-at-law, shall admit him to practice as such attorney and counsellor-at-law in all the courts of this state. Race or sex shall constitute no cause for refusing any person examination or admission to practice. Such board shall render during the month of January, an annual account of all their receipts and disbursements to the court of appeals. The court of appeals may make such provisions as it shall deem proper for admission of persons who have been admitted to practice in other States or countries.

From L. 1871, c. 486, § 3. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 425; L. 1894, c. 760; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1912, c. 253; (in effect April 11, 1912).

§ 57. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rules, how changed.

The rules established by the court of appeals, touching the admission of attorneys and counsellors to practice in the courts of record of the State, shall not be changed or amended, except by a majority of the judges of that court. A copy of each amendment to such rules must, within five days after it is adopted, be filed in the office of the secretary of State; who must transmit a printed copy thereof to the clerk of each county, and to the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court, in each judicial department, and also cause the same to be published in the next ensuing volume of the session laws.

§ 58. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Exemptions to graduates of certain law schools.

Nothing contained in the last two sections prevents the court of appeals from dispensing, in the rules established by it, with the whole or any part of the stated period of clerkship, required from an applicant, or with the examination where the applicant is a graduate of the Albany law school, being the law department of the Union university, or of the law department of the university of the city of New York, or of the law school of Columbia college, or of the law school of the university of Buffalo or the New York law school or of the college of law, Cornell university, or of the school of law, Syracuse university, or the Brooklyn law school of Saint Lawrence university, or Fordham university law school, and produces his diploma upon his application for admission.

From L. 1871, c. 486, § 3; L. 1872, c. 260. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; [illegible] c. 168; L. 1905, c. 195; L. 1908, c. 90 (in effect April 6, 1908).

§ 59. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Attorney's oath of office, and certificate of admission.

Each person, admitted as prescribed in the last three sections, must, upon his admission, take the constitutional oath of office in open court, and subscribe the same in a roll or book, to be kept in the office of the clerk of the appellate division of the supreme court for that purpose. The clerk, upon the payment of the fees allowed by law, must deliver to the person admitted, a certificate under his hand and official seal, stating that such person has been so admitted, and that he has taken and subscribed the constitutional oath of office as prescribed in this section.

From 2 R. S. 287 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 66. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 60. [Am'd, 1909.] Service of paper upon attorney residing in adjoining state.

Service of a paper, which might be made upon him at his residence, if he was a resident of the State, may be made upon a person regularly admitted to practice as an attorney and counsellor, in the courts of record of this State, whose office for the transaction of law business is within the State, but who resides in an adjoining State, by depositing the paper in a post-office in the city or town where his office is located, properly inclosed in a postpaid wrapper, directed to him at his office. A service thus made is equivalent to personal service upon him.

§ 61. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Clerks, etc., not to practice.

The clerk, deputy-clerk, or special deputy-clerk of a court shall not, during his continuance in office, practice as attorney or counsellor in that court.

From 1 R. S. 109 (Part 1, c. 5, tit. 4), § 26.

§ 62. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriffs, etc., not to practice.

A sheriff, under sheriff, deputy-sheriff, sheriff's clerk, constable, coroner, crier, or attendant of a court, shall not, during his continuance in office, practice as an attorney or counsellor in any court.

From Id., § 27.

§ 63. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] None but attorneys to practice in cities of the first or second class.

A person shall not ask or receive, directly or indirectly, compensation for appearing as attorney in a court or before any magistrate in any city of the first or second class, or make it a business to practice as an attorney in a court or before a magistrate in any city of the first or second class, unless he has been regularly admitted to practice, as an attorney or counsellor, in the courts of record of the State, but nothing in this act shall be held to apply to officers of societies for the prevention of cruelty, duly appointed, when exercising the special powers conferred upon such corporations under article six of the Membership Corporations Law.

From L. 1862, c. 484, § 1; Id., c. 53, § 1. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1898, c. 316; L. 1910, c. 327 (in effect Sept. 1, 1910).

§ 64. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty for violation, or suffering violation of last section.

A person who violates the last section is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail, not exceeding one month, or by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment. A judge, justice or magistrate within the city of New York who knowingly permits to practice in his court, a person who has not been regularly admitted to practice in the courts of record of this state, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished as prescribed in this section. But this and the last section do not apply to a case where a person appears in a cause to which he is a party.

From L. 1862, c. 484, §§ 1, 2; Id., c. 53, § 1. Am'd by L. 1898, c. 316 (in effect June 1, 1898).

§ 65. [Am'd, 1913.] Death or disability of an attorney; proceedings thereupon.

If an attorney dies, is removed or suspended, or otherwise becomes disabled to act, at any time before judgment in an action, no further proceeding shall be taken in the action, against the party for whom he appeared, until thirty days after notice to appoint another attorney, has been given to that party, either personally, or in such manner as the court directs. If after such notice, given as herein provided, no attorney appears for the party notified within the time specified in this section, the party serving the notice may proceed with the cause, and take a dismissal of the complaint, or a verdict, decision or judgment, as the case requires, and it is not necessary to give any further notice.

From 2 R. S. 287 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 67. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 741 (in effect May 26, 1913).

§ 66. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Compensation of attorney or counsellor.

The compensation of an attorney or counsellor for his services is governed by agreement, express or implied, which is not restrained by law.[1] From the commencement of an action or special proceeding,

[1] The first sentence of this section is now § 474 of the Judiciary Law; the remainder of it is § 475 of that Law; said § 474 has been amended by L. 1912, c. 229 (in effect Sept. 1, 1912) so as to read as follows:

The compensation of an attorney or counsellor for his services is governed by agreement, express or implied, which is not restrained by law, except that no agreement made hereafter between an attorney and a guardian of an infant for the compensation of such attorney, dependent upon the success of the prosecution by said attorney of a claim belonging to said infant, or by which such attorney is to receive a percentage of any recovery or award in behalf of such infant or a sum equal to a percentage of any such recovery or award, shall be valid or enforceable unless made as hereinafter provided. An attorney may contract with the guardian of an infant to prosecute, by suit or otherwise, any claim for the benefit of an infant for a compensation to said attorney dependent upon the success in the prosecution of such claim, subject to the power of the court, as hereinafter provided, to fix the amount of such compensation. Whenever such a contract shall have been entered into between an attorney and a guardian of an infant, upon the recovery of a judgment, or the obtaining of an award in behalf of the said infant, or upon any compromise or settlement of such claim, the attorney may apply, upon notice to the guardian, to the judge or justice before whom the said action or proceeding was tried, in case the said action or proceeding was tried at a court held within this state; or to a special term of said court, in case the said action or proceeding was tried before some person other than a justice thereof, or said claim was compromised or settled after said suit was begun, or in case of the death or disability of the judge or justice before whom the action was tried; or to a special term of the supreme court in case the recovery, award, compromise or settlement was not had in any court of this state; such application shall set forth briefly the contract, the services performed by the attorney and pray that there be awarded to him a suitable amount out of the recovery, award, compromise or settlement obtained through his efforts as attorney on behalf of the infant; the court to which such application is made, upon being satisfied that due notice of the said application has been given to the said guardian, shall proceed summarily to determine the value of the services of said attorney, taking such proof from either the attorney or the guardian by affidavit, reference or the examination of witnesses before the said court, as to the said court may seem to be necessary and proper, and shall thereupon make an order determining the suitable compensation for the attorney for his services therein, which sum shall thereafter be received by the said attorney for his services in behalf of the said infant; and no other compensation shall be paid or allowed by the guardian for such services out of the estate of said infant. If a copy of such order awarding the compensation with notice of entry be thereafter served by the said attorney upon the adverse party to the said litigation or the person making such compromise or settlement and upon the custodian of the funds recovered, in case there be such custodian, such award shall become and constitute a lien to the amount thereof on behalf of the said attorney upon such recovery, award, settlement or fund.

or the service of an answer containing a counterclaim, the attorney who appears for a party has a lien upon his client's cause of action, claim or counterclaim, which attaches to a verdict, report, decision, judgment or final order in his client's favor, and the proceeds thereof in whosesoever hands they may come; and the lien cannot be affected by any settlement between the parties before or after judgment or final order. The court upon the petition of the client or attorney may determine and enforce the lien.

§ 67. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Suspension from practice.

The supreme court shall have power and control over attorneys and counsellors-at-law, and the appellate division of the supreme court in each department is authorized to censure, suspend from practice or remove from office any attorney and counsellor-at-law admitted to practice as such who is guilty of professional misconduct, malpractice, fraud, deceit, crime or misdemeanor, or any conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice; and the appellate division of the supreme court is hereby authorized to revoke such admission for any misrepresentation or suppression of any information in connection with the application for admission to practice.[1] Any person being an attorney and counsellor-at-law, who shall be convicted of a felony, shall, upon such conviction, cease to be an attorney and counsellor-at-law, or to be competent to practice law as such. Whenever any attorney and counsellor-at-law shall be convicted of a felony, there may be presented to the appellate division of the supreme court a certified or exemplified copy of the judgment of such conviction, and thereupon the name of the person so convicted shall, by order of the court, be stricken from the roll of attorneys. Upon a reversal of such conviction, or pardon by the president of the United States or governor of this State, the appellate division shall have power to vacate or modify such order or debarment.

§ 68. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Must be on notice.

Before an attorney or counsellor at law is suspended or removed as prescribed in the last section, a copy of the charges against him must be delivered to him personally or, in case it is established to the satisfaction of the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court to which the charges have been presented, that he cannot be served within the state, the same may be served upon him without the

[1] By L. 1913, c. 720 (in effect May 24, 1913), the following amendment has been added at this point:

It shall be the duty of the appellate division to insert in each judgment, decree or final order of suspension or removal hereafter rendered a provision which shall command the attorney and counsellor-at-law thereafter to desist and refrain from the practice of law in any form, either as principal or as agent, clerk or employee of another. In addition it shall forbid the performance of any of the following acts for compensation or reward, to wit:

a. The appearance as an attorney or counsellor-at-law before any court, judge, justice, board, commission or other public authority.

b. The giving to another of an opinion as to the law or its application, or of any advice in relation thereto.

In case of suspension only, the judgment, decree or order may limit the command to the period of time within which such suspension shall continue, and if justice so requires may further limit the scope thereof.

If an attorney and counsellor-at-law has been heretofore removed from office, the appellate division shall upon application of any attorney and counsellor-at-law, or of any incorporated bar association, and upon such notice to the respondent as may be required, amend the judgment, decree or order of removal by adding thereto as a part thereof, provisions similar to those required to be inserted in judgments, decrees or orders hereafter made.

If a certified copy of such judgment, decree or order or of such amended judgment, decree or order, be served upon the attorney and counsellor-at-law suspended or removed from office, a violation thereof may be punished as a contempt of court.

state by mail or otherwise as the said presiding justice may direct, and he must be allowed an opportunity of being heard in his defense. It shall be the duty of any district attorney within a department, when so designated by the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court, to prosecute all proceedings for the removal or suspension of attorneys and counsellors at law or the said presiding justice may, in a county wholly included within a city, appoint an attorney and counsellor at law, designated by a duly incorporated bar association approved by him, to prosecute any such proceedings and, upon the termination of the proceedings, may fix the compensation to be paid to such attorney and counsellor at law for the services rendered under such designation, which compensation shall be a charge against the county specified in his certificate and shall be paid thereon.

The presiding justice of the appellate division to which charges of professional misconduct against an attorney and counsellor at law have been presented, may make an order directing the expenses of such proceedings, and the necessary costs and disbursements of the petitioner in prosecuting such charges, including also in a county wholly within a city the expense of a preliminary investigation in relation to such charges, to be paid by the county treasurer of a county within the judicial department, which expenses shall be a charge upon such county.

From 1 R. S. 109 (Part 1, c. 5, tit. 4), § 24. Am'd by L. 1890, c. 528; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1896, c. 557; L. 1903, c. 327; L. 1915, c. 475 (in effect May 3, 1915).

§ 69. [Omitted; see Table, p. lii.] Removal or suspension, how to operate.

The suspension or removal of an attorney or counsellor, by the supreme court, operates as a suspension or removal in every court of the state.

From 1 R. S. 109 (Part 1, c. 5, tit. 4), § 25.

§ 70. [Omitted; see Table, p. lii.] Punishment for deceit, etc.

An attorney or counsellor, who is guilty of any deceit or collusion, or consents to any deceit or collusion, with intent to deceive the court, or a party, forfeits, to the party injured by his deceit or collusion, treble damages. He is also guilty of a misdemeanor.

From 2 R. S. 287 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 68.

§ 71. [Omitted; see Table, p. lii.] Id., for willful delay of action.

An attorney or counsellor, who willfully delays his client's cause, with a view to his own gain, or willfully receives money, or an allowance for or on account of money, which he has not laid out or become answerable for, forfeits to the party injured, treble damages.

From Id., § 69.

§ 72. [Omitted; see Table, p. lii.] Attorney not to lend his name.

If an attorney knowingly permits a person not being his general law partner, or a clerk in his office, to sue out a mandate, or to prosecute or defend an action in his name, he, and the person who so uses his name, each forfeits to the party, against whom the mandate has been sued out, or the action prosecuted or defended, the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered in an action.

From Id., § 70.

§ 73. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Attorney not to buy claim.

An attorney or counsellor shall not, directly or indirectly, buy, or be in any manner interested in buying a bond, promissory note, bill of exchange, book-debt, or other thing in action, with the intent and for the purpose of bringing an action thereon.

From Id., § 71.

§ 74. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Certain loans prohibited.

An attorney or counsellor shall not, by himself, or by or in the name of another person, either before or after action brought, promise or give, or procure to be promised or given, a valuable consideration to any person, as an inducement to placing, or in consideration of having placed, in his hands, or in the hands of another person, a demand of any kind, for the purpose of bringing an action thereon, or of representing the claimant in the pursuit of any civil remedy for the recovery thereof. But this section does not apply to an agreement between attorneys and counsellors, or either, to divide between themselves the compensation to be received.

§ 75. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty.

An attorney or counsellor, who violates either of the last two sections, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished accordingly, and must be removed from office by the supreme court.

From 2 R. S. 287 (Part 3. c. 3, tit. 2), § 73.

§ 76. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Limitation of preceding sections.

The last three sections do not prohibit the receipt, by an attorney or counsellor, of a bond, promissory note, bill of exchange, book-debt, or other thing in action, in payment for property sold, or for services actually rendered, or for a debt antecedently contracted; or from buying, or receiving a bill of exchange, draft, or other thing in action for the purposes of remittance, and without intent to violate either of those sections.

From Id., § 74.

§ 77. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Same rule when party prosecutes in person, or when certain corporations prosecute.

The last four sections apply to a person prosecuting an action in person and to a corporation engaged in the business of conducting litigation and providing counsel therefor, who or which does an act which an attorney or counsellor is therein forbidden to do.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 47. Am'd by L. 1907, c. 700 (in effect Sept. 1, 1907).

§ 78. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Partner of district-attorney, etc., not to defend prosecutions.

An attorney or counsellor shall not, directly or indirectly, advise concerning, aid, or take any part in, the defence of an action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, brought, carried on, aided, advocated, or prosecuted, as attorney-general, district attorney, or other public prosecutor, by a person with whom he is interested or connected, either directly or indirectly, as a law partner; or take or receive, directly or indirectly, from a defendant therein, or other person, a fee, gratuity, or reward, for or upon any cause, consideration, pretence, understanding, or agreement whatever, either express or implied, having relation thereto, or the prosecution or defence thereof.

From L. 1846, c. 120, § 1.

§ 79. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Attorney not to defend when he has been public prosecutor.

An attorney or counsellor, who has brought, carried on, aided, advocated, or prosecuted, or has been in any wise connected with, an action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, as attorney-general, district-attorney, or other public prosecutor, shall not, at any time thereafter, directly or indirectly, advise concerning, aid, or take any part in, the defence thereof; or take or receive, either directly or indirectly, from a defendant therein, or other person, a fee, gratuity, or reward, for or upon any cause, consideration, pretence, understanding, or agreement, either express or implied, having relation thereto, or to the prosecution or defence thereof.

§ 80. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty.

An attorney or counsellor, who violates either of the last two sections, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished accordingly, and must be removed from office by the supreme court.

From Id., § 3.

§ 81. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Limitation of provisions.

This article does not prohibit an attorney or counsellor from defending himself in person, if prosecuted either civilly or criminally.

From Id., § 4.

ARTICLE THIRD.

General provisions concerning certain ministerial officers connected with the administration of justice; and special provisions concerning officers of that description, attached to two or more courts.

[N. B. — The whole of this article (comprising §§ 82–99) has been transferred by L. 1909, c. 65, to the Judiciary Law and the County Law of the "Consolidated Laws," or to other parts of this Code. The Table on page iii, ante, shows where these sections are now to be found.]

§§ 82–99. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

CHAPTER II.

Powers, Duties, and Liabilities of a Sheriff, or other Ministerial Officer, in the Execution of the Process or Other Mandate of a Court or Judge, in a Civil Case.

TITLE I.— Provisions relating to the Execution of Civil Mandates generally.

TITLE II.— Provisions relating to the Execution, by a Sheriff, of a Mandate against the Person.

TITLE III.— Application of the foregoing Provisions to the Proceedings of a Coroner.

TITLE IV.— Powers, Duties and Liabilities of an Incoming and Outgoing Sheriff respectively, touching the Matters included in this Chapter.

TITLE I.

Provisions relating to the execution of civil mandates generally.

Sec. 100. Sheriff to furnish certain minute.
101. Copy of process, etc., to be delivered when served.
102. Sheriff to execute process, etc.; may return by mail.
103. Liability for neglect in special proceedings.
104. Sheriff may command the power of the county, to overcome resistance.
105. Names of resisters to be certified.
106. Punishment for refusing to assist.
107. Use of troops in civil disorders.
108. Trial of claim of title by third person, to property seized by sheriff.
109. Expenses, how paid.

§ 100. Sheriff to furnish certain minute.

A sheriff, to whom a mandate of any description, is delivered to be executed, must, without compensation, give to the person delivering the same, if required, a minute in writing, signed by the sheriff, specifying the names of the parties, the general nature of the mandate, and the day and hour of receiving the same.

From 2 R. S. 440 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 75.

§ 101. [Am'd, 1877.] Copy of process, etc., to be delivered when served.

A sheriff or other officer, serving a mandate, must, upon the request of the person served, deliver to him a copy thereof, without compensation.

§ 102. [Am'd, 1877.] Sheriff to execute process, etc.; may return by mail.

A sheriff, or other officer, to whom a mandate is directed and delivered, must execute the same according to the command thereof, and make return thereon of his proceedings, under his hand. For a violation of this provision, he is liable to the party aggrieved, for the damages sustained by him; in addition to any fine, or other punishment or proceeding, authorized by law. A mandate directed and delivered to a sheriff may be returned, by depositing the same in the post-office, properly inclosed in a post-paid wrapper, addressed to the clerk, at the place where his office is situated; unless the officer, making the return in the name of the sheriff, resides in the place where the clerk's office is situated.

§ 103. [Am'd, 1877.] Liability for neglect in special proceedings.

A sheriff, or other officer, to whom is delivered for service or execution, a mandate, authorized by law to be issued, by a judge or other officer, in a special proceeding, who wilfully neglects to execute the same, may be fined by the judge, in a sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars, and is liable to the party aggrieved for his damages sustained thereby.

From 2 R. S. 551 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 3. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 104. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriff may command the power of the county, to overcome resistance.

If a sheriff, to whom a mandate is directed and delivered, finds, or has reason to apprehend, that resistance will be made to the execution thereof, he may command all the male persons in his county, or as many as he thinks proper, and with such arms as he directs, including any military organization armed and equipped, to assist him in overcoming the resistance and, if necessary, in arresting and confining the resisters, their aiders and abettors, to be dealt with according to law.

From 2 R. S. 441 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 80, as am'd by L. 1845, c. 69, § 18.

§ 105. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Names of resisters to be certified.

The sheriff must certify to the court, from which or by whose authority the mandate was issued, the names of the resisters, their aiders and abettors, as far as he can ascertain the same, to the end that they may be punished for their contempt of the court.

From 2 R. S. 441 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 81.

§ 106. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Punishment for refusing to assist.

A person, commanded by a sheriff to assist him, as prescribed in the last section but one, who, without lawful cause, refuses, or neglects to obey the command, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

From Id., § 82.

§ 107. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Use of troops in civil disorders.

Whenever it shall be made to appear to the governor that there is a breach of the peace, tumult, riot or resistance to process of this state, or imminent danger thereof, the governor may, upon the request of either the sheriff of a county or the mayor of a city, order out any part or all of the military or naval forces of the state in aid of the civil authorities, in the suppression of such disorder.

From Id., § 83. Transferred to Military Law, § 115. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 355 (in effect May 1, 1916).

§ 108. [Am'd, 1879, 1895.] Trial of claim of title by third person, to property seized by sheriff.

Where it is specially prescribed by law that a sheriff must or may, in his discretion, impanel a jury to try the validity of a claim of title to or of the right of possession of goods or effects seized by him by virtue of a mandate in an action, interposed by a person not a party to the action, the trial must be conducted in the following manner, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law:

1. The sheriff must from time to time notify as many persons to attend as it is necessary in order to form a jury of twelve persons qualified to serve as trial jurors in the county court of the county, or in the city and county of New York, in the supreme court, to try the validity of the claim.

2. Upon the trial, witnesses may be examined in behalf of the claimant and of the party at whose instance the property claimed was taken by the sheriff. For the purpose of compelling a witness to attend and testify, the sheriff, upon the application of either party to the inquisition, must issue a subpoena as prescribed in section 854 of this act, and with like effect, except that a warrant to apprehend or commit a witness in a case specified in section 855 or section 856 of this act may be issued by a judge of the court in which the action is brought, or by the county judge.

3. The sheriff or under sheriff must preside upon the trial. A witness, produced by either party, must be sworn by the presiding officer and examined orally in the presence of the jury. A witness who testifies falsely upon such an examination is guilty of perjury in a like case and is punishable in like manner as upon the trial of a civil action.

From 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1, art. 1), §§ 10-12; Co. Proc., § 216, Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 100. [Am'd, 1895.] Expenses, how paid.

Upon such a trial there are no costs; but the fees of the sheriff, jurors and witnesses must be taxed by a judge of the court or the county judge of the county, and must be paid as follows:

1. If the jury by their verdict find the title or the right of possession to the property claimed to be in the claimant, by the party at whose instance the property was taken by the sheriff.

2. If they find adversely to the claimant with respect to all the property claimed, by the claimant.

3. If they find the title or right of possession to only a part of the property claimed, to be in the claimant; each party must pay his own witnesses' fees. And the sheriff's and jurors' fees must be paid, one-half by each party to the inquisition.

Before notifying the jurors, the sheriff may, in his discretion, require each of the parties to the controversy to deposit with him such reasonable sum as may be necessary to cover his legal fees and the jurors' fees. The sheriff must return to each party the balance of the sum so deposited by him, after deducting his fees, lawfully chargeable to that party, as prescribed in this section.

From 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1, art. 1), § 12. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

TITLE II.

Provisions relating to the execution, by a sheriff, of a mandate against the person.

Article 1. Arresting, conveying to jail, and committing a prisoner.
2. Jails; jail discipline; and regulations concerning the confinement and care of prisoners.
3. Temporary jails, and temporary removal of prisoners from jail
4. Jail liberties; escapes.
5. Action upon and assignment of a bond for jail liberties.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Arresting, conveying to jail, and committing a prisoner.

Sec. 110. Prisoner, how kept; support of.
111. Imprisonment on execution.
112. Support of poor prisoner.
113. Charges for food, etc., when prohibited.
114. Also for waiting for prisoner.
115. Rates of charges for lodging, etc.
116. Prisoner may send for necessaries.
117. Charges for rent, etc., prohibited.
118. Prisoner, how conveyed to jail through another county.
119. Officer or prisoner not liable to arrest.

§ 110. [Am'd, 1909.] Prisoner, how kept; support of.

A person arrested, by virtue of an order of arrest, in an action or special proceeding brought in a court of record; or of an execution issued upon a judgment rendered in a court of record; or surrendered in exoneration of his bail; must be safely kept in custody, in the manner prescribed by law, and, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section, and in subdivision 19 of section 240 of the County Law, at his own expense, until he satisfies the judgment rendered against him, or is discharged according to law.

§ 111. [Added, 1886.] Imprisonment on execution.

No person shall be imprisoned within the prison walls of any jail for a longer period than three months under an execution or any other mandate against the person to enforce the recovery of a sum of money less than five hundred dollars in amount or under a commitment upon a fine for contempt of court in the nonpayment of alimony or counsel fees in a divorce case where the amount so to be paid is less than the sum of five hundred dollars; and where the amount in either of said cases is five hundred dollars or over, such imprisonment shall not continue for a longer period than six months. It shall be the duty of the sheriff in whose custody any such person is held to discharge such person at the expiration of said respective periods without any formal application being made therefor. No person shall be imprisoned within the jail liberties of any jail for a longer period than six months upon any execution or other mandate against the person, and no action shall be commenced against the sheriff upon a bond given for the jail liberties by such person to secure the benefit of such liberties, as provided in articles fourth and fifth of this title for an escape made after the expiration of six months' imprisonment as aforesaid. Notwithstanding such a discharge in either of the above cases, the judgment creditor in the execution, or the person at whose instance the said mandate was issued, has the same remedy against the property of the person imprisoned which he had before such execution or mandate was issued; but the prisoner shall not be again imprisoned upon a like process issued in the same action or arrested in any action upon any judgment under which the same may have been granted. Except in a case hereinbefore specified nothing in this section shall effect[1] a commitment for contempt of court.

Added by L. 1886, c. 672 (which superseded the original § 111).

§ 112. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Support of poor prisoner.

In any county, if a prisoner, actually confined in jail, makes oath before the sheriff, jailer, or deputy-jailer, that he is unable to support himself during his imprisonment, his support is a county charge.

From L. 1875, c. 251, §§ 1, 4. Am'd by L. 1883, c. 405.

§ 113. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Charges for food, etc., when prohibited.

A sheriff or other officer shall not charge a person, whom he has arrested, with any sum of money, or demand, or receive from him money, or any valuable thing, for any drink, victuals or other thing, furnished or provided for the officer, or for the prisoner, at any tavern, ale-house, or public victualing or drinking house.

From 2 R. S. 426 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 1.

§ 114. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Also for waiting for prisoner.

A sheriff or other officer shall not demand or receive from a person, arrested by him, while in his custody, a gratuity or reward, upon any pretence, for keeping the prisoner out of jail; for going with him or waiting for him to find bail, or to agree with his adversary; or for any other purpose.

From Id., § 2.

§ 115. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rates of charges for lodging, etc.

If a person arrested is kept in a house, other than the jail of the county, the officer arresting him, or the person in whose custody he is, shall not demand or receive from him any greater sum, for lodging, drink, victuals, or any other thing, than has been theretofore prescribed by the court of sessions of the county; or, if no rate has been prescribed by the court of sessions, than is allowed by a justice of the peace of the same town or city, upon proof that the lodging or other thing was actually furnished, at the request of the prisoner. And such an officer or person shall not, in any case or upon any pretext, demand or receive compensation for strong, spirituous, or fermented liquor, or wine, sold or delivered to the prisoner.

From Id., § 3.

§ 116. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Prisoner may send for necessaries.

A prisoner so kept in a house, may send for and have beer, ale, cider, tea, coffee, milk, and necessary food, and such bedding, linen and other necessary things, as he thinks fit, from whom he pleases without detention of the same or any part thereof by, or paying for the same, or any part thereof to, the officer arresting him, or the person in whose custody he is.

From Id., § 4.

[1] So in original. Should be "affect."

§ 117. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Charges for rent, etc., prohibited.

A sheriff, jailer, or other officer, shall not demand or receive money, or any valuable thing, for chamber rent in a jail; or any fee, compensation, or reward, for the commitment, detaining in custody, release, or discharge of a prisoner, other than the fees expressly allowed therefor by law.

From Id., § 5.

§ 118. Prisoner, how conveyed to jail through another county.

A sheriff or other officer, who has lawfully arrested a prisoner, may convey his prisoner through one or more other counties, in the ordinary route of travel, from the place where the prisoner was arrested, to the place where he is to be delivered or confined.

From Id., § 6.

§ 119. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Officer or prisoner not liable to arrest.

A prisoner so conveyed, or the officer having him in custody, is not liable to arrest in any civil action or special proceeding, while passing through another county.

From Id., § 7.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Jails; jail discipline; and regulations concerning the confinement and care of prisoners.

Sec. 120. Jail in New York city.
121. Jails in other counties.
122. Either of several jails may be used.
123. Civil and criminal prisoners to be kept separate.
124. Males and females to be kept separate.
125. Penalties.
126. Jail physician.
127. Issue of new execution when sick prisoner escapes.
128. Sale of liquor in jails.
129. Permit, when granted.
130. Penalties for violation.
131. Service of papers on prisoner.
132. Sheriff to permit access for that purpose.
133. Prisoners under United States process.
134. Sheriff answerable for their custody.

§ 120. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jail in New York city.

The building now used as a jail in the city of New-York, for the confinement of prisoners in civil causes, shall continue to be the jail of the city and county of New-York, for the confinement of such persons; and the sheriff of the city and county of New-York shall have the custody thereof and of the prisoners in the same.

From 2 R. S. 428 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 12; 1 R. S. 380 (Part 1, c. 12, tit. 2), § 75.

§ 121. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jails in other counties.

The buildings, now used as the jails of the other counties of the State, shall continue to be the jails of those counties respectively, until other buildings have been designated or erected for that purpose, according to law; and the sheriff of each county shall have the custody of the jail or jails of his county, and of the prisoners in the same.

From 2 R. S. 428 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 13; 1 R. S. 380 (Part 1, c. 12, tit. 2), § 75.

§ 122. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Either of several jails may be used.

The sheriff of a county, in which there is more than one jail, may confine a prisoner in either; and may remove him from one jail to another, within the county, whenever he deems it necessary for his safe keeping, or for his appearance at court.

From 2 R. S. 430 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 24.

§ 123. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Civil and criminal prisoners to be kept separate.

A prisoner, arrested in a civil cause, must not be kept in a room, in which any prisoner, detained on a criminal charge or conviction, is confined.

From 2 R. S. 428 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 8.

§ 124. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Males and females to be kept separate.

Male and female prisoners must not be put in the same room; except that a husband and his wife may be put or kept together, in a room wherein there are no other prisoners.

From id., § 10.

§ 125. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalties.

A sheriff, or other officer, who wilfully violates any of the foregoing provisions of this title, forfeits to the person aggrieved, treble damages. He is also guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished accordingly. A conviction also operates as a forfeiture of his office.

From Id., § 11.

§ 126. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jail physician.

The board of supervisors of each county, except New-York, must appoint some reputable physician, duly authorized to practice medicine, as the physician to the jail of the county. If there is more than one jail they must appoint a physician to each. The common council of the city of New-York must appoint a similar physician, to the jail of that city and county. The physician to a jail holds his office at the pleasure of the board which appointed him, except in the county of Kings. In that county, the term of his office is three years.

§ 127. [Am'd, 1895. Bracketed part omitted, 1909; see Table, p. iii.] Issue of new execution when sick prisoner escapes.

[If the physician to a jail, or, in case of vacancy, a physician acting as such, and the warden or jailer, certify in writing, that a prisoner, confined in the jail in a civil cause, is in such a state of bodly health that his life will be endangered unless he is removed to a hospital for treatment, the county judge, or, in the city and county of New York, one of the justices of the supreme court, must, upon application, make an order, directing the removal of the prisoner to a hospital within the county designated by the judge; or, if there is none, to such nearest hospital as the judge directs; that the prisoner be kept in the custody of the chief officer of the hospital until he has sufficiently recovered from his illness, to be safely returned to the jail; that the chief officer of the hospital then notify the warden or jailer, and that the latter thereupon resume custody of the prisoner.] If a prisoner actually escapes, while going to, remaining at, or returning from a hospital, to which he has been ordered removed pursuant to section 355 of the Prison Law, a new execution may be issued against his person, if he was in custody by virtue of an execution; or, if he was in custody by virtue of an order of arrest, a new order of arrest may be granted, upon proof by affidavit of the facts specified in this section, without other proof and without an undertaking.

Strong, spirituous, or fermented liquor, or wine, shall not, on any pretence, be sold within a building used and established as a jail. Spirituous, fermented or other liquor, except cider, and that quality of beer called table-beer, shall not be brought into a jail for the use of a person confined therein, without a written permit by the physician to the jail, which must be delivered to and kept by the keeper thereof, specifying the quantity and kind of liquor which may be furnished, the name of the prisoner for whom, and the time during which the same may be furnished.

From 2 R. S. 431 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 29.

§ 129. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Permit, when granted.

Such a permit shall not be granted, unless the physician is satisfied, that the liquor allowed to be furnished is necessary for the health of the prisoner, for whose use it is permitted, and that fact must be stated in the permit.

§ 130. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalties for violation.

A person who brings into or sells in a jail, strong, spirituous, fermented, or other liquor, or wine, contrary to the foregoing provisions of this article; or a sheriff, keeper of a jail, assistant-keeper, or an officer, or person employed in or about a jail, who knowingly suffers liquor or wine to be sold or used therein, contrary to this article, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished accordingly. A conviction also operates as a forfeiture of his office.

From Id., § 31.

§ 131. Service of papers on prisoner.

A sheriff or jailer, upon whom a paper in an action or special proceeding, directed to a prisoner in his custody, is lawfully served, or to whom such a paper is delivered for a prisoner, must, within two days thereafter, deliver the same to the prisoner, with a note thereon of the time of the service thereof upon, or the receipt thereof by him. For a neglect or violation of this section, the sheriff or jailer, guilty thereof, is liable to the prisoner for all damages occasioned thereby.

§ 132. Sheriff to permit access for that purpose.

Subject to reasonable regulations, which the sheriff may establish for that purpose, a sheriff, jailer, or other officer, who has the custody of a prisoner, must permit such access to him as is necessary, for the personal service of a paper in an action or special proceeding, to which the prisoner is a party, and which must be personally served.

New.

§ 133. Prisoners under United States process.

A sheriff must receive into his jail and keep a prisoner, committed to the same, by virtue of civil process issued by a court of record, instituted under the authority of the United States, until he is discharged by the due course of the laws of the United States, in the same manner as if he was committed by virtue of a mandate in a civil action, issued from a court of the State. The sheriff may receive, to his own use, the money payable by the United States for the use of the jail.

§ 134. Sheriff answerable for their custody.

A sheriff or jailer, to whose jail a prisoner is committed, as prescribed in the last section, is answerable for his safe keeping, in the courts of the United States, according to the laws thereof.

From Id., § 97.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Temporary jails, and temporary removal of prisoners from jail.

Sec. 135. When jail becomes unfit, etc., another to be designated.
136. Designation, how annulled.
137. Copy of designation to be served on the sheriff, etc.
138. Prisoners already upon jail liberties.
139. Jail liberties to prisoner, who becomes entitled thereto, before removal.
140. Id.; to prisoners removed.
141. When designation to be revoked, etc.
142. Copy of revocation to be served on sheriff; sheriff's duty thereon
143. Removal of prisoners in case of fire.
144. What officer to act in case of absence, etc.

§ 135. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When jail becomes unfit, etc., another to be designated.

If there is no jail in a county; or the jail becomes unfit or unsafe for the confinement of some or all of the prisoners, or is destroyed by fire or otherwise; or if a pestilential disease breaks out in the jail, or in the vicinity of the jail, and the physician to the jail certifies that it is likely to endanger the health of any or all of the prisoners in the jail; the county judge, or, in the city and county of New-York, the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court of the first department must, by an instrument in writing, filed with the clerk of the county, designate another suitable place within the county, or the jail of a contiguous county, for the confinement of some or all of the prisoners, as the case requires. The place so designated thereupon becomes, to all intents and purposes, except as otherwise prescribed in this article, the jail of the county for which it has been so designated, and the purposes expressed in the instrument designating the same.

From 2 R. S. 428, 430 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), §§ 14, 26, 27. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 136. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Designation, how annulled.

The designation may be modified or revoked, by the judge making the same, by a like instrument in writing, filed with the clerk of the county.

From 2 R. S. 428, 430 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 15.

§ 137. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Copy of designation to be served on the sheriff, etc.

The county clerk must serve a copy of the designation, duly certified by him, under his official seal, on the sheriff and keeper of the jail of a contiguous county so designated. The sheriff of that county must, upon the delivery of the sheriff of the county for which the designation is made, receive into his jail, and there safely keep, all persons who may be lawfully confined therein, pursuant to this article; and he is responsible for their safe keeping, as if he was the sheriff of the county for which the designation is made.

From Id., §§ 16, 17.

§ 138. [Am'd, 1909.] Prisoners already upon jail liberties.

If a prisoner has been admitted to the liberties of the jail of the county, for which a designation is made, pursuant to section 851 of the Prison Law, he must, notwithstanding, remain within those liberties; but he may be removed by the sheriff, to whom he has given bond for the liberties, to the jail or other place so designated, and confined therein, in a case where the sheriff might confine him in the jail of his own county.

From Id., § 18. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65.

§ 139. Jail liberties to prisoner, who becomes entitled thereto, before removal.

If a person, who is arrested, before or after the designation, by the sheriff of the county for which the designation is made, becomes entitled, after the designation, and before his removal, to the liberties of the jail, he must be admitted to the liberties of the jail of that county, as if the designation had not been made; but he may be removed by the sheriff to the jail, or other place, so designated, and confined therein, in a case where the sheriff might confine him in the jail of his own county.

From Id., § 19.

§ 140. [Am'd, 1909.] Id.; to prisoners removed.

If a person confined in or removed to the jail of a contiguous county, designated as prescribed in article 13 of the Prison Law, becomes entitled to the liberties of the jail, the sheriff of that county must admit him to the jail liberties, as if he had been originally arrested by that sheriff, on a mandate directed to him.

From Id., § 20. Am'd by L. 1909, chs. 65 and 240 (in effect April 22, 1909).

§ 141. [Am'd, 1909.] When designation to be revoked.

When a jail is erected for the county, for whose use the designation, pursuant to section 351 of the Prison Law, was made, or its jail is rendered fit and safe for the confinement of prisoners, or the reason for the designation of another jail or place has otherwise ceased to be operative, the designation must be revoked, as prescribed in this article and section 352 of the Prison Law.

From Id., § 21. Am'd by L. 1909, chs. 65 and 240 (in effect April 22, 1909).

The county clerk must immediately serve a copy of the revocation, duly certified by him under his official seal, upon the sheriff of the same county; who must remove the prisoners belonging to his custody, and confined without his county, to his proper jail. If a prisoner has been admitted to the jail liberties in the other county, he must also be removed; and he is entitled to the liberties of the jail of the county, to which he is removed, without a new bond, as if he had been originally admitted to the jail liberties in that county; and the bond given by him applies accordingly to those liberties.

From Id., § 22.

§ 143. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Removal of prisoners in case of fire.

If, by reason of a jail, or a building near a jail, being on fire, there is reason to apprehend that some or all of the prisoners confined in the jail, may be injured, or may escape, the sheriff or keeper of the jail may, in his discretion, remove them to some safe and convenient place, and there confine them, until they can be safely returned to the jail; or, if the jail is destroyed, or so injured, that it is unfit or unsafe for the confinement of the prisoners, until a designation is made, as prescribed in section 135 of this act.

From Id., § 25.

§ 144. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] What officer to act in case of absence, etc.

If the county judge, or the presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court of the first department, is absent or unable to act, or if his office is vacant, a designation, or the revocation or modification thereof, as prescribed in this article, may be made, in any county, except New York, by the special county judge or the district-attorney, or, in the city and county of New York, by any justice of the appellate division.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 940 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

151. For whom undertaking to be held.
152. Prisoner to be committed when surety is insufficient.
153. Surrender of prisoner by his sureties.
154. How surrender made.
155. What deemed and what not deemed an escape.
156. When court may order indicted prisoner to be produced.
157. Prisoner committed for contempt.
158. Sheriff's liability for escape.
159. Penalty for connivance at escape by a sheriff, etc.

§ 145. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jail liberties in certain counties.

The following are the liberties of the jail for each of the counties specified, to wit: For the county of New York, the whole of said county; for the county of the Bronx, the whole of said county; for the county of Onondaga, the whole of the city of Syracuse; for the county of Monroe, the whole of the city of Rochester; for the county of Erie, the whole of the city of Buffalo; for the county of Dutchess, the whole of the city of Poughkeepsie; for the county of Kings, the whole of that county; for the county of Albany, the whole of the city of Albany; for the county of Jefferson, the whole of the city of Watertown; for the county of Herkimer, the whole of the village of Herkimer; for the county of Rensselaer, the whole of the city of Troy; for the county of Niagara, the whole of the city of Lockport; for the county of Steuben, the whole of the village of Bath; for the county of Nassau, the whole of the town of Hempstead; for the county of Broome, the whole of the city of Binghamton; for the county of Genesee, the whole of the village of Batavia.

The liberties of the jail, in each of the other counties of the State, as heretofore established, shall continue to be the liberties thereof, until they are altered, or new liberties are established, as prescribed by law.

§ 147. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jail liberties, how laid out.

Where the liberties of a jail are altered or established, by resolution of the board of supervisors, as prescribed by law, a space of ground, adjacent to the jail, and not exceeding five hundred acres in quantity, must be laid out as the jail liberties, in a square or rectangle as nearly as may be; but a stream of water, canal, street, or highway, may be adopted as an exterior line, notwithstanding it is not in a straight line, or is not at right angles with the other exterior line of the liberties. A resolution establishing or altering jail liberties, must contain a particular description of their boundaries; and as soon as may be after its adoption, the boundaries must be designated by monuments, inclosures, posts, or other visible and permanent marks, at the expense of the county.

§ 148. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Copy to be kept posted in jail.

The county clerk must, within one week after a resolution of the board of supervisors, establishing or altering jail liberties, has been filed in his office, deliver an exemplified copy thereof to the keeper of the jail; who must keep the same exposed to public view, in an open and public part of the jail, and exhibit it to each person admitted to the liberties of the jail, at the time of his executing a bond for that purpose.

§ 149. [Am'd, 1886, 1904.] Who admitted to liberties.

A person in the custody of a sheriff, by virtue of an order of arrest; or of an execution in a civil action; or in consequence of a surrender in exoneration of his bail: is entitled to be admitted to the liberties of the jail, upon delivering to the sheriff an approved undertaking as prescribed in the next section.

From Id., § 40. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

The undertaking must be executed by the prisoner, and one or more sufficient sureties, residents, and householders or freeholders of the county, in a penalty at least twice the sum, in which the sheriff was required to hold the defendant to bail, if he is in custody under an order of arrest, or has been surrendered in exoneration of his bail, before judgment; or directed to be collected by the execution, if he is in custody under an execution; or remaining uncollected upon a judgment against him, if he has been surrendered after judgment; conditioned, that the person so in custody shall remain a prisoner, and shall not, at any time, or in any manner, escape or go without the liberties of the jail, until discharged by due course of law. Upon the giving and the approval by the court or a judge thereof, or a county judge, of such an undertaking, the prisoner shall be released from the custody of the sheriff and the sheriff shall thereupon be exonerated from liability. But after the allowance of the undertaking as hereinafter prescribed, the same must be delivered by the clerk, on request, to the party at whose instance the prisoner was in custody. Within two days after the approval by the court, judge, or county judge, the undertaking must be filed by the sheriff with the clerk, and a copy delivered to the party at whose instance the prisoner was in custody, or to his attorney, who shall within three days thereafter serve upon the surety or sureties, or the attorney for the prisoner, a notice that he does not accept him, or them, as bail; otherwise he is deemed to have accepted them. Within three days after the receipt of such notice, the surety or sureties, or the attorney for the prisoner, may serve upon the party, or attorney for the party, at whose instance the prisoner was in custody, notice of justification of the same or other bail before the court or a judge thereof, or a county judge, at a specified time and place; the time to be not less than five days nor more than ten days thereafter, and the place to be within the county where one of the bail resides or where the defendant was arrested. Except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article, the provisions regulating the substitution of new sureties or a new undertaking, and the examination and qualification of the new sureties, and the allowance of the undertaking after justification, contained in article third of title first of chapter seventh of this act, shall govern. If the bail shall not be allowed, the court, judge or county judge shall remand the prisoner to the custody of the sheriff.

From 2 R. S. 433 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), §§ 41, 42. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 151. [Am'd, 1886, 1904.] For whom undertaking to be held.

An undertaking so taken is held for the indemnity of the party at whose instance the prisoner executing it is confined.

From 2 R. S. 434 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 43. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 152. [Am'd, 1886.] Prisoner to be committed when surety is insufficient.

If the party at whose instance the prisoner is in custody discovers that a surety therein is insufficient, he may, upon proof of the fact, by affidavit or otherwise, apply to the court or to a judge thereof, on whose process or mandate such prisoner is in custody, or to the county judge of the county where such prisoner is confined, and the court, or a judge thereof, or such county judge, may make an order committing such prisoner to close confinement in the jail until another undertaking with good and sufficient sureties is offered.

§ 153. [Am'd, 1886.] Surrender of prisoner by his sureties.

One or more of the sureties, in an undertaking given for the liberties of a jail, may surrender the principal, at any time before judgment is rendered against them in an action on the undertaking; but they are not exonerated thereby, from a liability incurred before making the surrender.

§ 154. [Am'd, 1886.] How surrender made.

The surrender must be made as follows: The surety or sureties making it must take the principal to the keeper of the jail, who must, upon his or their written requisition to that effect, take the principal into his custody, and indorse upon the undertaking given for the liberties, an acknowledgment of the surrender; and also, if required, give the surety or sureties a certificate, acknowledging the surrender.

§ 155. [Am'd, 1886.] What deemed and what not deemed an escape.

The going at large, within the liberties of the jail in which he is in custody, of a prisoner who has executed such an undertaking, or of a prisoner who would be entitled to the liberties upon executing such an undertaking, is not an escape. But the going at large, beyond the liberties, by a prisoner, without the assent of the party at whose instance he is in custody, is an escape; and the sheriff in whose custody he was, or his sureties, has the same authority to pursue and retake him, as if he had escaped from the jail. Such an escape forfeits the undertaking for the liberties, if any; subject to the provisions of the next article of this title.

§ 156. [Am'd, 1877.] When court may order indicted prisoner to be produced.

Where a person, who has been indicted for a criminal offence, is held by a sheriff, by virtue of a mandate in a civil action or special proceeding, the court, in which the indictment is pending, may make an order, requiring the sheriff to bring him before the court; whereupon the court may make such disposition of the prisoner, as to it seems proper. The sheriff's fees and expenses, in so doing, are a county charge of the county wherein the court is sitting.

§ 157. Prisoner committed for contempt.

A prisoner, committed to jail upon process for contempt, or committed for misconduct in a case prescribed by law, must be actually confined and detained within the jail, until he is discharged by due course of law, or is removed to another jail or place of confinement, in a case prescribed by law. A sheriff or keeper of a jail, who suffers such a prisoner to go or be at large out of his jail; except by virtue of a writ of habeas corpus, or by the special direction of the court committing him, or in a case specially prescribed by law; is liable to the party aggrieved, for his damages sustained thereby, and is guilty of a misdemeanor. If the commitment was for the non-payment of a sum of money, the amount thereof, with interest, is the measure of damages.

§ 158. [Am'd, 1886, 1904.] Sheriff's liability for escape.

Where a prisoner, in a sheriff's custody, goes or is at large beyond the liberties of the jail, without the assent of the party at whose instance he is in custody, the sheriff is answerable therefor until an undertaking provided for in section 150 of this article has been given and approved, as follows:

1. If the prisoner was in custody by virtue of an order of arrest, or in consequence of a surrender in exoneration of his bail, before judgment, the sheriff is answerable to the extent of the damages sustained by the plaintiff.

2. If the prisoner was in custody by virtue of any other mandate, or in consequence of a surrender in exoneration of his bail, after judgment, the sheriff is answerable for the debt, damages, or sum of money, for which the prisoner was committed.

3. Upon the giving and approval of the undertaking in this article mentioned, no action for an escape shall be maintained against the sheriff.

From 2 R. S. 437 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), §§ 62, 63. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 159. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty for connivance at escape, by a sheriff, etc.

A sheriff or other officer, who demands or receives a reward, gratuity, or other valuable thing, to procure, assist, connive at, or permit an escape of a prisoner in his custody, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished accordingly. A conviction also operates as a forfeiture of his office, and disqualifies him forever thereafter from holding the same.

From 2 R. S. 438 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), §§ 65, 66.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Action upon and assignment of a bond for jail liberties.

Sec. 160. Defence in action by sheriff on undertaking.
161. Judgment against sheriff to be evidence against sureties, etc.
162. Summary judgment for sheriff.
163. Requisites of application therefor.
164. Such judgment when stayed; when vacated.
165. Judgment against sheriff is evidence of damages.
166. Assignment of undertaking.
167. Action on undertaking by assignee; damages recoverable.
168. Such assignment bars action against sheriff.
169. Defence in action by assignee.
170. Stay of proceedings where assignment is not taken.
171. Defence of sheriff in action for escape.

§ 160. [Am'd, 1886.] Defence in action by sheriff on undertaking.

In an action brought on an undertaking for the jail liberties, it is a defence, that the prisoner voluntarily returned to the liberties of the jail from which he escaped, or was recaptured by, or surrendered to the sheriff, from whose custody he escaped, before the commencement of the action. The defendants may make that or any other defence to the action, which might be made by the sheriff, to an action against him for the escape.

§ 161. Judgment against sheriff to be evidence against sureties, etc.

But if judgment has been rendered against the sheriff, in an action brought for the escape, and due notice of the pendency of the action was given to the prisoner and his sureties, to enable them to defend the same, the judgment against the sheriff is conclusive evidence of his right to recover against the prisoner and his sureties, to whom the notice was given, as to any matter which was or might have been controverted, in the action against the sheriff.

§ 162. [Am'd, 1886.] Summary judgment for sheriff.

In an action brought by a sheriff on an undertaking for the jail liberties, if it appears to the court, upon a motion made in behalf of the sheriff, that judgment has been rendered against him, for the escape of the prisoner, and that due notice of the pendency of the action against him, was given to the prisoner and his sureties, to enable them to defend the same, the court must order a summary judgment for the plaintiff; and judgment must be entered accordingly, with costs.

§ 163. Requisites of application therefor.

But to entitle a sheriff to move for such a judgment, he must have served a copy of his complaint, and given twenty days' notice of the motion.

From 2 R. S. 435 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 51.

§ 164. Such judgment when stayed; when vacated.

If it appears, on the hearing of the motion, that the defendants have a meritorious defence, which was not controverted in the action against the sheriff and which by law could not have been so controverted, the court may stay proceedings on the judgment, with such limitations and upon such terms, as it deems just, until a trial in the action; but the judgment must stand as a security for the sheriff. If the defence is established, the court must vacate the judgment, and render judgment for the defendant.

§ 165. [Am'd, 1886.] Judgment against sheriff is evidence of damages.

In an action brought by a sheriff on an undertaking for the jail liberties, a judgment against him for the escape of the prisoner, is evidence of the damages sustained by him, as if it had been collected; and he may recover his reasonable attorney's and counsel fees, and other expenses in defending the action against him, as part of his damages.

§ 166. [Am'd, 1886.] Assignment of undertaking.

If an undertaking for the jail liberties is forfeited before the same is duly allowed, the party at whose instance the prisoner was confined, or, in case of his death, his executor or administrator, may elect to bring an action on the undertaking.

§ 167. [Am'd, 1886, 1904.] Recovery of damages for breach of condition.

The person so electing may maintain an action on the undertaking, where an action might have been heretofore maintained by the sheriff, and he may recover the same damages for the breach of the condition, which he might heretofore have recovered in an action against the sheriff for the escape.

From 2 R. S. 436, § 56. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 168. [Am'd, 1886.] Such assignment bars action against sheriff.

The commencement of such an action shall be deemed an election and is a bar to an action, by or on behalf of such person, against the sheriff or other officer accepting such an undertaking, for an escape by the prisoner executing the undertaking, amounting to a breach of the condition thereof, unless the escape was with the assent of the sheriff or other officer.

§ 169. [Am'd, 1886, 1904.] Defence to action.

In an action brought as provided for in the last three sections, the defendant may make any defence, which he might heretofore have made, if the action was brought by the sheriff.

From 2 R. S. 436, § 58. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 648; L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 170. [Am'd, 1886] Stay of proceedings where assignment is not taken.

If the person so entitled to bring an action on the undertaking for the jail liberties, in lieu of making such election, brings an action against the sheriff for the escape, the court may, except where the escape was made with the sheriff's assent, stay proceedings upon a judgment recovered against the sheriff, with such limitations and upon such terms as it deems just, until he has had a reasonable time to prosecute the undertaking, and collect a judgment recovered thereon.

From 2 R. S. 436, 437, §§ 59, 60. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 668.

§ 171. [Am'd, 1904.] Defence of sheriff in action for escape. In an action against a sheriff or other officer, for the escape of a prisoner, it is a defense, that the escape was without the assent of the defendant, and that at the commencement of the action, he had the prisoner within the liberties, either by his voluntary return or by recapture, or that an undertaking required to be given by sections 149 and 150 of this act, was given and approved.

From 2 R. S. 437, § 64. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

TITLE III.

Application of the foregoing provisions to the proceedings of a coroner.

Sec. 172. Duties of coroner when sheriff is a party.
173. Any one of the coroners may act.
174. Arrest of sheriff by coroner.
175. Sheriff; how confined.
176. Place of confinement to be deemed a jail.
177. Sheriff to be admitted to jail liberties; liability of coroner for sheriff's escape.
178. Coroner may prosecute, etc., bond for liberties.
179. Duties of coroner where sheriff is plaintiff.
180. Such prisoner entitled to jail liberties, etc.
181. Escape of such prisoner.

§ 172. Duties of coroner when sheriff is a party.

In an action or special proceeding, to which the sheriff of a county is a party, a coroner of the same county has all the power, and is subject to all the duties of a sheriff, in a cause to which the sheriff is not a party; except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From 2 R. S. 441 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 84.

§ 173. Any one of the coroners may act.

A mandate in a civil action or special proceeding which must or may be executed by the coroners, or by a coroner of a county, must be directed either to a particular coroner, or generally to the coroners of that county. Where such a mandate is directed generally to the coroners of a county, or requires them to do any act, it may be executed, and a return thereto may be made and signed, by one of them; but such an act or return does not affect the others.

From Id., §§ 84, 85.

§ 174. [Am'd, 1886.] Arrest of sheriff by coroner.

Where a mandate, requiring the arrest of the sheriff of the county, is directed to a coroner, he must execute the same in the manner prescribed by law, with respect to the execution of a similar mandate by a sheriff; and he is authorized to take an undertaking on the arrest, or an undertaking for the jail liberties, in a like case, and in like manner, and with like effect, as where such an undertaking may be taken by a sheriff.

§ 175. Sheriff; how confined.

Where the actual confinement of a sheriff by a coroner, on a mandate, is required or authorized by law, he must be confined by the coroner, in a house situated within the liberties of the jail of the county, other than the sheriff's house, or the jail, in the same manner as a sheriff is required by law to confine a prisoner in the jail.

From 2 R. S. 442 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 6), § 87.

§ 176. Place of confinement to be deemed a jail.

That house thereupon becomes the jail of the county, for the use of the coroner; and each provision of law relating to the jail, or to an escape from the jail, applies thereto, while the sheriff is confined therein.

From Id., §§ 88, 89.

§ 177. [Am'd, 1886.] Sheriff to be admitted to jail liberties; liability of coroner for sheriff's escape.

A sheriff so arrested must be admitted to the liberties of the jail of the county, in a like case, and upon executing a like undertaking to the coroner, as prescribed by law for a prisoner in the sheriff's custody. For an escape of the sheriff from the liberties, the coroner is liable, in the same manner, and to the same extent, as a sheriff for a similar escape; and he may make the same defence as a sheriff.

§ 178. [Am'd, 1886.] Coroner may prosecute, etc., undertaking for liberties.

The coroner may prosecute an undertaking for the liberties taken by him, and is entitled to all the rights, and subject to all the liabilities, prescribed by law with respect to a similar undertaking taken by a sheriff. The undertaking may be assigned by him, to the party at whose instance the sheriff was arrested; and the same proceedings may be had thereupon, as upon an undertaking taken and assigned by a sheriff in a similar case.

§ 179. Duties of coroner where sheriff is plaintiff.

A person arrested by a coroner, in an action or special proceeding, in which the sheriff of the county is plaintiff, must be confined in the jail of the county, in a case where such a confinement is required or authorized by law; but the coroner is not liable for an escape of the prisoner from the jail, after he has been confined therein. A person so confined must be kept and treated, in all respects, like a prisoner confined by the sheriff.

§ 180. [Am'd, 1886.] Such prisoner entitled to jail liberties, etc.

A person so arrested by a coroner is entitled to be discharged, or to the liberties of the jail, as the case requires, upon giving an undertaking to the coroner, in the like manner, and in a like case, in which a person arrested by a sheriff would be entitled to be so discharged, or to the liberties. The undertaking so given must be in all respects similar to that required to be given to a sheriff; and it has the like effect, and may be assigned and proceeded upon in like manner.

§ 181. Escape of such prisoner.

A coroner is answerable for an escape of a prisoner, admitted by him to the liberties of the jail, in the same manner and to the same extent, as a sheriff, and may interpose a like defence.

From 2 R. S. 443, § 95.

§ 181a. [Added, 1902.] Duties of county treasurer in Erie county.

In the county of Erie the powers imposed and the duties conferred upon coroners by the provisions of this title shall be exercised and performed by the county treasurer of such county, and such county treasurer shall, in the exercise and performance thereof, be subject to the same liabilities and responsibilities as are prescribed in this title in the case of coroners.

New. Added by L. 1902, c. 575 (in effect April 14, 1902).

§§ 182–189. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

Civil Jurisdiction of the Principal Courts of Record; Organization, Members, and Officers thereof; Distribution and Dispatch of Business therein.

TITLE I.— The Court of Appeals.
TITLE II.— The Supreme Court.
TITLE III.— The Court of Claims.
TITLE IV.— The City Court of the City of New-York.
TITLE V.— The County Courts.

TITLE I.

The Court of Appeals.

Article 1. Jurisdiction, and mode of exercising the same; general powers; terms and sittings.
2. The clerk of the court.
3. The State reporter; publication and distribution of the reports.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Jurisdiction, and mode of exercising the same; general powers; terms and sittings.

Sec. 190. The jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals in civil actions.
191. Limitations, exceptions and conditions.
192. [Repealed.]
193. Court may make rules.
194. Remittitur; when judgment absolute to be rendered, and proceedings thereupon.
195. Second and subsequent appeals.
196. Times and places for holding terms.
197. Court may be held in any building; adjournments.
198. Officers to be appointed by court.

§ 190. [Am'd, 1895.] The jurisdiction of the Court of Appeals in civil actions.

The court of appeals has exclusive jurisdiction to review upon appeal every actual determination made prior to the last day of December, 1895, at a general term of the supreme court, or by either of the superior city courts, as then constituted, in all cases in which, under the provisions of law existing on said day, appeals might be taken to the court of appeals. From and after the last day of December, 1895, the jurisdiction of the court of appeals shall, in civil actions and proceedings, be confined to the review upon appeal of the actual determinations made by the appellate division of the supreme court in either of the following cases, and no others:

1. Appeals may be taken as of right to said court, from judgments or orders finally determining actions or special proceedings, and from orders granting new trials on exceptions, where the appellants stipulate that upon affirmance, judgment absolute shall be rendered against them.

2. Appeals may also be taken from determinations of the appellate division of the supreme court in any department where the appellate division allows the same, and certifies that one or more questions of law have arisen which, in its opinion, ought to be reviewed by the court of appeals, in which case the appeal brings up for review the question or questions so certified, and no other; and the court of appeals shall certify to the appellate division its determination upon such questions.

§ 191. [Am'd, 1895, 1896, 1898, 1900.] Limitations, exceptions and conditions.

The jurisdiction conferred by the last section is subject to the following limitations, exceptions and conditions:

1. No appeal shall be taken to said court, in any civil action or proceeding commenced in any court other than the supreme court, court of claims, county court, or a surrogate's court, unless the appellate division of the supreme court allows the appeal by an order made at the term which rendered the determination, or at the next term after judgment is entered thereupon and shall certify that in its opinion a question of law is involved which ought to be reviewed by the court of appeals.

2. No appeal shall be taken to said court from a judgment of affirmance hereafter rendered in an action to recover damages for a personal injury, or to recover damages for injuries resulting in death, or in an action to set aside a judgment, sale, transfer, conveyance, assignment or written instrument, as in fraud of the rights of creditors, or in an action to recover wages, salary or compensation for services, including expenses incidental thereto, or damages for breach of any contract therefor, or in an action upon an individual bond or individual undertaking on appeal, when the decision of the appellate division of the supreme court is unanimous, unless such appellate division shall certify that in its opinion a question of law is involved which ought to be reviewed by the court of appeals, or unless in case of its refusal to so certify, an appeal is allowed by a judge of the court of appeals.

3. The jurisdiction of the court is limited to a review of questions of law.

4. No unanimous decision of the appellate division of the supreme court that there is evidence supporting or tending to sustain a finding of fact or a verdict not directed by the court, shall be reviewed by the court of appeals.

From Co. Proc., § 11. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1896, c. 559; L. 1898, c. 574; L. 1900, c. 592 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 193. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Court may make rules.

The court may from time to time make, alter, and amend, rules, not inconsistent with the constitution or statutes of the State, regulating the practice and proceedings in the court, and the admission of attorneys and counsellors at law, to practice in all the courts of record of the State.

From L. 1870, c. 203, § 2; L. 1871, c. 486, § 1.

§ 194. Remittitur; when judgment absolute to be rendered, and proceedings thereupon.

The judgment or order of the court of appeals must be remitted to the court below, to be enforced according to law. Upon an appeal from an order granting a new trial, on a case or exceptions, if the court of appeals determines that no error was committed in granting the new trial, it must render judgment absolute upon the right of the appellant; and after its judgment has been remitted to the court below, an assessment of damages, or any other proceeding, requisite to render the judgment effectual, may be had in the latter court.

From Co. Proc., §§ 11, 12.

§ 195. Second and subsequent appeals.

Upon a second and each subsequent appeal, including a case where a former appeal has been dismissed for a defect or irregularity, the time of filing the return, upon the first appeal, determines the place of the cause upon the calendar.

242. Officers required to attend a term of the appellate division; sheriff's duty.
243. Fees of such officers; how paid.

§ 217. General jurisdiction of supreme court.

The general jurisdiction in law and equity, which the supreme court of the State possesses, under the provisions of the constitution, includes all the jurisdiction, which was possessed and exercised by the supreme court of the colony of New York, at any time, and by the court of chancery in England, on the 4th day of July, 1776; with the exceptions, additions, and limitations, created and imposed by the constitution and laws of the State. Subject to those exceptions and limitations, the supreme court of the State has all the powers and authority of each of those courts, and exercises the same in like manner.

From 2 R. S. 178 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 36; 2 R. S. 196 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 3), § 1; L. 1847, c. 280, § 16.

§ 218. [Am'd, 1895.] Supreme court may change place of trial of actions pending in other courts.

The supreme court, upon the application of either party, may, and, in a proper case, must make an order, directing that an issue of fact, joined in an action or special proceeding, pending in any other court of record, except the city court of the city of New York, or a county court, be tried at a term of the supreme court in another county, on such terms, and under such regulations as it deems just; and thereupon the issue must be tried accordingly. After the trial, the clerk of the county, in which it has taken place, must certify the minutes thereof; which must be filed with the clerk of the court, in which the action or special proceeding is pending. The subsequent proceedings in the last mentioned court must be the same, as if the issue had been tried therein.

§ 219. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judicial departments.

The state is hereby divided into four judicial departments. The first department shall consist of the counties embraced within the first judicial district; the second department shall consist of the counties embraced within the present second and ninth judicial districts; the third department shall consist of the counties embraced within the present third, fourth and sixth judicial districts; the fourth department shall consist of the counties embraced within the present fifth, seventh and eighth judicial districts.

From L. 1870, c. 408, as am'd by L. 1875, c. 616. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 376; L. 1915, c. 475 (in effect May 3, 1915).

court of Buffalo and the city court of Brooklyn, and such additional jurisdiction as may be conferred by the legislature. [It shall have power to appoint and remove a reporter, to whom the original opinions of the court shall be delivered by the judges immediately after the decisions of the cases in which they are written are made, and to make rules and regulations governing the practice therein. The appellate court shall be located, respectively, in the first department, in the city of New York; in the second department, in the city of Brooklyn; in the third department, in the city of Albany; and in the fourth department, in the city of Rochester; but terms thereof may be held elsewhere in such departments, whenever in the discretion of the justices thereof, respectively, public interests may require.]

§ 229. [Added, 1896; am'd, 1909.] Hearing of appeals when title to public office is involved.

An appeal from a judgment or decree in any case in which the question of the title to a public office is directly or collaterally at issue or in any manner involved, may be placed on the calendar and noticed for hearing on any day in the appellate division of the supreme court, in the first department, or in the court of appeals, and shall be heard on said day.

Added by L. 1896, c. 560. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65.

§ 230. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Number of justices necessary for a decision.

In each department four of the justices of the appellate division of the supreme court shall constitute a quorum, and the concurrence of three justices is necessary to pronounce a decision. No more than five justices shall sit in any case. If three do not concur in a decision, a reargument must be ordered.

Added by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 231. [Am'd, 1895, 1900, 1915.] Reargument, etc., when cause to be heard in another department.

Where in any case four justices of the appellate division in any department are not qualified to sit therein, or where the justices qualified to hear the appeal are equally divided, the court must direct the same to be sent to another department to be specified in the order to be there heard and determined. Where in any case when an appeal to the appellate division of any department comes on for argument, and the justice before whom the action was tried or who granted the order appealed from, is a member of such appellate division, the appellant may make an application to such appellate division for, and the court may grant, an order directing that such appeal be sent to an adjoining department to be specified in the order, to be there heard and determined. The appellate division may in any other appeal make an order in the furtherance of justice, directing that such appeal be sent to the appellate division of any department to be there heard and determined.

From L. 1870, c. 408, §§ 6, 10. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1900, c. 209; L. 1915, c. 553 (in effect May 8, 1915).

The justices of the appellate division in each department may fix the times and places for holding special and trial terms therein, and assign the justices of the departments to hold such terms, or make rules therefor; and may from time to time make additional appointments and designations, or change or alter those already made. If said justices of the said appellate division in any department shall not have fixed the times and places for holding said special and trial terms, or shall not have assigned the justices to hold such terms, or shall not have made rules therefor, before the first day of December, in the year 1895, and in every second year thereafter, the justices of the supreme court for each judicial district, or a majority of them not designated as justices of the appellate division, must, between the first and fifteenth days of December in each of said years, appoint the times and places for holding the trial and special terms of the supreme court within their judicial district, for two years from the first day of January of the year next following; if for any reason such an appointment is not made before the expiration of the time so specified, it must be made at the earliest convenient time thereafter. A special term or a trial term of the supreme court must be held by one judge. At least one special term and two trial terms must be appointed to be held in each year in each county separately organized. Two or more trial terms may be appointed to be held and may be held at the same time in any county. Fulton and Hamilton counties shall be deemed one county for the purposes of this section. A trial term in any county may be held in two or more parts, and a jury panel may be summoned to serve in each part, or jurors may be drawn from one panel; and in such county such part or parts, exceeding one, as may be requisite shall be reserved for the trial of actions on sales of personal property, including agreements incident to such sales, for work, labor and services, and material furnished, upon policies of insurance and upon negotiable paper and other instruments transferable by endorsement or order. The rules made by the justices of an appellate division for fixing the times and places for holding special and trial terms, and for assigning the justices for holding special and trial terms, must be signed by the justices making them, and immediately filed in the office of the secretary of state; and a duplicate thereof must also be filed in the office of the clerk of such appellate division, who must immediately transmit a copy thereof, certified by him, to each of the justices of the supreme court in such department not designated as justices of an appellate division. The justices of the appellate division of each department are hereby authorized to adopt and procure an official seal, with suitable devices and inscription. A description of such seal, with an impression thereof, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The expense of procuring such seal shall be a charge against the state, and shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the audit and warrant of the comptroller.

An appointment so made must be signed by the justices making it, and immediately filed in the office of the Secretary of State, who must publish a copy thereof in the newspaper, printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published, at least once in each week, for three successive weeks before the holding of a term in pursuance thereof. The expense of the publication is payable out of the treasury of the State.

From Co. Proc., § 25.

§ 234. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Governor may appoint extraordinary terms; justices to hold them.

The governor may, when, in his opinion, the public interest so requires, appoint one or more extraordinary terms of the appellate division of the supreme court in any department, or of the special or trial terms of the supreme court. He must designate the time and place of holding the same, and name the justice who shall hold or preside at such term, except of the appellate division; and he must give notice of the appointment, in such manner as, in his judgment, the public interest requires.

§ 235. [Am'd, 1895, 1900, 1909.] General powers and duties of justices.

Any justice of the supreme court has power to hold a special or trial term of the supreme court for the whole or any portion of the term; and to act upon any business, which regularly comes before the term in which he is sitting, except where he is personally disqualified from sitting, in a particular action or special proceeding. Each justice must, at all reasonable times, when not engaged in holding court, transact such judicial business as may be done out of court.

From 2 R. S. 203 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 4), § 14; Co. Proc., §§ 26, 27. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1900, c. 384; L. 1909, c. 65.

If it appear to the satisfaction of the presiding justice of the appellate division in any department that a special or trial term of the supreme court duly appointed therein is in danger of failing, he may designate a justice who resides in that department to hold such term in the absence of the justice assigned thereto. If in the opinion of such presiding justice it is not practicable to make a designation from his department, he shall so inform the governor who may thereupon designate for such term a justice from any department.

From L. 1850, c. 1, § 1. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1900, c. 414 (in effect April 12, 1900).

§ 238. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Place of holding the terms.

The place appointed within each county, for holding a special term of the supreme court, at which issues of fact are triable, or a trial term, must be that designated by the statute, for holding the county court.

§ 239. [Enacted; parts omitted, 1909; see Table, p. iii.] Special terms adjourned to chambers; trials thereat.

[A special term of the supreme court may be adjourned to a future day, and to the chambers of any justice of the court, residing within the judicial district, by an entry in the minutes; and then adjourned from time to time, as the justice holding the same directs. Special terms may be held at the chambers of the justice, in the town, city or village of his residence, whether at the county seat or elsewhere in the county.] An action triable by the supreme court, without a jury, which was upon the calendar of the term before it was adjourned, as provided in section 148 of the Judiciary Law,[1] may be tried at a term so adjourned, and held at chambers, by consent of both parties, but not otherwise. [In that case, the attendance of the clerk, the sheriff, the crier, or a constable, is not required, unless the justice directs one or more of those officers to attend.]

§ 241. [Am'd, 1895; re-enacted, 1910.] What judges may perform duties of justices at chambers.

A county judge within his county possesses, and upon proper application must exercise, the power conferred by law in general language upon an officer authorized to perform the duties of a justice of the supreme court at chambers or out of court.

From Co. Proc., § 403; 2 R. S. 280 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), §§ 18, 19. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; re-enacted by L. 1910, c. 575 (in effect June 22, 1910).

Stenographers.

Sec. 251. Stenographers.
252, 253. [Repealed.]

§ 251. [Am'd, 1880, 1883, 1892, 1895.] Stenographers.

If the justice presiding requires a copy of any proceedings written out at length from stenographic notes, he may make an order, directing one-half of the stenographer's fees therefor, to be paid by each of the parties to the action or special proceeding, at the rate of ten cents for each folio as written out, and may enforce payment thereof. Any such copy shall be accessible to, and may be examined by, any of the counsel in the cause. If there are two or more parties on the same side, the order may direct either of them to pay the sum payable by their side, for the stenographer's fees; or it may apportion the payment thereof among them, as the justice deems just.

§ 263. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1904, 1906, 1911, 1915.] Court of Claims.

The board of claims is hereby abolished and the court of claims re-established. Such court shall consist of three judges, to be known as judges of the court of claims, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The judges first appointed shall be appointed for terms of three, six and nine years, respectively, from the first day of January of the calendar year in which such appointments shall be made. Thereafter the full term of office of each judge shall be nine years. Whenever the term of office of a judge shall expire, or his office become vacant from any cause, his successor shall be appointed for the unexpired term. Notwithstanding the provisions of section five of the public officers law, a judge of the court of claims shall hold over and continue to discharge the duties of his office, after the expiration of the term for which he shall have been chosen, until his successor shall be chosen and qualified, but after the expiration of such term the office shall be deemed vacant for the purpose of choosing his successor. By an order to be filed in the office of the secretary of state, the governor shall designate one of the judges as presiding judge, who shall act as such during his term, and thereafter upon the appointment of his successor, the governor shall designate such successor or any other judge of the court as presiding judge, who shall act as such during his term. The office of commissioner of claims is hereby abolished, but the commissioners now in office shall continue to have the powers and duties of commissioners of claims until the appointment and qualification of judges of the court of claims, except that after this section as amended takes effect and until the appointment and qualification of judges of the court of claims they shall not hear, try or determine any claim, or entertain a motion or make an order affecting the substantial rights of a party. During the period of three months after the first appointment and qualification of judges hereunder, such commissioners shall have power to determine and dispose of questions, claims and matters which shall have been finally submitted to and heard by such board on or before January 23, 1915, in the same manner and with the same effect as if such board had not been abolished. Such commissioners shall for their services rendered during such period of three months receive compensation at the rate of five hundred dollars per month. A judge of the court of claims, appointed under the provisions of this section, as amended, must be an attorney and counselor-at-law admitted to practice in the courts of this state, of at least ten years' experience in practice. A judge shall not during his term of office practice the profession of law, or act as referee in any action or proceeding in any court of this state. A judge shall not hold any other office or public trust to which any salary or compensation is attached,[1] nor serve as a member of any political committee. Except as herein otherwise provided, the judges appointed under this section shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine all matters pending in the court of claims at the time they shall take office, and all matters pending in the board of claims at the time when this section, as amended takes effect, shall be heard and determined by the court of claims. But if any matter or claim be left undisposed of by the commissioners of claims, the court of claims shall have jurisdiction thereon. Whenever in this act or in any other statute, heretofore enacted or enacted at the legislative session of the year 1915, reference is made to the board of claims or any officer thereof, the same shall be deemed to refer to and mean the court of claims or an officer thereof. A determination of the board of claims, heretofore rendered shall have the same force and effect and be subjected to the same procedure as provided in this article for a judgment.

[1] From 1877 to 1896, this Article, comprising §§ 263 to 312, related to four courts, which were styled the Superior City Courts, viz., the Superior Court of the City of New York, the Court of Common Pleas for the City and County of New York, the Superior Court of Buffalo and the City Court of Brooklyn. The Constitution of 1894, § 5, provided that these courts should be abolished from and after January 1, 1896, and transferred their jurisdiction to the Supreme Court. Then, by L. 1895, c. 946, § 2, §§ 263 to 312 of the Code were repealed. Sections 263 to 280, relating to the Court of Claims, were afterwards introduced into the Code by L. 1897, c. 36. By the amendments of 1911 (L. 1911, c. 856) the jurisdiction of this court was transferred to the Board of Claims, but by a later amendment (L. 1915, c. 1) the Court of Claims was re-established.

§ 264. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1905, 1906, 1908, 1912, 1915.] Jurisdiction.

The court of claims possesses all of the powers and jurisdiction of the former board of claims. It also has jurisdiction to hear and determine a private claim against the state, including a claim of an executor or administrator of a decedent who left him or her surviving a husband, wife or next of kin, for damages for a wrongful act, neglect or default, on the part of the state by which the decedent's death was caused, which shall have accrued within two years before the filing of such claim and the state hereby consents, in all such claims, to have its liability determined. It may also hear and determine any claim on the part of the state against the claimant, or against his assignor at the time of the assignment, and must render judgment for such sum as should be paid by or to the state. But the court has no jurisdiction of a claim submitted by law to any other tribunal or officer for audit or determination except where the claim is founded upon express contract and such claim, or some part thereof, has been rejected by such tribunal or officer. In no case shall any liability be implied against the state, and no award shall be made on any claim against the state except upon such legal evidence as would establish liability against an individual or corporation in a court of law or equity. No claim other than for the appropriation of land shall be maintained against the state unless the claimant shall within six months after such claim shall have accrued, file in the office of the clerk of the court of claims and with the attorney-general a written notice of intention to file a claim against the state, stating the time when, and the place where such claim arose and in detail the nature of the same, which notice shall be signed and verified by the claimant before an officer authorized to administer oaths. The attorney-general may require any person filing such a notice of claim for any cause whatever against the state to be sworn before him or one of his deputies designated by him for that purpose within the county of the claimant's residence, relating to such claim, and when so sworn, to answer orally as to any facts relative to the justness of such claim. Willful false swearing before the attorney-general or deputy attorney-general is perjury and punishable as such. Provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to allow the court to hear any claim which as between citizens of the state would be barred by lapse of time or of any claim heretofore accrued and of which the said court or board has had jurisdiction and which was barred by lapse of time at the date when this section, as amended, takes effect. Provided further, that the court shall have jurisdiction, and may hear and determine all claims accrued and actually filed at any time prior to September 1, 1912, and filed within two years from the time they accrued, though no notice of intention to file was given, as required by this section, if such claims when filed were not barred by lapse of time and the court or board had jurisdiction and authority to hear and determine the same except for the lack of such notice; and such jurisdiction shall attach without refiling or previous notice.

[1] By L. 1915, c. 100, § 2, it is provided that a judge of the court of claims shall not be prevented by the provisions of § 263 of the Code from serving as a member of a constitutional convention and receiving the salary or compensation attached to that office.

§ 265. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1906, 1915.] Rules and procedure.

The court may establish rules for its government, and the regulation of practice therein; prescribe the forms and method of procedure before it, vacate or modify judgments and grant new trials, and except as otherwise provided in said rules and regulations, or the code of civil procedure, the practice shall be the same as in the supreme court. Rules of the board of claims or former court of claims, now in force, shall continue to be the rules of the court of claims until changed by such court.

Added by L. 1897, c. 36. Am'd by L. 1906, c. 692; L. 1915, c. 1 (in effect January 28, 1915).

The court of claims shall appoint and may at pleasure remove, a clerk, a stenographer and an attendant, who shall also act as messenger; and they shall perform such duties as the court may prescribe. Before entering upon the duties of his office, the clerk shall make and file in the office of the comptroller, a bond for the faithful performance of his duties in an amount and with sufficient sureties to be approved by at least two of the judges, which approval shall be indorsed on said bond. The court may also appoint such other employees as may be needed. The clerk and stenographer appointed by the board of claims are continued as such officers and employees of the court of claims until the appointment and qualification of their successors.

§ 267. [Added, 1897.] Seal of court.

The court shall adopt and procure an official seal, with suitable device and inscription. A description of such seal, with an impression thereof, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The expense of procuring such seal shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the court.

Id.

§ 268. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1906, 1911, 1915.] Sessions; duty of sheriff.

The court shall hold at least eight sessions each year, and unless otherwise ordered by the court shall be held as follows: On the fourth Monday of January at the city of Albany; on the third Monday of February at the city of Syracuse; on the fourth Monday of March at the city of Utica; on the fourth Monday of April at the city of Albany; on the fourth Monday of May at the city of Rochester; on the third Monday of June at the city of Buffalo; on the fourth Monday of September at the city of Albany; on the fourth Monday of November at the city of Albany, and it may also hold adjourned or special sessions at such other times and places in the state as it may determine. It may also hold a session and take testimony where the claimant resides or where the claim is alleged to have arisen, or in the vicinity, and may view any premises affected by the proceedings, and in case of any appropriation of land by the state, the value of which shall exceed five hundred dollars, it shall be the duty of the court, or the judge or judges hearing the claim, to view the premises affected by the appropriation. The sheriff of any county, except Albany, shall furnish for the use of the court suitable rooms in the courthouse of his county for any session ordered to be held thereat and shall if required attend said session. His fees for attendance shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the court at the same rate as for attending a term of the supreme court in that county.

A session of the court may be conducted and testimony and proof taken and arguments heard thereat, by one or more judges to be designated by the presiding judge; but no determination or judgment of the court shall be rendered except upon the concurrence of at least two of the judges of the court. Not more than three judges shall sit in any case.

Adjourned or special sessions of the board of claims heretofore designated to be hereafter held, shall be held as sessions of the court of claims unless such court shall cancel such designations.

Id. Am'd by L. 1906, c. 692; L. 1911, c. 856; L. 1915, c. 1 (in effect January 28, 1915), and c. 100 (in effect March 19, 1915).

§ 269. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1901, 1909.] Judgments.

The determination of the court upon a claim shall be by a judgment to be entered in a book to be kept by the clerk for that purpose, and signed and certified by him. Within ten days after the entry of the judgment, the clerk shall serve a certified copy thereof on the claimant or his attorney and also upon the attorney-general. If the claim arises in a case where the state seeks to appropriate or has appropriated land for a public use, the judgment shall contain a description of such land. A transcript of a judgment in favor of the state, certified by the clerk of the court, may be filed and docketed in the clerk's office of any county; and upon being so docketed shall become and be a lien upon the property of the claimant in that county, to the same extent and enforceable by execution in the same manner, as a judgment of the supreme court. A final judgment against the claimant on any claim prosecuted as provided in this article shall forever bar any further claim or demand against the state arising out of the matters involved in the controversy. Interest shall be allowed on each judgment of the court of claims from the date thereof until the twentieth day after the comptroller is authorized to issue his warrant for the payment thereof or until payment, if payment be made sooner. But no such judgment shall be paid until there shall be filed with the comptroller a copy thereof duly certified by the clerk of the court of claims together with a certificate of the attorney-general that no appeal from such judgment has been or will be taken by the state, and a release and waiver by the attorney for the claimant of any lien for services upon said claimant's cause of action, claim, award, verdict, report, decision or judgment in favor of said claimant, which said attorney may have thereon under and by virtue of section 475 of the Judiciary Law; and where damages are awarded for the permanent appropriation of land for a public use, there shall also be filed with the comptroller a satisfactory abstract of title and certificate of search as to incumbrances, showing the person demanding such damages to be legally entitled thereto. The provisions of this section as to limitation of interest shall not apply, however, to judgments paid from the various trust funds or sinking funds of the state, which funds shall be entitled to interest until the twentieth day after an appropriation is available for the reimbursement thereof or until payment, if payment be sooner made.

Id. Am'd by L. 1901, c. 440; L. 1909, c. 65.

§ 270. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1905.] Duty of attorney-general and superintendent of public works.

The attorney-general shall represent the state in all proceedings relating to claims. In all cases of canal claims a copy of each such claim and of notice of claim which is or may hereafter be required to be filed with the court of claims shall be filed with the superintendent of public works who on request from the attorney-general, shall furnish such assistance as he may require in subpœnaing witnesses and preparing the cases for trial. The attorney-general may designate a clerk in his office to assist in the preparation of cases for trial and to attend a term of the court. And no claim brought against the state on account of the canal shall be settled or compromised for any amount without the written consent thereto by the superintendent of public works or his duly authorized representative.

Added by L. 1897, c. 36. Am'd by L. 1905, c. 370 (in effect May 4, 1905).

§ 271. [Added, 1897.] Record of proceedings; report.

The court shall keep a record of its proceedings, and, at the commencement of each session of the legislature, and at such other times during the session as it may deem proper, or as the senate or assembly may request, report to the legislature the claims upon which it has finally acted, with a statement of the judgment rendered in each case.

Id.

§ 272. [Added, 1897.] Expense of procuring testimony on commission.

When testimony is taken on commission, at the instance of the claimant, the expense thereof including the fees of the commissioner, shall be paid by the claimant; and when taken at the instance of the state, such fees and all expense incurred by the attorney-general shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the court.

Id.

§ 273. [Added, 1897.] Annual report to comptroller.

On the first day of January in each year, the clerk shall report to the comptroller, under oath, a detailed statement of his disbursements made under the direction of the court from its contingent fund during the preceding year.

Id.

§ 274. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1909.] Costs not to be taxed.

Costs, witnesses' fees and disbursements shall not be taxed, nor shall counsel or attorney fees be allowed by the court to any party. The said court of claims, whenever the appraised value of the premises appropriated shall be less than $200, shall in their award make a reasonable allowance for the expense of procuring the abstract of title and certificate of search as to incumbrances, which the statutes require shall be furnished the comptroller before payment of any damages which may be awarded for the permanent appropriation of land or water.

§ 275. [Added, 1897.] Appeals.

Either party may appeal from an order or judgment of the court of claims to the appellate division of the supreme court of the third department. The appeal from a judgment may be taken upon questions of law or of fact, or both, or for an alleged excess or insufficiency of the judgment. Upon such appeal, the court may affirm, reverse, or modify the judgment, or dismiss the appeal, or grant a new trial. The provisions of this code relating to appeals in the supreme court apply, so far as practicable, to appeals from orders or judgments of the court of claims, except as modified in this article.

Id.

§ 276. [Added, 1897.] Time and manner of taking appeal.

An appeal must be taken within thirty days after the entry and service of the order, or the service by the clerk of a certified copy of the judgment, by serving upon the claimant or his attorney, or upon the attorney-general, and upon the clerk, in like manner as in the supreme court, a written notice to the effect that the appellant appeals from the order or from the judgment or from a specified part thereof, and briefly stating the grounds of the appeal.

Id.

§ 277. [Added, 1897.] Case on appeal.

With the notice of appeal from a judgment, the appellant shall serve upon the adverse party a case containing so much of the evidence as the appellant may deem necessary to present the questions raised by the appeal. Within ten days after the service of the case, the respondent may propose and serve amendments thereto, and the case may be settled upon five days' notice by any judge of the court. Notice of the settlement may be served by either party, within ten days after service of the proposed amendments. The court or a judge thereof may extend the time for serving a case or amendments.

Id.

§ 278. [Added, 1897.] Preference on appeals.

An appeal taken after the calendar for a term of the appellate court is prepared may be placed thereon upon the application of the attorney-general at any time during the then current term, and brought on for hearing as a preferred cause upon a notice of fourteen days.

Id.

§ 279. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1906, 1910, 1911, 1915.] Salaries and expenses of judges.

Each judge of the court of claims shall receive an annual compensation of eight thousand dollars, payable monthly, and all actual and necessary traveling and other expenses and disbursements incurred or made by them in the discharge of their official duties elsewhere than in Albany, payable monthly, by the state treasurer on the audit and warrant of the comptroller.

Id. Am'd by L. 1906, c. 692; L. 1910, c. 684; L. 1911, c. 856; L. 1915, c. 1 (in effect January 28, 1915).

§ 280. [Added, 1897; am'd, 1907, 1911, 1915.] Salaries of officers of court of claims.

Each officer of the court of claims shall receive an annual salary, payable monthly, and other compensation as follows:

1. The clerk, three thousand dollars.

2. The court stenographers, who shall also be deputy clerks, two thousand five hundred dollars and five cents a folio for copies of minutes and testimony furnished at the request of the claimant.

3. The attendant, including his services as messenger, twelve hundred dollars.

4. The clerk, court stenographers and attendant shall be paid their actual expenses while in the discharge of their respective duties, elsewhere than in the city of Albany, to be audited by the court and paid from the contingent fund. No charge shall be made against the state by the clerk or the stenographers for copies of minutes, testimony or papers, furnished to the attorney-general or to the court or filed in the office of the clerk.

Id. Am'd by L. 1907, c. 590; L. 1911, c. 856; L. 1915, c. 1 (in effect January 28, 1915), and c. 100 (in effect March 19, 1915).

§ 281. [Added, 1901.] Interpleader, consolidation and new parties.

Jurisdiction and powers are also conferred upon the court of claims in its discretion, to order other parties, known or unknown, to be brought in and made parties to any action or proceeding pending in said court or substituted whenever it appears or is made to appear to the court, necessary to a complete determination of the controversy, or the determination of a liability; to consolidate claims or actions, to order interpleader, in the same manner and to like extent and with like effect in matters over which said court of claims have or shall have jurisdiction, as is conferred upon other courts by sections 452, 756, 817, 820 and 2518 of this code. Said parties may be brought in by order instead of by citation or summons, which order may be served personally or by publication in like manner as is provided for the service of a citation in surrogate's court; and in the cases provided in this section the said court may render judgment for or against any of the parties in said action or proceeding as may be just and equitable.

§ 282. [Added, 1915.] Additional judges.

The number of judges to constitute the court of claims may be increased to not more than five as provided by this section. If the attorney-general shall at any time certify to the governor in writing that the accumulation of business in the court of claims requires for the disposal thereof an additional judge or judges, specifying the number, not more than two, the governor may appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, such additional judge or judges, each of whom shall be an attorney and counselor-at-law, admitted to practice in the courts of this state of at least ten years' experience in practice. The terms of any such additional judge shall expire January first, 1918. If a vacancy shall occur otherwise than by expiration of term in the office of any such additional judge, his successor shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, for the unexpired term of his predecessor in office. If at any time prior to January first, 1918, it appears to the satisfaction of the governor that the necessity for having any such additional judge no longer exists, he may file a certificate to such effect in the office of the secretary of state and thereupon the term of such additional judge shall expire. Such an additional judge, shall, during his term of office, receive the same compensation and be allowed his expenses, payable at the same time and in the same manner as a judge of the court of claims. Except as herein provided the provisions of section 263 relating to judges of the court of claims shall apply to any such additional judge.

Added by L. 1915, c. 1 (in effect January 28, 1915).

§ 283. [Added, 1916.] Determination of appropriation cases; assignment of judges.

At least two of the judges of the court of claims shall be designated by the presiding judge thereof to devote their entire time, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, to the hearing and determination of claims filed against the state arising out of the appropriation of lands, structures, waters, franchises or other property in connection with the improvement of the Erie, Champlain and Oswego canals as provided by chapter 147 of the laws of 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the Cayuga and Seneca canals as provided by chapter 391 of the laws of 1909, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and for the purpose of furnishing proper terminals and facilities for barge canal traffic as provided for by chapter 746 of the laws of 1911, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto. Such designations of judges may be changed in the discretion of the presiding judge, provided at least two of such judges be at all times assigned to the hearing and determination of such claims. Nothing in this section contained, however, shall be construed to limit the power of the judges so designated, or either of them, from hearing and determining claims other than such appropriation cases whenever and to the extent that it appears to the satisfaction of such judges, or either of them, that such appropriation cases do not require their attention or that of either of them.

§ 284. [Added, 1916.] Calendar practice.

A calendar shall be prepared by the clerk of the court of claims for each regular session thereof. Such calendar shall be comprised of all pending claims in the district where such session is to be held and the claims shall appear therein in the order of the date of the filing thereof respectively. The attorney-general may notice any of such claims for trial at any such term by serving upon the attorney for the claimant a notice of trial at least fourteen days before the commencement of such term. When any claim of the character mentioned in the last preceding section is reached for trial by the court, if the claimant fails to appear, or if he appears but is not ready to proceed to the trial thereof, the court, in its discretion, may proceed forthwith to take proofs and testimony therein offered by the state or otherwise, and may make an award in accordance therewith and cause a judgment to be entered thereon. If, in such a case, the court shall decide not to proceed forthwith to take such proofs and testimony, interest shall not accrue or be allowed upon such claim between such date and the entry of judgment in such case, unless, in the exercise of its discretion, for good cause shown, the court shall otherwise determine.

When any claim other than one of those mentioned in the last preceding section is noticed for trial as herein provided, if the claimant fails to appear, the court, upon the motion of the attorney-general, may dismiss the same, in which event such default shall not be opened nor shall such claim be restored to the calendar except upon the motion of the attorney for the claimant, based upon affidavits showing a reasonable and satisfactory excuse for such default and that such claim is a meritorious one. Such notice of motion and the affidavits upon which the same is based shall be served upon the attorney-general at least eight days before such application, unless a shorter time shall be ordered by the court. Whenever any interest-bearing claim, other than one of those mentioned in the last preceding section, shall have been dismissed and thereafter restored to the calendar as herein provided, no interest shall accrue or be allowed thereon between the date of such dismissal and the entry of judgment in such case.

Added by L. 1916, c. 343 (in effect April 27, 1916).

§ 315. [Am'd, 1877, 1895, 1911.] Jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction of the city court of the city of New York,[1] extends to the following cases:

1. An action against a natural person, or against a foreign or domestic corporation, wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, or to recover one or more chattels, with or without damages for the taking or detention thereof.

2. An action to foreclose or enforce a lien upon real property in the city of New York, created as prescribed by statute, in favor of a person, who has performed labor upon, or furnished materials to be used in the construction, alteration or repair of a building, vault, wharf, fence, or other structure; or who has graded, filled in, or otherwise improved, a lot of land, or the sidewalk or street in front of or adjoining a lot of land.

3. An action to foreclose or enforce a lien, for a sum not exceeding five thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, upon one or more chattels.

4. The taking and entry of a judgment, upon the confession of one or more defendants, where the sum, for which judgment is confessed, does not exceed five thousand dollars, exclusive of interest from the time of making the statement, upon which the judgment is entered.

From L. 1872, c. 629, § 3; L. 1874, c. 545, § 5; L. 1875, c. 479, § 1; L. 1875, c. 379, §§ 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1911, c. 569 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

[1] Until 1883 this court was called the Marine Court. The name was changed by L. 1883, c. 26.

Where the sum of $5,000 is found in §§ 315, 316, the amount was, before Sept. 1, 1911, $2,000. This change was made by L. 1911, c. 569. This amendment has been held unconstitutional and void in Lewkowics v. Queen Aeroplane Co., 207 N. Y. 290.

§ 316. [Am'd, 1879, 1889, 1911.] The last section limited.

The jurisdiction conferred by the last section is subject to the following limitations and regulations:

1. In an action wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, the sum, for which judgment is rendered in favor of the plaintiff, cannot exceed five thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, and costs as taxed; except where it is brought upon a bond or undertaking given in an action or special proceeding in the same court, or before a justice thereof; or to recover damages for a breach of promise of marriage; or where it is a marine cause, as that expression is defined in the next section. Where the action is brought upon a bond or other contract, the judgment must be for the sum actually due, without regard to a penalty therein contained; and where the money is payable in instalments, successive actions may be brought for the instalments, as they become due.

2. In an action to recover one or more chattels, a judgment cannot be rendered in favor of the plaintiff, for a chattel or chattels, the aggregate value of which exceeds five thousand dollars.

From the same sources as the last section. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1889, c. 441; L. 1911, c. 569 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 317. [Am'd, 1895.] Jurisdiction in special causes.

The city court of the city of New York possesses the same jurisdiction in the following actions as the supreme court of the state:

1. An action in favor of a person, belonging to a vessel in the merchant service, against the owner, master, or commander thereof, for the reasonable value of services, or for the breach of a contract to pay for services, rendered or to be rendered on board of the vessel, during a voyage, wholly or partly performed, or intended to be performed by it.

2. An action in favor of or against a person, belonging to or on board of a vessel in the merchant service to recover damages for an assault, battery, or false imprisonment, committed on board the vessel, upon the high seas, or in a place without the United States.

But this section does not confer upon the city court authority to proceed as a court of admiralty or maritime jurisdiction.

From L. 1872, c. 629, § 3, subds. 13, 14; 2 R. L., p. 382, § 106. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 318. [Am'd, 1911.] Power to naturalise aliens.

The court shall have power to naturalise an alien.

From L. 1852, c. 389, part of § 10. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 569 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

The supreme court, at a term held in the first judicial district, may, by an order made at any time after joinder of an issue of fact, and before the trial thereof, remove to itself an action brought in the city court, for the purpose of changing the place of trial thereof. Where an order for removal is made, as prescribed in this section, the place of trial must be changed by the same order to another county, and the subsequent proceedings therein must be the same as if the action had been originally brought in the supreme court. The provisions of sections 344, 345 and 346 of this act apply to an application to remove such an action, and to the proceedings upon and subsequent to the removal, as if the city court were specified in those sections in place of the county court, and a justice thereof in place of the county judge.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 319a. [Added, 1913.] Removal of cause in certain cases from city court to supreme court.

The supreme court, at a term held in the first judicial district, must, on the motion of any party, by an order made at any time before the entry of judgment, remove to itself an action brought in the city court of the city of New York in the following cases:

1. An action to foreclose or enforce a lien, for a sum exceeding two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, upon one or more chattels.

2. An action wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, exceeding two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs as taxed; except where the action is brought upon a bond or undertaking given in an action or special proceeding in the same court, or before a justice thereof; or to recover damages for a breach of promise of marriage; or where it is a marine cause, as that expression is defined in section 317 of this code.

3. An action to recover one or more chattels the aggregate value of which exceeds two thousand dollars.

Upon the entry of the order of removal in the office of the clerk of the county of New York, the city court shall proceed no further therein, and the clerk of the city court must forthwith deliver to the clerk of the county of New York all papers filed therein, and certified copies of all minutes and entries relating thereto, which must be filed, entered or recorded, as the case requires, in the office of the clerk of the county of New York, and thereupon the supreme court shall proceed in said action as though said action had been commenced in said supreme court, and all proceedings had in the city court prior to the entry of said order of removal shall be of like force and effect as though had in the supreme court.

§ 319b. [Added, 1913.] Vacation of judgment in certain cases.

Whenever judgment has been or shall be entered in the city court of the city of New York in any one or more of the following cases, to wit:

1. An action to foreclose or enforce a lien, for a sum exceeding two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest, upon one or more chattels;

2. An action wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, and the judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, and exceeds two thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs as taxed; except where the action is brought upon a bond or undertaking given in an action or special proceeding in the same court or before a justice thereof; or to recover damages for a breach of promise of marriage; or where it is a marine cause, as that expression is defined in section 317 of this code.

3. An action to recover one or more chattels, and the judgment is in favor of the plaintiff for a chattel or chattels, the aggregate value of which exceeds two thousand dollars.

Any party to such action, at any time after the entry of such judgment, may apply to the said city court to have such judgment vacated, and thereupon the said city court may in its discretion vacate such judgment. Any case, wherein a judgment has been so vacated, may be removed to the supreme court in the first judicial district, as provided in section 319a.

Added by L. 1913, c. 211 (in effect April 4, 1913).

§ 320. [Am'd, 1877, 1907.] Justices; their general duties.

The court consists of ten justices, one of whom is the chief justice of the court. Each justice must perform his share of the labors and duties appertaining to the office. One of the justices must attend at the chambers of the court, from ten o'clock in the morning until four o'clock in the afternoon of each day, except Sunday, a public holiday, or a day upon which the inhabitants of the city of New York generally refrain from business. Each justice, while in the rooms of the court, and not actually engaged in the performance of other official duties, must act upon any application for his official action, properly made to him. The justice, assigned to a trial term or a special term, must remain in attendance, until the day calendar is disposed of, or for such other time as is reasonable.

§ 321. How suspended from office.

Where it appears presumptively, to the satisfaction of the governor, that a justice of the court has been guilty of corruption, or other gross misconduct in office; or habitually neglects to perform his share of the labors and duties appertaining to the office; or is incapable of properly discharging the same; the governor may, in his discretion, make an order, suspending that justice from the exercise of the duties of his office, and directing that his compensation cease. Such an order must recite the grounds upon which it is made; and it remains in force, unless it is sooner revoked by the governor, until the final adjournment of the next session of the legislature; or, if the legislature is then in session, until the final adjournment of that session.

§ 322. [Am'd, 1902.] Chief-justice; how designated; his general duties, etc.

The justices of the court, or a majority of them, must, from time to time, as a vacancy occurs in the office of chief-justice, designate one of their number to be chief-justice. A certificate of the designation, under the hands of the justices making the same, must be filed in the office of the clerk of the court. The person so designated shall be chief-justice during his term of office. The chief-justice has the like authority, within the jurisdiction of the court, as a presiding justice of the supreme court.

§ 323. [Am'd, 1909.] Justices may make rules.

The justices of the court, or a majority of them, may, from time to time, establish rules of practice for the court, not inconsistent with this act, or with the general rules of practice, established as prescribed in section 94 of the Judiciary Law. The latter govern the practice in the court, as far as they are applicable thereto.

§ 324. [Am'd, 1902.] Court when open; justices to designate terms; routine of business, etc.

The court is always open for the transaction of any business, for which notice is not required to be given to an adverse party. The justices of the court, or a majority of them, from time to time must appoint and may alter, the times of holding special and trial terms of the court. They must prescribe the duration of the terms; designate the trial terms at which jurors are required to attend; and assign the justice to preside and attend at each of the terms so appointed. In case of the inability of a justice to preside or attend, another justice may preside or attend in his place. Each trial and special term must be held by one justice. Two or more special or trial terms may be appointed to be held at the same time.

§ 325. Terms where held; publication of appointments.

Each term so appointed must be held at the city-hall in the city of New-York, except that auxiliary or additional parts, for the transaction of any business specified in the appointment, may be held elsewhere within the city of New-York, as designated in the appointment. An appointment must be published in two newspapers, published in the city of New-York, at least once in each week, for three successive weeks, before a term is held in pursuance thereof.

From L. 1875, c. 479, § 28.

§ 326. Justices may take oaths, acknowledgments, etc.

Each of the justices may, within the city of New-York, administer an oath, or take a deposition, or the acknowledgment or proof of the execution of a written instrument, and certify the same, in like manner and with like authority and effect, as a justice of the supreme court.

From L. 1874, c. 545, § 8.

§ 327. [Am'd, 1895.] Orders, etc., how made.

In an action brought in the court, an order cannot be made, or a warrant of attachment granted by an officer, other than a justice of the court; and each provision of this act, which empowers an officer, other than a judge of the court in which an action is brought, to make an order therein, must be construed as being exclusive of an action brought in the city court.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 328. [Am'd, 1877, 1891, 1906, 1907, 1910, 1911, 1912.] Clerk, deputy clerks, assistants, stenographer, etc.; their salaries.

The court has a clerk who is appointed, and may be removed, by the justices thereof, or a majority of them, for cause upon charges and after a hearing after notice, and who shall receive a salary of six thousand dollars per annum. The justices of the court or a majority of them must appoint, and may remove, six deputy clerks and not more than twenty-one assistants and a stenographer and typewriter operator for the purpose of copying their minutes and opinions and doing such other confidential work which may be required by said justices or the clerk of the court. The clerk is responsible for the faithful discharge of his duty by each deputy-clerk, and each assistant and the stenographer and typewriter operator. Each deputy-clerk, each assistant, and the stenographer and typewriter operator, is entitled to a salary, fixed and to be paid as prescribed by law.

The deputy-clerk has all the powers, and may perform all the duties of the clerk, when the office of clerk is vacant, or at the clerk's office, when the clerk is absent therefrom, or at a term or sitting of the court which the deputy-clerk attends.

From L. 1857, c. 295, § 6. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1907, c. 708 (in effect July 23, 1907).

§ 330. [Am'd, 1877.] Special deputy-clerks.

The clerk may designate as many of his assistants, as the justices of the court, or a majority of them deem necessary, as special deputy-clerks. Each special deputy-clerk possesses, in the absence of the clerk and a deputy-clerk, the same powers as the clerk, at any sitting or term of the court which he attends, with respect to the business transacted thereat.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 331. [Am'd, 1877.] Clerk to account monthly for fees, and pay over the same.

The clerk must receive, for the use of the city of New York, the fees allowed by law. He shall not perform any service, for which a fee is allowed by law, until the fee therefor is paid to him. He must, on the first day of each month, or within three days thereafter, render to the comptroller of the city, an account, under oath, of all fees received, directly or indirectly, during the preceding month, by him, or by a deputy-clerk, or either of his assistants, for any official service; and he must, at the same time, pay the same into the treasury of the city of New York. When the return and payment are so made, the clerk is entitled to receive his compensation, for the period included in the return. He is not entitled to compensation for a period, for which he has not made his return and payment.

§ 332. [Am'd, 1877, 1906, 1907.] Stenographers.

The justices of the court or a majority of them must appoint nine stenographers of the court, and may at pleasure remove either of them. The justices of the court, or a majority of them, must, from time to time, assign each of the stenographers to duty at the trial or special term. Each stenographer is entitled to a salary, fixed and to be paid as prescribed by law and must attend the term to which he is assigned.

From L. 1876, c. 413, §§ 1, 4. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1906, c. 61 (this act repeals all acts or parts of acts which provide for the appointment of additional stenographers for this court); L. 1907, c. 708 (in effect July 23, 1907).

§ 333. [Am'd 1877, 1907, 1909.] Official oath; interpreters.

The justices of the court or a majority of them, from time to time, must appoint, and may at pleasure remove, three official interpreters of the court, who are entitled to a salary, fixed and to be paid as prescribed by law. Before entering upon their official duties the clerk, deputy-clerks, assistant clerks, stenographers, interpreters and attendants must subscribe and file in the office of the clerk of the city of New York, the constitutional oath of office. Each interpreter must attend any trial or special term of the court, where his services are required; and the justice therein presiding shall regulate his attendance thereat.

From L. 1876, c. 413, §§ 1, 4. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1907, c. 708; L. 1909, c. 387 (in effect Sept. 1, 1909).

§ 334. [Omitted; see Table, p. 111.] Id.; penalty for misconduct.

If an official interpreter knowingly and wilfully, falsely interprets any evidence, matter or thing, between a witness and the court, or a justice thereof, in the course of an action or special proceeding, he is guilty of perjury.

From L. 1867, c. 784, § 8. Am'd by L. 1907, c. 707 (in effect July 22, 1907).

§ 335. [Am'd, 1877, 1907, 1913.] The justices must appoint attendants; their salaries.

The justices of the court or a majority of them must appoint, and may at pleasure remove, as many attendants upon the court as they deem necessary, not exceeding twenty-five. The justices of the court, or a majority of them, may regulate their attendance. Each attendant is entitled to a salary fixed, and to be paid as prescribed by law.

§ 336. Clerks, interpreter and attendants not to receive fees.

The clerk, the deputy-clerk, an assistant to the clerk, the official interpreter, or an attendant, shall not receive any fee or compensation, except his salary, for any official service performed by him.

§ 337. [Am'd, 1877.] Suspension of an officer of the court.

A justice of the court may, by an instrument under his hand, suspend a stenographer, or an officer specified in the last section, for a period not exceeding ten days from the filing thereof. Such an instrument must express the cause of the suspension; it must be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New-York; and it may be revoked, at any time before the expiration of the period of suspension, by an instrument filed in like manner, under the hand of the justice who executed the first instrument, or the hands of a majority of the justices of the court. Where such an instrument has been revoked, the officer shall not be again suspended for the same cause.

From L. 1849, c. 144, § 10. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 338. [Am'd, 1910.] What mandates may be executed without the city.

A mandate of the court can be executed only within the city[1] of New-York, except as follows:

1. An execution upon a judgment rendered therein, for a sum exceeding twenty-five dollars, may be issued out of the court, tested in the name of the chief-justice thereof, to the sheriff of any county, wherein the judgment has been duly docketed.

2. A subpoena may be served within either of the counties of Richmond, Kings, Queens, or Westchester.

[1] By L. 1897, c. 378, § 1345, L. 1901, c. 466, § 1345 (the Charter of New York city), the word "city" in this section means the city of New York as it existed prior to January 1, 1898, i. e., the former city before its consolidation with Brooklyn, Long Island City, etc. The same is true as to the word "city" in §§ 3165, 3169, 3170, 3268, post.

3. A warrant to apprehend a witness for a failure to obey a subpoena, may be executed by the sheriff of the city and county of New York, or a marshal of that city, within either of those counties.

4. [Am'd, 1910.] An order duly made, in an action or special proceeding pending in the court, requiring the performance of an act by a party thereto, or by an officer, may be served upon a person bound to obey the order, and his obedience thereto may be required in any part of the State.

5. An order to show cause, why a person should not be punished for a contempt of the court, may be served by any person in any part of the State.

6. A warrant to apprehend, and bring before the court, a person charged with such a contempt, may be executed by the sheriff of the city and county of New York, or a marshal of that city, in any part of the State.

From L. 1875, c. 479, § 40. Am'd by L. 1910, c. 583 (in effect June 22, 1910).

§ 339. [Am'd, 1895.] Direction and execution of mandates.

In an action brought in the court, an order of arrest, a warrant of attachment, an execution, or a requisition to replevy a chattel, must be directed to and executed by the sheriff. Any other mandate, which must have been directed to and executed by the sheriff of the city and county of New York, if it issued out of the supreme court, may, where it issues out of the city court, be directed to and executed either by that sheriff, or a marshal of that city, named therein. A marshal is entitled to the same fees as the sheriff, upon a mandate directed to him, or upon the service of a summons; and each provision of law, relating to the execution of a mandate by the sheriff, and the power and control of the court over the sheriff executing the same, applies to the marshal. The return of a marshal to such a mandate, or his certificate of the execution thereof, or of the service of any paper served by him, has the same force and effect, as the like return and certificate of a sheriff.

§ 339a. [Added, 1912.] Destruction of records and papers.

The justices of the city court, or a majority of them, may, upon petition of the clerk of such court, by order made at any term thereof, direct the clerk of the court to destroy any records or papers deposited or filed in his office which the justices of the court or a majority of them conclude to be no longer necessary for any purpose whatsoever.

Added by L. 1912, c. 515 (in effect Sept. 1, 1912).

TITLE V.

The county courts.

Sec. 340. Jurisdiction.
341. Domestic corporation, etc., when deemed resident, etc.
342. Action, etc., wherein county judge is incapable to act.
343. Supreme court may remove action, and change place of trial.
344. Effect of order of removal; appeal, etc.
345. Stay of proceedings.
346. Removal of action not to impair process, etc.
347. County court may send its process to any county.
348. When jurisdiction, etc., co-extensive with supreme court.
349. Power of county judge in special proceedings.
350. Fines and penalties; how remitted.
351. Restrictions upon power to remit.
352. Notice of application, etc.; costs to be paid on remission.
353. Fines imposed by justices of the peace; how remitted.
354. Who may make orders.
355. County court; sessions and terms.
356. Power of county judge when holding court in another county.
357. Jurors, how drawn and notified.
358. Stenographers for county courts.
359. Stenographers for county courts in Kings, Queens and Richmond counties.
360. Interpreters for county court, etc., in Kings county.
361. Stenographers.

§ 340. [Am'd, 1877, 1895, 1909, 1910.] Jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction of each county court extends to the following actions and special proceedings, in addition to the jurisdiction, power, and authority, conferred upon a county court, in a particular case, by special statutory provisions:

1. To an action for the partition of real property; for dower; for the foreclosure, redemption, or satisfaction of a mortgage upon real property; or to procure a judgment requiring a specific performance of a contract, relating to real property; where the real property, to which the action relates, is situated within the county; or to foreclose a lien upon a chattel, in a case specified in section 206 of the Lien Law,[1] where the lien does not exceed one thousand dollars in amount, and the chattel is found within the county.

2. To an action in favor of the executor, administrator or assignee of a judgment creditor, or in a proper case, in favor of the judgment creditor, to recover a judgment for money remaining due upon a judgment rendered in the same court.

3. To an action for any other cause, where the defendant is, or, if there are two or more defendants, where all of them are, at the time of the commencement of the action, residents of the county, and wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, not exceeding two thousand dollars; or to recover one or more chattels, the aggregate value of which does not exceed one thousand dollars, with or without damages for the taking or detention thereof.

4. To the custody of the person and the care of the property, concurrently with the supreme court, of a resident of the county, who is incompetent to manage his affairs, by reason of lunacy, idiocy, or habitual drunkenness; or imbecility arising from old age or loss of memory and understanding or other cause; and to every special proceeding, which the supreme court has jurisdiction to entertain, for the appointment of a committee of the person or of the property of such an incompetent person or for the sale or other disposition of the real property situated within the county of a person, wherever resident, who is so incompetent for either of the reasons aforesaid, or who is an infant; or for the sale or other disposition of the real property, situated within the county, of a domestic religious corporation.

§ 341. [Am'd, 1880, 1911, 1914.] Domestic corporation, etc., when deemed resident, etc.

For the purpose of determining the jurisdiction of a county court, in either of the cases specified in the last section, a domestic corporation or joint-stock association, whose principal place of business is established, by or pursuant to a statute, or by its articles of association, or whose principal place of business or any part of its plant or plants, shops, factories or offices is actually located within the county, or in case of a railroad corporation where any portion of the road operated by it is within the county, it is deemed a resident of the county; and personal service of a summons, made within the county, as prescribed in this act, or personal service of a mandate, whereby a special proceeding is commenced, made within the county, as prescribed in this act for personal service of a summons, is sufficient service thereof upon a domestic corporation wherever it is located. Provided, however, that a city which shall include within its boundaries more than one county shall not for the purpose of conferring jurisdiction on a county court be deemed a domestic corporation resident of any county so included.

New. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 320; L. 1911, c. 68; L. 1914, c. 350 (in effect April 15, 1914).

§ 342. [Am'd, 1877.] Action, etc., wherein county judge is incapable to act.

If the county judge is, for any cause, incapable to act in an action or special proceeding, pending in the county court, or before him, he must make, and file in the office of the clerk, a certificate of the fact; and thereupon the special county judge, if any, and if not disqualified, must act as county judge in that action or special proceeding. Upon the filing of the certificate, where there is no special county judge, or the special county judge is disqualified, the action or special proceeding is removed to the supreme court, if it is then pending in the county court; if it is pending before the county judge, it may be continued before any justice of the supreme court within the same judicial district. The supreme court, upon the application of either party, made upon notice, and upon proof that the county judge is incapable to act in an action or special proceeding pending in the county court, may, and if the special county judge is also incapable to act, must, make an order removing it to the supreme court. Thereupon the subsequent proceedings in the supreme court must be the same as if it had originally been brought in that court, except that an objection to the jurisdiction may be taken, which might have been taken in the county court.

From Co. Proc., § 30, subd. 13 (last clause), as am'd by L. 1876, c. 431, § 3. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 343. Supreme court may remove action, and change place of trial.

The supreme court may, by an order, made at any time after joinder of an issue of fact, and before the trial thereof, remove to itself an action, brought in a county court, under subdivision second or subdivision third of the last section but two, for the purpose of changing the place of trial thereof. Where an order for removal is made, as prescribed in this section, the place of trial of the action must be changed by the same order to another county; and the subsequent proceedings therein must be the same, as if the action had been originally brought in the supreme court.

From Co. Proc., § 30, subd. 1 (last clause); see L. 1873, c. 239, § 8.

§ 344. Effect of order of removal; appeal, etc.

An order of removal, made as prescribed in either of the last two sections, takes effect upon the entry thereof in the office of the county clerk. Where the order directs that the action be tried in another county, the clerk with whom it is entered, must forthwith deliver to the clerk of that county, all papers filed therein, and certified copies of all minutes and entries relating thereto; which must be filed, entered, or recorded, as the case requires, in the office of the last mentioned clerk. The provisions of section 271[1] of this act apply to an appeal taken from such an order.

See L. 1873, c. 239, §§ 5, 9.

§ 345. Stay of proceedings.

An order to stay proceedings, for the purpose of affording an opportunity to make the application for removal, may be made by the county judge, or by a judge authorized to make such an order in the supreme court, and with like effect and under like circumstances.

See Id., § 6.

§ 346. Removal of action not to impair process, etc.

The removal of an action or special proceeding, as prescribed in this title, does not invalidate, or in any manner impair, a process, provisional remedy, or other proceeding, or a bond, undertaking, or recognizance in the action or special proceeding so removed; each of which continues to have the same validity and effect, as if the removal had not been made. Where bail was given, the surrender of the defendant in the supreme court has the same effect, as a surrender in the county court would have had, if the action or special proceeding had remained therein.

See Id., § 10.

§ 347. County court may send its process to any county.

A county court has power, in an action or special proceeding of which it has jurisdiction, to send its process and other mandates into any county of the State, for service or execution, and to enforce obedience thereto, with like power and authority as the supreme court.

See Id., § 11.

§ 348. When jurisdiction, etc., co-extensive with supreme court.

Where a county court has jurisdiction of an action or a special proceeding, it possesses the same jurisdiction, power and authority in and over the same, and in the course of the proceedings therein, which the supreme court possesses in a like case; and it may render any judgment, or grant either party any relief, which the supreme court might render or grant in a like case, and may enforce its mandates in like manner as the supreme court. And the county judge possesses the same power and authority, in the action or special proceeding, which a justice of the supreme court possesses, in a like action or special proceeding, brought in the supreme court.

See Id., § 1.

§ 349. Power of county judge in special proceedings.

The county judge also possesses the same power and authority, in a special proceeding, which can be lawfully instituted before him, out of court, which a justice of the supreme court possesses in a like special proceeding, instituted before him in like manner.

See Id., § 1.

§ 350. Fines and penalties; how remitted.

Upon the application of a person, who has been fined by a court, or of a person whose recognizance has become forfeited, or of his surety, the county court of the county in which the term of the court was held, where the fine was imposed, or the recognizance taken, may, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section, upon good cause shown, and upon such terms as it deems just, make an order, remitting the fine, wholly or partly, or the forfeiture of the recognizance, or part of the penalty thereof; or it may discharge the recognizance. If a fine so remitted has been paid, the county treasurer, or other officer, in whose hands the money remains, must pay the same, or the part remitted, according to the order.

§ 351. [Am'd, 1895.] Restrictions upon power to remit.

The last section does not authorize a county court to remit any part of a fine exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars imposed by the supreme court upon conviction for a criminal offense; or a fine to any amount imposed by a court upon an officer or other person, for an actual contempt of court, or for disobedience to its process, or other mandate; or to remit or discharge a recognizance taken in its county for the appearance of a person in another county. In the latter case, the power of remitting or discharging the recognizance is vested in the county court of the county, in which the person is bound to appear.

From 2 R. S. 486 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 6), § 38. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 352. Notice of application, etc.; costs to be paid on remission.

An application for an order, as prescribed in the last section but one, cannot be heard, until such notice thereof as the court deems reasonable, has been given to the district-attorney of the county, and until he has had an opportunity to examine the matter, and prepare to resist the application. And upon granting such an order, the court must always impose, as a condition thereof, the payment of the costs and expenses, if any, incurred in an action or special proceeding for the collection of the fine, or the penalty of the recognizance.

§ 353. Fines imposed by justices of the peace; how remitted.

Where a person has been fined by a court of special sessions, or by a justice of the peace, upon a conviction for an offence, and has been committed to jail for non-payment of the fine, the county court of the county may make an order, remitting the fine, wholly or partly, and discharging him from his imprisonment. The power conferred by this section must be exercised in the manner prescribed, and subject to the provisions contained in the last three sections.

From Id., § 42.

§ 354. Who may make orders.

In an action or special proceeding in a county court, an order may be made without notice, or an order to stay proceedings may be made upon notice, by a justice of the supreme court, or by the county judge of the county where the attorney for the applicant resides, in a case where the county judge, in whose court the action or special proceeding is brought, may make the same, out of court; and with like effect.

See L. 1847, c. 280, § 34.

§ 355. [Am'd, 1877. Bracketed part omitted, 1909; see Table, p. iii.] County court; sessions and terms.

The county court is always open for the transaction of any business, for which notice is not required to be given to an adverse party, except where it is specially prescribed by law, that the business must be done at a stated term. [The county judge must, from time to time, appoint the times and places for holding terms of his court. At least two terms, for the trial of issues of law or of fact, must be appointed to be held in each year. Each term may continue as long as the county judge deems necessary. The county judge may, by a new appointment, change the day appointed for holding a term, or appoint one or more additional terms, or dispense with the holding of a term, without affecting any other term or terms theretofore appointed to be held. Each term must be held at the place designated by statute for that purpose: except that the county judge may, from time to time, adjourn a term to any place within the county, for the hearing and decision of motions and appeals, and trials and other proceedings without a jury; and may appoint as many terms as he thinks proper to be held, either at the court-house or elsewhere in the county, for the same purpose.]

From Co. Proc., § 31, as am'd by L. 1876, c. 431, § 4; L. 1847, c. 470, § 24. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 356. [Added, 1909.] Power of county judge when holding court in another county.

During the period that any county judge shall be in a county other than his own, for the purpose of holding courts therein, he may exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of the county judge of such other county, which said last-mentioned judge is by law authorized to exercise and perform out of court or in vacation; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall empower him to perform the duties of surrogate in such other county.

From L. 1877, c. 11, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909). Former § 356 transferred to Judiciary Law and County Law (see Table on p. iii, ante).

§ 357. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jurors, how drawn and notified.

Jurors for the terms of the county court, at which issues of fact are triable by jury, must be drawn and notified in the same manner as for a trial term of the supreme court.

From Co. Proc., § 32. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§§ 358-361. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

§ 362. When the people will not sue.

The people of the State will not sue a person for or with respect to real property, or the issues or profits thereof, by reason of the right or title of the people to the same, unless either,

1. The cause of action accrued within forty years before the action is commenced; or,

2. The people, or those from whom they claim, have received the rents and profits of the real property, or of some part thereof, within the same period of time.

From Co. Proc., § 75.

§ 363. Action by grantee from the State.

An action shall not be brought for or with respect to real property, by a person claiming by virtue of letters patent or a grant, from the people of the State, unless it might have been maintained by the people, as prescribed in this title, if the patent or grant had not been issued or made.

From Id., § 76.

§ 364. Action after annulling letters patent.

Where letters patent or a grant of real property, issued or made by the people of the State, are declared void by the determination of a competent court, rendered upon an allegation of a fraudulent suggestion or concealment, or of a forfeiture, or mistake, or ignorance of a material fact, or wrongful detaining, or defective title; an action of ejectment, to recover the premises in question, may be commenced, either by the people, or by a subsequent patentee or grantee of the same premises, his heirs, or assigns, within twenty years after the determination is made; but not after that period.

From Id., § 77.

§ 365. Seisin within twenty years, when necessary, etc.

An action to recover real property, or the possession thereof, cannot be maintained by a party, other than the people, unless the plaintiff, his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor, was seized or possessed of the premises in question, within twenty years before the commencement of the action.

From Co. Proc., § 78.

§ 366. The same.

A defence or counterclaim, founded upon the title to real property, or to rents or services out of the same, is not effectual, unless the person making it, or under whose title it is made, or his ancestor, predecessor, or grantor, was seized or possessed of the premises in question, within twenty years before the committing of the act, with respect to which it is made.

From Id., § 79.

§ 367. Action after entry.

An entry upon real property is not sufficient or valid as a claim, unless an action is commenced thereupon, within one year after the making thereof, and within twenty years after the time, when the right to make it descended or accrued.

From Id., § 80.

§ 368. Possession, when presumed; occupation presumed to be under legal title.

In an action to recover real property, or the possession thereof, the person who establishes a legal title to the premises is presumed to have been possessed thereof, within the time required by law; and the occupation of the premises, by another person, is deemed to have been under and in subordination to the legal title, unless the premises have been held and possessed adversely to the legal title, for twenty years before the commencement of the action.

From Id., § 81.

§ 369. Adverse possession under written instrument or judgment.

Where the occupant, or those under whom he claims, entered into the possession of the premises, under claim of title, exclusive of any other right, founding the claim upon a written instrument, as being a conveyance of the premises in question, or upon the decree or judgment of a competent court; and there has been a continued occupation and possession of the premises, included in the instrument, decree, or judgment, or of some part thereof, for twenty years, under the same claim; the premises so included are deemed to have been held adversely: except that where they consist of a tract, divided into lots, the possession of one lot is not deemed a possession of any other lot.

From Id., § 82.

§ 370. Id.; what constitutes it.

For the purpose of constituting an adverse possession, by a person claiming a title, founded upon a written instrument, or a judgment or decree, land is deemed to have been possessed and occupied in either of the following cases:

1. Where it has been usually cultivated or improved.
2. Where it has been protected by a substantial inclosure.
3. Where, although not inclosed, it has been used for the supply of fuel, or of fencing timber, either for the purposes of husbandry, or for the ordinary use of the occupant.

Where a known farm or a single lot has been partly improved, the portion of the farm or lot that has been left not cleared, or not inclosed, according to the usual course and custom of the adjoining country, is deemed to have been occupied for the same length of time, as the part improved and cultivated.

From Id., § 83.

§ 371. Adverse possession under claim of title not written.

Where there has been an actual continued occupation of premises, under a claim of title, exclusive of any other right, but not founded upon a written instrument, or a judgment or decree, the premises so actually occupied, and no others, are deemed to have been held adversely.

From Id., § 84.

§ 372. Id.; what constitutes it.

For the purpose of constituting an adverse possession, by a person claiming title, not founded upon a written instrument, or a judgment or decree, land is deemed to have been possessed and occupied in either of the following cases, and no others:

1. Where it has been protected by a substantial inclosure.
2. Where it has been usually cultivated or improved.

From Id., § 85.

§ 373. Relation of landlord and tenant, as affecting adverse possession.

Where the relation of landlord and tenant has existed between any persons, the possession of the tenant is deemed the possession of the landlord, until the expiration of twenty years after the termination of the tenancy; or, where there has been no written lease, until the expiration of twenty years after the last payment of rent; notwithstanding that the tenant has acquired another title, or has claimed to hold adversely to his landlord. But this presumption shall not be made, after the periods prescribed in this section.

From Id., § 86.

§ 374. Right not affected by descent cast.

The right of a person to the possession of real property is not impaired or affected, by a descent being cast, in consequence of the death of a person in possession of the property.

From Id., § 87.

§ 375. Certain disabilities excluded from time to commence action.

If a person, who might maintain an action to recover real property, or the possession thereof, or make an entry, or interpose a defence or counterclaim, founded on the title to real property, or to rents or services out of the same, is when his title first descends, or his cause of action or right of entry first accrues, either:

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or,
2. Insane; or,
3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life:

The time of such a disability is not a part of the time, limited in this title, for commencing the action, or making the entry, or interposing the defence or counterclaim; except that the time so limited cannot be extended more than ten years, after the disability ceases, or after the death of the person so disabled.

From Id., § 88.

TITLE II.

Actions other than for the recovery of real property.

Sec. 376. When satisfaction of judgment presumed.
377. Effect of return of execution.
378. How presumption raised.
379. Limitation of action to redeem from a mortgage.
380. Other periods of limitation.
381. Within twenty years.
382. Within six years.
383. Within three years.
384. Within two years.
385. Within one year.
386. When cause of action accrues on a current account.
387. Action for penalty, etc., by any person who will sue.
388. Actions not before provided for.
389. Actions by the people subject to the same limitations.
390. Actions against a non-resident, upon a demand barred by the law of his residence.
391. When person liable, etc., dies without the State.
392. Cause of action accruing between the death of a testator or intestate, and the grant of letters.
393. No limitation of action on bank notes, etc.
394. Action against directors, etc., of banks.
395. Acknowledgment of new promise must be in writing.
396. Exceptions, as to persons under disabilities.
397. Defence or counterclaim.

§ 376. [Am'd, 1877, 1894.] When satisfaction of judgment presumed.

A final judgment or decree for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, heretofore rendered in a surrogate's court of the state, or heretofore or hereafter rendered, in a court of record within the United States, or elsewhere, or hereafter docketed pursuant to the provisions of section 3017 of this act, is presumed to be paid and satisfied, after the expiration of twenty years from the time, when the party recovering it was first entitled to a mandate to enforce it. This presumption is conclusive, except as against a person who, within twenty years from that time, makes a payment or acknowledges an indebtedness of some part of the amount recovered by the judgment or decree, or his heir or personal representative, or a person whom he otherwise represents. Such an acknowledgment must be in writing, and signed by the person to be charged thereby.

§ 377. Effect of return of execution.

If the proof of payment, under the last section, consists of the return of an execution partly satisfied, the adverse party may show, in full avoidance of the effect thereof, that the alleged partial satisfaction did not proceed from a payment made, or a sale of property claimed, by him or by a person whom he represents.

New. Suggested by Henderson v. Cairns, 14 Barb. 15.

§ 378. How presumption raised.

A person may avail himself of the presumption created by the last section but one, under an allegation that the action was not commenced, or that the proceeding was not taken, within the time therein limited.

See § 413, post.

§ 379. Limitation of action to redeem from a mortgage.

An action to redeem real property from a mortgage, with or without an account of rents and profits, may be maintained by the mortgagor, or those claiming under him, against the mortgagee in possession, or those claiming under him, unless he or they have continuously maintained an adverse possession of the mortgaged premises, for twenty years after the breach of a condition of the mortgage, or the non-fulfilment of a covenant therein contained.

New.

§ 380. Other periods of limitation.

The following actions must be commenced within the following periods, after the cause of action has accrued.

From Co. Proc., §§ 74, 89.

§ 381. [Am'd, 1877.] Within twenty years.

Within twenty years:

An action upon a sealed instrument.

But where the action is brought for breach of a covenant of seizin, or against incumbrances, the cause of action is, for the purposes of this section only, deemed to have accrued upon an eviction, and not before.

From Id., part of § 90. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 382. [Am'd, 1877, 1894.] Within six years.

Within six years:

1. An action upon a contract obligation or liability, express or implied; except a judgment or sealed instrument.

2. An action to recover upon a liability created by statute; except a penalty or forfeiture.

3. An action to recover damages for an injury to property, or a personal injury; except in a case where a different period is expressly prescribed in this chapter.

4. An action to recover a chattel.

5. An action to procure a judgment, other than for a sum of money, on the ground of fraud, in a case which, on the thirty-first day of December, 1846, was cognizable by the court of chancery. The cause of action, in such a case, is not deemed to have accrued, until the discovery, by the plaintiff, or the person under whom he claims, of the facts constituting the fraud.

6. An action to establish a will. Where the will has been lost, concealed, or destroyed, the cause of action is not deemed to have accrued, until the discovery, by the plaintiff, or the person under whom he claims, of the facts upon which its validity depends.

7. An action upon a judgment or decree, rendered in a court not of record, except where a transcript shall be filed, pursuant to section 3017 of this act, and, also, except a decree heretofore rendered in a surrogate's court of the State. The cause of action, in such a case, is deemed to have accrued when final judgment was rendered.

From Co. Proc., § 91; 2 R. S. 295. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416 and c. 422; L. 1894, c. 307 (in effect April 17, 1894).

§ 383. [Am'd, 1877.] Within three years.

Within three years:

1. An action against a sheriff, coroner, constable, or other officer, for the non-payment of money collected upon an execution.

2. An action against a constable, upon any other liability incurred by him, by doing an act in his official capacity, or by the omission of an official duty; except an escape.

3. An action upon a statute, for a penalty or forfeiture, where the action is given to the person aggrieved, or to that person and the people of the State, except where the statute imposing it prescribes a different limitation.

4. An action against an executor, administrator, or receiver, or against the trustee of an insolvent debtor, appointed, as prescribed by law, in a special proceeding instituted in a court or before a judge, brought to recover a chattel, or damages for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property, by the defendant, or the person whom he represents.

5. An action to recover damages for a personal injury, resulting from negligence.

From Co. Proc., § 92. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 384. [Am'd, 1896, 1900.] Within two years.

Within two years:

1. An action to recover damages for libel, slander, assault, battery, seduction, criminal conversation, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution or malpractice.

2. An action upon a statute, for a forfeiture or penalty to the people of the state.

§ 385. Within one year.

Within one year:

1. An action against a sheriff or coroner, upon a liability incurred by him, by doing an act in his official capacity, or by the omission of an official duty; except the non-payment of money collected upon an execution.

2. An action against any other officer, for the escape of a prisoner, arrested or imprisoned by virtue of a civil mandate.

From Co. Proc., § 94.

§ 386. When cause of action accrues on a current account.

In an action brought to recover a balance due upon a mutual, open, and current account, where there have been reciprocal demands between the parties, the cause of action is deemed to have accrued from the time of the last item, proved in the account on either side.

From Id., § 95.

§ 387. Action for penalty, etc., by any person who will sue.

An action upon a statute for a penalty or forfeiture, given wholly or partly to any person who will prosecute for the same, must be commenced within one year after the commission of the offence; and if the action is not commenced within the year by a private person, it may be commenced within two years thereafter, in behalf of the people of the State, by the attorney-general, or the district-attorney of the county where the offence was committed.

From Id., § 96.

§ 388. Actions not before provided for.

An action, the limitation of which is not specially prescribed in this or the last title, must be commenced within ten years after the cause of action accrues.

From Id., § 97.

§ 389. Actions by the people subject to the same limitations.

The limitations, prescribed in this title, apply alike to actions brought in the name of the people of the State, or for their benefit, and to actions by private persons.

From Id., § 98.

§ 390. [Am'd, 1916.] Action against a non-resident, upon a demand barred by the law of his residence.

Where a cause of action, which does not involve the title to or possession of real property within the State, accrues against a person, who is not then a resident of the State, an action cannot be brought thereon in a court of the State, against him or his personal representative, after the expiration of the time, limited by the laws of his residence, for bringing a like action, provided that if the limitation of the time fixed by the laws of his residence for bringing such action be less than the time fixed by the laws of this State for a like action, the limitation fixed by the laws of this State shall apply. This section shall not apply to a case in which a person is entitled, when this section as amended takes effect, to commence such action, where he commences the same before the expiration of six months after this section as amended takes effect; in which case the provisions of law applicable thereto immediately before this section as amended takes effect shall continue to be so applicable, notwithstanding the repeal thereof.

New. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 536 (in effect May 15, 1916).

§ 390a. [Added, 1902.] Action upon cause of action arising in another state or country and barred by its laws.

Where a cause of action arises outside of this state, an action cannot be brought, in a court of this state, to enforce said cause of action, after the expiration of the time limited by the laws of the state or country where the cause of action arose, for bringing an action upon said cause of action, except where the cause of action originally accrued in favor of a resident of this State. Nothing in this act contained shall affect any pending action or proceeding.

New. Added by L. 1902, c. 193 (in effect Sept. 1, 1902).

§ 391. [Am'd, 1877.] When person liable, etc., dies without the State.

If a person, against whom a cause of action exists, dies without the State, the time which elapses between his death, and the expiration of eighteen months after the issuing, within the State, of letters testamentary or letters of administration, is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of an action therefor, against his executor or administrator.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 392. [Am'd, 1877.] Cause of action accruing between the death of a testator or intestate, and the grant of letters.

For the purpose of computing the time, within which an action must be commenced in a court of the State, by an executor or administrator, to recover personal property, taken after the death of a testator or intestate, and before the issuing of letters testamentary or letters of administration; or to recover damages for taking, detaining, or injuring personal property within the same period; the letters are deemed to have been issued, within six years after the death of the testator or intestate. But where an action is barred by this section, any of the next of kin, legatees, or creditors, who, at the time of the transaction upon which it might have been founded, was within the age of twenty-one years, or insane, or imprisoned on a criminal charge, may, within five years after the cessation of such a disability, maintain an action to recover damages by reason thereof; in which he may recover such sum, or the value of such property, as he would have received upon the final distribution of the estate, if an action had been seasonably commenced by the executor or administrator.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 393. No limitation of action on bank notes, etc.

This chapter does not affect an action to enforce the payment of a bill, note, or other evidence of debt issued by a moneyed corporation, or issued or put in circulation as money.

From Co. Proc., § 108.

§ 394. [Am'd, 1877, 1897.] Action against directors, etc., of banks.

This chapter does not affect an action against a director or stockholder of a moneyed corporation, or banking association, to recover a penalty or forfeiture imposed, or to enforce a liability created by the common law or by statute; but such an action must be brought within three years after the cause of action has accrued.

From Co. Proc., § 109. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1897, c. 281 (in effect Sept. 1, 1897).

§ 395. Acknowledgment or new promise must be in writing.

An acknowledgment or promise contained in a writing, signed by the party to be charged thereby, is the only competent evidence of a new or continuing contract, whereby to take a case out of the operation of this title. But this section does not alter the effect of a payment of principal or interest.

From Co. Proc., § 110.

§ 396. Exceptions, as to persons under disabilities.

If a person, entitled to maintain an action specified in this title, except for a penalty or forfeiture, or against a sheriff or other officer for an escape, is, at the time when the cause of action accrues, either:

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or,
2. Insane; or,
3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life;

The time of such a disability is not a part of the time limited in this title for commencing the action; except that the time so limited cannot be extended more than five years by any such disability, except infancy; or in any case, more than one year after the disability ceases.

From Id., § 101.

§ 397. Defence or counterclaim.

A cause of action, upon which an action cannot be maintained, as prescribed in this title, cannot be effectually interposed as a defence or counterclaim.

TITLE III.

General provisions.

Sec. 398. When action deemed to be commenced.
399. Attempt to commence action in a court of record.
400. Id.; in a court not of record.
401. Exception, when defendant is without the State.
402. Id.; when a person entitled, etc., dies before limitation expires.
403. Id.; when a person liable, etc., dies within the State.
404. In suits by aliens, time of disability in case of war to be deducted.
405. Provision where judgment has been reversed.
406. Stay by injunction, etc., to be deducted.
407. Certain actions by a principal, for misconduct of an agent, etc.
408. Disability must exist when right accrues.
409. If several disabilities, no limitation until all removed.
410. Provision when the action cannot be maintained without a demand.
411. Provision in case of submission to arbitration.
412. Provision when action is discontinued, etc., after answer.
413. How objection taken, under this chapter.
414. Cases to which this chapter applies.
415. Mode of computing periods of limitation.

§ 398. [Am'd, 1877.] When action deemed to be commenced.

An action is commenced against a defendant, within the meaning of any provision of this act, which limits the time for commencing an action, when the summons is served on him; or on a co-defendant who is a joint contractor, or otherwise united in interest with him.

From Co. Proc., § 99. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 399. Attempt to commence action in a court of record.

An attempt to commence an action, in a court of record, is equivalent to the commencement thereof against each defendant, within the meaning of each provision of this act, which limits the time for commencing an action, when the summons is delivered, with the intent that it shall be actually served, to the sheriff, or, where the sheriff is a party, to a coroner of the county, in which that defendant, or one of two or more co-defendants, who are joint contractors, or otherwise united in interest with him, resides or last resided; or, if the defendant is a corporation, to a like officer of the county, in which it is established by law, or wherein its general business is or was last transacted, or wherein it keeps, or last kept, an office for the transaction of business. But in order to entitle a plaintiff to the benefit of this section, the delivery of the summons to an officer must be followed, within sixty days after the expiration of the time limited for the actual commencement of the action, by personal service thereof upon the defendant sought to be charged, or by the first publication of the summons, as against that defendant, pursuant to an order for service upon him in that manner.

From Co. Proc., § 99.

§ 400. Id.; in a court not of record.

The last section, excluding the provision requiring a publication or service of the summons within sixty days, applies to an attempt to commence an action, in a court not of record, where the summons is delivered to an officer authorised to serve the same, within the city or town, wherein the person resides or the corporation is located, as specified in that section; provided that actual service thereof is made with due diligence.

New.

§ 401. [Am'd, 1877, 1888, 1896.] Exception, when defendant is without the State.

If, when the cause of action accrues against a person, he is without the state, the action may be commenced within the time limited therefor, after his return into the state. If, after a cause of action has accrued against a person, he departs from the state, and remains continuously absent therefrom for the space of one year or more, or if, without the knowledge of the person entitled to maintain the action, he resides within the state under a false name, the time of his absence or of such residence within the state under such false name is not a part of the time, limited for the commencement of the action. But this section does not apply while a designation, made as prescribed in section 430 or in subdivision second of section 432 of this act remains in force.

From Co. Proc., § 100. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1888, c. 498; L. 1896, c. 665 (in effect Sept. 1, 1896).

§ 402. Id.; when a person entitled, etc., dies before limitation expires.

If a person, entitled to maintain an action, dies before the expiration of the time limited for the commencement thereof, and the cause of action survives, an action may be commenced by his representative, after the expiration of that time, and within one year after his death.

From Co. Proc., § 102.

§ 403. [Am'd, 1879, 1891, 1896.] Id.; when a person liable, dies within the State.

The term of eighteen months after the death, within this state, of a person against whom a cause of action exists, or of a person who shall have died within sixty days after an attempt shall have been made to commence an action against him pursuant to the provisions of section 399 of this act, is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of an action against his executor or administrator. If letters testamentary or letters of administration upon his estate are not issued, within this state, at least six months before the expiration of the time to bring the action, as extended by the foregoing provision of this section, the term of one year after such letters are issued is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of such an action. The time during which an action is pending in a court of record between a person or persons and an executor or administrator, wherein the person or persons claim to recover from the executor or administrator any money or other property claimed by said executor or administrator to belong to the estate of the decedent, or is embraced in the inventory of the assets of said decedent's estate, is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of an action against an executor or administrator, for a claim against the estate of the decedent until the final determination of the action brought to recover said or other property claimed by said executor or administrator to belong to said decedent's estate:

1. Where the claim against the estate of the decedent is liquidated by the recovery of a judgment thereon against an executor or administrator in an action in a court of record or under section 2718 of this code,[1] after trial on the merits.

[1] This refers to former § 2718 of this Code, before the revision of the Surrogates' Courts Act by L. 1914, c. 443. Parts of this section have been embodied in §§ 2677, 2678 of this Code as it now stands, while the remaining part has been repealed.

2. Where a legatee brings an action, or institutes a proceeding, against an executor or administrator with the will annexed, to enforce the payment of a legacy.

From Co. Proc., § 102; 2 R. S. 448. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1891, c. 70; L. 1896, c. 897 (in effect May 26, 1896).

§ 404. In suits by aliens, time of disability in case of war to be deducted.

Where a person is disabled to sue in the courts of the State, by reason of either party being an alien subject or citizen of a country, at war with the United States, the time of the continuance of the disability is not a part of the time limited for the commencement of the action.

From Co. Proc., § 103.

§ 405. Provision where judgment has been reversed.

If an action is commenced within the time limited therefor, and a judgment therein is reversed on appeal, without awarding a new trial, or the action is terminated in any other manner than by a voluntary discontinuance, a dismissal of the complaint for neglect to prosecute the action, or a final judgment upon the merits; the plaintiff, or, if he dies, and the cause of action survives, his representative, may commence a new action for the same cause, after the expiration of the time so limited, and within one year after such a reversal or termination.

From Id., § 104.

§ 406. Stay by injunction, etc., to be deducted.

Where the commencement of an action has been stayed by injunction, or other order of a court or judge, or by statutory prohibition, the time of the continuance of the stay is not a part of the time, limited for the commencement of the action.

From Id., § 105.

§ 407. Certain actions by a principal, for misconduct of an agent, etc.

Where an injury results from the act or omission of a deputy or agent, the time, within which an action to recover damages by reason thereof, must be commenced by the principal, against the deputy or agent, must be computed from the time, when a judgment against the principal, for the act or omission, is first recovered by the aggrieved person; and a subsequent reversal or setting aside of the judgment does not extend the time.

New.

§ 408. Disability must exist when right accrues.

A person cannot avail himself of a disability, unless it existed when his right of action or of entry accrued.

From Co. Proc., § 106.

§ 409. If several disabilities, no limitation until all removed.

Where two or more disabilities co-exist, when the right of action or of entry accrues, the limitation does not attach, until all are removed.

From Id., § 107.

§ 410. Provision when the action cannot be maintained without a demand.

Where a right exists, but a demand is necessary to entitle a person to maintain an action, the time, within which the action must be commenced, must be computed from the time, when the right to make the demand is complete; except in one of the following cases:

1. Where the right grows out of the receipt or detention of money or property, by an agent, trustee, attorney, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity, the time must be computed from the time, when the person, having the right to make the demand, has actual knowledge of the facts, upon which that right depends.

2. Where there was a deposit of money, not to be repaid at a fixed time, but only upon a special demand, or a delivery of personal property, not to be returned, specifically or in kind, at a fixed time or upon a fixed contingency, the time must be computed from the demand.

New.

§ 411. Provision in case of submission to arbitration.

Where the persons, who might be adverse parties in an action, have entered into a written agreement to submit to arbitration, or to refer the cause of action, or a controversy in which it might be available, or have entered into a written submission thereof to arbitrators; and before an award, or other determination thereupon, the agreement, or submission is revoked, so as to render it ineffectual, by the death of either party thereto, or by the act of the person against whom the action might have been brought; or the execution thereof, or the remedy upon an award or other determination thereunder, is stayed by injunction, or other order procured by him from a competent court or judge; the time which has elapsed, between the entering into the written submission or agreement, and the revocation thereof, or the expiration of the stay, is not a part of the time, limited for the commencement of the action.

New.

§ 412. Provision when action is discontinued, etc., after answer.

Where a defendant in an action has interposed an answer, in support of which he would be entitled to rely, at the trial, upon a defence or counterclaim then existing in his favor, the remedy upon which at the time of the commencement of the action, was not barred by the provisions of this chapter; and the complaint is dismissed, or the action is discontinued, or abates in consequence of the plaintiff's death; the time which intervened, between the commencement and the termination of the action, is not a part of the time, limited for the commencement of an action by the defendant, to recover for the cause of action so interposed as a defence, or to interpose the same defence in another action brought by the same plaintiff, or a person deriving title from or under him.

New.

§ 413. How objection taken, under this chapter.

The objection, that the action was not commenced within the time limited, can be taken only by answer. The corresponding objection to a defence or counterclaim can be taken only by reply; except where a reply is not required, in order to enable the plaintiff to raise an issue of fact, upon an allegation contained in the answer.

From Co. Proc., § 74.

§ 414. Cases to which this chapter applies.

The provisions of this chapter apply, and constitute the only rules of limitation applicable, to a civil action or special proceeding, except in one of the following cases:

1. A case, where a different limitation is specially prescribed by law, or a shorter limitation is prescribed by the written contract of the parties.

2. A cause of action or a defence which accrued before the first day of July, 1848. The statutes then in force govern, with respect to such a cause of action or defence.

3. A case, not included in the last subdivision, in which a person is entitled, when this act takes effect, to commence an action, or to institute a special proceeding, or to take any proceeding therein, or to pursue a remedy upon a judgment, where he commences, institutes, or otherwise resorts to the same, before the expiration of two years after this act takes effect; in either of which cases, the provisions of law applicable thereto, immediately before this act takes effect, continue to be so applicable, notwithstanding the repeal thereof.

4. A case, where the time to commence an action has expired, when this act takes effect.

The word, "action", contained in this chapter, is to be construed, when it is necessary so to do, as including a special proceeding, or any proceeding therein, or in an action.

New.

§ 415. Mode of computing periods of limitation.

The periods of limitation, prescribed by this chapter, except as otherwise specially prescribed therein, must be computed from the time of the accruing of the right to relief by action, special proceeding, defence, or otherwise, as the case requires, to the time when the claim to that relief is actually interposed by the party, as a plaintiff or a defendant, in the particular action or special proceeding.

CHAPTER V.

Commencement of and Parties to an Action.

TITLE I.—Commencement of an Action.
TITLE II.—Parties to an Action.

TITLE I.

Commencement of an action.

Article 1. The summons and accompanying papers; personal service thereof; appearance of the defendant.
2. Substitutes for personal service in special cases.

ARTICLE FIRST.

The summons and accompanying papers; personal service thereof; appearance of the defendant.

Sec. 416. Action to be commenced by summons; time when court acquires jurisdiction.
417. Requisites of summons.
418. Form of summons.
419. Service of copy complaint or notice with summons; consequence of failure.
420. Cases where such service must be made.
421. Appearance of defendant.
422. When defendant must answer before time to appear expires.
423. Notice of no personal claim; effect of service thereof.
424. Effect of voluntary appearance.
425. Summons; when and by whom served. Sheriff's duty.
426. How personal service of summons made upon a natural person.
427, 428. Id.; in certain cases of infancy, or lunacy, etc., not judicially declared.
429. Id.; when delivery of copy to lunatic dispensed with.
430. Designation, by a resident, of a person upon whom to serve a summons during his absence; effect and revocation thereof.
431. How personal service of summons made upon a domestic corporation.
432. Id.; upon a foreign corporation.
433. Service of process, etc., to commence a special proceeding
434. Proof of service of summons, etc.; how made.

§ 416. Action to be commenced by summons; time when court acquires jurisdiction.

A civil action is commenced by the service of a summons. But from the time of the granting of a provisional remedy, the court acquires jurisdiction, and has control of all the subsequent proceedings. Nevertheless, jurisdiction thus acquired is conditional, and liable to be divested, in a case where the jurisdiction of the court is made dependent, by a special provision of law, upon some act, to be done after the granting of the provisional remedy.

From Co. Proc., §§ 127 and 139.

§ 417. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Requisites of summons.

The summons must contain the title of the action, specifying the court in which the action is brought, the names of the parties to the action, and, if it is brought in the supreme court, the name of the county in which the plaintiff desires the trial; and it must be subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney; who must add to his signature his office address, specifying a place within the State where there is a post-office. If in a city, he must add the street, and the street number, if any, or other suitable designation of the particular locality.

§ 418. [Am'd, 1877.] Form of summons.

The summons, exclusive of the title of the action and the subscription, must be substantially in the following form, the blanks being properly filled:

"To the above named defendant: You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action, and to serve a copy of your answer on the plaintiff's attorney within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default, for the relief demanded in the complaint. Dated ."

The summons is deemed the mandate of the court.

§ 419. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Service of copy complaint or notice with summons; consequence of failure.

A copy of the complaint may be served with the summons. If a copy of the complaint is not served with the summons, the plaintiff cannot take judgment by default without application to the court, unless either the defendant appears, or by[1] a notice is served with the summons, stating the sum of money for which judgment will be taken, and the case is one embraced in the next section.

From Co. Proc., § 130. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 420. [Am'd, 1877.] Cases where such service must be made.

Judgment may be taken without application to the court, where the complaint sets forth one or more causes of action, each consisting of the breach of an express contract to pay, absolutely or upon a contingency, a sum or sums of money, fixed by the terms of the contract, or capable of being ascertained therefrom, by computation only; or an express or implied contract to pay money received or disbursed, or the value of property delivered, or of services rendered by, to, or for the use of, the defendant or a third person; and thereupon demands judgment for a sum of money only. This section includes a case, where the breach of the contract, set forth in the complaint, is only partial; or where the complaint shows that the amount of the plaintiff's demand has been reduced by payment, counterclaim, or other credit.

§ 421. Appearance of defendant.

The defendant's appearance must be made by serving upon the plaintiff's attorney, within twenty days after service of the summons, exclusive of the day of service, a notice of appearance, or a copy of a demurrer or of an answer. A notice or pleading so served, must be subscribed by the defendant's attorney, who must add to his signature his office address, with the particulars prescribed in section 417 of this act, concerning the office address of the plaintiff's attorney.

New.

[1] The word "by" is superfluous; inserted by error in engrossing.

§ 422. [Am'd, 1877.] When defendant must answer before time to appear expires.

A defendant, upon whom the plaintiff has served, with the summons, a copy of the complaint, must serve a copy of his demurrer or answer upon the plaintiff's attorney, before the expiration of the time, within which the summons requires him to answer. If a copy of the complaint is not so served, a notice of appearance entitles him only to notice of the subsequent proceedings, unless within the same time he demands the service of a copy of the complaint as prescribed in section 479 of this act.

§ 423. [Am'd, 1877.] Notice of no personal claim; effect of service thereof.

Where a personal claim is not made against a defendant, a notice, subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney, setting forth the general object of the action, a brief description of the property affected by it, if it affects specific real or personal property, and that a personal claim is not made against him, may be served with the summons. If the defendant so served unreasonably defends the action, costs may be awarded against him.

From Co. Proc., § 131. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 424. Effect of voluntary appearance.

A voluntary general appearance of the defendant is equivalent to personal service of the summons upon him.

From Co. Proc., § 189.

§ 425. Summons; when and by whom served. Sheriff's duty.

The summons may be served by any person, other than a party to the action, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law. The plaintiff's attorney may, by an indorsement on the summons, fix a time within which the service thereof must be made: in that case, the service cannot be made afterwards. Where a summons is delivered for service to the sheriff of the county, wherein the defendant is found, the sheriff must serve it and return it, with proof of service, to the plaintiff's attorney, with reasonable diligence.

From Id., § 133.

§ 426. [Am'd, 1879, 1913.] How personal service of summons made upon a natural person.

Personal service of the summons upon a defendant, being a natural person, must be made by delivering a copy thereof, within the State, as follows:

1. If the defendant is an infant, under the age of fourteen years, to his father, mother or guardian; or, if there is none within the State, to the person having the care and control of him, or with whom he resides, or in whose service he is employed. If the defendant is an infant over the age of fourteen years, to the infant in person, and also to his father, mother or guardian; or, if there is none within the state, to the person having the care and control of him, or with whom he resides, or in whose service he is employed. Where the defendant is an infant under the age of fourteen years, the court shall, in the defendant's interest, make an order, requiring a copy of the summons to be also delivered, in behalf of the defendant, to a person designated in the order, and that service of the summons shall not be deemed complete until it is so delivered. Where the defendant is an infant over the age of fourteen years a similar order may be made by the court in its discretion, with or without application therefor.

2. If the defendant is a person judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, in consequence of lunacy, idiocy, or habitual drunkenness, and for whom a committee has been appointed, to the committee, and also to the defendant in person.

3. If the action is against a sheriff, for a cause specified in section 158 of this act, by delivering it to the defendant in person, or to his under-sheriff in person, or at the office of the sheriff during the hours when it is required by law to be kept open, to a deputy-sheriff or a clerk in the employment of the sheriff, or other person in charge of the office.

4. In any other case, to the defendant in person.

§ 427. [Am'd, 1913.] Id.; in certain cases of infancy, or lunacy, etc., not judicially declared.

If the court has, in its opinion, reasonable ground to believe, that the defendant, by reason of habitual drunkenness, or for any other cause, is mentally incapable adequately to protect his rights, although not judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, the court may, in its discretion, with or without an application therefor, and in the defendant's interest, make an order, requiring a copy of the summons to be also delivered, in behalf of the defendant, to a person designated in the order, and that service of the summons shall not be deemed complete, until it is so delivered.

New. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 279 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 428. [Am'd, 1877.] The same.

In a case specified in subdivision first or second of section 426 of this act, where the court has, in its opinion, reasonable ground to believe that the interest of the person, other than the defendant, to whom a copy of the summons has been delivered, is adverse to that of the defendant, or that, for any reason, he is not a fit person to protect the rights of the defendant, it may likewise make an order, as prescribed in the last section. In a case specified in subdivision second, the court may, as a part of the same order, or by a separate order, made in like manner and upon like ground, at any stage of the action, appoint a special guardian ad litem to conduct the defence for the incompetent defendant, to the exclusion of the committee, and with the same powers, and subject to the same liabilities, as a committee of the property.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 429. Id.; when delivery of copy to lunatic dispensed with.

Where the defendant has been judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, in consequence of lunacy, and it appears satisfactorily to the court, by affidavit, that the delivery of a copy of the summons to him, in person, will tend to aggravate his disorder, or to lessen the probability of his recovery, the court may make an order, dispensing with such delivery. In that case a delivery of a copy of the summons, to a committee duly appointed for him, is sufficient personal service upon the defendant.

New.

§ 430. [Am'd, 1877, 1899.] Designation, by a resident, of a person upon whom to serve a summons during his absence; effect and revocation thereof.

A resident of the state, of full age, may execute, under his hand, and acknowledge, in the manner required by law to entitle a deed to be recorded, a written designation of another resident of the state, as a person upon whom to serve a summons, or any process or other paper for the commencement of a civil special proceeding, in any court or before any officer, during the absence from the state of New York of the person making the designation; and may file the same, with the written consent of the person so designated, executed and acknowledged in the same manner, in the office of the clerk of the county, where the person making the designation resides. The designation must specify the occupation, or other proper addition, and the residence of the person making it, and also of the person designated; and it remains in force during the period specified therein, if any; or, if no period is specified for that purpose, for three years after the filing thereof. But it is revoked earlier, by the death or legal incompetency of either of the parties thereto; or by the filing of a revocation thereof, or of the consent, executed and acknowledged in like manner. The clerk must file and record such a designation, consent, or revocation; and must note, upon the record of the original designation, the filing and recording of a revocation. While the designation remains in force, as prescribed in this section, a summons, or any process or other paper for the commencement of a civil special proceeding, against the person making it, in any court or before any officer, may be served upon the person so designated, in like manner and with like effect, as if it were served personally upon the person making the designation, notwithstanding the return of the latter to the state of New York.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1899, c. 524 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 431. How personal service of summons made upon a domestic corporation.

Personal service of the summons upon a defendant, being a domestic corporation, must be made by delivering a copy thereof, within the State, as follows:

1. If the action is against the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New-York,[1] to the mayor, comptroller, or counsel to the corporation.

2. If the action is against any other city, to the mayor, treasurer, counsel, attorney, or clerk: or, if the city lacks either of those officers, to the officer performing corresponding functions, under another name.

3. In any other case, to the president or other head of the corporation, the secretary or clerk to the corporation, the cashier, the treasurer, or a director or managing agent.

From L. 1860, c. 379, § 4; Co. Proc., § 134, subd. 1.

§ 432. [Am'd, 1877, 1903, 1909.] Id.; upon a foreign corporation.[2]

Personal service of the summons upon a defendant, being a foreign corporation, must be made by delivering a copy thereof, within the State, as follows:

1. To the president, vice-president, treasurer, assistant treasurer, secretary or assistant secretary; or, if the corporation lacks either

[1] By the present charter of New York City, its corporate name is "The City of New York," and actions are brought by and against it in this name (L. 1901, c. 466, §§ 3, 262, 263).

[2] Additional rules for the service of a summons upon a foreign corporation will be found in the Banking Law, § 34, and the Insurance Law, § 30.

of those officers, to the officer performing corresponding functions, under another name.

2. To a person designated for the purpose as provided in section 16 of the General Corporation Law.

3. If such a designation is not in force, or if neither the person designated, nor an officer specified in subdivision first of this section, can be found with due diligence, and the corporation has property within the State, or the cause of action arose therein; to the cashier, a director, or a managing agent of the corporation, within the State.

From Co. Proc., § 134, subd. 1; L. 1855, c. 279, §§ 1-3. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1908, c. 311; L. 1909, c. 65 (see Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 433. Service of process, etc., to commence a special proceeding.

The provisions of this article, relating to the mode of service of a summons, apply likewise to the service of any process or other paper, whereby a special proceeding is commenced in a court, or before an officer, except a proceeding to punish for contempt, and except where special provision for the service thereof is otherwise made by law.

From L. 1855, c. 279, § 4.

§ 434. Proof of service of summons, etc.; how made.

Proof of service, as prescribed in this article, must be made by affidavit, except as follows:

If the service was made by the sheriff, it may be proved by his certificate thereof.

2. If the defendant served is an adult, who has not been judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, the service may be proved by a written admission, signed by him, and either acknowledged by him, and certified in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county, or accompanied with the affidavit of a person, other than the plaintiff, showing that the signature is genuine.

A certificate, admission, or affidavit of service of a summons, must state the time and place of service. A written admission of the service of a summons, or of a paper accompanying the same, imports, unless otherwise expressly stated therein, or otherwise plainly to be inferred from its contents, that a copy of the paper was delivered to the person signing the admission.

From Co. Proc., § 138.

445. Defendant when allowed to defend.

§ 435. [Am'd, 1877, 1880, 1913.] Order for service of summons from court of record, when defendant not found, etc.

Where a summons is issued in any court of record, an order for the service thereof upon a defendant, whether a domestic corporation, other than a municipal corporation, a joint-stock or other unincorporated association or a natural person, residing within the state may be made by the court, or a judge thereof, or the county judge of the county where the action is triable upon satisfactory proof, by the affidavit of a person, not a party to the action, or by the return of the sheriff of the county where such defendant resides, or has its principal office or place of business, that proper and diligent effort has been made to serve the summons upon the defendant and that none of the persons mentioned in subdivision three of section 431, nor the president or treasurer of such association, can be found, or if the defendant is a natural person, that the place of his sojourn cannot be ascertained, or if he is within the state, that he avoids service, so that personal service cannot be made.

§ 436. [Am'd, 1877, 1896, 1913.] How service must be made.

The order must direct that the service of the summons be made, by leaving a copy thereof, and of the order, if the defendant is a domestic corporation or joint-stock or other unincorporated association at its principal office or place of business, or if a natural person at the residence of the defendant, with a person of proper age, if upon reasonable application, admittance can be obtained, and such person found who will receive it; or, if admittance cannot be so obtained, nor such a person found, by affixing the same to the outer or other door of the defendant's said place of business or office, or of his residence, and by depositing another copy thereof, properly enclosed in a postpaid wrapper, addressed to the defendant at its said principal office or place of business, or to him at his place of residence, in the post-office at the place where he resides, or where said office, place of business or residence is located, or upon proof being made by affidavit that no such residence can be found, service of the summons may be made in such manner as the court may direct.

§ 437. Papers to be filed; proof of service.

The order, and the papers upon which it was granted, must be filed, and the service must be made, within ten days after the order is granted; otherwise the order becomes inoperative. On filing an affidavit, showing service according to the order, the summons is deemed served, and the same proceedings may be taken thereupon, as if it had been served by publication, pursuant to an order for that purpose, made as prescribed in the next section.

From L. 1853, c. 511.

§ 438. [Am'd, 1879, 1884, 1899, 1909, 1913, 1914.] Cases in which service of summons by publication, etc., may be ordered.

An order directing the service of a summons upon a defendant, by publication, may be made in either of the following cases:

1. [Am'd, 1909, 1913.] Where the defendant to be served is a foreign corporation; or, is an unincorporated association consisting of seven or more persons, having a president and treasurer, neither of whom is a resident of this state; or, being a domestic corporation, where after diligent effort, service cannot be made within the state upon the president or other head of the corporation, the secretary or clerk to the corporation, the cashier, the treasurer or a director or managing agent; or, being a natural person, is not a resident of the state; or where, after diligent inquiry, the defendant remains unknown to the plaintiff, or the plaintiff is unable to ascertain whether the defendant is or is not a resident of the state.

2. Where the defendant, being a resident of the state, has departed therefrom, with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons; or keeps himself concealed therein, with like intent.

3. Where the defendant, being an adult, and a resident of the state, has been continuously without the state of New York more than six months next before the granting of the order, and has not made a designation of a person, upon whom to serve a summons in his behalf, as prescribed in section 430 of this act; or a designation so made no longer remains in force; or service upon the person so designated cannot be made within the state, after diligent effort.

4. Where the complaint demands judgment annulling a marriage, or for a divorce, or a separation.

5. Where the complaint demands judgment, that the defendant be excluded from a vested or contingent interest in or lien upon, specific real or personal property within the state; or that such an interest or lien in favor of either party be enforced, regulated, defined, or limited; or otherwise affecting the title to such property.

7. Where the action is against the stockholders of a corporation, or joint-stock company, and is authorized by a law of the state, and the defendant is a stockholder thereof.

When a copy of the summons is required by subdivision first or subdivision second of section 426 of this act, or by section 429 of this act, to be delivered to a person other than the defendant, an order, directing the service of the summons upon such person by publication, may be made as prescribed in this section, as if such person was the defendant in the action, and upon a verified complaint and the same proof with respect to such person, as is required in the next succeeding section with respect to a defendant. And sections 440 to 444, both inclusive, apply to the proceedings in like manner as if such person was a defendant.

§ 439. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Papers upon which order for publication may be made.

The order must be founded upon a verified complaint, showing a sufficient cause of action against the defendant to be served, and proof by affidavit of the additional facts required by the last section; and also, where the application is made upon the ground that the defendant is a foreign corporation, or not a resident of the State, or in a case specified in subdivision fourth, fifth, or seventh of the last section, that the plaintiff has been or will be unable, with due diligence, to make personal service of the summons.

§ 440. [Am'd, 1879, 1889, 1914.] By whom order may be made; contents of order.

The order may be made by the court or by a judge thereof or the county judge of the county where the action is triable. It must direct that service of the summons, upon the defendant named or described in the order, be made by publication thereof in two newspapers, designated in the order as most likely to give notice to the defendant, for a specified time, which the judge deems reasonable, not less than once a week for six successive weeks. It must also contain, either a direction that, on or before the day of the first publication, the plaintiff deposit in a post-office, one or more sets of copies of the summons, complaint and order, each contained in a securely closed post-paid wrapper, directed to the defendant, at a place specified in the order, or a statement that the court or judge, being satisfied, by the affidavits upon which the order was granted, that the plaintiff cannot, with reasonable diligence, ascertain a place or places, where the defendant would probably receive matter transmitted through the post-office, dispenses with the deposit of any papers therein.

§ 441. [Am'd, 1877, 1914.] When publication must be commenced; when service deemed complete.

The first publication in each newspaper designated in the order, or personal service upon the defendant without the State, in lieu thereof, must be made within three months after the order is granted. For the purpose of reckoning the time within which the defendant must appear or answer, service by publication is complete upon the day of the last publication, pursuant to the order.

From Co. Proc., §§ 135, 137. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1914, c. 346 (in effect Sept. 1, 1914).

§ 442. [Am'd, 1877.] Papers to be filed; notice to defendant.

Where service is made by publication, the summons, complaint, and order, and the papers upon which the order was made, must be filed with the clerk, on or before the day of the first publication; and a notice, subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney, and directed only to the defendant or defendants to be thus served, substantially in the following form, the blanks being properly filled up, must be subjoined to, and published with the summons:

"To : The foregoing summons is served upon you, by publication, pursuant to an order of " (naming the judge and his official title), "dated the day of , 18 , and filed with the complaint, in the office of the clerk of at ."

From Co. Proc., § 135. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 443. [Am'd, 1877, 1914, 1916.] Service without the State.

1. Where service is made without the State under an order for publication of the summons, the papers specified in the last section must be previously filed; and a notice must be served with the summons, in all respects like the notice required by the last section, except that the words, "without the State of New York," must be substituted for the words, "by publication."

2. In all cases when publication is ordered, personal service of a copy of the summons and complaint and such notice, out of the State, is equivalent to publication and deposit in the post-office.

3. In the cases specified in subdivision five of section 438 the summons may be served without an order, upon a defendant without the State in the same manner as if such service were made within the State, except that a copy of the complaint shall be annexed to and served with the summons.

4. Service without the State is complete ten days after proof thereof is filed.

5. [Am'd, 1916.] When the summons is served personally without the state the affidavit of service must show that the person making it is a resident or citizen of the state of New York, or a sheriff, or under sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable of the county or other political subdivision in which the service is made, or an officer authorized by the laws of this state to take acknowledgments of deeds to be recorded in this state, an attorney and counsellor at law duly qualified to practice in the state where such service is made or by a United States marshal.

When such affidavit is made by a resident or citizen of the state of New York, his place of residence, and street number, if any, shall be stated therein. The affidavit of service made without the state shall contain the official designation of the person making it and shall have annexed thereto a certificate of the proper official showing that the person before whom the affidavit was sworn to was, at the time of administering the oath, qualified to act.

6. A judgment shall be conclusive upon a defendant on whom the summons is personally served without the State, with respect to the property which is the subject of the action, or which is attached therein, to the same extent as if the service upon him were made within the State.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1914, c. 346; L. 1916, c. 439 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 444. Proof of service.

Proof of the publication of the summons and notice must be made by the affidavit of the printer or publisher, or his foreman or principal clerk. Proof of deposit in the post-office, or of delivery, of a paper required to be deposited or delivered by the provisions of this article, must be made by the affidavit of the person, who deposited or delivered it.

From Co. Proc., § 138, subd. 3.

§ 445. [Am'd, 1877, 1914.] Defendant when allowed to defend.

Where the summons is served, pursuant to an order made as prescribed in this article, in any other manner than personally without the state and the defendant so served does not appear, he or his representatives, on application and sufficient cause shown, at any time before final judgment, must be allowed to defend the action; and, except in an action for divorce, or wherein the contrary is expressly prescribed by law, such defendant, or his representatives, must, in like manner, upon good cause shown, and upon just terms, be allowed to defend, after final judgment, at any time within one year after personal service of written notice thereof; or, if such a notice has not been served, within seven years after the filing of the judgment-roll. If the defence is successful, and the judgment, or any part thereof, has been collected or otherwise enforced, such restitution may thereupon be compelled, as the court directs; but the title to property, sold to a purchaser in good faith, pursuant to a direction contained in a judgment, or by virtue of an execution issued upon the same, shall not be affected thereby.

From Id., § 135. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1914, c. 346 (in effect Sept. 1, 1914).

TITLE II.

Parties to an action.

Article 1. Parties generally.
2. Parties severally liable.
3. Parties prosecuting and defending as poor persons.
4. Infant plaintiffs and defendants.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Parties generally.

Sec. 446. Who may be joined as plaintiffs.
447. Id.; as defendants.
448. Parties united in interest, when to be joined; when one or more may sue or defend for the whole.
449. Party in interest to sue. Trustee, etc., may sue alone.
450. When married woman is a party.
451. When defendant or his name is unknown.
452. When court to decide controversy or to order other parties to be brought in.
453. Supplemental summons.

§ 446. Who may be joined as plaintiffs.

All persons having an interest in the subject of the action, and in obtaining the judgment demanded, may be joined as plaintiffs, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this act.

§ 447. [Am'd, 1901, 1911.] Who may be joined as defendants.

Any person may be made a defendant who has or claims an interest in the controversy adverse to the plaintiff or who is a necessary party defendant for the complete determination or settlement of a question involved therein, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this act. In any action brought affecting real estate upon which the people of the state of New York have or claim to have a lien under the transfer tax act, the said people of the state of New York may be made a party defendant in the same manner as a private person, but where the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant, as herein provided, the complaint shall set forth, in addition to the matters required to be set forth by the code of civil procedure, the name or names of the decedent or decedents against whose estate there is an unpaid transfer tax, the place of residence of decedent at the time of death, the heirs at law and next of kin of decedent and if decedent left none that fact shall be stated, whether decedent died testate or intestate, and whether the estate of decedent has been administered, and if so where; and if not administered, such facts shall be stated; and also that the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant for no other reason than the lien of said transfer tax. Upon failure to state such facts, the complaint shall be dismissed as to the people of the state of New York. In such a case the summons must be served on the attorney-general, who may appear in behalf of the people.

From Id., § 118. Am'd by L. 1901, c. 609; L. 1911, c. 24 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 448. Parties united in interest, when to be joined; when one or more may sue or defend for the whole.

Of the parties to the action, those who are united in interest must be joined as plaintiffs or defendants, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this act. But if the consent of any one who ought to be joined as a plaintiff, cannot be obtained, he may be made a defendant, the reason therefor being stated in the complaint. And where the question is one of a common or general interest of many persons; or where the persons, who might be made parties, are very numerous, and it may be impracticable to bring them all before the court, one or more may sue or defend for the benefit of all.

From Id., § 119.

§ 449. [Am'd, 1877.] Party in interest to sue. Trustee, etc., may sue alone.

Every action must be prosecuted in the name of the real party in interest, except that an executor or administrator, a trustee of an express trust, or a person expressly authorized by statute, may sue, without joining with him the person for whose benefit the action is prosecuted. A person, with whom or in whose name, a contract is made for the benefit of another, is a trustee of an express trust, within the meaning of this section.

From Id., §§ 111, 113. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 450. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1890, 1909.] When married woman is a party.

In an action or special proceeding a married woman appears, prosecutes or defends alone or joined with other parties as if she was single. It is not necessary or proper to join her husband with her as a party in any action or special proceeding affecting her separate property. The husband is not a necessary or proper party to an action or special proceeding to recover damages to the person, estate or character of his wife. The husband is not a necessary or proper party to an action or special proceeding to recover damages to the person, estate or character of another on account of the wrongful acts of his wife committed without his instigation.[1]

§ 451. [Am'd, 1879.] When defendant or his name is unknown.

Where the plaintiff is ignorant of the name or part of the name of a defendant, he may designate that defendant, in the summons, and in any other process or proceeding in the action, by a fictitious name, or by as much of his name as is known, adding a description, identifying the person intended. Where the plaintiff demands judgment against an unknown person, he may designate that person as unknown, adding a description, tending to identify him. In either case the person intended is thereupon regarded as a defendant in the action, and as sufficiently described therein, for all purposes including service of the summons, as prescribed in article second of the last title. When the name, or the remainder of the name, or the person, becomes known, an order must be made by the court, upon such notice and such terms as it prescribes, that the proceedings already taken be deemed amended, by the insertion of the true name, in place of the fictitious name or part of a name, or the designation as an unknown person; and that all subsequent proceedings be taken under the true name.

From Co. Proc., §§ 175, 135. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

[1] The Domestic Relations Law, § 51, provides that "All sums that may be recovered in actions or special proceedings by a married woman to recover damages to her person, estate or character shall be the separate property of the wife. Judgment for or against a married woman, may be rendered and enforced, in a court of record, or not of record, as if she was single."

§ 452. [Am'd, 1901.] When court to decide controversy, or to order other parties to be brought in.

The court may determine the controversy, as between the parties before it, where it can do so without prejudice to the rights of others, or by saving their rights; but where a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had without the presence of other parties, the court must direct them to be brought in. And where a person, not a party to the action, has an interest in the subject thereof, or in real property, the title to which may in any manner be affected by the judgment, or in real property for injury to which the complaint demands relief, and makes application to the court to be made a party, it must direct him to be brought in by the proper amendment.

§ 453. [Am'd, 1877.] Supplemental summons.

Where the court directs a new defendant to be brought in, and the order is not made upon his own application, a supplemental summons must be issued, directed to him, and in the same form as an original summons; except that, in the body thereof, it must require the defendant to answer the original or the amended complaint, and the supplemental complaint, or either of them as the case requires. And each provision of this chapter, relating to personal service, or a substitute for personal service of an original summons, applies to such a supplemental summons.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Parties severally liable.

Sec. 454. When persons liable for the same demand may be sued together.
455. Defendant so sued may apply for any relief.
456. Proceedings in action against defendants severally liable.
457. Application of this article to defendants jointly liable.

§ 454. [Am'd, 1877.] When persons liable for the same demand may be sued together.

Two or more persons, severally liable upon the same written instrument, including the parties to a bill of exchange or a promissory note, whether the action is brought upon the instrument, or by a party thereto to recover against other parties liable over to him; may, all or any of them, be included as defendants in the same action, at the option of the plaintiff. (2 16

From Co. Proc., § 120. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 455. Defendant so sued may apply for any relief.

The joinder of a person, as defendant in an action, with another person, as prescribed in the last section, does not affect his right to any order or other relief, to which he would have been entitled, if he had been separately sued in the action. (2 16

§ 456. Proceedings in action against defendants severally liable.

Where a summons, issued against two or more defendants alleged to be severally liable, is served upon some, but not upon all of them, the plaintiff may proceed against those upon whom it is served, as if they were the only defendants named therein. Where it is served upon all of them, the plaintiff may take judgment against one or more of them, where he would be entitled to judgment, if the action was against him or them alone. Where judgment is so taken, the clerk must, upon the plaintiff's application, enter an order, directing that the action be severed, and that the plaintiff may proceed against the other defendants. In any subsequent proceeding, the plaintiff may use, together with a certified copy of such an order, a copy of a paper constituting a part of the judgment-roll, with like effect as if it was the original.

From Co. Proc., § 156, subds. 2 and 3.

§ 457. Application of this article to defendants jointly liable.

The last three sections do not affect a defence or other objection of a defendant, growing out of the failure to join in the action two or more persons jointly liable; and, as regards the other parties to the action, persons jointly liable are regarded as one party, for every purpose contemplated by those sections. (2 16

From L. 1832, c. 276, § 2; L. 1835, c. 211, § 1.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Parties prosecuting and defending as poor persons.

Sec. 458. Who may petition for leave to prosecute as a poor person.
459. Contents of petition.
460. When and how leave granted.
461. Not liable for costs and fees.
462. When leave may be annulled.
463. When defendant may petition to defend as a poor person.
464. Contents of petition.
465. Proceedings thereon.
466. Appeal, when party prosecutes or defends as a poor person.
467. Costs in favor of petitioner.

§ 458. [Am'd, 1891.] Who may petition for leave to prosecute as a poor person.

A poor person, whether an adult or infant, not being of ability to sue, who alleges that he has a cause of action against another person, may apply by petition to the court in which the action is pending, or in which it is intended to be brought, for leave to prosecute as a poor person, and to have an attorney and counsel assigned to conduct his action.

From 2 R. S. 444 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 1), § 1. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 170.

§ 459. [Am'd, 1891.] Contents of petition.

The petition must state:

1. The nature of the action brought or intended to be brought.

2. That the applicant is not worth one hundred dollars besides the wearing apparel and furniture necessary for himself and his family, and the subject-matter of the action.

It must be verified by the applicant's affidavit, unless the applicant is an infant under the age of fourteen years, and in that case by the affidavit of his guardian appointed in said action, and supported by a certificate of a counsellor at law to the effect that he has examined the case and is of the opinion that the applicant has a good cause of action.

From 2 R. S. 444 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 1), § 2. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 170.

§ 460. When and how leave granted.

The court to which the petition is presented, if satisfied of the truth of the facts alleged, and that the applicant has a good cause of action, may, by order, admit him to prosecute as a poor person, and assign to him an attorney and counsel to prosecute his action, who must act therein without compensation.

From 2 R. S. 444 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 1), § 3.

§ 461. Not liable for costs and fees.

A person so admitted, may prosecute his action, without paying fees to any officer; and he shall not be prevented from prosecuting the same, by reason of his being liable for the costs of a former action, brought by him against the same defendant. If judgment is rendered against him, or his complaint is dismissed, costs shall not be awarded against him.

From Id., § 4.

§ 462. When leave may be annulled.

If the person so admitted is guilty of improper conduct in the prosecution of his action, or of wilful or unnecessary delay, the court may, in its discretion, annul the order admitting him to prosecute as a poor person; and he shall thereafter be deprived of all the privileges conferred thereby.

From Id., § 5.

§ 463. When defendant may petition to defend as a poor person.

A defendant in an action involving his right, title, or interest, in or to real or personal property, may petition the court, in which the action is pending, for leave to defend the action as a poor person, and to have an attorney and counsel assigned to conduct his defence.

New.

§ 464. Contents of petition.

The petition must contain the same matters, respecting the ability of the petitioner, required to be contained in a petition for leave to prosecute as a poor person; and it must be supported by a similar certificate, relating to the defence.

New.

§ 465. Proceedings thereon.

The provisions of this article, relating to the order, to be made upon an application for leave to prosecute as a poor person, and the proceedings subsequent thereto, apply to the order and subsequent proceedings, upon an application for leave to defend as a poor person.

New.

§ 466. Appeal when party prosecutes or defends as a poor person.

An order, made as prescribed in this article, does not authorize the petitioner to take or maintain an appeal, as a poor person; but where an appeal is taken by the adverse party, the order is applicable, in favor of the petitioner, as respondent in the appeal.

New.

§ 467. Costs in favor of petitioner.

Where costs are awarded in favor of a person, who had been admitted to prosecute or defend as a poor person, as prescribed in this article, they must be paid over to his attorney, when collected from the adverse party, and distributed among the attorney and counsel assigned to the poor person, as the court directs.

New.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Infant plaintiffs and defendants.

Sec. 468. Right of infant to bring action.
469. Guardian for infant plaintiff must be appointed.
470. Application therefor.
471. Application for appointment of guardian for infant defendant.
472. Guardian, how appointed. Clerk, when to act.
473. Guardian for absent infant defendant.
474. Guardian not to receive property until security given.
475. Security.
476. Last two sections not to apply to general guardian.
477. Liability of defendant's guardian for costs.
477a. Appointment of guardians ad litem and special guardians by supreme court without application.

§ 468. Right of infant to bring action.

Where an infant has a right of action, he is entitled to maintain an action thereon; and the same shall not be deferred or delayed, on account of his infancy.

From 2 R. S. 446 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 2), § 1.

§ 469. [Am'd, 1891.] Guardian for infant plaintiff must be appointed.

Before a summons is issued, in the name of an infant plaintiff, a competent and responsible person must be appointed, to appear as his guardian for the purpose of the action, who shall be responsible for the costs thereof, except where such infant prosecutes as a poor person as provided for under section 459 of this act, in which case security for costs shall not be required.

From Id., § 2; Co. Proc., § 115. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 170, § 3.

§ 470. Application therefor.

The guardian must be appointed upon the application of the infant, if he is of the age of fourteen years, or upwards; or, if he is under that age, upon the application of his general or testamentary guardian, if he has one, or of a relative or friend. If the application is made by a relative or friend, notice thereof must be given to his general or testamentary guardian, if he has one; or, if he has none, to the person with whom the infant resides.

From Co. Proc., § 116, subd. 1.

§ 471. [Am'd, 1879.] Application for appointment of guardian for infant defendant.

An infant defendant must also appear by guardian, who must be a competent and responsible person, appointed upon the application of the infant, if he is of the age of fourteen years, or upwards, and applies within twenty days after personal service of the summons, or after service thereof is complete, as prescribed in section 441 of this act; or if he is under that age, or neglects so to apply, upon the application of any other party to the action, or of a relative or friend of the infant. Where the application is made by a person other than the infant, notice thereof must be given to his general or testamentary guardian, if he has one within the State; or, if he has none, to the infant himself, if he is of the age of fourteen years, or upwards, and within the State; or, if he is under that age, and within the State, to the person with whom he resides.

From Id., § 116, subd. 2. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 472. [Am'd, 1879.] Guardian, how appointed. Clerk, when to act.

The court in which the action is brought, or a judge thereof, or if the action is brought in the supreme court, the county judge of the county where the action is triable, may appoint a guardian ad litem for an infant, either plaintiff or defendant, as prescribed in this article. The clerk must act in that capacity for an infant defendant where the court or the judge appoints him. No person, other than the clerk, shall be appointed a guardian ad litem, unless his written consent, duly acknowledged, is produced to the court or judge making the appointment.

From Co. Proc., § 115; 2 R. S. 446 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 2), § 4. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 473. [Am'd, 1877, 1889.] Guardian for absent infant defendant.

Where an infant defendant resides out of the State or resides within the State, and is temporarily absent therefrom, the court may, in its discretion, make an order designating a person to be his guardian ad litem, unless he, or some one in his behalf, procures such a guardian to be appointed, as prescribed in the last two sections, within a specified time after service of a copy of the order. The court must give special directions in the order, respecting the service thereof, which may be upon the infant. The summons may be served by delivering a copy to the guardian so appointed, with like effect as where a summons is served without the State upon an adult defendant, pursuant to an order for that purpose, granted as prescribed in section 438 of this act; except that the time to appear or answer is twenty days after the service of the summons, exclusive of the day of service.

From Co. Proc., § 116. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1889, c. 494.

§ 474. Guardian not to receive property until security given.

Except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, a guardian, appointed for an infant, as prescribed in this article, shall not be permitted to receive money or property of the infant, other than costs and expenses allowed to the guardian by the court, until he has given sufficient security, approved by a judge of the court, or a county judge, to account for and apply the same, under the direction of the court.

From Co. Proc., § 420.

§ 475. Security.

The security must be a bond to the infant, in such penalty as the judge directs, not less than twice the sum, or the value of the property, to be received, executed by the guardian and at least two sureties, approved by the judge, and filed in the office of the clerk. The infant, or any other party to the action, may afterwards apply for an order, directing a new bond to be given, with an increased penalty; or the court may so direct, of its own motion.

From 2 R. S. 446 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 2), § 5.

§ 476. Last two sections not to apply to general guardian.

The last two sections do not apply to the general guardian of the infant, who has been appointed his guardian ad litem, as prescribed in this article; but the court may, at any time, require the general guardian to give additional security for the faithful discharge of his trust, before receiving money or property of the infant, under a judgment or order in the action.

See Rule 54 of General Rules of Practice.

§ 477. Liability of defendant's guardian for costs.

A person appointed guardian, as prescribed in this article, for an infant defendant in an action, is not liable for the costs of the action, unless specially charged therewith by the order of the court, for personal misconduct. (205)

From 2 R. S. 447 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 2), § 12.

§ 477a. [Added, 1916.] Appointment of guardians ad litem and special guardians by supreme court without application.

The supreme court may appoint a guardian ad litem or special guardian for an infant or an incompetent person, at any stage in any action or proceeding, when it appears to the court necessary for the proper protection of the rights and interest of such infant or incompetent person and fix the fees and compensation of such guardians, except when it is otherwise expressly provided by law. (207)

Added by L. 1916, c. 440 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

CHAPTER VI.

Pleadings in Courts of Record, including Counterclaims.

TITLE I.— The Consecutive Pleadings in an Action.
TITLE II.— Provisions Generally Applicable to Pleadings.

TITLE I.

The consecutive pleadings in an action.

Article 1. Complaint.
2. Demurrer.
3. Answer.
4. Reply.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Complaint.

Sec. 478. First pleading to be complaint.
479. Copy complaint, when to be served.
480. Consequence of failure.
481. Complaint; what to contain.
482. When interlocutory and final judgment may be demanded.
483. Causes of action to be separately stated.
484. What causes of action may be joined in the same complaint.
485, 486. [Stricken out.]

§ 478. First pleading to be complaint.

The first pleading, on the part of the plaintiff, is the complaint.

From Co. Proc., § 141.

§ 479. [Am'd, 1877.] Copy complaint, when to be served.

If a copy of the complaint is not delivered to a defendant, at the time of the delivery of a copy of the summons to him, either within or without the State, his attorney may, at any time within twenty days after the service of the summons is complete, serve upon the plaintiff's attorney a written demand of a copy of the complaint, which must be served within twenty days thereafter. The demand may be incorporated into the notice of appearance. But where the same attorney appears for two or more defendants, only one copy of the complaint need be served upon him; and if, after service of a copy of the complaint upon him, as attorney for a defendant, he appears for another defendant, the last defendant must answer the complaint within twenty days after he appears in the action.

From Co. Proc., § 130. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 480. Consequence of failure.

If the plaintiff's attorney fails to serve a copy of the complaint, as prescribed in the last section, the defendant may apply to the court for a dismissal of the complaint.

New.

§ 481. [Am'd, 1904, 1905.] Complaint; what to contain.

The complaint must contain:

1. The title of the action, specifying the name of the court in which it is brought; if it is brought in the supreme court, the name of the county, which the plaintiff designates as the place of trial; and the names of all the parties to the action, plaintiff and defendant.

2. A plain and concise statement of the facts constituting each cause of action without unnecessary repetition.

3. A demand of the judgment to which the plaintiff supposes himself entitled.

From Co. Proc., § 142. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 500; L. 1905, c. 431 (in effect May 16, 1905).

§ 482. [Am'd, 1877.] When interlocutory and final judgment may be demanded. (2 5 6)

In an action triable by the court, without a jury, the plaintiff may, in a proper case, demand an interlocutory judgment, and also a final judgment, distinguishing them clearly.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 483. Causes of action to be separately stated. Rule 90

Where the complaint sets forth two or more causes of action, the statement of the facts constituting each cause of action must be separate and numbered.

From Co. Proc., § 167.

§ 484. [Am'd, 1877, 1900, 1906, 1907, 1909.] What causes of action may be joined in the same complaint. (2 5 8)

The plaintiff may unite in the same complaint, two or more causes of action, whether they are such as were formerly denominated legal or equitable, or both, where they are brought to recover as follows:

1. Upon contract, express or implied.
2. For personal injuries except libel, slander, criminal conversation or seduction.
3. For libel or slander.
4. For injuries to real property.
5. Real property, in ejectment, with or without damages for the withholding thereof.
6. For injuries to personal property.
7. Chattels, with or without damages for the taking or detention thereof.
8. Upon claims against a trustee, by virtue of a contract, or by operation of law.
9. Upon claims arising out of the same transaction, or transactions connected with the same subject of action, and not included within one of the foregoing subdivisions of this section.
10. For penalties incurred under the forest, fish and game law.
11. For penalties incurred under the agricultural law.
12. For penalties incurred under the public health law.

But it must appear, on the face of the complaint, that all the causes of action, so united, belong to one of the foregoing subdivisions of this section; that they are consistent with each other; and, except as otherwise prescribed by law, that they affect all the parties to the action; and it must appear upon the face of the complaint, that they do not require different places of trial.

From Co. Proc., § 167. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1900, c. 590; L. 1906, c. 29; L. 1907, c. 26; L. 1909, c. 65.

ARTICLE SECOND

Demurrer.

Sec. 487. Defendant must demur or answer.
488. When he may demur.
489. [Stricken out.]
490. Demurrer to complaint must specify grounds of objection.
491. [Stricken out.]
492. Demurrer to all or part of the complaint; demurrer to part, and answer to part.
493. Defendant may demur to reply.
494. When plaintiff may demur to answer.
495. Demurrer to counterclaim, when defendant demands an affirmative judgment.
496. Demurrer to counterclaim must specify grounds of objection.
497. Amendments in certain cases after decision of demurrer.
498. When objection may be taken by answer.
499. Objection; when deemed waived.

§ 487. Defendant must demur or answer.

The only pleading, on the part of the defendant, is either a demurrer or an answer.

From Co. Proc., § 143.

§ 488. [Am'd, 1877.] When he may demur.

The defendant may demur to the complaint, where one or more of the following objections thereto appear upon the face thereof:

1. That the court has not jurisdiction of the person of the defendant.
2. That the court has not jurisdiction of the subject of the action.
3. That the plaintiff has not legal capacity to sue.
4. That there is another action pending between the same parties, for the same cause.
5. That there is a misjoinder of parties plaintiff.
6. That there is a defect of parties, plaintiff or defendant.
7. That causes of action have been improperly united.
8. That the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

From Id., § 144. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 489. [Stricken out by L. 1877, c. 416.]

§ 490. [Am'd, 1877.] Demurrer to complaint must specify grounds of objection.

The demurrer must distinctly specify the objections to the complaint; otherwise it may be disregarded. An objection, taken under subdivision first, second, fourth, or eighth of section 488 of this act, may be stated in the language of the subdivision; an objection, taken under either of the other subdivisions, must point out specifically the particular defect relied upon.

From Co. Proc., § 145. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 491. [Stricken out by L. 1877, c. 416.]

§ 492. Demurrer to all or part of the complaint; demurrer to part, and answer to part.

The defendant may demur to the whole complaint, or to one or more separate causes of action, stated therein. In the latter case, he may answer the causes of action not demurred to.

From Co. Proc., §§ 145, 151.

§ 493. Defendant may demur to reply.

The defendant may also demur to the reply, or to a separate traverse to, or avoidance of, a defence or counterclaim, contained in the reply, on the ground that it is insufficient in law, upon the face thereof.

From Co. Proc., § 155.

§ 494. When plaintiff may demur to answer.

The plaintiff may demur to a counterclaim or a defence consisting of new matter, contained in the answer, on the ground that it is insufficient in law, upon the face thereof.

From Id., § 153.

§ 495. [Am'd, 1877.] Demurrer to counterclaim, when defendant demands an affirmative judgment.

The plaintiff may also demur to a counterclaim, upon which the defendant demands an affirmative judgment, where one or more of the following objections thereto, appear on the face of the counterclaim:

1. That the court has not jurisdiction of the subject thereof.
2. That the defendant has not legal capacity to recover upon the same.
3. That there is another action pending between the same parties, for the same cause.
4. That the counterclaim is not of the character specified in section 501 of this act.
5. That the counterclaim does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

(278)

See Co. Proc., § 153. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 496. [Am'd, 1877.] Demurrer to counterclaim must specify grounds of objection.

A demurrer, taken under the last section, must distinctly specify the objections to the counterclaim; otherwise it may be disregarded. The mode of specifying the objections is the same, as where a demurrer is taken to a complaint.

See Co. Proc., § 153. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 497. [Am'd, 1877.] Amendments in certain cases after decision of demurrer.

Upon the decision of a demurrer, either at a general or special term, or in the court of appeals, the court may, in its discretion, allow the party in fault to plead anew or amend, upon such terms as are just. If a demurrer to a complaint is allowed, because two or more causes of action have been improperly united, the court may, in its discretion, and upon such terms as are just, direct that the action be divided into as many actions, as are necessary for the proper determination of the causes of action therein stated.

From Co. Proc., § 172. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 498. [Am'd, 1877.] When objection may be taken by answer.

Where any of the matters enumerated in section 488 of this act as grounds of demurrer, do not appear on the face of the complaint, the objection may be taken by answer.

From Co. Proc., § 147. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 489. Objection; when deemed waived.

If such an objection is not taken, either by demurrer or answer, the defendant is deemed to have waived it; except the objection to the jurisdiction of the court, or the objection that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action

From Co. Proc., § 148.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Answer.

Sec. 500. Answer; what to contain.
501. Counterclaim defined.
502. Rules respecting the allowance of counterclaims.
503. Judgment, when demand and counterclaim are equal or unequal.
504. Id.; for affirmative relief.
505. Counterclaim, when defendant is sued in a representative capacity.
506. Id.; when plaintiff is an executor or administrator.
507. Defendant may interpose several defences or counterclaims; rules relating thereto.
508. Partial defences.
509. When defendant to demand affirmative judgment.
510. [Stricken out.]
511. When pleadings admit part of plaintiff's claim to be just, action may be severed, etc.
512. Judgment, where counterclaim only is interposed for less than plaintiff's claim.
513. Dilatory defences to be verified.

§ 500. [Am'd, 1877, 1904, 1905.] Answer; what to contain. (261)

The answer of the defendant must contain:

1. A general or specific denial of each material allegation of the complaint controverted by the defendant, or of any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief.

2. A statement of any new matter constituting a defence or counterclaim, in ordinary and concise language without repetition.

From Co. Proc., § 149. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1904, c. 500; L. 1905, c. 431 (in effect May 16, 1905).

§ 501. [Am'd, 1877.] Counterclaim defined.

The counterclaim, specified in the last section, must tend, in some way, to diminish or defeat the plaintiff's recovery, and must be one of the following causes of action against the plaintiff, or, in a proper case, against the person whom he represents, and in favor of the defendant, or of one or more defendants, between whom and the plaintiff a separate judgment may be had in the action: (266)

1. A cause of action arising out of the contract or transaction, set forth in the complaint as the foundation of the plaintiff's claim, or connected with the subject of the action.

2. In an action on contract, any other cause of action on contract, existing at the commencement of the action.

From Co. Proc., § 150. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 502. [Am'd, 1877.] Rules respecting the allowance of counterclaims.

But the counterclaim, specified in subdivision second of the last section, is subject to the following rules:

1. If the action is founded upon a contract, which has been assigned by the party thereto, other than a negotiable promissory note or bill of exchange, a demand, existing against the party thereto, or an assignee of the contract, at the time of the assignment thereof, and belonging to the defendant, in good faith, before notice of the assignment, must be allowed as a counterclaim, to the amount of the plaintiff's demand, if it might have been so allowed against the party, or the assignee, while the contract belonged to him.

2. If the action is upon a negotiable promissory note or bill of exchange, which has been assigned to the plaintiff after it became due, a demand, existing against a person who assigned or transferred it, after it became due, must be allowed as a counterclaim, to the amount of the plaintiff's demand, if it might have been so allowed against the assignor, while the note or bill belonged to him.

3. If the plaintiff is a trustee for another, or if the action is in the name of a plaintiff, who has no actual interest in the contract upon which it is founded, a demand against the plaintiff shall not be allowed as a counterclaim; but so much of a demand existing against the person whom he represents, or for whose benefit the action is brought, as will satisfy the plaintiff's demand, must be allowed as a counterclaim, if it might have been so allowed in an action brought by the person beneficially interested.

From 2 R. S. 354 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 2), § 18, subds. 7-10. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 503. [Am'd, 1877.] Judgment, when demand and counterclaim are equal or unequal.

Where a counterclaim is established, which equals the plaintiff's demand, the judgment must be in favor of the defendant. Where it is less than the plaintiff's demand, the plaintiff must have judgment for the residue only. Where it exceeds the plaintiff's demand, the defendant must have judgment for the excess, or so much thereof as is due from the plaintiff. Where part of the excess is not due from the plaintiff, the judgment does not prejudice the defendant's right to recover, from another person, so much thereof as the judgment does not cancel.

§ 504. Id.; for affirmative relief.

In a case not specified in the last section, where a counterclaim is established, which entitles the defendant to an affirmative judgment, demanded in the answer, judgment must be rendered for the defendant accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 263, last clause.

§ 505. Counterclaim, when defendant is sued in a representative capacity.

In an action against an executor or an administrator, or other person sued in a representative capacity, the defendant may set forth, as a counterclaim, a demand belonging to the decedent, or other person whom he represents, where the person so represented would have been entitled to set forth the same, in an action against him.

From 2 R. S. 355, § 25.

§ 506. Id.; when plaintiff is an executor or administrator.

In an action brought by an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, a demand against the decedent, belonging, at the time of his death, to the defendant, may be set forth by the defendant as a counterclaim, as if the action had been brought by the decedent in his life-time; and, if a balance is found to be due to the defendant, judgment must be rendered therefor against the plaintiff, in his representative capacity. Execution can be issued upon such a judgment only in a case where it could be issued upon a judgment in an action against the executor or administrator.

§ 507. [Am'd, 1879.] Defendant may interpose several defences or counterclaims; rules relating thereto.

A defendant may set forth, in his answer, as many defences or counterclaims, or both, as he has, whether they are such as were formerly denominated legal or equitable. Each defence or counterclaim must be separately stated, and numbered. Unless it is interposed as an answer to the entire complaint, it must distinctly refer to the cause of action which it is intended to answer.

From Co. Proc., § 150. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 508. [Am'd, 1877.] Partial defences.

A partial defence may be set forth, as prescribed in the last section; but it must be expressly stated to be a partial defence to the entire complaint, or to one or more separate causes of action, therein set forth. Upon a demurrer thereto, the question is, whether it is sufficient for that purpose. Matter tending only to mitigate or reduce damages, in an action to recover damages for the breach of a promise to marry, or for a personal injury, or an injury to property, is a partial defence, within the meaning of this section.

New. See § 536, post. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 509. [Am'd, 1877.] When defendant to demand affirmative judgment.

Where the defendant deems himself entitled to an affirmative judgment against the plaintiff, by reason of a counterclaim interposed by him, he must demand the judgment in his answer.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 511. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] When pleadings admit part of plaintiff's claim to be just, action may be severed, etc.

Where the answer of the defendant, expressly or by not denying, admits a part of the plaintiff's claim to be just, the court, upon the plaintiff's motion, may, in its discretion, order that the action be severed; that a judgment be entered for the plaintiff for the part so admitted; and if the plaintiff so elects, that the action be continued, with like effect, as to the subsequent proceedings, as if it had been originally brought for the remainder of the claim. The order must prescribe the time and manner of the plaintiff's election. If the plaintiff elects to continue the action, his right to costs upon the judgment is the same, as if it was taken in an action brought for only that part of the claim. If the plaintiff does not elect to continue the action, costs must be awarded, as upon final judgment in any other case.

§ 512. Judgment, where counterclaim only is interposed for less than plaintiff's claim.

In an action upon contract, where the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, if the defendant, by his answer, does not deny the plaintiff's claim, but sets up a counterclaim amounting to less than the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff, upon filing with the clerk an admission of the counterclaim, may take judgment for the excess, as upon a default for want of an answer. The admission must be made a part of the judgment-roll.

From Co. Proc., § 246.

§ 513. Dilatory defences to be verified.

A defence which does not involve the merits of the action, shall not be pleaded, unless it is verified as prescribed in title second of this chapter.

From 2 R. S. 352 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 2), § 7.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Reply. (272-273-274)

Sec. 514. Reply; what to contain.
515. Judgment upon failure to reply.
516. Cases where the court may require a reply.
517. Plaintiff may set forth several avoidances in reply.

§ 514. [Am'd, 1877, 1904, 1905.] Reply; what to contain.

Where the answer contains a counterclaim, the plaintiff, if he does not demur, may reply to the counterclaim. The reply must contain a general or specific denial of each material allegation of the counterclaim controverted by the plaintiff, or of any knowledge or information thereof sufficient to form a belief; and it may set forth in ordinary and concise language, without repetition, new matter not inconsistent with the complaint, constituting a defense to the counterclaim.

From Co. Proc., § 153. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1904, c. 500; L. 1905, c. 431 (in effect May 16, 1905).

§ 515. Judgment upon failure to reply.

If the plaintiff fails to reply or demur to the counterclaim, the defendant may apply, upon notice, for judgment thereupon; and, if the case requires it, a reference may be ordered, or a writ of inquiry may be issued, as prescribed in chapter eleventh of this act, where the plaintiff applies for judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 154.

§ 516. Cases where the court may require a reply.

Where an answer contains new matter, constituting a defence by way of avoidance, the court may, in its discretion, on the defendant's application, direct the plaintiff to reply to the new matter. In that case, the reply, and the proceedings upon failure to reply, are subject to the same rules as in the case of a counterclaim.

From Id., § 153.

§ 517. [Am'd, 1877.] Plaintiff may set forth several avoidances in reply.

A reply may contain two or more distinct avoidances of the same defence or counterclaim; but they must be separately stated and numbered.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

TITLE II.

Provisions generally applicable to pleadings. (275-276

Sec. 518. Application and effect of this chapter.
519. Pleadings to be liberally construed.
520. Pleadings to be subscribed; within what time to be served.
521. When defendant to serve copy answer on co-defendant.
522. Allegation not denied; when to be deemed true.
523. When pleading must be verified; and when verification may be omitted.
524. Form and construction of certain allegations and denials in verified pleading.
525. Verification; how and by whom made.
526. Form of affidavit of verification.
527. When verification may be confined to a counterclaim.
528. Remedy for defective verification, or want of verification.
529. When defendant not excused from verifying answer to charge of fraud.
530. Private statute; how pleaded.
531. Account; how pleaded. Bill of particulars.
532. Judgment. How pleaded.
533. Conditions precedent; how pleaded.
534. Instrument for payment of money; how pleaded.
535. Pleadings in libel and slander.
536. Pleading mitigating circumstances, in action for a wrong.
537. Frivolous pleadings; how disposed of.
538. Sham defences to be stricken out.
539. Material variances; how provided for.
540. Immaterial variances; how provided for.
541. What to be deemed a failure of proof.
542. Amendments of course.
543. Amended pleading to be served; answer thereto.
544. Supplemental pleadings.
545. Motion to strike out irrelevant, etc., matter.
546. Indefinite or uncertain allegations.
547. Judgment on the pleadings

§ 518. Application and effect of this chapter.

This chapter prescribes the form of pleadings in an action, and the rules by which the sufficiency thereof is determined, except where special provision is otherwise made by law.

From Co. Proc., § 140.

§ 519. Pleadings to be liberally construed.

The allegations of a pleading must be liberally construed, with a view to substantial justice between the parties.

From Co. Proc., § 159.

§ 520. Pleadings to be subscribed; within what time to be served.

A pleading must be subscribed by the attorney for the party. A copy of each pleading, subsequent to the complaint, must be served on the attorney for the adverse party, within twenty days after service of a copy of the preceding pleading. (276

From Co. Proc., § 150.

§ 521. [Am'd, 1884.] When defendant to serve copy answer on co-defendant.

Where the judgment may determine the ultimate rights of two or more defendants, as between themselves, a defendant who requires such a determination must demand it in his answer, and must at least twenty days before the trial serve a copy of his answer upon the attorney for each of the defendants to be affected by the determination, and personally, or as the court or (276 judge may direct, upon defendants, so to be affected who have not duly appeared therein by attorney. The controversy between the defendants shall not delay a judgment, to which the plaintiff is entitled, unless the court otherwise directs.

New. Am'd by L. 1884, c. 400.

§ 522. Allegation not denied; when to be deemed true. (243)

Each material allegation of the complaint, not controverted by the answer, and each material allegation of new matter in the answer, not controverted by the reply, where a reply is required, must, for the purposes of the action, be taken as true. But an allegation of new matter in the answer, to which a reply is not required, or of new matter in a reply, is to be deemed controverted by the adverse party, by traverse or avoidance, as the case requires.

From Co. Proc., § 168.

§ 523. When pleading must be verified; and when verification may be omitted. (248)

Where a pleading is verified, each subsequent pleading, except a demurrer, or the general answer of an infant by his guardian ad litem, must also be verified. But the verification may be omitted, in a case where it is not otherwise specially prescribed by law, where the party pleading would be privileged from testifying, as a witness, concerning an allegation or denial contained in the pleading. A pleading cannot be used, in a criminal prosecution against the party, as proof of a fact admitted or alleged therein.

From Id., §§ 156, 157; L. 1854, c. 75.

The allegations or denials in a verified pleading must, in form, be stated to be made by the party pleading. Unless they are therein stated to be made upon the information and belief of the party, they must be regarded, for all purposes, including a criminal prosecution, as having been made upon the knowledge of the person verifying the pleading. An allegation that the party has not sufficient knowledge or information, to form a belief, with respect to a matter, must, for the same purposes, be regarded as an allegation that the person verifying the pleading has not such knowledge or information.

New.

§ 525. [Am'd, 1879.] Verification; how and by whom made.

The verification must be made by the affidavit of the party, or, if there are two or more parties united in interest, and pleading together, by at least one of them, who is acquainted with the facts, except as follows:

1. Where the party is a domestic corporation, the verification must be made by an officer thereof.

2. Where the people of the State are, or a public officer, in their behalf, is the party, the verification may be made by any person acquainted with the facts.

3. Where the party is a foreign corporation; or where the party is not within the county where the attorney resides, or if the latter is not a resident of the State, the county where he has his office, and capable of making the affidavit; or if there are two or more parties united in interest, and pleading together, where neither of them, acquainted with the facts is within that county, and capable of making the affidavit; or where the action or defence is founded upon a written instrument for the payment of money only, which is in the possession of the agent or the attorney; or where all the material allegations of the pleading are within the personal knowledge of the agent or the attorney; in either case the verification may be made by the agent of or the attorney for the party.

§ 526. Form of affidavit of verification.

The affidavit of verification must be to the effect, that the pleading is true to the knowledge of the deponent except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true. Where it is made by a person, other than the party, he must set forth, in the affidavit, the grounds of his belief, as to all matters not stated upon his knowledge, and the reason why it is not made by the party.

From Co. Proc., § 157.

§ 527. When verification may be confined to a counterclaim.

Where the complaint is not verified, and the answer sets up a counterclaim, and also a defence by way of denial or avoidance, the affidavit of verification may be made to refer exclusively to the counterclaim. In that case, the last three sections are applicable to the affidavit and the counterclaim, as if the latter was a separate pleading.

New.

§ 528. Remedy for defective verification, or want of verification.

The remedy for a defective verification of a pleading is to treat the same as an unverified pleading. Where the copy of a pleading is served without a copy of a sufficient verification, in a case where the adverse party is entitled to a verified pleading, he may treat it as a nullity, provided he gives notice, with due diligence, to the attorney of the adverse party, that he elects so to do.

New.

§ 529. When defendant not excused from verifying answer to charge of fraud.

A defendant is not excused from verifying his answer to a complaint, charging him with having confessed or suffered a judgment, or executed a conveyance, assignment, or other instrument, or transferred or delivered money, or personal property, with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud his creditors, or with being a party or privy to such a transaction by another person, with like intent towards the creditors of that person; or with any fraud whatever, affecting a right or the property of another.

From 2 R. S. 174 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 41; L. 1833, c. 14, § 1.

§ 530. [Am'd, 1877.] Private statute; how pleaded.

In pleading a private statute, or a right derived therefrom, it is sufficient to designate the statute by its chapter, year of passage, and title, or in some other manner with convenient certainty, without setting forth any of the contents thereof.

From Co. Proc., § 168. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 531. [Am'd, 1904.] Account, how pleaded. Bill of particulars.

It is not necessary for a party to set forth, in a pleading, the items of an account therein alleged; but in that case, he must deliver to the adverse party, within ten days after a written demand thereof, a copy of the account, which, if the pleading is verified, must be verified by his affidavit, to the effect, that he believes it to be true; or, if the facts are within the personal knowledge of the agent or attorney for the party, or the party is not within the county where the attorney resides, or capable of making the affidavit, by the affidavit of the agent or attorney. If he fails so to do, he is precluded from giving evidence of the account. The court, or a judge authorized to make an order in the action, may direct the party to deliver a further account, where the one delivered is defective. Upon application in any case, the court, or a judge authorized to make an order in the action, may, upon notice, direct a bill of the particulars of the claim of either party to be delivered to the adverse party, and in case of default the court shall preclude him from giving evidence of the part or parts of his affirmative allegation of which particulars have not been delivered.

§ 532. Judgments; how pleaded.

In pleading a judgment, or other determination, of a court or officer of special jurisdiction, it is not necessary to state the facts conferring jurisdiction; but the judgment or determination may be stated to have been duly given or made. If that allegation is controverted, the party pleading must, on the trial, establish the facts conferring jurisdiction.

From Id., § 161.

§ 533. Conditions precedent; how pleaded.

In pleading the performance of a condition precedent in a contract, it is not necessary to state the facts constituting performance; but the party may state, generally, that he, or the person whom he represents, duly performed all the conditions on his part. If that allegation is controverted, he must, on the trial, establish performance.

From Id., § 162.

§ 534. Instrument for payment of money; how pleaded.

Where a cause of action, defence, or counterclaim, is founded upon an instrument for the payment of money only, the party may set forth a copy of the instrument, and state that there is due to him thereon, from the adverse party, a specified sum, which he claims. Such an allegation is equivalent to setting forth the instrument, according to its legal effect.

From Id., § 162.

§ 535. Pleadings in libel and slander.

It is not necessary, in an action for libel or slander, to state, in the complaint, any extrinsic fact, for the purpose of showing the application to the plaintiff, of the defamatory matter; but the plaintiff may state, generally, that it was published or spoken concerning him; and, if that allegation is controverted, the plaintiff must establish it on the trial. In such an action, the defendant may prove mitigating circumstances, notwithstanding that he has pleaded or attempted to prove a justification.

From Id., § 164.

§ 536. [Am'd, 1877.] Pleading mitigating circumstances in action for a wrong.

In an action to recover damages for the breach of a promise to marry, or for a personal injury, or an injury to property, the defendant may prove, at the trial, facts, not amounting to a total defence, tending to mitigate or otherwise reduce the plaintiff's damages, if they are set forth in the answer, either with or without one or more defences to the entire cause of action. A defendant, in default for want of an answer, may, upon a reference or inquiry to ascertain the amount of the plaintiff's damages, prove facts of that description.

From Co. Proc., § 165. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 537. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Frivolous pleadings; how disposed of.

If a demurrer, answer or reply is frivolous, the party prejudiced thereby, upon a previous notice to the adverse party, of not less than five days, may apply to the court or to a judge of the court for judgment thereupon, and judgment may be given accordingly. If the application is denied, an appeal cannot be taken from the determination, and the denial of the application does not prejudice any of the subsequent proceedings of either party. Costs, as upon a motion, may be awarded upon an application pursuant to this section.

From Co. Proc., § 247. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 538. Sham defences to be stricken out.

A sham answer or a sham defence may be stricken out by the court, upon motion, and upon such terms as the court deems just.

From Co. Proc., § 152.

§ 539. Material variances; how provided for.

A variance, between an allegation in a pleading and the proof, is not material, unless it has actually misled the adverse party, to his prejudice, in maintaining his action or defence, upon the merits. If a party insists that he has been misled, that fact, and the particulars in which he has been misled, must be proved to the satisfaction of the court. Thereupon the court may, in its discretion, order the pleading to be amended, upon such terms as it deems just.

From Id., § 169.

§ 540. Immaterial variances; how provided for.

Where the variance is not material, as prescribed in the last section, the court may direct the fact to be found according to the evidence, or may order an immediate amendment, without costs.

§ 541. What to be deemed a failure of proof.

Where, however, the allegation to which the proof is directed, is unproved, not in some particular or particulars only, but in its entire scope and meaning, it is not a case of variance, within the last two sections, but a failure of proof.

From Id., § 171.

§ 542. [Am'd, 1897.] Amendments of course.

Within twenty days after a pleading, or the answer, demurrer or reply thereto, is served, or at any time before the period for answering it expires, the pleading may be once amended by the party, of course, without costs and without prejudice to the proceedings already had. But if it is made to appear to the court that the pleading was amended for the purpose of delay, and that the adverse party will thereby lose the benefit of a term, for which the cause is or may be noticed, the amended pleading may be stricken out, or the pleading may be restored to its original form, and such terms imposed as the court deems just.

From Co. Proc., § 172. Am'd by L. 1897, c. 470 (in effect Sept. 1, 1897).

§ 543. Amended pleading to be served; answer thereto. Where a pleading is amended, as prescribed in the last section, a copy thereof must be served upon the attorney for the adverse party. A failure to demur to, or answer the amended pleading, within twenty days thereafter, has the same effect as a like failure to demur to, or answer the original pleading.

From Co. Proc., §§ 172, 146.

From Id., § 177. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 545. [Am'd, 1877.] Motion to strike out irrelevant, etc., matter. Irrelevant, redundant, or scandalous matter, contained in a pleading, may be stricken out, upon the motion of a person aggrieved thereby. Where scandalous matter is thus stricken out, the attorney whose name is subscribed to the pleading may be directed to pay the costs of the motion, and his failure to pay them may be punished as a contempt of the court.

From Co. Proc., § 160. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 546. [Am'd, 1877.] Indefinite or uncertain allegations. Where one or more denials or allegations, contained in a pleading, are so indefinite or uncertain that the precise meaning or application thereof is not apparent, the court may require the pleading to be made definite and certain, by amendment.

From Co. Proc., § 160. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 547. [Added, 1908.] Judgment on the Pleadings. If either party is entitled to judgment upon the pleadings, the court may upon motion at any time after issue joined give judgment accordingly.

Added by L. 1908, c. 166 (in effect Sept. 1, 1908).

CHAPTER VII.

General Provisional Remedies in an Action.

TITLE I.— Arrest, Pending the Action, and Proceedings Thereupon.
TITLE II.— Injunction.
TITLE III.— Attachment of Property.
TITLE IV.— Other Provisional Remedies; General and Miscellaneous Provisions.

TITLE I.

Arrest, pending the action, and proceedings thereupon.

Article 1. Cases where an order of arrest may be granted, and persons liable to arrest.
2. Granting, executing, and vacating or modifying the order of arrest.
3. Discharging the defendant upon bail or deposit; jurisdiction of the bail and disposition of the deposit.
4. Charging and discharging bail.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Cases where an order of arrest may be granted, and persons liable to arrest.

Sec. 548. No person to be arrested in civil proceedings, without a statutory provision. Ne exeat abolished.
549. When the right to arrest depends upon the nature of the action.
550. When the right to arrest depends partly upon extrinsic facts.
551. Order, when and where granted; when of right, and when discretionary.
552. Foreign judgment not to affect right to arrest.
553. Women not to be arrested, except, etc.
554. Idiot, lunatic, or infant under fourteen, if arrested, to be discharged.
555. Person sued in a representative capacity, not to be arrested.

§ 548. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] No person to be arrested in civil proceedings, without a statutory provision. Ne exeat abolished.

A person shall not be arrested in a civil action or special proceeding, except as prescribed by statute. The writ of ne exeat is hereby abolished.

From Co. Proc., § 178. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 549. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1886.] When the right to arrest depends upon the nature of the action.[1]

A defendant may be arrested in an action, as prescribed in this title, where the action is brought for either of the following causes:

1. To recover a fine or penalty.

2. To recover damages for a personal injury; an injury to property, including the wrongful taking, detention or conversion of personal property; breach of a promise to marry; misconduct or neglect in office, or in a professional employment; fraud, or deceit; or to recover a chattel where it is alleged in the complaint that the chattel or a part thereof has been concealed, removed or disposed of so that it cannot be found or taken by the sheriff and with intent that it should not be so found or taken, or to deprive the plaintiff of the benefit thereof; or to recover for money received, or to recover property or damages for the conversion or misapplication of property where it is alleged in the complaint that the money was received or the property was embezzled or fraudulently misapplied by a public officer or by an attorney, solicitor or counsellor, or by an officer or agent of a corporation or banking association in the course of his employment, or by a factor, agent, broker, or other person in a fiduciary capacity. Where such allegation is made, the plaintiff cannot recover unless he proves the same on the trial of the action; and a judgment for the defendant is not a bar to the new action to recover the money or chattel.

4. In an action upon contract, express or implied, other than a promise to marry, where it is alleged in the complaint that the defendant was guilty of a fraud in contracting or incurring the liability, or that he has, since the making of the contract, or in contemplation of making of the same, removed or disposed of his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or is about to remove or dispose of the same with like intent; but where such allegation is made, the plaintiff cannot recover unless he proves the fraud on the trial of the action; and a judgment for the defendant is not a bar to a new action to recover upon the contract only.

A defendant may also be arrested in an action wherein the judgment demanded requires the performance of an act, the neglect or refusal to perform which would be punishable by the court as a contempt, where the defendant is not a resident of the State, or, being a resident, is about to depart therefrom, by reason of which non-residence or departure there is danger that a judgment or an order requiring the performance of the act will be rendered ineffectual.

New. Intended to provide a substitute for the writ of ne exeat, abolished by § 548. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416 and c. 422; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1886, c. 672.

[1] See foot-note to § 549.

§ 551. [Am'd, 1877, 1886.] Order when and where granted; when of right, and when discretionary.

In a case specified in the last section, the order of arrest can be granted only by the court, is always in its discretion, and may be granted or served, either before or after final judgment, unless an appeal from the judgment is pending, upon which security has been given, sufficient to stay the execution thereof. In either of the cases specified in section 549, the order cannot be served after final judgment; but it may be granted, where a proper case therefor is presented, at any time before final judgment.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416 and c. 422; L. 1886, c. 672.

§ 552. Foreign judgment not to affect right to arrest.

The recovery of judgment in a court, not of the State, for the same cause of action; or, where the action is founded upon fraud or deceit, for the price or value of the property obtained thereby; does not affect the right of the plaintiff to arrest the defendant, as prescribed in this title.

New.

§ 553. [Am'd, 1877.] Woman not to be arrested, except, etc.

A woman cannot be arrested, as prescribed in this title, except in a case where the order can be granted only by the court; or where it appears, that the action is to recover damages for a wilful injury to person, character, or property.

From Co. Proc., § 179, last sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 554. [Am'd, 1877.] Idiot, lunatic, or infant under fourteen, if arrested, to be discharged.

A lunatic, an idiot, or an infant under the age of fourteen years, if arrested, may be discharged from arrest, as a privileged person, in the discretion of the court. The application for his discharge may be made, in his behalf, by a relative, or by any other person whom the court or judge permits to represent him, for the purpose.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 555. Person sued in a representative capacity, not to be arrested.

A person prosecuted in a representative capacity, as heir, executor, administrator, legatee, devisee, next of kin, assignee, or trustee, cannot be arrested, as prescribed in this title, except for his personal act.

From 2 R. S. 348 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 1), § 8.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Granting, executing, and vacating or modifying the order of arrest.

Sec. 556. Order required for arrest; how granted.
557. Proof necessary to procure order.
558. When order may be granted; effect of complaint subsequently made.
559. Security, upon order of arrest made by a judge.
560. Id.; upon order of arrest granted by the court.
561. Contents of the order; to whom directed; when to be executed.
562. Copies of papers to be delivered to defendant; originals to be filed.
563. Arrest; how made.
564. General provision as to privilege from arrest; discharge of privileged person.
565. Privilege of officers of courts.
566. Defendant arrested to have twenty days to answer.
567. When application to be made to vacate order of arrest, etc.
568. How and to whom application must be made; opposing it by new proofs.
569–571. [Repealed].
572. Supersedeas, unless defendant is charged in execution, etc.

§ 556. [Am'd, 1877.] Order required for arrest; how granted.

An order for the arrest of the defendant, except as otherwise prescribed in section 551 of this act, must be obtained from a judge of the court in which the action is brought, or from any county judge.

From Co. Proc., § 180. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

See new Rule 57

§ 557. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Proof necessary to procure order.

The order may be granted, in a case specified in section 549 of this act, where it appears by the affidavit of the plaintiff or any other person, that a sufficient cause of action exists against the defendant, as prescribed in that section. It may be granted, in a case specified in section 550 of this act, upon the like proof that a sufficient cause of action exists against the defendant, as prescribed in that section, and of the other matters, extrinsic to the cause of action, specified in that section. The affidavit may also contain any statement, tending to determine the amount of bail to be required.

§ 558. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1886.] When order may be granted; effect of complaint subsequently made.

Subject to the provisions of the last preceding section, the order may be granted at any time after the commencement of the action. It may also be granted to accompany the summons, but at any time after the filing or service of the complaint, the order of arrest must be vacated on motion, if the complaint fails to set forth a sufficient cause of action, as required by section 549 of this act, but where the order is applied for after the filing or service of the complaint the court before granting the same may without notice direct the service of an amended complaint so as to conform to the allegations required in subdivisions two and four of section 549 of this act.

§ 559. [Am'd, 1879.] Security, upon order of arrest made by a judge.

Except where the action is brought for a cause specified in subdivision third of section 549 of this act, or in a case where it is specially prescribed by law that security may be dispensed with, or the security to be given is specially regulated by law, the judge, before he grants the order, must require a written undertaking on the part of the plaintiff, with two sufficient sureties, to the effect that, if the defendant recovers judgment, or if it is finally decided that the plaintiff was not entitled to the order of arrest, the plaintiff will pay all costs which may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages which he may sustain by reason of the arrest, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking, which must be at least equal to one-tenth of the amount of bail required by the order, and not less than two hundred and fifty dollars.

From Co. Proc., § 182. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 560. Id.; upon order of arrest granted by the court.

Where the order can be granted only by the court, an undertaking on the part of the plaintiff may be dispensed with. If it is required, its form, and the security to be given thereupon, must be such as the court prescribes.

New. Covers case of a ne exeat. See §§ 550, 551.

§ 561. [Am'd, 1877.] Contents of the order; to whom directed; when to be executed.

The order must be subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney, and, except where it is granted by the court, by the judge. It may be directed, either to the sheriff of a particular county, or, generally, to the sheriff of any county. It must require the sheriff forthwith to arrest the defendant, if he is found within his county; to hold him to bail in a specified sum; and to return the order, with his proceedings thereunder, as prescribed by law. The plaintiff's attorney may, at his option, by an indorsement upon the order, or, where it was granted by the court, upon the copy thereof, delivered to the sheriff, fix a time within which the defendant must be arrested. In that case, he cannot be arrested afterwards, under the same order.

From Co. Proc., § 183. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 562. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Copies of papers to be delivered to defendant; originals to be filed.

The order of arrest, or, where it was granted by the court, a certified copy thereof, subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney; and, in either case, the papers upon which the order was granted, with the undertaking, if any; must be delivered to the sheriff, who, upon arresting the defendant, must deliver to him a copy thereof. The papers, upon which the order was granted, with the undertaking, if any, must be filed, with the order of arrest, or a certified copy thereof, at the time prescribed for filing the same, in section 590 of this act.

§ 563. Arrest; how made.

The sheriff must execute the order by arresting the defendant, if he is found within his county, and keeping him in custody, until discharged by law.

From Co. Proc., § 185.

§ 564. [Am'd, 1877, 1895.] General provision as to privilege from arrest; discharge of privileged person.

This title does not abridge or affect a privilege from arrest given by law, or a right of action for a breach thereof. A privileged person is entitled to be discharged from arrest, where other provision is not made therefor by law, by the court, or a judge thereof; or by the county judge of the county where the arrest was made. The order must be made, upon proof, by affidavit, of the facts entitling the applicant to the discharge; and the arrest and discharge are not a bar to a new arrest, after the privilege has ceased. The court or judge may make the order without notice, or may require notice to be given to the sheriff, or to the plaintiff, or to both.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 565. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Privilege of officers of courts.

An officer of a court of record, appointed or elected pursuant to law, is privileged from arrest, during the actual sitting, which he is required to attend, of a term of the court of which he is an officer, and no longer; but an attorney or counsellor is not thus privileged, unless he is employed in a cause, to be heard at that term.

From 2 R. S. 290 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 86.

§ 566. Defendant arrested to have twenty days to answer.

Except where an order of arrest can be granted only by the court, a defendant, arrested before answer, has twenty days, after the arrest, in which to answer the complaint; and judgment must be stayed accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 183.

§ 567. [Am'd, 1877.] When application to be made to vacate order of arrest, etc.

Except where an order of arrest can be granted only by the court, a defendant, arrested as prescribed in this title, may, at any time before final judgment, or, if he was arrested within twenty days before final judgment, at any time within twenty days after the arrest, apply to vacate the order of arrest; or to reduce the amount of bail; or to increase the security given by the plaintiff; or for one or more of those forms of relief, together, or in the alternative. In a case where the order of arrest can be granted only by the court, a like application may be made, at any time within twenty days after the arrest; and an application to increase the security given by the plaintiff, may be made at any time before final judgment.

From Id., §§ 183, 204. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 568. [Am'd, 1877.] How and to whom motion must be made; opposing it by new proofs.

An application, specified in the last section, may be founded only upon the papers upon which the order was granted; in which case, it must be made to the court, or, if the order was granted by a judge out of court, to the same judge, in court or out of court, and with or without notice, as he deems proper; and the application must be heard upon those papers only. Or it may be founded upon proof, by affidavit, on the part of the defendant; in which case, it must be made to the court, or, if the order was granted by a judge out of court, to any judge of the court, upon notice, and it may be opposed by new proof, by affidavit, on the part of the plaintiff, tending to sustain any ground of arrest recited in the order, and no other, unless the defendant relies upon a discharge in bankruptcy, or upon a discharge or exoneration, granted in insolvent proceedings; in which case, the plaintiff may show any matter in avoidance thereof, which he might show upon the trial.

Substitute for Co. Proc., § 205. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 572. [Am'd, 1877, 1882, 1886.] Supersedeas, unless defendant is charged in execution, etc.

Except in a case where an order of arrest can be granted only by the court, if the plaintiff unreasonably delays the trial of the action or neglects to enter judgment therein within ten days after it is in his power to do so, or neglects to issue execution against the person of the defendant within ten days after the return of the execution against the property, and in any event neglects to issue the same within three months after the entry of the judgment, or whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff in an action, or a judgment creditor in a judgment, delays the enforcement of his remedies therein by collusion, or for the purpose of allowing the debtor to remain in prison under the mandate in any other action, before the issuing of the mandate in favor of such creditor, so as to produce a continued and extended imprisonment by virtue of the separate mandates in the different actions, the defendant must upon his application, made upon notice to the plaintiff, be discharged from custody if he has already been taken under the mandate against him in such action; or if he has not yet been imprisoned therein, be relieved from imprisonment by virtue of such mandate, by the court in which the action was commenced, unless reasonable cause is shown why the application should not be granted. A defendant discharged as prescribed in this section shall not be arrested upon an execution issued upon the judgment in the action.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Discharging the defendant upon bail or deposit; justification of the bail and disposition of the deposit

Sec. 573. Defendant to be discharged on bail or deposit.
574. When defendant may elect to give bail, etc., or bond for liberties.
575. Undertaking of the bail; what to contain.
576. Examination of persons offered as bail.
577. Filing, etc., of papers; plaintiff's acceptance or rejection of bail.
578. Notice of justification; new undertaking, if other bail is given.
579. Qualifications of bail.
580. Justification of bail.
581. Allowance of bail.
582. Deposit of money with sheriff.
583. Payment of deposit into court by sheriff.
584. Substituting bail for deposit.
585. How deposit disposed of.
586. When deposit to be paid to a third person.
587. Sheriff, when liable as bail; his discharge from liability.
588. Proceedings on judgment against sheriff.
589. Bail liable to sheriff.
590. Filing papers if bail not given.

§ 573. Defendant to be discharged on bail or deposit.

The defendant, at any time before he is in contempt, where the order can be granted only by the court, or, in any other case, at any time before execution against his person, must be discharged from arrest, either upon giving bail, or upon depositing the sum specified in the order of arrest. The defendant may give bail, or make the deposit, immediately upon his arrest, at any hour of the day or night; and he must have reasonable opportunity to see[1] to and to procure bail, before being committed to jail.

From Co. Proc., § 186.

§ 574. When defendant may elect to give bail, etc., or bond for liberties.

Where the defendant is actually confined in the jail, by virtue of an order of arrest, and final or interlocutory judgment has been rendered against him in the action, but an execution against his person has not been issued, he may elect, either to give a bond for the liberties of the jail, or to give bail or make a deposit, as prescribed in this article.

New.

§ 575. Undertaking of the bail; what to contain.

The defendant may give bail, by delivering to the sheriff a written undertaking, in the sum specified in the order of arrest, executed by two or more sufficient bail, stating their places of residence and occupations, to the following effect:

1. If the order of arrest could be granted only by the court, that the defendant will obey the direction of[2] court, or of an appellate court, contained in an order or a judgment, requiring him to perform the act specified in the order; or, in default of his so doing, that he will, at all times, render himself amenable to proceedings to punish him for the omission.

2. If the action is to recover a chattel, that the defendant will deliver it to the plaintiff, if delivery thereof is adjudged in the action, and will pay any sum recovered against him in the action.

[1] Error in engrossing for "seek."
[2] Word "the" omitted by error in engrossing.

3. In any other case, that the defendant will, at all times, render himself amenable to any mandate, which may be issued to enforce a final judgment against him in the action.

Substitute for Co. Proc., § 187.

§ 576. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Examination of persons offered as bail.

It is not necessary that the undertaking should be approved, or accompanied with an affidavit of justification of the bail. But the officer, taking the acknowledgment of the undertaking, must, if the sheriff so requires, examine under oath, to a reasonable extent, the persons offering to become bail, concerning their property and their circumstances. The examination must be reduced to writing, subscribed by the bail, and annexed to the undertaking.

From 2 R. S. 380 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), § 20. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 577. [Am'd, 1879.] Filing, etc., of papers; plaintiff's acceptance or rejection of bail.

Within three days after bail is given, the sheriff must deliver to the plaintiff's attorney copies, certified by him, of the order of arrest, return and undertaking. The plaintiff's attorney, within ten days thereafter, must serve upon the sheriff a notice that he does not accept the bail; otherwise he is deemed to have accepted them, and the sheriff is exonerated from liability.

From Co. Proc., § 192. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 578. Notice of justification; new undertaking, if other bail is given.

Within ten days after the receipt of the notice, the sheriff or the defendant may serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, notice of the justification of the same or other bail, specifying the place of residence and occupation of each of the latter, before a judge of the court, or a county judge, at a specified time and place; the time to be not less than five nor more than ten days thereafter, and the place to be within the county where one of the bail resides, or where the defendant was arrested. If other bail are given, a new undertaking must be executed, as prescribed in section 575 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 193.

§ 579. Qualifications of bail.

The qualifications of bail are as follows:

1. Each of them must be a resident of, and a householder or freeholder within the State.

2. Each of them must be worth the sum specified in the order of arrest, exclusive of property exempt from execution; but the judge, on justification, may allow more than two bail to justify, severally, in sums less than that specified in the order, if the whole justification is equivalent to that of two sufficient bail.

From Id., § 194.

§ 580. Justification of bail.

For the purpose of justification, each of the bail must attend before the judge, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and be examined on oath, on the part of the plaintiff, touching his sufficiency, in such manner as the judge, in his discretion, thinks proper. The judge may, in his discretion, adjourn the examination from day to day, until it is completed; but such an adjournment must always be to the next judicial day, unless by consent of parties. If required by the plaintiff's attorney, the examination must be reduced to writing, and subscribed by the bail.

From Co. Proc., § 195.

§ 581. Allowance of bail.

If the judge finds the bail sufficient, he must annex the examination to the undertaking, indorse his allowance thereon, and cause them to be filed with the clerk. The sheriff is thereupon exonerated from liability.

From id., § 196.

§ 582. [Am'd. 1904.] Deposit of money with sheriff.

A defendant, or other person arrested or attached on civil process, who is entitled to release on bail, or to jail liberties on giving the undertaking required by section 150 of this act, may instead of giving bail, or such undertaking, deposit with the sheriff the sum specified in, or endorsed upon such process, or which might be required in such undertaking. The sheriff must thereupon give the prisoner a certificate of the deposit and discharge him from custody. A deposit so made in lieu of an undertaking for jail liberties must be applied, under direction of the court, in satisfaction of any judgment for escape of the prisoner from such liberties and in payment of any expense incurred in the defense of an action for such escape, and thereafter the surplus, if any, and in case there has been no such escape, the whole of such deposit must be refunded to the prisoner or his representative, and in case of a deposit in lieu of bail on attachment against the person, it shall abide the disposition of the court, or a judge thereof, or a county judge.

From Id., § 197. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 384 (in effect April 26, 1904).

§ 583. Payment of deposit into court by sheriff.

The sheriff must, within four days after the deposit, pay it into court. He must take, from the officer receiving it, two certificates of the payment, one of which he must deliver to the plaintiff, and the other to the defendant. For a default in making the payment, the official bond of the sheriff may be prosecuted, as in any other case of delinquency.

From Id., § 198.

§ 584. Substituting bail for deposit.

If money is deposited, as prescribed in the last two sections, bail may be given, and may justify upon notice, at any time before the expiration of the right to be discharged on bail. Thereupon the judge, before whom the justification is had, must direct, in the order of allowance, that the money deposited be refunded to the defendant or his representative, and it must be refunded accordingly.

From Id., § 199.

§ 585. How deposit disposed of.

If money deposited is not refunded, as prescribed in the last section, it is, in a case where the order of arrest could be granted only by the court, subject to the direction of the court, as justice requires, before and after the judgment. In any other case, if it remains on deposit, when final judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, it must be applied, under the direction of the court, in satisfaction of the judgment, and the surplus, if any, must be refunded to the defendant, or his representative. If the final judgment is for the defendant, or the action abates or is discontinued, the sum deposited, and remaining unapplied, must be refunded to the defendant or his representative.

Substitute for Co. Proc., § 200.

§ 586. When deposit to be paid to a third person.

At any time before the deposit is paid into court, the defendant may deliver to the sheriff a written direction, to pay it to a third person, therein specified, in the event that the defendant becomes entitled to a return thereof; but without expressing any other contingency. The direction must be acknowledged or proved and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded; and the sheriff must deliver it to the officer who receives the deposit, who must note the substance thereof, with the entries of the deposit, in his books, and upon the two certificates of payment into court. The money thus deposited is deemed the property of the third person, subject to the plaintiff's interest therein, and subject to the rights of a creditor of the defendant, where the direction was given for the purpose of hindering, delaying, or defrauding creditors. The money, or the residue thereof, must be paid to the third person, where, by the provisions of the last two sections, it is required to be refunded to the defendant, or his representative.

New.

§ 587. [Am'd, 1877.] Sheriff, when liable as bail; his discharge from liability.

If, after the defendant is arrested, he escapes or is rescued, or the bail, if any, given by him, do not justify, when they are not accepted, or if the sheriff fails to pay the deposit into court as required by section 583 of this act, the sheriff is liable as bail. But the sheriff may, except in an action to recover a chattel, discharge himself from liability, by the giving and justification of bail, as follows:

1. If the case is one where the order could be granted only by the court, at any time before the court directs the performance of the act specified in the order.

2. In any other case, at any time before an execution is issued against the person of the defendant, upon a judgment in the action.

From Co. Proc., § 201. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 588. Proceedings on judgment against sheriff.

If judgment is recovered against the sheriff, upon his liability as bail, and an execution thereon is returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the official bond of the sheriff may be prosecuted, as in any other case of delinquency.

From Co. Proc., § 202.

§ 589. [Am'd, 1877.] Bail liable to sheriff.

The bail taken upon the arrest, unless they justify, or other bail are given and justify, are liable to the sheriff for all damages, which he sustains by reason of the omission.

From Id., § 203. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 590. [Am'd, 1879.] Filing papers if bail not given.

Within ten days after the defendant is arrested, if he does not give bail, or if he gives bail, within ten days after the justification of the bail, the sheriff must file with the clerk the order of arrest, or, where it was granted by the court, the certified copy thereof delivered to him, with his return thereupon indorsed, the papers upon which the order of arrest was granted, and the undertaking given on the part of the plaintiff. Where an order of arrest, directing the arrest of two or more defendants, has been executed as to one or more, but not as to all of them, the sheriff may file a copy of the order of arrest, instead of the original.

New. See § 561, ante. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Charging and discharging bail.

Sec. 591. When defendant may be surrendered.
592. How surrender to be made; exoneration of bail thereupon.
593. Bail may arrest defendant.
594. Voluntary surrender; exoneration of bail thereupon.
595. Rights, etc., of sheriff who is liable as bail.
596. Bail; how proceeded against.
597. Certain executions necessary before action against bail.
598. Duty of sheriff on such executions.
599. Defences in action against bail.
600. Relief of bail where principal is imprisoned on criminal charge.
601. Bail exonerated by death, etc.

§ 591. When defendant may be surrendered.

Except in an action to recover a chattel, the bail may surrender the defendant in their own exoneration, or the defendant may surrender himself in exoneration of the bail, before the expiration of the time to answer, in an action against them. The surrender must be made to the sheriff of the county, where the defendant was arrested.

From Co. Proc., § 188, first and last clauses.

§ 592. How surrender to be made; exoneration of bail thereupon.

Where the bail surrender the defendant, the surrender must be made in the following manner:

1. They must take the defendant to the sheriff, and require him, in writing, to take the defendant into his custody.

2. A certified copy of the undertaking of the bail must be delivered to the sheriff, who must detain the defendant in his custody thereupon, as upon the original mandate, and must, by a certificate in writing, acknowledge the surrender. Upon the application of the bail, made upon notice to the plaintiff's attorney, and upon production of the sheriff's certificate and a copy of the undertaking, a judge of the court, or the county judge of the county where the action is triable, may make an order, directing that the bail be exonerated. On filing the order and the papers used on the application therefor, the bail are exonerated accordingly.

From Id., rest of § 188.

§ 593. [Am'd, 1877.] Bail may arrest defendant.

For the purpose of surrendering the defendant, the bail, at any place or at any time before they are finally charged, may themselves arrest him, or, by a written authority, indorsed on a certified copy of the undertaking, may empower another person to do so, and one or more of the bail may thus arrest and surrender the defendant, although the others do not join with him or them, for that purpose.

From Id., § 189. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 594. Voluntary surrender; exoneration of bail thereupon.

Where the defendant surrenders himself in exoneration of his bail, he must present himself to the sheriff, and require the sheriff, in writing, to take him into custody, in exoneration of his bail. The sheriff must detain him accordingly, as prescribed in subdivision second of section 592 of this act; and, if requested by the bail, at any time after the surrender, the sheriff must, by a certificate in writing, acknowledge the surrender. An order for the exoneration of the bail may be procured, as prescribed in section 592 of this act.

New.

§ 595. Rights, etc., of sheriff who is liable as bail.

Where the sheriff is liable as bail, he has all the rights and privileges, and is subject to all the duties and liabilities of bail: and bail given by him, in order to discharge himself from liability, must be regarded as the bail of the defendant in the action. But this section does not apply to an action to recover a chattel: or to a case where a defence arises to an action against the bail, in consequence of an act or omission of the sheriff.

New.

§ 596. Bail; how proceeded against.

In case of failure to comply with the undertaking, the bail may be proceeded against by action, and not otherwise.

From Co. Proc., § 190

§ 597. Certain executions necessary before action against bail.

An action may be brought, as prescribed in the last section, in a case where the order of arrest could be granted only by the court, at any time after the bail have failed to comply with their undertaking. Where the undertaking was given in an action to recover a chattel, an action may be brought thereupon, at any time after the return, wholly or partly unsatisfied, of an execution for the delivery of the possession of the chattel, with respect to which the order of arrest was granted. In any other case, an action cannot be brought, as prescribed in the last section, until the following requisites have been complied with:

1. An execution, against the property of the defendant, must have been issued to the sheriff of the county in which he was arrested, and returned by that sheriff, wholly or partly unsatisfied.

2. An execution, against the person of the defendant, must have been issued to the same sheriff, and by him returned, not less than fifteen days after its receipt, to the effect that the defendant could not be found within his county.

From 2 R. S. 382 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), § 31.

§ 598. [Am'd, 1877.] Duty of sheriff on such executions.

The sheriff must diligently endeavor to enforce an execution issued and delivered to him, as prescribed in the last section, notwithstanding any direction he may receive from the plaintiff, or his attorney.

§ 599. [Am'd, 1877.] Defences in action against bail.

In an action against bail, it is a defence, that an execution, against the property, or against the person, of the defendant in the original action, was not issued, as prescribed in section 597 of this act; or that it was not issued in sufficient time to enable the sheriff to enforce it; or that a direction was given, or other fraudulent or collusive means were used, by the plaintiff or his attorney, to prevent the service thereof.

From 2 R. S. 382, § 33. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 600. Relief of bail where principal is imprisoned on criminal charge.

If the defendant in the original action, after his discharge upon bail, is imprisoned, either within or without the State, upon a criminal charge, or a conviction of a criminal offence, the court, in which an action against the bail is pending, may, before the expiration of the time to answer, and upon notice to the adverse party, make such an order for the relief of the bail, as justice requires.

From L. 1845, c. 231, § 4.

§ 601. [Am'd, 1877.] Bail exonerated by death, etc.

Except in an action to recover a chattel, the bail must be exonerated where either of the following events occurs, before the expiration of the time to answer in an action against them:

1. The death of the original defendant.

2. His legal discharge from the obligation to render himself amenable to the process, direction, or proceedings, with respect to which the undertaking of the bail was made.

3. His surrender to the sheriff of the county where he was arrested, as prescribed in this article.

Where either event occurs, after the commencement of the action against the bail, the court may, in its discretion, impose the payment of the plaintiff's costs and expenses, incurred after the return of the execution against the person, as a condition of allowing the exoneration. And the court may, by an order, made upon notice to the adverse party, grant such further time as it deems just, after answer, for the surrender of the original defendant. In that case, his surrender, within the time so granted, has the same effect, as if it had been made before answer.

From 2 R. S. 380 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), §§ 16, 34; L. 1845, c. 231; § 4, Co. Proc., § 191. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

TITLE II.

Injunction.

Article 1. Cases where an injunction may be granted; granting and service of an injunction order.
2. Security.
3. Vacating or modifying an injunction order.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Cases where an injunction may be granted; granting and service of an injunction order.

Sec. 602. Writ of injunction abolished, and order substituted.
603. Injunction, when the right thereto depends upon the nature of the action.
604. Id.; when the right thereto depends upon extrinsic facts.
605. Restrictions upon injunction to restrain State officers.
606. By whom injunction granted in other cases.
607. Proof necessary to procure injunction.
608. At what time the order may be granted.
609. When notice required or not required. Injunction pending an application.
610. Order must recite grounds; service of order.

§ 602. Writ of injunction abolished, and order substituted.

The writ of injunction has been abolished. A temporary injunction may be granted by order, as prescribed in this article.

From Co. Proc., § 218.

§ 603. Injunction, when the right thereto depends upon the nature of the action.

Where it appears, from the complaint, that the plaintiff demands and is entitled to a judgment against the defendant, restraining the commission or continuance of an act, the commission or continuance of which, during the pendency of the action, would produce injury to the plaintiff, an injunction order may be granted to restrain it. The case, provided for in this section, is described in this act, as a case, where the right to an injunction depends upon the nature of the action.

From Co. Proc., § 219.

§ 604. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; when the right thereto depends upon extrinsic facts.

In either of the following cases, an injunction order may also be granted in an action:

1. Where it appears, by affidavit, that the defendant, during the pendency of the action, is doing, or procuring, or suffering to be done, or threatens, or is about to do, or to procure, or suffer to be done, an act, in violation of the plaintiff's rights, respecting the subject of the action, and tending to render the judgment ineffectual, an injunction order may be granted to restrain him therefrom.

2. Where it appears, by affidavit, that the defendant, during the pendency of the action, threatens, or is about to remove, or to dispose of his property, with intent to defraud the plaintiff, an injunction order may be granted, to restrain the removal or disposition.

From Co. Proc., § 219 Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 605. [Am'd, 1895.] Restrictions upon injunction to restrain State officers.

Where a duty is imposed by statute upon a State officer, or board of State officers, an injunction order to restrain him or them, or a person employed by him or them, from the performance of that duty, or to prevent the execution of the statute, shall not be granted, except by the supreme court, at a term thereof, sitting in the department in which the officer or board is located, or the duty is required to be performed; and upon notice of the application therefor to the officer, board, or other person to be restrained.

§ 606. [Am'd, 19 2.] By whom injunction granted in other cases.

Except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, an injunction order may be granted by the court in which the action is brought, or by a judge thereof, or by any county judge; and where it is granted by a judge, it may be enforced as the order of the court. An injunction order which may be modified or vacated by the appellate division may also be granted or continued by the appellate division, or a justice thereof, pending appeal to that court or to the court of appeals from an order or judgment denying or vacating an injunction.

§ 607. [Am'd, 1877.] Proof necessary to procure injunction.

The order may be granted, where it appears to the court or judge, by the affidavit of the plaintiff, or any other person, that sufficient grounds exist therefor.

From Id., § 220. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 608. [Am'd, 1877.] At what time the order may be granted.

The order may be granted to accompany the summons, or at any time after the commencement of the action and before final judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 220. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 609. [Am'd, 1877.] When notice required or not required. Injunction pending an application.

The order may be granted, upon or without notice, in the discretion of the court or judge, unless the defendant has answered; in which case, it can be granted only upon notice, or an order to show cause. Where an application for an injunction is made upon notice, or an order to show cause, either before or after answer, the court or judge may enjoin the defendant, until the hearing and decision of the application.

From Co. Proc., §§ 221, 223. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 610. Order must recite grounds; service of order.

The injunction order must briefly recite the grounds for the injunction. Where it is granted by the court, it must be served by delivering a certified copy thereof; where it is granted by a judge, it must be served by showing the original order, and delivering a copy thereof. Service of the order, upon a corporation, may be made as prescribed in this act, for making personal service of a summons upon a corporation. Copies of the papers, upon which the order was granted, must be delivered with the copy of the order.

New, except last sentence, which is from Co. Proc., § 220.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Security.

Sec. 611. Security, on staying proceedings in an action, before trial.
612. Id.; after trial, and before judgment.
613. Id.; after judgment.
614. Money deposited may be paid over.
615. Undertaking to be cancelled thereupon.
616. Security on staying proceedings after verdict, in ejectment or dower.
617. Id.; damages to include waste.
618. Deposit may be dispensed with.
619. Undertaking and deposit; when dispensed with.
620. Security in other cases.
621. Special cases excepted.
622. [Repealed.]
623. Damages; how ascertained.
624. Damages sustained by a third person.
625. Action on the undertaking.

§ 611. Security, on staying proceedings in an action, before trial.

An injunction order shall not be granted, to stay the trial of an action, in which the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only, after issue has been joined therein, unless the party applying therefor gives an undertaking to the party enjoined, with sufficient sureties, to the effect, that he will pay to the party enjoined, or his representative, all damages and costs, which may be recovered by him in the action stayed by the injunction, not exceeding a sum, specified in the undertaking; and, also, all damages and costs that may be awarded to him, in the action in which the injunction order is granted.

§ 612. Id.; after trial, and before judgment.

An injunction order shall not be granted, to stay proceedings in an action specified in the last section, after verdict, report, or decision, and before final judgment thereupon, unless a sum of money, sufficient to cover the sum awarded by the verdict, report, or decision, and the costs of the action, is first paid, by the party applying for the injunction into the court, in which his action is commenced, or an undertaking for the payment thereof, with interest, is given, as prescribed in this article.

From Id., § 140.

§ 613. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; after judgment.

An injunction order shall not be granted, to stay proceedings upon a judgment for a sum of money, unless the following requisites are complied with, by the party applying therefor:

1. The full amount of the judgment, including interest and costs, must be paid by him, into the court in which his action is commenced; or an undertaking in lieu thereof must be given, as prescribed in this article.

2. He must also give an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, to pay to the party enjoined, all damages and costs, which may be awarded to him by the court, in the action in which the injunction order is granted; not exceeding a sum, specified in the undertaking.

From Id., § 141. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 614. Money deposited may be paid over.

Money paid into court, as prescribed in the last two sections, may be paid over, by the direction of the court, to the party whose proceedings are stayed, upon his giving an undertaking to the people of the State, with sufficient sureties, in a sum fixed by the court, to pay the money and interest, or any part thereof, as directed in the order or judgment of the court.

From 2 R. S. 189, § 142.

§ 615. Undertaking to be cancelled thereupon.

Where money so paid into court has been paid over to the party whose proceedings are stayed, if the final decision of the action, in which the injunction order is granted, is against the party obtaining it, the court must give such directions, as justice requires, with respect to cancelling the undertaking given by the successful party; making perpetual the injunction staying collection of the judgment; and requiring the judgment to be discharged of record.

From Id., § 143.

§ 616. Security on staying proceedings after verdict, in ejectment or dower.

An injunction order shall not be granted, to stay proceedings in an action of ejectment, or for dower, after verdict, report, or decision, unless the party applying therefor gives an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, to pay to the party enjoined, or his representative, all damages and costs, not exceeding a sum specified in the undertaking, which may be awarded to him, in the action wherein the injunction was granted.

From Id., § 144.

§ 617. Id.; damages to include waste.

Where an undertaking is given, as prescribed in the last section, the damages to be paid, upon the vacating of the injunction order, or the decision of the action against the party obtaining it, include, not only the reasonable rents and profits of the real property, recovered by the verdict, report, or decision, but all waste committed upon the property, after the granting of the injunction.

From 2 R. S. 190, § 145.

§ 618. Deposit may be dispensed with.

In a case where money is required by the foregoing sections of this article, to be paid into court, the court or judge may dispense with the payment, and may require the party to give, in lieu thereof, an undertaking, with two or more sureties, to pay the sum specified, with interest, as directed by the court. If an undertaking is required, in addition to the deposit, both undertakings may be contained in the same instrument, at the election of the party applying for the injunction.

From Id., § 146.

§ 619. Undertaking and deposit; when dispensed with.

The foregoing sections of this article do not apply to a case, where an injunction order is applied for, to stay proceedings in another action, on the ground that a judgment, verdict, report, or decision therein was obtained by actual fraud. In that case, the court or judge granting the injunction order may dispense with the deposit of money, or the execution of an undertaking, except as prescribed in the next section.

§ 620. [Am'd, 1877.] Security in other cases.

Where special provision is not otherwise made by law for the security to be given upon an injunction order, the party applying therefor must give an undertaking, executed by him, or by one or more sureties, as the court or judge directs, to the effect that the plaintiff will pay to the party enjoined, such damages, not exceeding a sum, specified in the undertaking, as he may sustain by reason of the injunction, if the court finally decides that the plaintiff was not entitled thereto.

From Co. Proc., § 222. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 621. Special cases excepted.

The foregoing provisions of this article do not affect any special statutory provision, whereby security upon granting an injunction order may be dispensed with, in a particular case, or the security to be given in a particular case is otherwise regulated.

New.

§ 622. [Stricken out by L. 1877, c. 416.]

§ 623. [Am'd, 1877.] Damages, how ascertained.

The damages, sustained by reason of an injunction, may be ascertained and determined by the court, or by a referee, appointed by the court, or by a writ of inquiry, or otherwise, as the court shall direct; and the decision of the court thereupon, or an order confirming the report of the referee, is conclusive, as to the amount of those damages, upon all the persons who have executed the undertaking, unless it is reversed upon appeal. The court may, in its discretion, direct that the sureties have notice of the hearing, or of an appeal, and may prescribe the time and manner of giving them notice.

Where the defendant enjoined was an officer of a corporation, or joint-stock association, or a bailee, agent, trustee, or other representative of another, and the damages, sustained by him, are less than the sum specified in the undertaking, the court or the referee may also separately ascertain and determine the damages sustained, by reason of the injunction, by the corporation, association, or person, whom the defendant represents, to an amount not exceeding the surplus of the sum specified in the undertaking; and those damages may be recovered in a separate action, brought as prescribed in the next section.

New.

§ 625. Action on the undertaking.

Where the damages have been ascertained by the decision of the court, or the confirmation of a referee's report, as prescribed in the last two sections, any person, entitled to the benefit of an undertaking, executed pursuant to the provisions of this title, may bring an action thereon, without further leave of the court.

New.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Vacating or modifying an injunction order.

Sec. 626. Application to vacate or modify, without notice.
627. Id.; upon notice.
628. When prior motion not to prejudice subsequent application.
629. New undertaking may be required.
630. Verified answer to have the effect only of an affidavit.
631-634. [Repealed.]

§ 626. [Am'd, 1895.] Application to vacate or modify, without notice.

Where the injunction order was granted without notice, the party enjoined may apply, upon the papers upon which it was granted, for an order vacating or modifying the injunction order. Such an application may be made, without notice, to the judge or justice who granted the order, or who held the term of the court where it was granted; or to a term of the appellate division of the supreme court. It cannot be made without notice, to any other judge, justice or term, unless the applicant produces proof, by affidavit, that, by reason of the absence or other disability of the judge or justice who granted the order, the application cannot be made to him; and that the applicant will be exposed to great injury, by the delay required for an application upon notice. The affidavit must be filed with the clerk; and a copy thereof, and of the order vacating or modifying the injunction order, must be served upon the plaintiff's attorney, before that order takes effect.

§ 627. [Am'd, 1879.] Application to vacate or modify upon notice.

Where the injunction order was granted without notice, or where it was granted upon notice, with leave to apply to vacate or modify it, the party enjoined may apply, upon notice, to the judge who granted it, or to the court, at a term where a contested motion in the action may be heard, for an order, vacating or modifying the injunction order. Such an application may be founded upon the papers upon which the injunction was granted; or upon proof, by affidavit, on the part of the defendant; or both. Where it is founded upon proof on the part of the defendant, it may be opposed by new proof, by affidavit, on the part of the plaintiff, tending to sustain the injunction.

From Co. Proc., §§ 225, 227. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 628. When prior motion not to prejudice subsequent application.

The granting or denial of an application, made as prescribed in the last section, founded only upon the papers upon which the injunction order was granted, does not prejudice a subsequent application, seasonably made, founded upon proof, by affidavit, on the part of the defendant. And the granting or denial of either application does not prejudice a subsequent application, seasonably made, founded upon the failure of a complaint, which had not been made at the time of the former application, to set forth a cause of action, sufficient to entitle the plaintiff to the injunction order, upon one or more grounds, recited therein.

New.

§ 629. [Am'd, 1883, 1884.] New undertaking may be required.

Upon the hearing of an application, upon notice, to vacate or modify an injunction order, the court or judge may require a new undertaking, in the same or in a different sum, to be given by the plaintiff, with the like sureties, and to the like effect, as upon granting an original order. The persons executing the new undertaking become liable thereon, as if they had executed it upon the granting of the original order. The persons who executed the original undertaking remain liable thereon, until the new undertaking is given and approved, and no longer. Upon such hearing the court or judge may where the alleged wrong or injury is not irreparable and is capable of being adequately compensated for in money, vacate the injunction order upon the defendant's executing an undertaking in such form and amount and with such sureties as the court or judge shall direct, conditioned to indemnify the plaintiff against any loss sustained by reason of vacating such injunction order.

New. Am'd by L. 1883, c. 404; L. 1884, c. 401.

§ 630. Verified answer to have the effect only of an affidavit.

Upon the hearing of a contested application for an injunction order, or to vacate or modify such an order, a verified answer has the effect only of an affidavit.

TITLE III.

Attachment of property.

Article 1. Cases where a warrant of attachment may be granted; and proceedings upon granting the same.
2. Executing the warrant, pending the action.
3. Vacating or modifying the warrant; discharging the attachment.
4. Regulations where there are two or more warrants against the same defendant.
5. Proceedings after judgment; rights of parties and duties of the sheriff, after the warrant is vacated or annulled, or the attachment discharged.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Cases where a warrant of attachment may be granted; and proceedings upon granting the same.

Sec. 635. In what actions.
636. What must be shown to procure the warrant.
637. Warrant in action against public officer, etc., for peculation.
638. When and by whom the warrant may be granted.
639. Affidavits to be filed.
640. Security on obtaining warrant.
641. Contents of warrant; to whom directed.
642. Validity of undertaking.

§ 635. [Am'd, 1877, 1894, 1895, 1916.] In what actions.

A warrant of attachment against the property of one or more defendants in an action, may be granted upon the application of the plaintiff, as specified in the next section, where the action is to recover a sum of money only, as damages for one or more of the following causes:

1. Breach of contract, express or implied, other than a contract to marry.

2. Wrongful conversion of personal property.

3. An injury to person or property, in consequence of negligence, fraud or other wrongful act.

4. A wrongful act, neglect or default by which the decedent's death was caused, when the cause of action arose in this state before or after the passage of this act and the action is brought by an executor or administrator against a natural person who, or a corporation which, would have been liable to an action in favor of the decedent by reason thereof if death had not ensued as prescribed by section 1902 of this act.

From Co. Proc., §§ 227, 229. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1894, c. 738; L. 1895, c. 578; L. 1916, c. 441 (in effect May 9, 1916).

To entitle the plaintiff to such a warrant, he must show, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the judge granting the same, as follows:

1. That one of the causes of action specified in the last section exists against the defendant. If the action is to recover damages for breach of contract, the affidavit must show that the plaintiff is entitled to recover a sum stated therein, over and above all counterclaims known to him.

2. That the defendant is either a foreign corporation or not a resident of the state; or, if he is a natural person and a resident of the state, that he has departed therefrom, with intent to defraud his creditors, or to avoid the service of a summons, or keeps himself concealed therein with the like intent; or, if the defendant is a natural person or a domestic corporation, that he or it has removed, or is about to remove, property from the state, with intent to defraud his or its creditors; or has assigned, disposed of, or secreted, or is about to assign, dispose of or secrete property with the like intent; or where, for the purpose of procuring credit, or the extension of credit, the defendant has made a false statement in writing, under his own hand or signature, or under the hand or signature of a duly authorized agent, made with his knowledge and acquiescence as to his financial responsibility or standing; or, where the defendant, being an adult and a resident of the state, has been continuously without the state of New York for more than six months next before the granting of the order of publication of the summons against him, and has not made a designation of a person upon whom to serve a summons in his behalf, as prescribed in section 430 of this act; or a designation so made no longer remains in force; or service upon the person so designated cannot be made within the state, after diligent effort.

§ 637. [Am'd, 1877, 1894.] Warrant in action against public officer, etc., for peculation.

A warrant of attachment, against the property of one or more defendants in an action, may also be granted, upon the application of the plaintiff, where the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only; and it appears, by affidavit, that the action is brought to recover money, funds, credits, or other property, held or owned by the State, or held or owned, officially or otherwise, for or in behalf of a public governmental interest, by a municipal or other public corporation, board, officer, custodian, agency, or agent, of the State, or of a city, county, town, village, or other division, subdivision, department, or portion of the State, which the defendant has, without right, obtained, received, converted, or disposed of; or in the obtaining, reception, payment, conversion, or disposition of which, without right, he has aided or abetted; or to recover damages for so obtaining, receiving, paying, converting, or disposing of the same; or the aiding or abetting thereof; or in an action in favor of a private person or corporation, brought to recover damages for an injury to personal property where the liability arose, in whole or in part, in consequence of the false statements of the defendant as to his responsibility or credit, in writing, under the hand or signature of the defendant or his authorised agent, made with his knowledge and acquiescence. In order to entitle the plaintiff to a warrant of attachment, in the case specified in this section, he must show, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the judge granting it, that a sufficient cause of action exists against the defendant for a sum stated in the affidavit.

§ 638. [Am'd, 1877.] When and by whom the warrant may be granted.

The warrant may be granted by a judge of the court, or by any county judge, to accompany the summons, or at any time after the commencement of the action, and before final judgment therein. Personal service of the summons must be made upon the defendant, against whose property the warrant is granted, within thirty days after the granting thereof; or else, before the expiration of the same time, service of the summons by publication must be commenced, or service thereof must be made without the State, pursuant to an order obtained therefor, as prescribed in this act; and if publication has been, or is thereafter commenced, the service must be made complete, by the continuance thereof.

Substitute for Co. Proc., §§ 227, 228. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 639. [Am'd, 1877.] Affidavits to be filed.

The plaintiff procuring the warrant must, within ten days after the granting thereof, cause the affidavits, upon which it was granted, to be filed in the office of the clerk.

From Co. Proc., § 229, last sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 640. Security on obtaining warrant.

The judge, before granting the warrant, must require a written undertaking, on the part of the plaintiff, with sufficient sureties, to the effect, that if the defendant recovers judgment, or if the warrant is vacated, the plaintiff will pay all costs, which may be awarded to the defendant, and all damages, which he may sustain by reason of the attachment, not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking, which must be at least two hundred and fifty dollars. But this section does not apply to a case, where the action is brought for a cause specified in section 637 of this act, or where it is specially prescribed by law that security may be dispensed with, or where the security to be given is specially regulated by law.

From Co. Proc., § 230.

§ 641. Contents of warrant; to whom directed.

The warrant must be subscribed by the judge and the plaintiff's attorney, and must briefly recite the ground of the attachment. It may be directed, either to the sheriff of a particular county, or, generally, to the sheriff of any county. It must require the sheriff to attach and safely keep, so much of the property, within his county, which the defendant has, or which he may have, at any time before final judgment in the action, as will satisfy the plaintiff's demand, with costs and expenses. The amount of the plaintiff's demand must be specified in the warrant, as stated in the affidavit. Warrants may be issued at the same time, to sheriffs of different counties.

From Id., § 231.

§ 642. Validity of undertaking.

It is not a defense to an action upon an undertaking, given upon granting a warrant of attachment, that the warrant was granted improperly, for want of jurisdiction, or for any other cause.

§ 643. [Stricken out by L. 1877, c. 416.]

§ 644. [Am'd, 1877.] Sheriff must attach property of defendant.

The sheriff must immediately execute the warrant, by levying upon so much of the personal and real property of the defendant, within his county, not exempt from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, as will satisfy the plaintiff's demand, with the costs and expenses. He must take into his custody all books of account, vouchers, and other papers, relating to the personal property attached, and all evidences of the defendant's title to the real property attached, which he must safely keep, to be disposed of, as prescribed in this title. The sheriff, to whom a warrant of attachment is delivered, may levy, from time to time, and as often as is necessary, until the amount, for which it was issued, has been secured, or final judgment has been rendered in the action, notwithstanding the expiration of his term of office.

From Co. Proc., § 232; 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 7. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 645. What interest in real property may be attached.

The real property, which may be levied upon by virtue of a warrant of attachment, includes any interest in real property, either vested or not vested which is capable of being alienated by the defendant.

New.

§ 646. Attachment of unpaid subscription to foreign corporation.

Under a warrant of attachment against a foreign corporation, other than a corporation created by or under the laws of the United States, the sheriff may levy upon the sum remaining unpaid upon a subscription to the capital stock of the corporation, made by a person within the county; or upon one or more shares of stock therein, held by such a person, or transferred by him, for the purpose of avoiding payment thereof.

From L. 1845, c. 234, § 1.

§ 647. [Am'd, 1911.] Id.; interest in shares or bonds.

The rights or shares which the defendant has in the stock of an association or corporation, or in a bond negotiable or otherwise, together with the interest and profits thereon, may be levied upon; and the sheriff's certificate of the sale thereof entitles the purchaser to the same rights and privileges, with respect thereto, which the defendant had when they were so attached.

§ 648. [Am'd, 1877, 1907.] Id.; bond, note, etc.

The attachment may also be levied upon a cause of action arising upon contract; including a bond, promissory note, or other instrument for the payment of money only, negotiable or otherwise, whether past due, or yet to become due, executed by a foreign or domestic government, state, county, public officer, association, municipal or other corporation, or by a private person, either within or without the state; which belongs to the defendant, and is found within the county. The levy of the attachment thereupon is deemed a levy upon, and a seizure and attachment of, the debt represented thereby. The attachment may also be levied upon a right or interest, present or future, to any of the property or estate of a deceased person which may belong to the defendant and which could be legally assigned by him as legatee or distributee, whether the same exists by reason of the provisions of a last will and testament admitted to probate at the time the attachment is granted, or by operation of the law in case of the intestacy of the deceased. Levy of the attachment thereupon is deemed a levy upon, and a seizure and attachment of, the rights and interests of the defendant at the time of such levy, subject to the rights of the executor, administrator or trustee of such estate to administer the same according to law.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1907, c. 318 (in effect Sept. 1, 1907).

A levy under a warrant of attachment must be made as follows:

1. Upon real property, by filing with the clerk of the county, where it is situated a notice of the attachment, stating the names of the parties to the action, the amount of the plaintiff's claim, as stated in the warrant, and a description of the particular property levied upon. The notice must be subscribed by the plaintiff's attorney, adding the office address; and must be recorded and indexed by the clerk, in the same book, in like manner, and with like effect, as a notice of the pendency of an action.

2. Upon the personal property, capable of manual delivery, including a bond, promissory note, or other instrument for the payment of money, by taking the same into the sheriff's actual custody. He must thereupon, without delay, deliver to the person from whose possession the property is taken, if any, a copy of the warrant, and of the affidavits upon which it was granted.

3. Upon other personal property, by leaving a certified copy of the warrant, and a notice showing the property attached, with the person holding the same; or, if it consists of a demand, other than as specified in the last subdivision, with the person against whom it exists; or, if it consists of a right or share in the stock of an association or corporation, or interests or profits thereon, with the president, or other head of the association or corporation, or the secretary, cashier, or managing agent thereof, or if it consists of a right or interest in an estate of a deceased person arising under the provisions of a will or under the provisions of law in case of intestacy, with the executor or trustee under the will, or the administrator of the estate.

4. Upon property discovered in any action brought as prescribed in subdivision two of section 655 of this act, by entering in the proper clerk's office, the judgment rendered in said action, and thereafter levying on said property in the manner prescribed in subdivisions one, two and three of this section.

§ 650. Certificate of defendant's interest to be furnished.

Upon the application of a sheriff, holding a warrant of attachment, the president or other head of an association or corporation, or the secretary, cashier, or managing agent thereof, or a debtor of the defendant, or a person holding property, including a bond, promissory note, or other instrument for the payment of money, belonging to the defendant, must furnish to the sheriff a certificate, under his hand, specifying the rights or number of shares of the defendant, in the stock of the association or corporation, with all dividends declared or incumbrances thereon; or the amount, nature, and description of the property, held for the benefit of the defendant, or of the defendant's interest in property so held, or of the debt or demand owing to the defendant, as the case requires.

From Co. Proc., § 236.

§ 651. Person refusing certificate may be examined.

If a person, to whom application is made, as prescribed in the last section, refuses to give such a certificate; or if it is made to appear, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the court, or a judge thereof, or the county judge of the county to which the warrant is issued, that there is reason to suspect that a certificate given by him is untrue, or that it fails fully to set forth the facts, required to be shown thereby; the court or judge may make an order, directing him to attend, at a specified time, and at a place within the county to which the warrant is issued, and submit to an examination under oath, concerning the same. The order may, in the discretion of the court or judge, direct an appearance before a referee named therein.

From Co. Proc., § 236.

§ 652. [Am'd, 1895.] Rights of owner or master of vessel by which goods have been shipped.

Except as otherwise prescribed in the next section, the owner or master of a vessel, on board of which goods of a defendant, against whom a warrant of attachment is issued, have been shipped for transportation, without reshipment and transshipment in the State, to a port or place without the State, may transport and deliver them according to their destination, notwithstanding the warrant; unless the plaintiff, his agent or attorney, execute to the owner or the master of the vessel, a written undertaking, with sufficient sureties, in a sum specified therein, to pay him all expenses, damages, and charges, which may be incurred by him, or to which he may be subjected, for unlading the goods from the vessel, and for all necessary detention of the vessel, for that purpose. The undertaking must be approved, with respect to its form, the sum specified therein, and the sufficiency of the sureties, by a judge or justice of the court, or the county judge of the county wherein the vessel is situated, or in the city and county of New-York, by a justice of the supreme court.

§ 653. Foregoing section not to apply in certain cases.

The last section does not apply, where the owner or master, before the shipment of the goods, had actual information of the granting of the warrant, or where he has, in any wise, connived at or been privy to, the shipment thereof, for the purpose of screening them from legal process, or of hindering, delaying, or defrauding creditors.

§ 654. Sheriff must make inventory.

The sheriff must, immediately after levying under a warrant of attachment, make, with the assistance of two disinterested freeholders, a description of the real property, and a just and true inventory of the personal property, upon which it was levied, and of the books, vouchers, and other papers taken into his custody, stating therein the estimated value of each parcel of real property attached, or of the interest of the defendant therein, and of each article of personal property, enumerating such of the latter as are perishable. The inventory must be signed by the sheriff and the appraisers; and must, within five days after the levy, be filed in the office of the clerk of the county, where the property is attached.

§ 655. [Am'd, 1889.] Sheriff may maintain actions.

The sheriff must, subject to the direction of the court or judge, collect and receive all debts, effects, and things in action, attached by him. He may maintain any action or special proceeding, in his name, or in the name of the defendant, which is necessary, for that purpose, or to reduce to his actual possession an article of personal property, capable of manual delivery, but of which he has been unable to obtain possession. And he may discontinue such an action or special proceeding, at such time and on such terms, as the court or judge directs.

2. Where the summons was served without the State, or by publication, pursuant to an order obtained for that purpose, as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act; and where the defendant has not appeared in the action (otherwise than specially) but has made default and before entering final judgment, the sheriff may, in aid of such attachment, maintain an action against the attachment debtor, and any other person or persons, or against any other person or persons, to compel the discovery of any thing in action, or other property belonging to the attachment debtor; and of any money, thing in action, or other property due to him, or held in trust for him, or to prevent the transfer thereof, or the payment or delivery thereof, to him or any other person, and the sheriff may, in aid of such attachment, also maintain any other action against the attachment debtor and any other person or persons, or against any other person or persons, which may now be maintained by a judgment creditor in a court of equity, either before the return of an execution in aid thereof, or after the return of an execution unsatisfied. The judgment in any of the above-mentioned actions must provide and direct that the said property shall be applied by the sheriff, to the satisfaction of any judgment which the plaintiff may obtain in the attachment action.

§ 656. [Am'd, 1877.] Perishable goods and animals to be sold.

If property attached, other than a vessel, is perishable, the court or judge may, by an order made with or without notice, as the urgency of the case in its or his opinion requires, direct the sheriff to sell it at public auction, and thereupon the sheriff must sell it accordingly. If it consists of live animals, the same proceedings may be had, but such notice shall be given to the parties to the action, of the application for the order as the court or judge prescribes. The order directing the sale must prescribe the time and place of the sale, and notice thereof must be given in such manner, and for such time as is prescribed in the order. The sheriff must retain in his hands the proceeds of the sale, after deducting his expenses as allowed by the court or judge.

From Co. Proc., § 233; 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), part of § 9. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

If goods or effects, other than a vessel, attached as the property of the defendant, are claimed by or in behalf of another person, as his property, an affidavit may be made and delivered to the sheriff, in behalf of such person, at any time while such goods or effects or the proceeds thereof are in the sheriff's possession, stating that he makes such a claim; specifying in whole or in part the property to which it relates, and in all cases stating the value of the property claimed and the damages, if any, over and above such value, which the claimant will suffer in case such levy is not released. In that case, the sheriff may, in his discretion, empanel a jury to try the validity of the claim.

From 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 10. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 541 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

If, by their inquisition, the jury finds the property of the goods or effects to have been in the claimant, at the time of the levy, they must also determine its value, and the damages above such value as specified in the last section. Thereupon the officer must forthwith deliver such goods or effects to him or his agent; unless the plaintiff gives an undertaking with at least two sufficient sureties, to the effect that the sureties will indemnify him to the amount therein specified, not less than twice the value of the goods and effects and damages as determined by the jury, and two hundred and fifty dollars in addition thereto, against all damages, costs and expenses, in an action to be brought against him by any person, by the claimant, his assignee, or other representative, by reason of the levy upon, detention, or sale of any of the goods or effects, by virtue of the attachment. If the undertaking is given, the officer must detain the goods or effects, as the property of the defendant. Where an undertaking is given to indemnify the sheriff, he must, within two days after the giving of said undertaking, cause the same to be filed in the office of the court out of which the attachment was issued, and serve upon the claimant or his agent, and the attaching creditor or attorney, whose name is subscribed to the warrant of attachment, a copy of said undertaking, with a notice of the justification of the sureties thereon. The justification must take place before a judge of the court out of which the attachment was issued, at a time to be specified in the notice, which must not be less than two nor more than five days after the serving of the said notice. For the purpose of justification, each of the sureties upon the undertaking must attend before the judge at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and be examined on oath on the part of the claimant, or his agent or attorney, touching his sufficiency, in such manner as the judge, in his discretion, thinks proper. The examination may be adjourned from day to day until it is completed, but such adjournment must always be to the next judicial day. If required by the claimant, his assignee or other representative, the examination must be reduced to writing and subscribed by the sureties. If the judge finds the sureties sufficient he must annex the examination to the undertaking, endorse his allowance thereon, and cause the said undertaking, together with the examination of the sureties, to be filed with the clerk of the court. Thereupon the sheriff is released and discharged from all liability, by reason of the taking and detention of the property seized. When any such undertaking shall have been approved and filed, as hereinbefore provided, the clerk of the court in which the same shall be filed shall immediately index the same in the general index book in his office under the title of the suit in which the attachment is issued.

From 2 R. S. 4 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 11. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1888, c. 98, § 1; L. 1895, c. 662; L. 1904, c. 541 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

If goods or effects, other than a vessel, attached as the property of the defendant, or any portion thereof, are claimed by or in behalf of another person, such claimant may, within five days after the levy of the attachment, apply to the judge who granted the warrant, or to the court, for an order to discharge the attachment, as to the whole or a part of the property attached. Upon such an application the claimant must give to the sheriff an undertaking with at least two sufficient sureties who must justify in double the value of the property claimed, as appraised in the inventory of the property attached. The undertaking must be conditioned to the effect that in an action to be brought on the undertaking, the claimant will establish that he was the owner of such goods or effects at the time of the levy thereon; and that in case of his failure to do so, he will pay to the sheriff the full value of the property so claimed with interest from the date thereof together with the costs of the action. Sections 690 and 691 shall apply to an undertaking given as prescribed in this section. Upon such an undertaking being given and after justification of the sureties if required, the court or judge must make an order discharging the property so claimed from the attachment, upon payment by the claimant of the sheriff's fees and necessary disbursements. Thereupon and upon such payment, the sheriff must discharge the same accordingly, notwithstanding that the plaintiff may have given an undertaking as provided in section 658. The court or judge may, upon the application of the plaintiff or of the claimant at any time before the warrant is vacated or annulled, upon notice to all parties in interest, direct the sheriff to commence an action upon the undertaking, upon such terms and conditions and under such regulations as it or he deems just. In such an action, the claimant may show, in bar of a recovery, that he was the owner of the said property attached. If judgment passes against the claimant the plaintiff is entitled to recover the value of the said property with interest from the date of the undertaking with the costs of the action. Neither the giving of the undertaking as prescribed in this section, nor the recovery of any judgment thereon, shall affect in any manner, the right, if any, of the defendant in the attachment action in or to the property discharged from the attachment, nor shall this section be construed as affecting or impairing any other right or remedy which any person might otherwise have in respect to the property attached.

§ 659. Finding, not to prejudice right of claimant.

If the property is found to be in the defendant, the finding does not prejudice the right of the claimant to bring an action, to recover the goods or effects, or the value thereof.

New.

§ 660. Proceedings on claim to domestic vessel.

Where a vessel, belonging to a port or place in the United States, or a share or interest therein, is attached, the court or judge, on the application, within thirty days thereafter, of a person claiming title thereto, or of his agent, must appoint three indifferent persons to make a valuation thereof.

From 2 R. S. 5 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 13.

§ 661. [Am'd, 1877.] Appraisers to be sworn; valuation to be returned.

A valuation of a vessel, or of a share, or interest therein, made as prescribed in this article, must be in writing, and subscribed by the appraisers; each of whom must take and subscribe an affidavit, annexed thereto, to the effect, that the valuation is, in all respects, just and fair, and that the value of the vessel, share, or interest, is truly stated therein, according to the deponent's belief. The valuation must be immediately returned to the court or judge; and, after an undertaking is given, or after the expiration of the time to give an undertaking, as prescribed in the next section, it must be delivered to the sheriff.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 662. Undertaking to be given.

Within two days after the valuation is returned, the claimant or his agent may execute an undertaking to the sheriff, with sufficient sureties, approved by the court or judge, who must justify in twice the appraised value, to the effect, that, in an action to be brought on the undertaking, the claimant will establish that he was the owner of the vessel, share, or interest, at the time of the levy thereupon; and that, in case of his failure to do so, he will pay the amount of the valuation, with interest from the date of the undertaking, to the sheriff; or, if the warrant is vacated or annulled, to the defendant, or his personal representative.

From 2 R. S. 5, § 14.

§ 663. Vessel; when to be discharged.

Upon such an undertaking being executed and delivered to the sheriff, the court or judge must make an order, directing the vessel or share to be discharged from the attachment. Thereupon the sheriff must discharge the same accordingly.

From Id., § 15.

§ 664. When undertaking to be sued.

The court or judge may, upon the application of either party, at any time before the warrant is vacated or annulled, direct the sheriff to commence an action upon the undertaking, upon such terms and conditions, and under such regulations, between him and the applicant, as it or he deems just. And if the warrant of attachment is vacated or annulled, the defendant in the attachment, his assignee or personal representative, may commence and maintain an action upon the undertaking, or may be substituted, in place of the sheriff, in an action pending thereupon.

From 2 R. S. 5, § 16.

§ 665. Defence in such an action; plaintiff's recovery.

In such an action, the claimant may show, in bar of a recovery, that he was the owner of the vessel, share, or interest, at the time when it was attached. If judgment passes against him, the plaintiff is entitled to recover the amount of the valuation, with interest from the date of the undertaking.

From Id., § 17.

§ 666. Foreign vessel; how valued.

Where a foreign vessel, or a share or interest therein, is attached, it must be valued, as prescribed in sections 660 and 661 of this act, upon the application of a person, who makes affidavit, to the effect that he is the owner thereof, or that he is the agent of a person, naming him and his residence, whom he believes to be the owner of the vessel, share, or interest attached.

From Id., § 18.

§ 667. [Am'd, 1877.] Notice thereof.

Such notice of the application must be given to the plaintiff, as the court or judge deems reasonable.

From Id., § 19. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 668. Plaintiff to give undertaking with sureties.

Within three days after the valuation is returned, the plaintiff must give, to the person in whose behalf the claim is made, an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, approved by the court or judge, who must justify in twice the appraised value, to the effect that they will pay such damages as may be recovered for seizing the vessel, share, or interest, in an action brought against the sheriff, or the plaintiff in the attachment, within three months from the approval of the undertaking, if it appears therein that the vessel, share, or interest belonged, at the time of attaching it, to the person in whose behalf the claim is made.

From 2 R. S. 6, § 20.

§ 669. Vessel; when to be discharged.

Unless such an undertaking is given, the court or judge must grant an order discharging the vessel, share, or interest so claimed, from the attachment; whereupon the sheriff must discharge the same accordingly.

From Id., § 21.

§ 670. Terms on which debtor may claim vessel.

If, after such an undertaking is given by the plaintiff, the warrant is vacated or annulled, or the attachment is discharged as to the vessel, share, or interest, the defendant or his agent is entitled to claim the same, or the proceeds thereof, if it has been sold, only upon his showing, to the satisfaction of the court or judge, that the undertaking has been discharged; or giving to the plaintiff an undertaking, with sufficient sureties, approved by the court or judge, who must justify in twice the appraised value, to the effect, that they will indemnify the plaintiff against all charges and expenses, in consequence of the undertaking.

From 2 R. S. 6, § 22.

§ 671. When vessel to be sold.

If the undertaking of the plaintiff is not discharged, or he is not indemnified, as prescribed in this article, within one month after the defendant becomes entitled to claim the vessel, share, or interest, as so prescribed, it may be sold by the sheriff, in whose custody it is, upon an order of the court or judge; and the proceeds of the sale must be paid to the persons who executed the undertaking, for their indemnity.

From Id., § 24.

If a claim is not made, by or in behalf of an owner of a domestic vessel, or of a share or interest therein, within thirty days after it is attached, or if the proper undertaking is not executed by the claimant; or if a claim is not made, within that time, by or in behalf of the owner of a foreign vessel, or of a share or interest therein; the vessel, share, or interest, may be sold by the sheriff, under an order of the court or judge, upon the application of the plaintiff, if, in the opinion of the court or judge, a sale is necessary.

From 2 R. S. 7, § 25.

§ 673. The same.

Where a share or interest in a vessel, foreign or domestic, is attached, if the proper claim to it is not made, by or in behalf of an owner thereof, within thirty days thereafter, it may be sold by the sheriff, under an order of the court or judge, upon the application of a joint owner, or his agent.

From Id., § 26.

§ 674. [Am'd, 1877.] Sheriff to keep property.

The sheriff must keep the property attached by him, or the proceeds of property sold, or of a demand collected by him, to answer any judgment that may be obtained against the defendant in the action.

From Co. Proc., § 232. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 675. Sheriff may be directed to pay money into court.

But the court, upon the application of either party to the action, may direct the sheriff, either before or after the expiration of his term of office, to pay into court the proceeds of a demand collected, or property sold; or to deposit them in a designated bank or trust company, to be drawn out only upon the order of the court.

New.

§ 676. [Am'd, 1877.] When he may be directed to release or deliver property.

Where the proceeds of the property sold, and of the demands collected by the sheriff, exceed the amount of the plaintiff's demand, with the costs and expenses, and of all other warrants of attachment or executions in the sheriff's hands, chargeable upon the same; the court, or the judge who granted the warrant, upon the application of the defendant, or of an assignee of, or purchaser from the defendant, and upon notice to the plaintiff, and the plaintiffs in the other warrants or executions, may, at any time during the pendency of the action, make an order directing the sheriff to pay over the surplus to the applicant, and to release from the attachment the remaining real and personal property attached.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 677. [Am'd, 1889.] Plaintiff may bring action in name of himself and the sheriff.

The plaintiff, by leave of the court or judge, procured as prescribed in the next section, may bring and maintain, in the name of himself and the sheriff jointly, by his own attorney, and at his own expense, any action which, by the provisions of this title, may be brought by the sheriff, to recover property attached, or the value thereof, or a demand attached, or upon an undertaking given as prescribed in this title, by a person other than the plaintiff; the plaintiff, in his own name and the sheriff's jointly, may also bring and maintain any action which, by the provisions of subdivision two of section 655 of article second of this title, may be brought by the sheriff. The sheriff must receive the proceeds of such an action, but he is not liable for the costs or expenses thereof. Costs may be awarded, in such an action, against the plaintiff in the warrant, but not against the sheriff.

§ 678. How leave to bring such action procured.

The court or judge must grant leave to bring such an action, where it appears, that due notice of the application therefor has been given to the sheriff; but, before doing so, the court or judge may require that notice of the application be given to the plaintiff, in any other warrant against the same defendant. And such terms, conditions, and regulations may be imposed, in the order granting leave, as the court or judge thinks proper, for the due protection of the rights and interests of all persons, interested in the disposition of the proceeds of the action.

From Co. Proc., § 238.

§ 679. Plaintiff may be joined with sheriff, after action commenced.

Leave may, in like manner and with like effect, be granted to the plaintiff in the warrant, to be joined with the sheriff, in an action brought by the sheriff, in a case where he might have procured leave to bring the action, as prescribed in the last two sections. Upon an application therefor, the court or judge may, in a proper case, require the plaintiff to provide for the expenses in the action, already incurred by the sheriff. The application must be denied, in case of an unreasonable delay in making it; or where an application was made, before the action was brought, and the plaintiff neglected or refused, without a good excuse therefor, to comply with the terms, conditions or regulations, then imposed.

From Id., § 238.

§ 680. Judge to direct as to management of such an action, etc.

The court or judge may, upon the application of the sheriff, or of the defendant in the warrant, during the pendency of an action, brought as prescribed in the last three sections, direct as to the conduct, discontinuance, or settlement of the same, and as to the application or disposition of the money or property recovered therein, as justice requires.

From Id., § 238.

§ 681. Return of inventory; how enforced.

Upon the application of either party, and proof of the neglect of the sheriff, the court or judge may, by order, require the sheriff to return an inventory. Disobedience to such an order may be punished, as a contempt of the court.

From 2 R. S. 18 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 66.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Vacating or modifying the warrant; discharging the attachment.

Sec. 682. Motion to vacate or modify warrant, or increase security.
683. How motion must be made; opposing it by new proofs.
684, 685. [Repealed.]
686. When prior motion not to prejudice subsequent motion.
687. Defendant may apply for discharge of attachment.
688. Undertaking to be given.
689. Application by one of several defendants.
690. Sureties to justify if required.
691. Sheriff may retain property until justification.
692. Foregoing provisions applicable to vessels.
693. Partners may apply to discharge attachment.
694. Undertaking to be given.
695. Court or judge may ascertain value.
696. When plaintiff entitled to notice of any application, etc.

§ 682. [Am'd, 1877.] Motion to vacate or modify warrant, or increase security.

The defendant, or a person who has acquired a lien upon, or interest in, his property, after it was attached, may, at any time before the actual application of the attached property, or the proceeds thereof, to the payment of a judgment recovered in the action, apply to vacate or modify the warrant, or to increase the security, given by the plaintiff, or for one or more of those forms of relief, together, or in the alternative.

From Co. Proc., § 241. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 683. How motion must be made; opposing it by new proofs.

An application, specified in the last section, may be founded only upon the papers upon which the warrant was granted; in which case, it must be made to the court, or, if the warrant was granted by a judge out of court, to the same judge, in court or out of court, and with or without notice, as he deems proper. Or it may be founded upon proof, by affidavit on the part of the defendant; in which case, it must be made to the court, or, if the warrant was granted by a judge out of court, to any judge of the court, upon notice; and it may be opposed by new proof, by affidavit, on the part of the plaintiff, tending to sustain any ground for the attachment, recited in the warrant, and no other, unless the defendant relies upon a discharge in bankruptcy, or upon a discharge or exoneration, granted in insolvent proceedings; in which case, the plaintiff may show any matter, in avoidance thereof, which he might show upon the trial.

Corresponds to § 568, ante.

§ 686. [Am'd, 1877.] When prior motion not to prejudice subsequent motion.

The denial of such an application does not prejudice a subsequent application, seasonably made, founded upon the failure of a complaint which had not been filed or served at the time of the former application, to set forth any of the causes of action mentioned in section 635 and section 637 of this act.

See § 568, ante. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 687. [Am'd, 1906.] Defendant may apply for discharge of attachment.

The defendant may, at any time after he has appeared in the action, apply to the judge who granted the warrant, or to the court, for an order to discharge the attachment, as to a whole or a part of the property attached.

From Co. Proc., § 240. Am'd by L. 1906, c. 507 (in effect Sept. 1, 1906).

§ 688. [Am'd, 1877, 1906.] Undertaking to be given.

Upon such an application, the defendant must give an undertaking, with at least two sufficient sureties, to the effect that he will, on demand, pay to the plaintiff the amount of any judgment which may be recovered in the action against him, not exceeding a sum specified in the undertaking, with interest. The sum so specified must be, at least equal to the amount of the plaintiff's demand, as specified in his affidavit; or, at the option of the defendant, equal to the appraised value, according to the inventory, of the property attached; or, if the application is to discharge the attachment, as to a part only of the property attached, to the appraised value of that portion. Upon such application being made after final judgment, the defendant must give the security required to perfect an appeal to the court of appeals from a final judgment, of the same amount or to the same effect, and to stay the execution thereof.

§ 689. Application by one of several defendants.

Where there are two or more defendants, and an application is made, as prescribed in the last two sections, by one or more, but not by all of them, the undertaking must provide for the payment of any judgment, which may be recovered against any of the defendants in the action, unless the applicant makes proof, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the court or judge, that the property, with respect to which the application is made, belongs to him separately; in which case, the undertaking must provide for the payment of any judgment, which may be recovered in the action against the applicant, either alone, or jointly with any other defendant. Where an application is made, as prescribed in this section, at least two days' notice thereof, with a copy of the affidavit, must be served upon the plaintiff's attorney, who may oppose the application by proof, by affidavit, that one or more of the other defendants own, or have an interest in the property.

New.

§ 690. [Am'd, 1877.] Sureties to justify if required.

An undertaking, given as prescribed in the last two sections, must be forthwith filed with the clerk. A copy thereof, with a notice of the filing, must be forthwith served upon the plaintiff's attorney; who may, within three days thereafter, give notice to the sheriff, that he excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties. Thereupon, the sureties must justify, upon the like notice, and in like manner, as bail upon an arrest; or a new undertaking must be given, with new sureties, who must justify in like manner. If the plaintiff does not except, as prescribed in this section, he is deemed to have waived all objection to the sureties.

From Co. Proc., § 241. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 691. Sheriff may retain property until justification.

The sheriff is responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties; and he may retain possession of the property attached, and the proceeds thereof, until the objection to them is waived, as prescribed in the last section, or they, or the new sureties, justify.

From Id., § 241.

§ 692. Foregoing provisions applicable to vessels.

The last five sections are applicable, where a vessel, or a share or interest therein, is attached. If it is necessary, to enable the defendant to discharge the attachment, the court or judge may, by order, stay any proceeding specified in article second of this title, or extend the time to do any act therein specified.

New.

§ 693. [Am'd, 1912.] Partners may apply to discharge attachment.

If a warrant of attachment is levied upon the interest of one or more partners, in the property of a partnership, the other partners, or any of them, may, at any time before final judgment, apply to the judge who granted the warrant, or to the court, upon an affidavit showing the facts, for an order to discharge the attachment, as to that interest.

New. Am'd L. 1912, ch. 389 (in effect April 15, 1912.)

§ 694. [Am'd, 1877, 1912.] Undertaking to be given.

Upon such an application, the applicant must give an undertaking, with at least two sufficient sureties, to the effect that they will pay to the sheriff, on demand, if judgment is recovered against the defendant whose interest in a partnership is so levied upon, an amount not exceeding a sum, specified in the undertaking, which must not be less than the value of the interest of the defendant, in the property seized, by virtue of the attachment, as fixed by the court or judge. If the value, in the opinion of the court or judge, is uncertain, the sum shall be such as the court or judge determines.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1912, ch. 389 (in effect April 15, 1912).

§ 695. Court or judge may ascertain value.

For the purpose of fixing the sum, or determining the sufficiency of the sureties, the court or judge may receive affidavits or oral testimony, or may direct a reference.

New.

§ 696. [Am'd, 1877.] When plaintiff entitled to notice of any application, etc.

The court or judge may direct, that the plaintiff have notice of an application for a discharge of property, as prescribed in this article, or of the hearing under an order of reference, made as prescribed in the last section; and if the applicant does not appear, where notice has been given, the application may be dismissed or denied.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Regulations where there are two or more warrants against the same defendant.

Sec. 697. Preferences of two or more warrants.
698. Rule as to levy under a junior warrant.
699, 700. [Repealed.]
701. Undertaking by junior attaching creditor to prevent release of foreign vessel.
702. Rule as to subsequent attachment of foreign vessel.
703. Rights of junior plaintiff in action by senior plaintiff and sheriff jointly.
704. Junior plaintiff may be allowed to commence action jointly with sheriff.
705. Rights of third and other subsequent attaching creditors.

§ 697. Preferences of two or more warrants.

Where two or more warrants of attachment, against the same defendant, are delivered to the sheriff of the same county, to be executed, their respective preferences, and the rules, where a levy, or a levy and sale, have been made under a junior warrant, are the same, as where two or more executions, against the property of the same defendant, are delivered to the sheriff of the same county, to be executed.

§ 698. Rule as to levy under a junior warrant.

Where a domestic vessel, or share or interest therein, has been attached, and afterwards released, as prescribed in this title; or where the personal property of a partnership, of which the defendant was a member, has been attached, and the attachment afterwards discharged, upon the application of another partner, as prescribed in this title; another warrant, against the same defendant, shall not be levied on the same property, by the sheriff of the same or of any other county, until after the first warrant has been vacated or annulled. But, except as thus prescribed, where a second warrant, against the same defendant, is delivered to the same sheriff, he must execute it, by a levy upon property within his county, and he must thereupon take the same proceedings, as if the levy was made under the first warrant.

New.

§ 701. Undertaking by junior attaching creditor to prevent release of foreign vessel.

Where a foreign vessel, or a share or interest therein, has been attached and valued, as prescribed in article second of this title, and the plaintiff, in the first warrant of attachment, fails to give an undertaking to prevent the release thereof, the court or judge may grant to the plaintiff in a second warrant, then in the sheriff's hands for execution, an extension, of not more than three days thereafter, within which to furnish an undertaking, in all respects like the one to be furnished by the first plaintiff. And if he furnishes it, within that time, he has the same rights and privileges, and is subject to the same duties and liabilities, with respect to the vessel and its proceeds, and the subsequent proceedings relating thereto, as if his was the first warrant.

New.

§ 702. Rule as to subsequent attachment of foreign vessel.

If a foreign vessel, or a share or interest therein, has been attached, and afterwards released, by reason of the failure of the plaintiff, in the first or the second warrant, to give an undertaking to prevent the release, it shall not be again attached, under a warrant against the same defendant, which has been delivered to the sheriff of the same county, before the expiration of the time within which the undertaking should have been furnished. But it may be again attached, under a subsequent warrant against the same defendant; in which case, the plaintiff therein, and the plaintiff in each warrant subsequently delivered to the sheriff, have the same rights, and privileges, and are subject to the same duties and liabilities, with respect to the vessel and its proceeds, and the subsequent proceedings relating thereto, as if the warrant, under which it was attached, was the first warrant.

New.

§ 703. Rights of junior plaintiff in action by senior plaintiff and sheriff jointly.

Where the plaintiff in a warrant of attachment has commenced an action, in the name of himself and the sheriff jointly, as prescribed in this title, a plaintiff in a junior warrant may apply to the court or judge to direct as to the conduct, discontinuance, or settlement of the same, or to impose terms, conditions, and regulations as to the continuance thereof, in the interest of the applicant; and such order may be made thereupon, as justice requires. If the first warrant is vacated, or the attachment thereunder is released or discharged, without affecting the cause of action prosecuted by the plaintiff therein and the sheriff jointly, the plaintiff in the warrant next in order may, upon his own application, be substituted as joint plaintiff with the sheriff, by an order, made as upon an application for leave to bring such an action.

New. See §§ 677-680, ante.

§ 704. Junior plaintiff may be allowed to commence action jointly with sheriff.

A plaintiff in a second warrant may apply to the court or judge, upon notice to the plaintiff in the first warrant, and to the sheriff, for leave to bring and maintain, in the name of himself and the sheriff jointly, any action, which might be brought in the name of the senior plaintiff and the sheriff. If it appears that the plaintiff in the first warrant neglects or refuses to be joined with the sheriff in such an action, or to comply with the terms, conditions, and regulations, imposed, either upon granting him an order for that purpose, or upon the hearing of an application, made as prescribed in this section, the court or judge may grant to the plaintiff in the second warrant, leave to bring and maintain such an action, in the name of himself and the sheriff jointly, with like effect, as if his was the first warrant.

New.

§ 705. Rights of third and other subsequent attaching creditors.

Where there are more than two warrants of attachment, against the same defendant, the plaintiffs in the third and each subsequent warrant have, according to their respective priorities, the same rights and privileges, as against the plaintiffs in all senior warrants, which the plaintiff in the second warrant has, as against the plaintiff in the first, and are subject to the same duties and liabilities; except that a second extension of the time, within which to furnish an undertaking to prevent the release of a foreign vessel, or a share or interest therein, shall not be granted. And the plaintiffs in two or more junior warrants of attachment, may, by agreement among themselves, take jointly, and for their common benefit, any proceeding, permitted by this title to be taken, by the plaintiff in a second or subsequent warrant of attachment; provided that it does not interfere with the preferential or other right of an intermediate plaintiff.

New.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Proceedings after judgment; rights of parties and duties of the sheriff after the warrant is vacated or annulled, or the attachment discharged.

Sec. 706. Execution to issue to sheriff who has levied.
707. When judgment enforceable only against attached property.
708. Judgment in the principal action; how satisfied.
709. When attachment discharged, etc., property to be restored to defendant.
710. Additional provision for his relief.
711. Cancelling notice attaching real property.
712. When sheriff to return warrant and his proceedings.

§ 706. Execution to issue to sheriff who has levied.

Where a levy, under a warrant of attachment in an action, has been made, an execution against property, upon a final judgment in favor of the plaintiff therein, recovered after the expiration of the term of office of the sheriff, who made the levy, must nevertheless be directed to and executed by that sheriff, unless another person is designated by law to complete the unfinished business pertaining to his office; or, in that case, to the person so designated.

New.

§ 707. [Am'd, 1877.] When judgment enforceable only against attached property.

Where a defendant, who has not appeared, is a non-resident of the State, or a foreign corporation, and the summons was served without the State, or by publication, pursuant to an order obtained for that purpose, as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act, the judgment can be enforced only against the property which has been levied upon, by virtue of the warrant of attachment, at the time when the judgment is entered. But this section does not declare the effect of such a judgment, with respect to the application of any statute of limitation.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 708. [Am'd, 1877, 1912.] Judgment in the principal action; how satisfied.

Where an execution against property is issued upon a judgment for the plaintiff, in an action in which a warrant of attachment has been levied, the sheriff must satisfy it, as follows:

1. He must pay over to the plaintiff all money attached by him, and the proceeds of all sales of perishable property, or of any vessel or share of interest therein, or animals, sold by him, or of any debts, or other things in action collected or sold by him; or so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy the judgment.

2. If any balance remains due, he must sell, under the execution, the other personal property attached, or so much thereof as is necessary; including rights or shares in the stock of an association or corporation, or a bond or other instrument for the payment of money, executed and issued, with the interest coupons annexed, if any, by a government, state, county, public officer, or municipal or other corporation, which is in terms negotiable, or otherwise, whether past due, or yet to become due; but not including any other debt or thing in action. If the proceeds of that property are insufficient to satisfy the judgment, and the execution requires him to satisfy it out of any other personal property of the defendant, he must sell the personal property, upon which he has levied by virtue of the execution. If the proceeds of the personal property, applicable to the execution, are insufficient to satisfy the judgment, the sheriff must sell, under the execution, all the right, title, and interest, which the defendant had in the real property attached, at the time when the notice was filed, or at any time afterwards, before resorting to any other real property.

3. If personal property attached, belonging to the defendant, has passed out of the hands of the sheriff, without having been sold or converted into money, and the attachment has not been discharged as to that property, he must, if practicable, regain possession thereof; and, for that purpose, he has all the authority which he had, to seize the same under the warrant. A person, who wilfully conceals or withholds such property from him, is liable to double damages, at the suit of the party aggrieved.

4. Until the judgment is paid, he may collect the debts and other things in action attached, and prosecute any undertaking, which he has taken in the course of the proceedings, and apply the proceeds thereof to the payment of the judgment.

5. At any time after levying the attachment, the court, upon the petition of the plaintiff, accompanied with an affidavit, specifying fully all the proceedings of the sheriff, since the levy under the warrant, the property attached, and the disposition thereof; and the affidavit of the sheriff, showing that he has used diligence, in endeavoring to collect the debts and other things in action attached, and that a portion thereof remains uncollected; may direct the sheriff to sell the remaining portion, upon such terms, and in such manner, as it thinks proper. Notice of the application must be given to the defendant's attorney, if the defendant appeared in the action. If the summons was not personally served on the defendant, and he did not appear, the court may make such order as to the service of notice, as it thinks proper; or may grant the application without notice.

§ 709. [Am'd, 1877.] When attachment discharged, etc., property to be restored to defendant.

Where a warrant of attachment is vacated, or annulled, or an attachment is discharged, upon the application of the defendant, the sheriff must, except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, deliver over to the defendant, or to the person entitled thereto, upon reasonable demand, and upon payment of all costs, charges, and expenses, legally chargeable by the sheriff, all the attached personal property remaining in his hands, or that portion thereof, as to which the attachment is discharged; or the proceeds thereof, if it has been sold by him.

Where the sheriff is required by this title, to deliver attached property, or the proceeds thereof, to the defendant, he must also deliver to him, unless otherwise specially directed by the court or judge, all books of account, vouchers, evidences of debt, muniments of title, or other papers, relating to the property, either real or personal, or to its proceeds; together with all undertakings, relating thereto, which he has taken in the course of the proceedings, and which have not been fully satisfied; except an undertaking, given by the defendant, upon the discharge of property. He must also deliver a written assignment, duly acknowledged, of each undertaking, so delivered, and of each other instrument, to which the defendant is thus entitled, an assignment of which is necessary to perfect or protect the defendant's title thereto. The defendant must also, but upon his own application only, be substituted in place of the sheriff, or the sheriff and the plaintiff jointly, in an action brought as prescribed in this title; but the court or judge may impose, as a condition of granting the order of substitution, such terms as justice requires, with respect to indemnity and payment of expenses. The defendant's rights, with respect to property attached and not disposed of, and an undertaking, or other instrument, to which he is thus entitled, are the same as those of the sheriff, while the warrant was still in force, except where his rights are specially defined or regulated by law.

See Co. Proc., § 239.

§ 711. [Am'd, 1877.] Cancelling notice attaching real property.

At any time after the warrant of attachment has been vacated or annulled, or the attachment has been discharged as to real property attached, the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of any person aggrieved, and upon such notice as it deems just, direct, that any notice, filed for the purpose of attaching the property, be cancelled of record, by the clerk of the county where it is filed and recorded. The cancellation must be made by a note, to that effect, on the margin of the record, referring to the order; and, unless the order is entered in the same clerk's office, a certified copy thereof must, at the same time, be filed therein.

From Co. Proc., § 132. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 712. When sheriff to return warrant and his proceedings.

Where a warrant of attachment has been vacated or annulled, the sheriff must forthwith file, in the clerk's office, the warrant, with a return of his proceedings thereon. Upon the application of either party, and proof of the sheriff's neglect, the court may direct him so to do, forthwith, or within a specified time.

TITLE IV.

Other provisional remedies; general and miscellaneous provisions.

Article 1. Receivers.
2. Deposit, delivery, or conveyance of property.
3. General and miscellaneous provisions.

Re art 6 Cor Inve. Act § 234 te

ARTICLE FIRST.

Receivers.

Sec. 713. Receiver; when appointed
714. Appointment of receiver; notice of application.
715. Security.
716. Certain receivers may hold property.

§ 713. [Am'd, 1895.] Receiver; when appointed.

In addition to the cases, where the appointment of a receiver is specially provided for by law, a receiver of property, which is the subject of an action, in the supreme court or a county court, may be appointed by the court, in either of the following cases:

1. Before final judgment, on the application of a party who establishes an apparent right to, or interest in, the property, where it is in the possession of an adverse party, and there is danger that it will be removed beyond the jurisdiction of the court, or lost, materially injured, or destroyed.

2. By or after the final judgment, to carry the judgment into effect, or to dispose of the property, according to its directions.

3. After final judgment, to preserve the property, during the pendency of an appeal.

The word, "property," as used in this section, includes the rents, profits, or other income, and the increase, of real or personal property.

§ 714. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1903.] Appointment of receiver; notice of application.

Notice of an application, for the appointment of a receiver in an action, before judgment therein, must be given to the adverse party, unless he has failed to appear in the action, and the time limited for his appearance has expired. But where an order has been made, as prescribed in section 438 of this act, the court may, in its discretion, appoint a temporary receiver, to receive and preserve the property, without notice, or upon a notice given by publication or otherwise, as he thinks proper. But where the action is for the foreclosure of a mortgage, which mortgage provides that a receiver may be appointed without notice, notice shall not be required.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1903, c. 217 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903).

A receiver, appointed in an action or special proceeding, must, before entering upon his duties, execute and file with the proper clerk, a bond to the people, with at least two sufficient sureties, in a penalty fixed by the court, judge, or referee, making the appointment, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties as receiver; and the execution of any such bond by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this state to transact business, shall be equivalent to the execution of said bond by two sureties. And the court, or where the order was made out of court, the judge making the order, by or pursuant to which the receiver was appointed, or his successor in office, may, at any time, remove the receiver, or direct him to give a new bond, with new sureties, with the like condition. But the foregoing provisions of this section do not apply to a case where special provision is made by law, for the security to be given by a receiver, or for increasing the same, or for removing a receiver. A receiver who,[1] having executed and filed a bond as provided for in this section, before presenting his accounts as receiver, must give notice to the surety or sureties on his official bond, of his intention to present his accounts, not less than eight days before the day set for the hearing on said accounting. The same notice must be given to such surety or sureties where the accounting is ordered on the petition of a person or persons other than the receiver, and in no case shall the receiver's accounts be passed, settled or allowed, unless the said notice provided for in this section shall have first been given to the surety or sureties on the official bond of such receiver.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1896, c. 94 (in effect March 11, 1896).

§ 716. [Am'd, 1895, 1909.] Certain receivers may hold real property.

A receiver, appointed by or pursuant to an order or a judgment, in an action in the supreme court or a county court, may take and hold real property, upon such trusts and for such purposes as the court directs, subject to the direction of the court, from time to time, respecting the disposition thereof.

From L. 1845, c. 112, § 1. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

[1] So in the original. The "who" is superfluous.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Deposit, delivery or conveyance of property.

Sec. 717. Court may order a deposit or delivery of property in certain cases.
718. When sheriff may take and convey, etc., property.

§ 717. [Am'd, 1877.] Court may order a deposit or delivery of property in certain cases.

Where it is admitted, by the pleading or examination of a party, that he has, in his possession or under his control, money, or other personal property capable of delivery, which, being the subject of the action or special proceeding, is held by him as trustee for another party, or which belongs or is due to another party, the court may, in its discretion, grant an order, upon notice, that it be paid into, or deposited in court, or delivered to that party, with or without security, subject to the further direction of the court.

From Co. Proc., § 244. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 718. When sheriff may take and convey, etc., property.

Where the court has directed a deposit or delivery, as prescribed in the last section; or where a judgment directs a party to make a deposit or delivery, or to convey real property; if the direction is disobeyed, the court, besides punishing the disobedience as a contempt, may, by order, require the sheriff to take, and deposit or deliver the money or other personal property, or to convey the real property, in conformity with the direction of the court.

From Id., § 244, last sentence but one.

ARTICLE THIRD.

General and miscellaneous provisions.

Sec. 719. Arrest, injunction, and attachment; when not to be granted together.
720. Counterclaim, provisional remedies.

§ 719. [Am'd, 1879.] Arrest, injunction, and attachment; when not to be granted together.

Where application for an order of arrest, an injunction, and a warrant of attachment, or two of them, is made, in the same action, against the same defendant; and it satisfactorily appears that, under the particular circumstances of the case, two or all of them are not necessary for the plaintiff's security, the court or judge may, in its or his discretion, require the plaintiff to elect between them. Where an application is made to obtain, vacate, modify, or set aside an order of arrest, injunction order, or warrant of attachment, the court or judge must finally decide the same, within twenty days after it is submitted for decision.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 720. [Am'd, 1879.] Counterclaim, provisional remedies.

Where the defendant interposes a counterclaim, and thereupon demands an affirmative judgment against the plaintiff, his right to a provisional remedy is the same as in an action brought by him against the plaintiff, for the cause of action stated in the counterclaim, and demanding the same judgment. And for the purpose of applying to such a case the provisions of this act, the defendant is deemed the plaintiff, the plaintiff is deemed the defendant, and the counterclaim so set forth in the answer is deemed the complaint.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

Sec. 721. Defects cured by verdict, etc., and by judgment.
722. Such defects to be supplied.
723. Amendments by the court; disregarding immaterial errors, etc.
724. Relief against omissions, etc.; amendments to conform proceedings.
725. Returns by officers, etc.
726. Papers lost or withheld; how supplied.
727. Order of court; when necessary to amend.
728. Disregarding defects in affidavits.
729. Certain bonds, etc., when sufficient.
730. Amending defects in bonds, etc.

§ 721. [Am'd, 1879.] Defects cured by verdict, etc., and by judgment.

In a court of record, where a verdict, report or decision has been rendered, the judgment shall not be stayed, nor shall any judgment of a court of record be impaired or affected by reason of either of the following imperfections, omissions, defects, matters, or things, in the process, pleadings or other proceedings:

1. For want of a summons, or other writ.
2. For any fault or defect in process; or for misconceiving a process, or awarding it to a wrong officer.
3. For an imperfect or insufficient return of a sheriff or other officer; or because an officer has not subscribed a return, actually made by him.
4. For a variance between the summons and complaint.
5. For a mispleading, insufficient pleading, or jeofail.
6. For want of a warrant of attorney by either party.
7. For the appearance, by attorney, of an infant party, if the verdict, report, or decision, or the judgment, is in his favor.
8. For omitting to allege any matter, without proof of which the verdict, report, or decision ought not to have been rendered.
9. For a mistake in the name of a party or other person; or in a sum of money; or in the description of property; or in reciting or stating a day, month, or year; where the correct name, sum, description, or date has been once rightly stated, in any of the pleadings or other proceedings.
10. For a mistake in the name of a juror or officer.
11. For an informality in entering judgment, or making up the judgment-roll.

12. For an omission on the part of a referee to be sworn; or for any other default or negligence of the clerk, or any other officer of the court, or of a party, his attorney or counsel, by which the adverse party has not been prejudiced.

From 2 R. S. 424, 425 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 5), § 7. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 722. Such defects to be supplied.

Each of the omissions, imperfections, defects, and variances, specified in the last section, and any other of like nature, not being against the right and justice of the matter, and not altering the issue between the parties, or the trial, must, when necessary, be supplied, and the proceeding amended, by the court wherein the judgment is rendered, or by an appellate court.

From 2 R. S. 425, § 8.

§ 723. [Am'd, 1877, 1900.] Amendments by the court; disregarding immaterial errors, etc.

The court may, upon the trial, or at any other stage of the action, before or after judgment, in furtherance of justice, and on such terms as it deems just, amend any process, pleading, or other proceeding, by adding or striking out the name of a person as a party, or by correcting a mistake in the name of a party, or a mistake in any other respect, or by inserting an allegation material to the case; or, where the amendment does not change substantially the claim or defence, by conforming the pleading or other proceedings to the facts proved. And, in every stage of the action, the court must disregard an error or defect, in the pleadings or other proceedings, which does not affect the substantial rights of the adverse party. When amending a pleading or permitting the service of an amended or supplemental pleading in a case which is on the general calendar of issues of fact, the court may direct that the case retain the place upon such calendar which it occupied before the amendment or new pleading was allowed, and that the proceedings had upon the amended or supplemental pleadings shall not affect the place of the case upon such calendar, or render necessary the service of a new notice of trial.

§ 724. Relief against omissions, etc.; amendments to conform proceedings.

The court may likewise, in its discretion, and upon such terms as justice requires, at any time within one year after notice thereof, relieve a party from a judgment, order, or other proceeding, taken against him through his mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect; and may supply an omission in any proceeding. Where a proceeding, taken by a party, fails to conform to a provision of this act, the court may, in like manner, and upon like terms, permit an amendment thereof, to conform it to the provision.

From Co. Proc., § 174.

§ 725. Returns by officers, etc.

A court, to which a return is made by a sheriff or other officer, or by a subordinate court or other tribunal, may, in its discretion, direct the return to be amended, in matter of form, either before or after judgment.

From 2 R. S. 424 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 5), § 5.

§ 726. Papers lost or withheld; how supplied.

Where an original pleading or paper is lost, or withheld by any person, the court may authorize a copy to be filed and used, instead of the original.

From Co. Proc., § 422.

§ 727. Order of court; when necessary to amend.

A process, pleading, or record, shall not be altered, by the clerk or any other officer of the court, or by any other person, without the direction of the court, or of another court of competent authority; except in a case where a party, or his attorney, is specially authorized by law to amend a pleading.

From 2 R. S. 425 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 5), § 9.

§ 728. Disregarding defects in affidavits.

The want of a title, or a defect in the title, of an affidavit, does not impair it, if it intelligibly refers to the action or special proceeding, in which it is made.

From Co. Proc., § 421.

§ 729. Certain bonds, etc., when sufficient.

A bond or undertaking, required by statute to be given by a person, to entitle him to a right or privilege, or to take a proceeding, is sufficient, if it conforms substantially to the form therefor, prescribed by the statute, and does not vary therefrom, to the prejudice of the rights of the party, to whom, or for whose benefit, it is given.

From 2 R. S. 556 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 33.

§ 730. Amending defects in bonds, etc.

Where such a bond or undertaking is defective, the court, officer, or body, that would be authorized to receive it, or to entertain a proceeding in consequence thereof, if it was perfect, may, on the application of the persons who executed it, amend it accordingly; and it shall thereupon be valid, from the time of its execution.

TITLE II. Rev ark v CW Practice

Tender, and other offers and requests to the adverse party.

Sec. 731. Tender after suit.
732. Amount to be paid into court.
733. Effect of sufficient tender.
734. When to be deducted from recovery, etc.
735. Requiring admission of genuineness of paper.
736. Offer to liquidate damages conditionally.
737. Effect of refusal of offer.
738. Defendant's offer to compromise; proceedings thereon.
739. Plaintiff's offer to compromise counterclaim; proceedings thereon.
740. Offer and acceptance, by whom subscribed.
741, 742. [Repealed.]

§ 731. Tender after suit.

Where the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only; and the action is brought to recover a sum certain, or which may be reduced to certainty by calculation; or to recover damages for a casual or involuntary personal injury, or a like injury to property; the defendant, or his attorney, may, at any time before the trial, tender to the plaintiff, or his attorney, such a sum of money, as he conceives to be sufficient to make amends for the injury, or to pay the plaintiff's demand; together with the costs of the action, to that time.

From 2 R. S. 553 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 20.

§ 732. [Am'd, 1877.] Amount to be paid into court.

A tender, made as prescribed in the last section, does not avail the defendant, unless the money is accepted, or is paid into court, and notice thereof in writing served upon the plaintiff's attorney before the trial and within ten days after the tender. If the plaintiff takes out the amount paid in, he accepts the tender.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 419.

§ 733. Effect of sufficient tender.

If it appears, upon the trial, that the sum so tendered was sufficient to pay the plaintiff's demand, or to make amends for the injury, and also to pay the costs of the action, to the time of the tender, the plaintiff cannot recover costs or interest, from the time of the tender, but must pay the defendant's costs from that time.

From 2 R. S. 554 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), §§ 21, 22.

§ 734. When to be deducted from recovery, etc.

If the plaintiff proceeds in the action, after accepting the tender, the sum accepted must be deducted from the recovery, and judgment rendered for the residue, if any; and, if the tender and acceptance do not appear in the pleadings, a memorandum thereof must be annexed to the judgment-roll. The plaintiff's right to recover costs, and his liability to pay costs to the defendant, are determined by the amount of the residue.

From Id., § 23.

§ 735. Requiring admission of genuineness of paper.

The attorney for a party may, at any time before the trial, exhibit to the attorney for the adverse party, a paper, material to the action, and request a written admission of its genuineness. If the admission is not given, within four days after the request, and the paper is proved or admitted on the trial, the expenses, incurred by the party exhibiting it, in order to prove its genuineness, must be ascertained at the trial, and paid by the party refusing the admission; unless it appears, to the satisfaction of the court, that there was a good reason for the refusal.

From Co. Proc., § 388.

§ 736. Offer to liquidate damages conditionally.

In an action to recover damages for breach of a contract, the defendant's attorney may, with the answer, serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, a written offer, that, if the defendant fails in his defence, the damages may be assessed at a specified sum. If the plaintiff serves notice, that he accepts the offer, with or before the notice of trial, and damages are awarded to him on the trial, they must be assessed accordingly.

From Id., § 386.

§ 737. [Am'd, 1877.] Effect of refusal of offer.

If the plaintiff does not accept the offer, he cannot prove it, upon the trial. But if the damages, awarded to him, do not exceed the sum offered, the defendant is entitled to recover the expenses, necessarily incurred by him in preparing for the trial of the question of damages. The expenses must be ascertained, and the amount thereof determined by the judge, or the referee, by or before whom the cause is tried.

From Id., § 387. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 738. [Am'd, 1877.] Defendant's offer to compromise; proceedings thereon.

The defendant may, before the trial, serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, a written offer, to allow judgment to be taken against him, for a sum, or property, or to the effect, therein specified, with costs. If there are two or more defendants, and the action can be severed, a like offer may be made by one or more defendants, against whom a separate judgment may be taken. If the plaintiff, within ten days thereafter, serves upon the defendant's attorney, a written notice that he accepts the offer, he may file the summons, complaint, and offer, with proof of acceptance, and thereupon the clerk must enter judgment accordingly. If notice of acceptance is not thus given, the offer cannot be given in evidence upon the trial; but, if the plaintiff fails to obtain a more favorable judgment, he cannot recover costs from the time of the offer, but must pay costs from that time.

§ 739. [Am'd, 1877.] Plaintiff's offer to compromise counterclaim; proceedings thereon.

Where the defendant sets up a counterclaim, to an amount greater than the plaintiff's claim, or sufficient to reduce the plaintiff's recovery below fifty dollars, the plaintiff may serve, upon the defendant's attorney, a written offer, to allow judgment to be taken against him, for a specified sum, with costs, or against the defendant for a specified sum, and against the plaintiff for costs. If the defendant, within ten days thereafter, serves, upon the plaintiff's attorney, notice that he accepts the offer, either party may file the summons, complaint, answer, and offer, or copies thereof, and proof of acceptance; and thereupon the clerk must enter judgment accordingly. If notice of acceptance is not thus given, the offer cannot be given in evidence, upon the trial; but, if the recovery is not more favorable to the defendant than that so offered, he will not be entitled to recover costs from the time of the offer, but must pay costs from that time.

From Co. Proc., § 385. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 740. Offer and acceptance, by whom subscribed.

Unless an offer or an acceptance, made as prescribed in either of the last four sections, is subscribed by the party making it, his attorney must subscribe it, and annex thereto his affidavit, to the effect, that he is duly authorized to make it, in behalf of the party.

752. Custodian's books of account.
753. Annual report by custodian of funds.
754. These provisions applicable in New-York to the chamberlain.

§ 743. Party bringing money into court is discharged.

A party bringing money into court, pursuant to the direction of the court, is discharged thereby from all further liability, to the extent of the money so paid in.

From 2 R. S. 171 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 21.

§ 744. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Comptroller of New-York to supervise court funds.

The comptroller of the state of New-York shall supervise the administration of all funds paid into any court of record, or ordered to be so paid by a judgment, order or decree of any such court of record. He shall have power and authority to institute proceedings to enforce obedience to the judgments, orders, or decrees of the said courts for the deposit of moneys and securities into court, and shall prescribe regulations and rules for the care and disposition thereof, which shall be observed by all parties interested therein; unless the court having jurisdiction over the same, shall make different directions, by special order duly entered in accordance with section 747 of this act; and the comptroller may at any time require any county clerk or clerk of any court of record, to file with any county treasurer an officially certified copy of any record, document or paper, or extracts therefrom, which he may deem necessary for the use of said county treasurer in the administration of such funds; the fees of said clerk for making and certifying such copy or copies shall be a charge upon the county where such records, documents or papers are recorded or filed.

The comptroller may examine the books, accounts and vouchers of every bank and trust company or other depository or of any public official in the state, in anywise relating to moneys and securities paid into court, under an order of any court of record or directed to be paid into court by statute; and where the same has not been paid to the chamberlain of the city of New York or to any county treasurer of the state, the comptroller upon application duly made shall be entitled to an order directing the payment and transfer of all such money and securities, from any such bank, trust company, depository or public official to the treasurer of the proper county, and in the city of New York to the city chamberlain.

Added by L. 1908, c. 182. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 442 (in effect May 9, 1916).

§ 745. [Am'd, 1908.] Money to be paid to county treasurer, and securities taken in his name.

All moneys and securities paid, transferred, or deposited into court, must be paid or transferred, either directly, or by the officer who is required by law first to receive it, to the county treasurer of the county, where the action is triable, or to such other county treasurer as the court specially directs. Where money is paid or a security is delivered to an officer, other than the county treasurer, he must pay or transfer it to the county treasurer, within two days after he receives it. In the city of New-York, he must pay it to the chamberlain, within two days after he receives it. A bond, mortgage, or other security, or a certificate or transfer of stock, taken upon the investment of money paid into court, must be taken to the county treasurer of the county where the fund belongs, in his name of office; or to such other county treasurer, as the court specially directs.

From L. 1848, c. 277, § 1, and Rule 82 of 1874 (now Rule 68 of General Rules of Practice). See also 2 R. S. 171, 172 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), §§ 17, 18, 24; also L. 1847, c. 280, § 71. Am'd by L. 1908, c. 183 (in effect Sept. 1, 1908).

§ 746. [Am'd, 1892, 1909.] Funds, where and how deposited or invested.

All funds or moneys paid into court shall be deposited in such savings bank, trust company, bank, banking association or with such banker, as shall be designated by the comptroller, as soon as received by the custodian thereof. But the money must be deposited in the county where the fund belongs, where it can be done conveniently and safely and with advantage to the parties interested.

From 2 R. S. 171 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), §§ 17, 18, 21; L. 1847, c. 280, § 88. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 651; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante.)

§ 747. [Am'd, 1892, 1908, 1916.] Power of each court to direct payment or reinvestment of its funds.

Each court may direct that money paid into that court in any action or proceeding brought therein, or any bond, mortgage or other security which represents property belonging to any suit or party interested therein, may, after having been deposited with the county treasurer or city chamberlain as required by section 745 of this act, be paid out, transferred, invested or reinvested in any manner or form that appears to it best for the interests of the owners thereof. But such directions must be embodied in an order or decree of said court, founded upon proper and sufficient evidence satisfactory to the court that such disposition of the property is best for the interests of the owners thereof or parties interested therein.

From L. 1848, c. 277, § 8. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 651; L. 1908, c. 183; L. 1916, c. 443 (in effect May 9, 1916).

§ 748. [Am'd, 1892.] Application of preceding section.

The provisions of the last preceding section shall apply to all courts of record of the state.

§ 749. [Am'd, 1877.] Powers of certain officers, touching securities, etc.

A county treasurer, or other officer, or a guardian, committee, or other trustee, in whose name is taken a bond, mortgage, or other security, or public stock, representing money, paid into court, in an action; or to whom stock or a security, or an account, deed, voucher, receipt, or other paper, representing or relating to such money, is transferred, delivered, made, or given, pursuant to law, is vested with title for the purposes of the trust, and may bring an action upon or in relation to the same, in his official or representative character.

From L. 1848, c. 277, § 4. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 750. Provision relating to death, removal, etc., of officer.

On the expiration of the official term of a county treasurer, or where a vacancy occurs in his office, by death or otherwise, all public stock, bonds, mortgages, and other securities held by him, as prescribed in this title, vest in his successor in office; and all money deposited, as prescribed in this title, in a bank, trust company or other depository, to his credit, vests in, and must be carried to, the account of his successor in office.

From 2 R. S. 172 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), §§ 26, 27.

§ 751. [Am'd, 1892.] No money to be paid except on certified copy order.

No money, security or other property which shall have been placed in the custody of the court shall be surrendered without the production of a properly certified copy of an order of the court, in whose custody said money, security or other property shall have been placed, duly made and entered, directing such disposition. Each order must be countersigned by the presiding judge by whose direction it is made.

From Id., § 23. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 651.

§ 752. [Am'd, 1892, 1909.] Custodian's books of account.

Every officer having charge of moneys, securities or other property in the custody of the court, shall keep a book or books in which he shall make an exact account thereof. Such book or books shall state the name of the court, the title of the case, the date of receipt, from whom received, the amount of money, if any, and a description of the securities or other property received, if any, and each addition of interest; also the date and description of each order for payment and the dates and amounts of payments thereunder and to whom paid; also an account of each change of investment, if any.

§ 753. [Am'd, 1877, 1892.] Annual report by custodian of funds.

Every treasurer or financial officer who has in his charge or possession or under his control, money, bonds, stocks, mortgages or any other securities or property as prescribed in this title, must, once in each year, make a report to the comptroller at the time and in the form and manner which he may prescribe, containing a true statement of his accounts for the preceding year or from the time of the last report. This report must be verified by the oath of such officer, and must be accompanied by the certificate of the proper officer of each bank or trust company, stating the exact amount on deposit with such corporation to the credit of each case separately. Such officer or bank or trust company shall furnish any additional report to the comptroller or to the court at such time and in such detail as may be required.

From Rule 83 of 1874 (of Supreme Court Rules). Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1892, c. 651.

Each provision of this title, relating to a county treasurer, applies to the chamberlain of the city of New York, with respect to money paid into court, in an action triable in the city and county of New York, or with respect to money, or a bond, mortgage or other security, or public stock, representing money paid into court; except where special provision, with respect to the same, is otherwise made by law.

TITLE IV.

Proceedings upon the death or disability of a party or the transfer of his interest.

Sec. 755. Action; when not to abate.
756. Proceedings upon transfer of interest, or devolution of liability.
757. Id.; when sole party dies and action survives.
758. Id.; when one of several parties dies.
759, 760. Id.; when part of cause of action survives.
761. When court may order action abated.
762. Special cases excepted.
763. Death of party after verdict, etc.
764. Abatement of actions; seduction; action for wrong not to abate after verdict, etc.
765. No verdict, etc., can be taken after a party's death.
766. Death, etc., of public officer or trustee.

§ 755. [Am'd, 1891.] Action; when not to abate.

An action does not abate by any event, if the cause of action survives or continues. A special proceeding does not abate by any event, if the right to the relief sought in such special proceeding survives or continues, but this provision as to a special proceeding applies only to cases where a party dies after this act takes effect.

From Co. Proc., § 121, first sentence. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 284 (in effect Sept. 1, 1891). The amendment of 1891 added the last sentence of this section.

§ 756. Proceedings upon transfer of interest, or devolution of liability.

In case of a transfer of interest, or devolution of liability, the action may be continued, by or against the original party; unless the court directs the person, to whom the interest is transferred, or upon whom the liability is devolved, to be substituted in the action, or joined with the original party, as the case requires.

From Co. Proc., § 121, third sentence.

§ 757. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1891.] Id.; when sole party dies and action survives.

In case of the death of a sole plaintiff or a sole defendant, if the cause of action survives or continues, the court must, upon a motion, allow or compel the action to be continued, by or against his representative or successor in interest. In case of the death of a sole party to a special proceeding after this act takes effect, if the right to the relief sought in such proceeding survives or continues, the court must, upon a motion, allow or compel such proceeding to be continued by or against his representative or successor in interest. This provision as to a special proceeding does not apply where provision for such continuance has been otherwise made by law.

From Co. Proc., § 121, second sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1891, c. 284. The amendment of 1891 added the last two sentences of this section.

§ 758. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; when one of several parties dies.

In case of the death of one of two or more plaintiffs, or one of two or more defendants, if the entire cause of action survives to or against the others, the action may proceed in favor of or against the survivors. But the estate of a person or party jointly liable upon contract with others shall not be discharged by his death, and the court may make an order to bring in the proper representative of the decedent, when it is necessary so to do, for the proper disposition of the matter; and, where the liability is several as well as joint, may order a severance of the action so that it may proceed separately against the representative of the decedent, and against the surviving defendant or defendants.

From 2 R. S. 38d (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 1), § 1. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 759. Id.; when part of cause of action survives.

In case of the death of one of two or more plaintiffs, or one of two or more defendants, if part only of the cause of action, or part or some of two or more distinct causes of action, survives to or against the others, the action may proceed, without bringing in the successor to the rights or liabilities of the deceased party; and the judgment shall not affect him, or his interest in the subject of the action. But where it appears proper so to do, the court may require or compel the successor, or a person who claims to be the successor, to be brought in as a party, upon his own application or upon the application of a party to the action.

§ 760. [Am'd, 1879.] The same.

In a case specified in the foregoing sections of this title, where such a person applies in his own behalf, the court may direct that he be made a party, by amendment of the pleadings, or otherwise as the case requires. Where an application is made by the plaintiff, to bring in such a person as defendant, the court may direct that a supplemental summons issue, and that supplemental pleadings be made. Where an application is made by a defendant to bring in such a person, the court may, and where the protection of the applicant's rights requires it, must, permit the defendant to commence a cross action for that purpose. The cross action must be brought in the same court, unless the order otherwise specially directs. If it directs that the action be commenced in another court, the latter court may, by order at any time after the cross action is commenced, remove to itself the original action, with like effect as if it had been brought therein. Unless the court otherwise directs, the original action and the cross action must be tried, and judgment rendered therein, as if they were one action.

From Id. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 761. [Am'd, 1877.] When court may order action abated.

At any time after the death of the plaintiff, or after the marriage of the plaintiff, where it affects the rights of either party, the court may, in its discretion, upon notice to such persons as it directs, and upon the application of the adverse party, or of a person whose interest is affected, direct that the action abate, unless it is continued by the proper parties, within a time specified in the order, not less than six months, nor more than one year, after the granting thereof.

From Co. Proc., § 121, fifth sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 762. Special cases excepted.

The foregoing provisions of this title do not apply to a case, where special provision is otherwise made by law.

New.

§ 763. Death of party after verdict, etc.

If either party to an action dies, after an accepted offer to allow judgment to be taken, or after a verdict, report, or decision, or an interlocutory judgment, but before final judgment is entered, the court must enter final judgment, in the names of the original parties; unless the offer, verdict, report, or decision, or the interlocutory judgment, is set aside.

From 2 R. S. 387 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 1), § 4.

§ 764. [Am'd, 1881, 1890, 1904.] Abatement of actions; seduction; action for wrong not to abate after verdict, etc.

An action commenced by a father to recover damages for the seduction of his minor daughter does not abate by his death, but survives to the mother of such daughter, who may recover both actual and exemplary damages therein to the same extent as though the original party plaintiff had lived. After verdict, report or decision in an action to recover damages for a personal injury, the action does not abate by the death of a party, but the subsequent proceedings are the same as in a case where the cause of action survives. And in case said verdict, report or decision is reversed upon questions of law only, said action does not abate by the death of the party against whom the same was rendered.

From Co. Proc., § 121, fourth sentence. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 277; L. 1890, c. 379; L. 1904, c. 379 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 765. No verdict, etc., can be taken after a party's death.

This title does not authorize the entry of a judgment against a party, who dies before a verdict, report, or decision is actually rendered against him. In that case, the verdict, report, or decision is absolutely void.

From 2 R. S. 387 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 1), § 5.

§ 766. Death, etc., of public officer or trustee.

Where an action or special proceeding is authorized or directed by law, to be brought by or in the name of a public officer, or by a receiver, or other trustee, appointed by virtue of a statute, his death or removal does not abate the action or special proceeding; but the same may be continued by his successor, who must, upon his application, or that of a party interested, be substituted for that purpose, by the order of the court, a copy of which must be annexed to the judgment-roll.

From 2 R. S. 388, § 14; L. 1882, c. 205, § 3.

Motions and orders generally.

Sec. 767. Definition and form of an order.
768. Id.; of a motion.
769. Motions in supreme court; where to be heard.
770. Motions in New-York city.
771. In absence of judge, motion may be transferred to another judge.
772, 773. What judges may make orders out of court, without notice.
774. Review of order made by a judge of another court.
775. When stay of proceedings not to exceed twenty days.
776. Subsequent application for order after denial, etc., of prior application.
777. Id.; as to application for judgment.
778. Penalty for violating last two sections.
779. Costs of a motion; how collected.

§ 767. [Am'd, 1911, 1912.] Definition and form of an order.

A direction of a court or judge, made, as prescribed in this act, in an action or special proceeding, must be in writing, unless otherwise specified in the particular case. Such a direction, unless it is contained in a judgment, is an order. In determining a motion, the court shall cause its determination, together with a recital of the papers read on the motion on either side to be indorsed on or appended to the back of the motion papers and shall sign the same and such indorsement and signature shall constitute the order of the court; but nothing herein contained shall prevent the court, upon the application of either party, from resettling such order in the form of the written order heretofore in use. Upon such resettlement of the order, where the right to appeal depends upon whether or not such order was made in the exercise of discretion, or whether or not the decision upon which it is based involves a question of law, such order shall so state the ground upon which it was made.

An application for an order is a motion. Such application or motion must be made to a court, or to a judge or justice thereof. When the defendants have made default in appearing in an action or proceeding, any application or motion therein may be made to the court or to a judge or justice thereof out of court. Where any of the defendants in an action or proceedings have appeared, all motions or applications thereafter made in such action, or proceedings, except a motion made for an extension of time on two days' notice under rule twenty-four of the general rules of practice which may be made to a judge, and except where it is otherwise authorized by law, must be made to the court, unless such defendants consent to the making of such motion or application to a judge or justice out of court. Except in the first judicial department an order which is authorized by statute to be made at chambers may be made by the court. Any proceeding which is required by statute to be instituted by petition may also be instituted by an affidavit setting forth the matter which it is required that the petition shall contain, accompanying a notice of an application for the relief which would properly be prayed for in the petition; and in like manner a proceeding which is required by statute to be instituted by affidavit may be instituted by petition. The party making a motion may, in the notice thereof, specify one or more kinds of relief in the alternative or otherwise, and the adverse party must, where at least eight days' notice of the motion shall be given, at least one day prior to the time at which the motion is noticed to be heard, serve upon the attorney for the moving party copies of the affidavits and papers which he expects to read in opposition to the motion; he may, at least three days prior to the time at which the motion is noticed to be heard, serve upon the attorney for the moving party a notice, with or without affidavits or other papers in support thereof, specifying any kind or kinds of relief in the alternative or otherwise to which he claims to be entitled in the action whether the relief so asked for be responsive or not to the relief asked for by the moving party. Upon the hearing of a motion relief shall not be denied to any party because of defects or insufficiencies in the moving papers which can be cured upon the hearing or before the entry of the order thereon, but the court or judge shall direct that such defects or insufficiencies be cured or supplied forthwith, and shall proceed to hear and consider the motion, or may direct the motion to stand over to be heard at a subsequent time or place. In either case it may award against the party in whose moving papers or application such defect or insufficiency appears, costs in favor of the adverse party. Whenever a motion is made to set aside or vacate an order, judgment or decree or any paper filed or proceeding taken, because of technical defects therein, or because of defects or insufficiencies in the papers or proceedings upon which it was made or entered and such defects or insufficiencies can, without prejudice to intervening rights, be cured or supplied, it shall be the duty of the court to direct upon the hearing of such motion, that such defects or insufficiencies in the order, judgment or decree, or in the papers or proceedings, be cured or supplied nunc pro tunc, awarding against the party in whose order, judgment or decree, or in whose papers or proceedings such defects or insufficiencies appear, costs in favor of the adverse party. The pleadings in an action shall at all times when a motion is made therein be deemed to be before the court although not specifically referred to in the notice of motion.

From Id., § 401, subd. 1. Am'd by L. 1900, c. 147; L. 1911, c. 763 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 769. [Am'd, 1879.] Motions in supreme court; where to be heard.

A motion, upon notice, in an action in the supreme court must be made within the judicial district in which the action is triable, or in a county adjoining that in which it is triable; except that where it is triable in the first judicial district, the motion must be made in that district; and a motion, upon notice, cannot be made in that district in an action triable elsewhere. But this section does not apply to a case where it is specially prescribed by law that a motion may be made in the county, where the applicant, or other person to be affected thereby, or the attorney, resides.

From Co. Proc., § 401, subd. 4. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 770. Motions in New-York city.

In the first judicial district, a motion which elsewhere must be made in court, may be made to a judge out of court, except for a new trial on the merits.

From Co. Proc., § 401, subd. 2.

§ 771. In absence of judge, motion may be transferred to another judge. All new Rule 67

Where notice of a motion is given, or an order to show cause is returnable, before a judge, out of court, who, at the time fixed for the motion, is or will be absent, or unable, for any other cause, to hear it, the motion may be transferred, by his order, made before or at that time, or by the written stipulation of the attorneys for the parties, to another judge, before whom it might have been originally made.

From Co. Proc., § 404.

§ 772. [Am'd, 1895.] What judges may make orders out of court, without notice.

Where an order, in an action, may be made by a judge of the court, out of court, and without notice, and the particular judge is not specially designated by law, it may be made by any judge of the court, in any part of the State; or, except to stay proceedings after verdict, report, or decision, by a justice of the supreme court, or by the county judge of the county where the action is triable, or in which the attorney for the applicant resides. Where such an order grants a provisional remedy, it can be vacated only in the mode specially prescribed by law; in any other case, it may be vacated or modified, without notice, by the judge who made it, or, upon notice, by him, or by the court.

From Id., § 401 (subd. 3) and § 324. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 773. The same.

The limitation, contained in the last section, of the county judges who may make an order, does not apply to a case where it is prescribed in this act, in general words, that a particular order may be made by a county judge, or by any county judge.

New.

§ 774. [Am'd, 1877.] Review of order made by a judge of another court.

An order, made by a judge of a court, other than the court in which the action is pending, may be reviewed in the same manner, as if it was made by a judge of the court, in which the action is pending.

From Co. Proc., § 403, last clause. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 775. [Am'd, 1877.] When stay of proceedings not to exceed twenty days.

An order to stay proceedings in an action, for a longer time than twenty days, shall not be made by a judge, out of court, except to stay proceedings under an order or judgment appealed from, or where it is made upon notice of the application, to the adverse party, or in cases where special provision is otherwise made by law.

From Co. Proc., § 401, subd. 6. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 776. Subsequent application for order after denial, etc., of prior application.

If an application for an order, made to a judge of the court, or to a county judge, is wholly or partly refused, or granted conditionally, or on terms; a subsequent application, in reference to the same matter, and in the same stage of the proceedings, shall be made only to the same judge, or to the court. If it is made to another judge, out of court, an order granted thereupon must be vacated by the judge who made it; or, if he is absent, or otherwise unable to hear the application, by any judge of the court, upon proof, by affidavit, of the facts.

From 2 R. S. 281 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 27; Id., 173 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), §§ 32, 33, 34.

§ 777. Id.; as to application for judgment.

Where an application is made to the court for judgment, it cannot be withdrawn, without the express permission of the court; and a subsequent application for judgment shall not be made, at a term held by another judge, except where the first application is so withdrawn; or where the directions, given thereupon, require an act to be done, before judgment can be rendered; or where the fact of the former application is stated, and the proceedings thereupon, and subsequent thereto, are fully set forth, in the papers upon which the application is made.

New.

§ 778. Penalty for violating last two sections.

A person making an application, forbidden by the last two sections, with knowledge of the previous application, shall be punished by the court, for a contempt.

From 2 R. S. 281 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 28.

§ 779. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1882, 1884.] Costs of a motion; how collected.

Where costs of a motion, or any other sum of money, directed by an order to be paid, are not paid within the time fixed for that purpose by the order, or, if no time is so fixed, within ten days after the service of a copy of the order, an execution against the personal property only of the party required to pay the same, may be issued by any party or person to whom the said costs or sum of money is made payable by said order, or in case permission of the court shall be first obtained, by any party or person having an interest in compelling payment thereof, which execution shall be in the same form, as nearly as may be, as an execution upon a judgment, omitting the recitals and directions relating to real property; and all proceedings on the part of the party required to pay the same, except to review or vacate the order, are stayed without further direction of the court, until the payment thereof. But the adverse party may, at his election, waive the stay of proceedings. Where the order directs that the costs of a motion abide the event of the action, or where costs of a motion, awarded by an order, have not been collected when final judgment is entered, they may be taxed as part of the costs of the action or set off against costs awarded to the adverse party, as the case requires. But nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to relieve a party or person from punishment as for contempt of court for disobedience to an order in any case when the remedy of enforcement by such proceedings now exists.[1]

From L. 1847, c. 390, § 3; L. 1876, c. 431, § 12. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1882, c. 397; L. 1884, c. 181.

[1] This last sentence was added by the amendment of 1884 (L. 1884, c. 181, in effect April 22, 1884). This date becomes important by reason of the words "now exists" with which the sentence ends. (See § 14, subd. 3, ante).

ARTICLE FIRST.

General regulations respecting time.

Sec. 780. Notice of motion, to be eight days.
781. How time enlarged, before its expiration.
782. Copy of affidavit must be served.
783. Relief, after time has expired.
784. When time cannot be extended.
785. Qualification of last section.
786. Orders in certain actions; how published.
787. Time for publication of notice; how computed.
788. [Repealed.]

§ 780. [Am'd, 1880.] Notice of motion, to be eight days.

Where special provision is not otherwise made by law, or by the general rules of practice, if notice of a motion, or of any other proceeding in an action, before a court or a judge, is necessary, it must, if personally served, be served at least eight days before the time appointed for the hearing; unless the court or a judge thereof, or a county judge of the county where the action is triable or in which the attorney for the applicant resides, upon an affidavit showing grounds therefor, makes an order to show cause, why the application should not be granted; and, in the order, directs that service thereof, less than eight days before it is returnable, be sufficient.

From Co. Proc., §§ 402, 403. Am'd by L. 1880, c. 219.

§ 781. How time enlarged, before its expiration.

Where the time, within which a proceeding in an action, after its commencement, must be taken, has begun to run, and has not expired, it may be enlarged, upon an affidavit showing grounds therefor, by the court, or by a judge authorized to make an order in the action.

From Co. Proc., § 405.

§ 782. Copy of affidavit must be served.

In a case specified in the last two sections, the affidavit, upon which the order was granted, or a copy thereof, must be served with a copy of the order; otherwise, the order may be disregarded.

From Id.

§ 783. Relief, after time has expired.

After the expiration of the time, within which a pleading must be made, or any other proceeding in an action, after its commencement, must be taken, the court, upon good cause shown, may, in its discretion, and upon such terms as justice requires, relieve the party from the consequences of an omission to do the act, and allow it to be done; except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From Co. Proc., § 174.

§ 784. When time cannot be extended.

A court, or a judge, is not authorized to extend the time, fixed by law, within which to commence an action; or to take an appeal; or to apply to continue an action, where a party thereto has died, or has incurred a disability; or the time fixed by the court, within which a supplemental complaint must be made, in order to continue an action; or an action is to abate, unless it is continued by the proper parties. A court, or a judge, cannot allow either of those acts to be done, after the expiration of the time fixed by law, or by the order, as the case may be, for doing it; except in a case specified in the next section.

From Co. Proc., § 405.

§ 785. [Am'd, 1877.] Qualification of last section.

Where a party entitled to appeal from a judgment or order, or to move to set aside a final judgment for error in fact, dies either before or after this chapter takes effect, and before the expiration of the time within which the appeal may be taken, or the motion made, the court may allow the appeal to be taken, or the motion to be made, by the heir, devisee, or personal representative of the decedent, at any time within four months after his death.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 786. Orders in certain actions; how published.

Where an action is brought for the collective benefit of the creditors of a person, or of an estate, or for the benefit of a person or persons, other than the plaintiff, who will come in and contribute to the expense of the action, notice of a direction of the court, contained in a judgment or order, requiring the creditors, or other person or persons to exhibit their demands, or otherwise to come in, must be published, once in each week, for at least three successive weeks, and as much longer as the court directs, in the newspaper, published at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published, and in a newspaper, published in the county where the act is required to be done.

§ 787. Time for publication of notice; how computed.

The period of publication of a legal notice, in an action or special proceeding, brought in a court, either of record or not of record, or before a judge of such a court, must be computed, so as to exclude the first day of publication, and include the day, on which the act or event, of which notice is given, is to happen, or which completes the full period of publication.

From Co. Proc., § 425.

§ 788. Time for doing any act; how computed.[1] [Repealed by Statutory Construction Law, L. 1892, c. 677.]

ARTICLE SECOND.

Preferred and deferred causes.

Sec. 789. Preference of certain actions by the people.
790. Id.; of criminal actions.
791. Id.; among civil actions.
792. Id.; in mandamus or prohibition.
793. Where an order is necessary.
794, 795. [Repealed.]

§ 789. Preference of certain actions by the people.

A trial, motion, appeal, or hearing, in an action by the people to recover money, funds, credits, or other property, held or owned by the State, or held or owned, officially or otherwise, for, or in behalf of, a public or governmental interest, by a municipal or other public corporation, or by a board, officer, custodian, agency or agent of the State, or of a city, county, town, village, or other division, subdivision, department, or portion of the State, which the defendant has, without right, obtained, received, converted, or disposed of; or to recover damages, or other compensation, for so obtaining, receiving, paying, converting, or disposing of the same; or the aiding or abetting thereof; is entitled, on the application of the attorney-general, to a preference over any other business, at a term or sitting of any court of the State, irrespective of its place upon the calendar.

§ 790. Id.; of criminal actions.

A criminal action, including an appeal or other proceeding in a criminal cause, is entitled, under the direction of the court, to preference in the trial or hearing thereof, over all civil actions and special proceedings, except as prescribed in the last section.

New.

§ 791. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1887, 1895, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1902, 1906.] Id.; among civil actions.

Civil causes are entitled to preference among themselves, in the trial or hearing thereof, in the following order, next after the causes specified in the last section but one:

1. [Am'd, 1879, 1898, 1906.] An action or special proceeding brought by or against the people of the state, or brought by the people of the state on the relation of a party, or brought by or against any state officer or board of state officers as such; where the attorney of the said people, state officer or board of state officers, or attorney for the plaintiffs in such action or special proceeding has given notice, at the time of the service of the notice of trial or argument, of the particular day in the term at which he will move it. If the action or special proceeding is not moved by said attorney for trial or argument on that day, or as soon thereafter in the same term as the court can hear it, the other party may then move the trial or argument; otherwise it shall not be moved out of its order at that term except by the special order of the court.

2. [Am'd, 1882, 1898.] An action or special proceeding in which the City of New York, or a board of officers, exercising powers conferred by a statute for the protection of public health or public or private property, or for the prevention or punishment of violations of a statute relating to either of those subjects, or the commissioners of pilots in the City of New York, are parties; where a notice, similar to the notice prescribed in the last subdivision, has been served by their attorney, at the time of service of the notice of trial or argument. The provisions of the last subdivision, relating to moving the trial or argument, apply to a cause within this subdivision.

3. In the court of appeals or the supreme court, an appeal taken by either party, in an action or special proceeding other than as specified in subdivision first of this section, where the people of the State, or a board of State officers, are sole parties, or a State officer is sole party, plaintiff or defendant.

3a. [Added, 1899.] In the court of appeals or the supreme court, an appeal taken by either party in an action or special proceeding from a judgment or order declaring a legislative enactment unconstitutional, is entitled on motion of the appellant, to a preference over any business irrespective of its place on the calendar, except as to preferences provided for in sections 789, 790, and the preceding subdivisions of this section.

4. In the court of appeals an action, a party to which has died pending the action, where the pendency of the action prevents a final settlement of the estate of the deceased party.

5. [Am'd, 1882, 1883, 1884, 1895, 1899, 1900, 1906.] In any court, an action or special proceeding in which an executor or an administrator, or testamentary trustee, or an infant, or a trustee of a fund for the support and maintenance of an infant, or a receiver appointed by the court, or by the comptroller of the currency of the United States, or a trustee in bankruptcy, or a general assignee for the benefit of creditors, or the committee of a lunatic or an idiot, or a creditor of a deceased insolvent debtor suing for the benefit of himself and other creditors interested in the estate or property of such deceased debtor where a right of action is given by express provision of law, is the sole plaintiff or sole defendant; an action or special proceeding for the construction of, or an adjudication upon or to determine the validity of the probate of a will, in which the administrator, with the will annexed, or the executor of the will is joined, as plaintiff or defendant, with one or more other parties, and an appeal from the judgments or decision in any of the foregoing actions or proceedings and in the court of appeals or the supreme court, an appeal from the decree or decision of a surrogate's court, determining a will to be valid and admitting it to probate, or determining an instrument offered for probate as a will to be invalid or not entitled to probate as such, or granting general letters of administration or directing the distribution of a fund or payment of money by an executor or an administrator in pursuance of an order or decree made on an intermediate, final or judicial accounting or otherwise by an administrator or an executor.

6. [Am'd, 1895.] An action for dower where the plaintiff makes proof by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the court, or a judge thereof, that she has no sufficient means of support aside from the estate in controversy; an action for the partition of real property.

7. [Am'd, 1882.] An action against a corporation or joint-stock association, issuing bank notes or any kind of paper credits, to circulate as money; or by or against a receiver of such corporation or association; an action in which a county or town is sole plaintiff or defendant.

8. [Am'd, 1879, 1887.] An action against a corporation, founded upon a note or other evidence of debt for the absolute payment of money. An action upon an undertaking given upon an appeal to the court of appeals or to stay the execution on an appeal to the court of appeals.

9. [Am'd, 1887.] An action against a sheriff, in his official capacity, or an action by a sheriff or late sheriff, to recover for a breach of the obligation of a bond or bonds, or an instrument or instruments of indemnity, or an undertaking or undertakings given to him in his official capacity.

10. A cause entitled to preference, by the general rules of practice, or by the special order of the court, in the particular case.

11. [Added, 1898.] In any court an action for libel or slander.

12. [Added, 1899.] In the court of appeals, all appeals from judgments of affirmance rendered by the appellate division of the supreme court in cases enumerated in subdivision two of section 191 of this act, where the decision of the appellate division has been unanimous and an appeal has been taken or allowed as in said subdivision of said section provided.

13. [Added, 1902.] An action for absolute divorce in which an order has been made granting temporary alimony.

Where an issue of law and an issue of fact, or two or more other questions of different natures, come before the same term of the court for trial or hearing, the preference given by this section affects only the order in which the issues or questions of the same nature are to be disposed of.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 163 and c. 542; L. 1882, c. 397; L. 1883, c. 391; L. 1884, c. 402; L. 1887, c. 120; L. 1895, c. 289 and c. 795; L. 1898, c. 136; L. 1899, c. 355 and c. 585; L. 1900, c. 144; L. 1902, c. 357; L. 1906, c. 51 and c. 6 (in effect Sept. 1, 1906).

§ 792. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; in mandamus or prohibition.

Where a writ of mandamus or of prohibition has been issued from the appellate division of the supreme court to a special term, or a judge of the same court, the cause may, in the discretion of the court, or, where an appeal is taken therein to the court of appeals, in the discretion of that court, be preferred over any of the causes specified in the last section.

From L. 1873, c. 70, §§ 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

Where the right to a preference depends upon facts which do not appear in the pleadings or other papers upon which the cause is to be tried or heard, the party desiring a preference must procure an order therefor from the court, or a judge thereof, upon notice to the adverse party. A copy of the order must be served with or before the notice of trial or argument. Such an order is not appealable, but it may be vacated by the judge or judges holding the term at which the preferred cause is noticed for trial or hearing, or by such other justice, or at such other term of court, or at such other time as shall be prescribed by the general or special rules of practice. But a preliminary order is not requisite in a case embraced within subdivision first or second of the last section but one, and the order in a case embraced within subdivision six thereof may be made ex parte, and is conclusive. Where no order is required, a claim for preference, specifying the provision of law under which the claim is made, may be inserted in the note of issue to be filed with the clerk, and it shall then be the duty of such clerk to place such cause in its proper place among the preferred causes at the head of the calendar; except that in the counties of New York, Bronx, Kings, Queens and Erie, and the seventh judicial district, no action or special proceeding shall be placed as a preferred cause upon the calendar of any circuit court or trial term or special term of any court as herein provided, but the party desiring a preference of any cause shall serve upon the opposite party, with his notice of trial, a notice that an application will be made to the court at the opening thereof, or to such justice or other term of court or at such other time as shall be prescribed by the general or special rules of practice, for leave to move the same as a preferred cause, and if the right to a preference depends upon facts which do not appear in the pleadings or other papers upon which the case is to be tried the notice must be accompanied by an affidavit showing such facts. In said counties of New York, Bronx, Kings, Queens and Erie and in the seventh judicial district, the application for a preference shall be made at the opening of the court, or to such justices or other term of court, or at such other time as shall be prescribed by the general or special rules of practice, and if it shall appear that the cause is entitled to a preference and is intended to be moved for trial at or for the term for which the application is made, the court or justice must designate a day certain, during that term, on which day the said cause shall then be heard; if there be two or more causes so designated for trial for the same day, the said causes shall be heard in the order of their date of issue.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Discovery of books and papers.

Sec. 803. Court may direct discovery of books, etc.
804. Rules to prescribe the cases, etc.
805. Petition for discovery, and order thereupon.
806. Order, when and by whom vacated.
807. Proceedings upon the return of the order.
808. Penalty for disobedience.
809. Effect of papers, etc., produced.

§ 803. [Am'd, 1909, 1913.] Court may direct discovery of books, etc.

A court of record, other than a justices' court in a city, has power to compel a party to an action pending therein, to produce and discover, or to give to the other party, an inspection and copy, or permission to take a copy or photograph, of a book, document, or other paper, or to make discovery of any article or property, in his possession or under his control, relating to the merits of the action, or of the defence therein.

From 2 R. S. 199 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 3), § 21; Co. Proc., § 388; L. 1841, c. 38. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 173; L. 1913, c. 86 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 804. Rules to prescribe the cases, etc.

The general rules of practice must prescribe the cases in which a discovery or inspection may be so compelled, and the proceedings for that purpose, where the same are not prescribed in this act.

From 2 R. S. 199, § 22.

§ 805. Petition for discovery, and order thereupon.

To entitle a party to procure such a discovery or inspection, he must present a petition, praying therefor, and verified by affidavit, to the court, or to a judge, authorized to make an order in the action; upon which an order may be made, directing the party, against whom the discovery or inspection is sought, to allow it, or, in default thereof, to show cause before the court, at a time and place, and upon a notice, therein specified, why the prayer of the petition should not be granted; and, if necessary or proper, that his proceedings be stayed until the hearing of the application, although the stay exceeds twenty days.

From Id., §§ 23, 25.

§ 806. Order, when and by whom vacated.

An order, made as prescribed in the last section, may be vacated, by the judge who granted it, or by the court, upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit:

1. That it ought not to have been granted, or that it has been complied with; or,

2. That the party required to make the discovery, or permit the inspection, has not the possession or control of the book, document, or other paper, directed to be produced or inspected.

From Id., § 24.

§ 807. Proceedings upon the return of the order.

Upon the return of the order to show cause, the court may make such an order, with respect to the discovery or inspection prayed for, as justice requires. Where either is directed, a referee may be appointed by the order, to direct and superintend it; whose certificate, unless set aside by the court, is presumptive, and, except in proceedings for contempt, conclusive evidence of compliance or non-compliance with the terms of the order. A fixed sum, not exceeding twenty dollars, may be added to the costs of the motion, for the fees of the referee.

From 2 R. S. 200 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 3), § 26; Co. Proc., § 388.

§ 808. Penalty for disobedience.

Where an order, made as prescribed in the last section, directs a discovery or inspection, the party in whose behalf it was made, may, upon proof, by affidavit, that the adverse party has failed to obey it, and upon notice to him, apply to the court, for an order to punish him for the failure. Upon the hearing of the application, the court may, upon the payment of such a sum, for the expenses of the applicant, as the court fixes, and upon compliance with such other terms, as it deems just to impose, permit the party in default to comply with the order for a discovery and inspection; and, for that purpose, it may direct that the application to punish him stand over to a future time. Upon the final hearing of the application to punish the party in default, the court, in a proper case, may direct that his complaint be dismissed, or his answer or reply be stricken out, and that judgment be rendered accordingly; or it may make an order, striking out one or more causes of action, defences, counterclaims or replies, interposed by him; or that he be debarred from maintaining a particular claim or defence, in relation to which the discovery or inspection was sought. Where the party has failed to obey an order, allowing an inspection by the adverse party, and requiring him to furnish a copy, or permit a copy to be taken, the court may also direct that the book, document, or other paper, be excluded from being given in evidence; or it may punish the party for a contempt; or both.

From Id.

§ 809. Effect of papers, etc., produced.

A book, document, or other paper, produced under an order made as prescribed in this article, has the same effect, when used by the party requiring it, as if it was produced upon notice, according to the practice of the court.

From Id., § 27.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

General regulations respecting bonds and undertakings.

Sec. 810. Bonds, undertakings, etc., must be acknowledged.
811. Party need not join with his sureties; when one surety is sufficient.
812. Form of bond or undertaking; affidavit of sureties; approval by court or judge.
813. When several sureties may justify each in a smaller sum.
813a. Further protection for undertakings in certain cases.
814. Bonds, etc., to the people or a public officer for the benefit of a suitor.
815. Bonds, etc., not affected by change of parties.
816. Id.; to be filed.

§ 810. [Am'd, 1877.] Bonds, undertakings, etc., must be acknowledged.

A bond or undertaking, given in an action or special proceeding, as prescribed in this act, must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 811. [Am'd, 1884, 1895.] Party need not join with his sureties; when one surety is sufficient.

Where a provision of this act requires a bond or undertaking, with sureties, to be given by, or in behalf of, a party or other person, he need not join with the sureties in the execution thereof, unless the provision requires him to execute the same; and the execution thereof by one surety is sufficient, although the word "sureties" is used, unless the provision expressly requires two or more sureties; and the execution of any such bond or undertaking by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this State to transact business, shall be equivalent to the execution of said bond or undertaking by two sureties, and such company, if excepted to, shall justify through its officers or attorney in the manner required by law of fidelity and surety companies. Any such company may execute any such bond or undertaking as surety by the hand of its officers, or attorney, duly authorized thereto by resolution of its board of directors, a certified copy of which resolution, under the seal of said company, shall be filed with each bond or undertaking.

New. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 510.

A bond or undertaking, executed by a surety or sureties, as prescribed in this act, must where two or more persons execute it, be joint and several in form; and, except when executed by a fidelity or surety company, or when otherwise expressly prescribed by law, it must be accompanied with the affidavit of each surety, subjoined thereto, to the effect that he is a resident of and a householder or a freeholder within the state, and is worth the penalty of the bond, or twice the sum specified in the undertaking, over all the debts and liabilities which he owes or has incurred, and exclusive of property exempt by law from levy and sale under an execution. A bond or undertaking given by a party without a surety must be accompanied by his affidavit to the same effect. The bond or undertaking, except as otherwise expressly prescribed by law, must be approved by the court before which the proceeding is taken, or a judge thereof, or the judge before whom the proceeding is taken. The approval must be endorsed upon the bond or undertaking. The surety or sureties or the representatives of any surety or sureties upon the bond heretofore or hereafter executed, of any trustee, committee, guardian, assignee, receiver, executor, administrator or other fiduciary, shall be entitled as a matter of right to be, and shall be, discharged from liability as hereinafter provided, and to that end may on notice to the principal named in such bond apply to the court that accepted such bond or to the court of which the judge that accepted such bond was a member or to any judge thereof, praying to be relieved from liability as such surety or sureties for the act or omission of such principal occurring after the date of the order relieving such surety or sureties hereinafter provided for and that such principal be required to account and give new sureties. Such notice of such application may be served on said principal personally within or without the state, or, not less than five days prior to the date on which such application is to be made, unless it satisfactorily appears to the court, or a judge thereof, that personal notice cannot be given with due diligence within the state, in which case notice may be given in such manner as the court or a judge thereof directs. Pending the hearing of such application the court or judge may restrain such principal from acting except to preserve the trust estate until further order. Upon the hearing of such application if the principal does not file a new bond in the usual form to the satisfaction of the court or judge, the court or judge must make an order requiring the principal to file a new bond within such reasonable time not exceeding five days as the court or judge in such order fixes. If such new bond shall be filed upon such hearing or within the time fixed by said order, the court or judge must thereupon make a decree or order requiring the principal to account for all his acts and proceedings to and including the date of such order and to file such account within a time fixed, not exceeding twenty days, and releasing the surety or sureties making such application from liability upon the bond for any act or default of the principal subsequent to the date of such decree or order. If the principal fail so to file such new bond within the time specified, a decree or order must be made revoking the appointment of such principal or removing him and requiring him to so account and file such account within twenty days. If the principal fail to file his account as in this section provided, such surety or sureties, or representatives thereof, may make and file such account with like force and effect as though made and filed by such principal, and upon the settlement thereof credit shall be given for all commissions, costs, disbursements, and allowances to which the principal would be entitled were he accounting, and allowance shall be made to such surety or sureties or representative for the expense incurred in so filing such account and procuring the settlement thereof. And after the filing of an account as required, or permitted, in this section, the court or judge must upon the petition of the principal or surety or sureties or the representatives of any such surety or sureties, issue an order requiring all persons interested in the estate or trust funds to attend a settlement of such account at a time and place therein specified and upon the trust fund or estate being found or made good and paid over or properly secured, the surety or sureties shall be discharged from any and all further liability and the court or judge shall settle, determine and enforce the rights and liabilities of all parties to the proceedings in like manner and to the same extent as in actions for an accounting in the supreme court. And upon demand made in writing by the principal, such surety or sureties, or representatives thereof, shall return any compensation that has been paid for the unexpired portion of such suretyship.

But where the penalty of the bond, or twice the sum specified in the undertaking is five thousand dollars or upwards, the court or judge may, in its or his discretion, allow the sum in which a surety is required to justify to be made up by the justification of two or more sureties each in a smaller sum. But in that case a surety cannot justify, in a sum less than five thousand dollars, and when two or more sureties are required by law to justify, the same person cannot so contribute to make up the sum for more than one of them. It shall be lawful for any party of whom a bond or undertaking is required to agree with his sureties for the deposit of any or all moneys for which such sureties are or may be held responsible with a trust company authorized by law to receive deposits, if such deposit is otherwise proper, and for the safe-keeping of any or all other depositable assets for which such sureties may be held responsible, with a safe-deposit company authorized by law to do business as such, in such a manner as to prevent the withdrawal of such moneys and assets, or any part thereof, except with the written consent of such sureties, or an order of the court made on such notice to them, as it may direct.

§ 813a. [Added, 1913.] Further protection for undertakings in certain cases.

Where an undertaking has been or shall be given in any action or proceeding the court may in its discretion, if justice so requires, order further or other security to be given in addition to such security. Upon cause shown the court may permit an examination or re-examination of any surety upon any such undertaking. Upon such examination or re-examination, if justice so requires, the court may require a new surety or sureties to be furnished or further or other security to be given in addition to the security already given. The court may enforce such order by any disposition of the action or proceeding that may be proper.

Added by L. 1913, c. 85 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 814. [Am'd, 1895.] Bonds, etc., to the people or a public officer for the benefit of a suitor.

Where a bond or undertaking has been given, as prescribed by law, in the course of an action or a special proceeding, to the people or to a public officer, for the benefit of a party or other person interested, and provision is not specially made by law for the prosecution thereof; the party or other person so interested may maintain an action in his own name for a breach of the condition of the bond, or of the terms of the undertaking; upon procuring an order granting him leave so to do. The order may be made by the court in which the action is or was pending; the city court of the city of New York, or a county court, if the bond or undertaking was given in a special proceeding, pending before a judge of that court; or in any other case, by the supreme court. Notice of the application therefor must be given, as directed by the court or judge, to the persons interested in the disposition of the proceeds.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 815. Bonds, etc., not affected by change of parties.

A bond or undertaking, given in an action or special proceeding, as prescribed in this act, continues in force, after the substitution of a new party in place of an original party, or any other change of parties; and has thereafter the same force and effect, as if then given anew, in conformity to the change of parties.

New.

§ 816. Id.; to be filed.

A bond or undertaking, required to be given by this act, must be filed with the clerk of the court; except where, in a special case, a different disposition thereof is directed by the court, or prescribed in this act.

§ 817. Consolidating causes in same court.

Where two or more actions, in favor of the same plaintiff against the same defendant, for causes of action which may be joined, are pending in the same court, the court may, in its discretion, by order, consolidate any or all of them, into one action.

From 2 R. S. 383 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), § 36.

§ 818. Id.; in different courts.

Where one of the actions is pending in the supreme court, and another is pending in another court, the supreme court may, by order, remove to itself the action in the other court, and consolidate it with that in the supreme court.

From Id., § 37.

§ 819. Id.; by plaintiff.

A defendant against whom an action to recover upon a contract, or an action of ejectment, or an action to recover a chattel, is pending, may, at any time before answer, upon proof, by affidavit, that a person, not a party to the action, makes a demand against him for the same debt or property, without collusion with him, apply to the court, upon notice to that person and the adverse party, for an order to substitute that person in his place, and to discharge him from liability to either, on his paying into court the amount of the debt, or delivering the possession of the property, or its value, to such person as the court directs; or upon it appearing that the defendant disputes, in whole or in part, the liability as asserted against him by different claimants, or that he has some interest in the subject-matter of the controversy which he desires to assert, his application may be for an order joining the other claimant or claimants as co-defendants with him in the action. The court may, in its discretion, make such order, upon such terms as to costs and payments into court of the amount of the debt, or part thereof, or delivery of the possession of the property, or its value or part thereof, as may be just, and thereupon the entire controversy may be determined in the action.

§ 820a. [Added, 1908.] Interpleader in actions on contract.

When any sum of money shall be due and payable under or on account of a contract, and the whole, or any part thereof, exceeding fifty dollars in amount, shall be claimed or demanded by adverse claimants thereto, the debtor may bring suit in any court having jurisdiction thereof, and of the parties, demanding judgment of interpleader, and that the debtor be permitted to pay the amount of the debt into court, and that such debtor upon such payment into court be discharged from any further liability to any of the parties to the action. When service of the summons and complaint shall have been made upon all such claimants, the plaintiff may make application, by petition or upon affidavits for an order permitting and directing the plaintiff to pay the amount of the debt into court, and that the plaintiff, upon the payment into court of the amount of the debt as required by the order, be discharged from any further liability to any of the defendants in such action, and the court, upon satisfactory proof by affidavit or otherwise, as the court may require, of the facts alleged in the complaint, and that the whole or part of the debt is claimed adversely by the defendants without any collusion on the part of the plaintiff, and that the amount thereof is not in dispute may make such an order, upon such terms as to costs and disbursements payable out of the money so adversely claimed as to the court may seem just, and upon the payment into court of the amount of such debt, and complying with the terms of such order, the plaintiff shall stand discharged from any further liability to any of the defendants in said action upon account of such debt and contract. Notice of such application, together with copies of the papers upon which the same is made, shall be personally served on each of the defendants, at least five, and not more than fifteen days before the return day thereof.

Added by L. 1908, c. 285 (in effect Sept. 1, 1908).

§ 821. [Am'd, 1877.] Dismissal of complaint for neglect to serve summons.

Where, in an action against two or more defendants, the plaintiff unreasonably neglects to serve the summons upon one or more of them, without whose presence a complete determination of the controversy cannot be had, the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of a defendant, who has appeared in the action, dismiss the complaint as against him, and render judgment accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 274. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 822. [Am'd, 1879.] Dismissal of complaint for neglect to proceed.

Where the plaintiff unreasonably neglects to proceed in the action against the defendant, or one or more defendants against whom a separate judgment may be taken, the court may in its discretion, upon the application of the defendant or defendants, or any of them, against whom he so neglects to proceed, dismiss the complaint as against the moving party or parties, and render judgment accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 274. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 823. Feigned issues abolished, and order for trial substituted.

Feigned issues have been abolished. In a case where neither party can, as of right, require a trial by jury of an issue of fact arising upon the pleadings, or where a question of fact, not in issue upon the pleadings, is to be tried, an order for the trial thereof by a jury may be made, stating, distinctly and plainly, the questions of fact to be tried. Such an order is the only authority necessary for the trial.

From Co. Proc., § 72. See § 970, post.

§ 824. Summons and pleadings, to be filed within ten days after service.

The summons, and each pleading in an action must be filed with the clerk, by the party in whose behalf it is served, within ten days after the service thereof. If the party fails so to file it, the adverse party, on proof of the failure, is entitled, without notice, to an order from a judge, that it be filed within a time specified in the order, or be deemed abandoned.

From Co. Proc., § 416.

§ 825. Papers in special proceedings; where to be filed.

A return or other paper in a special proceeding, where no other disposition thereof is prescribed by law, must be filed, and an order therein must be entered, with the clerk of the county in which the special proceeding is taken, if it is before a county officer, or a judge of a court established in a city; if before a justice of the supreme court, with the clerk of a county designated by the justice; or, if no designation is made by him, of a county where one of the parties resides.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 20.

§ 826. [Am'd, 1877.] Publication, where no newspaper, etc., in county.

Where a notice, or other proceeding, is required by law to be published in a newspaper published in a county, and no newspaper is published therein, or to be published oftener than any newspaper is regularly published therein, the publication may be made in a newspaper of an adjoining county, except where special provision is otherwise made by law.

§ 827. [Am'd, 1877.] Special references in certain cases.

Where a provision of this act authorizes the court to approve an undertaking, or the sureties thereto; or to make an examination or inquiry; or to appoint an appraiser, receiver, or trustee; it may direct a reference to one or more persons designated in the order, either to make the approval, examination, inquiry or appointment, or to report the facts to the court, for its action thereupon. And where, according to the practice of the court of chancery, on the 31st day of December, 1846, a matter was referable to the clerk, or to a master in chancery, a court having authority to act thereupon, may direct a reference to one or more persons, designated in the order, with the powers which were possessed by the clerk, or the master in chancery, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law.

Evidence.

TITLE I.— General Regulations respecting Evidence, and the Competency and Mode of Examination of a Witness.
TITLE II.— Compelling the Attendance and Testimony of a Witness.
TITLE III.— Depositions.
TITLE IV.— Documentary Evidence.
TITLE V.— Miscellaneous Provisions.

TITLE I.

General regulations respecting evidence, and the competency and mode of examination of a witness.

Article 1. Competency of a witness; evidence in particular cases.
2. Administration of an oath or affirmation.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Competency of a witness; evidence in particular cases.

Sec. 828. No witness to be excluded by reason of interest, etc.
829. When party, etc., cannot be examined.
830. Testimony of party or witness since deceased or insane or who, being a nonresident, has departed from the state, together with all exhibits or documents proved during such testimony.
831. When husband and wife not competent witnesses. When competent.
832. Conviction for crime not to exclude witness; how conviction proved.
833. Clergymen, etc., not to disclose confessions.
834. Physicians not to disclose professional information.
835. Attorneys and counsellors not to disclose communications.
836. Application of the last three sections.
837. When witness not excused from testifying.
838. Evidence of party may be rebutted.
839. Admission by member of corporation.
840. Seal, presumptive evidence of consideration.
841. Presumption of death in certain cases.
841a. Testimony of surveyor and proof of standard of measurement.
841b. Trial and burden of proof of contributory negligence.
841c. Recitals as to heirship in deeds.

§ 828. No witness to be excluded by reason of interest, etc.

Except as otherwise specially prescribed in this title, a person shall not be excluded or excused from being a witness, by reason of his or her interest in the event of an action or special proceeding; or because he or she is a party thereto; or the husband or wife of a party thereto, or of a person in whose behalf an action or special proceeding is brought, prosecuted, opposed, or defended.

From Co. Proc., § 398; L. 1867, c. 887, § 1.

§ 829. [Am'd, 1877, 1881.] When party, etc., cannot be examined.

Upon the trial of an action or the hearing upon the merits of a special proceeding, a party or a person interested in the event, or a person from, through or under whom such a party or interested person derives his interest or title, by assignment or otherwise, shall not be examined as a witness, in his own behalf or interest, or in behalf of the party succeeding to his title or interest, against the executor, administrator or survivor of a deceased person, or the committee of a lunatic, or a person deriving his title or interest from, through or under a deceased person or lunatic, by assignment or otherwise; concerning a personal transaction or communication between the witness and the deceased person or lunatic; except where the executor, administrator, survivor, committee, or person so deriving title or interest, is examined in his own behalf, or the testimony of the lunatic or deceased person is given in evidence, concerning the same transaction or communication. A person shall not be deemed interested for the purposes of this section by reason of being a stockholder or officer of any banking corporation which is a party to the action or proceeding, or interested in the event thereof.

§ 830. [Added, 1879; am'd, 1882, 1896, 1899, 1911.] Testimony of party or witness since deceased or insane or who, being a nonresident, has departed from the state, together with all exhibits or documents proved during such testimony.

Where a party or witness has died or become insane or, being a nonresident of this state, has departed from the state since or during the trial of an action now or hereafter pending, or since or during the hearing upon the merits of a special proceeding now or hereafter pending, the testimony of the decedent or insane person or of such nonresident who has departed from the state, or of any person who is rendered incompetent by the provisions of the last section, taken or read in evidence at the former trial or hearing, or at the same trial or hearing, either in court or before the same or a new referee, together with all exhibits and documents read in evidence in connection with, or as a part of the giving of such testimony, may be given or read in evidence at a new trial or hearing or at a continuation of the same trial or hearing either in court or before the same or a new referee, or upon any subsequent trial or hearing, either in court or before the same or a new referee, of the same subject-matter in the same or another action or special proceeding between the same parties to such former trial or hearing or their legal representatives, by either party to such new trial or hearing, or to such continuation of the same trial or hearing either in court or before the same or a new referee, or to such subsequent action or special proceeding either in court or before the same or a new referee, subject to any other legal objection to the competency of the witness, or to any other legal objection to his testimony or any question put to him, or to any other legal objection to such exhibits and documents. Such testimony, exhibits and documents proven by oath to have been so previously taken or read in evidence may be so given or read in evidence; or the original stenographic notes of such testimony taken by a stenographer who has since died or become incompetent may be so read in evidence by any person whose competency to read the same accurately is established to the satisfaction of the court or officer presiding at the trial of such action or special proceeding.

Added by L. 1879, c. 542. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 595; L. 1896, c. 563; L. 1899, c. 352; L. 1911, c. 764 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 831. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1880, 1887, 1915.] When husband and wife not competent witnesses; when competent.

A husband or wife is not competent to testify against the other upon the trial of an action, or the hearing upon the merits of a special proceeding founded upon an allegation of adultery, except to prove the marriage, or disprove the allegation of adultery. However, if upon such trial or such hearing the party against whom the allegation of adultery is made produces evidence tending to prove any of the defenses thereto mentioned in section 1758 of this act, the other party is competent to testify in disproof of any such defense. A husband or wife shall not be compelled, or without consent of the other, if living, allowed to disclose a confidential communication, made by one to the other during marriage. In an action for criminal conversation, the plaintiff's wife is not a competent witness for the plaintiff, but she is a competent witness for the defendant, as to any matter in controversy; except that she cannot, without the plaintiff's consent, disclose any confidential communication had or made between herself and the plaintiff.

From L. 1867, c. 887, §§ 2, 3; L. 1876, c. 426. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1880, c. 149; L. 1887, c. 103; L. 1915, c. 181 (in effect April 3, 1915).

§ 832. [Am'd, 1879.] Conviction for crime not to exclude witness; how conviction proved.

A person, who has been convicted of a crime or misdemeanor is, notwithstanding, a competent witness in a civil or criminal action or special proceeding; but the conviction may be proved, for the purpose of affecting the weight of his testimony, either by the record, or by his cross-examination, upon which he must answer any question, relevant to that inquiry; and the party cross-examining him is not concluded, by his answer to such a question.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 833. Clergymen, etc., not to disclose confessions.

A clergyman, or other minister of any religion, shall not be allowed to disclose a confession made to him, in his professional character, in the course of discipline, enjoined by the rules or practice of the religious body, to which he belongs.

From 2 R. S. 406 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 72.

§ 834. [Am'd, 1904, 1905.] Physicians or professional or registered nurses not to disclose professional information.

A person duly authorized to practice physic or surgery, or a professional or registered nurse, shall not be allowed to disclose any information which he acquired in attending a patient, in a professional capacity, and which was necessary to enable him to act in that capacity; unless, where the patient is a child under the age of sixteen, the information so acquired indicates that the patient has been the victim or subject of a crime, in which case the physician or nurses may be required to testify fully in relation thereto upon any examination, trial or other proceeding in which the commission of such crime is a subject of inquiry.

From Id., § 73. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 331; L. 1905, c. 331 (in effect Sept. 1, 1905). This last amendment provides that "nothing in this act contained shall affect any actions or proceedings now pending."

§ 835. [Am'd, 1896.] Attorneys and counsellors not to disclose communications.

An attorney or counsellor at law shall not be allowed to disclose a communication, made by his client to him, or his advice given thereon, in the course of his professional employment, nor shall any clerk, stenographer or other person employed by such attorney or counsellor be allowed to disclose any such communication or advice given thereon.

New. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 564 (in effect Sept. 1, 1896).

The last three sections apply to any examination of a person as a witness unless the provisions thereof are expressly waived upon the trial or examination by the person confessing, the patient or the client. But a physician or surgeon or a professional or registered nurse, may upon a trial or examination disclose any information as to the mental or physical condition of a patient who is deceased, which he acquired in attending such patient professionally, except confidential communications and such facts as would tend to disgrace the memory of the patient, when the provisions of section 834 have been expressly waived on such trial or examination by the personal representatives of the deceased patient, or if the validity of the last will and testament of such deceased patient is in question, by the executor or executors named in said will, or the surviving husband, widow or any heir-at-law or any of the next of kin, of such deceased, or any other party in interest. But nothing herein contained shall be construed to disqualify an attorney in the probate of a will heretofore executed or offered for probate or hereafter to be executed or offered for probate from becoming a witness, as to its preparation and execution in case such attorney is one of the subscribing witnesses thereto. In an action for the recovery of damages for a personal injury the testimony of a physician or surgeon, or of a professional or registered nurse attached to any hospital, dispensary or other charitable institution as to information which he acquired in attending a patient in a professional capacity, at such hospital, dispensary, or other charitable institution shall be taken before a referee appointed by a judge of the court in which such action is pending; provided, however, that any judge of such court at any time in his discretion may, notwithstanding such deposition, order that a subpœna issue for the attendance and examination of such physician or surgeon or professional or registered nurse, upon the trial of the action. In such case a copy of the order shall be served, together with the subpœna. Sections 872, 873, 874, 875, 876, 879, 880, 884 and 886 of this code apply to the examination of a physician or surgeon or a professional or registered nurse, as prescribed in this section. The waivers herein provided for must be made in open court, on the trial of the action, or proceeding, and a paper executed by a party prior to the trial, providing for such waiver shall be insufficient as such a waiver. But the attorneys for the respective parties, may prior to the trial, stipulate for such waiver, and the same shall be sufficient therefor.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1891, c. 381; L. 1892, c. 514; L. 1893, c. 295; L. 1899, c. 53; L. 1904, c. 331 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 837. When witness not excused from testifying.

A competent witness shall not be excused from answering a relevant question, on the ground only that the answer may tend to establish the fact, that he owes a debt, or is otherwise subject to a civil suit. But this provision does not require a witness to give an answer, which will tend to accuse himself of a crime or misdemeanor or to expose him to a penalty or forfeiture; nor does it vary any other rule, respecting the examination of a witness.

From 2 R. S. 405 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 71.

§ 838. Evidence of party may be rebutted.

The testimony of a party, taken at the instance of the adverse party, orally or by deposition, may be rebutted by other evidence.

From Co. Proc., § 393.

§ 839. [Am'd, 1903.] Admission by member of corporation.

The admission of a member of an aggregate corporation, who is not a party, shall not be received as evidence against the corporation unless it was made concerning and while engaged in a transaction in which he was the authorized agent of the corporation; or unless it was made while a member of such corporation and testifying as a witness concerning a transaction of the corporation, when the official record of such testimony shall be received.

From 2 R. S. 407 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 80. Am'd by L. 1903, c. 384 (in effect May 6, 1903).

§ 840. [Am'd, 1877.] Seal, presumptive evidence of consideration.

A seal upon an executory instrument, hereafter executed, is only presumptive evidence of a sufficient consideration, which may be rebutted, as if the instrument was not sealed.

From 2 R. S. 406 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 77.

§ 841. [Am'd, 1889, 1891.] Presumption of death in certain cases.

A person upon whose life an estate in real property depends, who remains without the United States, or absents himself in the state or elsewhere for seven years together, is presumed to be dead in an action or special proceeding concerning the property in which his death comes in question, unless it is affirmatively proved that he was alive within that time. And where in any action of partition in this state any portion of the proceeds of the sale of real property is or has been paid into court, or paid to the treasurer of any county for any unknown heirs, and has remained unclaimed for twenty-five years, after such payment by any person entitled thereto, the lapse of twenty-five years after such payment raises the presumption of the death of such unknown heirs at the time of the sale of such real property and before such payment, and after the lapse of twenty-five years after such payment it shall be presumed that there were no such unknown heirs living at the time of such sale or payment, and in any action or proceeding taken for the purpose of distributing and paying over such proceeds, all such unknown heirs are presumed and they shall be presumed to have been dead at the time of such sale and before such payment into court, or to the treasurer of any county.

§ 841a. [Added, 1909.] Testimony of surveyor and proof of standard of measurement.

No surveyor shall give evidence in any cause depending in any of the courts of this state, or before arbitrators, respecting the survey or measurement of lands which he may have made, unless if required, either such surveyor shall make oath, or it shall otherwise be shown that the chain or measure used by him was conformable to the standards of the state which were the standards of the state at the time such survey was made. An official certificate of any state, county, city, village or town sealer elected or appointed pursuant to the laws of this state, or the oath of such surveyor, that such chain or measure conformed to the state standard which shall have been furnished any such sealer pursuant to the provisions of the laws of this state, shall be prima facie evidence of such conformity, and an official certificate made by any such sealer that the implement used in measuring such chain or other measure was the one provided under such laws for such purposes, shall be prima facie evidence of that fact.

From L. 1851, c. 134, § 33, as am'd by L. 1893, c. 101, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 841b. [Added, 1913.] Trial and burden of proof of contributory negligence.

On the trial of any action to recover damages for causing death the contributory negligence of the person killed shall be a defense, to be pleaded and proven by the defendant.

Added by L. 1913, c. 228 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 841c. [Added, 1913.] Recitals as to heirship in deeds.

Hereafter, in any proceeding, suit or action pending or hereafter brought, in any of the courts of this state, any deed, mortgage, lease, release, power of attorney, or other instrument more than thirty years old, executed for the purpose of transferring the title to or interest in lands, tenements or hereditaments situated within this state, which contains recitals that the grantors, grantees, or either, or both, are the heirs-at-law of a prior owner of the title or interest described in said instrument, shall be presumptive evidence of said heirship as therein recited, if such instrument be duly acknowledged or witnessed and proved in any manner required or permitted at the date of the execution thereof, and be duly recorded in any county where any part of the lands described therein shall be located, or duly recorded in the office of the secretary of state of the state of New York.

Added by L. 1913, c. 395 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

ARTICLE SECOND.

Administration of an oath or affirmation.

Sec. 842. Before whom oaths and affidavits may be taken.
843. Id.; in special cases.
844. Id.; without the State.
845. General mode of swearing.
846. When laying of the hand upon the gospels dispensed with.
847. When affirmation to be made.
848. Other modes of swearing.
849. Swearing persons not Christians.
850. Court may examine witness.
851. Swearing falsely in any form, perjury.

§ 842. [Am'd, 1911, 1915.] Before whom oaths and affidavits may be taken.

An oath or affidavit, required or authorized by law, except an oath to a juror or a witness upon a trial, an oath of office, and an oath or acknowledgment required by law to be taken before a particular officer, may be taken before a judge, clerk, deputy-clerk, or special deputy-clerk, of a court, a notary public, mayor, justice of the peace, a city magistrate of any of the cities of this State, or police justice thereof, surrogate, special county judge, special surrogate, county clerk, deputy county clerk, special deputy county clerk, or commissioner of deeds, within the district in which the officer is authorized to act, except that a justice of the peace may take such oath or affidavit anywhere in the county containing the town or city in which he is authorized to act; and when certified by the officer, to have been taken before him, may be used in any court, or before any officer or other person.

From 2 R. S. 284 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), § 49. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 670; L. 1915, c. 146 (in effect September 1, 1915).

§ 843. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; in special cases.

Where an officer, person, board, or committee, has been heretofore, or is hereafter authorized by law, to take or hear testimony or to hear or receive an affidavit, or to take a deposition, in relation to a matter, concerning which he or it has a duty to perform, the officer or person, or a member of the board or committee, may administer an oath, for that purpose. Where an officer, person, board, or committee, to whom or to which application is made to do an act in an official capacity, requires information or proof, to enable him or it to decide upon the propriety of doing the act, he or it may receive an affidavit for that purpose.

From 2 R. S. 552 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 11. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 844. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; without the State.

An oath or affidavit required, or which may be received, in an action, special proceeding, or other matter, may be taken, without the State, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, before an officer authorized by the laws of the State, to take and certify the acknowledgment and proof of deeds, to be recorded in the State; and, when certified by him to have been taken before him, and accompanied with the like certificates, as to his official character and the genuineness of his signature, as are required to entitle a deed acknowledged before him to be recorded within the State, may be used, as if taken and certified in this State, by an officer authorized by law to take and certify the same.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 845. [Am'd, 1880.] General mode of swearing.

Except as otherwise specially prescribed in this article, when an oath is administered, the witness shall lay his hand on the gospels and express assent to the oath, and it shall be according to the present practice except that the witness need not kiss the gospels.

From 2 R. S. 407 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 82. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 340 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 846. [Am'd, 1880.] When laying of the hand upon the gospels dispensed with.

The oath must be administered in the following form, to a person who so desires, the laying of the hand upon the gospels being omitted: "You do swear, in the presence of the ever-living God." While so swearing, he may or may not hold up his hand, at his option.

From Id., § 83. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 340 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 847. When affirmation to be made.

A solemn declaration or affirmation, in the following form, must be administered to a person who declares that he has conscientious scruples against taking an oath, or swearing in any form: "You do solemnly, sincerely, and truly, declare and affirm."

From Id., § 84.

§ 848. [Am'd, 1877, 1880.] Other modes of swearing.

If the court or officer, before which or whom a person is offered as a witness, is satisfied, that any peculiar mode of swearing, in lieu of, or in addition to laying the hand upon the gospels, is, in his opinion, more solemn and obligatory, the court or officer may, in its or his discretion, adopt that mode of swearing the witness.

From Id., § 85. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1899, c. 340 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 849. [Am'd, 1877.] Swearing persons not Christians.

A person believing in a religion, other than the Christian, may be sworn according to the peculiar ceremonies, if any, of his religion, instead of as prescribed in section 845 or section 846 of this act.

From 2 R. S. 408, § 86. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 850. Court may examine witness.

The court or officer may examine an infant, or a person apparently of weak intellect, produced before it or him, as a witness, to ascertain his capacity and the extent of his knowledge; and may inquire of a person, produced as a witness, what peculiar ceremonies in swearing he deems most obligatory.

From 2 R. S. 408, § 89.

§ 851. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Swearing falsely in any form, perjury.

A person swearing, affirming, or declaring, in any form, where an oath is authorized by law, is lawfully sworn, and is guilty of perjury, in a case where he would be guilty of the same crime, if he had sworn by laying his hand upon the gospels.

From Id., § 90. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 340 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

TITLE II.

Compelling the attendance and testimony of a witness.

Sec. 852. Mode of serving subpoena issued out of a court.
853. Penalty for disobedience.
854. Subpoena to be issued by judge, etc.
855. Penalty for disobeying subpoena. Warrant for witness.
856. When witness to be imprisoned.
857. Contents of warrant.
858. To whom directed; how executed.
859. Qualification of preceding sections.
860. Witness exempt from arrest.
861. When to be discharged from arrest.
862. By whom witnesses may be discharged.
863. Arrest, when void; penalty.
864. Sheriff not to be liable unless affidavit is made.
865. Application of foregoing provisions to judgments.
866. Records not to be removed by virtue of subpoena.
867. Production, etc., of book of account.
867a. Subpoena duces tecum relating to hospital records.
868. Books, etc., of corporation, how produced.
869. When personal attendance not required by subpoena duces tecum.

§ 852. Mode of serving subpoena issued out of a court.

A subpoena, issued out of the court, to compel the attendance of a witness, and, where the subpoena so requires, to compel him to bring with him a book or paper, must be served as follows:

1. The original subpoena must be exhibited to the witness.

2. A copy of the subpoena, or a ticket containing its substance, must be delivered to him.

3. The fees, allowed by law, for traveling to, and returning from, the place where he is required to attend, and for one day's attendance, must be paid or tendered to him.

From 2 R. S. 400 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 42.

§ 853. Penalty for disobedience.

A person so subpoenaed, who fails, without reasonable excuse, to obey the subpoena, or a person who fails, without reasonable excuse, to obey an order, duly served upon him, made by the court, or a judge, in an action, before or after final judgment therein, requiring him to attend, and be examined, or so to attend, and bring with him a book or paper, is liable, in addition to punishment for contempt, for the damages sustained by the party aggrieved in consequence of the failure, and fifty dollars in addition thereto. Those sums may be recovered in one action, or in separate actions. If he is a party to the action in which he was subpoenaed, the court may, as an additional punishment, strike out his pleading.

From Id., § 43.

§ 854. [Am'd, 1877, 1900.] Subpoena to be issued by judge, etc.

When a judge, or an arbitrator, referee, or other person, or a board or committee, or a committee of either house of the legislature, or a joint committee thereof, duly empowered by resolution or act to sit and take testimony during the session thereof, or after the adjournment thereof, has been heretofore or is hereafter expressly authorized by law to hear, try, or determine a matter, or to do any other act in an official capacity, in relation to which proof may be taken, or the attendance of a person as a witness may be required; or to require a person to attend, either before him or it, or before another judge, or officer, or a person designated in a commission issued by a court of another State or country, to give testimony, or to have his deposition taken, or to be examined; a subpoena may be issued, by and under the hand of the judge, arbitrator, referee, or other person, or the chairman or a majority of the board or committee, requiring the person to attend; and also, in a proper case, to bring with him a book or a paper. The subpoena must be served, as prescribed in section 852 of this act. This section does not apply to a matter arising, or an act to be done, in an action in a court of record.

§ 855. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Penalty for disobeying subpoena. Warrant for witness.

A person who is duly subpoenaed, as prescribed in the last section, must obey the subpoena. If he fails so to do, without a reasonable excuse, he is liable, in addition to any other punishment which may be lawfully inflicted therefor, for the damages sustained by the person aggrieved, in consequence of the failure, and fifty dollars in addition thereto, to be recovered as prescribed in section 853 of this act. If he fails to attend the person issuing the subpoena, if he is a judge of a court of record or not of record, or if not, then any judge of such a court, upon proof by affidavit of the failure to attend, must issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county commanding him to apprehend the defaulting witness, and bring him before the officer, person, or body, before whom or which his attendance was required.

§ 856. [Am'd, 1879.] When witness to be imprisoned.

If the person subpoenaed and attending or brought as prescribed in the last section, before an officer or other person or a body refuses without reasonable cause to be examined, or to answer a legal and pertinent question, or to produce a book or paper, which he was directed to bring by the terms of the subpoena, or to subscribe his deposition after it has been correctly reduced to writing, the person issuing the subpoena, if he is a judge of a court of record, or not of record, may forthwith, or if he is not, then any judge of such court may upon proof by affidavit of the facts by warrant commit the offender to jail, there to remain, until he submits to do the act which he was so required to do or is discharged according to law.

From 2 R. S. 401, § 47. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 857. Contents of warrant.

A warrant of commitment, issued as prescribed in the last section, must specify particularly the cause of the commitment; and, if the witness is committed for refusing to answer a question, the question must be inserted in the warrant.

From 2 R. S. 401, § 48.

§ 858. To whom directed; how executed.

A warrant to apprehend or commit a person, issued as prescribed in this title, must be directed to the sheriff of the county where the person is, and must be executed by him, in the same manner, as a similar mandate issued by a court of record, in an action.

From 2 R. S. 402, § 49.

§ 859. Qualification of preceding sections.

The foregoing sections of this title do not apply to a subpœna issued by a justice of the peace; or to a witness subpœnaed to attend a court held by a justice of the peace; or to a case where special provision is otherwise made by law, for compelling the attendance of a witness.

From 2 R. S. 402, § 50.

§ 860. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Witness exempt from arrest.

A person duly and in good faith subpœnaed or ordered to attend, for the purpose of being examined, in a case where his attendance may lawfully be enforced by attachment, or by commitment, is privileged from arrest in a civil action or special proceeding, while going to, remaining at, and returning from, the place where he is required to attend.

From Id., § 51.

§ 861. [Am'd, 1909.] When to be discharged from arrest.

The court, from which a subpœna, served in good faith, was issued, or by which an order was made, requiring a person to attend, for the purpose of being examined; or a judge thereof, upon proof, by affidavit, of the facts, must make an order, directing the discharge of a witness or other person, from an arrest made in violation of section 26 of the Civil Rights Law.[1]

From Id., § 52. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 862. [Am'd, 1895, 1909.] By whom witnesses may be discharged.

A justice of the supreme court, in any part of the state, or a county judge, has the like authority as a judge of the court, to make an order for a discharge, in a case specified in the last section. Upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit, of the facts, he must also make an order, directing the discharge of a person arrested, in violation of section 26 of the Civil Rights Law,[1] where a subpœna, served in good faith upon the person arrested, was issued as prescribed in section 854 of this act.

From Id., § 53. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 863. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Arrest, when void; penalty.

An arrest, made contrary to the foregoing provisions of this title, is absolutely void, and is a contempt of the court, if any, from which the subpœna was issued, or by which the witness was directed to attend. An action may be maintained, by the person arrested, against the officer or other person making such arrest, in which the plaintiff is entitled to recover treble damages. A similar action may also be maintained, in a like case, by the party in whose behalf the witness was subpœnaed, or the order procured, to recover the damages sustained by him, in consequence of the arrest.

From 2 R. S. 402, § 54.

§ 864. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriff not to be liable unless affidavit is made.

But a sheriff or other officer, or person, is not so liable, unless the person claiming an exemption from arrest, makes, if required by the sheriff or officer, an affidavit, to the effect that he was legally subpœnaed or ordered to attend, and that he was not so subpœnaed or ordered by his own procurement, with the intent of avoiding arrest.

[1] Section 26 of the Civil Rights Law is the same as former §§ 863, 864 of this Code (excepting the first sentence of § 863), which, for convenience sake, have been retained in this edition. These two former sections have now been consolidated into one section in the Civil Rights Law.

In his affidavit, he must specify the court or officer, the place of attendance, and the cause in which he was so subpœnaed or ordered. The affidavit may be taken before the officer arresting him, and exonerates the officer from liability for not making the arrest.

From 2 R. S. 402, § 55. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 865. Application of foregoing provisions to judgments.

The foregoing provisions of this title, relating to a person required, by an order of a court, to attend, apply, where such an attendance is required by the terms of a judgment.

New.

§ 866. [Am'd, 1895, 1904.] Records not to be removed by virtue of subpœna.

The record of a conveyance of real property, or any other record or document, whereof a transcript duly certified may by law be read in evidence, shall not be removed, by virtue of a subpœna duces tecum, from the office in which it is kept, except temporarily, by the clerk having it in custody, to a term or a sitting of the court of which he is clerk, or by the officer, having it in custody, to a term or sitting of a court, or a trial before a referee, held in the city or town where the office is situated; but the records kept by the register of the county of New York and the register of the county of Kings shall not be removed except by an order of court made as in this section provided. Where any such record is required at any other place, or any record kept by the register of the county of New York or the register of the county of Kings, is required at a term or sitting of a court or a trial before a referee, it may be removed, by order of the supreme court, or a county court, made in court, and entered in the minutes; specifying that the production of the original instead of the transcript, is necessary.

From L. 1838, c. 129. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1904, c. 84 (in effect March 18, 1904).

§ 867. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Production, etc., of book of account.

A person shall not be compelled to produce, upon a trial or hearing, a book of account, otherwise than by an order requiring him to produce it, or a subpœna duces tecum. Such a subpœna must be served at least five days before the day when he is required to attend. At any time after service of such a subpœna or order, the witness may obtain, upon such a notice as the judge, referee, or other officer prescribes, an order relieving him wholly or partly from the obligations imposed upon him by the subpœna or the order for production, upon such terms as justice requires touching the inspection of the book or any portion thereof, or taking a copy thereof or extracts therefrom, or otherwise. An order may be made, as prescribed in this section, by a judge of the court, or in a special proceeding pending out of court before an officer, by the officer, or, in either case, by a referee duly appointed in the cause, and authorized to hear testimony. A justice of the peace, or other judge of a court not of record, may make such an order in an action brought in his court, at any time after the commencement thereof.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 867-a. [Added, 1915.] Subpœna duces tecum relating to hospital records.

Where a subpœna duces tecum shall be served upon a public hospital, or superintendent or officer thereof, requiring the production of any books of such hospital, showing certain entries or records therein, or any other record or data relating to the physical condition or treatment of a patient, a transcript of such entries or records or data duly certified by the superintendent of such hospital or his assistant and delivered to the court or tribunal requiring it shall be deemed sufficient compliance with such subpœna, unless otherwise ordered by the court, and any such transcript authenticated and produced as herein provided, shall be deemed evidence as if the original of such books, entries or records were produced.

Added by L. 1915, c. 325 (in effect September 1, 1915).

§ 868. Books, etc., of corporation, how produced.

The production, upon a trial, of a book or paper, belonging to or under the control of a corporation, may be compelled, in like manner as if it was in the hands, or under the control, of a natural person. For that purpose, a subpœna duces tecum, or an order, made as prescribed in the last section, as the case requires, must be directed to the president, or other head of the corporation, or to the officer thereof, in whose custody the book or paper is.

New.

§ 869. When personal attendance not required by subpœna duces tecum.

In a case specified in the last section, or where a subpœna duces tecum, or an order, made as prescribed in section 866 or section 867 of this act, requires a public officer to attend, and bring a book or paper under his control, the subpœna or order is deemed to be sufficiently obeyed, if the book or paper is produced by a subordinate officer or employee of the corporation, or in the public office, who possesses the requisite knowledge to identify it, and to testify respecting the purposes for which it is used. If the personal attendance of a particular officer of the corporation or public officer is required, a subpœna, without a duces tecum clause, must also be served upon him.

New.

TITLE III.

Depositions.

Article 1. Depositions, taken and to be used within the State.
2. Depositions, taken without the State, for use within the State.
3. Depositions, taken within the State, for use without the State.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Depositions, taken and to be used within the State.

Sec. 870. Deposition of a party, etc.
871. Deposition of a witness not a party.
872. Application; contents of affidavit.
873. Order for examination.
874. Punishment for disobeying order.
875. Service of order, etc.
876. Examination of adverse party.
877. Party confined in prison.
878. [Repealed.]
879. Deposition by consent.
880. Rules for examination of party or expected party. Manner of taking and returning depositions. Refusal of person examined to answer.
881. When to be read in evidence.
882. Proof of witness's inability to attend.
883. Effect of deposition.
884. Original affidavits, evidence.
885. Deposition to be used on motion.
886. Where witness may be compelled to attend.

§ 870. [Am'd, 1877, 1878, 1904, 1909.] Deposition of a party, etc.

The deposition of a party to an action pending in a court of record, or of a person who expects to be a party to an action about to be brought in such a court, may be taken at his own instance or at the instance of an adverse party, or by a co-plaintiff or co-defendant at any time before or during the trial as prescribed in this article.

From Co. Proc., §§ 390, 391, 392, 397. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1878, c. 299; L. 1904, c. 696; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 871. [Am'd, 1877, 1909.] Deposition of a witness not a party.

The deposition of a person not a party, whose testimony is material and necessary to a party to an action, pending in a court of record, or to a person who expects to be a party to an action, about to be brought in such a court, by a person other than the person to be examined, may also be taken, as prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 391, 398 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), portions of §§ 1, 2, 33, 34. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 872. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1880, 1892, 1895, 1911, 1913.] Application; contents of affidavit.

The person desiring to take a deposition as prescribed in this article, may present to a judge of the court in which the action is pending; or, if it is pending in the supreme court, to a county judge; or, if an action is not pending, but is expected to be brought, to a judge of the supreme court, or to a county judge; an affidavit, setting forth as follows:

1. The names and residences of all the parties to the action, and whether or not they have appeared, and if either of them has appeared by attorney, the name, and the residence or office address of the attorney; or, if no action is pending, the names and residences of the expected parties thereto.

2. If an action is pending, the nature of the action, and the substance of the judgment demanded, and if the application is made by the defendant before answer, or by either party after answer, the nature of the defense.

3. If no action is pending, the nature of the controversy which is expected to be the subject thereof.

4. The name and residence of the person to be examined, and that the testimony of such person is material and necessary for the party making such application or the prosecution or defence of such action, and if the action is to recover damages for personal injuries, that the defendant is ignorant of the nature and extent of such personal injuries; and, at the option of the applicant, the place where he is sojourning, or where he regularly transacts business.

5. If an action is pending, that the person to be examined is about to depart from the State, or that he is so sick or infirm as to afford reasonable ground to believe that he will not be able to attend the trial; or that any other special circumstances exist which render it proper that he should be examined as prescribed in this article. But this subdivision does not apply to a case where the person to be examined is a party to the action.

7. Any other fact necessary to show that the case comes within one of the two last sections. And if the party sought to be examined is a corporation, joint-stock or other unincorporated association, the affidavit shall state the name of the officers, directors, or managing agents thereof, or any of them whose testimony is necessary and material, or the books and papers as to the contents of which an examination or inspection is desired, and the order to be made in respect thereto shall direct the examination of such persons and the production of such books and papers, and on such examination the books or papers, or any part or parts thereof may be offered and received in evidence in addition to the use thereof by the witness to refresh his memory.

The judge to whom such an affidavit is presented must grant an order for the examination, if an action is pending; if no action is pending he must grant it if there be reasonable ground to believe that an action will be brought, as stated in the affidavit, and that the application is made in good faith to preserve the expected testimony; otherwise he must dismiss the application.

Where the person to be examined is a party to a pending action, or is expected to be a party to an action to be brought, the order may, in the discretion of the judge, designate and limit the particular matters as to which he shall be examined. In every action to recover damages for personal injuries, the court or judge, in granting an order for the examination of the plaintiff before trial may, if the defendant apply therefor, direct that the plaintiff submit to a physical examination by one or more physicians or surgeons, to be designated by the court or judge, and such examination shall be had and made under such restrictions and directions as to the court or judge shall seem proper. In any action brought to recover damages for personal injuries, where the defendant shall present to the court or judge satisfactory evidence that he is ignorant of the nature and extent of the injuries complained of, the court or judge shall order that such physical examination be made; and if the party to be examined shall be a female she shall be entitled to have such examination before physicians or surgeons of her own sex. The order must require the party or persons to be examined to appear before the judge, or before a referee named in the order, for the purpose of taking the examination, at a time and place therein specified. The order must also direct the time of service of a copy thereof; which must be made within the State, not more than twenty, nor less than five days, before the time fixed for the examination, unless special circumstances, making a different time of service necessary, are shown in the affidavit, and that fact is recited in the order.

From 2 R. S. 392, 398, §§ 3, 34. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416: L. 1879, c. 542: L. 1884, c. 399; L. 1893, c. 721; L. 1894, c. 428.

§ 874. [Am'd, 1877, 1883.] Punishment for disobeying order.

Witnesses' fees, at the rate prescribed by law in an action in the supreme court, must be paid or tendered when the order is served upon the party or other person required to attend. If the party or person so served fails to obey the order, his attendance may be compelled, and he may be punished in like manner, and the proceedings thereon are the same, as if he failed to obey a subpœna, issued from the court, in which the action is pending; or, if no action is pending, from the court of which the judge is a member.

From 2 R. S. 393, § 10. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1882, c. 397.

§ 875. [Am'd, 1879.] Service of order, etc.

A copy of the order, and of the affidavit upon which it was granted, must be served upon the attorney for each party to the action, in like manner as a paper in the action; or, if a party has not appeared in the action, they must be served upon him, as directed by the order. If no action is pending, they must be personally served upon each of the persons, named therein as expected adverse parties.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 876. [Am'd, 1879.] Deposition, when and where to be taken. Examination of adverse party.

Upon proof, by affidavit, that service of a copy of the order and of the affidavit has been duly made, as directed in the order, the judge or the referee must proceed to take the deposition of the witness, at the time and place specified in the order. He may, from time to time, adjourn the examination to another day, and to another place, within the same county. Sections 856, 857 and 858 of this act apply to the examination of a party or a person expected to be an adverse party, taken as prescribed in this article.

§ 877. [Added, 1882.] Examination of persons confined in jail, etc.

Where the party or other person to be examined is confined in a prison or jail within the State, under a sentence for a felony, that fact must be stated in the affidavit, and his deposition may be taken as prescribed in the foregoing sections, as if he was not so confined, except that in such a case, the granting or refusing the order, and, if granted, the appointment of a referee to take the testimony, is always in the discretion of the judge. The order must require the production of the prisoner by the person in charge of the prison or jail at the prison or jail; but it may prescribe such regulations and restrictions with respect thereto as the judge deems proper.

Added by L. 1882, c. 397. The original § 877 was repealed by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 879. [Am'd, 1882.] Deposition by consent.

The parties to an action may stipulate, in writing, that the deposition of a competent witness, to be used therein, may be taken before a judge or referee, at a time and place specified in the stipulation, either orally, or upon interrogatories, to be agreed upon in like manner. The witness may be subpœnaed to attend the examination, as upon a trial; and the judge or referee may take his deposition, as if an order had been made by the court, directing it to be so taken. But this section does not apply to a case specified in section 877 of this act.

§ 880. [Am'd, 1879.] Rules for examination of party or expected party. Manner of taking and returning depositions. Refusal of person examined to answer.

The examination of a party, or an expected party, is subject to the same rules as if he was examined upon the trial. The judge or referee, upon every other examination taken as prescribed in this article, must insert therein every answer or declaration of the person examined, which either party requires to be inserted. The deposition, when completed, must be carefully read to and subscribed by the person examined; must be certified by the judge or referee taking it; and, within ten days thereafter, must be filed in the office of the clerk; or, if no action is pending, in the office of the clerk of the county in which it was taken; together with the stipulation or order, under which it was taken; the affidavit upon which the order was granted; and proof of the service of a copy of the order and of the affidavit. If, upon an examination before a referee, the person examined refused to answer any question, the referee must report the fact to the court or judge, who must determine whether the question is relevant, and whether the witness is bound to answer it.

From 2 R. S. 392 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), §§ 5, 6; Id. 399, § 37. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 881. [Am'd, 1911.] When to be read in evidence.

The deposition, or a certified copy thereof, may be read in evidence by either party, at the trial of, or upon the assessment of damages, by writ of inquiry, or upon a reference, or otherwise, in the action or in any special proceeding specified in the original affidavit or stipulation, or in any other action or special proceeding thereafter brought between the same parties, or between any parties claiming under them or either of them, or, if no action or special proceeding is then pending, in an action or special proceeding thereafter brought between the persons named in the original affidavit as expected parties, or between persons claiming under them or either of them, including the case where one of the parties is the executor of the will or administrator of the estate of the witness and is given a cause of action by reason of section 1902 of this act. And except in the cases prescribed to the contrary in section 882 of this act, the said deposition, or a certified copy thereof, may be read in evidence by either party to the action or special proceeding in which it is taken, and as between the defendant in said action and the legal representatives and privies in interest and estate of the plaintiff, and as between the plaintiff and the legal representatives and privies in interest and estate of the defendant, and as between the legal representatives and privies in interest and estate of the defendant and the legal representatives and privies in interest and estate of the plaintiff.

From 2 R. S. 392, 399, parts of §§ 7, 39. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 859 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 883. [Am'd, 1882.] Proof of witness's inability to attend.

But such a deposition, except that of a party, taken at the instance of an adverse party, or a deposition taken in pursuance of a stipulation, as prescribed in this article, shall not be so read in evidence until it has been satisfactorily proved that the witness is dead, or is unable personally to attend by reason of his insanity, sickness or other infirmity, or that he is confined in a prison or jail; or that he has been and is absent from the State, so that his attendance could not, with reasonable diligence, be compelled by subpoena.

From 2 R. S. 392, 399, remainder of §§ 7, 39. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 397.

§ 883. Effect of deposition.

A deposition, so read in evidence has the same effect, and no other, as the oral testimony of the witness would have; and an objection to the competency or credibility of the witness; or to the relevancy or substantial competency of a question put to him, or of an answer given by him; may be made as if the witness was then personally examined and without being noted upon the deposition.

From 2 R. S. 393, 399, §§ 9, 40.

§ 884. Original affidavits, evidence.

The original affidavits, filed with such a deposition, or certified copies thereof, are presumptive evidence of the facts therein contained, to show a compliance with the provisions of this article.

From 2 R. S. 399, § 38.

§ 885. [Am'd, 1877, 1901, 1909.] Deposition to be used on motion.

Where a party intends to make or oppose a motion in a court of record, and it is necessary for him to have the affidavit or deposition of a person not a party, to use upon the motion, the court or a judge authorized to make an order in the case may in its or his discretion make an order appointing a referee to take the deposition of that person. The order must be founded upon proof by affidavit that the applicant intends to make the motion, or that notice of a motion has been given which the applicant intends to oppose. The affidavit must specify the nature of the action and must show that the affidavit or deposition is necessary thereon and that such person has refused to make an affidavit of the facts which the applicant verily believes are within his knowledge. If the defendant has appeared in the action and the application is made on the part of the plaintiff, at least one day's notice of such application must be given to the attorney of the defendant, and if the application is made on the part of the defendant, similar notice must be given to the attorney of the plaintiff. The person to be examined may be subpœnaed and compelled to attend as upon the trial and may be cross-examined by the party on whose attorney the notice has been served. The deposition must be taken by question and answer and be subscribed by the witness, and must be delivered to the attorney for the party who procured the order, unless such order provides for a different disposition thereof.

From Co. Proc., § 401, subd. 7. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1901, c. 526; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 886. Where witness may be compelled to attend.

Where a person to be examined, as prescribed in this article, is a resident of the State, he shall not be required to attend in any county, other than that in which he resides, or where he has an office for the regular transaction of business, in person. Where he is not a resident, he shall not be required to attend in any other county, than that wherein he is served with a subpœna, unless, for special reasons, stated in the affidavit, the order otherwise directs.

913. Letters rogatory.

§ 887. [Am'd, 1879.] When commission to issue.

In a case specified in the next section, where it appears, by affidavit, on the application of either party, that the testimony of one or more witnesses, not within the State, is material to the applicant; a commission may be issued, to one or more competent persons, named therein; authorizing them, or any one of them, to examine the witness or witnesses named therein, under oath, upon the interrogatories annexed to the commission; to take and certify the deposition of each witness; and to return the same, and the commission, according to the directions given in or with the commission. The applicant, or any other party to the action, may be thus examined.

From L. 1862, c. 375, § 1. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 888. [Am'd, 1894, 1895.] The same.

Such a commission may be issued in either of the following cases:

1. Where a party to an action, brought in a court of record, is in default for want of an appearance or pleading, and the testimony is required upon the assessment of damages, by a writ of inquiry, or upon a reference; or otherwise, to enable the court to render the proper final judgment.

2. Where final judgment has been rendered against the adverse party in an action brought in a court of record; and the testimony is required in order to carry the judgment into effect.

3. Where an appeal from a final judgment, rendered in the supreme court, the city court of the city of New York, or a county court, or a motion for a new trial in either of those courts, is pending, and the testimony will be material and necessary to the applicant in the prosecution or defence of the action, if a new trial is granted.

4. Where the application is made before the joinder of issue, in an action brought in either of the courts specified in the last subdivision; and there is reason to apprehend that before issue is joined, and an application for a commission can thereafter be made, the witness will die, or become unable to give his testimony, or remove, so that his testimony cannot be taken.

5. Where an issue of fact has been joined, in an action pending in a court of record, and the testimony is material to the applicant, in the prosecution or defence thereof.

6. In special proceedings.

From L. 1862, c. 375, § 1. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 308; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 889. How and upon what terms granted.

In a case specified in subdivision third of the last section, if the appeal has been taken to another court, the application must be made to the court in which the judgment was rendered; and an order, directing the commission to be issued, may be granted or refused, in the discretion of that court. In a case specified in either of the other subdivisions of that section, the application may be made to the court, or a judge thereof, or, in the supreme court, to the county judge of the county, where the action is triable; and it must be granted, upon satisfactory proof of the facts authorizing it, unless the court or judge has reason to believe, that the application is not made in good faith, or unless an order for an open commission, or for taking depositions, is made as prescribed in this article. Notice of the application must be given to the adverse party, unless he is in default for want of an appearance. Upon granting the order, the court or judge may, in any case, impose such terms as justice requires.

From L. 1862, c. 375, § 1; 2 R. S. 393 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), §§ 11, 12. See also L. 1847, c. 470, § 15.

§ 890. Order made by judge. Rules, Rule 125

Where the order is made by a judge, out of court, it must be entered in the office of the clerk. It shall be granted, only in a case, where the court would grant it, and upon the same terms; and it is subject to the control of the court.

From 2 R. S. 394, § 13.

§ 891. Interrogatories; how settled.

Unless the interrogatories, to be annexed to the commission, are settled by consent of the parties, they must be settled, upon notice, by a judge of the court, or, in the supreme court, by the county judge of the county, where the action is triable, as prescribed in the general rules of practice.

From 2 R. S. 394, § 14; L. 1875, c. 420.

§ 892. Id.; to be annexed; directions for return.

The interrogatories, when settled, must be annexed to the commission. Either party must be allowed to insert therein any question, pertinent to the issue, which he proposes. Unless the parties stipulate in writing, or the order granting the commission prescribes, how it shall be returned, the judge must indorse, upon the commission, the proper direction for that purpose. Unless the court or judge thinks proper to direct it to be returned by an agent, it must be returned through the post-office.

From 2 R. S. 394, § 15.

§ 893. [Am'd, 1877, 1895.] Commission to examine wholly or partly upon oral questions.

Where an issue of fact, joined in an action, is pending in the supreme court, the city court of the city of New York, or a county court, the parties may stipulate, in writing, or the court to which, or the judge to whom an application for a commission is made, may in its or his discretion, direct, in the order, that a commission issue without written interrogatories, and that the depositions be taken upon oral questions; or that a commission issue, to take the deposition of one or more witnesses, designated in the order, partly upon oral questions and partly upon written interrogatories, or to take the deposition of one or more witnesses, designated in the order, upon oral questions, and one or more witnesses, designated in the order, upon written interrogatories.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 894. When open commission may issue, or depositions may be taken.

Where an issue of fact, joined in an action, is pending in either of the courts specified in the last section, the parties may stipulate, in writing, or the court, or a judge thereof, or, in the supreme court, the county judge of the county where the action is triable, may, in its or his discretion upon the application of either party, and upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit, that one or more witnesses, not within the State, are material and necessary in the prosecution or defence of the action, make an order, upon such terms as it or he deems proper, directing that an open commission issue, or that depositions be taken, as prescribed in the following sections of this article.

New.

§ 895. [Am'd, 1879, 1897.] Depositions where adverse party is an infant or committee.

The last two sections are not applicable, where the adverse party is an infant, or the committee of a person judicially declared to be incapable of managing his affairs, by reason of lunacy, idiocy or habitual drunkenness. Nor can the applicant be examined in his own behalf, as prescribed in those sections, except by consent of the parties.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1897, c. 606 (in effect May 19, 1897).

§ 896. Notice of examination upon oral questions.

Where a commission is issued, to take testimony without written interrogatories, as prescribed in section 893 or section 894 of this act, notice of the time and place of the examination of a witness, by virtue thereof, naming the witness, must be served as prescribed in section 899 of this act.

New.

§ 897. Open commission.

An open commission must be directed to one or more persons, named therein, and must authorize them, or any one of them, to examine any witness who may be produced by either party, on or before a day specified therein, upon oral questions to be put to the witness, when he is produced; to take and certify the deposition of each witness so examined; and to return the same, and the commission, immediately after the expiration of the time limited for the production of witnesses, according to the directions, given in or with the commission.

New.

§ 898. Order directing depositions to be taken.

An order, directing that depositions be taken, must specify the time within which they must be taken, and the manner in which they must be returned. It may also contain such additional directions, not inconsistent with the next section, with respect to the time and manner of giving notice, as the court or judge deems proper. The order must be entered in the clerk's office; and a certified copy thereof must be annexed to each deposition, or set of depositions, returned as prescribed in the following sections of this article.

From L. 1853, c. 387, § 4.

§ 899. Before whom depositions may be taken; notice of taking.

A deposition may be taken, pursuant to such an order, before a person mutually agreed upon by the parties, or a chancellor, or a judge of a court of record, or the mayor or other chief magistrate of a city, or a justice of the peace of the state or territory, where the witness is; who is not counsel or attorney for either party, and would not be disqualified, by reason of affinity or consanguinity to a party, or interest in the event, from serving as a juror upon the trial of the action, within the State. Written notice of the time and place of taking a deposition, specifying the name of the witness, and the person before whom it will be taken, must be served by the party, at whose instance it is taken, upon the attorney for the adverse party. The time for serving such a notice must be, at least, five judicial days before the deposition is taken; and one judicial day, in addition, for each fifty miles, by the usual route of travel, between the residence of the attorney for the adverse party, and the place where the deposition is to be taken.

From L. 1853, c. 387, §§ 4, 5.

§ 900. How depositions taken.

Upon the examination of a witness, without written interrogatories, by virtue of a commission, or of an order to take depositions, the commissioner, or the person before whom the deposition is taken, must take down, or cause to be taken down, as prescribed in the next section, the substance of the witness's testimony; unless he is directed, in the commission or the order, or required by the person appearing for either party, to insert in the deposition any or all of the questions or answers, word for word. Unless the commission or order otherwise directs, the person appearing for either party may ask any question, which he deems proper, and the witness's answer must be taken accordingly, the objections thereto being reserved, without being specified at the time of examination. A copy of this section must be annexed to each commission to take testimony without written interrogatories, and to each certified copy of an order to take a deposition.

New.

§ 901. Commission or order to take depositions; how executed and returned.

The person, to whom a commission is directed, or before whom a deposition is taken, unless otherwise expressly directed in the commission, or in the order for taking the depositions, must execute the commission, or the order, as follows:

1. He must publicly administer, to each witness examined, an oath or affirmation to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, as to the matters respecting which the witness is to be examined.

2. He must reduce the examination of each witness to writing, or cause it to be reduced to writing, by a disinterested person. After it has been carefully read, to or by the witness, it must be subscribed by the witness.

3. If an exhibit is produced and proved, the exhibit, or, if the witness, or other person having it in his custody, does not surrender it, a copy thereof, must be annexed to the deposition to which it relates, subscribed by the witness proving it, and numbered or otherwise identified, in writing thereupon, by the commissioner, or person taking the deposition, who must subscribe his name thereto.

4. The commissioner, or person taking the deposition, must subscribe his name to each half sheet of the deposition; he must annex all the depositions and exhibits to the commission, or to a certified copy of the order for taking the deposition, with the certificate specified in the next section; and he must close them up under his seal, and address the packet to the clerk of the court, at his official residence.

5. If there is a direction, on the commission, or in the order, to return the same through the post-office, he must immediately deposit the packet, so addressed, in the post-office, and pay the postage thereon.

6. If there is a direction on the commission, or in the order, to return the same by an agent of the party, at whose instance it was issued or granted, the packet so addressed must be delivered to the agent.

7. Where a commission is directed to two or more persons, one or more of them may execute it, as prescribed in this and the next section.

A copy of this and of the next section must be annexed to each commission, or order to take depositions, authorized by this article.

From 2 R. S. 394, § 16; L. 1853, c. 387, §§ 6, 7, 8.

§ 902. Certificate of execution.

The commissioner or other person, before whom one or more depositions are taken, must subscribe, and annex to each deposition, a certificate, substantially in the following form, the blanks being properly filled up:

"State" (or "territory") "of ....." } ss.:
"County" (or "parish") "of ....."

"I, ..., do certify that ....., the witness, personally appeared before me on the .... day of ....., at ..... o'clock in the .....noon, at the ....., in the state" (or "territory") "of ....., and after being sworn" (or "affirmed," as the case may be), "to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, did depose to the matters contained in the foregoing deposition, and did, in my presence, subscribe the same, and indorse the exhibits annexed thereto. And I further certify that I have subscribed my name to each half-sheet thereof, and to each exhibit. And I further certify that ..... appeared in behalf of the ....., and that ..... appeared in behalf of the ....."

From L. 1853, c. 387, § 7.

§ 903. Certificate, a sufficient return.

The certificate specified in the last section, is a sufficient return to a commission.

New.

§ 904. Return by agent.

If the packet, specified in section 901 of this act, is delivered to an agent, he must deliver it to the clerk, to whom it is addressed, or to a judge of the court, either of whom must receive and open it, upon the agent making affidavit, that he received it from the hands of the commissioner, or the person who took the deposition, and that it has not been opened or altered, since he so received it.

From 2 R. S. 395 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 17.

§ 905. If agent is sick or dead.

If the agent is dead, or, from sickness or other casualty, is unable to deliver the packet personally, as prescribed in the last section, it must be received, by the clerk or judge, from the hands of any other person, upon the latter making an affidavit, that he received it from the agent; that the agent is dead, or otherwise unable to deliver it; that it has not been opened or altered since he received it; and that he believes that it has not been opened or altered, since it came from the hands of the commissioner, or the person who took the deposition.

From Id., § 18.

§ 906. Filing deposition, etc., so returned.

The clerk or judge, who receives and opens the packet, as prescribed in the last two sections, must indorse thereupon, and sign, a note of the time of the receipt and opening thereof, and immediately file it in the office of the clerk; together with the affidavit of the person, who delivered it to him.

From Id., § 19.

§ 907. The same.

If the packet is transmitted through the post-office, the clerk, to whom it is addressed, must receive it from the post-office, open it, indorse thereupon, and sign, a like note of the time of the receipt and opening thereof, and immediately file it in his office.

From Id., § 20.

§ 908. Commission, etc., by consent.

A commission may issue, or an order to take depositions may be made, by consent, in a case where either may be directed by the court or a judge, as prescribed in this article. On filing a stipulation to that effect, signed by the attorneys for the parties, the clerk must enter an order accordingly; and thereupon the attorney for the party, procuring the order, may insert in the commission, or indorse upon or annex to it, or the order, the necessary directions for the execution and return thereof, according to the stipulation.

From Id., § 21.

§ 909. Where return to be kept; parties may inspect it, etc.

A commission, or copy of an order to take depositions, with the certificates, returns, depositions, and exhibits thereto annexed, must remain on file in the office of the clerk, unless otherwise provided by the stipulation of the parties, or unless the court, by a special order, directs them to be filed in the office of another clerk. They are always open to the inspection of the parties, either of whom is entitled to a copy of them, or of any part thereof, on payment of the fees allowed by law.

From 2 R. S. 396, § 22.

§ 910. When deposition may be suppressed.

Where it appears, by affidavit that a deposition has been improperly or irregularly taken or returned; or that the personal attendance of the witness, upon the trial, could have been procured, with due diligence, by a subpoena; or that the attorney for either party has practiced any fraud, or unfair or overreaching conduct, to the prejudice of the adverse party, in the course of the proceedings; an order, for the suppression of the deposition, may be made by the court, upon the application of the party aggrieved, upon notice to the adverse party.

From L. 1853, c. 387, § 14.

§ 911. Deposition, etc., evidence.

A deposition, taken and returned as prescribed in this article, or an exemplified copy thereof, if the original is filed in another county, may, unless it is suppressed as prescribed in the last section, be read in evidence by either party. It has the same effect, and no other, as the oral testimony of the witness would have; and an objection to the competency or credibility of the witness, or to the relevancy, or substantial competency, of a question put to him, or of an answer given by him, may be made, as if the witness was then personally examined, and without being noted upon the deposition.

From id., § 18; 2 R. S. 396, § 23.

§ 912. [Am'd, 1895.] When interrogatories and deposition may be in a foreign language.

Upon an application, made in the supreme court, the city court of the city of New-York, or a county court, for a commission to be issued to a foreign country, if it satisfactorily appears, by affidavit, that the witness does not understand the English language, the order for the commission may, in the discretion of the court or judge, direct that written interrogatories annexed thereto, by way of direct or cross-examination be framed in the English language, and also in a foreign language; that only the interrogatories framed in the foreign language be put to the witness; and that his answers be taken, and the certificates be made out, in the same language. Where such an order is made, it must provide for the payment, by the applicant, to the adverse party, of a reasonable sum, fixed therein, for the expense of procuring the interrogatories, in his behalf, to be translated. The judge, who settles the interrogatories, must settle them in the foreign language, and in the English language; and, for that purpose, he may call in the assistance of one or more experts, whose compensation must be fixed by the judge, and paid by the applicant. When the deposition is read in evidence, it, and the interrogatories, must be interpreted into the English language, as if the witness, being unable to speak the English language, was personally present and testifying.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 913. Letters rogatory.

Letters rogatory may be issued from either of the courts specified in the last section, in its discretion, in a case where a commission may be issued, as prescribed in this article, upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit, that there is good reason to believe, that the ends of justice will be better promoted thereby, than by the issuing of a commission, notwithstanding that a commission can be executed, in the country to which they are sent. Letters rogatory can be issued only to examine one or more witnesses, upon written interrogatories, annexed thereto; which must be framed and settled, and the depositions must be returned, as prescribed in this article, with respect to the interrogatories annexed to a commission, and the depositions taken thereunder.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Depositions, taken within the State for use without the State.

Sec. 914. In what cases deposition may be taken.
915. Proceedings to obtain testimony.
916, 917, 918. [Repealed.]
919. Taking and return of deposition.
920. [Repealed.]

Sec. 310-1.31 Inc.

§ 914. [Am'd, 1899.] In what cases deposition may be taken.

A party to an action, suit, or special proceeding, civil or criminal, pending in a court without the State, either in the United States, or in a foreign country, may obtain, by the special proceeding prescribed in this article, the testimony of a witness, and, in connection therewith, the production of books and papers, within the State, to be used in the action, suit or special proceeding.

From 2 R. S. 397 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 29; L. 1867, c. 68, § 1. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 502 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 915. [Am'd, 1899.] Proceedings to obtain testimony.

Where a commission to take testimony, within the State, has been issued from the court in which the action, suit, or special proceeding is pending; or where a notice has been given, or any other proceeding has been taken, for the purpose of taking the testimony, within the State, pursuant to the laws of the state or country, wherein the court is located, or pursuant to the laws of the United States, if it is a court of the United States, the supreme court, or the county court, or a judge of either court, shall, in a proper case, on the presentation of a verified petition issue a subpoena to the witness, commanding him to appear before the commissioner, named in the commission; or before a commissioner, within the State, for the state, territory, or foreign country, in which the notice was given, or the proceeding taken; or before the officer designated in the commission, notice, or other paper, by his title of office; at a time and place specified in the subpoena, to testify, in the action, suit, or special proceeding. If the witness shall fail to obey the subpoena, or refuse to have an oath administered, or to testify, or to produce a book or paper pursuant to a subpoena, or to subscribe his deposition, the court or judge issuing the subpoena shall, if it is determined that a contempt has been committed, prescribe the punishment as in the case of a recalcitrant witness in the supreme court. The general rules of practice must prescribe rules for such proceedings.

From 2 R. S. 397, §§ 30, 31; L. 1867, c. 68, § 1. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 502 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 919. [Am'd, 1899.] Taking and return of deposition.

The officer, or commissioner, before whom a witness appears, in a case specified in this article, must take down his testimony, in writing, and must annex thereto copies of all books and papers produced or such parts thereof as shall be required, and must certify and transmit it to the court in which the action, suit, or special proceeding is pending, as the practice of that court requires.

From L. 1831, c. 191, § 1. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 502 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 920. [Repealed by L. 1899, c. 502 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).]

TITLE IV.

Documentary evidence.

Article 1. Documentary evidence, as a substitute for oral testimony.
2. Proof of a document, executed or remaining within the State.
3. Proof of a document, remaining in a court or public office of the United States, or executed or remaining without the State.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Documentary evidence, as a substitute for oral testimony

Sec. 921. Certain official certificates, evidence.
922. Certificate, etc., on file, evidence.
923. Notary's certificate, evidence.
924. Notary's protest and memorandum; when evidence.
925. Proof of presentment, etc., of foreign bills.
926. Affidavit of printer, etc., evidence.
927. Affidavit of service of notice.
928. Marriage certificate, evidence.
929. Book of foreign corporation; when evidence.
930. When a copy thereof is evidence.
931. How copy to be verified.
931a. Copy of designation of person upon whom to make service, as evidence.
931b. Recital in order, resolution or record of public officers, board or body, presumptive evidence of certain facts.

§ 921. Certain official certificates, evidence.

Where the officer, to whom the legal custody of a paper belongs, certifies, under his hand and official seal, that he has made diligent examination, in his office, for the paper, and that it cannot be found, the certificate is presumptive evidence of the facts so certified, as if the officer personally testified to the same.

From 2 R. S. 552 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 12.

§ 922. Certificate, etc., on file, evidence.

Where a public officer is required or authorized, by special provision of law, to make a certificate or an affidavit, touching an act performed by him, or to a fact ascertained by him, in the course of his official duty; and to file or deposit it in a public office of the State; the certificate or affidavit, so filed or deposited, or an exemplified copy thereof, is presumptive evidence of the facts therein alleged, except where the effect thereof is declared or regulated, by special provision of law.

New.

§ 923. [Am'd, 1877.] Notary's certificate, evidence.

The certificate of a notary public of the State, under his hand and seal of office, of the presentment by him, for acceptance or payment, or of the protest, for non-acceptance or non-payment, of a promissory note or bill of exchange, or of the service of notice thereof on a party to the note or bill; specifying the mode of giving the notice, the reputed place of residence of the party to whom it was given, and the post-office nearest thereto; is presumptive evidence of the facts certified, unless the party, against whom it is offered, has served upon the adverse party, with his pleading, or within ten days after joinder of an issue of fact, an original affidavit, to the effect, that he has not received notice of non-acceptance, or of non-payment of the note or bill. A verified answer is not sufficient as an affidavit, within the meaning of this section.

§ 924. Notary's protest and memorandum; when evidence.

In case of the death or insanity of a notary public of the State, or of his absence or removal, so that his personal attendance, or his testimony, cannot be procured, in any mode prescribed by law, his original protest, under his hand and official seal, the genuineness thereof being first duly proved, is presumptive evidence of a demand of acceptance, or of payment, therein stated; and a note or memorandum, personally made or signed by him, at the foot of a protest, or in a regular register of official acts, kept by him, is presumptive evidence that a notice of non-acceptance or non-payment was sent or delivered, at the time, and in the manner, stated in the note or memorandum.

From 2 R. S. 283, 284 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 2), §§ 46, 47.

§ 925. Proof of presentment, etc., of foreign bills.

Proof of the presentment, for acceptance or payment, of a promissory note or bill of exchange, payable in another state, or in a territory, or foreign country, or of a protest of the note or bill, for non-acceptance or non-payment, or of the service of notice thereof, on a party to the note or bill, may be made, in any manner authorized by the laws of the state, territory, or country where it was payable.

From L. 1865, c. 309.

§ 926. [Am'd, 1877.] Affidavit of printer, etc., evidence.

The affidavit of the printer or publisher of a newspaper, published within the State, or of his foreman or principal clerk, showing the publication of a notice or other advertisement, authorized or required, by a law of the State, to be published in that newspaper, annexed to a printed copy of the notice or other advertisement, may be read in evidence; and is presumptive evidence of the publication, and, also, of the matters stated therein, showing that the deponent is authorized to make the affidavit. But this section does not apply to a case, where the affidavit is required by law to be filed, unless it has been duly filed; or to a case, where the mode of proving a publication is otherwise specially prescribed by law.

§ 927. [Am'd, 1902.] Affidavit of service of notice.

Where it is necessary upon the trial of an action, to prove the service, posting or affixing, of a notice, an affidavit, showing the service, posting or affixing, to have been made by the person making the affidavit, is presumptive evidence of the service, posting or affixing, upon first proving that he is dead or insane, or that his personal attendance cannot be compelled, with due diligence.

From L. 1858, c. 244, § 1. Am'd by L. 1902, c. 93 (in effect Sept. 1, 1902).

§ 928. [Am'd, 1879.] Marriage certificate, evidence.

An original certificate of a marriage, within the State, made by the minister or magistrate by whom it was solemnized; the original entry thereof made, pursuant to law, in the office of the clerk of a city or a town, within the State; or a copy of the certificate, or of the entry, duly certified, is presumptive evidence of the marriage.

From 2 R. S. 141 (Part 2, c. 8, tit. 1), § 17. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 929. Book of foreign corporation; when evidence.

Where a party wishes to prove an act or transaction of a foreign corporation, the book or books of the corporation may be used for that purpose, as presumptive evidence, whether any or all of the parties are or are not members of the corporation.

From L. 1863, c. 206, as am'd by L. 1869, c. 589.

§ 930. When a copy thereof is evidence.

If an original book is not produced at the trial, as prescribed in the last section, a copy thereof, or of an entry therein, verified as prescribed in the next section, may be used, with like effect as the original book; provided that the party, intending to use the copy, gives the adverse party at least ten days' notice of his intention, specifying briefly the nature of the evidence proposed to be given. But this and the next section do not apply, where the foreign corporation is a party to the action, and seeks to prove its own act or transaction, in its own behalf.

From L. 1863, c. 206, parts of §§ 1, 2.

§ 931. How copy to be verified.

The copy must be verified by the deposition, taken as prescribed by law, or the oral testimony, taken at the trial, of the person who made it, or of a person who has examined and compared it with the original book, or the entry therein. The witness must testify that the copy produced is correct; that he made it, or compared it with the original; and that he then knew that the original book so copied, or containing the entry, was the book of the corporation; or that it was then acknowledged to him to be such, by an officer or receiver of the corporation, or a person having the custody thereof, naming the person who made the acknowledgment; and he must specify where, and in whose custody, the original was then kept.

From Id., part of § 1.

§ 931a. [Added, 1909.] Copy of designation of person upon whom to make service, as evidence.

An exemplified copy of a designation of a person upon whom to make service filed by a foreign corporation as provided in section 16 of the General Corporation Law accompanied with a certificate that it has not been revoked, is presumptive evidence of the execution thereof, and conclusive evidence of the authority of the officer executing it.

From Code Civ. Proc., § 432, subd. 2, pt. Added here by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909). (For remainder of section see Code Civ. Proc., § 432, and Gen. Corp'n Law, § 16).

§ 931b. [Added, 1909.] Recital in order, resolution or record of public officers, board or body, presumptive evidence of certain facts.

A recital in any order, resolution or other record of any proceeding of a meeting referred to in section 41 of the General Construction Law that such meeting had been held or adjourned as provided in said section or that it had been held upon notice to the members as therein provided, shall be presumptive evidence thereof.

From Stat'ry Constr'n Law, § 19 pt. Added here by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909). (For remainder of section see Gen. Constr'n Law, § 41).

§ 931c. [Added, 1909.] Extracts from books and records of comptroller's office as evidence.

The state comptroller is hereby authorized to furnish extracts from the books and records of his office in reference to any lot, piece or parcel of land, certifying that such extract contains all that is stated in such book or record relating to such lot, piece or parcel of land, and such certified extract may be read in evidence in all courts and proceedings with the same effect as the original book or record.

Added by L. 1909, c. 425 (in effect May 21, 1909).

ARTICLE SECOND.

Proof of a document, executed or remaining within the state.

Sec. 932. Statutes, etc.; how proved.
933. Copies of records and papers in certain offices, presumptive evidence.
934. Id.; of papers filed with town clerk.
935. Conveyance, when acknowledged, or record, or transcript of record, evidence.
936. Such evidence may be rebutted.
937. What instruments may be acknowledged.
938. Justice's docket and transcript, evidence before him.
939. Transcript from justice's docket, evidence generally.
940. Other proof of proceedings before justice.
941. Ordinances, etc., of cities, villages, etc.
941a. Proof of colonial statutes.

§ 932. [Am'd, 1877, 1895.] Statutes, etc., how proved.

A statute or joint resolution, passed by the legislature of the State, may be read in evidence from a newspaper, designated as prescribed by law, to publish the same, until six months after the close of the session at which it was passed; and, at any time, from a volume printed under the direction of the secretary of State. To entitle any copy of a law published, other than those published under the direction of the secretary of State, to be read in evidence, there shall be contained in the same book or pamphlet, a printed certificate of the secretary of State, that such copy is a correct transcript of the text of the original laws. For such certificate the secretary of State shall collect such a fee as he shall deem just and reasonable.

From 1 R. S. 184 (Part 1, c. 8, tit. 7), §§ 8, 12. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 594 (in effect Sept. 1, 1895).

§ 933. [Am'd, 1879.] Copies of records and papers in certain offices, presumptive evidence.

A copy of a paper filed, kept, entered, or recorded, pursuant to law, in a public office of the State, the officer having charge of which has, pursuant to law, an official seal; or with the clerk of a court of the State; or with the clerk or secretary of either house of the legislature, or of any other public body or public board created by authority of a law of the State, and having, pursuant to law, a seal; or a transcript from a record, kept, pursuant to law, in such a public office, or by such a clerk or secretary, is evidence, as if the original was produced. But, to entitle it to be used in evidence, it must be certified by the clerk of the court, under his hand and the seal of the court; or by the officer having the custody of the original, or his deputy, or clerk, appointed pursuant to law, under his official seal, and the hand of the person certifying; or by the presiding officer, secretary, or clerk of the public body or board, appointed pursuant to law, under his hand, and, except where it is certified by the clerk or secretary of either house of the legislature, under the official seal of the body or board.

From various special statutes. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 934. Id.; of papers filed with town clerk.

A copy of a paper filed, pursuant to law, in the office of a town clerk, or a transcript from a record kept therein, pursuant to law, certified by the town clerk, is evidence, with like effect as the original.

From 1 R. S. 350 (Part 1, c. 11, tit. 4), § 16.

§ 935. Conveyance, when acknowledged, or record, or transcript of record, evidence.

A conveyance, acknowledged or proved, and certified, in the manner prescribed by law, to entitle it to be recorded in the county where it is offered, is evidence, without further proof thereof. Except as otherwise specially prescribed by law, the record of a conveyance, duly recorded, within the State, or a transcript thereof, duly certified, is evidence, with like effect as the original conveyance.

From 1 R. S. 759 (Part 2, c. 3), §§ 16, 17.

§ 936. Such evidence may be rebutted.

The certificate of the acknowledgment, or of the proof of a conveyance, or the record, or the transcript of the record, of such a conveyance, is not conclusive; and it may be rebutted, and the effect thereof may be contested, by a party affected thereby. If it appears that the proof was taken upon the oath of an interested or incompetent witness, the conveyance, or the record or transcript thereof, shall not be received in evidence, until its execution is established by other competent proof.

From Id., § 17.

§ 937. What instruments may be acknowledged.

Any instrument, except a promissory note, a bill of exchange, or a last will, may be acknowledged, or proved, and certified, in the manner prescribed by law for taking and certifying the acknowledgment or proof of a conveyance of real property; and thereupon it is evidence, as if it was a conveyance of real property.

From L. 1833, c. 271, § 9.

§ 938. Justice's docket and transcript, evidence before him.

The docket-book of a justice of the peace, within the State, or a transcript thereof, certified by him, is evidence before him, of any matter required by law to be entered by him therein.

From 2 R. S. 269 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 4), § 245.

§ 939. Transcript from justice's docket, evidence generally.

A transcript from the docket-book of a justice of the peace, within the State, subscribed by him, and authenticated by a certificate of the clerk of the county in which the justice resides, under his hand and official seal, to the effect, that the person, subscribing the transcript, was, at the date of the judgment therein mentioned, a justice of the peace of that county; and that the clerk is acquainted with his handwriting, and verily believes that the signature to the transcript is genuine; is evidence of any matter stated in the transcript, which is required by law to be entered by the justice in his docket-book.

From Id., §§ 246, 247.

§ 940. [Am'd, 1877.] Other proof of proceedings before justice.

The proceedings in an action brought, or a special proceeding instituted, before a justice of the peace, within the State, may also be proved by the oath of the justice. In case of his death or absence, they may be proved by the original minutes of the proceedings, kept by him, pursuant to law, accompanied with proof of his handwriting; or by a copy of the minutes, sworn to, by a competent witness, as having been compared with the original entries, with proof that those entries were in the handwriting of the justice.

From Id., § 248. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 941. [Am'd, 1877, 1894.] Ordinances, etc., of cities, villages, etc.

An act, ordinance, resolution, by-law, rule or proceeding of the common council of a city, or of the board of trustees of an incorporated village, or of a local board of health of a city, town or incorporated village or of a board of supervisors, within the State, may be read in evidence, either from a copy thereof, certified by the city clerk, village clerk, clerk of the common council, clerk or secretary of the local board of health, or clerk of the board of supervisors; or from a volume printed by authority of the common council of the city, or the board of trustees of the village or the local board of health of the city, town or village, or the board of supervisors.

From L. 1882, c. 158, §§ 1, 2; L. 1851, c. 400, § 7; L. 1870, c. 291, tit. 4, § 16. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1894, c. 208.

§ 941a. [Added, 1909.] Proof of colonial statutes.

A statute contained in the compilation of the colonial statutes transmitted to the legislature by the commissioners of statutory revision, pursuant to chapter 125 of the Laws of 1891, shall be evidence in any action or proceeding, and of the same force and effect as though the original was produced, if it appears from such publication that such statute was copied from the original.

From L. 1891, c. 125, § 5 pt., as am'd by L. 1897, c. 408, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

ARTICLE THIRD.

Proof of a document, remaining in a court or public office of the United States, or executed or remaining without the State.

Sec. 942. Printed copies of laws of another state, etc.
943. Copies of records of United States courts.
944. Copies of documents on file in departments of United States, presumptive evidence.
945. Record of bill of sale, etc., of vessels.
946. Conveyance of land without the State.
947. Exemplification of record of conveyance of land without the State.
948. Transcript of docket, etc., of justice of adjoining State.
949. Id.; how authenticated.
950. Other proof.
951. Proof may be rebutted.
952. Copies of records of courts of foreign countries; how authenticated.
953. Other proof.
954. This article does not declare effect of record, etc.
955. Public records in New York county.
956. Documents from foreign countries; how authenticated.

§ 942. Printed copies of laws of another state, etc.

A printed copy of a statute, or other written law, of another state, or of a territory, or of a foreign country, or a printed copy of a proclamation, edict, decree, or ordinance, by the executive power thereof, contained in a book or publication, purporting or proved to have been published by the authority thereof, or proved to be commonly admitted, as evidence of the existing law, in the judicial tribunals thereof, is presumptive evidence of the statute, law, proclamation, edict, decree, or ordinance. The unwritten or common law of another state, or of a territory, or of a foreign country, may be proved, as a fact, by oral evidence. The books of reports of cases, adjudged in the courts thereof, must also be admitted, as presumptive evidence of the unwritten or common law thereof.

From Co. Proc., § 426; L. 1848, c. 312.

§ 943. Copies of records of United States courts.

A copy of the record, or any other proceeding, of a court of the United States, is evidence, when certified by the clerk or officer, in whose custody it is required by law to be.

From L. 1845, c. 303, § 1.

§ 944. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1899, 1907.] Copies of documents on file in departments of U. S., presumptive evidence.

A copy of a record or other paper, remaining in a department of the government of the United States, is evidence, when certified by the head, or acting chief officer, for the time being, of that department; or when certified by the officer in whose charge it is, pursuant to a statute of the United States, or otherwise in accordance with a statute of the United States, relating to certifying the same. A certificate of the director or other officer in charge of the census of the United States, attested by the secretary of the interior, stating the population of any part of the United States, or giving the result of said census otherwise shall be received as prima facie evidence of such facts. The record of the observations of the weather, taken under the direction of the signal service of the United States, when certified by the officer in charge thereof, at the place where they were taken and are kept, is prima facie evidence of the matters of fact stated therein. The records of the observation of the weather taken at the arsenal in Central park under the direction of the meteorological and astronomical observatory of the city of New York, when duly certified by the official in charge thereof, or his deputy, shall be presumptive evidence of the facts set forth therein, and shall be received in evidence on the trial of any action in all the courts of this state.

From L. 1843, c. 240, § 1; L. 1876, c. 299. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1899, c. 99; L. 1907, c. 252 (in effect April 30, 1907).

§ 945. Record of bill of sale, etc., of vessels.

The record of a bill of sale, mortgage, hypothecation, or conveyance of a vessel, belonging to a port or place, within the United States, recorded in the office of the collector of customs, where the vessel is registered or enrolled, which was acknowledged or proved, before it was recorded, in like manner as a deed to be recorded within the State; or a transcript of such a record, duly certified by the collector; is evidence, with the like effect as the original.

From L. 1862, c. 251, as am'd by L. 1865, c. 512.

§ 946. Conveyance of land without the State.

A conveyance of real property, situated without the State, acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded within the county wherein it is offered in evidence, is evidence, without further proof thereof, as if it related to real property situated within the State. A conveyance of real property, situated within another state, or a territory of the United States, which has been duly authenticated, according to the laws of that state or territory, so as to be read in evidence in the courts thereof, is evidence in like manner.

From 1 R. S. 761 (Part 2, c. 3), § 27.

§ 947. Exemplification of record of conveyance of land without the State.

An exemplification of the record of a conveyance of real property situated without the State, and within the United States, which has been recorded in the state or territory, where the real property is situated, pursuant to the laws thereof, when certified under the hand and seal of the officer, having the custody of the record, is, if the original cannot be produced, presumptive evidence of the conveyance, and of the due execution thereof.

New. Analogous to L. 1864, c. 311.

§ 948. Transcript of docket, etc., of justice of adjoining state.

A transcript from the docket-book of a justice of the peace, within an adjoining state, of a judgment rendered by him; a transcript of his minutes of the proceedings in the cause, previous to the judgment; or of an execution issued thereon; or of the return of an execution; when subscribed by the justice, and authenticated as prescribed in the next section, is presumptive evidence of his jurisdiction in the cause, and of the matters shown by the transcript.

From L. 1836, c. 439, § 1.

§ 949. Id.; how authenticated.

Such a transcript must be authenticated by a certificate of the justice, annexed thereto, to the effect, that it is in all respects correct, and that he had jurisdiction of the cause; and also by a certificate of the clerk or prothonotary of the county, in which the justice resided at the time of rendering the judgment, under his hand and the seal of the court of common pleas, or other county court or the county, to the effect that the person, subscribing the certificate attached to the transcript, was, at the date of the judgment, a justice of the peace of that county; and that the signature thereto is in his own handwriting.

From Id., § 2.

§ 950. Other proof.

The judgment and other proceedings, and the justice's authority to render the judgment, may also be proved, by the production of the docket, or of a copy of the judgment or other proceedings; and the oral testimony of the justice, to the truth and correctness thereof, and to his authority to render the judgment.

From L. 1836, c. 439, § 3.

§ 951. Proof may be rebutted.

The last three sections do not prevent the introduction of evidence, to controvert any of the proof, in relation to the validity of a judgment therein specified.

From Id., § 4.

§ 952. Copies of records of courts of foreign countries; how authenticated.

A copy of a record, or other judicial proceeding, of a court of a foreign country, is evidence, when authenticated as follows:

1. By the attestation of the clerk of the court, with the seal of the court affixed, or of the officer in whose custody the record is legally kept, under the seal of his office.

2. By a certificate of the chief-judge or presiding magistrate of the court, to the effect, that the person, so attesting the record, is the clerk of the court; or that he is the officer, in whose custody the record is required by law to be kept; and that his signature to the attestation is genuine.

3. By the certificate, under the great or principal seal of the government, under whose authority the court is held, of the secretary of State, or other officer having the custody of that seal, to the effect, that the court is duly constituted, specifying generally the nature of its jurisdiction; and that the signature of the chief-judge or presiding magistrate, to the certificate specified in the last subdivision, is genuine.

From 2 R. S. 396 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3) § 26.

§ 953. Other proof.

A copy of a record, or other judicial proceeding, of a court of a foreign country, attested by the seal of the court, in which it remains, must also be admitted in evidence, upon due proof of the following facts:

1. That the copy offered has been compared by the witness with the original, and is an exact transcript of the whole of the original.

2. That the original was, when the copy was made, in the custody of the clerk of the court, or other officer, legally having charge of it.

3. That the attestation is genuine.

From Id., § 27.

§ 954. [Am'd, 1877.] This article does not declare effect of record, etc.

Nothing in this article is to be construed, as declaring the effect of a record or other judicial proceeding of a foreign country, authenticated, so as to be evidence.

From Id., § 28, last clause. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 955. [Added, 1892; am'd, 1904.] Public records in New York county.

All maps, surveys and official records, which shall have been on record or on file in the office of either the register of the city and county of New York, or the surrogate of said city, or any of the courts of record of said city, or the clerk of the city and county of New York, or any county within the city of New York, or any of the departments of said city as enumerated in section thirty-four of the New York city consolidation act, or in the office of the registers, surrogates, commissioners of public works or kindred department, or park department, for a period of twenty years or upwards prior to such trial, shall be presumptive evidence of their contents, and shall be receivable in evidence as such upon any trial in any of the courts of this state in any controversy pending therein, between any parties.

Added by L. 1892, c. 522. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 444 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 956. [Am'd, 1877, 1912.] Documents from foreign countries; how authenticated.

A copy of a patent, record or other document remaining of record or on file in a public office of a foreign country, certified according to the form in use in that country, is evidence when authenticated as follows:

1. By the certificate under the hand and official seal of a commissioner appointed by the governor to take the proof or acknowledgment of deeds in that country, to the effect that the patent, record or document is of record or on file in the public office, and that the copy thereof is correct and certified in due form; and

2. By a certificate under the hand and official seal of the Secretary of State, annexed to that of the commissioner, to the same effect as prescribed by law for the authentication of the certificate of such a commissioner upon a conveyance to be recorded within the State. The certificate of the commissioner, thus authenticated, is presumptive evidence that the copy of the patent, record or document is certified according to the form in use in the foreign country; or

3. By a certificate under the hand and official seal of a consular officer of the United States to the effect that the patent, record or document is of record or on file in the public office and certified according to the form in use in the foreign country, and a copy of a patent, record or other document so authenticated is presumptive evidence that the same is certified according to the form in use in the foreign country.

From L. 1875, c. 136, portions of §§ 1, 2, 8, 9. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1912, c. 97 (in effect April 3, 1912).

TITLE V.

Miscellaneous provisions.

Sec. 957. Form of certificate to copies, etc.
958. Certificate must be sealed.
959. Qualification of last section.
960. Evidence, in actions for injury to unoccupied lands and timber thereon.
961. Searching records in the surrogates' offices and certifying in regard thereto.
961a. Determining age of child.
961b. Proof of written instruments where there are subscribing witnesses.
961c. Proof of payments by a municipal corporation or officer thereof.
961d. Proof of instrument by submitting disputed and genuine writing.
961e. Proof of lost execution or writ under which sheriff's sale of real property was made.
961f. Evidence of weather conditions.
962. Saving clause.

§ 957. Form of certificate to copies, etc.

Where a transcript, exemplification, or certified copy of a record or other paper, is declared by law to be evidence, and special provision is not made for the form of the certificate, in the particular case, the person, authorized to certify, must state, in his certificate, that it has been compared by him with the original, and that it is a correct transcript therefrom, and of the whole of the original.

From 2 R. S. 408 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 59.

§ 958. Certificate must be sealed.

If the officer, or the court, body, or board, in whose custody an original paper, specified in the last section, is required to be, by the laws of the State, or of another state, or of the United States, or of a territory thereof, or of a foreign country, has, pursuant to those laws, an official seal, the certificate must be attested by that seal. If the certificate is made by the clerk of a county, within the State, it must be attested by the seal of the county.

From Id., § 59.

§ 959. [Am'd, 1877.] Qualification of last section.

The last section does not require the seal of a court to be affixed to a certified copy of an order, or of a paper filed therein, or entry made, where the copy is used in the same court, or before an officer thereof; or, in the supreme court, where it is used in a circuit court, or a court of oyer and terminer.[1]

From Id., § 60. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 960.[2] [Added, 1892; am'd, 1906.] Evidence, in actions for injury to unoccupied lands and timber thereon.

In all actions to recover the possession of, or otherwise to determine the title to, or for trespass upon or injury to, unoccupied lands, timber, trees or underwood thereon, except an action in which any county or any state or county officer, board or commission is a party defendant, the plaintiff may show an unbroken chain of title or conveyance of the land to himself for thirty years next preceding the commencement of the action, or if an action for trespass, next preceding the commission of the trespass or injury, and such proof shall be presumptive evidence of ownership at the times, respectively, of the commencement of such action or commission of such trespass or injury, but such presumption may be rebutted by the defendant by showing ownership of said lands at the times, respectively, of the commencement of said action or the commission of said trespass or injury, in some person other than the plaintiff.

[1] The present "trial term" of the supreme court corresponds to the former "circuit court," and the present criminal part of the supreme court to the former "court of oyer and terminer."

[2] The original § 960 was repealed by the Statutory Construction Law, L. 1892, c. 677. Its substance is now found in § 43 of the General Construction Law. See Appendix I, post.

Added by L. 1898, c. 32. Am'd by L. 1906, c. 509 (in effect Sept. 1, 1906).

§ 961. [Am'd, 1909, 1915.] Searching records in the surrogates' offices and certifying in regard thereto.

A surrogate's clerk must, upon request, and upon payment of, or offer to pay, the fees allowed by law, or, if no fees are expressly allowed by law, fees at the rate allowed to a county clerk for a similar service, diligently search the files, papers, records, and dockets in the surrogate's office; and either make one or more transcripts therefrom, and certify to the correctness thereof, and to the search, or certify that a document or paper cannot be found in such office.

From L. 1847, c. 470, § 40. Am'd by L. 1909, chs. 65 and 240; L. 1915, c. 207 (in effect September 1, 1915). (See Table, p. iii, ante.)

§ 961a. [Added, 1909.] Determining age of child.

Whenever in any proceeding or trial it becomes necessary to determine the age of a child, such child may be produced and exhibited to enable the magistrate, court or jury to determine its age by a personal inspection; and such court or magistrate may direct an examination by one or more physicians, whose opinion shall also be competent evidence upon the question of such age.

From L. 1882, c. 340, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 961b. [Added, 1909.] Proof of written instruments where there are subscribing witnesses.

Except in the case of written instruments to the validity of which a subscribing witness, or subscribing witnesses, is, or are necessary, whenever, upon the trial of any action, or upon the hearing of any judicial proceeding, a written instrument is offered in evidence, to which there is a subscribing witness, it shall not be necessary to call such subscribing witness, but such instrument may be proved in the same manner as it might be proved if there were no subscribing witness thereto.

From L. 1883, c. 195, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 961c. [Added, 1909.] Proof of payments by a municipal corporation or officer thereof.

In any action or proceeding now pending or hereafter to be brought in any of the courts of this state, the payment of any sum of money by a municipal corporation, or an officer thereof, may be proved by a receipt purporting upon its face to be given therefor, and to entitle such receipt to be read in evidence, no further or other proof shall be necessary than that it is produced from the files of the office of the chief financial officer of such municipal corporation, or from the files of the office of the person or department charged with the duty of making the payment.

Every such receipt so read in evidence shall be presumptive proof of the fact of the payment to the person by or in whose behalf it purports to be signed of the sum of money and for the purpose therein expressed. But no such receipt shall be entitled to be read in evidence by virtue of the provisions of this section, unless it was given at least six years before the commencement of the action or proceeding in which it shall be offered as evidence. And the date or time appearing upon its face shall be presumptive proof that it was given at such date or time. Nothing in this section contained shall be held to prevent any party to such an action or proceeding from proving affirmatively that the payment so appearing to have been made has not in fact been made.

§ 961d. [Added, 1909.] Proof of instrument by submitting disputed and genuine handwriting.

Comparison of a disputed writing with any writing proved to the satisfaction of the court to be the genuine handwriting of any person, claimed on the trial to have made or executed the disputed instrument, or writing, shall be permitted and submitted to the court and jury in like manner.

From L. 1880, c. 36, § 1, as am'd by L. 1888, c. 555, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 961e. [Added, 1909.] Proof of lost execution or writ under which sheriff's sale of real property was made.

Whenever, upon the trial of an action it shall appear that at least twenty years theretofore real property has been sold by a sheriff for enforcement of the valid lien thereon of a duly docketed judgment, and that a certificate of the sale has been duly made by the sheriff and filed, and that a conveyance in completion of the purchase has been executed and recorded, but that the execution or writ by virtue of which the sale has so been made can not be found in the office of the clerk with whom the same should have been filed, then and in such case the recital of or reference to such execution or writ contained in the said certificate, or in the said conveyance, or in the record thereof shall be prima facie evidence of the said execution or writ and of the issue of the same as against any party whose claim of title is not shown to have been accompanied or supported by peaceable possession of the premises in controversy for at least three years immediately preceding the commencement of the action.

From L. 1880, c. 158, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 961f. [Added, 1909.] Evidence of weather conditions.

Any record of the observations in regard to the conditions of the weather, or in regard to the amount and conditions of the precipitation, taken under the direction of the New York state weather bureau, or any copy thereof, when certified in the form of and pursuant to law by the officer in charge thereof at the place where such record is duly filed, that the same is a true copy of such record, may be read in evidence in any court of this state, and shall be prima facie evidence of the facts and circumstances therein stated.

From L. 1897, c. 622, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 962. Saving clause.

Nothing in title fourth of this chapter prevents the proof of a fact, act, record, proceeding, document, or other paper or writing, according to the rules of the common law or by any other competent proof.

From 2 R. S. 397 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), § 28; L. 1846, c. 240, § 2.

CHAPTER X.

Trials; Including Jurors and Juries.

TITLE I.—Trials Generally; Including Exceptions and Motion for a New Trial.
TITLE II.—Trials without a Jury.
TITLE III.—Trial Jurors, except in New York and Kings Counties; Mode of Selecting Them, and of Procuring Their Attendance.
TITLE IV.—Trial Jurors in New York and Kings Counties; Mode of Selecting Them, and of Procuring Their Attendance.
TITLE V.—Trial by Jury.
TITLE VI.—Miscellaneous Provisions; Including Those Relating to Embracery, and Other Acts of Misconduct.

TITLE I.

Trials generally; including exceptions and motion for a new trial.

Article 1. Issues, and the mode of trial thereof.
2. The place of trial.
3. Exceptions, case, and motion for a new trial.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Issues, and the mode of trial thereof.

Sec. 963. Issues defined; different kinds of issues.
964. When issues of law arise; when issues of fact arise.
965. Issues to be judicially examined by a trial.
966. Order of trial, where issues of law and of fact arise in the same action.
967. But court may direct the order, etc., of disposition of the issues.
968. What issues of fact are triable by a jury.
969. What issues are triable by the court.
970. Order for trial by jury, of specific questions of fact; when of right.
971. Id.; when discretionary.
972. Trial of the remainder of the issues.
973. One or more issues may be ordered to be tried separately.
974. Counterclaim to be deemed an action, within the foregoing sections.
975. Immaterial issues need not be tried.
976. Trial before one judge; supreme court.
977. Notice of trial and note of issue. Calendar to be prepared.
978. Issues, how arranged. Order of disposition at a jury term.
979. Id.; when a jury does not attend.
980. Either party may bring issue to trial.
981. What papers to be furnished on trial, and by whom.

§ 963. Issues defined; different kinds of issues.

The issues, treated of in this chapter, are those only which are presented by the pleadings. An issue arises where a fact, or a conclusion of law, is maintained by one party, and controverted by the other. Issues are of two kinds:

1. Of law; and
2. Of fact.

From Co. Proc., § 248.

§ 964. When issues of law arise; when issues of fact arise.

An issue of law arises only upon a demurrer. An issue of fact arises, in either of the following cases:

1. Upon a denial, contained in the answer, of a material allegation of the complaint; or upon an allegation, contained in the answer, that the defendant has not sufficient knowledge or information to form a belief, with respect to a material allegation of the complaint.

2. Upon a similar denial or allegation, contained in the reply, with respect to a material allegation of the answer.

3. Upon a material allegation of new matter, contained in the answer, not requiring a reply; unless an issue of law is joined thereupon.

4. Upon a material allegation of new matter, contained in the reply; unless an issue of law is joined thereupon.

From Co. Proc., §§ 249, 250.

§ 965. [Am'd, 1879.] Issues to be judicially examined by a trial.

An issue, either of law or of fact, must be tried as prescribed in this chapter, unless it is disposed of as prescribed in chapter sixth of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 252. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 966. [Am'd, 1877.] Order of trial, where issues of law and of fact arise in the same action.

Where an issue of law and an issue of fact arise in one action, the issue of law must be first disposed of, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

From Co. Proc., § 251. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 967. [Am'd, 1877.] But court may direct the order, etc., of disposition of the issues.

A separate trial, between the plaintiff and one or more defendants, of some or all of the issues of fact, or one trial of some or all of the issues of law, or a change in the order of disposition of the issues, may be directed by the court, in its discretion. Such a direction may be given, in an order, made upon notice; or, except where an application for such an order has been denied, it may be given, by the judge holding the term, where those issues are regularly upon the calendar for trial, either with or without the entry of an order.

From Co. Proc., §§ 251, 258. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 968. [Am'd, 1877.] What issues of fact are triable by a jury.

In each of the following actions, an issue of fact must be tried by a jury unless a jury trial is waived, or a reference is directed:

1. An action in which the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only.

2. An action of ejectment; for dower; for waste; for a nuisance; or to recover a chattel.

From Co. Proc., § 253. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 969. What issues are triable by the court.

An issue of law, in any action, and an issue of fact, in an action not specified in the last section, or wherein provision for a trial by a jury is not expressly made by law, must be tried by the court, unless a reference or a jury trial is directed.

From Co. Proc., §§ 253, 254.

§ 970. [Am'd, 1877, 1891, 1892.] Order for trial by jury, of specific questions of fact; when of right.

Where a party is entitled by the constitution, or by express provision of law, to a trial by a jury, of one or more issues of fact, in an action not specified in section 968 of this act, he may apply, upon notice, to the court for an order, directing all the questions arising upon those issues, to be distinctly and plainly stated for trial accordingly. Upon the hearing of the application, the court must cause the issues, to the trial of which by a jury the party is entitled, to be distinctly and plainly stated. The subsequent proceedings are the same, as where questions arising upon the issues, are stated for trial by a jury, in a case where neither party can, as of right, require such a trial; except that the finding of the jury upon such questions so stated, is conclusive in the action unless the verdict is set aside, or a new trial is granted.

§ 971. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; when discretionary.

In an action, where a party is not entitled, as of right, to a trial by a jury, the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of either party, or without application, direct that one or more questions of fact, arising upon the issues, be tried by a jury, and may cause those questions to be distinctly and plainly stated for trial accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 254. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 972. [Am'd, 1877.] Trial of the remainder of the issues.

If the questions, directed to be tried by a jury, as prescribed in the last two sections, do not embrace all the issues of fact in the action, the remaining issues of fact must be tried by the court, or by a referee.

From Co. Proc., § 254. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 973. [Added, 1907.] One or more issues may be ordered to be tried separately.

The court in its discretion may order one or more issues to be separately tried prior to any trial of the other issues in the case.

Added by L. 1907, c. 526 (in effect Sept. 1, 1907).

§ 974. [Am'd, 1877.] Counterclaim to be deemed an action, within the foregoing sections.

Where the defendant interposes a counterclaim, and thereupon demands an affirmative judgment against the plaintiff, the mode of trial of an issue of fact, arising thereupon, is the same, as if it arose in an action, brought by the defendant, against the plaintiff, for the cause of action stated in the counterclaim, and demanding the same judgment.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 975. Immaterial issues need not be tried.

An issue, the disposition of which is not necessary to enable the court to render the appropriate judgment, is not required to be tried.

New.

§ 976. [Am'd, 1895, 1900, 1909.] What issues to be tried before one judge; regulation of trial in the supreme court.

An issue of law, or an issue of fact, triable by a jury or by the court, must be tried at a term held by one judge only. In the supreme court, an issue of fact triable by jury must be tried at a trial term thereof, and an issue of fact triable by the court may be tried at a trial term or a special term of the supreme court as prescribed in the general rules of practice. An issue of law may be brought on and tried at any term of court as a contested motion.

From Co. Proc., § 255. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1900, c. 669; L. 1909, c. 499 (in effect Sept. 1, 1909).

§ 977. [Am'd, 1877, 1883, 1896, 1898, 1899, 1903, 1904, 1907, 1909, 1911, 1912, 1915.] Notice of trial and note of issue. Calendar to be prepared.

At any time after the joinder of issue, and at least fourteen days before the commencement of the term, either party may serve a notice of trial. The party serving the notice must file with the clerk a note of issue, stating the title of the action, the names of the attorneys, the time when the last pleading was served, the nature of the issue, whether of fact or of law; and, if an issue of fact, whether it is triable by jury, or by the court, without a jury, and the particular nature of the same and the object of the action. The note of issue must be filed at least twelve days before the commencement of the term. The clerk must thereupon enter the cause upon the calendar according to the date of issue. The clerk must prepare the calendar and have the necessary copies ready for distribution at least five days before the commencement of the term. In the counties of New York, Kings, Bronx, Queens, Nassau, Richmond, Albany, Erie, Niagara, Monroe, Onondaga, Schenectady, and Westchester, where a party has served a notice of trial, and filed a note of issue, for a term at which the case is not tried, it is not necessary for him to serve a new notice of trial, or file a new note of issue, for a succeeding term; and the action must remain on the calendar until it is disposed of.

From Co. Proc., § 256; L. 1876, c. 431, § 9. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1882, c. 96; L. 1896, c. 565; L. 1898, c. 70; L. 1899, c. 18; L. 1903, c. 51; L. 1904, c. 474; L. 1907, c. 211; L. 1909, c. 65; L. 1911, c. 218; L. 1912, c. 96; L. 1915, c. 60 (in effect March 11, 1915). (See Table, p. iii, ante.)

§ 978. [Am'd, 1877.] Issues, how arranged. Order of disposition at a jury term.

The issues on the calendar must be arranged by the clerk in the following order:

1. Issues of fact.
2. Issues of law.

Where a jury is in attendance, the issues must be disposed of in the same order; unless, for the convenience of parties, or the dispatch of business, the judge holding the term otherwise directs.

From Co. Proc., § 257. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 979. Id.; when a jury does not attend.

Where a jury is not in attendance, issues of law have a preference over issues of fact; unless the judge holding the term otherwise directs.

See Co. Proc., § 255, last sentence.

§ 980. [Am'd, 1877.] Either party may bring issue to trial.

Either party, who has served the notice, may bring the issue to trial; and, in the absence of the adverse party, unless the judge holding the term, for good cause, otherwise directs, may proceed with the cause, and take a dismissal of the complaint, or a verdict, decision, or judgment, as the case requires. An inquest, for want of an affidavit of merits, cannot be taken where the answer is verified.

From Co. Proc., § 256; L. 1876, c. 431, § 10. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 981. What papers to be furnished on trial, and by whom.

Where the issue is brought to trial by the plaintiff, he must furnish the court with copies of the summons and pleadings, and of the offer, if any has been made. Where the issue is brought to trial by the defendant, and the plaintiff does not furnish these papers, they must be furnished by the defendant.

From Co. Proc., § 259.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The place of trial.

Sec. 982. Certain actions to be tried where the subject thereof is situated.
982a. Actions relating to real property situate without the state.
983. Other actions, where the case thereof arose.
984. Other actions, according to the residence of the parties.
985. Place of trial, if proper county not designated.
986. Defendant may demand change; proceedings thereupon.
987. When court may change the place of trial.
988. Effect of changing the place of trial.
989. Effect of order changing place of trial.
990. Issues of law and certain issues of fact; where triable.
991. This article applicable only to the supreme court.

§ 982. Certain actions to be tried where the subject thereof is situated.

Each of the following actions must be tried in the county, in which the subject of the action, or some part thereof, is situated: an action of ejectment; for the partition of real property; for dower; to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, or upon a chattel real; to compel the determination of a claim to real property; for waste; for a nuisance; or to procure a judgment, directing a conveyance of real property; and every other action to recover, or to procure a judgment, establishing, determining, defining, forfeiting, annulling, or otherwise affecting, an estate, right, title, lien, or other interest, in real property, or a chattel real. But where all the real property, to which the action relates, is situated without the State, the action must be tried, as prescribed in section 984 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 123.

§ 982a. [Added, 1913.] Actions relating to real property situate without the state.

An action may be maintained in the courts of this state to recover damages for injuries to real estate situate without the state, or for breach of contracts or of covenants relating thereto, whenever such an action could be maintained in relation to personal property without the state. The action must be tried in the county in which the parties or some one thereof resides, or if no party resides within the state, in any county.

Added by L. 1913, c. 76 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 983. [Am'd, 1877, 1890.] Other actions, where the cause thereof arose.

An action, for either of the following causes, must be tried in the county, where the cause of action, or some part thereof, arose:

1. To recover a penalty or forfeiture, imposed by statute, except that, where the offence, for which it is imposed, was committed on a lake, river, or other stream of water, situated in two or more counties, the action may be tried in any county bordering on the lake, river, or stream, and opposite to the place where the offence was committed. But in an action where the people of the State are a party, to recover a penalty for trespass upon the lands of the forest preserve, the action may be tried in a county adjoining the county where the cause of action arose.

2. Against a public officer, or a person specially appointed to execute his duties, for an act done, in virtue of his office, or for an omission to perform a duty, incident to his office; or against a person, who, by the command or in the aid of a public officer, has done any thing touching his duties.

3. To recover a chattel distrained, or damages for distraining a chattel.

From Co. Proc., § 124. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1890, c. 179.

§ 984. Other actions, according to the residence of the parties.

An action, not specified in the last two sections, must be tried in the county, in which one of the parties resided, at the commencement thereof. If neither of the parties then resided in the State, it may be tried in any county, which the plaintiff designates, for that purpose, in the title of the complaint.

From Co. Proc., § 125.

§ 985. Place of trial, if proper county not designated.

If the county, designated in the complaint, as the place of trial, is not the proper county, the action may notwithstanding be tried therein; unless the place of trial is changed to the proper county, upon the demand of the defendant, followed by the consent of the plaintiff, or the order of the court.

From Co. Proc., § 126, first sentence.

§ 986. Defendant may demand change; proceedings thereupon.

Where the defendant demands that the action be tried in the proper county, his attorney must serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, with the answer, or before service of the answer, a written demand accordingly. The demand must specify the county, where the defendant requires the action to be tried. If the plaintiff's attorney does not serve his written consent to the change, as proposed by the defendant, within five days after service of the demand, the defendant's attorney may, within ten days thereafter, serve notice of a motion to change the place of trial.

Id.

§ 987. When court may change the place of trial.

The court may, by order, change the place of trial, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the county, designated for that purpose in the complaint, is not the proper county.
2. Where there is reason to believe, that an impartial trial cannot be had in the proper county.
3. Where the convenience of witnesses, and the ends of justice, will be promoted by the change.

From Co. Proc., part of § 126.

§ 988. [Am'd, 1877.] Effect of changing the place of trial.

Where the place of trial is changed to another county, the subsequent proceedings shall be had in the county to which the change is made, the same as if it had been designated in the complaint, as the place of trial; except as otherwise directed by the court, or provided by the written consent of the parties, filed with the clerk. And the clerk of the county, from which it is changed, must forthwith deliver to the clerk of the county, to which it is changed, all papers filed in the action, and certified copies of all minutes and entries relating thereto, which must be filed, entered, or recorded, as the case requires, in the office of the last named clerk.

From Id., § 126, last sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 989. [Am'd, 1877.] Effect of order changing place of trial. Rule 147

An order to change the place of trial takes effect, upon the entry thereof, in the office of the clerk of the county, from which the place of trial is changed. But for the purposes of the place of hearing a motion to set it aside, or an appeal therefrom, the place of trial is deemed unchanged.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 990. [Am'd, 1879, 1913.] Issues of law and certain issues of fact; where triable.

An issue of law, or an issue of fact triable by the court without a jury, arising in a county where no special terms distinct from trial terms are appointed to be held for the trial of such cases, may be tried at a special term in any county within the judicial district embracing the county wherein the action is triable; but after the trial, the decision and all other papers relating to the trial must be filed, and the judgment rendered must be entered, in the last named county. (155)

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1913, c. 446 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 991. This article applicable only to the supreme court.

This article is applicable to an action in the supreme court only.

New.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Exceptions, case, and motions for a new trial.

Sec. 992. What rulings may be excepted to.
993. Exceptions to findings of fact.
994. When and how exceptions may be taken, after close of trial by court or referee.
995. Id., during the trial, or upon trial by jury.
996. Ruling excepted to; how reviewed.
997. Case, when necessary; how made and settled.
998. When appeal, etc., may be heard without a case.
999. Motion for new trial upon judge's minutes; appeal from order thereupon.
1000. When and how exceptions, taken upon a jury trial, heard by the appellate division.
1001. Motion for new trial at the appellate division when trial was by court or referee.
1002. When motion for new trial to be made at special term. Restrictions thereupon.
1003. Application of this article to trials of specific questions by jury; special provisions applicable thereto.
1004. Motion for new hearing, after trial of specific questions by a referee.
1005. Final judgment, etc., not stayed, by motion for a new trial. Motion may be heard afterwards.
1006. When exception not to prejudice motion for new trial.
1007. Notes of stenographer may be treated as minutes of the judge.

§ 992. What rulings may be excepted to.

An exception may be taken to the ruling of the court or of a referee, upon a question of law, arising upon the trial of an issue of fact. Except as prescribed in section 1180 of this act, an exception cannot be taken to a ruling upon a question of fact. For the purposes of this article, a trial by a jury is regarded as continuing, until the verdict is rendered.

New.

§ 993. [Am'd, 1894; repealed, 1895; reënacted 1903.] Exceptions to findings of fact.

Upon the trial of an issue of fact by a referee or by a court without a jury, a finding of fact without any evidence tending to sustain it, is a ruling upon a question of law within the meaning of the last section. The appellate division of the supreme court shall, on appeal from a judgment entered on the report of a referee, or the decision of a court on such trial, review all questions of fact and of law, and may either modify or affirm the judgment or order appealed from, award a new trial, or grant to either party the judgment which the facts warrant.

New. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 688; repealed by L. 1895, c. 946; reënacted, with amendments, by L. 1903, c. 85 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903).

§ 994. When and how exceptions may be taken, after close of trial by court or referee.

Where an issue of fact is tried by a referee, or by the court, without a jury, an exception to a ruling, upon a question of law, made after the cause is finally submitted must be taken, by filing a notice of the exception in the clerk's office, and serving a copy thereof upon the attorney for the adverse party. The exception may be so taken, at any time before the expiration of ten days after service, upon the attorney for the exceptant, of a copy of the decision of the court, or report of the referee, and a written notice of the entry of judgment thereupon. If the notice of exception is filed before the entry of final judgment, it must be inserted in the judgment-roll; if afterwards, it must be annexed to the judgment-roll. In either case, it constitutes a part of the papers, upon which an appeal from the judgment must be heard.

From Co. Proc., §§ 268, 272.

§ 995. Id.; during the trial, or upon trial by jury.

In any other case, an exception must be taken, at the time when the ruling is made, unless it is taken to the charge given to the jury; in which case, it must be taken before the jury have rendered their verdict. It must, at the time when it is taken, be reduced to writing by the exceptant, or entered in the minutes.

From 2 R. S. 422 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), §§ 73, 74, as modified by Co. Proc., § 264.

§ 996. Ruling excepted to; how reviewed.

A ruling, to which an exception is taken, as prescribed in the last four sections, can be reviewed only upon an appeal from the judgment, rendered after the trial; except in a case, where it is expressly prescribed by law, that a motion for a new trial may be made thereupon.

New.

§ 997. [Am'd, 1877, 1895.] Case, when necessary; how made and settled.

When a party intends to appeal from a judgment, rendered after the trial of an issue of fact, or to move for a new trial of such an issue, he must, except as otherwise prescribed by law, make a case, and procure the same to be settled and signed, by the judge, justice or the referee, by or before whom the action was tried, as prescribed in the general rules of practice; or, in a case of the death or disability of the judge, justice or referee, in such manner as the court directs. The case must contain so much of the evidence, and other proceedings upon the trial, as is material to the questions to be raised thereby, and also the exceptions taken by the party making the case; and in a case where a special question is submitted to the jury, or the jury have assessed damages, such exceptions taken by any party to the action as shall be necessary to determine whether there should be a new trial in case the judgment should be reversed. If it afterwards becomes necessary to separate the exceptions, the separation may be made, and the exceptions may be stated, with so much of the evidence and other proceedings, as is material to the questions raised by them, in a case, prepared and settled, as directed in the general rules of practice; or, in the absence of directions therein, by the court, upon motion. It is not necessary to state, in a case, that a finding upon the facts, or a ruling upon the law, was made, where the finding or ruling appears in a referee's report, or in the decision of the court, upon a trial by the court, without a jury.

From Co. Proc., §§ 264, 268, 272. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946 (In effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 998. When appeal, etc., may be heard without a case.

It is not necessary to make a case, for the purpose of moving for a new trial, upon the minutes of the judge, who presided at a trial by a jury: or upon an allegation of irregularity, or surprise: or where a party intends to appeal from a judgment entered upon a referee's report, or a decision of the court upon a trial, without a jury, and to rely only upon exceptions, taken as prescribed in section 994 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 268.

§ 999. [Am'd, 1899.] Motion for new trial upon judge's minutes; appeal from order thereupon.

The judge, presiding at a trial by a jury, may, in his discretion, entertain a motion, made upon his minutes, at the same term, to set aside the verdict or a direction dismissing the complaint and grant a new trial upon exceptions; or because the verdict is for excessive or insufficient damages, or otherwise contrary to the evidence, or contrary to law. If an appeal is taken from the order, made upon the motion, it must be heard upon a case prepared and settled in the usual manner.

From Co. Proc., part of § 264. Am'd by L. 1889, c. 262.

§ 1000. [Am'd, 1877, 1882, 1895.] When and how exceptions, taken upon a jury trial, heard by the appellate division.

Upon the application of a party who has taken one or more exceptions, the judge presiding at a trial by jury, may, in his discretion, at any time during the same term, direct an order to be entered, that the exceptions so taken be heard in the first instance by the appellate division of the supreme court; and that judgment be suspended in the mean time. At any time before the hearing of the exceptions the order may be revoked or modified, upon notice, in court or out of court, by the judge who made it; or it may be set aside for irregularity, by the court, at any term thereof. Unless it is so revoked or set aside, the exceptions must be heard upon a motion for a new trial, which must be decided by the appellate division. The motion is deemed to have been made, when the order was granted; and either party may notice it for hearing at a term of the appellate division, upon the exceptions.

From Co. Proc., § 265. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 418; L. 1882, c. 29; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1001. [Am'd, 1895.] Motion for new trial at the appellate division, when trial was by court or referee.

Where the decision or report, rendered upon the trial of an issue of fact by the court, without a jury, or by a referee, directs an interlocutory judgment to be entered; and further proceedings must be taken before the court or a judge thereof, or a referee, before a final judgment can be entered, a motion for a new trial, upon one or more exceptions, may be made at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, after the entry of the interlocutory judgment, and before the commencement of the hearing directed therein. The time within which the party must except, for that purpose, to a ruling of law made upon such a trial, by the judge or the referee, after the close of the testimony, is ten days after service of a copy of the decision or report, and notice of the entry of the interlocutory judgment thereupon.

From Co. Proc., § 268. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1002. [Am'd, 1884, 1890.] When motion for new trial to be made at special term. Restrictions thereupon.

In a case not specified in the last three sections, a motion for a new trial must, in the first instance, be heard and decided at the special term. But where it is founded upon an allegation of error, in a finding of fact, or ruling upon the law, made by the judge upon the trial, it cannot be made, unless notice therefor be given before the expiration of the time within which an appeal can be taken from the judgment, and it cannot be heard at a special term, held by another judge; unless the judge, who presided at the trial, is dead, or his term of office has expired, or he is disqualified for any reason, or he specifically directs the motion to be heard before another judge. And a trial by a referee cannot be reviewed, by a motion for a new trial, founded upon such an allegation, except in a case specified in the last section.

From Co. Proc., § 265. Am'd by L. 1884, c. 408; L. 1890, c. 208.

§ 1003. [Am'd, 1895.] Application of this article to trials of specific questions by jury; special provisions applicable thereto.

The provisions of this article, relating to the proceedings to review a trial by a jury, are applicable to the trial, by a jury, of one or more specific questions of fact, arising upon the issues, in an action triable by the court. But, except in a case specified in section 970 of this act, a new trial may be granted, as to some of the questions so tried, and refused as to the others; and an error, in the admission or exclusion of evidence, or in any other ruling or direction of the judge, upon the trial, may, in the discretion of the court which reviews it, be disregarded, if that court is of opinion, that substantial justice does not require that a new trial should be granted. Where the judge, who presided at the trial, neither entertains a motion for a new trial, nor directs exceptions, taken at the trial, to be heard at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, a motion for a new trial can be made only at the term, where the motion for final judgment is made, or the remaining issues of fact are tried, as the case requires.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1004. Motion for new hearing, after trial of specific questions by a referee.

In an action triable by the court, where a reference has been made, to report upon one or more specific questions of fact, involved in the issue, a motion for a new hearing may be made at a special term, at any time before the hearing of a motion for final judgment, or the trial of the remaining issues of fact. The motion must be made upon affidavits, unless the court, or a judge thereof, directs a case to be prepared and settled.

New.

§ 1005. Final judgment, etc., not stayed, by motion for a new trial. Motion may be heard afterwards.

The entry of final judgment, and the subsequent proceedings to collect or otherwise enforce it, are not stayed by an exception, the preparation or settlement of a case, or a motion for a new trial, unless an order for such a stay is procured and served; and the entry, collection, or other enforcement of a judgment does not prejudice a subsequent motion for a new trial. Where a new trial is granted, the court may direct and enforce restitution, as where a judgment is reversed upon appeal.

From L. 1882, c. 128, § 1.

§ 1006. When exception not to prejudice motion for new trial.

The taking of an exception, upon a trial by a jury, or the statement thereof in a case, as prescribed in this article, does not prejudice a motion for a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was contrary to evidence; but such a motion may be made, before or after the hearing of the exception; or, in the discretion of the court before which the exception is heard, at the time of the hearing.

From 2 R. S. 422 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 76.

§ 1007. [Am'd, 1883, 1884, 1909.] Notes of stenographer may be treated as minutes of the judge.

The notes of an official stenographer or assistant stenographer, taken at a trial, when written out at length, may be treated, in the discretion of the judge, as the minutes of the judge upon the trial, for the purposes of this article.

New. Am'd by L. 1883, c. 218; L. 1884, c. 277; L. 1909, c. 65 (See Table, p. iii, ante).

TITLE II.

Trials without a jury.

Sec. 1008. If trial by jury waived, action must be tried by the court.
1009. Trial by jury; how waived.
1010. Decision upon trial by the court, when to be filed; consequence of failure.
1011. Reference by consent; when and how made.
1012. Qualification of the last section.
1013. Compulsory reference for the trial of issues; in what cases it may be made.
1014. Proceedings where the reference is for trial of part of the issues.
1015. Compulsory reference upon questions incidentally arising.
1016. Referee to be sworn.
1017. Witnesses may be subpoenaed.
1018. General powers of a referee upon a trial.
1019. Referee's report; when to be made; consequence of failure.
1020. Double or other increased damages.
1021. Decision of court or report of referee, upon trial of demurrer.
1022. Id.; upon trial of the whole issues of fact.
1023. Parties may require court or referee to determine particular questions.
1024. Qualifications of a referee.
1025. Several referees may be appointed.
1026. Proceedings regulated where there are several referees.

§ 1008. [Am'd, 1877.] If trial by jury waived, action must be tried by the court.

In an action triable by a jury, if the parties waive the trial, by a jury, of the issue[1] of fact, the action must be tried by the court, without a jury: unless a reference is directed, in a case prescribed by law. But such an action, other than to recover damages for breach of a contract, cannot be tried by the court, without a jury, unless the judge, presiding at the term where it is brought on for trial, assents to such a trial. His refusal so to assent annuls a waiver, made as prescribed in subdivision second, third, or fourth of the next section.

§ 1009. [Am'd, 1877.] Trial by jury; how waived.

A party may waive his right to the trial of the issue of fact, by a jury, in any of the following modes:

1. By failing to appear at the trial.
2. By filing with the clerk a written waiver, signed by the attorney for the party.
3. By an oral consent in open court, entered in the minutes.
4. By moving the trial of the action, without a jury, or, if the adverse party so moves it, by failing to claim a trial by a jury, before the production of any evidence upon the trial.

From Co. Proc., § 266. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1010. Decision upon trial by the court, when to be filed; consequence of failure.

Upon a trial, by the court, of an issue of fact or of law, its decision, in writing, must be filed, in the clerk's office, within twenty days after the final adjournment of the term, where the issue was tried. If it is not so filed, either party may move, at a special term, for a new trial upon that ground. If the decision has not been filed, when the motion is heard, the court must make an order for a new trial, either absolutely, or unless it is filed, within a time specified in the order. If an order for a new trial is made, or a contingent order for a new trial becomes absolute, the costs of the former trial abide the event.

[1] Error in engrossing for "issues."

From Co. Proc., § 267.

§ 1011. [Am'd, 1879.] Reference by consent; when and how made.

Except in a case specified in the next section, the whole issue, or any of the issues in an action, either of fact or of law, must be referred, upon the consent of the parties, manifested by a written stipulation, signed by their attorneys, and filed with the clerk. Where the stipulation does not name the referee, he may be designated by the court, on motion of either party. Where the stipulation names the referee, the clerk must enter an order, of course, referring the issue or issues for trial, to that person only. If the referee named in a stipulation refuses to serve, or if a new trial of an action tried by a referee so named is granted, the court must appoint another referee, unless the stipulation expressly provides otherwise.

§ 1012. [Am'd, 1898.] Qualification of the last section.

But a reference shall not be made, of course, upon the consent of the parties, in an action to annul the marriage, or for a divorce or a separation; or an action against a corporation, to obtain a dissolution thereof, the appointment of a receiver of its property, or the distribution of its property, unless it is brought by the attorney general; or an action wherein a defendant, to be affected by the result of the trial, is an infant. In a case specified in this section, where the parties consent to a reference, the court may, in its discretion, grant or refuse a reference; and, where a reference is granted, the court must designate the referee. If the referee, thus designated, refuses to serve, or if a new trial of an action tried by a referee, so designated, is granted, the court must, upon the application of either party, appoint another referee.

From Co. Proc., § 273. Am'd by L. 1898, c. 317 (in effect Sept. 1, 1898).

§ 1013. Compulsory reference for the trial of issues; in what cases it may be made.

The court may, of its own motion, or upon the application of either party, without the consent of the other, direct a trial of the issues of fact, by a referee, where the trial will require the examination of a long account, on either side, and will not require the decision of difficult questions of law. In an action, triable by the court, without a jury, a reference may be made, as prescribed in this section, to decide the whole issue, or any of the issues; or to report the referee's finding, upon one or more specific questions of fact, involved in the issue.

From Co. Proc., § 271. Made applicable to City Court of New York by L. 1896, c. 954, § 2; L. 1902, c. 515; see § 3160, post.

§ 1014. Proceedings where the reference is for trial of part of the issues.

Where a reference is made, as prescribed in the last section, to report upon a specific question of fact, involved in the issue, and the determination of one or more other issues is necessary, in order to enable the court to render judgment, they must be tried, either before or after the filing of the report, as the court directs, and either by a jury, or by the court, without a jury, as the case requires. Where they are tried by a jury, application for judgment must be made upon the verdict and the report.

From Co. Proc., § 272.

§ 1015. Compulsory reference upon questions incidentally arising.

The court may likewise, of its own motion, or upon the application of either party, without the consent of the other, direct a reference to take an account, and report to the court thereon, either with or without the testimony, after interlocutory or final judgment, or where it is necessary to do so, for the information of the court; and also to determine and report upon a question of fact, arising in any stage of the action, upon a motion, or otherwise, except upon the pleadings.

From Co. Proc., § 271, subds. 2 and 3.

§ 1016. Referee to be sworn.

A referee, appointed as prescribed in either of the foregoing sections of this title, must, before proceeding to hear the testimony, be sworn faithfully and fairly to try the issues, or to determine the questions referred to him, as the case requires, and to make a just and true report, according to the best of his understanding. The oath may be administered by an officer specified in section 842 of this act. But where all the parties, whose interest will be affected by the result, are of age, and present, in person or by attorney, they may expressly waive the referee's oath. The waiver may be made by written stipulation, or orally. If it is oral, it must be entered in the referee's minutes.

From 2 R. S. 384 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), § 44.

§ 1017. Witnesses may be subpoenaed.

A witness may be subpoenaed to attend before a referee, appointed as prescribed in either of the foregoing sections of this title, to testify, and, in a proper case, to bring with him a book, document, or other paper, as upon a trial by the court.

From Id., § 45.

§ 1018. General powers of a referee upon a trial.

The trial, by a referee, of an issue of fact, or of an issue of law, must be brought on upon like notice, and conducted in like manner, and the papers to be furnished thereupon are the same, and are furnished in like manner, as where the trial is by the court, without a jury. The referee exercises, upon such a trial, the same power as the court, to grant adjournments, to preserve order, and punish the violation thereof. Upon the trial of an issue of fact, the referee exercises also the same power as the court, to allow amendments to the summons, or to the pleadings; to compel the attendance of a witness by attachment; and to punish a witness for a contempt of court, for non-attendance, or refusal to be sworn, or to testify. Upon the trial of an issue of law, the referee exercises the same power as the court, to permit a party in fault to plead anew or amend; to direct the action to be divided into two or more actions; to award costs, and otherwise to dispose of any question, arising upon the decision of the issue referred to him. The powers, conferred by this section, are exercised in like manner, and upon like terms, as similar powers are exercised by the court, upon a trial.

From Co. Proc., § 272.

§ 1019. [Am'd, 1882.] Referee's report; when to be made; consequence of failure.

Upon the trial, by a referee, of an issue of fact, or an issue of law, or where a reference is made as prescribed in section 1015 of this act, the referee's written report must be either filed with the clerk, or delivered to the attorney for one of the parties, within sixty days from the time when the cause or matter is finally submitted; otherwise either party may before it is filed or delivered, serve a notice, upon the attorney for the adverse party, that he elects to end the reference. In such a case, the action must thenceforth proceed, as if the reference had not been directed; and the referee is not entitled to any fees.

From Co. Proc., § 273. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 397.

§ 1020. Double or other increased damages.

Where the [1] double, treble, or other increased damages are given by statute, the decision of the court, or the report of the referee, must specify the sum awarded as single damages, and direct judgment for the increased damages.

New. See § 1184, post.

§ 1021. [Am'd, 1879, 1895.] Decision of court or report of referee, upon trial of demurrer.

The decision of the court, or the report of a referee, upon the trial of a demurrer, or upon the trial of the issues of fact or law, where a nonsuit is granted, must direct the final or interlocutory judgment to be entered thereupon, and in any such case it shall not be necessary for the court or referee to make any finding of fact. Where it directs an interlocutory judgment, with leave to the party in fault to plead anew or amend, or permitting the action to be divided into two or more actions, and no other issue remains to be disposed of, it may also direct the final judgment to be entered if the party in fault fails to comply with any of the directions given or terms imposed.

Substituted for Co. Proc., part of § 267. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1022. [Am'd, 1877, 1894, 1895, 1903.] Id.; upon trial of the whole issue of fact.

The decision of the court or the report of a referee upon the trial of the whole issues of fact, must state separately the facts found and the conclusions of law, and direct the judgment to be entered thereon, which decision so filed shall form part of the judgment-roll. In an action where the costs are in the discretion of the court the decision or report must award or deny costs, and if it awards costs it must designate the party to whom the costs to be taxed are awarded.

From Co. Proc., §§ 267, 272. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1894, c. 688; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1903, c. 85 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903).

§ 1023. [Re-enacted, 1904.] Parties may require court or referee to determine particular questions.

Before the cause is finally submitted to the court or the referee, or within such time afterwards, and before the decision or report is rendered, as the court or referee allows, the attorney for either party may submit, in writing, a statement of the facts, which he deems established by the evidence, and of the rulings upon questions of law, which he desires the court or the referee to make. The statement must be in the form of distinct propositions of law, or of fact, or both, separately stated; each of which must be numbered, and so prepared, with respect to its length, and the subject and phraseology thereof, that the court or referee may conveniently pass upon it. At or before the time, when the decision or report is rendered, the court or the referee must note, in the margin of the statement, the manner in which each proposition has been disposed of, and must either file, or return to the attorney, the statement thus noted; but an omission so to do does not affect the validity of the decision or report. An exception may be taken to a refusal of the court or referee to find any request thus submitted.

New. Repealed by L. 1894, c. 688; re-enacted by L. 1904, c. 491 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

[1] This word inserted by error in engrossing.

§ 1024. [Am'd, 1905.] Qualifications of a referee.

A referee, appointed by the court, must be free from all just objection; and no person shall be so appointed, to whom all the parties object, except in an action to annul a marriage, or for a divorce, or a separation. A judge cannot be appointed a referee,[1] in an action brought in a court, of which he is a judge, except by the written consent of the parties; and, in that case, he cannot receive any compensation as referee. No person shall be appointed a commissioner of estimate and appraisement in condemnation or street opening proceedings or referee, in the first or second judicial districts, in an action or special proceeding, who holds the position of clerk, private secretary, secretary, or stenographer to any justice or judge of a court of record, or to any board of justices or judges of such a court in any department where such justice or judge is engaged in the discharge of the duties of his office.

From Co. Proc., part of § 273. Am'd by L. 1905, c. 435 (in effect Sept. 1, 1905).

§ 1025. Several referees may be appointed.

Where the court is authorized to appoint a referee, it may, in its discretion, appoint either one or three. And where a reference is made by consent of the parties, they may select any number of referees, not exceeding five.

Substitute for Co. Proc., part of § 273.

§ 1026. Proceedings regulated where there are several referees.

Where the reference is to more than one referee, all must meet together, and hear all the allegations and proofs of the parties; but a majority may appoint a time and place for the trial, decide any question which arises upon the trial, sign a report, or settle a case. Either of them may administer an oath to a witness; and a majority of those present, at a time and place appointed for the trial, may adjourn the trial to a future day.

[1] Section 115 of the Judiciary Law as am'd by L. 1916, c. 262, provides as follows: The appellate divisions of the supreme court in the first, second, third and fourth departments may from time to time appoint any former judge of the court of common pleas and justices of the supreme court, who shall have served as such judge and justice for eight years or more in the first judicial district, and who after such service was retired before the expiration of his term because he had arrived at the age of 70 years, and any former judge of the court of common pleas and justice of the supreme court who shall have served as such judge and justice for 28 years or more in the first judicial district and who has attained the age of 70 years, and any justice or justices or any former justice or justices of the supreme court in the first judicial department or the judicial districts situated in the second, third and fourth judicial departments who shall have served as a judge or justice of a court of record for 14 years or more, and who after such service shall in his 65th year or thereafter have retired or who shall hereafter retire from his or their office, by expiration of term or resignation or because he or they shall have arrived at the age of 70 years, or who has served not less than 25 years in a court of record, of which 14 years thereof at least shall have been served in the supreme court, as official referee or referees, for the term of his or their life. To any of such official referees may be referred any action, matter or proceeding pending in said supreme court, referable by statute or the rules and practice of said court, in which the justice making the order of reference shall deem that for any reason the expense of such reference should not be borne by the parties to such action, matter or proceeding. (The compensation of such official referees is also provided for in L. 1916, c. 262, § 2.)

By L. 1911, c. 229 (in effect June 2, 1911), "Every judge of the court of appeals whose term of office shall expire by reason of his having attained the constitutional age limit, or who shall have attained the age of seventy years in the year when his term of office expires, may signify to the governor in writing his willingness to perform the duties imposed upon a retired judge of the court of appeals by this act; and upon taking the constitutional oath of office to discharge the duties hereby imposed such retired judge of the court of appeals shall act as referee, without any compensation whatsoever to be paid by the parties, in any and all actions and special proceedings of a civil nature which may be referred to him by consent, wherein the people of the state of New York may be a party or in which the attorney-general is authorized by law to appear or which the attorney-general is authorized to prosecute or defend in his official capacity; for which services, so rendered or to be rendered, each such retired judge of the court of appeals shall receive an annual salary of $6,000, in equal quarterly installments, to be paid by the comptroller."

TITLE III.

Trial jurors, except in New-York and Kings counties; mode of selecting them, and of procuring their attendance.

Article 1. Qualifications and exemptions of trial jurors.
2. Mode of selecting, drawing, and procuring the attendance of trial jurors, in ordinary cases.
3. Mode of striking and procuring a special jury, and of procuring a foreign jury.
4. Penalties for non-attendance.

[N. B.—Of this Title there has been transferred to the "Consolidated Laws" the whole of Article I (comprising §§ 1027-1034); the whole of Article II (comprising §§ 1035-1062), except § 1055; and the whole of Article IV (comprising §§ 1072-1078). These sections are now contained in the Judiciary Law.]

ARTICLE FIRST.

Qualifications and exemptions of trial jurors.

§§ 1027-1034. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

ARTICLE SECOND.

Mode of selecting, drawing, and procuring the attendance of trial jurors, in ordinary cases.

§§ 1035-1054. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

§ 1055. [Am'd, 1909.] Application of certain provisions to trial jurors.

The provisions of title five of this chapter apply to each person notified by the sheriff as provided by section 537 of the Judiciary Law.

Am'd by L. 1909, chs. 65 and 240 (in effect April 22, 1909).

§§ 1056-1062. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

ARTICLE THIRD.

Mode of striking and procuring a special jury, and of procuring a foreign jury.

Sec. 1063. What courts may order a special jury to be struck.
1064. Party obtaining order to give eight days' notice.
1065. Mode of striking jury.
1066. Jurors so drawn to be notified to attend.
1067. Jury to be formed as in other cases.
1068. Provision where clerk or commissioner of jurors is interested.
1069. Party applying for special jury to pay expenses.
1070. Copy of order for foreign jury to be delivered to sheriff.
1071. Mode of obtaining a foreign jury.

§ 1063. [Am'd, 1895.] What courts may order a special jury to be struck.

Where it appears to the court, that a fair and impartial trial of an issue of fact, triable by a jury, joined in an action, pending in the supreme court, cannot be had without a struck jury, or that the importance or intricacy of the case requires such a jury, the court must make an order, upon notice, directing a special jury to be struck, for the trial of the issue. The order must specify the term, and it may specify a particular day in the term, when the jurors must attend.

From 2 R. S. 418 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 46; L. 1857, c. 580. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1064. [Am'd, 1895.] Party obtaining order to give eight days' notice.

Unless the order specifies, or directs the officer, who is to strike the jury, to fix a time for the parties to attend, the party obtaining it must give at least eight days' notice of the time when he will attend, before the clerk of the county in which the action is triable, or, if it is triable in the city and county of New-York, or the county of Kings, before the commissioner of jurors, for the purpose of having the jury struck.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 47. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1065. [Am'd, 1877.] Mode of striking jury.

At the time appointed, the clerk, or, in his absence, the deputy-clerk, or the commissioner, as the case requires, must attend at his office, with the original lists or books, filed or kept in his office, as required by law, containing the names of the persons who are then liable to serve as trial jurors; and, in the presence of the parties, or their attorneys or counsel, must strike a trial jury, as follows:

1. The clerk, deputy-clerk, or commissioner, must select from the lists or books, the names of forty-eight persons, whom he deems most indifferent between the parties, and best qualified to try the issue; and must make and certify a list of those names.

2. The party, on whose application the special jury was directed to be struck, or his attorney or counsel, may then first strike from the list one name; the adverse party or his attorney or counsel may then strike therefrom one name; and so alternately, until each party has stricken out twelve names.

3. If either party fails to attend, at the time and place of striking the jury, or neglects to strike out a name, the clerk, deputy-clerk, or commissioner, must strike for him.

4. The clerk, deputy-clerk, or commissioner, must thereupon make out a list of the names of the twenty-four persons not stricken out, and must certify that it is a correct list of the persons, drawn to serve as jurors, pursuant to the order of the court. He must immediately deliver the list so certified, and a certified copy of the order, to the sheriff of the county. If the list, from any ward or town, cannot be found, the clerk must make a new list from the ballots then in use for jurors for that ward or town, and must use that list upon striking the jury, in place of the original list.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 48; L. 1876, c. 69. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1066. Jurors so drawn to be notified to attend.

The sheriff must notify the persons whose names are contained in the list; and must return the names of those notified, to the term, at which they are required to attend, as prescribed by law for notifying and returning ordinary trial jurors.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 49; see L. 1858, c. 322, § 36; L. 1873, c. 166, § 1.

§ 1067. [Am'd, 1895.] Jury to be formed as in other cases.

From the persons so notified and attending, a jury must be formed for the trial, and the issue must be tried, as prescribed in this chapter with respect to an ordinary jury trial. The court has the same power to excuse or discharge a juror, and to cause additional jurors to be drawn, or talesmen to attend, as upon an ordinary jury trial. But the court may, in its discretion, set aside an additional juror so drawn, or a talesman, upon the objection of either party, without a formal challenge, but neither party shall have more than two peremptory challenges.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 50. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1068. [Am'd, 1884.] Provision where clerk or commissioner of jurors is interested.

If it appears to the court, to which an application for a special jury is made, that the clerk, or the commissioner of jurors, as the case may be, is interested in the action; or is related to either of the parties; or is not indifferent between them; the court must appoint two disinterested persons to strike the jury; and the court may, in its discretion, in any case appoint two such persons to strike such jury. The persons so appointed possess, for the purposes of the action, all the powers conferred by this article, upon the clerk, or the commissioner of jurors.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 51. Am'd by L. 1884, c. 460.

§ 1069. Party applying for special jury to pay expenses.

The expense of striking a special jury must be paid by the party applying for it, and shall not be taxed in the costs of the action.

From 2 R. S. 418, § 52.

§ 1070. Copy of order for foreign jury to be delivered to sheriff.

Where an order for a trial by a foreign jury is made, a certified copy thereof must be delivered to the sheriff of the county, from which it is to be drawn; who must give notice thereof to the clerk of that county, and also, in the city and county of New-York, or the county of Kings, to the commissioner of jurors, at least twenty days before the first day of the term, at which the foreign jury is required to attend.

From 2 R. S. 410 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 10.

§ 1071. Mode of obtaining a foreign jury.

The clerk, or, in the county of Kings, the commissioner, to whom the notice is given, must draw the names of twenty-four persons, in the same manner, and in presence of the same officers, as prescribed by law, with respect to ordinary trial jurors; except that notice of the drawing need not be published. A certified list of the names drawn must be delivered to the sheriff, who must notify each person drawn, and make a return, as in an ordinary case.

From Id., § 11.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Penalties for non-attendance.

§§ 1072–1078. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

TITLE IV.

Trial jurors in New-York and Kings counties; mode of selecting them, and of procuring their attendance.

Article 1. Provisions relating to trial jurors in the city and county of New-York.
2. Provisions relating to trial jurors in the county of Kings.

[N. B.—The whole of this Title has been transferred to the Judiciary Law of the "Consolidated Laws," with the exception of a few sections which have been transferred to the Penal Law.]

§§ 1079–1162. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

277-315

TITLE V.

Trial by jury.

Article 1. Formation of the jury.
2. The verdict.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Formation of the jury.

Sec. 1163. Clerk to prepare ballots of jurors for trial.
1164. Clerk to draw ballots.
1165. Mode of drawing ballots.
1166. Persons drawn, etc., to form the jury.
1167. Ballots drawn, when to be deposited in a second box.
1168. Id.; when to be returned to the first box.
1169. Ballots of absentees, etc., to be returned to first box.
1170. New jury may be drawn while first is empanelled.
1171. When talesmen to be procured, or jurors drawn from third box.
1172. When talesmen to be procured.
1173. If sheriff is a party, court may appoint a person to act for him.
1174. Duty of sheriff and of talesmen.
1175. Jury competent, although containing only part or none of original panel.
1176. Peremptory challenges in a civil action.
1177. No challenge allowed because officer drawing is a party, etc.
1178. No challenge allowed because officer notifying is a party, etc.
1179. Challenges in penal actions.
1180. Challenges, how tried. Exceptions to and review of the determination of the court, in reference thereto.

§ 1163. Clerk to prepare ballots of jurors for trial.

At the opening of a term of a court of record at which issues of fact are to be tried by jury, the clerk must cause ballots, uniform, as nearly as may be, in appearance, to be prepared, by writing the name of each person, returned to the term as a trial juror, with his proper additions, on a separate piece of paper. He must roll up or fold each ballot, in the same manner, as nearly as may be, so as to resemble the others, and so that the name is not visible. The ballots must be deposited in a sufficient box, from which they must be drawn, as prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 420 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 59.

§ 1164. Clerk to draw ballots.

When an issue of fact, to be tried by a jury, is brought to trial, the clerk, under the direction of the court, must openly draw, out of the box, as many of the ballots, one after another, as are sufficient to form a jury.

From Id., § 60.

§ 1165. Mode of drawing ballots.

Before the first ballot is drawn, the box must be closed and well shaken, so as thoroughly to mix the ballots; and the clerk must draw each ballot, without seeing the name written on any of them, through an aperture, made in the lid of the box, large enough only to admit his hand conveniently.

From Id., § 66.

§ 1166. [Am'd, 1883.] Persons drawn, etc., to form the jury.

The first twelve persons who appear, as their names are drawn and called, and are approved as indifferent between the parties and not discharged or excused, must be sworn, and constitute the jury to try the issue. Persons shall be disqualified from sitting as jurors if related by consanguinity or affinity to a party to the issue in the same cases in which judges are disqualified. The party related to the juror must raise the objection before the case is opened; but any other party to the issue may raise the objection within six months from the date of verdict.

From 2 R. S. 420, § 61. Am'd by L. 1883, c. 234.

§ 1167. Ballots drawn, when to be deposited in a second box.

The ballots, containing the names of the jurors, so sworn, must be then deposited in another box, and there kept, apart from the other ballots, until that jury is discharged.

From 2 R. S. 420, § 62.

§ 1168. Id.; when to be returned to the first box.

After that jury is discharged, the ballots containing their names must be again rolled up or folded, as prescribed in section 1163 of this act, and returned to the box from which they were first taken; and the same course must be pursued, as often as an issue is brought to trial by a jury.

From 2 R. S. 421, § 63.

§ 1169. Ballots of absentees, etc., to be returned to first box.

The ballot, containing the name of a juror, who is absent, when his name is drawn or called, or is set aside, or excused from serving on that trial, must be again rolled up or folded, in the same manner as before, and returned to the box, containing the undrawn ballots, as soon as the jury is sworn.

From Id., § 67.

§ 1170. New jury may be drawn while first is empanelled.

If an issue is brought to trial by a jury, while a jury is empanelled in another cause, at the same term, and not then discharged, the court may order a jury, for the trial of that issue, to be drawn, out of the box containing the ballots then undrawn; but, in any other case, the ballots, containing the names of all the trial jurors, returned at, and attending the term, must be placed together in the same box, before a jury is drawn therefrom.

From Id., § 64.

§ 1171. [Am'd, 1879, 1909.] When talesmen to be procured, or jurors drawn from third box.

If a sufficient number of jurors, duly drawn and notified, do not attend, or cannot be obtained, to form a trial jury, the court may, in any county except Westchester, direct the sheriff to require the attendance of such a number of talesmen, from the bystanders, or from the county at large, qualified to serve as trial jurors, as it deems sufficient for the purpose. In Westchester county, the court must direct the sheriff to draw a sufficient number of ballots from the first box, specified in section 508 of the Judiciary Law; if there is not a sufficient number of ballots remaining therein, to draw the residue from the second box, specified in section 523 of the Judiciary Law. In any other county, except New-York and Kings, it may, in its discretion, instead of directing him to require talesmen to attend, direct him to draw a sufficient number of ballots from the third box, specified in section 524 of the Judiciary Law. In either case, the sheriff must notify the persons thus drawn to attend forthwith, or upon a day fixed by the court. If, for any reason, a sufficient number of jurors to try the issue is not obtained, from the persons notified, under an order made as prescribed in this section, the court may make another order, or successive orders, until a sufficient number is obtained; and in making each order, the court may exercise the same discretion, as in making the first order.

From 2 R. S. 419, § 54. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 1172. When talesmen to be procured.

In any county, except New-York, Kings, or Westchester, the court may also direct the sheriff to require the attendance of such a number of qualified talesmen, for the trial of an issue of fact, as it deems sufficient, where, by reason of one or more juries being empanelled, or for any other reason, no ballot remains undrawn; or where, in consequence of jurors being set aside, a juror cannot be obtained, for the trial of that issue, from the list of those returned.

From 2 R. S. 421, § 65.

§ 1173. If sheriff is a party, court may appoint a person to act for him.

If, in a case specified in the last two sections, the sheriff is a party to the issue, the court must appoint a disinterested person, to act in place of the sheriff. For that purpose, the person so appointed possesses all the powers, and is subject to all the duties and liabilities of the sheriff, with respect to the matters specified in those sections.

From Id., § 65.

§ 1174. [Am'd, 1909.] Duty of sheriff and of talesmen.

The sheriff, or person appointed by the court, must notify the requisite number of persons to attend, and make return thereof, as prescribed in section 536 of the Judiciary Law; except that each person must be required to attend forthwith. Each person so notified must attend forthwith, and, unless excused by the court or set aside, must serve as a juror upon the trial. For a neglect or refusal so to do, he may be fined, in the same manner as a trial juror, regularly drawn and notified, as prescribed in the Judiciary Law, and he is subject to the same exceptions and challenges, as any other trial juror.

From Id., § 55. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 1175. [Am'd, 1877.] Jury competent, although containing only part or none of original panel.

It is not a valid objection to a jury, procured as prescribed in the last four sections, that it contains none of the jurors originally returned to the term, or is only partially composed of such jurors.

From Id., § 65. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1176. [Am'd, 1891, 1894.] Peremptory challenges in a civil action.

Upon the trial of an issue of fact, joined in a civil action in a court of record, each party may peremptorily challenge not more than six, and in a court not of record each party may peremptorily challenge not more than three of the persons drawn as jurors for the trial.

From L. 1847, c. 134, § 1. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 169; L. 1894, c. 434.

§ 1177. No challenge allowed because officer drawing is a party, etc.

It is not a good cause of challenge, to the panel or array of trial jurors, in an action in a court of record, that the officer who drew them is a party to, or interested in the action, or counsel or attorney for, or related to, a party.

From 2 R. S. 420, § 56.

§ 1178. No challenge allowed because officer notifying is a party, etc.

It is not a good cause of challenge to the panel or array of trial jurors, in an action in a court of record, that they were notified to attend by an officer, who is a party to, or interested in, the action, or related to a party; unless it is alleged in the challenge, and is established, that one or more of the jurors drawn were not notified, and that the omission was intentional.

From Id., § 57.

§ 1179. [Am'd, 1903.] Challenges in penal actions.

In an action, in a court of record, or not of record, wherein a city, town or county is a party, it is not a good cause of challenge to a trial juror, or to an officer who notified the trial jurors, that the juror or the officer is a resident of, or liable to pay taxes, in the city, town or county, which is a party to such action.

From Id., § 58. See, also, 2 R. S. 551 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 2. Am'd by L. 1903, c. 294 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903).

§ 1180. [Am'd, 1877, 1901, 1911.] Challenges, how tried. Exceptions to and review of the determination of the court, in reference thereto. Grounds for challenges.

An objection to the qualifications of a juror is available only upon a challenge. A challenge of a juror, or a challenge to the panel or array of jurors, must be tried and determined by the court only. Either party may except to the determination, and it may be reviewed, upon a question of fact, or a question of law, or both, as where an issue of fact presented by the pleadings is tried by the court; except that where one or more exceptions are taken, to the rulings of the court, made after the jury is empanelled, an exception to the determination of a challenge must be heard at the same time; and the case must contain the matters necessary to present it, upon the facts, or the law, or both. The fact that a juror is in the employ of a party to the action; or, if a party to the action is a corporation, that he is an employee thereof or a shareholder or a stockholder therein; or in actions for damages for injuries to person or property, that he is a shareholder, stockholder, director, officer or employee, or in any manner interested, in any insurance company issuing policies for protection against liability for damages for injury to person or property, shall constitute a good ground for a challenge to the favor as to such juror.

From L. 1873, c. 427, § 1. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1901, c. 243; L. 1911, c. 206 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

ARTICLE SECOND.

The verdict.

Sec. 1181. Discharge of jury failing to agree.
1182. Plaintiff cannot submit to nonsuit after jury retires.
1183. In an action to recover money, jury to assess damages.
1184. How double, treble, or increased damages, found and awarded.
1185. When verdict to be taken, subject to the opinion of the court.
1186. General and special verdict defined.
1187. General or special verdict, when rendered; special finding with general verdict.
1188. Special finding controls general verdict.
1189. Entry of verdict; subsequent proceedings.

§ 1181. Discharge of jury failing to agree.

Where a jury is empanelled to try an issue, to make an inquiry, or to assess damages, in an action in a court of record, or not of record, or in a special proceeding before an officer, if the jurors cannot agree, after being kept together, for such a time as is deemed reasonable, by the court before which, or the officer before whom, they were empanelled, the court or officer may discharge them, and issue a precept for a new jury, or order another jury to be drawn, as the case requires; and the same proceedings must be had before the new jury, as if it was the jury first empanelled.

From 2 R. S. 554 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 26.

§ 1182. Plaintiff cannot submit to nonsuit after jury retires.

It is not necessary, in an action in a court of record, to call the plaintiff, when the jurors are about to deliver their verdict; and the plaintiff, in such an action, cannot submit to a nonsuit, after the cause has been committed to the jury, to consider the verdict.

From Rule 31 of Supreme Court Rules of 1858.

§ 1183. In action to recover money, jury to assess damages.

In an action to recover a sum of money only, if a verdict is found, either in favor of the plaintiff, or in favor of a defendant, who has set up a counterclaim for a sum of money, the jury must assess the amount of damages. The jury may also, under the direction of the court, assess the amount of the damages, where the court directs judgment for the plaintiff, on the pleadings.

From Co. Proc., § 263.

§ 1184. How double, treble, or increased damages, found and awarded.

Where double, treble, or other increased damages are given by statute, single damages only are to be found by the jury; except in a case where the statute prescribes a different rule. The sum so found must be increased by the court, and judgment rendered accordingly.

New. Embodies the rule in 8 Johns. 648, and 25 Wend. 420.

§ 1185. [Am'd, 1879.] When verdict to be taken, subject to the opinion of the court.

Where, upon the trial of an issue by a jury, the case presents only questions of law, the judge may direct the jury to render a verdict, subject to the opinion of the court. Notwithstanding that such a verdict has been rendered, the judge holding the trial term may, at the same term, set aside the verdict, and direct judgment to be entered for either party, with like effect and in like manner, as if such a direction had been given at the trial. An exception to such a direction may be taken as prescribed in section 994 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 265. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1186. General and special verdict defined.

A general verdict is one, by which the jury pronounces, generally, upon all or any of the issues, in favor either of the plaintiff or of the defendant. A special verdict is one, by which the jury finds the facts only, leaving the court to determine, which party is entitled to judgment thereupon.

From Co. Proc., § 260.

§1187. [Am'd, 1895, 1904.] General or specific verdict, when rendered; special finding with general verdict.

In an action to recover a sum of money only, or real property, or a chattel, the jury may render a general or special verdict, in its discretion. In any other action, except where one or more specific questions of fact, stated under the direction of the court, are tried by a jury, the court may direct the jury to find a special verdict, upon all or any of the issues. Where the jury finds a general verdict, the court may instruct it to find also specially, upon one or more questions of fact, stated in writing. The special verdict or special finding must be in writing; it must be filed with the clerk, and entered in the minutes. When a motion is made to nonsuit the plaintiffs or for the direction of a verdict, the court may, pending the decision of such motion, submit any question of fact raised by the pleadings to the jury or require the jury to assess the damage. After the jury shall have rendered a special verdict upon such submission or shall have assessed the damage, the court may then pass upon the motion to nonsuit or direct such general verdict as either party may be entitled to. On an appeal from the judgment entered upon such nonsuit or general verdict, such special verdict, or general verdict, shall form a part of the record, and the appellate division or the court of appeals may direct such judgment thereon as either party may be entitled to.

From Id., § 261. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1904, c. 181 (in effect March 28, 1904).

§ 1188. Special finding controls general verdict.

Where a special finding is inconsistent with a general verdict, the former controls the latter, and the court must render judgment accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 262.

§ 1189. [Am'd, 1877.] Entry of verdict; subsequent proceedings.

When the jury renders a verdict, or finds upon one or more specific questions of fact, stated under the direction of the court, the clerk must make an entry, in his minutes, specifying the time and place of the trial; the names of the jurors and witnesses; the verdict, or the questions and findings thereupon, as the case requires; and the direction, if any, which the court gives, with respect to the subsequent proceedings. Upon the application of the party in whose favor a general verdict is rendered, the clerk must enter judgment, in conformity to the verdict, unless a different direction is given by the court, or it is otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From Co. Proc., § 264. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

TITLE VI.

Miscellaneous provisions; including those relating to embracery, and other acts of misconduct.

Sec. 1190. Trials by jury to be as herein provided.
1191. Venire not necessary.
1192. Jurors not to be questioned for their verdict.
1193. Penalty where juror takes gift, etc.
1194. Embracery; penalty therefor.
1195. Penalty for juror's non-attendance in special proceeding.
1196. Sheriff, etc., to keep jury in special proceeding; penalty.
1197. Notice of imposition of fine.
1198. Special return of delinquency and fine to county court.
1199. Collection or remission of fine.

§ 1190. [Am'd, 1907, 1909.] Trials by jury to be as herein provided.

A trial by a jury, of an issue of fact, joined in a civil action, in a court of record, must be had, as prescribed in this chapter; except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law. The court may, upon the application of either party, exclude from the court-room the jurors sitting in an action during the argument of a motion for non-suit, dismissal of the complaint or direction of a verdict.

From 2 R. S. 419 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 53. Am'd by L. 1907, c. 502; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii).

§ 1191. Venire not necessary.

A venire to procure jurors cannot be issued in a civil action, brought in a court of record, except as specially prescribed by law.

From Id., 410, § 9.

§ 1192. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Jurors not to be questioned for their verdict.

A juror shall not be questioned, and is not subject to an action, or other liability civil or criminal, for a verdict rendered by him, in an action in a court of record, or not of record, or in a special proceeding before an officer, except by indictment, for corrupt conduct, in a case prescribed by law.

From 2 R. S. 421 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 4), § 69.

§ 1193. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty where juror takes gift, etc.

A person, drawn or notified to attend, as a trial juror, in an action in a court of record, or not of record, or in a special proceeding before an officer, who takes any thing to render his verdict, or receives, from a party to the action or special proceeding, a gift or gratuity, forfeits ten times the sum, or ten times the value of that, which he took or received, to the party to the action or special proceeding, aggrieved thereby; and is also liable to that party, for his damages sustained thereby; besides being subject to the punishment, prescribed by law.

From Id., § 70.

§ 1194. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Embracery: penalty therefor.

An embraceor, who procures a person, drawn or notified to attend, as a trial juror, to take gain or profit, contrary to the last section, forfeits ten times the sum, or ten times the value of that, which was so taken, to the party aggrieved thereby; and is also liable to that party for his damages sustained thereby; besides being subject to the punishment, prescribed by law.

From Id., § 71.

§ 1195. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Penalty for juror's non-attendance in special proceeding.

A person, who has been lawfully and personally notified to attend, as a trial juror, to inquire into a matter or thing, or to hear and try a controversy, in a special proceeding, pending before a judge, justice of the peace, commissioner, or other officer, and who wilfully neglects to attend, as required by the notice, may be fined by the officer, in a sum, not exceeding twenty-five dollars. But this section does not extend to a case, where special provision is made by law, for punishing the default of a trial juror.

From 2 R. S. 551 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 4.

§ 1196. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriff, etc., to keep jury in special proceeding; penalty.

A sheriff, constable, or other officer, who notified jurors to attend, in a case specified in the last section, must, when directed by the officer, before whom the special proceeding is pending, attend, and take charge of the jury. For a wilful neglect to obey such a direction, or for any misconduct, while attending the jury, by which a right or remedy of a party to the special proceeding may be impaired or prejudiced, he must be fined, by that officer, in a sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

From Id., § 5.

§ 1197. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Notice of imposition of fine.

Where a fine is imposed, in a case specified in the last two sections, written notice thereof must be served upon the person fined, to the end that he may apply to the officer imposing it, for the remission of the whole or a part thereof, upon proof that he had a reasonable excuse for his neglect or misconduct, or that other good cause exists for the remission.

From Id., § 6.

§ 1198. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Special return of delinquency and fine to county court.

If, within thirty days after the service of the notice, the fine has not been remitted by the officer imposing it, he must make a special return of the delinquency or misconduct, for which the fine was imposed, and of the amount of the fine, accompanied with proof, by affidavit, of service of the notice specified in the last section, to the next term of the county court of the county, in which the delinquent resides.

From Id., § 7.

§ 1199. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]. Collection or remission of fine.

The county clerk must deliver to the district-attorney, a copy of the return and of the affidavit, at the time when he delivers to him copies of the minutes of fines, imposed by the county court. The fine must be collected, or it may be remitted or reduced, in the same manner as a fine imposed by the county court upon a defaulting trial juror.

From Id., § 8.

CHAPTER XI.

Judgments.

TITLE I.—Judgment in an Action.
TITLE II.—Judgments Taken Without Process.
TITLE III.—Vacating or Setting Aside a Judgment, for Irregularity or Error in Fact.

TITLE I.

Judgment in an action.

Article 1. General provisions.
2. Mode of taking, entering, and enforcing a judgment.
3. Docketing a judgment; effect thereof, as a lien upon real property: suspending and discharging the lien; satisfaction and assignment of a judgment.

ARTICLE FIRST.

General provisions.

Sec. 1200. Definition of judgment.
1201. [Repealed.]
1202. When judgment may be entered.
1203. Application for judgment.
1204. Judgment may be for or against any of the parties.
1205. When a several judgment may be taken.
1206. Judgment for or against a married woman.
1207. When judgment for plaintiff not to exceed judgment demanded.
1208. Rate of damages.
1209. Effect of judgment dismissing the complaint.
1210. Judgment against a dead person.
1211. Judgment to bear interest.

§ 1200. [Am'd, 1877.] Definition of judgment.

A judgment is either interlocutory or the final determination of the rights of the parties in the action.

From Co. Proc., § 245. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1201. [Stricken out by L. 1877, c. 416.]

§ 1202. When judgment may be entered.

Judgment may be entered in term or vacation.

From L. 1840, c. 386, § 23.

§ 1203. [Am'd, 1900.] Application for judgment.

Judgment must be entered, in the first instance, pursuant to the direction of the court, at a term held by one judge; except where special provision is otherwise made by law. If notice of an application for judgment is not required, and an order for judgment is made by a judge out of court, the judgment may be entered with the same force and effect as if granted in court.

Substitute for Co. Proc., § 278. Am'd by L. 1900, c. 147 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 1204. Judgment may be for or against any of the parties.

Judgment may be given for or against one or more plaintiffs, and for or against one or more defendants. It may determine the ultimate rights of the parties on the same side, as between themselves; and it may grant, to a defendant, any affirmative relief, to which he is entitled.

From Co. Proc., § 274, first sentence.

§ 1205. When a several judgment may be taken.

Where the action is against two or more defendants, and a several judgment is proper, the court may, in its discretion, render judgment, or require the plaintiff to take judgment, against one or more of the defendants; and direct that the action be severed, and proceed against the others, as the only defendants therein.

From Id., § 274, second sentence.

§ 1206. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judgment for or against a married woman.

Judgment for or against a married woman, may be rendered and enforced, in a court of record, or not of record, as if she was single.

From Id., § 274, last two sentences.

§ 1207. When judgment for plaintiff not to exceed judgment demanded.

Where there is no answer, the judgment shall not be more favorable to the plaintiff, than that demanded in the complaint. Where there is an answer, the court may permit the plaintiff to take any judgment, consistent with the case made by the complaint, and embraced within the issue.

From Co. Proc., § 275.

§ 1208. Rate of damages.

Where either party is entitled to recover damages, he may recover any rate of damages, which he might have heretofore recovered, for the same cause of action.

From Id., § 276.

§ 1209. [Am'd, 1877.] Effect of judgment dismissing the complaint.

A final judgment, dismissing the complaint, either before or after a trial, rendered in an action hereafter commenced, does not prevent a new action for the same cause of action, unless it expressly declares, or it appears by the judgment-roll, that it is rendered upon the merits.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1210. Judgment against a dead person.

Where a judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of money, is entered against a party, after his death, in a case where it may be so taken, by special provision of law, a memorandum of the party's death must be entered, with the judgment, in the judgment-book, indorsed on the judgment-roll, and noted on the margin of the docket of the judgment. Such a judgment does not become a lien upon the real property, or chattels real, of the decedent; but it establishes a debt, to be paid in the course of administration.

From 2 R. S. 359 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 7.

§ 1211. Judgment to bear interest.

A judgment for a sum of money, rendered in a court of record, or not of record, or a judgment rendered in a court of record, directing the payment of money, bears interest from the time when it is entered. But where a judgment directs that money paid out shall be refunded or repaid, the direction includes interest from the time when the money was paid, unless the contrary is expressed.

From L. 1844, c. 324, § 1; L. 1869, c. 907, § 1.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Mode of taking, entering, and enforcing a judgment

Sec. 1212. Judgment by default in certain actions on contract; how taken.
1213. Amount of judgment in such cases; how determined.
1214. Application to court for judgment by default; when necessary.
1215. Proceedings on such an application.
1216. Application for judgment in case of service by publication, etc.
1217. Attachment and undertaking for restitution, required in certain actions.
1218. When judgment cannot be taken against an infant defendant.
1219. When a defendant in default is entitled to notice.
1220. When action may be severed, if issues of law and issues of fact presented.
1221. Judgment how taken, after trial of issues of law and issues of fact, in the same action.
1222. Final judgment, how taken after issue of law only.
1223. Proceedings upon application under the last two sections.
1224. Id.; upon interlocutory judgment, etc., affirmed at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court.
1225. Judgment after trial by jury of specific questions of fact.
1226. Id.; after reference to determine specific questions of fact.
1227. Id.; upon motion for a new trial, heard by the appellate division of the supreme court.
1228. Id.; upon trial by court or referee of the whole issue of fact.
1229. In matrimonial causes, judgment can be rendered only by the court.
1230. Final judgment upon decision or report awarding interlocutory judgment, etc.
1231. Id.; how final judgment entered and settled in certain cases.
1232. Interlocutory reference or inquisition; how reviewed.
1233. Motion for judgment upon a special verdict, etc.
1234. Id.; upon verdict subject to opinion of court.
1235. Interest on verdict, etc., to be included in recovery.
1236. Entry of judgment.
1237. Judgment-roll to be filed; of what it consists.
1238. Id.; by whom prepared.
1239. Time of filing judgment-roll to be noted.
1240. When a judgment may be enforced by execution.
1241. When a judgment may be enforced by punishment for disobeying it.
1242. Real property; how sold. Effect of conveyance.
1243. Security upon sale by referee.
1244. Conveyance to state name of party.

§ 1212. [Am'd 1877, 1879.] Judgment by default in certain actions on contract; how taken.

In an action specified in section 420 of this act, where the summons was personally served upon the defendant, and the copy of the complaint, or a notice stating the sum of money for which judgment will be taken, was served with the summons, or where the defendant has appeared, but has made default in pleading, the plaintiff may take judgment by default, as follows:

1. If the defendant has made default in appearing, the plaintiff must file proof of the service of the summons, and of a copy of the complaint or the notice; and also proof, by affidavit, that the defendant has not appeared. Whereupon the clerk must enter final judgment in his favor.

2. If the defendant has seasonably appeared, but has made default in pleading, the plaintiff must file proof of the service of the summons and of the appearance, or of the appearance only; and also proof, by affidavit, of the default. Whereupon, the clerk must enter final judgment in his favor.

If the defendant has made default in appearing or pleading, and the case is not one where the clerk can enter final judgment, as prescribed in either of the foregoing subdivisions of this section, the plaintiff must apply to the court for judgment, as prescribed in section 1214 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subd. 1. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1213. Amount of judgment in such cases; how determined.

Where final judgment may be entered by the clerk, as prescribed in the last section, the amount thereof must be determined as follows:

1. If the complaint is verified, the judgment must be entered for the sum, for which the complaint demands judgment; or, at the plaintiff's option, for a smaller sum; and if a computation of interest is necessary, it may be made by the clerk.

2. If the complaint is not verified, the clerk must assess the amount due to the plaintiff, by computing the sum due upon an instrument for the payment of money only, the non-payment of which constitutes a cause of action, stated in the complaint; and by ascertaining, by the examination of the plaintiff, upon oath, or by other competent proof, the amount due to him for any other cause of action stated in the complaint. If an instrument, specified in this subdivision, has been lost, so that it cannot be produced to the clerk, he must take proof of its loss and of its contents. Either party may require the clerk to reduce to writing and file the assessment, and the oral proof, if any, taken thereupon.

§ 1214. [Am'd, 1877, 1900.] Application to court for judgment by default; when necessary.

Where the summons was personally served upon the defendant, within the State, and he has made default in appearing, or where the defendant has appeared, but has made default in pleading; and the case is not one where the clerk can enter final judgment, as prescribed in the last two sections, the plaintiff may apply to the court, or to a judge or justice thereof out of court, for judgment. Upon the application he must file, if the default was in appearing, proof of service of the summons; or, if the default was in pleading, proof of appearance, and also, if a copy of the complaint was demanded, proof of service thereof, upon the defendant's attorney; and in either case, proof by affidavit, of the default which entitles him to judgment. If one or more of the defendants have appeared, and one or more defendants have failed to appear, then the application for judgment must be made to the court, unless the defendants who have appeared consent to the making of such application to a judge or justice out of court.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subd. 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1900, c. 147 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 1215. [Am'd, 1877, 1901.] Proceedings on such an application.

The court, or a judge or justice thereof, must thereupon render the judgment to which the plaintiff is entitled. It, or they, may, without a jury, or with a jury if one is present in court, make a computation or assessment, or take an account, or proof of a fact, for the purpose of enabling it, or them, to render the judgment, or to carry it into effect; or it, or they, may in its, or their, discretion, direct a reference, or a writ of inquiry, for either purpose; except that where the action is brought to recover damages for a personal injury or an injury to property, the damages must be ascertained by means of a writ of inquiry. Where a reference or writ of inquiry is directed, the court, or a judge or justice thereof, may direct that the report or inquisition be returned to the court.

or a judge or justice thereof, for its, or their, further action; or it, or they, may in its, or their, discretion, except where special provision is otherwise made by law, omit that direction; in which case final judgment may be entered by the clerk, in accordance with the report of the referee, or for the damages ascertained by the inquisition, without any further application.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subd. 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1901, c. 511 (in effect April 24, 1901).

§ 1216. [Am'd, 1877, 1895, 1901.] Application for judgment in case of service by publication.

Where the summons was served upon the defendant without the state, or otherwise than personally, if the defendant does not demand a copy of the complaint, or plead, as the case requires, within twenty days after the service is complete, the plaintiff may apply to the court, or a judge or justice thereof, for the judgment demanded in the complaint. Upon such an application, he must file proof that the service is complete, and proof, by affidavit, of the defendant's default. The court, or a judge or justice thereof, must require proof of the cause of action, set forth in the complaint, to be made, either before such court, or such judge or justice, or before a referee appointed for that purpose; except that where the action is brought to recover damages for a personal injury, or an injury to property, the damages must be ascertained by means of a writ of inquiry as prescribed in the last section. If the defendant is an[1] non-resident, or a foreign corporation, the court, or a judge or justice to whom such application is made, must require the plaintiff, or his agent or attorney, to be examined on oath, respecting any payments to the plaintiff, or to any one for his use, on account of his demand, and must render the judgment to which the plaintiff is entitled. But before rendering judgment, the court, or a judge or justice thereof, to whom the application is made, may, in any case, in its, or their, discretion, require the plaintiff to file an undertaking, to abide the order of the court touching the restitution of any estate or effects which may be directed by the judgment to be transferred or delivered, or the restitution of any money that may be collected under or by virtue of the judgment, in case the defendant or his representative applies and is admitted to defend the action, and succeeds in his defense.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subd. 3. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 582; L. 1901, c. 511 (in effect April 24, 1901).

§ 1217. [Am'd, 1877.] Attachment and undertaking for restitution, required in certain actions.

A judgment shall not be rendered for a sum of money only, upon an application made pursuant to the last section, except in an action specified in section 635 of this act. Where the defendant is a non-resident, or a foreign corporation, and has not appeared, the plaintiff, upon the application for judgment in such an action, must produce and file the following papers:

1. Proof, by affidavit, that a warrant of attachment, granted in the action, has been levied upon property of the defendant.
2. A description of the property, so attached, verified by affidavit; with a statement of the value thereof according to the inventory.
3. The undertaking mentioned in section 1216, if one has been required.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subd. 3, last sentence. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1218. [Am'd, 1879.] When judgment cannot be taken against an infant defendant.

A judgment by default shall not be taken against an infant defendant, until twenty days have expired, since the appointment of a guardian ad litem for him.

See Co. Proc., § 115; also § 471, ante. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

[1] So in the original.

§ 1219. [Am'd, 1879.] When a defendant in default is entitled to notice.

A defendant, against whom judgment is taken, pursuant to the foregoing sections of this article, is entitled to notice, as follows:

1. If he has appeared generally but has made default in pleading, he is entitled to at least five days' notice of the time and place of an assessment by the clerk, and to at least eight days' notice of the time and place of an application to the court for judgment.

2. In a case where an application for judgment must be made to the court, the defendant may serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, at any time before the application for judgment, a written demand of notice of the execution of any reference, or writ of inquiry, which may be granted upon the application. Such a demand is not an appearance in the action. It must be subscribed by the defendant, in person, or by an attorney or agent, who must add to his signature his office address, with the particulars, prescribed in section 417 of this act, concerning the office address of the plaintiff's attorney. Thereupon at least five days' notice of the time and place of the execution of the reference, or writ of inquiry, must be given to the defendant, by service thereof upon the person, whose name is subscribed to the demand, in the manner prescribed in this act, for service of a paper upon an attorney in an action.

From Co. Proc., § 246, subds. 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1879, c 542.

§ 1220. When action may be severed, if issues of law and issues of fact presented.

Where an issue of law and an issue of fact arise, with respect to different causes of action, set forth in the complaint, and final judgment can be taken, with respect to one or more of the causes of action, without prejudice to either party in maintaining the action, or a defence or counterclaim, with respect to the other causes of action, or in the recovery of final judgment upon the whole issue, the court may, in its discretion, and at any stage of the action, direct that the action be divided into two or more actions, as the case requires.

New. See Co. Proc., § 172, last sentence; also § 497, ante.

§ 1221. [Am'd, 1877.] Judgment how taken, after trial of issues of law and issues of fact, in the same action.

Where one or more issues of law, and one or more issues of fact, arise in the same action, and all the issues have been tried, final judgment upon the whole issue must be taken, as follows:

1. Where an application must be made to the court for judgment upon the issue last tried, the application must be for judgment, upon the whole issue; and judgment must be rendered accordingly.

2. Where the action is triable by a jury, and the issue last tried is tried at a term of the court, the application for judgment, upon the whole issue, may be entertained, in the discretion of the court, at that term and with or without notice; if not so entertained, it must be heard as a motion.

3. Where the issue last tried is tried before a referee, his report must award the proper judgment upon the whole issue, unless otherwise prescribed in the order of reference.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1222. [Am'd, 1879.] Final judgment, how taken after issue of law only.

Final judgment upon an issue of law, where no issue of fact remains to be tried, and final judgment has not been directed as prescribed in section 1021 of this act, may be entered upon application to the court or by the clerk in an action specified in section 420 of this act.

From Co. Proc., part of § 269. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 142.

§ 1223. [Am'd, 1877.] Proceedings upon application under the last two sections.

Upon an application, by either party, to the court, for final judgment, after the decision of an issue of law, as prescribed in the last two sections, the court has the powers specified in section 1215 of this act, upon an application for judgment by the plaintiff. Where final judgment may be awarded in a referee's report, as prescribed in section 1221 of this act, the referee may make a computation, or an assessment, or take an account, or proof of a fact, for the purpose of enabling him to award the proper judgment, or enabling the court to carry it into effect; and he may ascertain and fix the damages, as a jury may do, upon the execution of a writ of inquiry.

§ 1224. [Am'd, 1877, 1895.] Id.; upon interlocutory judgment, etc., affirmed at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court.

When an order or judgment is wholly or partly affirmed upon an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court, and no issue of fact remains to be tried, the appellate division may, in its discretion, render final judgment, unless it permits the appellant to amend or plead over.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1225. Judgment after trial by jury of specific questions of fact.

In an action triable by the court, where one or more specific questions of fact, arising upon the issues, have been tried by a jury, judgment may be taken, upon the application of either party, as follows:

1. If all the issues of fact in the action are determined by the findings of the jury, or the remaining issues of fact have been determined by the decision of the court, or the report of a referee, an application for judgment, upon the whole issue, may be made as upon a motion.

2. If one or more issues of fact remain to be tried, judgment may be rendered upon the whole issue, at the term of the court where, or by direction of the referee by whom, they are tried.

See §§ 970-972, ante.

§ 1226. Id.; after reference to determine specific questions of fact.

Where a reference has been made, to report upon one or more specific questions of fact, arising upon the issue, and the remaining issues have been tried, judgment must be taken, upon the application of either party, as prescribed in section 1221 of this act.

From Co. Proc., part of § 272. See §§ 972, 1221, ante.

§ 1227. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; upon motion for new trial, heard by the appellate division of the supreme court.

Where a motion for a new trial, made at the first instance at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, is denied, judgment may be taken, as if the motion for a new trial had not been made, after the expiration of four days from the entry of the order, and the service, upon the attorney for the adverse party, of a copy thereof, and notice of the entry; but not before.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1228. [Am'd, 1879.] Id.; upon trial by court or referee of the whole issue of fact.

Where the whole issue is an issue of fact, which was tried by a referee, the report stands as a decision of the court. Except where it is otherwise expressly prescribed by law, judgment upon such a report, or upon the decision of the court, upon the trial of the whole issue of fact without a jury, may be entered by the clerk, as directed therein, upon filing the decision or report.

From Co. Proc., parts of §§ 267, 272. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1229. In matrimonial causes, judgment can be rendered only by the court.

In an action to annul a marriage, or for a divorce or separation, judgment cannot be taken, of course, upon a referee's report, as prescribed in the last section, or where the reference was made, as prescribed in section 1215 of this act. Where a reference is made in such an action, the testimony, and the other proceedings upon the reference, must be certified to the court, by the referee, with his report; and judgment must be rendered by the court.

From Rules 78 and 83 of Supreme Court Rules of 1877.

§ 1230. [Am'd, 1877.] Final judgment upon decision or report awarding interlocutory judgment, etc.

In a case, not provided for in the foregoing sections of this article, where the decision, upon a trial by the court, without a jury, or the report, upon a trial by a referee, directs an interlocutory judgment to be entered, and the party afterwards becomes entitled to a final judgment, an application for the latter may be made, as upon a motion. And where a judgment requires the appointment of a referee, to do any act thereunder, the referee must be appointed by the judgment, or by the court, upon motion, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1231. Id.; how final judgment entered and settled in certain cases.

In an action triable by the court, an interlocutory judgment, rendered upon a default in appearing or pleading, or pursuant to the direction contained in a decision or report, may state the substance of the final judgment, to which the party will be entitled. It may also direct, that the final judgment be settled by a judge, or a referee. In that case, final judgment shall not be entered, until a settlement thereof, subscribed by the judge or referee, is filed. Where an interlocutory judgment awards costs, they may be awarded generally, without specifying the amount thereof. Where the final judgment is directed to be settled, and the costs have not been taxed when the settlement thereof is filed, a blank for the amount of the costs must be left in the settlement; and the costs must be taxed, and the blank filled up accordingly, by the clerk, when the final judgment is entered.

New.

§ 1232. Interlocutory reference or inquisition; how reviewed.

Where a reference, or writ of inquiry, directed as prescribed in section 1015, or section 1215 of this act, has been executed, either party may apply for an order, directing a new hearing, or a new writ of inquiry, upon proof, by affidavit, that error was committed, to his prejudice, upon the hearing, or in the report, or upon the execution of the writ, or in the inquisition. In a proper case, the application may be granted, after judgment has been entered. In that case, the judgment may be set aside, either then or after the new hearing, or the execution of the new writ, as justice requires.

New.

§ 1233. Motion for judgment upon a special verdict, etc.

A motion for judgment, upon a special verdict, may be made by either party; and must, in the first instance, be heard and decided, at a term held by one judge.

From Co. Proc., § 265. See § 1186, ante.

§ 1234. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; upon verdict subject to opinion of court.

A motion for judgment, upon a verdict subject to the opinion of the court, may be made by either party; and must be heard and decided at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court.

From Co. Proc., § 265. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896). See § 1185, ante.

§ 1235. Interest on verdict, etc., to be included in recovery.

Where final judgment is rendered for a sum of money, awarded by a verdict, report, or decision, interest upon the sum awarded, from the time when the verdict was rendered, or the report or decision was made, to the time of entering judgment, must be computed by the clerk, added to the sum awarded, and included in the amount of the judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 310.

§ 1236. [Am'd, 1897.] Entry of judgment.

Every interlocutory judgment or final judgment shall be signed by the clerk and filed in his office, and such signing and filing shall constitute the entry of the judgment. The clerk shall, in addition to the docket-books required to be kept by law, keep a book, styled the "judgment-book," in which he shall record all judgments entered in his office.

From Co. Proc., §§ 279, 280; 2 R. S. 360 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 9. Am'd by L. 1897, c. 188 (in effect April 6, 1897). See L. 1897, c. 187.

§ 1237. [Am'd, 1877, 1879, 1913.] Judgment-roll to be filed; of what it consists.

The clerk, upon entering final judgment, must immediately file the judgment-roll, which must consist, except where special provision is otherwise made by law, of the following papers: the summons; the pleadings, or copies thereof; the final judgment, and the interlocutory judgment, if any, or copies thereof; and each paper on file, or a copy thereof, and a copy of each order, which in any way involves the merits, or necessarily affects the judgment. If judgment is taken by default, the judgment-roll must also contain the papers required to be filed, upon so taking judgment, or upon making application therefor; together with any report, decision or writ of inquiry, and return thereto. If judgment is taken after a trial, the judgment-roll must contain the verdict, report, or decision; each offer, if any, made as prescribed in this act, and the exceptions or case then on file.

Upon an appeal to the court of appeals from a judgment or order of the appellate division of the supreme court, the opinion of the appellate division, if any, shall, for the purposes of the appeal, be deemed to be a part of the judgment-roll or appeal papers.

See Co. Proc., § 281, subds. 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1913, c. 545 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 1238. Id.; by whom prepared.

The judgment-roll must be prepared, and furnished to the clerk, by the attorney, for the party, at whose instance the final judgment is entered; except that the clerk must attach thereto the necessary original papers, on file. But the clerk may, at his option, make up the entire judgment-roll.

See Co. Proc., § 281, first clause.

§ 1239. Time of filing judgment-roll to be noted.

The clerk must make a minute, upon the back of each judgment-roll, filed in his office, of the time of filing it, specifying the year, month, day, hour, and minute. A proceeding to enforce or collect a final judgment, cannot be taken, until the judgment-roll is filed.

From 2 R. S. 389 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 11.

§ 1240. When a judgment may be enforced by execution.

In either of the following cases, a final judgment may be enforced by execution:

1. Where it is for a sum of money, in favor of either party; or directs the payment of a sum of money.
2. Where it is in favor of the plaintiff, in an action of ejectment, or for dower.
3. In an action to recover a chattel, where it awards a chattel to either party.

See Co. Proc., § 285.

§ 1241. When a judgment may be enforced by punishment for disobeying it.

In either of the following cases, a judgment may be enforced, by serving a certified copy thereof, upon the party against whom it is rendered, or the officer or person, who is required thereby, or by law, to obey it; and, if he refuses or wilfully neglects to obey it, by punishing him for a contempt of the court:

1. Where the judgment is final, and cannot be enforced by execution, as prescribed in the last section.
2. Where the judgment is final, and part of it cannot be enforced by execution, as prescribed in the last section: in which case, the part or parts, which cannot be so enforced, may be enforced as prescribed in this section.
3. Where the judgment is interlocutory, and requires a party to do, or to refrain from doing, an act, except in a case specified in the next subdivision.
4. Where the judgment requires the payment of money into court, or to an officer of the court: except where the money is due upon a contract, express or implied, or as damages for non-performance of a contract. In a case specified in this subdivision, if the judgment is final, it may be enforced, as prescribed in this section, either simultaneously with, or before or after the issuing of an execution thereupon, as the court directs.

See Co. Proc., § 285.

§ 1242. [Am'd, 1877, 1902, 1911.] Real property; how sold; effect of conveyance.

Except where special provision is otherwise made by law, real property adjudged to be sold, must be sold in the county and borough where it is situated, by the sheriff of the county or by a referee, appointed by the court for that purpose, who must execute a conveyance to the purchaser. If such real property is situated partly in one county or borough and partly in another and is so circumstanced that a sale of the whole will be most beneficial to the parties, the court rendering judgment may direct in which county and borough the whole of such real property shall be sold. The conveyance is effectual, to pass the right, title, or interest of a party adjudged to be sold; but nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to repeal or modify the provisions of any law specially regulating the sale of real property under a judgment or decree of any court, in any particular county of the State.

From Co. Proc., § 287, last sentence but one. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1902, c. 138; L. 1911, c. 180 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 1243. [Am'd, 1877.] Security upon sale by referee.

Where a referee is appointed by the court, to sell real property, the court may provide for his giving such security, as the court deems just, for the proper application of the money received upon the sale; or for the payment thereof by the purchaser, directly to the person or persons entitled thereto, or their attorneys.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1244. [Am'd, 1877, 1879.] Conveyance to state name of party.

A conveyance of property, sold by virtue of an execution, or sold pursuant to a judgment, which specifies the particular party or parties, whose right, title or interest is directed to be sold, must distinctly state, in the granting clause thereof, whose right, title, or interest was sold, and is conveyed, without naming, in that clause, any of the other parties to the action; otherwise, the purchaser is not bound to accept the conveyance, and the officer executing it is liable for the damages, which the purchaser sustains by the omission, whether he accepts or refuses to accept it.

§ 1245. [Am'd, 1895, 1911, 1912.] Certain clerks to keep docket books.

Each county clerk, and the clerk of the city court of the city of New York, must keep one or more books, ruled in columns, convenient for making the entries prescribed in section twelve hundred and forty-six; in which he must docket, in its regular order, and according to its priority, each judgment which he is required by this article to docket. The expense of procuring new books when necessary is a county charge. The judgment dockets kept by the county clerk of New York county must hereafter be kept in two separate sets of books, one set to be designated and used for judgment debtors that are individuals, including all individual members of a copartnership or of a firm doing business under a firm name or style as stated in the title of the action, and the other set to be designated and used for judgment debtors that are corporations, a joint stock company, a copartnership or a firm name or style under which a person or persons are doing business; and each set of such judgment dockets must have a separate volume or volumes for each letter of the alphabet, and each judgment docket book shall have its letter, and the year or years of its entries plainly marked on its back and cover and on every page. A judgment docket for judgment debtors that are individuals shall contain the names of those judgment debtors whose last name begins with the letter marked on the back of the volume. Each volume shall also have a marginal page index showing each letter of the alphabet in order. And a page of such judgment docket for judgment debtors that are individuals shall contain the names of those judgment debtors whose first name begins with the letter or whose first initial is the letter marked on the marginal index for that page; except that there shall be at the back of each of such volumes blank pages not indexed which shall contain the names of those judgment debtors whose first names or initials are stated in the title of the action to be unknown or fictitious. And a judgment docket for those judgment debtors that are corporations, a joint stock company, a copartnership or a firm name or style under which a person or persons are doing business shall contain the names of those judgment debtors the first letter or initial of whose name as it appears, following the prefixed articles "A," "An," or "The," is the letter marked on the page and on the back of the book. And there must be prepared and kept two separate sets of volumes for judgment dockets, designated, lettered, indexed and marked as hereinbefore provided in which there shall be entered in the same manner as hereinbefore directed to be entered, in their regular order and according to their priority and as soon as it may be practicable to have it done, the names of judgment debtors against whom judgments have been docketed within ten years of the time of the making of the entry in such volumes. And the county clerk of New York county shall prepare and keep a card index, supplemental to the judgment docket books hereinbefore provided for, wherein he shall enter and arrange in alphabetical order the names of all judgment debtors hereinbefore directed to be docketed. And with every entry of a judgment in an action begun on or after September first, nineteen hundred and eleven, there shall be entered as a part of such entry the number of the action and the year in which it was begun.

From L. 1840, c. 386, § 34. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1911, c. 290; L. 1912, c. 344 (in effect April 15, 1912).

§ 1245a. [Added, 1911, am'd, 1912.] Current docket books.

The county clerk of New York county must keep books to be known as current docket books. Each half page of space in each book shall be consecutively numbered in a series of consecutive numbers for each year and shall be devoted to one action. On a half page so numbered the clerk shall enter the title of the action having the same consecutive number for that year, with the names of the plaintiffs and defendants and attorneys in full, and in chronological order a brief description of each paper as it is filed, together with the date of filing thereof, also the verdict, report or decision, if any, rendered in the action as of the date of the rendering thereof, also all orders and judgments in the action. All interlocutory and provisional proceedings, and proceedings supplementary to execution, shall be entered on the same half page of the docket as the action out of which they arise, except in actions where the entries are so voluminous as to require one or more additional half pages of space; in which case the entries shall be continued under the same number upon other pages of that or a subsequent docket book, reference thereto being entered at the end of the first and all additional half pages, and the clerk upon entering the description of a paper filed in an action shall enter upon its front page and opposite the title caption the number of the action and the filing date and number of entry of the paper. There shall be kept an alphabetical index of all the actions entered in such current docket books during any year, which index shall consist of two sets of separate volumes, one set to be designated and used for indexing actions wherein the plaintiff or plaintiffs are individuals, including all individual members of a copartnership or of a firm doing business under a firm name or style as stated in the title of the action, and the other set to be designated and used for indexing actions wherein the plaintiff or plaintiffs are corporations, a joint stock company, a copartnership or a firm name or style under which a person or persons are doing business. Each of such sets of index books shall have a separate volume or volumes for each letter of the alphabet, and the volumes designated and used for indexing actions wherein the plaintiff or plaintiffs are individuals shall have a marginal page index showing each letter of the alphabet in order, and shall have the designation of its set of books, its letter and the year or years of its entries plainly marked on its back and cover and on every page. And all such actions shall be indexed in such index volumes according to all the plaintiffs of each title, in the same manner as it is provided in section twelve hundred and forty-five that judgment debtors shall be docketed in the judgment docket books, and in every case the serial number of the action shall be entered opposite the name indexed. Within three days after a summons, writ or other original process is served in an action in the supreme court, New York county, the attorney or party causing the same to be served shall file said process with proof of service in the office of the clerk who has custody of the records of the court in which the action is brought. The said clerk shall, upon receipt thereof, stamp the same upon its front page with a certain number to be one of the series for that year, and enter in the current docket book, on the half page bearing the same number, the names of the parties as they appear on said process, and the name and address of the attorney who issued the same. And the attorney or party causing such summons, writ or original process to be served shall, upon demand, give to the party so served, or to the attorney of such party, the number so stamped by the clerk, stamped or indorsed upon a paper with the title of the action, and the name and address of the attorney or party who made or caused the service to be made. All papers in the action shall bear the same number and year as the summons, writ or other original process, which number shall constitute a part of the title of such action. All original papers in the action, with proof or admission of their service, not later than the day after their service, shall be filed with or mailed to the clerk who stamped the number on the summons, writ or other original process. All papers to be hereafter filed with the clerk of New York county must be flat and filed flat. The word "action" as used in this section shall mean "action or special proceeding." Whenever a paper pertaining to any action begun prior to the passage of this act is filed in the office of the clerk who has custody of the records of the court in which the action is pending the clerk shall upon receipt of such paper stamp the same upon the front page with a certain number, to be one of a series of consecutive numbers for the year in which said action was brought, and shall enter in a current docket book prepared for that year the names of the parties to the action and the name and address of the attorney who filed the paper, in the same manner as if such paper were the original summons, writ or other process in such action; and the clerk shall as soon as practicable thereafter stamp or indorse that number upon every paper in that action theretofore filed in his office and shall enter such papers, as they are so numbered, in such docket book in the same manner as if such docketing had been begun with the first paper in such action. And all such entries in such docket books of actions begun prior to the passage of this act shall be indexed in separate volumes for each letter of the alphabet, and for corporations, a joint stock company, a copartnership or a person or persons doing business under a firm name or style, as hereinbefore provided, in the same manner as actions begun after the passage of this act are hereinbefore directed to be indexed. Whenever an action is transferred to another court, or the place of trial changed, the clerk to whom the papers in such action are delivered shall enter in the current docket book in which he makes entries copies of all entries theretofore made in said action, and shall continue to make subsequent entries therein in the same manner as if the process had originally been filed with him. All papers numbered and docketed as herein directed shall be filed together; and on the entry of final judgment in any action all the papers in that action shall be arranged in the order of the dates on which they were filed and shall be fastened or bound together flat with the judgment-roll and so filed. The county clerk of New York county shall appoint, subject to the rules of the state civil service commission, such subordinates as may be necessary for the work required to be done in his office under the provisions of this act, and shall designate the positions and fix the compensation of such subordinates, subject to the approval of the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York; and the comptroller of the city of New York shall issue and sell certificates of indebtedness to an amount sufficient to provide for the payment of the salaries of such subordinates during the year nineteen hundred and twelve, which shall be a charge against the county of New York, and an amount sufficient to pay and discharge the certificates so issued shall be included in the budget made by said board of estimate and apportionment for the year nineteen hundred and thirteen.

Added by L. 1911, c. 290; am'd L. 1912, c. 344 (in effect April 15, 1912).

§ 1246. Clerks to docket judgments.

Each clerk, specified in the last section, must, when he files a judgment-roll, upon a judgment, rendered in a court of which he is clerk, docket the judgment, by entering in the proper docket-book, the following particulars, under the initial letter of the surname of the judgment debtor, in its alphabetical order:

1. The name, at length, of the judgment debtor; and also his residence, title, and trade or profession, if any of them are stated in the judgment.
2. The name of the party, in whose favor the judgment was rendered.
3. The sum, recovered or directed to be paid, in figures.
4. The day, hour, and minute, when the judgment-roll was filed.
5. The day, hour, and minute, when the judgment was docketed in his office.
6. The court in which the judgment was rendered, and, if it was rendered in the supreme court, the county where the judgment-roll is filed.

7. The name of the attorney for the party recovering the judgment.

If there are two or more judgment debtors, those entries must be repeated, under the initial letter of the surname of each.

From 2 R. S. 361 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 13.

§ 1247. Filing transcripts, and docketing judgments thereon.

A clerk, with whom a judgment-roll is filed, upon a judgment docketed as prescribed in the last section, must furnish, to any person applying therefor, and paying the fees allowed by law, one or more transcripts of the docket of the judgment, attested by his signature. A county clerk to whom such a transcript is presented, must, upon payment of his fees therefor, immediately file it, and docket the judgment, as prescribed in the last section, in the appropriate docket-book, kept in his office.

From L. 1840, c. 386, § 26.

§ 1248. Penalty for clerk's neglect.

A clerk who omits, as soon as practicable, to docket a judgment required to be docketed, or to furnish a transcript of a judgment, so docketed in his office, as prescribed in the last two sections, forfeits to the person aggrieved, two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to the damages sustained by reason of the omission.

From 2 R. S. 362 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 20.

§ 1249. Dockets to be public.

A docket-book, kept by a clerk, must be kept open, during the business hours fixed by law, for search and examination by any person.

From Id., § 19.

§ 1250. Judgment not to be a lien until docketed.

A judgment, required to be docketed, as prescribed in this article, neither affects real property or chattels real, nor is entitled to a preference, until the judgment-roll is filed, and the judgment docketed.

From Id., § 12.

§ 1251. [Am'd, 1902, 1905.] Real property bound for ten years by a judgment thus docketed; name of debtor to be docketed.

Except as otherwise specially prescribed by law, and except also as in this section below provided, a judgment, hereafter rendered, which is docketed in a county clerk's office, as prescribed in this article, binds, and is a charge upon, for ten years after filing the judgment roll, and no longer, the real property and chattels real, in that county, which the judgment debtor has at the time of so docketing it, or which he acquires at any time afterwards, and within the ten years. Provided however that no judgment shall be a charge upon or bind the real property of any person unless and until he be designated by his name in a docket of such judgment in the office of the clerk in the county where such property is. Upon such notice to a judgment debtor as the court may direct the supreme court may order that any judgment heretofore or hereafter rendered therein against such debtor be amended so as to designate such debtor by his name and that the clerk of the county in which the judgment roll is filed redocket such judgment as so amended; and from the time of such redocket during the remainder of ten years from the filing of the judgment roll, such judgment shall bind and be a charge upon the real property and chattels real in that county which such judgment debtor may have at the time of such redocket or may thereafter within said ten years acquire, and a transcript of such new docket may be filed and docketed in the office of the clerk of any other county in the state in like manner and with like effect as a transcript of an original docket may be filed. Upon such notice to a judgment debtor as the court may direct any court other than the supreme court may order that any judgment heretofore or hereafter rendered therein against such debtor and any docket thereof in such court be amended so as to designate such debtor by his name, and at any time after such amendment shall have been made a transcript of the docket of such judgment as so amended may be filed and docketed in the office of the clerk of any county in this state in like manner and with like effect as a transcript of an original docket may be filed.

This and the next section are substituted for 2 R. S. 359 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), §§ 3, 4; L. 1840, c. 386, § 25; and Co. Proc., part of § 282. Am'd by L. 1902, c. 318; L. 1905, c. 432 (in effect May 16, 1905).

§ 1252. Real property may be levied upon after ten years.

When ten years after filing the judgment-roll have expired, real property or a chattel real, which the judgment debtor, or real property which a person, deriving his right or title thereto, as the heir or devisee of the judgment debtor, then has, in any county, may be levied upon, by virtue of an execution, against property, issued to the sheriff of that county, upon a judgment hereafter rendered, by filing, with the clerk of that county, a notice, subscribed by the sheriff, describing the judgment, the execution, and the property levied upon; and, if the interest levied upon is that of an heir or devisee, specifying that fact, and the name of the heir or devisee. The notice must be recorded and indexed by the clerk, as a notice of the pendency of an action. For that purpose, the judgment debtor, or his heir, or devisee, named in the notice, is regarded as a party to an action. The judgment binds, and becomes a charge upon, the right and title thus levied upon, of the judgment debtor, or of his heir or devisee, as the case may be, only from the time of recording and indexing the notice, and until the execution is set aside, or returned.

Id.

§ 1253. Land held under contract not bound by judgment.

The interest of a person, holding a contract for the purchase of real property, is not bound by the docketing of a judgment; and cannot be levied upon or sold, by virtue of an execution, issued upon a judgment.

From 1 R. S. 744 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 4), § 4.

§ 1254. Preference of mortgages for purchase-money.

Where real property is sold and conveyed, and, at the same time, a mortgage thereupon is given by the purchaser, to secure the payment of the whole or a part of the purchase-money, the lien of the mortgage, upon that real property, is superior to the lien of a previous judgment against the purchaser.

From 1 R. S. 749 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 5), § 5.

§ 1255. Certain time not to be included in the ten years.

The time, during which a judgment creditor is stayed, by an injunction or other order, or by the operation of an appeal, or by express provision of law, from enforcing a judgment, is not a part of the ten years, to which the lien of a judgment is limited by this article. But this section does not extend the time of the lien, as against a purchaser, creditor, or mortgagee in good faith.

From Co. Proc., § 282, second sentence.

§ 1256. Court may order lien of judgment to be suspended upon appeal.

Where an appeal from a judgment has been perfected, and an undertaking has been given, sufficient to entitle the appellant to a stay of the execution of the judgment, without an order for that purpose, the court, in which the judgment was recovered, may, in its discretion and upon such terms as justice requires, make an order, upon notice to the attorney for the respondent, and to the sureties in the undertaking, exempting from the lien of the judgment, as against judgment creditors, and purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, the real property or chattels real, upon which the judgment is a lien, or a portion thereof, specifically described in the order. If all the property, subject to the lien, is so exempted, the order must direct the clerk, in whose office the judgment-roll is filed, to make an entry, on the docket of the judgment, in each place where it appears in the docket-book, substantially as follows: "Lien suspended upon appeal. See order entered"; adding the proper date. If a portion only is exempted, the order must direct the clerk to make, in like manner, an entry, substantially as follows: "Lien partially suspended upon appeal. See order entered"; adding the proper date. The clerk must, when he files the motion papers, and enters the order, make the entry or entries in the docket-book, as required by the order.

See Co. Proc., § 282, last sentence.

§ 1257. From what time order suspends the lien.

Where an order is made, as prescribed in the last section, by the supreme court or by a county court, it operates as a suspension of the lien upon property situated in the county, where the judgment-roll is filed, from the time when the order is entered, and the proper entry made in the docket-book. If the property exempted is situated in another county, or if the order was made by a court, other than the supreme court or a county court; the order operates as a suspension, from the time, when the proper entry is made in the docket-book, kept by the clerk of that county, as prescribed in the next section.

Id.

§ 1258. How lien suspended in any other county.

The clerk, with whom the order is entered, must, upon payment of his fees therefor, furnish to the party who obtained the order, one or more transcripts, attested by his signature, of the docket of the judgment, including the entry made upon the docket. A county clerk, in whose office the judgment is docketed, must, upon payment of his fees therefor, immediately file such a transcript; and make an entry upon the docket of the judgment, in each place where it appears in his docket-book, substantially as follows: "Lien suspended", or, "Lien partially suspended", according to the entry upon the original docket, and also, "See transcript filed"; adding the proper date.

Id.

§ 1259. When and how lien restored.

At any time after a judgment, which has ceased to be a lien, as prescribed in the last three sections, is affirmed, or the appeal therefrom is dismissed, the lien thereof may be restored, as follows:

1. The clerk, in whose office the judgment of affirmance, or the order dismissing the appeal, is entered, must, upon the request of the judgment creditor, docket the judgment anew, as it was originally docketed, but in the order of priority of the new docket; and he must write, upon the new docket, the words, "Lien restored by redocket"; adding the date of redocketing.

2. A transcript of the new docket must be furnished to a county clerk, in whose office an entry of the suspension of the lien has been made, as prescribed in the last two sections; and thereupon the judgment must be docketed by him anew, in the order of the priority of the new docket. The clerk who so redockets the judgment, must make an entry upon the new docket, substantially as follows: "Lien restored by redocket. See transcript filed"; adding the date of redocketing in his county.

The lien of the judgment is thereupon restored, for the unexpired period thereof, as if the order had not been made; but with like effect only, as against judgment creditors, purchasers, and mortgagees in good faith, as if the judgment had then been first docketed.

New.

§ 1260. [Am'd, 1899, 1911, 1913.] Docket of judgment, how cancelled.

The docket of a judgment must be cancelled and discharged by the clerk, in whose office the judgment-roll is filed, or by the clerk of any county where a transcript of said judgment shall have been docketed, upon filing with him a satisfaction-piece, describing the judgment, and executed as follows:

1. Except as otherwise prescribed in the next subdivision, the satisfaction piece must be executed by the party in whose favor the judgment was rendered, or his executor or administrator; or, if it is made within two years after the entry of judgment, or after the entry of final judgment or order of affirmance, by the attorney of record of the party. But where the authority of the attorney has been revoked, a satisfaction by him is not conclusive, against the person entitled to enforce the judgment, in respect to a person, who had actual notice of the revocation, before a payment on the judgment was made, or a purchase of property bound thereby was effected.

2. If an assignment of the judgment, executed by the party in whose favor it was rendered, or his executor or administrator, has been filed in the clerk's office, the satisfaction-piece must be executed by the person, who appears, from the assignment, or from the last of the subsequent assignments, if any, so filed, showing a continuous chain of title, to be the owner of the judgment; or by his executor or administrator.

3. If the satisfaction-piece is executed by an attorney in fact, in behalf of a person authorized to execute it, other than the attorney of record, an instrument, containing a power to acknowledge the satisfaction, must be filed with the satisfaction-piece, unless it has been recorded, in the proper book for recording deeds, in that or another county; in which case, the satisfaction-piece must refer to the record, and the clerk may, for his own indemnity, require evidence of a record remaining in another office.

The execution of each satisfaction-piece or power of attorney must be acknowledged, before the clerk, or his deputy, and certified by him thereupon; or it must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county where it is filed.

4. In the absence of a satisfaction piece under any of the foregoing provisions of this section the docket of a judgment must be canceled, satisfied and discharged by the clerk in whose office the judgment-roll is filed at any time if the judgment debtor, or his legal representatives, or any other person shall deposit with such clerk a sum of money equal to the amount of the judgment, or if the docket shows a partial satisfaction thereof, the unpaid residue thereof, with interest to the time of such deposit and in addition thereto a sum equal to one per centum of said judgment or unpaid residue. There shall be delivered to such clerk with such a deposit a certificate of the sheriff of the same county dated on the day of such deposit that no execution upon the judgment is in his hands. Upon any such payment and delivery of such certificate the clerk shall enter upon the judgment docket the words "satisfied and discharged by deposit." All the provisions of section 1267 of this act, so far as they affect, shall be applicable to this subdivision of this section, except that the clerk of a county with whom a judgment has been docketed, but with whom the judgment-roll has not been filed, before filing the transcript and canceling and discharging the docket of a judgment satisfied of record pursuant to this subdivision of this section, shall also require to be delivered to him in addition to the certificate provided for in section 1267 of this act, a certificate of the sheriff of the same county showing that no execution is in his hands or that an execution is in his hands and that he has received payment of all fees to which he would by law be entitled if he had collected by virtue of an execution the amount of said judgment or unpaid residue thereof with interest. It shall be the duty of such sheriff to accept such fees without payment to him of the amount of the judgment or any part thereof, upon there being delivered to him a certificate of the clerk with whom the judgment-roll is filed, showing that the judgment has been satisfied of record; and it shall be the duty of any sheriff to give any and all certificates required under this subdivision of this section, upon compliance with the provisions hereof and he shall be entitled to receive fifty cents for each certificate. All deposits of money hereunder shall be considered as paid into court and shall be subject to the provisions of the code of civil procedure relative to the payment of money into court, and the surrender of such money by an order of the court. The additional one per centum to be deposited as aforesaid shall be in payment of all fees of the financial officer of the city or county with whom any money is deposited hereunder. But no provision of this subdivision shall affect the right of the judgment creditor to appeal from the judgment, or make any motion with respect thereto, nor shall any proceedings on appeal be affected by this subdivision.

From 2 R. S. 362 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), §§ 22, 23, 24; L. 1834, c. 262, §§ 1, 2, 3. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 95; L. 1911, c. 599; L. 1913, c. 30 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 1261. Satisfaction-piece to be given on payment of judgment.

The person, entitled to enforce a judgment, must execute, and acknowledge before the proper officer, a satisfaction-piece thereof, at the request of the judgment debtor, or of a person interested in property bound by the judgment, upon presentation of a satisfaction-piece, and payment of the sum due upon the judgment, and the fees allowed by law for taking the acknowledgment of a deed.

From 2 R. S. 362 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 25.

§ 1262. [Am'd, 1895.] Assignor must acknowledge assignment.

A person who has heretofore executed, or hereafter executes, a written assignment of a judgment, owned by him, without acknowledging the execution thereof, before an officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of a deed, must so acknowledge it, at the request of his assignee, or of a subsequent assignee thereof, or of the judgment debtor, upon presentation of the assignment, and payment of the officer's fees.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1263. Assignee who is a receiver, etc., may file notice.

A resident of the State, or a person having an office within the State, for the regular transaction of business, in person, who becomes the owner of a judgment, by virtue of a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, or of an appointment as a receiver, or trustee or assignee of an insolvent debtor or bankrupt, may file with the clerk, in whose office the judgment-roll is filed, a notice of the assignment, or of his appointment, and of his ownership of the judgment. The notice must be subscribed by him, adding to his signature his place of residence, and also, if he resides without the State, his office address. A notice so filed has the same force and effect, for the purposes of this article, as if it was an assignment of the judgment.

New.

§ 1264. Entry in docket, upon return of execution satisfied.

Where an execution is returned, wholly or partly satisfied, the clerk must make an entry of the satisfaction, or partial satisfaction, in the docket of the judgment, upon which it was issued. Thereupon the judgment is deemed satisfied, to the extent of the amount returned as collected, unless the return is vacated by the court.

From 2 R. S. 362 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 26.

§ 1265. Id.; where execution returned unsatisfied.

Where an execution is returned wholly unsatisfied, the clerk must immediately make, in the docket of the judgment, upon which it was issued, an entry of the fact, stating the time when the execution was returned.

New.

§ 1266. Sheriff to give copy of satisfied execution; clerk to enter satisfaction.

A sheriff, upon being paid the full amount due upon an execution in his hands, must immediately indorse thereupon a return of satisfaction thereof. He must also deliver, to the person making the payment, upon the latter's request, and payment of the fees allowed by law therefor, a certified copy of the execution, and of the return of satisfaction thereupon; which may be filed with the clerk of the same county, who must thereupon cancel and discharge the docket of the judgment, as if the judgment-roll was filed in his office, and the execution was returned to him, as satisfied. But this section does not exonerate the sheriff, from his duty to return the execution, to the clerk with whom the judgment-roll is filed.

From L. 1860, c. 6, § 1.

§ 1267. Docket; when to be discharged and cancelled.

The clerk of a county, with whom a judgment has been docketed, must cancel and discharge the docket thereof, upon the filing, with him, of a certificate of the clerk, with whom the judgment-roll is filed, showing that the judgment has been reversed, vacated, or satisfied of record; or the certificate of the clerk of the county, with whom a copy of an execution, and of a return of satisfaction thereupon, have been filed, as prescribed in the last section, showing that they have been so filed, and the docket cancelled and discharged accordingly.

From L. 1860, c. 6, § 2; L. 1844, c. 104, § 5.

§ 1268. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Discharge of a judgment against a bankrupt.

At any time after one year has elapsed, since a bankrupt was discharged from his debts, pursuant to the acts of congress relating to bankruptcy, he may apply, upon proof of his discharge, to the court in which a judgment was rendered against him, or if rendered in a court not of record, to the court of which it has become a judgment by docketing it, or filing a transcript thereof, for an order, directing the judgment to be cancelled and discharged of record. If it appears upon the hearing that he has been discharged from the payment of that judgment, or the debt upon which such judgment was recovered, an order must be made directing said judgment be cancelled and discharged of record; and thereupon the clerk of said court shall cancel and discharge the same by marking on the docket thereof that the same is cancelled and discharged by order of the court, giving the date of entry of the order of discharge. Where the judgment was a lien on real property owned by the bankrupt prior to the time he was adjudged a bankrupt, the lien thereof upon said real estate shall not be affected by said order and may be enforced, but in all other respects the judgment shall be of no force or validity, nor shall the same be a lien on real property acquired by him subsequent to his discharge in bankruptcy. Notice of the application, accompanied with copies of the papers upon which it is made, must be served upon the judgment creditor, or his attorney of record in said judgment, in the same manner as prescribed in sections 796 and 797 of the code of civil procedure, if the residence or place of business of such creditor, or his attorney is known, but if unknown and cannot be ascertained after due diligence, or if such creditor is a non-resident of this State, and his attorney is dead, removed from, or cannot be found within the State, upon proof of said facts by affidavit a judge of the court may make an order that the notice of such application be published in a newspaper designated therein once a week for not more than three weeks, which publication shown by the affidavit of the publisher shall be sufficient service upon such judgment creditor, of the application.

§ 1269. Power of courts respecting docket.

A court of record has the same power and jurisdiction, concerning the docket of its judgments, kept by a county clerk, which it has concerning the docket, kept by its own clerk. It may direct that such a docket be amended; or that its judgment, there docketed, be docketed nunc pro tunc.

From L. 1844, c. 104, § 7.

§ 1270. Clerk to file and note assignment of judgment.

Upon the presentation, to the clerk of a court of record, of an assignment of a judgment, entered in his office, executed by a person entitled to satisfy the judgment, as prescribed in section 1260 of this act, and otherwise executed as prescribed in that section, with respect to a satisfaction-piece, and upon payment of the fees, allowed by law, for filing a transcript, and docketing a judgment thereupon, the clerk must forthwith file the assignment in his office, and make, upon the docket of the judgment, an entry of the fact, and of the day of filing; or, if he keeps a separate book for the entry of assignments of judgments, an entry, referring to the page of the book, where the filing of the assignment is noted.

New.

§ 1271. [Stricken out by L. 1879, c. 542.]

§ 1272. To what judgments and executions this article applies.

This article applies only to a judgment, wholly or partly for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money; and to an execution issued upon such a judgment.

New.

TITLE II.

Judgment taken without process.

Article 1. Confession of judgment.
2. Submission of a controversy, upon facts admitted.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Confession of judgment.

Sec. 1273. Judgment may be confessed.
1274. Statement; form thereof.
1275. Statement to be filed, and judgment entered.
1276. Judgment-roll; docketing and enforcing the judgment.
1277. Execution, where the judgment is not all due.
1278. Confession by one of several joint debtors.

§ 1273. [Am'd, 1877, 1897, 1909.] Judgment may be confessed.

A judgment by confession may be entered, without action, either for money due or to become due, or to secure a person against contingent liability in behalf of the defendant, or both, as prescribed in this article.[1]

From Co. Proc., § 382. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1897, c. 38; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 1274. Statement; form thereof.

A written statement must be made, and signed by the defendant, to the following effect:

1. It must state the sum, for which judgment may be entered, and authorize the entry of judgment therefor.

2. If the judgment to be confessed is for money due or to become due, it must state concisely the facts, out of which the debt arose; and must show, that the sum confessed therefor is justly due or to become due.

3. If the judgment to be confessed is for the purpose of securing the plaintiff, against a contingent liability, it must state concisely the facts, constituting the liability; and must show, that the sum confessed therefor does not exceed the amount of the liability.

The statement must be verified by the oath of the defendant, to the effect, that the matters of fact therein set forth are true.

From Co. Proc., § 383.

§ 1275. [Am'd, 1895, 1915.] Statement to be filed, and judgment entered.

At any time within three years after the statement is verified, it may be filed with the county clerk of the county of which the defendant was a resident at the time of making such statement, or, where the sum, for which judgment is confessed, does not exceed $2,000, exclusive of interest from the time of making the statement, with the clerk of the city court of the city of New York, provided, however, that the defendant at time of making such statement was a resident of the city of New York. Thereupon the clerk must enter, in like manner as a judgment is entered in an action, a judgment for the sum confessed, with costs, which he must tax, to the amount of fifteen dollars, besides disbursements taxable in an action. If the statement is filed with a county clerk, the judgment must be entered in the supreme court; if it is filed with the clerk of another court, specified in this section, the judgment must be entered in the court of which he is clerk. But a judgment shall not be entered upon such a statement, after the defendant's death.

[1] It is provided in § 51 of the Domestic Relations Law that "a married woman may confess a judgment specified in § 1273 of the Code of Civil Procedure."

From Co. Proc., § 384, first sentence. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1915, c. 639 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 1276. [Am'd, 1879.] Judgment-roll; docketing and enforcing the judgment.

The clerk, immediately after entering the judgment, must attach together and file the statement, as verified, and a copy of the judgment; which constitute the judgment-roll. The judgment may be docketed, and enforced against property, in the same manner, and with the same effect, as a judgment in an action, rendered in the same court; and each provision of law, relating to a judgment in an action, and the proceedings subsequent thereto, apply to a judgment thus taken.

From Co. Proc., § 384, second and third sentences. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1277. Execution where the judgment is not all due.

Where the debt, for which the judgment is rendered, is not all due, execution may be issued, upon the judgment, for the collection of the sum which has become due. The execution must be in the form prescribed by law, for an execution upon a judgment for the full amount recovered; but the person, whose name is subscribed to it, must indorse thereupon a direction to the sheriff, to collect only the sum due, stating the amount thereof, with interest thereon, and the costs of the judgment. Notwithstanding the issuing and collection of such an execution, the judgment shall remain, as security for the sum or sums to become due, after the execution is issued. When a further sum becomes due, an execution may, in like manner, be issued for the collection thereof; and successive executions may be issued, as further sums become due.

From Co. Proc., rest of § 384.

§ 1278. Confession by one of several joint debtors.

One or more joint debtors may confess a judgment for a joint debt, due or to become due. Where all the joint debtors do not unite in the confession, the judgment must be entered and enforced against those only who confessed it; and it is not a bar to an action against all the joint debtors, upon the same demand.

New.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Submission of a controversy, upon facts admitted.

Sec. 1279. Controversy, how submitted without process.
1280. Papers to be filed; controversy thereupon becomes an action.
1281. Subsequent proceedings regulated.

§ 1279. Controversy, how submitted without process.

The parties to a question in difference, which might be the subject of an action, being of full age, may agree upon a case, containing a statement of the facts, upon which the controversy depends; and may present a written submission thereof to a court of record, which would have jurisdiction of an action, brought for the same cause. The case must be accompanied with the affidavit of one of the parties, to the effect, that the controversy is real; and that the submission is made in good faith, for the purpose of determining the rights of the parties. The submission must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed, to be recorded in the county where it is filed.

From Co. Proc., § 372.

§ 1280. Papers to be filed; controversy thereupon becomes an action.

The case, submission, and affidavit, must be filed in the office of the clerk of the court to which the submission is made. If the submission is made to the supreme court, they must be filed in the office of the county clerk, if any, specified in the submission; if no county clerk is so specified, they may be filed in the office of any county clerk. The filing is a presentation of the submission; and thenceforth the controversy becomes an action; and each provision of law, relating to a proceeding in an action, applies to the subsequent proceedings therein except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

From Co. Proc., §§ 372, 373, 374.

§ 1281. [Am'd, 1895, 1899.] Subsequent proceedings regulated.

An order of arrest, a temporary injunction, or a warrant of attachment, cannot be granted in such an action; the costs thereof are always in the discretion of the court, but costs cannot be taxed, for any proceedings before notice of trial; the action must be tried by the court, upon the case alone; and the case, submission, affidavit, and a certified copy of the judgment, and of any order or paper necessarily affecting the judgment, constitute the judgment roll. If the action is in the supreme court, it must be tried and judgment rendered by the appellate division thereof, and if in the city court of the city of New York, it must be tried and judgment rendered at the general term thereof.[1] If the statement of facts, contained in the case, is not sufficient to enable the court to render judgment, an order must be made dismissing the submission, without costs to either party; unless the court permits the parties, or, in a proper case their representatives, to file an additional statement, which it may do, in its discretion, without prejudice to the original statement.

From Co. Proc., §§ 372, 373. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1899, c. 526 (in effect May 5, 1899).

[1] The General Term of the City Court of New York city was abolished by L. 1902, c. 515.

TITLE III.

Vacating or setting aside a judgment, for irregularity or error in fact.

Sec. 1282. Motion to set aside judgment for irregularity; when it may be heard.
1283. Motion to set aside judgment for error in fact; when it may be made by party.
1284. Id.; after a party's death.
1285. Id.; by a person not a party.
1286. Id.; when several parties are entitled to move.
1287. To whom notice of the motion must be given.
1288. Id.; when real property recovered by the judgment has been conveyed.
1289. How notice given under this title.
1290. Within what time motion to be made.
1291. Exceptions in cases of disability.
1292. Restitution; when directed.

§ 1282. Motion to set aside judgment for irregularity; when it may be heard.

A motion to set aside a final judgment, for irregularity, shall not be heard, after the expiration of one year since the filing of the judgment-roll; unless notice thereof is given for a day within the year, and either the hearing is adjourned, by one or more orders, until after the expiration of the year; or the term, for which it is thus noticed, is not held. In the latter event, the motion may be re-noticed for, and heard at, the next term at which it can be made, held not less than ten days after the day, when the first term was appointed to be held.

From 2 R. S. 359 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 4), § 2.

§ 1283. Motion to set aside judgment for error in fact; when it may be made by party.

A motion to set aside a final judgment, rendered in a court of record, for error in fact, not arising upon the trial, may be made by the party against whom it is rendered; or, if an execution has not been issued thereon, and the judgment has not been wholly or partly satisfied or enforced, by the party in whose favor it is rendered.

From 2 R. S. 591 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 3), §§ 2, 3.

§ 1284. Id.; after a party's death.

A like motion may be made, after the death of a party entitled to make it, as prescribed in the last section, by the following persons:

1. Where the judgment awards a sum of money, or a chattel, or an interest in real property, which is declared by law to be assets, the motion may be made by his executor or administrator.

2. Where the judgment awards real property, or the possession thereof, or where the title to or an estate or interest in real property is determined or affected thereby, the motion may be made by the heir of the decedent, to whom the real property descended, or might have descended, or by the person to whom he devised it.

3. Where the judgment is rendered against or in favor of two or more persons, the motion may be made, jointly, by the survivor, and the person who would have been entitled to make it, if the judgment had been rendered in favor of or against the decedent only.

From 2 R. S. 591, § 2, subds. 2, 3, 6.

§ 1285. Id.; by a person not a party.

A motion may be made, either before or after the death of the defendant, by a person, who is not a party, to set aside, for error in fact, not arising upon the trial, a judgment, rendered in an action against a tenant for life, or for years, awarding real property, or the possession of real property, in which the person making the motion has an estate, or interest, in reversion or remainder.

From Id., § 2, subd. 4.

§ 1286. Id.; when several parties are entitled to move.

Where two or more persons are entitled to move to set aside a judgment, as prescribed in the last three sections, one or more of them may move separately; but, in that case, notice of the motion must be given to those who do not join therein, in like manner as if they were adverse parties.

From 2 R. S. 592, §§ 7-17.

§ 1287. To whom notice of the motion must be given.

Notice of a motion to set aside a final judgment, for error in fact, not arising upon the trial, must be given to the adverse party, or, in case of his death, to each person who might have moved, as against the moving party, to set aside the judgment for the same cause, as prescribed in this title. Where the motion is made by the party against whom the judgment is rendered, or by his heir, devisee, executor, or administrator, service of the notice, upon the attorney of record for the party, in whose favor the judgment is rendered, has the like effect, as if it was served upon the party.

From Id., § 19.

§ 1288. Id.; when real property recovered by the judgment has been conveyed.

Where the judgment awards real property, or the possession thereof, or where the title to, or an estate or interest in, real property is determined or affected thereby, and the real property, or estate or interest therein, has been conveyed, by the adverse party, more than eight days before the hearing of the motion, notice of the motion must also be given to each actual occupant of the property, claiming under the conveyance.

From Id., § 19.

§ 1289. How notice given under this title.

Notice must be given, in a case specified in this title, by personal service of a written notice, or of an order to show cause why the motion should not be granted; or, if a person entitled to notice cannot, with due diligence, be found within the State, in any manner which the court, or a judge thereof, directs in an order to show cause, or which the court directs in a subsequent order.

New. See 2 R. S. 592, § 11.

§ 1290. Within what time motion to be made.

A motion to set aside a final judgment, for error in fact, not arising upon the trial, shall not be heard, except as specified in the next section, after the expiration of two years since the filing of the judgment-roll, unless notice thereof is given, for a day within the two years; and either the hearing is adjourned, by one or more orders, until after the expiration of the two years; or the term, for which it is thus noticed, is not held. In the latter event, the motion may be re-noticed for, and heard at, the next term at which it can be made, held not less than ten days after the day, when the first term was appointed to be held.

New. See 2 R. S. 594, § 21.

§ 1291. Exceptions in cases of disability.

If the person, against whom the judgment is rendered, is, at the time of filing the judgment-roll, either

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or
2. Insane; or
3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution, upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life.

The time of such a disability is not a part of the time, limited by the last section; except that the time, within which the motion may be heard, cannot be extended more than five years by such a disability, nor, in any case, more than one year after the disability ceases.

From 2 R. S. 594, §§ 22, 24.

§ 1292. Restitution; when directed.

Where a judgment is set aside for any cause, upon motion, the court may direct and enforce restitution, in like manner, with like effect, and subject to the same conditions, as where a judgment is reversed upon appeal.

New. See § 1323, post.

CHAPTER XII.

Appeals.

TITLE I.—General Provisions, Relating to the Appeals Provided for in this Chapter.
TITLE II.—Appeal to the Court of Appeals.
TITLE III.—Appeal to the Supreme Court from an Inferior Court.
TITLE IV.—Appeal to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court.
TITLE V.—Appeal From a Determination in a Special Proceeding.

TITLE I.

General provisions, relating to the appeals provided for in this chapter.

Sec. 1293. Writ of error abolished.
1294. When party may appeal.
1295. Parties to appeal; how designated. Title of cause.
1296. When a person entitled to become a party may appeal.
1297. Appeal when adverse party has died.
1298. Proceedings, when party dies pending appeal.
1299. Order of substitution.
1300. Appeal, how taken.
1301. When notice of appeal to specify interlocutory judgment, etc.
1302. Proceedings, if attorney or party not found.
1303. Defects in proceedings may be supplied.
1304. Order appealed from must be entered. Proceedings to compel entry.
1305. Security may be waived.
1306. Deposit in lieu of undertaking.
1307. Undertaking must be filed.
1308. New undertaking to be given, when sureties are insolvent, etc.
1309. Action upon undertaking, when not to be brought.
1310. When appeal stays proceedings; effect thereof.
1311. Levy upon personal property, when superseded by appeal.
1312. Court may limit amount of security in certain cases.
1313. No security necessary, on appeal by the people, etc.
1314. Id.; on appeal by a domestic municipal corporation.
1315. Papers to be transmitted to appellate court.
1316. Interlocutory judgment, or intermediate order, may be reviewed.
1317. Judgment or order on appeal.
1318. When no appeal lies from judgment of reversal.
1319. Mode of enforcing affirmed or modified judgment.
1320. Id.; as to order.
1321. Mode of cancelling docket of reversed or modified judgment.
1322. Id.; when reversal, etc., was by court of appeals.
1323. Restitution; when awarded.
1323a. Remarks or comments of judge, duly excepted to, shall be subject of review.

§ 1293. Writ of error abolished.

The writ of error in a civil action or special proceeding has been abolished.

See Co. Proc., §§ 333, 457.

§ 1294. When party may appeal.

A party aggrieved may appeal, in a case prescribed in this chapter, except where the judgment or order, of which he complains, was rendered or made upon his default.

From Co. Proc., § 325.

§ 1295. Parties to appeal; how designated. Title of cause.

The party or person appealing is designated as the appellant, and the adverse party as the respondent. After an appeal is taken to another court, the name of the appellate court must be substituted, for that of the court below, in the title of the action or special proceeding, and in any case, the name of the county, if it is mentioned, may be omitted; otherwise the title shall not be changed, in consequence of the appeal.

From Co. Proc., § 326.

§ 1296. When a person entitled to become a party may appeal.

A person aggrieved, who is not a party, but is entitled by law to be substituted, in place of a party; or who has acquired, since the making of the order, or the rendering of the judgment appealed from, an interest, which would have entitled him to be so substituted, if it had been previously acquired, may also appeal, as prescribed in this chapter, for an appeal by a party. But the appeal cannot be heard, until he has been substituted in place of the party; and if he unreasonably neglects to procure an order of substitution, the appeal may be dismissed, upon motion of the respondent.

New.

§ 1297. Appeal when adverse party has died.

Where the adverse party has died, since the making of the order, or the rendering of the judgment appealed from, or where the judgment appealed from was rendered, after his death, in a case prescribed by law, an appeal may be taken, as if he was living; but it cannot be heard, until the heir, devisee, executor, or administrator, as the case requires, has been substituted as the respondent. In such a case, an undertaking required to perfect the appeal, or to stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, must recite the fact of the adverse party's death; and the undertaking enures, after substitution, to the benefit of the person substituted.

New.

§ 1298. [Am'd, 1877.] Proceedings, when party dies pending appeal.

Where either party to an appeal dies, before the appeal is heard, or has heretofore died, and the appeal has not been heard, if an order, substituting another person in his place, is not made, within three months after his death, or, where he has heretofore died, within three months after this section takes effect, the court, in which the appeal is pending, may, in its discretion, make an order, requiring all persons interested in the decedent's estate, to show cause before it, why the judgment or order appealed from should not be reversed or affirmed, or the appeal dismissed, as the case requires. The order must specify a day, when cause is to be shown, which must be not less than six months after making the order; and it must designate the mode of giving notice to the persons interested. Upon the return day of the order, or at a subsequent day, appointed by the court, if the proper person has not been substituted, the court, upon proof, by affidavit, that notice has been given, as required by the order, may reverse or affirm the judgment or order appealed from, or dismiss the appeal, or make such further order in the premises, as justice requires.

See Co. Proc., § 121. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1299. Order of substitution.

Where the appeal is from one court to another, an application for an order of substitution, as prescribed by the last three sections, must be made to the appellate court. Where personal service of notice of application for an order has been made, within the State, upon the proper representative of the decedent, an order of substitution may be made, upon the application of the surviving party.

New.

§ 1300. [Am'd, 1909.] Appeal, how taken.

An appeal must be taken, by serving, upon the attorney for the adverse party, as prescribed in article third of title sixth of chapter eighth of this act, and upon the clerk, with whom the judgment or order appealed from is entered, by filing it in his office, a written notice, to the effect, that the appellant appeals from the judgment or order, or from a specified part thereof. Upon an appeal to the court of appeals from an order of the appellate division, made upon an appeal from the surrogate's court, the notice of appeal shall be filed with the clerk of the surrogate's court.

From Co. Proc., § 327. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 416 (in effect Sept. 1, 1909).

§ 1301. When notice of appeal to specify interlocutory judgment, etc.

Where the appeal is from a final judgment, or from a final order in a special proceeding, and the appellant intends to bring up, for review thereupon, an interlocutory judgment, or an intermediate order, he must, in the notice of appeal, distinctly specify the interlocutory judgment, or intermediate order, to be reviewed.

New. See §§ 1316, 1317, post.

§ 1302. Proceedings, if attorney or party not found.

If the attorney for the adverse party is dead; or if he has been removed, and notice of the removal has been served upon the appellant's attorney, and another attorney has not been substituted in his place; or if, for any reason, service of a notice of appeal, upon the proper attorney for the adverse party, cannot, with due diligence, be made within the State, the notice of appeal may be served upon the respondent, in the manner prescribed by law for serving it upon an attorney. If personal service upon the respondent cannot, with due diligence, be so made within the State, the notice of appeal may be served upon him, and notice of the subsequent proceedings may be given to him, as directed by a judge of the court, in or to which the appeal is taken.

New.

§ 1303. Defects in proceedings may be supplied.

Where the appellant, seasonably and in good faith, serves the notice of appeal, either upon the clerk or upon the adverse party, or his attorney, but omits, through mistake, inadvertence, or excusable neglect, to serve it upon the other, or to do any other act, necessary to perfect the appeal, or to stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from; the court, in or to which the appeal is taken, upon proof, by affidavit, of the facts, may, in its discretion, permit the omission to be supplied, or an amendment to be made, upon such terms as justice requires.

From Co. Proc., § 327, last sentence.

§ 1304. Order appealed from must be entered. Proceedings to compel entry.

An appeal cannot be taken from an order made by a judge, out of court, until it is entered in the office of the proper clerk.

Where such an order has not been so entered, or the papers, upon which it was founded, have not been filed in the same clerk's office, the judge who made it, or, if he is absent, or unable or disqualified to act, a judge of the court, in or to which an appeal therefrom may be taken, must, upon the application of a party or other person, entitled to take such an appeal, make an order, requiring the omission to be supplied, within a specified time after service of a copy of the order made by him. Upon proof, by affidavit, that a copy of the latter order has been served, and that the omission has not been supplied, the same judge may make, upon notice, an order revoking and annulling the original order. The provisions of the last section but one apply to the service of an order, or a notice, as prescribed in this section.

See Co. Proc., § 350.

§ 1305. Security may be waived.

An undertaking, which the appellant is required, by this chapter, to give, or any other act which he is so required to do, for the security of the respondent, may be waived by the written consent of the respondent.

From Co. Proc., § 334, last sentence.

§ 1306. Deposit, in lieu of undertaking.

Where the appellant is required, by this chapter, to give an undertaking, he may, in lieu thereof, deposit with the clerk, with whom the judgment or order appealed from is entered, a sum of money, equal to the amount for which the undertaking is required to be given. The deposit has the same effect, as filing the undertaking; and notice that it has been made, has the same effect, as notice of the filing and service of a copy of the undertaking. The court, wherein the appeal is pending, may direct the mode, in which the money shall be kept and disposed of, during the pendency, or after the determination of the appeal.

From Id., § 335.

§ 1307. [Am'd, 1910.] Undertaking must be filed.

An undertaking, given as prescribed in this chapter, must be filed with the clerk, with whom the judgment or order appealed from is entered, except that upon an appeal to the court of appeals the undertaking must be filed with the clerk of the court wherein the original judgment or order was entered.

From Id., § 343, first sentence. Am'd by L. 1910, c. 582 (in effect Sept. 1, 1910).

§ 1308. [Am'd, 1895.] New undertaking to be given, when sureties are insolvent, etc.

The court, in which the appeal is pending, upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit, that since the execution of an undertaking, given as prescribed in this chapter, one or more of the sureties therein have become insolvent; or that his or their circumstances have become so precarious, that there is reason to apprehend, that the undertaking is not sufficient for the security of the respondent; may make an order, requiring the appellant to file a new undertaking, and to serve a copy thereof, as required with respect to the original undertaking. If the appellant fails so to do, within twenty days after the service of a copy of the order, or such further time as the court allows, the appeal must be dismissed, or the order or judgment, from which the appeal is taken, must be executed, as if the original undertaking had not been given.

§ 1309. [Am'd, 1894.] Action upon undertaking; when not to be brought.

An action shall not be maintained upon an undertaking, given upon an appeal, taken as prescribed in title third, fourth or fifth of this chapter, until ten days have expired, since the service, upon the attorney for the appellant, and upon the sureties on such undertaking, of a written notice of the entry of a judgment or order, affirming the judgment or order appealed from, or dismissing the appeal. Such service may be made by mailing such notice in a postpaid wrapper addressed to said surety or sureties, at the last known post-office address of such surety or sureties. Where an appeal to the court of appeals from that judgment or order is perfected, and security is given thereupon, to stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, an action shall not be maintained upon the undertaking, given upon the preceding appeal, until after the final determination of the appeal to the court of appeals.

From Co. Proc., § 348. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 108.

§ 1310. [Am'd, 1888, 1895, 1896.] When appeal stays proceedings; effect thereof.

Where an appeal to the general term of any court or to the appellate division of the supreme court or to the court of appeals or otherwise has been heretofore or shall hereafter be perfected, as prescribed in this chapter, and the other acts, if any, required to be done, to stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, have been done, the appeal stays all proceedings to enforce the judgment or order appealed from; except that the court or judge from whose determination the appeal is taken, may proceed in any matter included in the action or special proceeding, and not affected by the judgment or order appealed from or not embraced within the appeal; or may cause perishable property to be sold, pursuant to the judgment or order appealed from. The proceeds of such a sale must be paid, to abide the result of the appeal, into the court from or in which the appeal is taken, or, if it was taken as prescribed in title fifth of this chapter, into the supreme court. When an appeal from a judgment for rent has been perfected and execution stayed as herein provided, the appeal stays all summary proceedings, pending or otherwise, to recover the possession of real property or dispossess tenants therefrom, based on the failure to pay the rent included in the judgment appealed from. In a case, specified in subdivision two of section 191 of this act, a party aggrieved, upon presenting to the court proof by affidavit that he intends to apply to the appellate division, rendering such decision, for leave to appeal to the court of appeals, and in case such appellate division shall refuse such leave, then that such party intends to apply to a judge of the court of appeals to be allowed to appeal to said court of appeals, and proof that an undertaking, given as prescribed in this chapter, has been filed with the clerk with whom the judgment appealed from is entered, shall be entitled to an order staying all proceedings to enforce such judgment, until the granting or refusal of such leave to appeal by such appellate division or a judge of the court of appeals. The party desiring to make such application must do so at the same term or at the term of said appellate division next succeeding that at which judgment of affirmance was rendered and notice of entry thereof served upon the party aggrieved, and in case said appellate division refuses such application, then such party shall have thirty days, from and after service of a copy of the order of said appellate division denying such application, with notice of entry, in which to apply to a judge of the court of appeals, to be allowed to so appeal.

From Co. Proc., §§ 339, 342. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 4; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1898, c. 292 (in effect April 19, 1898).

§ 1311. [Am'd, 1895, 1899.] Levy upon personal property, when superseded by appeal.

Where an appeal, taken from a final judgment, to the court of appeals, has been perfected, and the security, required to stay the execution of the judgment, has been given; or where the security, given upon an appeal, taken from a final judgment of the supreme court, a county court or the city court of the city of New York, or the municipal court of the city of New York, is equal to that required to perfect an appeal to the court of appeals, and to stay the execution of the judgment; the court, in which the judgment appealed from was rendered, may, in its discretion, and upon such terms as justice requires, make an order, upon notice to the respondent, and the sureties in the undertaking, discharging a levy upon personal property, made by virtue of an execution, issued upon the judgment appealed from. But this section does not authorize the discharge of a levy, made by virtue of a warrant of attachment.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1899, c. 215 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 1312. Court may limit amount of security in certain cases.

Where an appeal is taken, as prescribed in title second or fourth of this chapter, the court, in or from which the appeal is taken; or, where an appeal is taken as prescribed in title third or fifth of this chapter, the court, to which the appeal is taken; may, in its discretion, make an order, upon notice to the respondent, dispensing with or limiting the security, required to stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, as follows:

1. Where the appellant is an executor, administrator, trustee, or other person acting in another's right, the security may be dispensed with or limited, in the discretion of the court.

2. The aggregate sum, in which one or more undertakings are required to be given, may be limited to not less than fifty thousand dollars, where it would otherwise exceed that sum.

See Co. Proc., § 339.

§ 1313. [Am'd, 1889.] No security necessary, on appeal by the people, etc.

Upon an appeal, taken by the people of the State, or by a State officer, or board of State officers, or a board of supervisors of a county, the service of the notice of appeal perfects the appeal, and stays the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, without an undertaking, or other security.

From L. 1858, c. 37, § 2; L. 1861, c. 288. Am'd by L. 1889, c. 501.

§ 1314. [Am'd, 1877.] Id.; on appeal by a domestic municipal corporation.

Upon an appeal, taken by a domestic municipal corporation, the service of the notice of appeal perfects the appeal, and stays the execution of the judgment or order appealed from, without an undertaking, or other security; except that, where an appeal is taken, as prescribed in title second, third or fourth of this chapter, the court, in or from which the appeal is taken, may, in its discretion, require security to be given. In that case, the form, nature, and extent of the security, not exceeding that which is required in a like case, from a natural person, and the time and manner in which it must be given, must be prescribed by the order of the court, and the mayor, comptroller, or counsel to the corporation, may execute, in behalf of the corporation, an undertaking, so required to be given.

§ 1315. [Am'd, 1880.] Papers to be transmitted to appellate court.

Where an appeal is taken from a final judgment, as prescribed in title second or third of this chapter, the appellant must, within twenty days after it is perfected, cause a copy of the judgment-roll and of the case and notice of exceptions, if any, filed after the entry of judgment, and a certified copy of the judgment given thereon and of the notice of appeal, to be transmitted to the appellate court by the clerk upon whom the notice of appeal was served.

Where an appeal from an order, or a part of an order, is taken as prescribed in title second, third, and fifth of this chapter, the appellant must, within the same time, cause a certified copy of the notice of appeal, of the order, and of the papers upon which the order was founded, to be transmitted to the appellate court, by the same clerk. If the appellant fails so to do, the respondent may cause those papers to be so transmitted; and he is entitled to tax the expense thereof, as a disbursement, where he recovers costs. The clerk of the appellate court must file the papers so transmitted; and, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, the appeal must be heard upon them.

From Co. Proc., § 328. Am'd by L. 1890, c. 312.

§ 1316. Interlocutory judgment, or intermediate order, may be reviewed.

An appeal, taken from a final judgment, brings up for review, an interlocutory judgment, or an intermediate order, which is specified in the notice of appeal, and necessarily affects the final judgment; and which has not already been reviewed, upon a separate appeal therefrom, by the court or the term of the court, to which the appeal from the final judgment is taken. The right to review an interlocutory judgment, or an intermediate order, as prescribed in this section, is not affected by the expiration of the time, within which a separate appeal therefrom might have been taken.

Based on Code Proc., § 329.

§ 1317. [Am'd, 1895, 1912.] Judgment or order on appeal.

Upon an appeal from a judgment or an order, the appellate division of the supreme court, or appellate term, to which the appeal is taken, may reverse or affirm, wholly or partly, or may modify, the judgment or order appealed from, and each interlocutory judgment or intermediate order, which it is authorized to review, as specified in the notice of appeal, and as to any or all of the parties. It shall thereupon render judgment of affirmance, judgment of reversal and final judgment upon the right of any or all of the parties, or judgment of modification thereon, according to law, except where it may be necessary or proper to grant a new trial or hearing, when it may grant a new trial or hearing. When a trial has been before a jury, the judgment of the appellate court must be rendered either upon special findings of the jury or the general verdict, or upon a motion to dismiss the complaint or to direct a verdict. A judgment, affirming wholly or partly a judgment, from which an appeal has been taken, shall not, expressly and in terms, award to the respondent, a sum of money, or other relief, which was awarded to him by the judgment so affirmed. After hearing the appeal, the court must give judgment, without regard to technical errors or defects or to exceptions which do not affect the substantial rights of the parties.

§ 1318. When no appeal lies from judgment of reversal.

Where a judgment, from which an appeal is taken, is reversed upon the appeal, and a new trial is granted, an appeal cannot be taken from the judgment of reversal; but upon an appeal from the order granting a new trial, taken, as prescribed by law, the judgment of reversal must also be reviewed.

New.

§ 1319. Mode of enforcing affirmed or modified judgment.

Where a judgment, from which an appeal has been taken, from one court to another, is wholly or partly affirmed, or is modified, upon the appeal, it must be enforced, by the court in which it was rendered, to the extent permitted by the determination of the appellate court, as if the appeal therefrom had not been taken.

New.

§ 1320. Id.; as to order.

Where a final order, from which an appeal has been taken, from one court to another, as prescribed in title fifth of this chapter, is wholly or partly affirmed, or is modified, upon the appeal, the appellate court may enforce its order, or may direct the proceedings to be remitted, for that purpose, to the court below, or to the judge who made the order appealed from.

New.

§ 1321. [Am'd, 1877.] Mode of cancelling docket of reversed or modified judgment.

Where a final judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, has been reversed, or has been affirmed as to part only of the sum, upon an appeal, taken as prescribed in title third or fourth of this chapter; and an appeal to the court of appeals is not taken and perfected, and the security required to stay execution is not given, within ten days after the entry of the judgment upon the appeal, in the clerk's office where the judgment appealed from is entered, the clerk must make a minute of the reversal of the judgment, or of the amount to which it has been reduced, upon his docket-book, in each place, where the judgment is docketed. A transcript of the docket, as thus corrected, must be furnished by him, and may be filed in any county clerk's office, where the original judgment is docketed, as prescribed by law, with respect to the original docket; and thereupon the county clerk must correct his docket accordingly. The lien of a judgment, the docket of which is not corrected, as prescribed in this section, remains unaffected by the reversal or modification thereof, until the decision of the court of appeals, upon an appeal from the judgment reversing or modifying the same, or the expiration of the time to take such an appeal.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1322. Id.; when reversal, etc., was by court of appeals.

Where a final judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, has been reversed, or affirmed as to part only of the sum, upon an appeal to the court of appeals, the docket may be corrected, as prescribed in the last section, at any time after the remittitur has been filed in the court below.

New.

§ 1323. [Am'd, 1877, 1880, 1899.] Restitution; when awarded.

When a final judgment or order is reversed or modified, upon appeal, the appellate court, or the general term of the same court, as the case may be, may make or compel restitution of property, or of a right, lost by means of the erroneous judgment or order; but not so as to affect the title of a purchaser in good faith and for value. When property has been sold, the court may compel the value, or the purchase price, to be restored, or deposited to abide the event of the action, as justice requires. When the appeal is from a judgment in favor of the owner of real estate in an action to set aside a conveyance thereof, or in an action to compel the specific performance of a contract for the sale thereof, such owner shall have the same right to sell or dispose of the same as though no appeal had been taken; unless the appellant shall file with the clerk of the court a written undertaking, in a sum fixed by the court, or a judge thereof, upon a notice to the respondent of at least ten days, and to be approved by such court or judge, to the effect that the appellant will, in case the judgment appealed from shall be affirmed, pay to such owner such damages as he may suffer by reason of such appeal, not exceeding the amount of the penalty in such undertaking. Such undertaking may be filed at any time during the appeal, but any sale of such real estate or contract to sell the same in good faith and for a valuable consideration, after said judgment and before the filing of such undertaking, shall be as valid as if such undertaking had not been filed. In case such undertaking shall not be filed, the respondent shall be entitled, at any time during such appeal, to an order discharging of record any notice of pendency of action filed in the action, and, in an action to compel the specific performance of a contract for the sale of real estate, also canceling and discharging of record said contract, in case the same has been recorded.

See Co. Proc., § 330. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1880, c. 529; L. 1899, c. 850 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 1323a. [Added, 1909.] Remarks or comments of judge, duly excepted to, shall be subject of review.

In case of an appeal, every remark or comment of the presiding judge during the trial, duly excepted to, shall be the subject of review, but the case and exceptions on appeal shall be settled by the trial justice as now provided by law.

From Code Civ. Proc., § 83 pt. Added here by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909). (For remainder of section see Judiciary Law, §§ 14, 24, 295-297, 301.)

TITLE II.

Appeals to the court of appeals.

Sec. 1324. What appeals may be taken.
1325. Limitation of time to appeal.
1326. Security to perfect appeal.
1327. Security to stay execution on judgment, etc., for money.
1328. Id.; on judgment, etc., for delivery of property.
1329. Id.; on judgment for a chattel.
1330. Id.; on judgment, etc., directing conveyance.
1331. Id.; on judgment, etc., for the possession of real property.
1332. Construction of the last five sections.
1333. The last six sections qualified.
1334. Undertakings may be in one instrument; form, and service thereof.
1335. Exceptions to sureties; justification.
1336. Appeal from final judgment rendered after affirmance of interlocutory judgment, or denial of motion for new trial.
1337. What questions are brought up for review.
1338. When reversal presumed not to be on a question of fact.
1339. Preparation of a case for an appeal from a judgment rendered upon a verdict subject to the opinion of the court.

§ 1324. What appeals may be taken.

An appeal may be taken to the court of appeals, in a case where that court has jurisdiction, as prescribed in sections 190 and 191 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 333, first sentence.

§ 1325. [Am'd, 1877, 1895, 1909.] Limitation of time to appeal.

An appeal to the court of appeals must be taken within sixty days after service, upon the attorney for the appellant, of a copy of the judgment or order appealed from, and a written notice of the entry thereof.

See Co. Proc., § 331. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1909, c. 418 (in effect Sept. 1, 1909).

§ 1326. Security to perfect appeal.

To render a notice of appeal, to the court of appeals, effectual, for any purpose, except in a case where it is specially prescribed by law, that security is not necessary, to perfect the appeal, the appellant must give a written undertaking, to the effect, that he will pay all costs and damages, which may be awarded against him on the appeal, not exceeding five hundred dollars. The appeal is perfected, when such an undertaking is given and a copy thereof, with notice of the filing thereof, is served, as prescribed in this title.

From Co. Proc., § 334.

§ 1327. Security to stay execution on judgment, etc., for money.

If the appeal is taken from a judgment for a sum of money, or from a judgment or order, directing the payment of a sum of money, it does not stay the execution of the judgment or order, until the appellant gives a written undertaking, to the effect, that if the judgment or order appealed from, or any part thereof, is affirmed, or the appeal is dismissed, he will pay the sum, recovered or directed to be paid, by the judgment or order, or the part thereof, as to which it is affirmed. But where the judgment or order directs the payment of money in fixed instalments, the undertaking must be to the effect, that the appellant will pay each instalment, which becomes payable, pending the appeal, or the part thereof as to which the judgment or order is affirmed, not exceeding a sum specified in the undertaking, which must be fixed by a judge of the court below. The court below may, at any time afterwards, upon satisfactory proof, by affidavit, that the sum so fixed is insufficient in amount, make an order, requiring the appellant to give a further undertaking, to the same effect, in a sum and within a time, specified in the order. A failure to comply with such an order has the same effect, as if no undertaking had been given, as prescribed in this section.

From Co. Proc., § 335, first sentence.

§ 1328. Id.; on judgment, etc., for delivery of property.

If the appeal is taken from a judgment or order, directing the assignment or delivery of a document, or of personal property, it does not stay the execution of the judgment or order, until the thing directed to be assigned or delivered, is brought into the court below, or placed in the custody of an officer or receiver, designated by that court; or the appellant gives a written undertaking as prescribed in the next section.

From Id., § 336.

§ 1329. Id.; on judgment for a chattel.

If the appeal is taken from a judgment for the recovery of a chattel, it does not stay the execution of the judgment, until the appellant gives a written undertaking, in a sum fixed by the court below, or a judge thereof, to the effect, that the appellant will obey the direction of the appellate court, upon the appeal.

From Id., § 336.

§ 1330. Id.; on judgment, etc. directing conveyance.

If the appeal is taken from a judgment or order, directing the execution of a conveyance, or other instrument, it does not stay the execution of the judgment or order, until the instrument is executed, and deposited with the clerk, with whom the judgment or order is entered, to abide the direction of the appellate court.

From Id., § 337.

§ 1331. [Am'd, 1879, 1897.] Id.; on judgment, etc., for the possession of real property.

If the judgment or order directs the sale or the delivery of the possession of real property, or entitles the respondent to the immediate possession thereof, an appeal does not stay the execution of the judgment or order until the appellant gives a written undertaking to the effect that he will not, while in possession of the property, commit, or suffer to be committed, any waste thereon; and if the property is in his possession or under his control, the undertaking must also provide that if the judgment or order is affirmed or the appeal is dismissed, and there is a deficiency upon a sale, he will pay the value of the use and occupation of such property, or the part thereof as to which the judgment or order is affirmed, from the time of taking the appeal until the delivery of the possession thereof, pursuant to the judgment or order, not exceeding a specified sum fixed by a judge of the court below. If the judgment directs a sale of real property upon the foreclosure of a mortgage, and an appeal is taken by a party against whom payment of a deficiency is awarded by such judgment, the undertaking must also provide that if the judgment is affirmed or the appeal is dismissed, the appellant will pay any deficiency which may occur upon the sale, with interest and costs, and all expenses chargeable against the proceeds of the sale, not exceeding a sum fixed by a judge of the court below.

§ 1332. Construction of the last five sections.

Where the judgment or order, from which an appeal is taken to the court of appeals, affirms a judgment or order, to the effect specified in either of the last five sections, the undertaking must be the same, as if the judgment or order, from which the appeal is so taken, was to the same effect, as the judgment or order so affirmed.

New.

§ 1333. The last six sections qualified.

The last six sections do not extend to a case, where it is specially prescribed by law, that an appeal may be taken, or the execution of a judgment or order appealed from may be stayed, without security, or where the security to be given, for either purpose, is specially regulated by law.

New.

§ 1334. [Am'd, 1879.] Undertakings may be in one instrument; form and service thereof.

Where two or more undertakings are required to be given as prescribed in this title they may be contained in the same instrument, or in different instruments, at the option of the appellant. Each undertaking given as prescribed in this title must be executed by at least two sureties, and must specify the residence of each surety therein. A copy thereof, with a notice showing where it is filed, must be served on the attorney for the adverse party with the notice of appeal or before the expiration of the time of appeal.

From Co. Proc., § 340. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1335. [Am'd, 1882, 1891.] Exceptions to sureties; justification.

It is not necessary that the undertaking should be approved; but the attorney for the respondent may, within ten days after the service of a copy of the undertaking with notice of the filing thereof, serve upon the attorney for the appellant, a written notice that he excepts to the sufficiency of the sureties. Within ten days thereafter, the sureties, or other sureties in a new undertaking to the same effect, must justify before the court below, or a judge thereof, or a referee appointed by the same, or a county judge. At least five days' notice of the justification must be given. A referee may be appointed upon the motion of either party, or upon the court's own motion, to take the justification of such sureties and to report the evidence upon the same to the court or judge with his opinion. The court may further direct that either party shall pay the expenses of such reference. If the court or judge finds the sureties sufficient, he must indorse his allowance of them upon the undertaking, or a copy thereof, and a notice of the allowance must be served upon the attorney for the exceptant. The effect of a failure so to justify and procure an allowance, is the same as if the undertaking had not been given. The court shall also have power, in case it shall be made to appear to its satisfaction, upon motion, that the exception was taken unnecessarily or for purposes of vexation or delay, to set the same aside and approve the undertaking.

§ 1336. [Am'd, 1895.] Appeal from final judgment rendered after affirmance of interlocutory judgment, or denial of motion for new trial.

Where final judgment is rendered in the court below, after the affirmance, upon an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court, of an interlocutory judgment; or after the refusal, by the appellate division, of a new trial, either upon an application, made, in the first instance, at a term thereof, or upon an appeal from an order of the special term, or of the judge before whom the issues, or questions of fact, were tried by a jury; the party aggrieved may appeal directly from the final judgment to the court of appeals, notwithstanding that it was rendered at a special term, or at a trial term, or pursuant to the directions, contained in a referee's report. But such an appeal brings up, for review, only the determination of the appellate division of the supreme court, affirming the interlocutory judgment, or refusing the new trial.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896). See § 1350, post.

§ 1337. [Am'd, 1894, 1895.] What questions are brought up for review.

An appeal to the court of appeals from a final judgment, or from an order granting or refusing a new trial in an action, where the appellant stipulates that upon affirmance judgment absolute shall be rendered against him, brings up for review in that court only questions of law; but where the justices of the appellate division from which an appeal is taken are divided upon the question as to whether there is evidence supporting, or tending to support, a finding or verdict not directed by the court, a question for review is presented. In any action on an appeal to the court of appeals, the court may either modify or affirm the judgment or order appealed from, award a new trial, or grant to either party such judgment as such party may be entitled to.

New. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 668; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1338. [Am'd, 1895, 1913.] When reversal presumed not to be on a question of fact.

Upon an appeal to the court of appeals from a judgment, reversing a judgment entered upon the report of a referee, upon the verdict of a jury or a decision, or a determination in the trial court; or from an order granting a new trial, upon such a reversal; it must be conclusively presumed that the judgment was not reversed, or the new trial granted, upon a question of fact, unless the particular question or questions of fact upon which the reversal was made or the new trial was granted are specified and referred to by number or other adequate designation in the body of the judgment or order appealed from.

§ 1339. [Am'd, 1895.] Preparation of a case for an appeal from a judgment rendered upon a verdict subject to the opinion of the court.

Where an appeal to the court of appeals, from a judgment, rendered by the appellate division of the supreme court, upon a verdict, subject to the opinion of the court, has been perfected, a case, containing a concise statement of the facts, of the questions of law arising thereupon, and of the determination of those questions by the appellate division, must be prepared and settled, by or under the direction of the court below, and annexed to the judgment-roll. An exception is not necessary, to enable the court of appeals to review the determination of a question of law, arising upon the verdict. A certified copy of the case must be transmitted to the court of appeals, instead of the case upon which the judgment of the court below was rendered. The court below, or a judge thereof, may extend the time, limited by law, within which the papers must be transmitted to the court of appeals, for the purpose of enabling the appellant to procure the case to be prepared or settled.

From Co. Proc., §§ 333, 265. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

TITLE III.

Appeal to the supreme court from an inferior court.

Sec. 1340. Appeals from inferior courts.
1341. Limitation of time; security.
1342. Appeal from order.
1343. Limitation of time and stay of proceedings.
1344. Appeal, where and how heard.
1345. Judgment or order, where entered.

§ 1340. [Am'd, 1888, 1895.] Appeals from inferior courts. Except appeals from inferior and local courts heretofore heard in the court of common pleas for the city and county of New York, and the superior court of Buffalo, an appeal may be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, from a final judgment, rendered by a county court, or by any other court of record possessing original jurisdiction, where an appeal therefrom to a court other than the supreme court is not expressly given by statute, and upon such appeal, an order granting or refusing a new trial for any of the causes mentioned in section 999 of this act, made by any of said courts, and questions of fact, may be reviewed in the same manner and to the same extent as questions of fact may be reviewed, upon appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court from a final judgment and order, granting or refusing a new trial, rendered by the same court. Appeals from inferior and local courts heretofore heard in the court of common pleas for the city and county of New York and the superior court of Buffalo, may be taken to the supreme court.

From Co. Proc., § 344. Am'd by L. 1888, c. 507; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1341. [Am'd, 1877, 1890.] Limitation of time; security. An appeal, authorized by the last section, must be taken within thirty days after service, upon the attorney for the appellant, of a copy of the judgment, and written notice of the entry thereof. Security is not required to perfect the appeal; but to stay the execution of the judgment security must be given, and the sureties may be excepted to, and must justify, as upon an appeal to the court of appeals, from a judgment of the same amount, or to the same effect.

§ 1342. [Am'd, 1881, 1895, 1907.] Appeal from order.

An appeal may also be taken as provided by section 1340, from an order affecting a substantial right, made by the court or a judge, in an action brought in, or taken by appeal to, a court specified in said section.

From Co. Proc., § 344. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 135; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1907, c. 579 (in effect July 15, 1907).

§ 1343. [Am'd, 1877.] Limitation of time and stay of proceedings.

An appeal, authorized by the last section, must be taken, within sixty days after service upon the attorney for the appellant, of a copy of the order, and written notice of the entry thereof. Security is not required to perfect it; but it does not stay the execution of the order from which it is taken. The appellate court, or a judge thereof, may direct such a stay, upon such terms, as to security or otherwise, as justice requires.

From Co. Proc., §§ 331, 350; L. 1876, c. 431, § 13. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1344. [Am'd, 1895, 1902, 1904, 1914, 1915.] Appeal, where and how hea Appellate Term of the Supreme Court for the first and second departmen

1. An appeal taken as prescribed in this title, must be heard by t appellate division of the supreme court, except that appeals from ju ments or orders of the municipal court of the city of New York or fr judgments or orders of the city court of the city of New York may heard either by the appellate division of the supreme court or by not l than three justices of the supreme court in each of the first and seco judicial departments, who shall be designated for that purpose by t justices of the appellate division sitting in said departments and who sh be known as the appellate term of the supreme court in the first a second departments, respectively.

2. When an appeal shall have been heard and determined by appellate term constituted as herein provided, the justices thereof o justice of the appellate division in the same department may allow further appeal to be taken from that determination to said appell division.

3. Appeals from inferior courts heretofore heard by the super court of Buffalo shall be heard by the appellate division of the supre court in the fourth judicial department or by such justice or justices the supreme court as may be designated for that purpose by the justi of the appellate division of said department.

4. The provisions of title fourth of this chapter, relating to the heari of appeals taken in the supreme court and to subsequent proceedi thereupon, apply to an appeal taken as prescribed in this title, except specified in the next following section and except as otherwise provic in a statute enacted by the legislature in the year 1915, entitled "An a in relation to the municipal court of the city of New York, and repeali certain statutes affecting such court, its justices and officers."

From Co. Proc., § 346; L. 1870, c. 408, §§ 5, 6, 10. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 9 L. 1902, c. 515; L. 1904, c. 502; L. 1914, c. 349; L. 1915, c. 623 (in effect May 1915).

§ 1345. [Am'd, 1895, 1916.] Judgment or order, where entered.

A judgment or order of the appellate division rendered upon an app authorized by this title must be entered in the office of the clerk of t appellate division in the department in which the court below is locat A certified copy thereof annexed to the papers transmitted from the co below must be transmitted by the clerk, upon payment of his fees, the clerk of the county where the court from which the appeal was tak is situated, and shall constitute the judgment-roll and remain in office. The filing of the judgment-roll or the entry of the order, as p scribed in this section, is a sufficient authority for any proceeding the court below or before the judge or justice who made the order a pealed from which the judgment or order of the appellate court dire or permits. But where the execution of the judgment or order of t appellate court is stayed by an appeal to the court of appeals, the p ceedings in the court below or before the judge or justice, who ma the order, are stayed in like manner. A judgment or order of the supre court, rendered upon an appeal from a judgment of any district co or of the city court of New York, or an appeal heretofore heard by t superior court of Buffalo, must be entered in the office of the clerk of t county wherein the court below is located, and, with the papers tra mitted from the court below, forms the judgment-roll which must filed in the same office. Where the appeal is from the city court of N York, the judgment or order of the supreme court must be entered the office of the clerk of the said court. Where the appeal is from county court, the judgment must be entered by and filed in the off of the clerk of the county wherein the court below is located.

From Co. Proc., § 347. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1916, c. 84 (in effect March 1916).

TITLE IV.

Appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court.

Sec. 1346. Appeal from judgment.
1347. Appeal from order.
1348. Id.; when made out of court; powers of appellate division to grant orders.
1349. Appeal from interlocutory judgment.
1350. Appeal from final judgment, after affirmance of interlocutory judgment, or denial of new trial. Review in the court of appeals.
1351. Limitation of time; order to stay proceedings.
1352. Stay of proceedings without order.
1353. Upon what papers appeal to be heard.
1354. Entry of judgment or order; judgment-roll.
1355. Hearing, etc., in the supreme court.

§ 1346. [Am'd, 1895, 1914.] Appeal from judgment.

An appeal may be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court from a final judgment rendered in the supreme court as follows:

1. Where the judgment was rendered upon a trial by a referee, or by the court without a jury, the appeal may be taken upon questions of law, or upon the facts, or upon both.

2. When the judgment was rendered upon the verdict of a jury, the appeal may be taken upon questions of law, or upon the facts, or upon both.

§ 1347. [Am'd, 1895.] Appeal from order.

An appeal may be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, from an order made prior to the first day of January, 1896, in an action upon notice, at a special term or a trial term of a superior city court, or of the supreme court, or at a term of the circuit court,[1] and from an order made at a special term or trial term of the supreme court, after said day, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the order grants, refuses, continues, or modifies a provisional remedy; or settles, or grants, or refuses an application to resettle a case on appeal or a bill of exceptions.

2. Where it grants or refuses a new trial; except that where specific questions of fact, arising upon the issues, in an action triable by the court, have been tried by a jury, pursuant to an order for that purpose, as prescribed in section 971 of this act, an appeal cannot be taken from an order, granting or refusing a new trial, upon the merits.

3. Where it involves some part of the merits.

4. Where it affects a substantial right.

5. Where, in effect, it determines the action, and prevents a judgment, from which an appeal might be taken.

6. Where it determines a statutory provision of the State to be unconstitutional; and the determination appears from the reasons given for the decision thereupon, or is necessarily implied in the decision.

An order, made upon a summary application, after judgment, is deemed to have been made, in the action, within the meaning of this section.

From Co. Proc., § 349. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

[1] See § 969, foot-note, ante.

§ 1348. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; when made out of court; powers of appellate division to grant orders.

An appeal may also be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, from an order, made in an action, upon notice, by a judge or justice, out of court, in a case where an appeal might have been taken, as prescribed in the last section, if the order had been made, by the court. The appellate division shall have power to vacate or modify, without notice, or upon such notice as it shall deem proper, any order in an action or special proceeding made by a justice of the supreme court or by the court without notice to the adverse party; it may grant a stay of proceedings upon any judgment or order of the supreme court from which an appeal is pending, and may grant any order or provisional remedy which has been applied for without notice to the adverse party, and refused by the supreme court or a justice thereof.

§ 1349. [Am'd, 1893, 1895.] Appeal from interlocutory judgment.

An appeal may also be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, from an interlocutory judgment rendered at a special term or trial term of the supreme court, or entered upon the report of a referee.

From Co. Proc., § 349, subd. 2. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 641; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1350. [Am'd, 1895.] Appeal from final judgment, after affirmance of interlocutory judgment, or denial of new trial. Review in the court of appeals.

Where final judgment is taken, at a special term or trial term, or pursuant to the directions of a referee, after the affirmance, upon an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court of an interlocutory judgment; or after the refusal by the appellate division of a new trial, either upon an application, made, in the first instance, at a term of the appellate division, or upon an appeal from an order of the special term, or of the judge, before whom the issues, or questions of fact, were tried by a jury; an appeal to the appellate division from the final judgment brings up, for review, only the proceedings to take the final judgment, or upon which the final judgment was taken, including the hearing or trial of the other issues in the action, if any. If an appeal is taken, to the court of appeals, from the determination of the appellate division upon the appeal from the final judgment, the determination of the appellate division, affirming the interlocutory judgment or refusing the new trial, may, at the election of either party, be reviewed thereupon. If the respondent elects to bring it up for review, he may take a cross-appeal therefrom, notwithstanding the expiration of the time to take an original appeal therefrom.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1351. [Am'd, 1895, 1903.] Limitation of time; order to stay proceedings.

An appeal, authorized by this title, must be taken, within thirty days after service, upon the attorney for the appellant, of a copy of the judgment or order appealed from, and a written notice of the entry thereof. Security is not required to perfect the appeal; but, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, the appeal does not stay the execution of the judgment or order appealed from; unless the court, in or from which the appeal is taken, or a judge thereof, makes an order, directing such a stay.

Such an order may be made, and may, from time to time, be modified, upon such terms, as to security or otherwise, as justice requires. If security is given, either as a condition of granting the order, or as prescribed in the next section, the provisions of title second of this chapter apply thereto, as if the appellate division of the supreme court was specified in those provisions, in place of the appellate court, and a judge of the same court, in place of a judge of the court below. Execution of a judgment for the recovery of money only shall not be stayed without security for more than thirty days after the service upon the attorney for the appellant of a copy of the judgment and written notice of the entry thereof.

§ 1352. Stay of proceedings without order.

Upon an appeal from a final judgment, taken as prescribed in this title, the appellant may give the security, required to perfect an appeal to the court of appeals, from a judgment of the same amount, or to the same effect; and to stay the execution thereof. In that case, the execution of the judgment appealed from is stayed, as upon an appeal to the court of appeals, and subject to the same conditions.

From Co. Proc., § 348.

§ 1353. [Am'd, 1895.] Upon what papers appeal to be heard.

An appeal from a final judgment, taken as prescribed in this title, must be heard upon a certified copy of the notice of appeal, of the judgment-roll, and of the case or notice of exceptions, if any, filed, as prescribed by law or the general rules of practice, after the entry of the judgment, and either before or after the appeal is taken. An appeal from an interlocutory judgment, or from an order taken as prescribed in this title, must be heard upon a certified copy of the notice of appeal, and of the papers used before the court, judge or justice, upon the hearing of the demurrer, application for judgment, or motion, as the case requires. Unless the appellate division shall in a special case otherwise direct, before an appeal shall be placed upon the calendar, the appellant shall file with the clerk of the appellate division the case and exceptions or the other papers, upon which the appeal shall be heard, printed as required by the rules of practice; in case the appeal is from a judgment the printed case and exceptions must be ordered filed by the justice or referee before whom the case was tried.

§ 1354. [Am'd, 1879.] Entry of judgment or order; judgment-roll.

Where judgment of affirmance is rendered upon the appeal, the judgment-roll consists of a copy of the judgment, annexed to the papers, upon which the appeal was heard. Where subsequent proceedings are taken, at the special term or trial term, before the entry of final judgment, the judgment-roll must also contain the proper papers relating thereto.

New. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1355. [Am'd, 1895.] Hearing, etc., in the supreme court.

An appeal taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, as prescribed in this title, must be heard in the department, embracing the county, in which the judgment or order appealed from is entered; unless an order is made, as prescribed in section 231 of this act, directing that it be heard in another department, or unless appeals pending in one department are transferred for hearing and determination to another, pursuant to article six, section one, of the constitution. The order made upon the appeal must be entered in the office of the clerk of the appellate division, and a certified copy thereof with the original case or papers upon which the appeal was heard, filed as provided in section 1353 must be transmitted by the clerk upon payment of his fees, to the clerk of the county where the judgment or order appealed from was entered, and upon such certified copy of the order and the case or papers upon which the appeal was heard, the county clerk shall enter the judgment in his office.

See Co. Proc., §§ 347, 348. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

TITLE V.

Appeal from a determination in a special proceeding.

Sec. 1856. Appeal from order made in the same court.
1857. Id.; when made by another court or judge.
1858. Preceding order may be reviewed.
1859. Limitation of time to appeal.
1860. Stay of proceedings; hearing of appeal; decision thereupon.
1861. This title qualified. Application of provisions relating to actions.

§ 1856. [Am'd, 1895, 1913.] Appeal from order made in the same court.

An appeal may be taken, to the appellate division of the supreme court, from an order, affecting a substantial right, made in a special proceeding, at a special term or a trial term of the supreme court; or made by a justice thereof, in a special proceeding instituted before him, pursuant to a special statutory provision; or instituted before another judge, and transferred to, or continued before him.

An appeal may also be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court from an order granting or denying an application for an alternative writ of mandamus or an alternative writ of prohibition.

From L. 1854, c. 270, § 1. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1913, c. 572 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 1857. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; when made by another court or judge.

An appeal may also be taken to the appellate division of the supreme court, from an order, affecting a substantial right, made by a court of record, possessing original jurisdiction, or a judge thereof, in a special proceeding instituted in that court, or before a judge thereof, pursuant to a special statutory provision; or instituted before another judge, and transferred to, or continued before, the judge who made the final order. But this section does not apply to a case, where an appeal from the order to a court other than the appellate division of the supreme court, is expressly given by statute.

See Co. Proc., § 344. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1858. [Am'd, 1877.] Preceding order may be reviewed.

An appeal, authorized by this title, brings up for review, any preceding order, made in the course of the special proceeding, involving the merits, and necessarily affecting the final order appealed from, which is specified in the notice of appeal.

From Co. Proc., § 329. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1859. Limitation of time to appeal.

An appeal, authorized by this title, must be taken within thirty days after service of a copy of the final order, from which it is taken, with a written notice of the entry thereof, upon the appellant; or, if he appeared, upon the hearing, by an attorney at law or an attorney in fact, upon the person who so appeared for him.

From Co. Proc., § 332.

§ 1860. Stay of proceedings; hearing of appeal; decision thereupon.

The provisions of title fourth of this chapter, relating to perfecting an appeal from an order, taken as therein prescribed; to staying the execution of the order appealed from; to hearing the appeal; and to the entry and enforcement of the order made upon the appeal, apply, where an appeal is taken, as prescribed in this title except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

New.

§ 1861. This title qualified. Application of provisions relating to actions.

This title does not confer the right to appeal from an order, in a case, where it is specially prescribed by law, that the order cannot be reviewed. The proceedings upon an appeal, taken as prescribed in this title, are governed by the provisions of this act, and of the general rules of practice, relating to an appeal in an action, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

1371. Id.; against executor, etc.
1372. Id.; against the person.
1373. Id.; for delivery of property. How money, recovered by same judgment may be collected.
1374. Separate executions, where separate sums awarded.
1375. Execution of course, within five years.
1376. Execution after death of judgment creditor.
1377. When execution may be issued after five years.
1378. Id.; leave, how obtained.
1379. No execution against decedent, except, etc.
1380. Execution against decedent's property.
1381. Leave, how obtained.
1382. Time of stay by order, etc., not reckoned under this title.
1383. Execution against surviving judgment debtors.
1384. Sale on execution, etc.; when and how conducted.
1385. Penalty for taking down or defacing notice of sale.
1386. Validity of sale, when not affected by sheriff's default, etc.
1387. Purchases on such sales, by certain officers, prohibited.
1388. When execution to be enforced by under-sheriff.

§ 1362. To whom execution directed; provision where sheriff is a party.

An execution must be directed to the sheriff, unless he is a party or interested; in which case it must be directed as prescribed in section 173 of this act. But the court may, in its discretion, order an execution, issued upon a judgment rendered against a sheriff, either alone or with another, to be directed to a person, designated in the order, instead of to the coroners, or a particular coroner; in which case it must be so directed. The person so designated must be of full age, a resident of the State, and not a party to the action, or interested therein. Where the execution is issued upon a judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, the order does not take effect, until the person so designated executes, and files in the clerk's office, a bond to the people, with at least two sureties, approved by a judge of the court, or a county judge, in a penal sum, fixed by the order, not less than twice the sum to be collected by virtue of the execution; conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties under the execution. A certified copy of the order, and, where it requires a bond to be given, the clerk's certificate that a bond has been filed, as required by the order, must be attached to the execution. The person so designated is deemed an officer; and, with respect to that execution, he is subject to the obligations and liabilities, and has the power and authority of a coroner, and is entitled to fees accordingly.

From Co. Proc., § 289; 2 R. S. 364 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), §§ 11, 12.

§ 1363. Time of receipt to be indorsed on execution.

The sheriff, to whom an execution is directed and delivered, must, upon the receipt thereof, indorse thereupon a memorandum of the day, hour, and minute, when he received it.

From 2 R. S. 364, § 10.

§ 1364. The different kinds of execution.

There are four kinds of execution, as follows:

1. Against property.
2. Against the person.
3. For the delivery of the possession of real property, with or without damages for withholding the same.
4. For the delivery of the possession of a chattel, with or without damages for the taking or detention thereof.

An execution is the process of the court, from which it is issued.

From Co. Proc., § 286.

§ 1365. To what counties executions may issue.

An execution against property can be issued only to a county, in the clerk's office of which the judgment is docketed. An execution against the person may be issued to any county. An execution for the delivery of the possession of real property, must be issued to the county, where the property, or a part thereof, is situated. An execution for the delivery of the possession of a chattel, may be issued to any county, where the chattel is found; or to the sheriff of the county where the judgment-roll is filed. Executions, upon the same judgment, may be issued at the same time, to two or more different counties.

See Co. Proc., § 287.

§ 1366. [Am'd, 1914.] General requisites of executions.

An execution must intelligibly describe the judgment, stating the names of the parties in whose favor, and against whom, the time when, and the court in which, the judgment was rendered; and, if it was rendered in the supreme court, the county in which the judgment-roll is filed. It must require the sheriff to return it to the proper clerk, within sixty days after the receipt thereof. Except as otherwise prescribed in the next section, it must be made returnable to the clerk, with whom the judgment-roll is filed. When an execution has been issued against the wages, debts, earnings, salary, income from trust funds or profits due and owing to any judgment debtor, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, it shall be the duty of the sheriff or other officer or person to whom such execution shall be delivered, from time to time, and at least once every six months from the time a levy shall be made thereunder, to account for and pay over, to the person entitled thereto, all moneys collected thereon, less his lawful fees and expenses for collecting the same. This section shall apply to all such executions now issued and outstanding.

From Co. Proc., §§ 289, 290. Am'd by L. 1914, c. 347 (in effect April 15, 1914).

§ 1367. Id.; when issued on filing transcript from justice's court, etc.

Where an execution is issued out of a court, other than that in which the judgment was rendered, upon filing a transcript of the judgment rendered in the latter court, it must also specify the clerk, with whom the transcript is filed, and the time of filing; and it must be made returnable to that clerk. If the judgment was rendered in a justice's court, it must specify the justice's name; and it must omit the specification, respecting the filing of the judgment-roll.

New. See § 3043, post.

§ 1368. Requisites of execution for the collection of money.

An execution, issued upon a judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, must specify, in the body thereof, the sum recovered, or directed to be paid, and the sum actually due when it is issued. It may specify a day, from which interest upon the sum due is to be computed; in which case, the sheriff must collect interest accordingly, until the sum is paid. If all the parties, against whom the judgment is rendered, are not judgment debtors, the execution must show who is the judgment debtor.

From 2 R. S. 364 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 9; L. 1844, c. 324; see Co. Proc., § 289.

§ 1369. Id.; against property.

An execution against property must, if the judgment-roll is not filed in the clerk's office of the county to which it is issued, specify the time when the judgment was docketed in that county. It must, except in a case where special provision is otherwise made by law, substantially require the sheriff to satisfy the judgment, out of the personal property of the judgment debtor; and, if sufficient personal property cannot be found, out of the real property, belonging to him, at the time when the judgment was docketed in the clerk's office of the county, or at any time thereafter.

From Co. Proc., § 289.

§ 1370. Id.; where a warrant of attachment has been levied by sheriff.

Where a warrant of attachment, issued in the action, has been levied by the sheriff, the execution must substantially require the sheriff to satisfy the judgment, as follows:

1. Where the judgment debtor is a non-resident, or a foreign corporation, and the summons was served upon him or it, without the State, or otherwise than personally, pursuant to an order obtained for that purpose, as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act, and the judgment debtor has not appeared in the action; out of the personal property attached, and, if that is insufficient, out of the real property attached.

2. In any other case, out of the personal property attached; and, if that is insufficient, out of the other personal property of the judgment debtor; if both are insufficient, out of the real property attached; and, if that is insufficient, out of the real property, belonging to him, at the time when the judgment was docketed in the clerk's office of the county, or at any time thereafter.

See §§ 707, 708, ante.

§ 1371. Id.; against executor, etc.

An execution against real or personal property, in the hands of an executor, administrator, heir, devisee, legatee, tenant of real property, or trustee, must substantially require the sheriff to satisfy the judgment, out of that property.

From Co. Proc., § 289, subd. 2.

§ 1372. Id.; against the person.

An execution against the person must substantially require the sheriff, to arrest the judgment debtor, and commit him to the jail of the county, until he pays the judgment, or is discharged according to law. Except where it may be issued, without the previous issuing and return of an execution against property, it must recite the issuing and return of such an execution, specifying the county to which it was issued.

From Id., § 289, subd. 3.

§ 1373. Id.; for delivery of property. How money, recovered by same judgment, may be collected.

An execution for the delivery of the possession of real property, or a chattel, must particularly describe the property, and designate the party to whom the judgment awards the possession thereof; and it must substantially require the sheriff, to deliver the possession of the property, within his county, to the party entitled thereto. If a sum of money is awarded by the same judgment, it may be collected, by virtue of the same execution; or a separate execution may be issued for the collection thereof, omitting the direction to deliver possession of the property. If one execution is issued for both purposes, it must contain, with respect to the money to be collected, the same directions as an execution against property, or against the person, as the case requires.

See Co. Proc., § 289, subd. 4.

§ 1374. Separate executions, where separate sums awarded.

Where a judgment awards different sums of money, to or against different parties, a separate execution may be issued, to collect each sum so awarded; subject to the power of the court, to control the enforcement of the executions, upon motion, where the collection of one execution will, wholly or partly, satisfy another.

New.

§ 1375. Execution of course, within five years.

Except as otherwise specially prescribed by law, the party recovering a final judgment, or his assignee, may have execution thereupon, of course, at any time within five years after the entry of the judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 283.

§ 1376. [Am'd, 1877, 1885, 1887.] Execution after death of judgment creditor.

Where the party recovering a final judgment has died, execution may be issued at any time within five years after the entry of the judgment, by his personal representatives, or by the assignee of the judgment, if it has been assigned, and the execution must be indorsed with the name and residence of the person issuing the same. And where a party or one or more of several parties against whom a judgment for the recovery of possession of real property has been obtained has died, an order granting leave to issue and execute such execution or writ of possession may be granted upon giving twenty days' notice to the occupants of the lands so recovered and to the grantees or devisees of said deceased, or if he died intestate, to the heirs at law of said deceased, said notices to be served in the same manner as a summons is directed to be served in an action in the supreme court.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416; L. 1885, c. 515; L. 1887, c. 682.

§ 1377. [Am'd, 1879.] When execution may be issued after five years.

After the lapse of five years from the entry of a final judgment, execution can be issued thereupon, in one of the following cases only:

1. Where an execution was issued thereupon, within five years after the entry of the judgment, and has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied or unexecuted.

2. Where an order is made by the court, granting leave to issue the execution.

From Co. Proc., § 284. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1378. Id.; leave, how obtained.

Notice of an application for an order, granting leave to issue an execution, as prescribed in the last section, must be served personally upon the adverse party, if he is a resident of the State, and personal service can, with reasonable diligence, be made upon him therein; otherwise, notice must be given in such manner as the court directs. Where the judgment is for a sum of money, or directs the payment of a sum of money, leave shall not be granted, except on proof, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the court, that the judgment remains wholly or partly unsatisfied.

From Co. Proc., § 284.

§ 1379. No execution against decedent, except, etc.

An execution to collect a sum of money cannot be issued, against the property of a judgment debtor, who has died since the entry of the judgment except as prescribed in the next two sections.

From 2 R. S. 368 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 27.

§ 1380. [Am'd, 1879, 1885, 1889, 1894, 1916.] Execution against decedent's property.

After the expiration of one year from the death of a party, against whom a final judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money is rendered, the judgment may be enforced by execution against any property upon which it is a lien with like effect as if the judgment debtor was still living. But such an execution shall not be issued, unless an order granting leave to issue it is procured from the court from which the execution is to be issued, and from a surrogate's court of this State, which has duly granted letters testamentary or letters of administration upon the estate of the deceased judgment debtor. Where the lien of the judgment was created as prescribed in section 1251 of this act, neither order can be made until the expiration of eighteen months after letters testamentary or letters of administration have been duly granted upon the estate of the decedent, and for that purpose such a lien existing at the decedent's death continues for two years thereafter, notwithstanding the previous expiration of ten years from the filing of the judgment-roll. But where letters upon the estate of the decedent have not been granted within eighteen months after his death by the surrogate's court of the county in which the decedent resided at the time of his death, or if the decedent resided out of the State at the time of his death, and letters testamentary or letters of administration have not been granted within the same time by t surrogate's court of the county in which the property on which t judgment is a lien is situated, such court may grant the order whe it appears that the decedent did not leave any personal property with the State upon which to administer. In such case the lien of the jud ment existing at the decedent's death continues for two years as afor said. Provided, however, that such judgment lien, existing at the d cedent's death, upon the decedent's real property, or some portic thereof, may be enforced and payment thereof obtained during tl said eighteen months after granting of letters testamentary, or lette of administration, in the manner prescribed by title four of chapt eighteen of this act. But this section shall not apply to real estate whi shall have been conveyed, or hereafter may be conveyed by the deceas judgment debtor during his lifetime, if such conveyance was made fraud of his creditors or any of them, and any judgment creditor of sa deceased, against whose judgment said conveyance shall have been, may hereafter be, declared fraudulent by the judgment and decree any court of competent jurisdiction, may enforce his said judgme against such real property, with like effect as if the judgment debt was living, and it shall not be necessary to obtain the leave of any cou or officer to issue such execution, and the same may be issued at an time to the sheriff of the county where such property is or may be sit ated. The person issuing such execution, however, shall annex there a description of the real estate against which the same is sought to b enforced, as aforesaid, and shall indorse on said execution the wor "issued under section 1380 of the code of civil procedure," whereupc said sheriff shall enforce said execution as therein directed, against th property so described, and not against any other property, either re or personal, and all provisions of law relating to the sale and conveyan of real estate on execution and the redemption thereof shall apply theret

From L. 1850, c. 295. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542; L. 1885, c. 514; L. 1890, c. 51 L. 1894, c. 734; L. 1916, c. 625 (in effect May 20, 1916).

§ 1381. [Am'd, 1889.] Leave, how obtained.

Leave to issue an execution, as prescribed in the last sectio must be procured as follows:

1. Notice of the application, to the court, from which the ex cution is to be issued, for an order, granting leave to issue th execution, must be given to the person or persons, whose interes in the property will be affected by a sale by virtue of the execu tion, and also to the executor or administrator of the judgmen debtor. The general rules of practice may prescribe the manne in which the notice must be given; until provision is so mad therein, it must be served, either personally, or in such manne as the court prescribes, in an order to show cause. Leave sha not be granted, except upon proof, by affidavit, to the satisfactio of the court, that the judgment remains wholly or partly unsati fied.

2. For the purpose of procuring a decree from the surrogate' court, granting leave to issue the execution, the judgment cre itor must present to that court, a written petition, duly verifie setting forth the facts, and praying for such a decree; and tha the persons, specified in the first subdivision of this section, ma be cited, to show cause why it should not be granted. Upo the presentation of such a petition, the surrogate must issue citation accordingly, which said citation may be served in th same manner as is provided in the first subdivision of this section for the service or giving of a notice to the parties or persons therein mentioned, and, if the general rules of practice of the supreme court do not provide for a mode of giving such notice, such citation must be served in such manner as the surrogate by order may prescribe, or as is otherwise provided by law; and, upon the return thereof, he must make such a decree in the premises as justice requires.

New. Am'd by L. 1889, c. 82.

§ 1883. Time of stay by order, etc., not reckoned under this title.

The time during which the person, entitled to enforce a judgment, is stayed from enforcing it, by the provision of a statute, or by an injunction or other order, or in consequence of an appeal, is not a part of the time, limited by this title, for issuing an execution thereupon, or for making an application for leave to issue such an execution.

New.

§ 1883. Execution against surviving judgment debtors.

The last six sections do not affect the right of a judgment creditor to enforce a judgment, against the property of one or more surviving judgment debtors, as if all the judgment debtors were living. In that case, an execution must be issued in the usual form; but the attorney for the judgment creditor must indorse thereupon, a notice to the sheriff, reciting the death of the deceased judgment debtor, and requiring the sheriff not to collect the execution, out of any property which belonged to him.

New.

§ 1884. [Am'd, 1894.] Sale on execution, etc.; when and how conducted.

A sale of real or personal property, by virtue of an execution, or pursuant to the directions contained in a judgment or order, must be made at public auction, between the hour of nine o'clock in the morning and sunset. The sheriff to whom an execution is issued shall at any time before the sale of the personal property levied on by him, on the written request of any person who is a creditor of the person against whom the writ was issued under which the sheriff levied upon the property, exhibit to such creditor the personal property so levied upon under said writ and permit an inspection thereof by such creditor or his agent.

From 2 R. S. 369 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 36. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 739.

§ 1885. Penalty for taking down or defacing notice of sale.

A person who, before the time fixed for the sale, in a notice of the sale of property, to be made by virtue of an execution, wilfully takes down or defaces such a notice put up by the sheriff, or by his authority, forfeits fifty dollars to the judgment creditor, and the same sum to the judgment debtor; unless the notice was defaced or taken down, with the consent of the person seeking to enforce the forfeiture or the execution was previously satisfied.

From 2 R. S. 369, § 39.

§ 1886. Validity of sale, when not affected by sheriff's default, etc.

An omission by the sheriff to give notice, as required by law, or the taking down or defacing of a notice, when put up, does not effect[1] the validity of a sale, made by virtue of an execution, to a purchaser in good faith, without notice of the omission or offence.

From Id., § 40.

§ 1387. Purchases on such sales, by certain officers, prohibited.

The sheriff, to whom an execution is directed, or the under-sheriff or deputy-sheriff, holding an execution, and conducting a sale of property by virtue thereof, shall not, directly or indirectly, purchase any of the property at the sale. A purchase made by him, or to his use, is void.

From Id., § 41.

§ 1388. When execution to be enforced by under-sheriff.

Where the sheriff, to whom an execution is delivered, dies, is removed from office, or becomes otherwise disqualified to act, before the execution is returned, his under-sheriff must proceed upon the execution, as the sheriff might have done. If there is no under-sheriff, the court, from which the execution issued, may designate a person to proceed thereupon; who may complete the same, as an under-sheriff might have done. The person so designated must give such security as the court directs. He is deemed an officer; and is subject to the same obligations and liabilities, and has the same power and authority, in relation to the object of his appointment, as a sheriff, and is entitled to fees accordingly. But this section does not apply, in a case where special provision is otherwise made by law for the enforcement of an execution, after the death, removal from office, or other disqualification, of the sheriff, or under-sheriff.

From 2 R. S. 374 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), §§ 65, 66.

TITLE II.

Execution against property.

Article 1. Property exempt from levy and sale.
2. Lien of an execution upon personal property; levy upon and sale of personal property. Rights of indemnitors of sheriff.
3. Sale, redemption, and conveyance of real property; rights and liabilities of persons interested.
4. Remedies for failure of title to real property sold, and to enforce contribution.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Property exempt from levy and sale.

Sec. 1389. Certain special exemptions not affected by this article.
1390. What personal property is exempt, when owned by a householder.
1391. Additional personal property exempt in certain cases.
1392. Woman entitled to same exemption as a householder.
1393. Military pay, rewards, etc., exempt from execution and other legal proceedings.
1394 Right of action for taking, etc., exempt property.
1395. Burying ground; when exempted.
1396. How exempt burying ground designated.
1397. Homestead; when exempted.
1398. How exempt homestead designated.
1399. Married woman's homestead; when exempted.
1400. When exemption to continue after owner's death.
1401. Exemption; when not affected by temporary suspension of residence.
1402. If value of homestead exceeds $1,000, lien attaches to surplus.
1403. Id.; how proceeds to be marshalled when property is sold.
1404. Exemption of real property; how cancelled.
1404a. Exemption of exhibits at exhibitions.

§ 1389. Certain special exemptions not affected by this article.

The enumeration, in this article, of the property which is exempt from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, does not repeal any special provision of law, relating to such an exemption, which, by its terms, is applicable only to a particular class of persons, or corporations, or to a particular locality, or otherwise to a special case.

Designed to guard against a repeal by implication of provisions like L. 1847, c. 133, § 10; L. 1851, c. 122, § 19; L. 1866, c. 273, § 6; L. 1867, c. 516; and various similar statutes.

§ 1390. [Am'd, 1891.] What personal property is exempt, when owned by a householder.

The following personal property, when owned by a householder, is exempt from levy and sale by virtue of an execution; and each movable article thereof continues to be so exempt, while the family, or any of them, are removing from one residence to another:

1. All spinning wheels, weaving looms, and stoves, put up, or kept for use, in a dwelling house; and one sewing-machine, with its appurtenances.

2. The family bible, family pictures, and school-books, used by or in the family; and other books, not exceeding in value fifty dollars, kept and used as part of the family library.

3. A seat or pew, occupied by the judgment debtor, or the family, in a place of public worship.

4. Ten sheep, with their fleeces, and the yarn or cloth manufactured therefrom; one cow; two swine; the necessary food for those animals; all necessary meat, fish, flour, groceries and vegetables, actually provided for family use; and necessary fuel, oil, and candles, for the use of the family for sixty days.

5. All wearing apparel, beds, bedsteads, and bedding, necessary for the judgment debtor and the family; all necessary cooking utensils; one table; six chairs; six knives; six forks; six spoons; six plates; six tea cups; six saucers; one sugar dish; one milk pot; one tea pot; one crane and its appendages; one pair of andirons; one coal scuttle; one shovel; one pair of tongs; one lamp, and one candlestick.

6. The tools and implements of a mechanic, necessary to the carrying on of his trade, not exceeding in value twenty-five dollars.

From 2 R. S. 367 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 22; L. 1860, c. 152. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 112.

§ 1391. [Am'd, 1879, 1901, 1903, 1905, 1908, 1911, 1914.] Additional personal property exempt in certain cases.

In addition to the exemptions, allowed by the last section, necessary household furniture, working tools and team, professional instruments, furniture and library, not exceeding in value two hundred and fifty dollars, together with the necessary food for the team, for ninety days, are exempt from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, when owned by a person, being a householder, or having a family for which he provides, except where the execution is issued upon a judgment, recovered wholly upon one or more demands, either for work performed in the family, as a domestic or for the purchase money of one or more articles, exempt as prescribed in this or the last section. Where a judgment has been recovered and where an execution issued upon said judgment has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, and where any wages, debts, earnings, salary, income from trust funds or profits are due and owing to the judgment debtor or shall thereafter become due and owing to him, to the amount of twelve dollars or more per week, the judgment creditor may apply to the court in which said judgment was recovered or the court having jurisdiction of the same without notice to the judgment debtor and upon satisfactory proof of such facts by affidavits or otherwise, the court, if a court not of record, a judge or justice thereof, must issue, or if a court of record, a judge or justice, must grant an order directing that an execution issue against the wages, debts, earnings, salary, income from trust funds or profits of said judgment debtor, and on presentation of such execution by the officer to whom delivered for collection to the person or persons from whom such wages, debts, earnings salary, income from trust funds or profits are due and owing, or may thereafter become due and owing to the judgment debtor, said execution shall become a lien and a continuing levy upon the wages, earnings, debts, salary, income from trust funds or profits due or to become due to said judgment debtor to the amount specified therein which shall not exceed ten per centum thereof, and said levy shall be a continuing levy until said execution and the expenses thereof are fully satisfied and paid or until modified as hereinafter provided, but only one execution against the wages, debts, earnings, salary, income from trust funds or profits of said judgment debtor shall be satisfied at one time and where more than one execution has been issued or shall be issued pursuant to the provisions of this section against the same judgment debtor, they shall be satisfied in the order of priority in which such executions are presented to the person or persons from whom such wages, debts, earnings, salary, income from trust funds or profits are due and owing. It shall be the duty of any person or corporation, municipal or otherwise, to whom said execution shall be presented, and who shall at such time be indebted to the judgment debtor named in such execution, or who shall become indebted to such judgment debtor in the future, and while said execution shall remain a lien upon said indebtedness to pay over to the officer presenting the same, such amount of such indebtedness as such execution shall prescribe until said execution shall be wholly satisfied and such payment shall be a bar to any action therefor by any such judgment debtor.[1] If such person or corporation, municipal or otherwise, to whom said execution shall be presented shall fail, or refuse to pay over to said officer presenting said execution, the percentage of said indebtedness, he shall be liable to an action therefor by the judgment creditor named in such execution, and the amount so recovered by such judgment creditor shall be applied towards the payment of said execution. Either party may apply at any time to the court from which such execution shall issue, or to any judge or justice issuing the same, or to the county judge of the county, and in any county where there is no county judge, to any justice of the city court upon such notice to the other party as such court, judge, or justice shall direct for a modification of said execution, and upon such hearing the said court, judge or justice may make such modification of said execution as shall be deemed just, and such execution as so modified shall continue in full force and effect until fully paid and satisfied, or until further modified as herein provided. This section, so far as it relates to wages and salary, due and owing or to become due and owing to the judgment debtor, shall not apply to judgments recovered more than ten years prior to September 1, 1908, nor to judgments heretofore or hereafter recovered upon such judgments, and any execution heretofore issued upon such judgments pursuant to an order heretofore granted under this section shall, when this act takes effect, cease to be a lien and continuing levy upon wages and salary thereafter to become due and owing to the judgment debtor.

§ 1392. [Am'd, 1877.] Woman entitled to same exemption as a householder.

Where the judgment debtor is a woman, she is entitled to the same exemptions, from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, subject to the same exceptions, as prescribed in the last two sections, in the case of a householder.

New. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1393. [Am'd, 1895, 1897.] Military pay, rewards, etc., exempt from execution and other legal proceedings.

The pay and bounty of a non-commissioned officer, musician or private in the military or naval service of the United States or the state of New York; a land warrant, pension or other reward heretofore or hereafter granted by the United States, or by a state, for military or naval services; a sword, horse, medal, emblem or device of any kind presented as a testimonial for services rendered in the military or naval service of the United States or a state; and the uniform, arms and equipments which were used by a § 1394. Right of action for taking, etc., exempt property.

A right of action to recover damages, or damages awarded by a judgment, for taking or injuring personal property, exempt by law from levy and sale, by virtue of an execution, are exempt, for one year after the collection thereof, from levy and sale, by virtue of an execution, and from seizure in any other legal proceeding.

New.

§ 1395. Burying ground; when exempted.

Land, set apart as a family or private burying ground, and heretofore designated, as prescribed by law, in order to exempt the same, or hereafter designated for that purpose, as prescribed in the next section, is exempt from sale, by virtue of an execution, upon the following conditions only:

1. A portion of it must have been actually used for that purpose.
2. It must not exceed in extent one-fourth of an acre.
3. It must not contain, at the time of its designation, or at any time afterwards, any building or structure, except one or more vaults, or other places of deposit for the dead, or mortuary monuments.

From L. 1847, c. 85, §§ 1, 2.

§ 1396. How exempt burying ground designated.

In order to designate land, to be exempted as prescribed in the last section, a notice, containing a full description of the land to be exempted, and stating that it has been set apart for a family or private burying ground, must be subscribed by the owner; acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county where the land is situated; and recorded in the office of the clerk or register of that county, in the proper book for recording deeds, at least three days before the sale of the land, by virtue of the execution.

From Id., § 2.

§ 1397. [Am'd, 1883.] Homestead; when exempted.

A lot of land, with one or more buildings thereon, not exceeding in value one thousand dollars, owned, and occupied as a residence, by a householder having a family, and heretofore designated as an exempt homestead, as prescribed by law, or hereafter designated for that purpose, as prescribed in the next section, is exempt from sale, by virtue of an execution, issued upon a judgment, recovered for a debt contracted after the thirtieth day of April, 1850; unless the judgment was recovered wholly for a debt or debts, contracted before the designation of the property, or for the purchase-money thereof. But no property heretofore or after designated as an exempt homestead, as prescribed by law, y the next section, shall be exempt from taxation, or from sale ıon-payment of taxes or assessments.

1398. [Am'd, 1877.] How exempt homestead designated.

order to designate property, to be exempted as prescribed in ast section, a conveyance thereof, stating, in substance, that it signated to be held as a homestead, exempt from sale by virtue n execution, must be recorded, as prescribed by law; or a e, containing a full description of the property and stating it is designed to be so held, must be subscribed by the owner, owledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to ecorded in the county where the property is situated; and must ecorded in the office of the clerk of that county, in a book kept that purpose, and styled the "homestead exemption book."

m L. 1850, c. 260, § 2. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

1399. Married woman's homestead; when exempted.

lot of land, with one or more buildings thereon, owned by a ried woman, and occupied by her as a residence, may be desig- d as her exempt homestead, as prescribed in the last section; the property so designated is exempt from sale, by virtue of execution, under the same circumstances, and subject to the exceptions, as the homestead of a householder, having a ly.

r.

1400. When exemption to continue after owner's death.

ıe exemption, prescribed by the last three sections, continues, the death of the person in whose favor the property was ıpted, as follows:

If the decedent was a woman, it continues, for the benefit ıer surviving children, until the majority of the youngest iving child.

If the decedent was a man, it continues, for the benefit of widow and surviving children, until the majority of the gest surviving child, and until the death of the widow.

ıt the exemption ceases earlier, if the property ceases to be pied, as a residence, by a person for whose benefit it may so nue, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

m L. 1850, c. 260, § 1.

1401. Exemptions; when not affected by temporary suspen- of residence.

ıe right to exemption, of a person entitled thereto, as pre- ed in the last four sections, is not affected by a suspension ıe occupation of the exempt property, as a residence, for a d not exceeding one year, which occurs in consequence of y to, or destruction of, the dwelling house upon the premises.

1402. If value of homestead exceeds $1,000, lien attaches to lus.

e exemption of a homestead, otherwise valid under the pro- ns of this article, is not void, because the value of the prop- designated as exempt, exceeds one thousand dollars. In case, the lien of a judgment attaches to the surplus, as if the property had not been designated as an exempt homestead; but the property cannot be sold by virtue of an execution, issued upon a judgment, as against which it is exempt. After the return of such an execution, the owner of the judgment may maintain a judgment creditor's action, to procure a judgment, directing a sale of the property, and enforcing his lien upon the surplus.

New.

§ 1403. Id.; how proceeds to be marshalled when property is sold.

Where the judgment, in a judgment creditor's action, brought as prescribed in the last section, or in any other action affecting the title to an exempt homestead, directs the sale of the property, the court must so marshal the proceeds of the sale, that the right and interest of each person in the proceeds, shall correspond, as nearly as may be, to his right and interest in the property sold. Money not exceeding one thousand dollars, paid to a judgment debtor, as representing his interest in the proceeds, is exempt for one year after the payment, as the property sold was exempt; unless, before the expiration of the year, he causes real property to be designated as an exempt homestead, as prescribed in section 1398 of this act; in which case, the exemption ceases, with respect to so much of the money, as was not expended for the purchase of that property; and the exemption of the property so designated extends to every debt, against which the property sold was exempt. Where the exemption of property, sold as prescribed in this section, has been continued after the judgment debtor's death, or where he dies after the sale, and before payment to him of his proportion of the proceeds of the sale, the court may direct that portion of the proceeds, which represents his interest, to be invested, for the benefit of the person or persons, entitled to the benefit of the exemption; or to be otherwise disposed of, as justice requires.

See L. 1850, c. 260, §§ 1, 3, 4, 5, 6.

§ 1404. [Am'd, 1894.] Exemption of real property; how cancelled.

The owner of real property, exempt as prescribed in this article, may, at any time, subscribe a notice, and personally acknowledge the execution thereof, before an officer authorized by law to take the acknowledgment of a deed, to the effect that he cancels all exemptions from levy or sale by virtue of an execution affecting the property, or a particular part thereof, fully described in the notice. The cancellation takes effect when such a notice is recorded, as prescribed in this article for recording a notice to effect the exemption so canceled. Any other release or waiver, hereafter executed, of an exemption of real property, allowed by this article, or of an exemption of a homestead, or a private or family burying-ground, allowed by the provisions of law heretofore in force, is void; provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent the husband and wife from jointly conveying or mortgaging property so exempt.

Id. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 202.

§ 1404a. [Added, 1909.] Exemption of exhibits at exhibitions.

No process of attachment, execution, sequestration, replevin, distress or any kind of seizure shall be served or levied upon articles, goods, wares, merchandise or property of any description while the same is en route to or from, or while on exhibition or deposited by exhibitors at any international exhibition held under the auspices or supervision of the United States, within any city or county of this state, nor shall such property be subject to attachment, seizure, levy or sale, for any cause whatever, in the hands of the authorities of such exhibition or otherwise.

From L. 1880, c. 393, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

1414. Undertaking to be given.
1415. Provision, where a warrant of attachment has also been levied, etc.
1416. When the undertaking enures to other judgment creditors.
1417. How partner's interest sold; rights, etc., of purchaser.
1418. Claim of property by a third person, how tried.
1419. Proceedings, if claimant succeeds.
1420. Inquisition not to prejudice claimant's right.
1421. In action against officer, indemnitors may be substituted as defendants.
1422. Notice of application and proofs thereupon.
1423. Terms may be imposed.
1424. When indemnity related to part of property.
1425. Application when officer is joined with indemnitors.

1427. Officer to whom indemnity is given, required to give notice of action.
1428. Sale of personal property; how made.
1429. Notices of sale to be posted.

§ 1405. Personal property bound by execution.

The goods and chattels of a judgment debtor, not exempt, by express provision of law, from levy and sale by virtue of an execution, and his other personal property, which is expressly declared by law, to be subject to levy by virtue of an execution, are, when situated within the jurisdiction of the officer, to whom an execution against property is delivered, bound by the execution, from the time of the delivery thereof to the proper officer, to be executed; but not before.

From 2 R. S. 365, (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 13.

§ 1406. Order of preference among executions.

Where two or more executions against property are issued, out of the same or different courts of record, against the same judgment debtor, the one first delivered, to an officer, to be executed, has preference, notwithstanding that a levy is first made, by virtue of an execution subsequently delivered; but if a levy upon and sale of personal property has been made, by virtue of the junior execution, before an actual levy, by virtue of the senior execution, the same property shall not be levied upon or sold, by virtue of the letter.[1]

From Id., § 14.

§ 1407. Id.; when attachments also are issued.

Where there are one or more executions, and one or more warrants of attachment, against the property of the same person, the rule prescribed in the last section prevails, in determining the preferences of the executions or warrants of attachment;

[1] Error in engrossing for "latter."

the defendant in the warrants of attachment being, for that purpose, regarded as a judgment debtor.

From Id., § 15.

§ 1408. Id.; when issued from court not of record.

But an execution, issued out of a court not of record, or a warrant of attachment, granted in an action pending in a court not of record, if actually levied, has preference over another execution, issued out of any court, of record or not of record, which has not been previously levied.

From Id., § 16.

§ 1409. Title of bona fide purchasers before levy, not affected.

The title to personal property, acquired before the actual levy of an execution, by a purchaser in good faith, and without notice that the execution has been issued, is not affected by an execution delivered, before the purchase was made, to an officer, to be executed.

From Id., § 17.

§ 1410. [Am'd, 1877.] Execution may be levied upon current money.

The officer, to whom an execution against property is delivered, must levy upon current money of the United States, belonging to the judgment debtor; and must pay it over, as so much money collected, without exposing it for sale; except that where it consists of gold coin, he must sell it, like other personal property; unless he is otherwise directed, by an order of a judge, or by the judgment in the particular cause.

See 2 R. S. 366, § 18. Am'd by L. 1877, c. 416.

§ 1411. [Am'd, 1877.] Levy upon certain evidences of debt.

The officer, to whom an execution against property is delivered, must levy upon and sell, a bill, or other evidence of debt, belonging to the judgment debtor, which was issued by a moneyed corporation to circulate as money, or a bond, or other instrument for the payment of money, belonging to the judgment debtor, which was executed and issued, by a government, state, county, public officer, or municipal or other corporation, and is in terms negotiable, or payable to the bearer or holder.

§ 1412. Interest of bailor in goods pledged may be sold.

The interest of the judgment debtor in personal property, subject to levy, lawfully pledged, for the payment of money, or the performance of a contract or agreement, may be sold, in the hands of the pledgee, by virtue of an execution against property. The purchaser at the sale acquires all the right and interest of the judgment debtor, and is entitled to the possession of the property, on complying with the terms and conditions upon which the judgment debtor could obtain possession thereof. This section does not apply to property, of which the judgment debtor is unconditionally entitled to the possession.

From 2 R. S. 366, § 20.

§ 1413. When partners may apply for release of property levied upon.

Where an officer has seized personal property of a partnership, before or after its dissolution, upon a levy upon the interest therein of a partner, made by virtue of an execution against his individual property, the other partners, or former partners, having an interest in the property, or any of them, may, at any time before the sale, apply to a judge of the court, or to the county judge of the county, where the seizure was made, upon an affidavit, showing the facts, for an order, directing the officer to release the property, and to deliver it to the applicant.

New. See §§ 693-695, ante.

§ 1414. Undertaking to be given.

Upon such an application, the applicant must give an undertaking, with at least two sureties, approved by the judge, to the effect, that he will account to the purchaser, upon the sale to be made by virtue of the execution, of the interest of the judgment debtor in the property seized, in like manner as he would be bound to account to an assignee of such an interest; and that he will pay to the purchaser the balance, which may be found due upon the accounting, not exceeding a sum, specified in the undertaking, which must be not less than the value of the interest of the judgment debtor, in the property seized by the sheriff, as fixed by the judge. The provisions of sections 695 and 696 of this act apply to the proceedings, taken as prescribed in this and the last section.

New. See § 694, ante.

§ 1415. Provision, where a warrant of attachment has also been levied, etc.

Where a warrant of attachment has been levied upon the interest of a defendant, as a partner, in personal property of a partnership, and the attachment has been discharged as to that interest, as prescribed in sections 693 and 694 of this act, a levy, by virtue of an execution against his individual property, cannot be made upon his interest in the same property, unless the warrant of attachment has been vacated or annulled.

New.

§ 1416. When the undertaking enures to other judgment creditors.

Where personal property of a partnership has been released, upon giving an undertaking, as prescribed in the last three sections, if the execution, by virtue of which the levy was made, is set aside, or is satisfied without a sale of the interest levied upon, the undertaking enures to the benefit of each judgment creditor of the same judgment debtor, then having an execution in the hands of the same officer, or of another officer, having authority to levy upon that interest, as if it had been given to obtain a release from a seizure, made by virtue of such an execution.

New.

§ 1417. How partner's interest sold; rights, etc., of purchaser.

Where personal property of a partnership has been so released, the interest of the judgment debtor therein may be sold by the officer; and the purchaser, upon the sale, acquires all that interest, as if he was an assignee thereof. If the purchase-money exceeds the amount of all the executions and warrants of attachment, against the property of the same judgment debtor, of which the officer has notice, and of the lawful fees and charges thereon, the officer must pay the surplus into court, for the benefit of the judgment debtor, or other person entitled thereto.

New.

§ 1418. [Am'd, 1904.] Claim of property by a third person, how tried.

If personal property, levied upon as the property of the judgment debtor, is claimed by or in behalf of another person, as his property, an affidavit may be made and delivered to the sheriff, in behalf of such person, at any time while such property or the proceeds thereof are in the sheriff's possession, stating that he makes such a claim; specifying in whole or in part the property to which it relates, and in all cases stating the value of the property claimed and the damages, if any, over and above such value, which the claimant will suffer in case such levy is not released. In that case, the officer may, in his discretion, empanel a jury to try the validity of the claim.

New. See § 657, ante. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 541 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 1419. [Am'd, 1877, 1888, 1895, 1904.] Proceedings, if claimant succeeds.

If by their inquisition the jurors find that the property belongs to the claimant, they must also determine its value and the damages above such value as specified in the last section. Thereupon the officer may relinquish the levy, unless the judgment creditor gives him an undertaking with at least two sufficient sureties, to the effect that the sureties will indemnify him to an amount therein specified, not less than twice the value of the property and damages as determined by the jury, and two hundred and fifty dollars in addition thereto, against all damages, costs and expenses, in an action to be brought against him by any person, by the claimant, his assignee, or other representative, by reason of the levy upon, detention or sale of any of the property, by virtue of the execution. If the undertaking is given, the officer must detain the property as belonging to the judgment debtor. Where an undertaking is given to indemnify an officer, he must, within two days after the giving of the said undertaking, cause the same to be filed in the office of the clerk of the court out of which the execution was issued, and serve upon the claimant, his assignee or other representative, and the judgment creditor, or the attorney whose name is subscribed to the execution, a copy of the said undertaking, with a notice of the justification of the sureties thereon. The justification must take place before a judge of the court out of which the execution was issued, at a time to be specified in the notice, which must not be less than two nor more than five days after service of said notice. For the purpose of justification, each of the sureties upon the undertaking must attend before the judge, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and be examined on oath, on the part of the claimant, his assignee or other representative, touching his sufficiency in such manner as the judge in his discretion thinks proper. The examination may be adjourned from day to day, until it is completed, but such adjournment must always be to the next judicial day. If required by the claimant, his assignee or other representative, the examination must be reduced to writing and subscribed by the sureties. If the judge finds the sureties sufficient, he must annex the examination to the undertaking, endorse his allowance thereon, and cause the said undertaking, together with the examination of the sureties, to be filed with the clerk of the court. Thereupon the sheriff is released and discharged from all liability by reason of the levy upon, detention, and sale of the property seized. When any such undertaking shall have been approved and filed, as hereinbefore provided, the clerk of the court shall immediately upon the same being filed, index the same in the index book in his office, under which executions are indexed, under the title of the suit in which the execution is issued.

§ 1420. Inquisition not to prejudice claimant's right.

If the property is found to belong to the defendant, the finding does not prejudice the right of the claimant, to bring an action to recover the property so levied upon, or damages by reason of the levy, detention, or sale.

New. See § 659, ante.

§ 1421. [Am'd, 1887, 1900.] In action against officer, indemnitors may be substituted as defendants.

Where an action to recover a chattel or chattels, hereafter levied upon by virtue of an execution, or several executions, or a warrant of attachment, or several warrants of attachment, or to recover damages by reason of a levy or levies upon, detention, sale or sales of personal property, hereafter made, by virtue of an execution or several executions, or a warrant of attachment, or several warrants of attachment, is brought against an officer, or against a person who acted by his command or in his aid, if a bond or bonds or written undertaking or undertakings indemnifying the officer against the levy or levies, or other act or acts, has been given in behalf of the judgment creditor or the several judgment creditors, or the plaintiff in the warrant or the plaintiffs in the several warrants, either before or after the commencement of the action, the persons or person or the several persons who gave it to them, or the survivors, if one or more are dead, may apply to the court for an order to substitute the applicant or several applicants as defendants in the action, in place of the officer or of the person so acting by his command or in his aid; and the court may, upon application of the officer, or in case of his death, upon the application of his legal representatives, grant an order substituting the indemnitors as defendants in the action, in place of the officer or of the person so acting by his command or in his aid.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452; L. 1900, c. 115 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 1422. [Am'd, 1887.] Notice of application and proofs thereupon.

Where the application is made by the officer, notice of the application must be given to the indemnitors or their attorney, and also to the attorney for the plaintiff. If the pleadings do not sufficiently show that the case is one where the order may be granted, the facts with respect thereto must be shown by affidavit or other competent proof. Where the application is made by the indemnitors, or one of them, the motion papers must contain a written consent to be made defendant in the action executed by each person who executed the instrument or instruments of indemnity, unless proof by affidavit is furnished that those who do not consent are dead. Each consent must be acknowledged or proved and certified in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county, and notice of the application must be given to the attorney of each party to the action, and if the defendant has not appeared, notice must be given to him personally.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452.

§ 1423. [Am'd, 1887.] Terms may be imposed.

Upon granting the order the court may, in its discretion, require the indemnitors to furnish additional security to the plaintiff and to pay the reasonable expenses of the defendant, necessarily incurred before the order is granted, or it may impose such other terms for the security of either of the original parties as justice requires.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452.

§ 1424. [Am'd, 1887.] When indemnity related to part of property.

If the indemnity given related to a part only of the property, the court may, in a proper case, direct that the action be divided into two actions, that the indemnitors be substituted as defendants in one without affecting the other, and that the controversy in each action be limited to that part of the property in respect to which it is to be continued. Where such an order is made, a similar application may be subsequently made in the action which proceeds against the original defendant.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452.

§ 1425. [Am'd, 1887.] Application when officer is joined with indemnitors.

If the officer, or person acting by his command, or in his aid, is joined as a defendant, with all the indemnitors, he may apply for an order to strike out his name as a defendant. If he is joined as a defendant with one or more, but not all of them, he may apply for an order substituting those who are not joined with him as defendants in his place. In either case, the application is made in the same manner, and is subject to the same provisions, as if made as prescribed in section 1421 of this act.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452.

§ 1426. Effect of the order.

An order, made as prescribed in the last five sections, does not affect the merits of the cause of action, or of the defense, except so far as it limits the controversy to particular property. But if the substituted or remaining defendants recover judgment, they are entitled to single costs only. If the action is discontinued, or the complaint dismissed, a new action may be brought, as if the former action had not been brought.

New.

§ 1427. [Am'd, 1887.] Officer to whom indemnity is given, required to give notice of action.

Where an action is brought in a case where one or more persons are entitled to make an application for an order of substitution, or where one or more persons are liable to be substituted as defendants, as prescribed in section 1421 of this act, the officer to whom the instrument or instruments of indemnity was given cannot maintain an action thereupon against a person entitled to make, but who has not made, such an application, or who is liable to be, but has not been, substituted as a defendant, unless notice of the commencement of the action against the officer, or the person acting by his command or in his aid, is given before the trial thereof, or at least ten days before judgment by default is taken therein, either to attorney or several attorneys whose name is, or several names are, subscribed to the execution or several executions, or warrants of attachment or several warrants of attachment, or personally to the judgment creditor or creditors, or the plaintiff or several plaintiffs in the action in which the warrant of attachment was, or several warrants of attachment were, issued, or to one of the persons who executed the instrument or instruments of indemnity.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 452.

§ 1428. Sale of personal property; how made.

Personal property must be offered for sale, in such lots and parcels, as are calculated to bring the highest price. Except where the officer is expressly authorized, by this article, to sell property not in his possession, personal property shall not be offered for sale, unless it is present, and within the view of those attending the sale.

From 2 R. S. 367 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 23.

§ 1429. [Am'd. 1907.] Notices to be posted.

At least six days' previous notice of the time and place of a sale of personal property, by virtue of an execution, must be given, by posting conspicuously written or printed notices thereof, in at least three public places of the town or city, where the sale is made. Where perishable property has been levied upon by virtue of an execution the court may, upon the application of the officer making the levy, by order, direct the sale thereof at such a time and upon such a notice as it deems proper; and, thereupon, the property must be sold accordingly.

From Id., § 21. Am'd by L. 1907, c. 244 (in effect Sept. 1, 1907).

1474. Assignment must be acknowledged and filed.
1475. Under-sheriff or successor to act, if sheriff dies.
1476. Money may be paid, etc., to under-sheriff, or deputy-sheriff, who sold property.
1477. Application of this article to sale by coroner, or person specially appointed, etc.
1478. Id.; where coroner or person appointed dies, etc.

§ 1430. To what leasehold property this article applies. The expression, "real property", as used in this and the succeeding article, includes leasehold property, where the lessee or his assignee is possessed, at the time of the sale, of at least five years' unexpired term of the lease, and also of the building or buildings, if any, erected thereupon.

From L. 1887, c. 462, § 1.

§ 1431. Real property held in trust, when liable to execution. Real property, held by one person, in trust or for the use of another, is liable to levy and sale by virtue of an execution, issued upon a judgment recovered against the person, to whose use it is so held, in a case where it is prescribed by law, that, by reason of the invalidity of the trust, an estate vests in the beneficiary; but special provision is not otherwise made by law, for the mode of subjecting it to his debts.

From 2 R. S. 368 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 26.

§ 1432. Equity of redemption; when not to be sold.

The judgment debtor's equity of redemption, in real property mortgaged, shall not be sold by virtue of an execution, issued upon a judgment recovered for the mortgage debt, or any part thereof.

From Id., § 31.

§ 1433. Direction to be indorsed on execution.

Where an execution against property is issued upon a judgment, specified in the last section, to the county where the mortgaged property is situated, the attorney, or other person who subscribes it, must indorse thereupon a direction to the sheriff, not to levy it upon the mortgaged property, or any part thereof. The direction must briefly describe the mortgaged property, and refer to the book and page, where the mortgage is recorded. If the execution is not collected out of the other property of the judgment debtor, the sheriff must return it wholly or partly unsatisfied, as the case requires.

From Id., §§ 32, 33.

§ 1434. [Am'd, 1896.] Notice of sale of real property; how given.

The sheriff who sells real property, by virtue of an execution, must previously give public notice of the time and place of the sale, as follows:

1. A written or printed notice thereof must be conspicuously fastened up, at least forty-two days before the sale, in three public places, in the town or city where the sale is to take place, and also in three public places, in the town or city where the property is situated, if the sale is to take place in another town or city.

2. A copy of the notice must be published, at least once in each of the six weeks, immediately preceding the sale, in a newspaper published in the county, or published in an incorporated village, a part of which is within the county; if there is a newspaper published in such county or village; or, if there is none, in the newspaper printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published.

From Id., § 34. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 767 (In effect May 12, 1896).

§ 1435. Property, how described therein. Part may be sold.

In each notice, specified in the last section, the real property to be sold must be described with common certainty, by setting forth the name of the township or tract, and the number of the lot, if there is any, or by some other appropriate description. The validity of a sale is not affected by the fact, that the property sold is part only of the property advertised to be sold.

From 2 R. S. 369, § 35.

§ 1436. Penalty for irregularity in sale.

A sheriff who sells real property, by virtue of an execution, without having given notice thereof, as prescribed in the last two sections, or otherwise than as prescribed in this chapter, forfeits one thousand dollars to the party injured, in addition to the damages which the latter sustains thereby.

From Id., § 37.

§ 1437. Manner of conducting sale.

Where real property, offered for sale by virtue of an execution, consists of two or more known lots, tracts, or parcels, each lot, tract, or parcel must be separately exposed for sale. If a person who is the owner of, or is entitled by law to redeem, a distinct parcel of the property, of any other description, requires that parcel to be exposed for sale separately, the sheriff must expose it accordingly. No more real property shall be exposed for sale, than it appears to be necessary to sell, in order to satisfy the execution.

From Id., § 38.

§ 1438. Sheriff to make duplicate certificates of sale.

The sheriff, who sells real property, by virtue of an execution, must make out, subscribe, and acknowledge before an officer authorized to take the acknowledgment of a deed, duplicate certificates of the sale, containing:

1. The name of each purchaser, and the time when the sale was made.
2. A particular description of the property sold.
3. The price bid for each distinct parcel separately sold.
4. The whole consideration money paid.

From 2 R. S. 370, § 42.

§ 1439. Certificate to be recorded, etc.

The sheriff must, within ten days after the sale, file one of the duplicate certificates in the office of the clerk of the county, and deliver another to the purchaser. If there are two or more purchasers, a certificate must be delivered to each. The clerk must immediately record the certificate in a book, kept by him for that purpose, and must index the record, to the name of the judgment debtor. His fees for so doing must be paid by the sheriff, as part of the expenses of the sale.

From Id., § 43; L. 1857, c. 60, § 1.

§ 1440. [Am'd, 1881.] Title to real property not divested before deed.[1]

The right and title of the judgment debtor, or of a person holding under him, or deriving title through him, to real property, sold by virtue of an execution, is not divested by the sale, until the expiration of the period, within which it can be redeemed, as prescribed in this article, and the execution of the sheriff's deed. But if the property is not redeemed, and a deed is executed in pursuance of the sale, the grantee in the deed is deemed to have been vested with the legal estate, from the time of the sale. [And if the title of such grantee or his assigns is adjudged, for any reason or cause whatsoever, to be null and void in any action for that purpose brought by the judgment debtor or his assigns, such judgment shall have no force or effect, unless within twenty days after the entry of such judgment, the plaintiff shall pay to such grantee or his assigns the sum of money which was paid upon the sale, with interest from the time of the sale as pre-

[1] The portion of this section which is enclosed in brackets has been held by the Court of Appeals to be unconstitutional and void. Gilman v. Tucker, 128 N. Y. 190.

scribed in this article, including the costs and expenses of said defendant in defending the action in which such judgment was recovered, to be adjusted by a judge of the court in which said action is brought, and in the event of plaintiff's failure to pay such purchase-money and expenses within the time aforesaid, said title shall be valid in said grantee, and in case such judgment has heretofore been recovered and an appeal has been taken therefrom which is now pending, and such judgment shall be affirmed on final appeal, the same shall have no force or effect unless within twenty days after the entry of judgment of affirmance, the plaintiff shall pay to such grantee or his assigns the sum of money which was paid upon the sale, with interest as aforesaid, including the costs and expenses of the defendant as aforesaid, in prosecuting any appeal from such judgment, and in the event of plaintiff's failure so to do, said title shall be valid in said grantee.]

From 2 R. S. 373, § 61. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 681.

§ 1441. Rights of holder of the property during intermediate period.

The person entitled to the possession of real property, sold by virtue of an execution, as prescribed in the last section, may, during the period therein specified, use and enjoy the same as follows, without being chargeable with committing waste:

1. He may use and enjoy it in like manner, and for the like purposes, as it was used and enjoyed before the sale, doing no permanent injury to the freehold.

2. He may make necessary repairs to a building, or other erection thereupon. But this subdivision does not permit an alteration in the form or structure of the building or other erection.

3. He may use and improve the land, in the ordinary course of husbandry; but he is not entitled to a crop, growing thereon, at the expiration of the period of redemption.

4. He may apply any wood or timber on the land to the necessary reparation of a fence, building, or other erection, which was thereupon at the time of the sale.

5. If he actually occupies the land sold, he may take necessary fire-wood therefrom for use in his household.

From 2 R. S. 336 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 5), § 22.

§ 1442. Order to prevent waste; when and how applied for.

If, at any time during the period allowed for redemption, the judgment debtor, or any other person in possession of the property sold, commits or threatens to commit, or makes preparations for committing waste thereupon, the supreme court, or any justice thereof, within the judicial district, or the county judge of the county, in which the property, or any part thereof, is situated, may, upon the application of the purchaser, or his assignee, or the agent or attorney of either, and proof, by affidavit, of the facts, grant, without notice, an order, restraining the wrongdoer from committing waste upon the property.

From Id., §§ 23, 24.

§ 1443. Proceedings to punish violation of the order.

If the person, against whom such an order is granted, commits waste in violation thereof, after the service upon him of the order, with a copy of the affidavit upon which it was granted, the court or judge, upon proof, by affidavit, of the facts, may grant an order, requiring him to show cause, at a time and place therein specified, why he should not be punished for a contempt.

From Id., §§ 25, 26.

§ 1444. Mode and extent of punishment.

If, upon the return of the order to show cause, it satisfactorily appears, that the person, required to show cause, has violated the former order, the court or judge may either punish him, as prescribed by law for the punishment of a contempt of a court of record, other than a criminal contempt; or may grant a warrant, directed to the sheriff of the county, reciting the former order, and the violation thereof, and commanding the sheriff to commit the wrong-doer to close confinement, for a term specified therein, not more than one year. A person thus committed cannot be admitted to the liberties of the jail.

From Id., §§ 27, 28.

§ 1445. How warrant, etc., superseded.

The warrant may be superseded, and the prisoner discharged, by an order, in the discretion of the court or judge committing him, upon his executing, to the person who applied for the warrant, an undertaking, in a sum fixed, and with sureties approved, by the court or judge, to the effect, that he will pay any judgment, which the applicant, or his assignee, or other representative, may recover against him, by reason of any waste theretofore or thereafter committed on the property; and upon his paying to the applicant, for the costs and expenses of the proceedings, a sum, fixed by the court or judge.

From Id., § 29.

§ 1446. When and how real property sold may be redeemed.

Within one year after the sale of real property, by virtue of an execution, a person, specified in the next section, may redeem it, by paying to the purchaser, his executor, administrator, or assignee, or to the sheriff who made the sale, for the use of the person so entitled thereto, the sum of money which was paid upon the sale, with interest from the time of the sale, at the rate of ten per centum a year.

From 2 R. S. 370 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 45.

§ 1447. By whom such redemption may be made.

The redemption, specified in the last section, may be made, either by the judgment debtor, whose right and title were sold, or by his heir, devisee, or grantee, who has acquired, by inheritance, devise, deed, sale, by virtue of a mortgage or of an execution, or by any other means, an absolute title to the property proposed to be redeemed; or, in a case specified in section 1458 or 1459 of this act, to a portion thereof.

From Id., § 46.

§ 1448. Such redemption avoids the sale.

Upon payment being made, by a person entitled to redeem real property, as prescribed in the last two sections, the sale of the property redeemed, and the certificates of the sale, as far as they relate thereto, become null and void.

From Id., § 49.

§ 1449. When creditor may redeem.

Real property, sold by virtue of an execution, which remains, at the expiration of one year after the sale, unredeemed by the person or persons entitled to redeem it, as prescribed in the last three sections, may be redeemed, within three months after the expiration of the year, by the creditors specified, and upon the terms and in the manner prescribed, in the following sections of this article.

From Id., § 50.

§ 1450. What sum to be paid, etc., when creditor redeems.

In a case specified in the last section, a creditor, having in his own name, or as executor, administrator, assignee, trustee, or otherwise, a judgment rendered, or a mortgage duly recorded, at any time before the expiration of fifteen months from the time of the sale, which is a lien upon the real property sold, may redeem that property, by paying the sum of money, which was paid upon the sale thereof, with interest at the rate of seven per centum a year from the time of the sale, and executing a certificate of satisfaction, as prescribed in section 1463 of this act.

From Id., § 51; L. 1847, c. 410, §§ 1, 2.

§ 1451. Redemption by another creditor from a redeeming creditor.

Where a creditor has redeemed real property, as prescribed in the last section, any other creditor, who might have redeemed it from the purchaser, as therein prescribed, may redeem it from the first redeeming creditor, as follows:

1. He must reimburse to the first redeeming creditor, his executor, administrator, or assignee, the sum paid by him to redeem the property, with interest at the rate of seven per centum a year, from the time of his redemption.

2. He must execute a certificate of satisfaction, relating to his judgment or mortgage, in like manner as the first redeeming creditor was required to do.

3. If the judgment or mortgage, by virtue of which the first creditor redeemed, is prior to the judgment or mortgage of the second creditor, the second creditor must also pay to the first creditor, the sum specified in the certificate of satisfaction, executed by him upon his redemption, with interest at the rate of seven per centum a year, from the time of his redemption; unless the first redeeming creditor's judgment or mortgage had ceased, when he redeemed, to be a lien as against the second redeeming creditor; in which case, the latter need not pay any part of the sum, specified in the certificate.

From 2 R. S. 372, § 55.

§ 1452. Id.; when second redeeming creditor has the prior lien.

Where the lien of the second redeeming creditor's judgment or mortgage, is prior to that of the first redeeming creditor's judgment or mortgage, so that the former redeems, without paying the sum, specified in the latter's certificate of satisfaction, the latter may, without executing another certificate of satisfaction, again redeem from the former, or from any subsequent redeeming creditor, in a case, where he would have been entitled to redeem, if his first certificate had not been executed; and he has the same rights, with respect to any creditor redeeming from him, as if his first certificate had been executed, when he made his second redemption.

New.

§ 1453. Subsequent redemptions by other creditors.

A third or other creditor, who might have redeemed, as prescribed in the last four sections, may redeem from the second or any other creditor, who has redeemed, in the manner, and upon the terms and conditions, prescribed in the last two sections.

From 2 R. S. 372, § 56.

§ 1454. When creditor may redeem after fifteen months.

A creditor, who might have redeemed within fifteen months after the sale, as prescribed in the last four sections, may redeem from any other redeeming creditor, although the fifteen months have elapsed; provided that he thus redeems within twenty-four hours after the last previous redemption.

From L. 1847, c. 410, § 4.

§ 1455. When redemption must be made at sheriff's office.

A redemption, made by a creditor, on or after the last day of the fifteen months, must be made at the sheriff's office of the county. The sheriff, or his under-sheriff, or a deputy-sheriff, in his behalf, must attend at the sheriff's office, for that purpose, on the last day of the fifteen months, and on each day thereafter, in which a redemption can be made, during the time when the sheriff's office is required by law to be kept open. In the absence of the sheriff, the redemption may be made by paying the necessary money, and delivering the necessary papers, to the under-sheriff, or to any deputy-sheriff, present at the sheriff's office. If the term of office of the sheriff, who made the sale, has expired, and he, or his under-sheriff, or a deputy-sheriff authorized, in his behalf, to receive the necessary money and the necessary papers, is not present, the money may be paid, and the papers may be delivered, to the sheriff then in office, or to the under-sheriff or a deputy-sheriff of the latter.

From Id., § 3.

§ 1456. Original purchaser may redeem, when also a creditor.

If the purchaser, at the execution sale, of property, which can be redeemed by a creditor, as prescribed in this article, is also a creditor of the judgment debtor, and as such could redeem from a purchaser, or a redeeming creditor, he may avail himself of his judgment or mortgage, to redeem from any other redeeming creditor.

From 2 R. S. 372, § 57.

§ 1457. Creditor may redeem again under another judgment or mortgage.

The judgment creditor, by virtue of whose execution real property has been sold, cannot avail himself of the judgment, upon which the execution was issued, to redeem the property; nor, except as otherwise specially prescribed in this article, can a creditor, who has once redeemed, avail himself of the same judgment or mortgage, to redeem again. But if either has another judgment or mortgage, which would entitle him to redeem, he may avail himself thereof for that purpose, in the same manner and on the same terms, as any other creditor.

From 2 R. S. 373, § 58.

§ 1458. Redemption by person entitled to redeem part.

Where a person, who has an absolute title to, or a judgment or mortgage, which is a lien upon, a distinct parcel only of the real property, sold by virtue of an execution, would be authorized, by this article, to redeem the property, if his title or lien extended to the whole, he may redeem, from a purchaser, the entire property sold, or from a prior redeeming creditor, the entire property redeemed by that creditor; except that if his title or lien extends to a distinct parcel only of one or more parts of the property, which were separately sold, he can redeem, from a purchaser, only the part or parts thus separately sold, in which his distinct parcel is included.

§ 1459. Redemption by owners of undivided shares.

Where two or more persons own undivided shares, as joint tenants, or as tenants in common, in real property, sold by virtue of an execution, or in a distinct parcel thereof, which has been separately sold; each of them may redeem, from the purchaser, as prescribed in sections 1446 and 1447 of this act, the share or interest, belonging to him, by paying a part of the purchase-money, bid for the property, or for that distinct parcel thereof bearing the same proportion to the whole, as the share or interest, proposed to be redeemed, bears to the property, or distinct parcel separately sold, of which it is a part; together with interest on the sum so paid, from the time of the sale, at the rate of ten per centum a year.

From 2 R. S. 371, § 48.

§ 1460. Id.; by creditors having liens on undivided shares.

Where the judgment or mortgage of a creditor, entitled to redeem, is a lien upon an undivided share, specified in the last section, he may redeem, from a purchaser, that undivided share, by paying him the same proportion of the purchase-money, which the owner must have paid to redeem it, as prescribed in the last section; or he may redeem, from a prior redeeming creditor, the entire property redeemed by the latter, with like effect and in the same manner, as if his lien attached to the whole.

From 2 R. S. 372, § 54.

§ 1461. Right to redeem not affected by agreement.

The sheriff, the purchaser, the judgment creditor, or a redeeming creditor, cannot, by his agreement or other act, in any manner, impair or prejudice the right of any other person to redeem, as prescribed in this article.

New.

§ 1462. To whom money paid upon redemption.

The money required to be paid by a creditor, in order to effect a redemption of real property, as prescribed in this article, may be paid to the purchaser or creditor, from whom the property is to be redeemed, his executor, administrator, or assignee; or it may be paid, for the use of the person so entitled thereto, to the sheriff who made the sale.

From 2 R. S. 373, § 59.

§ 1463. Certificate of satisfaction required to effect redemption by creditor.

The certificate of satisfaction, required to be executed by a creditor, in order to effect a redemption of real property, must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county; must describe, with reasonable certainty, the judgment or mortgage under which he redeems, and specify the sum due thereupon; and must state, that the redemption satisfies the judgment or mortgage, in full, or to a specified amount. It must be filed in the county clerk's office, at or before the time when the money is paid to effect the redemption, unless the money is paid to the sheriff; in which case, the certificate must also be delivered, at the time of the payment, to the sheriff, who must file it in the county clerk's office, as prescribed in section 1467 of this act. The county clerk, immediately after the execution and recording of the deed, must enter, in his docket, the satisfaction, or partial satisfaction, of a judgment, specified in a certificate so filed, as required by law, when a judgment is collected, by virtue of an execution. If a mortgage, specified in the certificate, is recorded in his office, he must cancel and discharge the mortgage of record, if it is satisfied by the certificate; or, if it is only partially satisfied, he must make a minute of the partial satisfaction, upon the record thereof. If the property mortgaged is situated in a county, in which there is a register, the county clerk must transmit a certified copy of the certificate to the register, who must, in like manner, cancel and discharge the mortgage of record, or make a minute of the partial satisfaction thereof. The clerk's and register's fees, for performing the services specified in this section, must be paid by the sheriff; who may require the person entitled to a deed to pay him the amount thereof, before the deed is delivered.

New.

§ 1464. What evidence a redeeming judgment creditor must furnish.

In order to entitle a creditor by judgment to redeem real property, as prescribed in this article, he must, when he redeems, file in the county clerk's office, or deliver to the sheriff, as the case requires, the following evidence of his right:

1. A copy of the docket of the judgment, under which he claims the right to redeem, duly certified by the county clerk.

2. Each assignment of the judgment, which is necessary to establish his right. An assignment so filed or delivered must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded, or the execution thereof must be proved, by the affidavit of the creditor, or of a witness thereto; unless it has been filed, and entered, as prescribed in article third of title first of chapter eleventh of this act, in which case, a certified copy thereof must be filed or delivered.

3. An affidavit, made by him, or his attorney or agent, stating truly the sum remaining unpaid on the judgment, at the time of claiming the right to redeem.

From 2 R. S. 373, § 60.

§ 1465. Id.; as to mortgage creditor.

In order to entitle a creditor by mortgage to redeem real property, as prescribed in this article, he must, when he redeems, file in the county clerk's office, or deliver to the sheriff, the following evidence of his right:

1. A copy of the mortgage, under which he claims the right to redeem, duly certified by the clerk or register of the county.

2. Each assignment of the mortgage, which is necessary to establish his right, acknowledged or proved, and certified, as prescribed in the last section for an assignment of a judgment, unless it has been recorded; in which case a certified copy of the record must be filed or delivered.

3. An affidavit, made by him, or by his attorney or agent, stating truly the sum remaining unpaid on the mortgage, at the time of claiming the right to redeem.

From L. 1830, c. 525, § 2.

§ 1466. Id.; as to executor or administrator.

In either of the cases specified in the last two sections, if the person, proposing to redeem, claims to be entitled so to do, by reason of his being an executor or administrator of a person, who, if living, would be entitled to redeem, he must file or deliver, with the other papers therein prescribed, a certified copy or a sworn copy of his letters testamentary, or letters of administration.

From Id., c. 525, § 2, subd. 3.

§ 1467. Officers to keep papers open to inspection; when to file them.

The sheriff, to whom one or more papers, specified in the last four sections, are delivered, must keep them open, at all reasonable times during the period allowed for redemption, to the inspection of all persons interested. He must have all those papers at the sheriff's office, at the times when he is required to attend thereat, for the purpose of enabling creditors to redeem, as prescribed by law; and he must file them in the county clerk's office, within three days after the execution of the deed.

New.

§ 1468. When redemption takes effect.

A redemption by a creditor is effected, only when he has paid all the money, required to be paid, and filed or delivered all the papers, required to be filed or delivered, as prescribed in this article; and a waiver of any of those requirements is void, as against a person who is entitled subsequently to redeem. Where a redemption is thus effected, it vests in the redeeming creditor all the right, title, and interest, which the purchaser acquired by the sale.

New.

§ 1469. Certificate to be given, when redemption made.

Where a redemption is made, as prescribed in this article, the officer or other person, to whom money is paid, or a paper is delivered, for the purpose of effecting the redemption, must execute and deliver, to the person paying the money or delivering the paper, a certificate, stating all the facts which transpired before him, with respect to the redemption.

From L. 1847, c. 410, § 5.

§ 1470. Certificate may be acknowledged and recorded.

Such a certificate may be acknowledged or proved, and certified in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county where the property is situated. The recording thereof, in the office of the clerk or register of that county, in the book for recording deeds, has the same effect, as against subsequent purchasers and incumbrancers, as the recording of a conveyance.

From Id., § 6.

§ 1471. [Am'd, 1886.] When and by whom conveyance to be executed.

Immediately after the expiration of fifteen months from the time of[1] sale; except where a redemption has been made on the last day of the fifteen months, and, in that case, immediately after the expiration of twenty-four hours from the last redemption; the sheriff, who made the sale, must execute the proper deed or deeds, in order to convey to the person or persons entitled thereto, the part or parts of the property sold, which have not been redeemed by the judgment debtor, his heir, devisee, or assignee. The deed conveys to the grantee therein the right, title, and interest, which were sold by the sheriff. After the same shall have been recorded for twenty years in the county where the real estate is situated, it shall be presumptive evidence of the facts therein stated.

From 2 R. S. 373 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 62; L. 1847, c. 410, § 4. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 637.

§ 1472. To whom conveyance to be executed.

If any part of the property remains unredeemed by a creditor it must be conveyed, by the sheriff, to the purchaser upon the sale, except where the certificate of sale has been assigned; in which case, it must be conveyed to the last assignee. Any part or parts of the property sold, which have been redeemed by a creditor, must be conveyed by the sheriff, to the last redeeming creditor, except where he has assigned the certificate of redemption, or has executed any other assignment of his right, title, and interest in the property redeemed by him; in which case, it must be conveyed to the last assignee.

From L. 1835, c. 189, § 1; L. 1867, c. 116, § 1.

§ 1473. When conveyance made to executor or administrator; effect thereof.

Where a person, entitled to a deed, dies before the delivery of the deed, the sheriff must execute and deliver the deed to his executor or administrator. The property so conveyed must be held, in trust for the use of the heirs or devisees of the decedent, subject to the dower of his widow, if there is one; but it may be sold, in a proper case, for the payment of his debts, in the same manner as land, whereof he died seized.

From 2 R. S. 374, §§ 63, 64.

§ 1474. Assignment must be acknowledged and filed.

Before an assignee, or his executor or administrator, is entitled to a deed, as prescribed in the last two sections, each assignment, under which the deed is claimed, must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county where the property is situated, and must be filed in the office of the clerk of that county.

From L. 1885, c. 189, § 2.

§ 1475. Under-sheriff or successor to act, if sheriff dies.

Where a sheriff dies, is removed from office, or becomes otherwise disqualified to act, at any time after making a sale of real property, by virtue of an execution, the property,[1] or a distinct parcel thereof, may be redeemed, by paying the necessary money, and delivering the necessary papers, to his under-sheriff, who must also execute and deliver the proper deed or deeds of property, not redeemed by the judgment debtor, his heir, devisee, or grantee. If the under-sheriff also dies, is removed from office, or becomes otherwise disqualified to act, the property may be redeemed, by paying the necessary money, and delivering the necessary papers, to the sheriff's successor in office, who must also execute and deliver the proper deed or deeds. The under-sheriff, or the sheriff's successor, as the case requires, possesses all the powers, and is subject to all the duties and liabilities, of the sheriff who made the sale, touching the redemption and conveyance of property sold and the proceedings relating thereto; and each provision of law, regulating those proceedings, and applicable to the sheriff who made the sale, is applicable to his under-sheriff or successor. This section applies where a sale was made, either before or after this act takes effect.

[1] The word "the" omitted in engrossing.

From 2 R. S. 374, §§ 65, 66, 67; L. 1867, c. 116, § 1.

§ 1476. Money may be paid, etc., to under-sheriff, or deputy-sheriff, who sold property.

Where real property is sold, by virtue of an execution, by the under-sheriff or a deputy-sheriff, in behalf of the sheriff, money required to be paid, or a paper required to be delivered, to the sheriff, in order to effect a redemption, as prescribed in this article, at any time before the last day of the fifteen months from the time of the sale, may be paid or delivered, either to the sheriff, or to the under-sheriff or deputy-sheriff, who made the sale.

New.

§ 1477. Application of this article to sale by coroner, or person specially appointed, etc.

Where real property is sold, by virtue of an execution, by a person specially appointed by the court, as prescribed in section 1362 or section 1388 of this act, it may be redeemed, as prescribed in this article, as if it had been sold by the sheriff, except as follows:

1. Money, required to be paid, or a paper, required to be delivered, to the sheriff, in order to effect a redemption, as prescribed in this article, at any time before the last day of the fifteen months from the time of the sale, must be paid to the officer who made the sale; unless the person entitled to redeem, his agent or attorney, files with the clerk of the county, with the paper or papers required to be filed, or to be delivered to the sheriff, for the purpose of effecting the redemption, his affidavit, to the effect, that the officer is dead; or has been removed; or, where he is a coroner, that he is no longer in office; or that after diligent search, the affiant has been unable to find him within the county; in which case, the money may be paid into court, by paying it to the county treasurer, to the credit of the cause, with like effect, as where it is paid to the sheriff, after a sale by the latter.

2. The provisions of section 1455 of this act, apply to a redemption, upon a sale made as prescribed in this section; and the officer, who sold the property, must attend, as the sheriff is therein required to attend. If he is not present, the redemption may be effected, as prescribed in that section, for redemption in a case, where the term of office of the sheriff, who made the sale, has expired.

New.

§ 1478. Id; where coroner or person appointed dies, etc.

If, when the period for redemption expires, a coroner, or a person specially appointed, by the court, who has sold real property, by virtue of an execution, is dead, or has been removed, or, in the case of a coroner, if he is no longer in office, the court must, upon the application of a person entitled to a deed, appoint a person, to execute the deed accordingly.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Remedies for failure of title to real property sold, and to enforce contribution.

Sec. 1479. When evicted purchaser may recover purchase-money.
1480. Remedy of judgment creditor thereupon.
1481. Contribution between owners of real property.
1482. Id.; when part owner redeems.
1483. Order of contribution.
1484. Contribution, how enforced by means of original judgment.
1485. Requisites to preserve the lien.
1486. Entry upon the docket.

§ 1479. When evicted purchaser may recover purchase money.

The purchaser of real property, sold by virtue of an execution, his heir, devisee, grantee, or assignee, who is evicted from the possession thereof, or against whom judgment is rendered in an action to recover the same, may recover the purchase-money, with interest, from the person for whose benefit the property was sold, where the judgment was rendered, or the eviction occurred, in consequence, either:

1. Of any irregularity in the proceedings concerning the sale; or

2. Of the judgment, upon which the execution was issued, being vacated or reversed, or set aside for irregularity, or error in fact.

From 2 R. S. 375 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 68.

§ 1480. Remedy of judgment creditor thereupon.

Where final judgment is rendered, against the defendant, in an action specified in subdivision first of the last section, the judgment, by virtue of which the sale was made, remains, in his favor, valid and effectual against the judgment debtor therein, his executor, administrator, heir, or devisee, for the purpose of collecting the sum paid on the sale, with interest. He may accordingly have a further execution upon that judgment; but the execution does not affect a purchaser in good faith, or an incumbrancer by mortgage, judgment, or otherwise, whose title or whose incumbrance accrued, before the actual levy thereof.

From Id., § 69.

§ 1481. Contribution between owners of real property.

Where the real property of two or more persons is liable to satisfy a judgment, and the whole of the judgment, or more than a due proportion thereof, has been collected, by a sale of the real property of one or more of them, by virtue of an execution issued upon the judgment; the person so aggrieved, or his executor or administrator, may maintain an action, to compel a just and equal contribution by all the persons, whose real property ought to contribute as prescribed in the next section but one.

From Id., § 70.

§ 1482. Id.; when part owner redeems.

Where the heir, devisee, or grantee, of a judgment debtor, having an absolute title to a distinct parcel of real property, sold by virtue of an execution, redeems, as prescribed in section 1458 of this act, the property sold, or any part or parts thereof separately sold, which include his property; he may, in like manner, maintain an action, to compel a just and equal contribution by those who own the residue of the property thus redeemed.

From 2 R. S. 371 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 47.

§ 1483. Order of contribution.

Where an action is brought, as prescribed in the last two sections, the real property is liable to contribution in the following order:

1. If it comprises different undivided shares or distinct parcels, which have been conveyed by the judgment debtor, they are liable in succession, commencing with the portion last conveyed.

2. If it comprises different undivided shares or distinct parcels, which have been sold by virtue of two or more executions, they are liable in succession, commencing with the portion sold under the last and youngest judgment.

3. If it comprises different undivided shares or distinct parcels, some of which have been conveyed by the judgment debtor, and some of which have been sold by virtue of one or more executions, they are respectively liable in succession, according to the order prescribed in the first and second subdivisions of this section.

From 2 R. S. 375, § 71.

§ 1484. Contribution, how enforced by means of original judgment.

For the purpose of enforcing contribution, as prescribed in the last section, the court, in which the action is brought, may, and in a proper case, must, permit the plaintiff to use the original judgment, and to collect, by an execution issued thereupon, out of any real property subject to the lien thereof, the sum which ought to be contributed by that property. For that purpose, the lien of the original judgment, upon that real property, when preserved, as prescribed in the next section, continues, for the term prescribed in sections 1251 and 1255 of this act, to the extent of the sum, which ought to be so contributed, notwithstanding the payment made by the party seeking contribution.

From Id., § 72.

§ 1485. Requisites to preserve the lien.

The lien of the original judgment may be preserved, as prescribed in the last section, by filing, in the clerk's office of the county where the real property is situated, within twenty days after the payment, for which contribution is claimed, an affidavit, in behalf of the person aggrieved, stating the sum paid, and his claim to use the judgment for the reimbursement thereof, with a notice, requiring the clerk to make the entries specified in the next section. But the lien is not preserved, as against a grantee or mortgagee in good faith, for a valuable consideration, without notice, and before the entries are actually made.

From Id., § 73.

§ 1486. Entry upon the docket.

On filing the affidavit and notice, the clerk must make, upon the docket of the judgment, an entry, stating the sum paid, and that the judgment is claimed to be a lien to that amount. Where it is desired to preserve the lien, upon property situated in two or more counties, a similar affidavit and notice must be filed with, and a similar entry made by the clerk of each county.

From Id., § 74.

TITLE III.

Execution against the person.

Sec. 1487. In what cases execution may be issued against the person.
1488. Id.; against a woman.
1489. When execution against property must be first issued.
1490. Simultaneous executions not allowed against property and person.
1491. Id.; when debtor has been taken.
1492. New execution may issue after escape.
1493. Id.; when debtor dies charged in execution.
1494. Id.; when creditor discharges debtor after thirty days.
1495. New execution not to be enforced against real property sold, etc

§ 1487. [Am'd, 1879.] In what cases execution may be issued against the person.

Where a judgment can be enforced by execution, as prescribed in section 1240 of this act, an execution, against the person of the judgment debtor, may be issued thereupon, subject to the exception specified in the next section, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the plaintiff's right to arrest the defendant depends upon the nature of the action.

2. In any other case, where an order of arrest has been granted and executed in the action, and if it was executed against the judgment debtor, where it has not been vacated.

From Co. Proc., § 288. Am'd by L. 1879, c. 542.

§ 1488. [Am'd, 1879.] Id.; against a woman.

But an execution cannot be issued against the person of a woman, unless an order of arrest has been granted and executed in the action, and, if it was executed against the judgment debtor, has not been vacated.

New. See §§ 553, 1206, ante.

§ 1489. When execution against property must be first issued.

Unless the judgment debtor is actually confined, without having been admitted to the liberties of the jail, by virtue of an execution against his person, issued in another action, or of an order of arrest or a surrender by his bail, in the same action, an execution against his person cannot be issued, until an execution against his property has been returned, wholly or partly unsatisfied. If he is a resident of the State, the execution against his property must have been issued to the county where he resides.

From Co. Proc., § 288.

§ 1490. Simultaneous executions not allowed against property and person.

An execution against the person of the judgment debtor cannot be issued, without leave of the court, while an execution against his property, issued in the same action, remains unreturned; and an execution against his property cannot be issued, without leave of the court, while an execution against his person, issued in the same action, remains unreturned.

From 2 R. S. 364 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 6.

§ 1491. Id.; when debtor has been taken.

Where a judgment debtor has been taken, and remains in custody, by virtue of an execution against his person, another execution cannot be issued, in the same action, against his person or his property, except in a case specially prescribed by law.

From Id., § 7.

§ 1492. New execution may issue after escape.

If a judgment debtor escapes, after having been taken, by virtue of an execution against his person, he may be retaken, by virtue of a new execution against his person; or an execution against his property may be issued, as if the execution, by virtue of which he was taken, had been returned, without his having been taken.

From Id., § 8.

§ 1493. Id.; when debtor dies charged in execution.

Where a judgment debtor, who has been taken by virtue of an execution against his person, dies while in custody, a new execution against his property may be issued, as if the execution, by virtue of which he was taken, had been returned without his having been taken.

From 2 R. S. 368 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), § 28.

§ 1494. Id.; when creditor discharges debtor after thirty days.

At any time after a judgment debtor has remained in custody, by virtue of an execution against his person, for the space of thirty days, the judgment creditor may serve upon the sheriff a written notice, requiring him to discharge the judgment debtor from custody, by virtue of the execution. Whereupon the sheriff must discharge the judgment debtor, and return the execution accordingly. After service of such a notice, another execution, against the person of the judgment debtor, cannot be issued upon the judgment; but after his discharge, the judgment creditor may otherwise enforce the judgment, as if the execution, from which he was discharged, had been returned, without his having been taken.

From L. 1857, c. 427, § 1; 2 R. S. 34 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 1), § 17.

§ 1495. New execution not to be enforced against real property sold, etc.

A new execution against property, issued in a case specified in the last two sections, cannot be enforced against an interest in real property, including a chattel real, which was purchased in good faith, from the judgment debtor, after the recovery of the judgment upon which it is issued; or which was sold by virtue of an execution, issued upon a previous or subsequent judgment.

From 2 R. S. 368 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 5), §§ 29, 30.

CHAPTER XIV.[1]

Special Provisions Regulating Actions Relating to Property.

TITLE I.— Actions Relating to Real Property.
TITLE II.— Actions Relating to Chattels.

TITLE I.

Actions relating to real property.

Article 1. Action to recover real property.
2. Action for partition.
3. Action for dower.
4. Action to foreclose a mortgage.
5. Action to compel the determination of a claim to real property.
6. Action for waste.
7. Action for a nuisance.
8. Other actions relating to real property.
9. Provisions applicable to two or more of the actions specified in this title.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action to recover real property.

Sec. 1486. Plaintiff may recover damages with the land.
1487. Rents and profits to be included in damages.
1488. Mortgagee cannot maintain action.
1499. Action cannot be maintained for dower.
1500. Separate action by joint tenant or tenant in common.
1501. Grantee of lands held adversely may maintain action.
1502. Against whom action to be brought.
1503. Who may be joined as defendants.
1504. When action may be brought for non-payment of rent
1505. Id.; when right of re-entry is reserved for want of distress.
1506. Action against tenant, when proceedings to be stayed.
1507. Id.; amount of rent in arrear to be stated in judgment.
1508, 1509. Id.; when possession to be restored to defendant.
1510. Id.; use of property, when set off against rent.
1511. Property claimed in action; how described in complaint.
1512. Motion for plaintiff's attorney to produce his authority.
1513. Order thereupon.
1514. Evidence of authority.
1515. When costs to be proved.
1516. Rule when there are distinct occupants.
1517. The last section qualified.
1518. When plaintiff may recover against one defendant, subject to rights of others.
1519. Verdict, etc., to state nature of plaintiff's estate.
1520. Expiration of plaintiff's title before trial.
1521. Abatement of action.
1522. Action to be divided, when different persons succeed to different parcels.
1523. Id.; when different persons succeed to real property and to rents and profits.
1524. Effect of judgment rendered after trial of issue of fact.
1525. [Repealed.]
1526. Effect of judgment by default, etc.
1527. [Repealed.]
1528. [Repealed.]
1529. Effect on possession of vacating judgment.
1530. [Repealed.]
1531. Damages recoverable; set-off by defendant.

[1] The preceding chapters of the Code were enacted by L. 1876, c. 448. The following chapters, from c. 14 to c. 22, inclusive, were not enacted until 1880 (L. 1880, c. 178). See §§ 3355, 3356, post.

§ 1496. Plaintiff may recover damages with the land.

In an action to recover real property, or the possession thereof, the plaintiff may demand in his complaint, and in a proper case recover, damages for withholding the property.

New. See Co. Proc., § 167, subd. 5.

§ 1497. Rents and profits to be included in damages.

Those damages include the rents and profits or the value of the use and occupation of the property, where either can legally be recovered by the plaintiff.

Id.

§ 1498. Mortgagee cannot maintain action.

A mortgagee, or his assignee or other representative, cannot maintain such an action, to recover the mortgaged premises.

From 2 R. S. 312 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 1), § 57.

§ 1499. [Am'd, 1898.] Action cannot be maintained for dower.

Such an action cannot be maintained in a case where an action for dower may be maintained, as prescribed in article third of this title; or

2. Where in any city the real property consists of a strip of land not exceeding six inches in width upon which there stands the exterior wall of a building erected partly upon said strip and partly upon the adjoining lot, and a building has been erected upon land of the plaintiff abutting on the said wall, unless said action be commenced within one year after the completion of the erection of such wall or within one year after the first day of September, 1898. But an action may be maintained, if commenced within the further period of one year, for the recovery of damages by reason of the erection of such wall, and upon the satisfaction of the judgment for such damages, the title of the plaintiff to such strip of land shall thereby be transferred to and vest in the defendant. If neither an action of ejectment nor an action for the recovery of damages be brought within the period hereby limited therefor, the person in possession of such lands shall be deemed to have an easement in said strip of land so long as the said wall partly erected thereon shall stand, and no longer, and in case of the destruction of such wall the owner of such strip shall have the same right to take or recover the possession thereof as if such wall had never existed.

New. Am'd by L. 1898, c. 517 (in effect Sept. 1, 1898). See § 1604, post.

§ 1500. Separate action by joint tenant or tenant in common.

Where two or more persons are entitled to the possession of real property, as joint tenants or tenants in common, one or more of them may maintain such an action, to recover his or their undivided shares in the property, in any case where such an action might be maintained by all.

New. See Co. Proc., § 118, last clause.

§ 1501. [Am'd, 1882.] Grantee of lands held adversely may maintain action.

Such an action may be maintained by a grantee, his heir or devisee, in the name of the grantor, or his heir, where the conveyance, under which he claims, is void because the property conveyed was held adversely to the grantor. The plaintiff must be allowed to prove the facts to bring the case within this section. In such an action a judgment against the plaintiff shall not award costs to the defendant; but where the defendant is entitled to costs as prescribed in section 3229 of this act, they may be taxed, and the person who maintained the action in the plaintiff's name may be compelled to pay the same as prescribed in section 3247 of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 111; 1 R. S. 739 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 2), § 147. Am'd by L. 1852, c. 399.

§ 1502. Against whom action to be brought.

Where the complaint demands judgment for the immediate possession of the property, if the property is actually occupied, the occupant thereof must be made defendant in the action. If it is not so occupied, the action must be brought against some person exercising acts of ownership thereupon, or claiming title thereto, or an interest therein, at the time of the commencement of the action.

From 2 R. S. 304 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 1), § 4.

§ 1503. Who may be joined as defendants.

In either of the cases specified in the last section, any other person claiming title to, or the right to the possession of, the real property sought to be recovered, as landlord, remainderman, reversioner, or otherwise adversely to the plaintiff, may be joined as defendant in an action therefor.

From Co. Proc., § 118.

§ 1504. When action may be brought for non-payment of rent.

When six months' rent or more is in arrear, upon a grant reserving rent, or upon a lease of real property, and the grantor or lessor, or his heir, devisee, or assignee, has a subsisting right by law to re-enter for the failure to pay the rent, he may maintain an action to recover the property granted or demised, without any demand of the rent in arrear, or re-entry on the property.

From 2 R. S. 505 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 9), § 30.

§ 1505. Id.; when right of re-entry is reserved for want of distress.

Where a right of re-entry is reserved and given to a grantor or lessor of real property, in default of a sufficiency of goods and chattels whereon to distrain for the satisfaction of rent due, the re-entry may be made, or an action to recover the property demised or granted, may be maintained by the grantor or lessor, or his heir, devisee, or assignee, at any time after default in the payment of the rent; provided the plaintiff, at least fifteen days before the action is commenced, serves upon the defendant a written notice of his intention to re-enter, personally, or by leaving it at his dwelling-house on the premises with a person of suitable age and discretion; or, if the defendant cannot be found with due diligence, and has no dwelling-house on the premises, whereat a person of suitable age and discretion can be found, by posting it in a conspicuous place on the premises.

From L. 1846, c. 274, § 3.

§ 1506. Action against tenant, when proceedings to be stayed.

At any time before final judgment for the plaintiff is rendered, and the judgment-roll is filed, in an action brought as prescribed in either of the last two sections, the defendant may pay or tender to the plaintiff or his attorney, or pay into court, all the rent then in arrear, with interest and the costs of the action to be taxed; and thereupon the complaint must be dismissed.

From 2 R. S. 505 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 9), § 32.

§ 1507. Id.; amount of rent in arrear to be stated in judgment.

In such an action, a verdict, report, or decision in favor of the plaintiff, must fix the amount of rent in arrear to the plaintiff, or, if judgment is taken by default, the amount thereof must be ascertained by or under the direction of the court; and, in either case, it must be stated in the judgment.

New.

§ 1508. Id.; when possession to be restored to defendant.

At any time within six months after possession of the property, awarded to the plaintiff in such an action, has been delivered to him by virtue of an execution issued upon a judgment rendered therein, the defendant, or any person who has succeeded to his interest, or a mortgagee of the lease, or of any part thereof, who was not in possession when final judgment was rendered, may pay or tender to the plaintiff, or his executor, administrator, or attorney, or may pay into court, for the use of the person so entitled thereto, the amount of rent in arrear, as stated in the judgment, and the costs of the action, with interest, and all other charges incurred by the plaintiff.

From 2 R. S. 506 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 9), §§ 33, 35.

§ 1509. The same.

Within three months after making the payment or tender, the person who made it, or his representative, may apply to the court for an order that possession of the property be delivered to him; and thereupon, upon proof of the facts, and payment of the sum due by reason of rent accruing since the judgment was rendered, and upon compliance with all other terms to be complied with by the grantee or lessee, to the time of the application, the court must make an order, directing that possession of the property be delivered to the applicant, who shall hold and enjoy the same, without any new grant or lease thereof, according to the terms of the original grant or lease. Notice of the application must be served upon the plaintiff's attorney.

Id.

§ 1510. Id.; use of property, when set off against rent.

If possession of the property recovered has been delivered to the plaintiff, by virtue of an execution issued upon a judgment in the action, the order must provide for setting off the sum which the plaintiff has made, or which he might, without wilful neglect, have made, of the property, during the possession thereof, against the rent accruing after the judgment was rendered, and for reimbursement to the applicant of the balance, if any, of the sum paid into court by him, after making the set-off prescribed in this section.

From Id., § 33.

§ 1511. Property claimed in action; how described in complaint.

The complaint must describe the property claimed with common certainty, by setting forth the name of the township or tract, and the number of the lot, if there is any, or in some other appropriate manner; so that, from the description, possession of the property claimed may be delivered, where the plaintiff is entitled thereto.

From 2 R. S. 304 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 1), § 8. See § 1435, ante.

§ 1512. Motion for plaintiff's attorney to produce his authority.

A defendant, in an action to recover real property or the possession thereof, may, at any time before answering, upon an affidavit that evidence of the authority of the plaintiff's attorney to commence the action has not been served upon him, apply, upon notice, to the court or judge thereof, for an order directing the attorney to produce such evidence.

From Id., §§ 17, 18.

§ 1513. Order thereupon.

Upon such an application, the court or judge must, in a proper case, make an order, requiring the plaintiff's attorney to produce, as directed therein, evidence of his authority to commence the action, and staying all proceedings therein, on the part of the plaintiff, until the evidence is produced.

From Id., § 19.

§ 1514. Evidence of authority.

Any written request of the plaintiff or his agent, to the plaintiff's attorney, to commence the action, or any written recognition of his authority so to do, verified by the affidavit of the attorney, or any other competent witness, is sufficient presumptive evidence of such authority.

From Id., § 20.

§ 1515. When ouster to be proved.

Where the action is brought by a tenant in common, or a joint tenant, against his co-tenant, the plaintiff, besides proving his right, must also prove that the defendant actually ousted him, or did some other act, amounting to a total denial of his right.

From Id., § 27.

§ 1516. Rule when there are distinct occupants.

Where there are two or more defendants, and it is alleged, in the answer of either of them, that he occupies in severalty, or that he and one or more of his co-defendants occupy jointly, one or more distinct parcels, and that one or more other defendants possess other parcels, in severalty or jointly, the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of the plaintiff, and upon such terms as justice requires, direct that the action be divided into as many actions as are necessary. If the action is not so divided, and it appears, upon the trial, that the allegation is true, the plaintiff must, before the evidence is closed, elect against which defendant or defendants he will proceed; and a judgment dismissing the complaint must thereupon be rendered, in favor of the other defendants.

From Id., § 29.

§ 1517. The last section qualified.

The last section does not apply to a case, where two or more defendants occupy different apartments in a building. In such a case, in an action to recover the building and its curtilage, the plaintiff is entitled to judgment jointly against all the defendants who are liable to him.

New.

§ 1518. When plaintiff may recover against one defendant, subject to rights of others.

Section 1516 of this act does not apply to a case, where one or more defendants, answering as therein prescribed, hold under another defendant, and the plaintiff elects to proceed against the latter, subject to the rights and interests of the former. In such a case, the proceedings against the defendant so answering must be stayed until final judgment; and if the plaintiff recovers final judgment against the defendant, under whom they hold, the judgment operates as a transfer to the plaintiff of that defendant's right, title, and interest, and the costs of the defendant or defendants so answering are in the discretion of the court.

New.

§ 1519. Verdict, etc., to state nature of plaintiff's estate.

A verdict, report, or decision, in favor of the plaintiff, in an action specified in this article, must specify the estate of the plaintiff in the property recovered, whether it is in fee, or for life, or for a term of years, stating for whose life it is, or specifying the duration of the term, if the estate is less than a fee.

From 2 R. S. 307 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 1), § 30, subd. 7.

§ 1520. Expiration of plaintiff's title before trial.

If the right or title of the plaintiff, in an action specified in this article, expires after the commencement of the action, but before the trial, and he would have been entitled to recover, but for the expiration, the verdict, report, or decision must be rendered according to the fact; and the plaintiff is entitled to judgment for his damages for the withholding of the property, to the time when his right or title so expired.

From 2 R. S. 308, § 31.

§ 1521. Abatement of action.

The provisions of title fourth of chapter eighth of this act, as applied to an action specified in this article, are subject to the qualification that the court may, in its discretion, proceed as prescribed either in that title or in the next two sections.

From Id., § 32; L. 1865, c. 357, § 1.

§ 1522. Action to be divided, when different persons succeed to different parcels.

Where, upon the death of a party, different persons succeed to the decedent's title to, or interest in, different distinct parcels of the property sought to be recovered, the court may, upon motion, and upon such terms as justice requires, direct that the action be divided into as many actions as are necessary; and that the successor to the title or interest of the decedent, to or in each distinct parcel, be substituted as plaintiff or defendant, as the case requires, in the action relating thereto.

New.

§ 1523. Id.; when different persons succeed to real property and to rents and profits.

Where the plaintiff seeks to recover damages for withholding the property, and, upon the death of a party, different persons succeed to the decedent's right or liability for those damages, and to his title to or interest in the property, the court may, upon motion made upon notice to the persons to be affected, and upon such terms as justice requires, direct the action to be divided into two actions, one to recover the possession of the property, with the rents and profits thereof accruing after the decedent's death, the other to recover the damages accruing before his death; and that the successor in interest of the decedent, with respect to the cause of action in each action, be substituted as plaintiff or defendant therein, as the case requires.

New.

§ 1524. [Am'd, 1911.] Effect of judgment rendered after trial of issue of fact.

A final judgment in an action specified in this article, rendered upon the trial of an issue of fact, is conclusive, as to the title established in the action, upon each party against whom it is rendered, and every person claiming from, through or under him, by title accruing, either after the judgment-roll is filed, or after a notice of the pendency of the action is filed in the proper county clerk's office, as prescribed in article ninth of this title.

From 2 R. S. 309, § 36; L. 1862, c. 485. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 509 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 1526. [Am'd, 1911.] Effect of judgment by default, etc.

A final judgment for the plaintiff, rendered in an action specified in this article, otherwise than upon the trial of an issue of fact, is conclusive upon the defendant, and every person claiming from, through, or under him, by title accruing, either after the judgment-roll is filed, or after a notice of the pendency of the action is filed in the proper county clerk's office, as prescribed in article ninth of this title.

From 2 R. S. 309, § 38. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 509 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§§ 1527, 1528. [Repealed by L. 1911, c. 509 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).]

§ 1529. [Am'd, 1911.] Effect on possession of vacating judgment.

Where the plaintiff has taken possession of real property by virtue of a final judgment, his possession shall not be in any way affected by the vacating of the judgment. In such a case, if the defendant thereafter recovers final judgment in the action, it must award to him the restitution of the possession of the property; and he may have an execution thereupon for the delivery of the possession to him, as if he was plaintiff.

From 2 R. S. 310, § 41. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 509 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 1531. Damages recoverable; set-off by defendant.

In an action, brought as prescribed in this article, the plaintiff, where he recovers judgment for the property, or possession of the property, is entitled to recover, as damages, the rents and profits, or the value of the use and occupation, of the real property recovered, for a term not exceeding six years; but the damages shall not include the value of the use of any improvements made by the defendant, or those under whom he claims. Where permanent improvements have been made, in good faith, by the defendant, or those under whom he claims, while holding, under color of title, adversely to the plaintiff, the value thereof must be allowed to the defendant, in reduction of the damages of the plaintiff, but not beyond the amount of those damages.

§ 1532. When action for partition may be brought.

Where two or more persons hold and are in possession of real property, as joint tenants or as tenants in common, in which either of them has an estate of inheritance, or for life, or for years, any one or more of them may maintain an action for the partition of the property, according to the respective rights of the persons interested therein; and for a sale thereof, if it appears that a partition thereof cannot be made, without great prejudice to the owners.

From 2 R. S. 317 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 3), § 1.

§ 1533. Am'd, 1887.] Id.; by remainderman.

Where two or more persons hold as joint tenants, or as tenants in common, a vested remainder or reversion, any one or more of them may maintain an action for the partition of the real property to which it attaches, according to their respective shares therein, subject to the interest of the person holding the particular estate therein, but no sale of the premises in such an action shall be made except by and with the consent in writing, to be acknowledged or proved and certified in like manner as a deed to be recorded, by the person or persons owning and holding such particular estate or estates; and if in such an action it shall appear in any stage thereof that partition or sale cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, the complaint must be dismissed. The dismissal of the complaint, as herein provided, shall not affect the right of any party to bring a new action, after the determination of such particular estate.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 688.

§ 1534. Id.; by an infant.

An action for the partition of real property shall not be brought by an infant, except by the written authority of the surrogate of the county in which the property, or a part thereof, is situated. The authority shall not be given, unless the surrogate is satisfied, by affidavit or other competent evidence, that the interests of the infant will be promoted by bringing the action. A judgment for a partition or sale shall not be rendered in such an action, unless the court is satisfied that the interests of the infant will be promoted thereby, and that fact is expressly recited in the judgment.

From L. 1852, c. 277, §§ 1, 2.

§ 1535. Guardian ad litem; how appointed.

A guardian ad litem for an infant party, in an action for partition, can be appointed only by the court.

From Id., and 2 R. S. 317, § 2.

§ 1536. [Am'd, 1884.] Security.

The security to be given by the guardian ad litem for an infant party, in an action for partition, must be a bond to the people of this State, executed by him and one or more sureties, as the court directs, in a sum fixed by the court, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the trust committed to him as guardian, and to render a just and true account of his guardianship, in any court or place, where thereunto required. The bond must be filed with the clerk, before the guardian enters upon the execution of his duties; and it cannot be dispensed with, although he is the general guardian of the infant.

From 2 R. S. 317, § 4. Am'd by L. 1884, c. 404.

From L. 1853, c. 238, § 2.

§ 1538. [Am'd, 1880, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1905, 1909.] Who must be parties. Every person having an undivided share, in possession or otherwise, in the property, as tenant in fee, for life, by the curtesy, or for years; every person entitled to the reversion, remainder or inheritance of an undivided share, after the determination of a particular estate therein; every person who, by any contingency contained in a devise or grant, or otherwise, is or may become entitled to a beneficial interest in an undivided share thereof, provided that where a future estate or interest is limited in any contingency to the persons who shall compose a certain class upon the happening of a future event, it shall be sufficient to make parties to the action the persons who would have been entitled to such estate or interest if such event had happened immediately before the commencement of the action: every person having an inchoate right of dower in an undivided share in the property; and every person having a right of dower in the property, or any part thereof, which has not been admeasured, must be made a party to an action for a partition. But no person, other than a joint tenant, or a tenant in common of the property, shall be a plaintiff in the action. Whenever an action for the partition of real property shall be brought before the expiration of three years from the time when letters of administration or letters testamentary, as the case may be, shall have been issued upon the estate of the decedent from whom the plaintiff's title is derived, the executors or administrators, as the case may be, if any, of the estate of said decedent, shall be made parties defendant. In case no executor or administrator of such decedent shall have been appointed at the time said action is begun, that fact shall be alleged in the complaint. The executors or administrators, if any, as the case may be, of a deceased person, who, if living, should be a party to such action, shall be made parties defendant therein, and in case no executor or administrator of such deceased person shall have been appointed, that fact shall be alleged in the complaint. Where the interlocutory judgment directs a sale of the premises sought to be partitioned, or of some part thereof, the judgment may, in the discretion of the court, direct that the premises so sold pursuant to such interlocutory judgment shall be free from the lien of every debt of such decedent or decedents, except debts which were a lien upon the premises before the death of such decedent or decedents. When the action is brought before three years have elapsed from the granting of such letters of administration or letters testamentary, as the case may be, upon the estate of the decedent from whom the plaintiff derived his title, and the interlocutory judgment directs, as above provided, that the premises shall be sold, free from the lien of debts, the final judgment shall direct that the proceeds of the sale remaining after the payment of the costs, referee's fees, expenses of sale, taxes, assessments, water rates, and liens established before the death of the decedent, including any sum allowed to a widow in satisfaction of her right of dower, therein directed to be paid, be forthwith paid into court by the referee making such sale by depositing the same with the county treasurer of the county, in which the trial of the action is placed, to the credit of the parties entitled thereto, to await the further order in the premises. Where the action is brought before three years have elapsed from the granting of letters of administration or letters testamentary, as the case may be, upon the estate of a deceased person, who, if living, should be a party to the action, and the interlocutory judgment directs, as above provided, that the premises shall be sold, free from the lien of debts, the final judgment shall direct that the share of the proceeds of such sale, which would have been his, if living, be paid into court by such referee, by depositing the same with such county treasurer, to await the further order in the premises. Upon the certificate of the surrogate of the county of which the decedent was, at the time of his death, a resident, showing that three years have elapsed since the issuing of letters testamentary or letters of administration, as the case may be, upon the estate of said decedent, and that no proceedings for the mortgage, lease or sale of the real property of said decedent for the payment of his debts or funeral expenses, or both, is pending, and upon the certificate of the county clerk of the county where the real property sold under the interlocutory judgment is located, showing that no notice provided for in section 2751 of the code of civil procedure has been filed in his office, the court, wherein the final judgment was made shall, upon the application of any party to said action, make an order directing the county treasurer to pay to said party from said deposit, the amount to which he is entitled under the said final judgment, with the accumulation thereon, if any, less the fees of said county treasurer. Any party to such action may, at any time after final judgment, upon notice to the executors or administrators of the decedent from whom the party applying derived his share or interest, apply to the court in which said action is pending for leave to withdraw the deposit or the share of the deposit, adjudged in the final judgment to belong to him; and, upon said application, the court may, in its discretion, make an order directing the county treasurer to pay over to said party the deposit, or the share of the deposit, adjudged in the final judgment to belong to him, but said order shall not be made until said party so applying shall have furnished a bond to the people of the state of New York in the penalty of twice the amount of the deposit sought to be withdrawn, with two or more good and sufficient sureties, approved by the judge or justice of the court making such order, and filed with such approval, in the office of the clerk of the county in which such action is pending, to the effect that the said party so withdrawing said deposit will pay any and all claims, not exceeding the amount of said deposit, when thereunto required by order of the court or by order of the surrogate or of the surrogate's court in a proceeding to mortgage, lease or sell the real property of such decedent. Where a final accounting has been had in the estate of said decedent in a surrogate's court, and certified copies of the account and decree of final settlement, showing that all of the debts of the decedent have been paid in full, is filed with the court having jurisdiction of the fund, the court may dispense with the giving of a bond and direct the immediate payment of the fund to the parties entitled thereto, subject to the provisions of article second, title three, chapter fifteen of the code of civil procedure. But where final judgment shall be rendered in any action for partition after three years have elapsed from the granting of letters of administration or letters testamentary, as the case may be, upon the estate of the decedent from whom the plaintiff derived title, and the premises shall have been sold, free from the lien of debts, as above provided, then, upon producing to the court the certificate of the surrogate of the county of which the decedent was at the time of his death a resident, showing that three years have elapsed since the issuing of letters of administration or letters testamentary as the case may be upon the estate of said decedent and that no proceeding for the mortgage, lease or sale of the real property of the decedent for the payment of his debts or funeral expenses or both is pending and upon the certificate of the clerk of the county where the real property sold under the interlocutory judgment is located showing that no notice provided for in section 2751 of the code of civil procedure has been filed in his office the court rendering the final judgment shall direct the payment of the different shares to the several parties entitled thereto; except that the share of a deceased person, who if living, should be a party to the action shall be paid into court as above provided, unless three years have also elapsed since the granting of letters of administration or letters testamentary, as the case may be, upon the estate of said last mentioned deceased person, and like certificates of the surrogate and county clerk are produced to the court.

§ 1539. [Am'd, 1892.] Who may be made parties.

The plaintiff may, at his election, make a tenant, by the curtesy, for life, or for years, of the entire property, or whoever may be entitled to a contingent or vested remainder or reversion in the entire property, or a creditor, or other person, having a lien or interest, which attaches to the entire property, a defendant in the action. In that case, the final judgment may either award to such party his or her entire right and interest, or the proceeds thereof, or where the right or interest is contingent, direct that the proceeds or share thereof be substituted for the property and invested for whoever may eventually be entitled thereto, or may reserve and leave unaffected his or her right and interest, or any portion thereof. A person specified in this section, who is not made a party, is not affected by the judgment in the action.

§ 1540. Id.; as to persons having liens.

The plaintiff may, at his election, make a creditor, having a lien on an undivided share or interest in the property, a defendant in the action. In that case, he must set forth the nature of the lien, and specify the share or interest to which it attaches. If partition of the property is made, the lien, whether the creditor is or is not made a party, shall thereafter attach only to the share or interest assigned to the party upon whose share or interest the lien attached; which must be first charged with its just proportion of the costs and expenses of the action, in preference to the lien.

From 2 R. S. 318, §§ 8, 9; L. 1889, c. 320, § 41.

§ 1541. [Am'd, 1914.] Provision where a party is unknown.

Where a defendant having a share or interest in the property is unknown, or where his name or part of his name is unknown, and the summons is served upon him by publication, pursuant to an order for that purpose, as prescribed in article second of title first of chapter fifth of this act, the notice subjoined to the copy of the summons as published must, in addition to the matters required in that article, state briefly the object of the action, and contain a brief description of the property.

§ 1542. Complaint to state interest of parties.

The complaint must describe the property with common certainty, and must specify the rights, shares, and interests therein of all the parties, as far as the same are known to the plaintiff. If a party, or the share, right, or interest of a party, is unknown to the plaintiff; or if a share, right, or interest is uncertain or contingent; or if the ownership of the inheritance depends upon an executory devise; or if a remainder is a contingent remainder, so that the party cannot be named; that fact must also be stated in the complaint.

From Id., § 5 (subds. 1, 2), and § 7.

§ 1543. Title of parties may be tried.

The title or interest of the plaintiff in the property, as stated in the complaint, may be controverted by the answer. The title or interest of any defendant in the property, as stated in the complaint, may also be controverted by his answer, or the answer of any other defendant; and the title or interest of any defendant, as stated in his answer, may be controverted by the answer of any other defendant. A defendant, thus controverting the title or interest of a co-defendant, must comply with section 521 of this act. The issues, joined as prescribed in this section, must be tried and determined in the action.

From 2 R. S. 320, §§ 18, 19. See §§ 521, 1204, ante.

§ 1544. Issues of fact triable by jury.

An issue of fact joined in the action is triable by a jury. Unless the court directs the issues to be stated, as prescribed in section 970 of this act, the issues may be tried upon the pleadings.

New.

§ 1545. When title to be ascertained by the court.

Where a defendant has made default in appearing or pleading, or where a party is an infant, the court must ascertain the rights, shares, and interests of the several parties in the property, by a reference or otherwise, before interlocutory judgment is rendered in the action.

From 2 R. S. 321 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 3), §§ 22, 23.

§ 1546. Interlocutory judgment.

The interlocutory judgment must declare what is the right, share, or interest of each party in the property, as far as the same has been ascertained, and must determine the rights of the parties therein. Where it is found, by the verdict, report, or decision, or where it appears to the court, upon an application for judgment in favor of the plaintiff, that the property, or any part thereof, is so circumstanced that a partition thereof cannot be made without great prejudice to the owners, the interlocutory judgment, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article, must direct that the property, or the part thereof which is so circumstanced, be sold at public auction. Otherwise, an interlocutory judgment in favor of the plaintiff, must direct that partition be made between the parties, according to their respective rights, shares, and interests.

From Id., §§ 23, 24, 81.

§ 1547. Partial partition; when made.

Where the right, share, and interest of a party has been ascertained and determined, and the rights, shares, or interests of the other parties, as between themselves, remain unascertained or undetermined, an interlocutory judgment for a partition, rendered as prescribed in the last section, must direct a partition, as between the party whose share has been so determined and the other parties to the action. Where the rights, shares, and interests of two or more parties have been thus ascertained and determined, the interlocutory judgment may also direct the partition among them of a part of the property, proportionate to their aggregate shares. In either case, the court may, from time to time, as the other rights, shares, and interests are ascertained and determined, render an interlocutory judgment, directing the partition, in like manner, of the remainder of the property. Where an interlocutory judgment is rendered, in a case specified in this section, the court may direct the action to be severed, and final judgment to be rendered with respect to the portion of the property set apart to the parties, whose rights, shares, and interests are determined, leaving the action to proceed as against the other parties, with respect to the remainder of the property; and if necessary, the court may direct that one of those parties be substituted as plaintiff.

From L. 1847, c. 430, §§ 1, 2.

§ 1548. Shares may be set off in common.

Where two or more parties, to an action for partition, make it appear to the court, that they desire to enjoy their shares in common with each other, the interlocutory judgment may, in the discretion of the court, direct partition to be so made, as to set off to them their shares of the real property partitioned, without partition as between themselves, to be held by them in common.

From L. 1847, c. 430, § 4.

§ 1549. Appointment of commissioners.

Where the interlocutory judgment, in an action for partition, directs a partition, it must designate three reputable and disinterested freeholders as commissioners, to make the partition so directed.

From 2 R. S. 321, § 25.

§ 1550. Commissioners to be sworn, etc.

Each of the commissioners must, before entering upon the execution of his duties, subscribe and take an oath before an officer specified in section 842 of this act, to the effect that he will faithfully, honestly and impartially discharge the trust reposed in him. Each commissioner's oath must be filed with the clerk, before he enters upon the execution of his duties. The court may, at any time, remove either of the commissioners. If either of them dies, resigns, neglects or refuses to serve, or is removed, the court may, from time to time, by order, appoint another person in his place.

From Id., §§ 26, 27. See § 1608, post.

§ 1551. Id.; when to make partition.

The commissioners must forthwith proceed to make partition, as directed by the interlocutory judgment, unless it appears to them, or a majority of them, that partition thereof, or of a particular lot, tract, or other portion thereof, cannot be made, without great prejudice to the owners; in which case, they must make a written report of that fact to the court.

From Id., §§ 28, 37. See § 1560, post.

§ 1552. Partition; how made.

In making the partition, the commissioners must divide the property into distinct parcels, and allot the several parcels thereof to the respective parties, quality and quantity being relatively considered, according to the respective rights and interests of the parties, as fixed by the interlocutory judgment. They must designate the several parcels by posts, stones, or other permanent monuments. They may employ a surveyor, with the necessary assistants, to aid them in so doing.

From Id., § 29.

§ 1553. Provision where there is a particular estate.

Where a party has a right of dower in the property, or a part thereof, which has not been admeasured, or has an estate by the curtesy, for life or for years, in an undivided share of the property, the commissioners may allot to that party his or her share of the property, without reference to the duration of the estate. And they may make partition of the share so allotted to that party, among the parties, who are entitled to the remainder or reversion thereof, to be enjoyed by them upon the determination of the particular estate, where, in the opinion of the commissioners, such a partition can be made without prejudice to the rights of the parties.

From L. 1847, c. 430, § 5.

§ 1554. Report of commissioners.

All the commissioners must meet together in the performance of any of their duties; but the acts of a majority so met are valid. They, or a majority of them, must make a full report of their proceedings, under their hands, specifying therein the manner in which they have discharged their trust, describing the property divided, and the share or interest in a share, allotted to each party, with the quantity, courses, and distances, or other particular description of each share, and a description of the posts, stones, or other monuments; and specifying the items of their charges. Their report must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded, and must be filed in the office of the clerk.

From 2 R. S. 322, §§ 30, 31, 33.

§ 1555. Fees and expenses.

The fees and expenses of the commissioners, including the expense of a survey, when it is made, must be taxed under the direction of the court; and the amount thereof must be paid by the plaintiff, and allowed as part of his costs.

From Id., § 32.

§ 1556. Confirming or setting aside report.

The court must confirm or set aside the report, and may, if necessary, appoint new commissioners, who must proceed as directed in this article.

From Id., § 34.

§ 1557. Final judgment on report; effect thereof.

Upon the confirmation, by the court, of the report of the commissioners making partition, final judgment, that the partition be firm and effectual forever, must be rendered, which is binding and conclusive upon the following persons:

1. The plaintiff; each defendant upon whom the summons was served, either personally, or without the State, or by publication, pursuant to an order obtained for that purpose, as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act; and the legal representatives of each party, specified in this subdivision. So much of section 445 of this act, as requires the court to allow a defendant to defend an action, after final judgment, does not apply to an action for partition.

2. Each person claiming from, through, or under such a party, by title accruing after the filing of the judgment-roll, or after the filing, in the proper county clerk's office, of a notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in article ninth of this title.

3. Each person, not in being when the interlocutory judgment is rendered, who, by the happening of any contingency, becomes afterwards entitled to a beneficial interest attaching to, or an estate or interest in, a portion of the property, the person first entitled to which, or other virtual representative whereof, was a party specified in the first subdivision of this section.

But this section does not apply to a party, whose right and interest are expressly reserved and left unaffected, as prescribed in section 1539 of this act, or to a person claiming from, through, or under such a party.

From 2 R. S. 322, § 35.

§ 1558. Judgment must direct delivery of possession.

The final judgment must also direct that each of the parties, who is entitled to possession of a distinct parcel allotted to him, be let into the possession thereof, either immediately, or after the determination of the particular estate, as the case requires.

New.

§ 1559. Costs; how awarded. Id.; against unknown parties.

The final judgment for the partition of the property, must also award, that each defendant pay to the plaintiff his proportion of the plaintiff's costs, including the extra allowance. The sum to be paid by each must be fixed by the court, according to the respective rights of the parties, and specified in the judgment. If a defendant is unknown, his proportion of the costs must be fixed and specified in like manner. An execution against an unknown defendant may be issued to collect the costs awarded against him, as if he was named in the judgment; and his right, share, or interest in the property may be sold by virtue thereof, as if he was named in the execution.

From 2 R. S. 328, § 72.

§ 1560. Sale of property; when directed.

If the commissioners, or a majority of them, report that the property, or a particular lot, tract, or other portion thereof, is so circumstanced, that a partition thereof cannot be made, without great prejudice to the owners thereof, the court, if it is satisfied that the report is just and correct, may thereupon, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article, modify the interlocutory judgment, or render a supplemental interlocutory judgment, reciting the facts, and directing that the property, or the distinct parcel thereof so circumstanced, be sold by a referee, designated in the judgment, or by the sheriff.

From 2 R. S. 323, 329. §§ 37, 81.

§ 1561. Reference to inquire as to creditors.

Before an interlocutory judgment for the sale of real property is rendered, in an action for partition, the court must, either with or without application by a party, direct a reference, to ascertain whether there is any creditor, not a party, who has a lien on the undivided share or interest of any party. But the court may direct or dispense with such a reference, in its discretion, where a party produces a search, certified by the clerk, or by the clerk and register, as the case requires, of the county where the property is situated; and it appears therefrom, and by the affidavits, if any, produced therewith, that there is no such outstanding lien.

From 2 R. S. 324, § 42; L. 1880, c. 320.

§ 1562. [Am'd, 1887.] Duty of referee.

Where a reference is directed, as prescribed in the last section, the referee must cause a notice to be published, once in each week for six successive weeks, in such newspaper published in the county wherein the place of trial is designated, as shall be designated by the court directing said reference, and also in a newspaper published in each county wherein the property is situated, requiring each person, not a party to the action, who, at the date of the order, had a lien upon any undivided share or interest in the property, to appear before the referee, at a specified place, and on or before a specified day, to prove his lien, and the true amount due or to become due to him by reason thereof. The referee must report to the court, with all convenient speed, the name of each creditor, whose lien is satisfactorily proved before him, the nature and extent of the lien, the date thereof, and the amount due or to become due thereupon.

From 2 R. S. 324, § 43. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 686.

§ 1563. Money to be paid into court.

If it appears by the pleadings, or by the evidence in the action, or by the report, that there was, at the date of the order, any existing lien upon the share or interest of a party in the property, the interlocutory judgment, directing the sale, must also direct the officer making it to pay into court the portion of the money, arising from the sale of the share or interest of that party, after deducting the portion of the costs and expenses for which it is liable.

From 2 R. S. 324, § 44.

§ 1564. Application for money.

Where money is paid into court, in a case specified in the last section, the party may apply to the court for an order directing that the money, or such part thereof as he claims, be paid to him. Upon such an application, he must produce the following papers:

1. An affidavit, made by himself, or, if a sufficient excuse is shown, by his agent or attorney, stating the true amount actually due on each incumbrance, and the name and residence of the owner of the incumbrance, as far as they are known, or can be ascertained with due diligence.

2. An affidavit, showing service of a notice of the application upon each owner of an incumbrance. Service of the notice, within the State, must be personal, or by leaving it at the owner's residence, with some person of suitable age and discretion, at least fourteen days previous to the application. Service, without the State, if personal, must be made at least twenty days previous to the application. If the owner of the incumbrance resides without the State, and the place of his abode cannot be ascertained, with reasonable diligence, notice may be served upon him by publishing it in the newspaper printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published, once in each week for the four weeks immediately preceding the application.

Upon the application, the court must make such an order as justice requires.

From Id., §§ 45, 46.

§ 1565. Payment of incumbrances.

When the whole amount of the unsatisfied liens upon an undivided share, which were existing at the date of the order of reference, has been ascertained, the court must order the portion of the money so paid into court, on account of that share, to be distributed among the creditors having the liens, according to the priority of each of them. Where the incumbrancer is not a party to the action, the clerk or other officer, by whom a lien is paid off, must procure satisfaction thereof to be acknowledged or proved, as required by law, and must cause the incumbrance to be duly satisfied or cancelled of record. The expense of so doing must be paid out of the portion of the money in court, belonging to the party, by whom the incumbrance was payable.

From 2 R. S. 325, §§ 47, 48.

§ 1566. Other parties not to be delayed.

The proceedings to ascertain and settle the liens upon an undivided share, as prescribed in the last three sections, shall not affect any other party to the action, or delay the paying over or investing of money, to or for the benefit of any other party, upon whose share or interest in the property there does not appear to be any existing lien.

From Id., § 49.

§ 1567. Sale of dower interest.

Where a party has an existing right of dower in the entire property directed to be sold, at the time when an interlocutory judgment for a sale is rendered in an action for partition, the court must consider and determine whether the interests of all the parties require, that the right of dower should be excepted from the sale, or that it should be sold.

From Id., § 50.

§ 1568. Purchaser to hold the property free therefrom.

If a sale of the property, including the right of dower, is directed, the interest of the party entitled to the right of dower shall pass thereby; and the purchaser, his heirs and assigns, shall hold the property free and discharged from any claim, by virtue of that right. In that case, the dowress is entitled to receive, from the proceeds of the sale of the whole property, a gross sum, in satisfaction of her right of dower, or to have one-third of those proceeds paid into court, for the purpose of being invested for her benefit, as prescribed in the next section with respect to the dowress of an undivided share.

From Id., § 51.

§ 1569. [Am'd, 1913.] Gross sum to be paid to or invested for tenant in dower, etc.

A party to an action for partition, who has a right of dower, or is a tenant for life, or for years, in or of an undivided share of the property sold, is entitled to receive, from the proceeds of the sale, a gross sum, to be fixed according to the principles of law applicable to annuities, in satisfaction of his or her estate or interest. The written consent of the party to receive such a gross sum, acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded, must be filed, at the time of, or before, the filing of the report of sale; otherwise, the court must direct that, out of the proceeds of the sale, which belong to the undivided share to which the estate or interest attaches, one-third, in case of a dowress, and in any other case arising under this section, the entire proceeds, or such a proportion thereof as fairly represents the interest of the holder of the particular estate, be paid into court, for the purpose of being invested for his or her benefit. If it shall appear to the court that the tenant for life or for years, or the widow, is an infant, lunatic or otherwise incompetent, and that a general guardian or committee has been duly appointed, upon proof that it will be for the best interest and advantage of the estate of such infant or lunatic or incompetent person, the court may authorize and direct such guardian or committee, in the name of such infant, lunatic or incompetent person, having such estate for life, or years or dower right, to execute an instrument under seal, acknowledged or proved and certified in like manner as a deed to be recorded, whereby such guardian or committee shall consent to accept in lieu of such estate or dower, a sum, to be ascertained by the court as above provided, according to the principles applicable to life annuities; and upon presentation of such an instrument to the court, the value of the estate for life or for years or dower so ascertained by it shall be paid to such guardian or committee. Such instrument shall have the same force and effect as a deed or instrument executed and acknowledged by a competent person or a person of full age.

From 2 R. S. 325, 326, §§ 52, 53, 54. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 450 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 1570. [Am'd, 1892.] Interests of owners of future estates to be protected.

Where it appears that a party to the action has an inchoate right of dower or any other future right or estate vested or contingent, or that any person or persons not in being who may by any contingency become entitled to any interest or estate in the property sold, the court must fix the proportional value of the right or estate according to the law applicable to annuities and survivorships, or set aside so much of the proceeds of sale to which the contingency attaches, and must direct that proportion of the proceeds of sale to be invested, secured or paid over in such manner as it deems calculated to protect the rights and interests of the parties.

From L. 1840, c. 177, § 1. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 581.

§ 1571. Married woman may release her interest.

A married woman may release to her husband her inchoate right of dower, in the property directed to be sold, by a written instrument, duly acknowledged by her and certified, as required by law with respect to the acknowledgment of a conveyance to bar her dower; which must be filed with the clerk. Thereupon, the share of the proceeds of the sale, arising from her contingent interest, must be paid to her husband.

From L. 1840, c. 177, § 2.

§ 1572. Unknown owners.

If a person, entitled to an estate or interest in the property sold, is made a party as an unknown defendant, the court must provide for the protection of his rights, as far as may be, as if he was known and had appeared.

From 2 R. S. 326, § 55. See §§ 1541, 1557, subd. 1, ante.

§ 1573. Sale; terms of credit thereupon.

The court must, in the interlocutory judgment for a sale, direct the terms of credit which may be allowed for any portion of the purchase-money, of which it thinks proper to direct the investment, and for any portion of the purchase-money, which is required to be invested for the benefit of a person, as prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 323, § 38.

§ 1574. Credit; how secured.

The portion of the purchase-money, for which credit is so allowed, must always be secured at interest, by a mortgage upon the property sold, with a bond of the purchaser; and by such additional security, if any, as the court prescribes.

From Id., § 39.

§ 1575. Separate securities.

The officer making the sale may take separate mortgages and other securities in the name of the county treasurer of the county in which the property is situated, for such convenient portions of the purchase-money, as are directed by the court to be invested; and in the name of the owner, for the share of any known owner of full age, who desires to have it invested.

From 2 R. S. 328, § 40.

§ 1576. Report of sale.

Immediately after completing the sale, the officer making it must file with the clerk his report thereof under oath, containing a description of each parcel sold, the name of the purchaser thereof, and the price at which it was sold.

From Id., § 59.

§ 1577. Final judgment; effect thereof.

If the sale is confirmed by the court, a final judgment must be entered, confirming it accordingly; directing the officer making it to execute the proper conveyances, and take the proper securities pursuant to the sale; and also directing concerning the application of the proceeds of the sale. Such a final judgment is binding and conclusive upon the same persons, upon whom a final judgment for partition is made binding and conclusive by section 1557 of this act; and it effectually bars each of those persons, who is not a purchaser at the sale, from all right, title and interest in the property sold.

From Id., §§ 60, 61a, 61b.

§ 1578. [Am'd, 1883.] Id.; effect thereof upon incumbrancers.

Such a final judgment is also a bar against each person, not a party, who has, at the time when it is rendered, a general lien by judgment or decree on the undivided share or interest of a party, if notice was given to appear before the referee, and make proof of liens, as prescribed in section 1562 of this act, and also against each person made a party, who then has a specific lien on any such undivided share or interest; but a person having any such specific lien appearing of record at the time of the filing of the notice of the pendency of the action, who is not made a party, is not affected by such judgment.

§ 1579. Costs and expenses; how paid.

Where final judgment, confirming a sale, is rendered, the costs of each party to the action, and the expenses of the sale, including the officer's fees, must be deducted from the proceeds of the sale, and each party's costs must be paid to his attorney. But the court may, in its discretion, direct that the costs and expenses of any trial, reference, or other proceeding in the action, be paid out of the share of any party in the proceeds, or may render judgment against any party therefor. Where a proportion of the proceeds is to be paid to, or invested for the benefit of any person, as prescribed in any provision of this article, the amount thereof must be determined by the residue of the entire proceeds, remaining after deducting the costs and expenses chargeable against them.

From 2 R. S. 326, 328, §§ 63, 72.

§ 1580. [Am'd, 1908.] Distribution of proceeds.

The proceeds of a sale, after deducting therefrom the costs and expenses chargeable against them, must be awarded to the parties whose rights and interests have been sold, in proportion thereto. The sum chargeable upon any share, to satisfy a lien thereon, must be paid to the creditor, or retained, subject to the order of the court; and the remainder, except as otherwise prescribed in this article, must be paid, by the officer making the sale, to the party owning the share, or his legal representatives, or into court for his use. Within sixty days after the entry of final judgment, unless such time be extended by an order of the court entered in the office of the clerk within said sixty days, the officer making the sale must file with the clerk his report under oath of the disposition of the proceeds of the sale, accompanied by the vouchers of the persons to whom payments were ordered to be made.

§ 1581. [Am'd, 1887, 1892, 1897.] Shares of infants.

Where a party entitled to receive a portion of the proceeds is an infant, the court may direct it to be invested in permanent securities in the name and for the benefit of the infant, or it may direct it to be paid over to the general guardian of the said infant when the guardian shall have executed to such infant a bond with two sureties which shall be approved by the court; or, if any of the moneys arising from the proceeds of such sale shall have been paid to the county treasurer, and on due proof that such money has remained uninvested in permanent securities for the space of three months, may direct the same to be paid to the general guardian of such infant upon his giving an undertaking in an amount and with securities satisfactory to the court for the faithful execution of his trust. In the case of an infant residing without the state, and having in the state or country where he or she resides a general guardian or person duly appointed under the laws of such state or country, to the control and entitled, by the laws of such state or country, to the custody of the money of such infant, the court, upon satisfactory proof of such facts and of the sufficiency of the bond or security given by such general guardian or person in such state or country by the certificate of a judge of a court of record of such state or country, or otherwise, may direct that the portion of such infant arising upon such sale shall be paid over to such general guardian or person.

From Id., § 64. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 482; L. 1892, c. 556; L. 1897, c. 602 (in effect Sept. 1, 1897).

§ 1582. [Am'd, 1889, 1891, 1893.] Id.; of unknown and absent owners.

Where a person has been made a defendant as an unknown person, or where the name of a defendant is unknown, or where the summons has been served upon a defendant without the state, or by publication, and he has not appeared in the action, the court must direct his portion to be invested in permanent securities, at interest, for his benefit, until claimed by him or his legal representatives, but after the lapse of twenty-five years from the time of the payment into court, or to the treasurer of any county, of any portion of the proceeds of the sale of real property, for unknown heirs, heretofore or hereafter to be made in any action of partition, without any claim therefor having been made by any person entitled thereto, and upon there being made and presented to the court, at a special term thereof, proof, by petition or otherwise, showing to the satisfaction of the court that due inquiry for such unknown heirs, or their representatives, has been made and that they cannot be found, and that no claim has been made for such portion of said proceeds by any person entitled thereto, proceedings shall thereupon be taken in said court, and an investigation had therein as to the heirship, death or whereabouts of such unknown heirs or their representatives, and as to the known heirs of the ancestor of such unknown heirs, the next of kin, representatives and distributees of such known heirs, and as to all persons interested in such proceeds, and their respective interests therein, and the said court shall, by an order made in the action, direct that a notice entitled in the action and signed by the petitioner, or his attorney, and directed to such unknown heirs or their representatives, and to known heirs, their next of kin, representatives or distributees, and all persons interested in such proceeds, be served upon them by the publication thereof, the same to be published once in each week for six successive weeks in a newspaper published in the county where the action was brought, and in such other newspapers as the court may direct, ordering and requiring such unknown heirs, or their representatives, and all known heirs, their next of kin, or representatives, and all persons interested in such proceeds, and each of them to be and appear in said court at a special term thereof, at a time and place to be specified in said order and notice, and at least six weeks from the date of the first publication of such notice, to then and there establish their heirship and identity, kinship and interest, and submit any proof, as to such unknown heirs, or their representatives, and the known heirs, their next of kin, representatives or distributees, and all persons interested and their interest in such proceeds, they may desire, and that in case of their default in so doing, that the said proceeds will be distributed and paid over to the known heirs of the ancestor from whom such unknown heirs derived title thereto, and to their heirs, next of kin, representatives, distributees and assigns, and that they and each of them shall thereafter be forever barred of and from all and every cause or causes of action for such proceeds, or on account thereof, or growing out of the distribution thereof, and of and from all right, title, claim and interest in and to such proceeds, and shall be deemed to have surrendered all right, claim and interest in and to such proceeds. The order must contain a direction that a copy of the notice must be served on each of the persons named in the order, if within the state, in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant in an action in the supreme court, at least twenty days before the time specified in the notice. The publication of such notice, as required by said order, is hereby made and shall be deemed and taken for all purposes to be due and complete service upon each and every of such unknown heirs or their representatives, and the known heirs, their next of kin, and representatives, and all persons interested in such proceeds, of due notice of the proceedings to distribute and pay out such proceeds, and shall be conclusive upon each and all of them. Proof of such personal service may be made by the affidavit of the person making the same, and proof of the publication of such notice may be made by affidavit of the publisher of such paper or papers. At the time and place specified in the said order and notice, such unknown heirs or their representatives, and all known heirs, their next of kin, representatives or distributees, devisees, and all persons interested in such proceeds, shall appear in court, in person or by attorney, and make proof establishing their heirship and identity, kinship and interest in such proceeds, and upon proof being made to the satisfaction of the court of the heirship and identity of the unknown heirs, the proceeding for distribution shall be dismissed. And if such un-the time and place specified in such notice and order, to establish their heirship and identity, kinship or interest, they and each of them, and every person claiming under or through them, shall thereafter be forever barred of and from all and every cause or causes of action for such proceeds, or on account thereof, or growing out of the distribution of such proceeds, and of and from all right, title, claim and interest in and to such proceeds, and shall be deemed to have surrendered all right, claim and interest in and to such proceeds. And upon proofs being made of such publication, and showing to the satisfaction of the court that such unknown heirs or their representatives can not be found, or are dead, the said court shall have power to decree accordingly, and to decree that the share or interest of such unknown heirs in such real property was vested, at the time of such sale, in the known heirs of the ancestor from whom such unknown heirs derived title thereto, and to decree that the unclaimed portion of such proceeds was vested at the time of such payment in such known heirs, and that such heirs, their heirs, next of kin, representatives, distributees, devisees and assigns, are entitled thereto; and the said court shall make an order in such action, directing the payment to them, or their assigns, of the respective shares or portions of, or interest in such proceeds to which they are entitled; and which order shall be entered in the office of the clerk of the county where the original action was brought, and after having been so entered for three months, shall be conclusive evidence of the regularity of the proceedings upon which it is based, and of all the facts set forth therein; and, upon serving upon the county treasurer a certified copy of such order, the treasurer shall so pay over and distribute such proceeds, after deducting his lawful commissions, and shall thereupon be exempt from all liability on account thereof; and if any such proceeds shall have been paid over by any county treasurer to the treasurer of the state of New York, under the provisions of section 753 of this act, due notice of said applications and proceedings shall be given to the comptroller of the state of New York, and the said proceeds shall be paid out by the treasurer of the state of New York, as provided by sections 751 and 753 of this act, and upon such payment he shall thereupon be exempt from all liability on account thereof.

§ 1583. Id.; of tenants of particular estates.

Where a portion of the proceeds representing an undivided share or interest, is invested for the benefit of a tenant for life, or for years, or of a widow, as prescribed in the foregoing provisions of this article, the court must cause it to be invested in permanent securities, at interest, and the interest to be paid, from time to time as it accrues, to the person for whose benefit it is invested, while his or her right continues.

From 2 R. S. 327, § 66.

§ 1584. Court may require security to refund.

The court may, in its discretion, require any person, before he receives his portion of the proceeds of the sale, to give such security as it directs, to the people, or to such parties or other persons, as it prescribes, to refund the same, or a portion thereof, with interest, if it thereafter appears that he was not entitled thereto.

From Id., § 67.

§ 1585. Security to be taken in name of county treasurer.

A security taken under any provision of this article, except as otherwise specially prescribed therein, must be taken in the name and official title of the county treasurer of the county in which the property sold is situated. He, and his successors in office, must hold the same for the use and benefit of the persons interested, subject to the order of the court.

From Id., § 68; L. 1848, c. 277, § 1.

§ 1586. Action thereupon.

The court may in its discretion, and upon such terms and conditions as justice requires, make an order, allowing a person interested in a security specified in the last section, to maintain an action thereupon in the name of the county treasurer.

From 2 R. S. 328, § 71.

§ 1587. Compensation to equalize partition.

Where it appears that partition cannot be made equal between the parties, according to their respective rights, without prejudice to the rights or interests of some of them, the final judgment may award compensation to be made by one party to another for equality of partition. But compensation cannot be so awarded against a party who is unknown, or whose name is unknown. Nor can it be awarded against an infant, unless it appears, that he has personal property sufficient to pay it, and that his interests will be promoted thereby.

From 2 R. S. 330, § 83.

§ 1588. Proceedings on death of parties.

If, upon the death of one of two or more plaintiffs, or one of two or more defendants, in an action for partition, the interest of the decedent in the property passed to a person, not a party to the action, the latter may be made defendant by the order of the court; and a supplemental summons may be issued, to bring him in accordingly.

From 2 R. S. 387 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 1), §§ 6, 7.

§ 1589. Rents, etc., may be adjusted.

Nothing contained in this article prevents the court from adjusting, in the interlocutory or final judgment, or otherwise, as the case requires, the rights of one or more of the parties, as against any other party or parties, by reason of the receipt, by the latter, of more than his or their proper proportion of the rents or profits of a share, or part of a share.

New. See 48 N. Y. 106.

§ 1590. [Am'd, 1895, 1905.] Partition by guardian of infant; committee of lunatic, etc.

Where an infant, idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard, holds real property, in joint tenancy or in common, the general guardian of the infant, or the committee of the idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard, may apply to the supreme court or to the county court of the county, wherein the real property is situated, for authority to agree to a partition of the real property. Where such application affects the interests of an incompetent person who has been committed to a state institution, and is an inmate thereof, notice of such application must be given to the superintendent, acting superintendent, or state officer having special jurisdiction over the institution where the incompetent person is confined.

From 2 R. S. 330, 331, §§ 86, 89. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1905, c. 431 (in effect Sept. 1, 1905).

§ 1591. Contents of petition.

Such an application must be by a petition, which must describe the real property proposed to be partitioned; must state the rights and interests of the several owners thereof; must specify the particular partition proposed to be made; and must be verified by affidavit. The court may order notice of the application to be given to such persons as it thinks proper.

From 2 R. S. 330, § 87.

§ 1592. [Am'd, 1886.] Court may authorize partition.

If, after due inquiry into the merits of the application, by a reference or otherwise, the court is of the opinion that the interests of the infant, or of the idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard will be promoted by the partition, it may make an order authorising the petitioner to agree to the partition proposed, and in the name of the infant, or of the idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard, to execute releases of his right and interest in and to that part of the property which falls to the shares of the other joint-tenants or tenants in common. The court may, in its discretion, for the furtherance of the interests of said infant, idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard, direct partition to be so made as to set off to him or them his or their share in common with any of the other owners, provided the consent in writing thereto of such owners shall be first obtained.

From 2 R. S. 330, 331, §§ 87, 90. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 208.

§ 1593. Effect of releases.

Releases so executed have the same validity and effect, as if they were executed by the person in whose behalf they are executed, and as if the infant was of full age, or the idiot, lunatic, or habitual drunkard was of sound mind, and competent to manage his affairs.

From 2 R. S. 331, §§ 88a, 91.

§ 1594. [Am'd, 1911, 1916.] When the State is interested.

The people of the state may be made a party defendant to an action for the partition of real property, in the same manner as a private person. In such a case, the summons must be served upon the attorney-general, who must appear in behalf of the people, but where the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant, as herein provided, the complaint shall set forth, in addition to the other matters required to be set forth by the code of civil procedure detailed facts showing the nature and extent of the interest in or lien on the said real property of the people of the state of New York and the reason for making the people a party. Upon failure to state such facts, the complaint shall be dismissed, as to the people of the state of New York. The commissioners of the land office, whenever they deem it for the best interests of the state, may order the treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller to pay off and cancel any mortgage, tax, or other encumbrance, or any amount due thereon, or to acquire any undivided interest, adverse to the state, existing on any lands belonging to the state, or in which the state has an interest, to perfect in the state a title to any such lands or to protect the state's interest therein, and the plaintiff shall not be entitled to costs in an action wherein the people of the state are made a party defendant, unless the commissioners of the land office, after a full presentation of the facts to them shall have determined before the action of partition is brought against the state that the interests of the state did not warrant their making an order for the payment or cancellation of said mortgage, lien or encumbrance, or any amount due thereon, or for the acquisition of any outstanding undivided interest adverse to the state, or unless the commissioners of the land office shall have failed to make such determination within three months after such full presentation of facts shall have been made to them by a verified statement in writing, and filed with the secretary of said commissioners at his office in the city of Albany, nor unless a certified copy of the commissioners' report of partition, and of the referee's or sheriff's report of sale, in case of a sale, filed in the action shall have first been duly served upon the attorney-general; nor in any event shall an additional allowance under sections 3252 or 3253 of this act be made to the plaintiff, in an action wherein the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant.

From Id., §§ 92, 93. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 26; L. 1916, c. 330 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1595. Exemplified copy of judgment may be recorded.

An exemplified copy of the judgment-roll, or of the final judgment, in an action for partition, may be recorded, in the office for recording deeds, in each county in which any real property affected thereby is situated.

1625. Certain provisions of article second made applicable.

§ 1596. [Am'd, 1882.] Limitation of action for dower.

An action for dower must be commenced by a widow, within twenty years after the death of her husband; but if she is, at the time of his death, either:

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or
2. Insane; or
3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life;

The time of such a disability is not a part of the time limited by this section. And if, at any time before such claim of dower has become barred by the above lapse of twenty years, the owner or owners of the lands subject to such dower, being in possession, shall have recognized such claim of dower by any statement contained in a writing under seal, subscribed and acknowledged in the manner entitling a deed of real estate to be recorded, or if by any judgment or decree of a court of record within the same time and concerning the lands in question, wherein such owner or owners were parties, such right of dower shall have been distinctly recognized as a subsisting claim against said lands, the time after the death of her husband, and previous to such acknowledgment in writing or such recognition by judgment or decree, is not a part of the time limited by this section.

From 1 R. S. 742 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 3), § 18. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 277.

§ 1597. Against whom action to be brought.

Where the property, in which dower is claimed, is actually occupied, the occupant thereof must be made defendant in the action. Where it is not so occupied, the action must be brought against some person exercising acts of ownership thereupon, or claiming title thereto, or an interest therein, at the time of the commencement of the action.

New. See § 1502, ante.

§ 1598. [Am'd, 1913.] Who may be joined as defendants.

1. In either of the cases specified in the last section, any other person, claiming title to, or the right to the possession of, the real property in which dower is claimed, may be joined as defendant in the action.

2. The people of the state of New York may be made a party defendant in an action for dower where the people of the state of New York have an interest in or a lien upon the lands affected thereby, in the same manner as a private person. In such a case the summons must be served upon the attorney-general, who must appear in behalf of the people. But where the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant, as herein provided, the complaint shall set forth, in addition to the other matters required to be set forth by the code of civil procedure, detailed facts showing the particular nature of the interest in or the lien on the said real property of the people of the state of New York and the reason for making the people a party defendant. Upon failure to state such facts the complaint shall be dismissed as to the people of the state of New York.

New. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 773 (in effect September 1, 1913). See § 1503, ante.

§ 1599. Id.; where defendants claim in severalty.

In an action to recover dower, in a distinct parcel of real property of which the plaintiff's husband died seized, or in all the real property which he aliened by one conveyance, all the persons in possession of, or claiming title to, the property, or any part thereof, may be made defendants, although they possess or claim title to different portions thereof in severalty.

New. See Ellicott v. Mosier, 11 Barb. 574, 7 N. Y. 201.

§ 1600. Damages may be recovered; how estimated.

Where a widow recovers, in an action therefor, dower in property, of which her husband died seized, she may also recover, in the same action, damages for withholding her dower, to the amount of one-third of the annual value of the mesne profits of the property, with interest; to be computed, where the action is against the heir, from her husband's death, or, where it is against any other person, from the time when she demanded her dower of the defendant; and in each case, to the time of the trial, or application for judgment, as the case may be; but not exceeding six years in the whole. The damages shall not include any thing for the use of permanent improvements, made after the death of the husband.

From 1 R. S. 742 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 3), §§ 19, 20, 21.

§ 1601. Id.; in action against alienee of husband.

Where a widow recovers dower, in a case not specified in the last section, she may also recover, in the same action, damages for withholding her dower, to be computed from the commencement of the action; but they shall not include any thing for the use of permanent improvements, made since the property was aliened by her husband. In all other respects, the same must be computed as prescribed in the last section.

New.

§ 1602. Id.; where several parcels, etc.

The last two sections do not authorize the recovery, against a defendant who is joined with others, of damages for withholding dower, in any portion of the property not occupied or claimed by him.

New.

§ 1603. Id.; against heirs, etc., aliening land.

Where a widow recovers dower in real property aliened by the heir of her husband, she may recover, in a separate action against him, her damages for withholding her dower, from the time of the death of her husband to the time of the alienation, not exceeding six years in the whole. The sum recovered from him must be deducted from the sum, which she would otherwise be entitled to recover from the grantee; and any sum recovered as damages from the grantee, must be deducted from the sum, which she would otherwise be entitled to recover from the heir.

From 1 R. S. 748, § 22.

§ 1604. Action barred by assignment of dower.

The acceptance by a widow, of an assignment of dower, in satisfaction of her claim upon the property in question, bars an action for dower, and may be pleaded by any defendant.

From Id., § 23.

§ 1605. Collusive recovery not to prejudice infant.

Where a widow, not having a right to dower, recovers dower against an infant, by the default or collusion of his guardian, the infant shall not be prejudiced thereby; but when he comes of full age, he may bring an action of ejectment against the widow, to recover the property so wrongfully awarded for dower, with damages from the time when she entered into possession, although that is more than six years before the commencement of the action.

From Id., § 24.

§ 1606. Complaint.

The complaint, in an action for dower, must describe the property, as prescribed in section 1511 of this act; and must set forth the name of the plaintiff's husband.

From 2 R. S. 304 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 1), § 10.

§ 1607. Interlocutory judgment for admeasurement.

If the defendant makes default in appearing or pleading; or if the right of the plaintiff to dower is not disputed by the answer; or if it appears, by the verdict, report, or decision upon a trial, that the plaintiff is entitled to dower in the real property described in the complaint, an interlocutory judgment must be rendered; which, except as otherwise prescribed in this article, must direct that the plaintiff's dower in the property, particularly describing it, be admeasured by a referee, designated in the judgment, or by three reputable and disinterested freeholders, designated therein, as commissioners for that purpose.

Based on 2 R. S. 311, § 55; Id. 489, §§ 9, 10.

§ 1608. Oath of commissioners, etc.; removal; filling vacancy.

Each of the commissioners, or the referee, as the case requires, must, before entering upon the execution of his duties, subscribe and take an oath, before an officer specified in section 842 of this act, to the effect, that he will faithfully, honestly and impartially discharge the trust reposed in him. The oath must be filed with the clerk, before a commissioner or a referee enters upon the execution of his duties. The court may, at any time, remove the referee, or either of the commissioners. If either of them dies, resigns, or neglects or refuses to serve, or is removed, the court may, from time to time, appoint another person in his place.

From 2 R. S. 489, §§ 11, 12.

§ 1609. Dower, how admeasured.

The referee or the commissioners must execute their duties in the following manner:

1. They must, if it is practicable, and, in their opinion, for the best interests of all the parties concerned, admeasure and lay off, as speedily as possible, as the dower of the plaintiff, a distinct parcel, constituting the one-third part of the real property of which dower is to be admeasured, designating the part so laid off by posts, stones, or other permanent monuments.

2. In making the admeasurement, they must take into consideration any permanent improvements, made upon the real property, after the death of the plaintiff's husband, or after the alienation thereof by him; and, if practicable, those improvements must be awarded within the part not laid off to the plaintiff; or, if it is not practicable so to award them, a deduction must be made from the part laid off to the plaintiff, proportionate to the benefit which she will derive from so much of those improvements, as is included in the part laid off to her.

3. If it is not practicable, or if, in the opinion of the referee or commissioners, it is not for the best interests of all the parties concerned, to admeasure and lay off to the plaintiff a distinct parcel of the property, as prescribed in the foregoing subdivisions of this section, they must report that fact to the court.

4. They may employ a surveyor, with the necessary assistants, to aid in the admeasurement.

From 2 R. S. 489, §§ 13, 16; L. 1869, c. 433, § 1.

§ 1610. Report thereupon.

All the commissioners must meet together in the performance of any of their duties; but the acts of a majority so met are valid. The referee, or the commissioners, or a majority of them, must make a full report of their proceedings, specifying therein the manner in which they have discharged their trust, with the items of their charges, and a particular description of the portion admeasured and laid off to the plaintiff; or, if they report that it is not practicable, or, in their opinion, it is not for the best interests of all the parties concerned, to admeasure and lay off a distinct parcel of the property, of which dower is to be admeasured, they must state the reasons for that opinion, and all the facts relating thereto. The report must be acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded, and must be filed in the office of the clerk.

From 2 R. S. 489, § 13, subd. 2; L. 1869, c. 433, § 2.

§ 1611. Setting aside report.

Upon the application of any party to the action, and upon good cause shown, the court may set aside the report, and, if necessary, may appoint new commissioners, or a new referee, who must proceed, as prescribed in this title, with respect to those first appointed.

From 2 R. S. 489, §§ 16, 17.

§ 1612. Fees and expenses.

The fees and expenses of the commissioners, or of the referee, including the expense of a survey, when it is made, must be taxed under the direction of the court; and the amount thereof must be paid by the plaintiff, and allowed to her, upon the taxation of her costs.

See Id., § 25.

§ 1613. Final judgment.

Upon the report being confirmed by the court, final judgment must be rendered. If the referee or commissioners have admeasured and laid off to the plaintiff a distinct parcel of the property, the judgment must award to her, during her natural life, the possession of that parcel, describing it, subject to the payment of all taxes, assessments, and other charges, accruing thereupon after she takes possession. If the referee or the commissioners report, that it is not practicable, or that, in his or their opinion, it is not for the best interests of all the parties concerned, so to admeasure and lay off a distinct parcel of the property, the final judgment must direct, that a sum, fixed by the court, and specified therein, equal to one-third of the rental value of the real property, as ascertained by a reference or otherwise, be paid to the plaintiff, annually or oftener, as directed in the judgment, during her natural life, for her dower in the property; and that the sum so to be paid, be and remain a charge upon the property, during her natural life. The final judgment may also award damages for the withholding of dower.

§ 1614. Plaintiff may recover sum awarded; court may modify judgment.

The plaintiff may, from time to time, maintain an action against the owner, or a person who was the owner of the property, to recover any instalment of the sum, so awarded to her for her dower, which became due during his ownership, and remains unpaid. Or, if an instalment remains due and unpaid, she may maintain an action to procure a sale of the property, and enforce the payment of the instalments, due and to become due, out of the proceeds of the sale. Such an action must be conducted, as if the charge upon the real property was a mortgage to the same effect. If, at any time, it is made to appear to the court, that the rental value of the real property has materially increased or diminished, the court may, by an order, to be made upon notice to all the persons interested, modify the final judgment, by increasing or diminishing the sum to be paid to the plaintiff.

From L. 1869, c. 433, § 3.

§ 1615. Junior incumbrancers; not affected by admeasurement.

Where a portion of the property is admeasured and laid off to the plaintiff as her dower, a lien, which is inferior to the plaintiff's right of dower, attaches, during the life of the plaintiff, to the residue, or to the portion or share of the residue which was subject to it, as if the portion laid off to the plaintiff had not been a part of the property.

From L. 1874, c. 258.

§ 1616. Appeal not to stay execution, if undertaking is given.

An appeal from a final judgment, awarding to the plaintiff possession of the part admeasured and laid off to her, does not stay the execution thereof, unless the court, or a judge thereof, grants an order directing such a stay. Such an order shall not be granted, if an undertaking is given on the part of the respondent, with one or more sureties, approved by the court, or a judge thereof, to the effect that, if the judgment appealed from is reversed or modified, and restitution is awarded, she will pay, to the person entitled thereto, the value of the use and occupation of the part so admeasured and laid off to her, or of the portion, restitution of which is awarded, during the time she holds possession thereof, by virtue of the judgment.

From L. 1869, c. 433, § 4.

§ 1617. Plaintiff may consent to receive a gross sum.

In an action for dower, the plaintiff may, at any time before an interlocutory judgment is rendered, by reason of the defendant's default in appearing or pleading, or, where an issue of fact is joined, at any time before the commencement of the trial, file with the clerk, a consent to accept a gross sum, in full satisfaction and discharge of her right of dower in the real property described in the complaint. Such a consent must be in writing, and acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded. A copy thereof, with notice of the filing, must be served upon each adverse party who has appeared, or who appears after the filing.

From L. 1870, c. 717, § 1.

§ 1618. Defendant may consent to pay it; proceedings thereupon.

At any time after a consent is filed, as prescribed in the last section, and before an interlocutory judgment is rendered, any defendant may apply to the court, upon notice, for an order granting him leave to pay such a gross sum. Thereupon the court may, in its discretion, and upon such terms as justice requires, ascertain the value of the plaintiff's right of dower in the property, by a reference or otherwise, and make an order, directing payment, by the applicant, of the sum so ascertained, within a time fixed by the order, not exceeding sixty days after service of a copy thereof; and directing the execution by the plaintiff of a release of her right of dower, upon receipt of the money. Obedience to the order may be enforced, either by punishment for contempt, or by striking out the pleading of the offending party, and rendering judgment against him or her or in both modes.

New.

§ 1619. Interlocutory judgment for sale.

Where the plaintiff's consent has been filed, as prescribed in the last section but one, and she is entitled to an interlocutory judgment in the action, the court must, upon the application of either party, ascertain, by reference or otherwise, whether a distinct parcel of the property can be admeasured and laid off to the plaintiff, as tenant in dower, without material injury to the interests of the parties. If it appears to the court, that a distinct parcel cannot be so admeasured and laid off, the interlocutory judgment must, except in the case specified in the next section, direct that the property be sold by the sheriff, or by a referee designated therein; and that, upon the confirmation of the sale, each party to the action, and every person deriving title from, through, or under a party, after the filing of the judgment-roll, or of a notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in article ninth of this title, be barred of and from any right, title, or interest in or to the property sold.

From L. 1870, c. 717, §§ 1, 3.

§ 1620. Id.; directing a part to be laid off.

In a case specified in section 1617 of this act, where the property, or a part thereof, consists of one or more vacant or unimproved lots, the plaintiff's consent may contain a stipulation to take a distinct parcel, out of those lots, in lieu of a gross sum. In that case, the interlocutory judgment, instead of directing a sale, may direct if it appears to be just so to do, that commissioners be appointed to admeasure and lay off to the plaintiff a distinct parcel, out of the vacant or unimproved lots; and, if there is any other property, that it be sold, and a gross sum be paid to her out of the proceeds thereof, as prescribed in the next three sections. The plaintiff's title to each distinct parcel, admeasured and laid off to her, as prescribed in this section, is that of an estate of inheritance in fee simple. In admeasuring and laying off the same, the commissioners must consider quantity and quality relatively, according to the value of the plaintiff's right of dower in the vacant or unimproved lots, out of which the admeasurement is to be made; which must be ascertained, in proportion to the value of those lots, as prescribed, in the next three sections, for fixing a gross sum to be paid to her out of the proceeds of a sale.

From Id., § 6.

§ 1621. [Am'd, 1914.] Liens to be ascertained.

Before an interlocutory judgment is rendered for the sale of the property, the court must direct a reference to ascertain whether any person, not a party, has a lien upon the property, or any part thereof. But the court may direct or dispense with such reference, in its discretion, where a party produces a search, certified by the clerk, or by the clerk and register as the case requires, of the county where the property is situated; and it appears therefrom, and by the affidavits, if any, produced therewith, that there is no such outstanding lien. Except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article, the proceedings upon and subsequent to the reference must be the same, as prescribed in article second of this title, where a reference is made as prescribed in section 1561 of this act.

From L. 1874, c. 258. Am'd by L. 1914, c. 348 (in effect Sept. 1, 1914).

§ 1622. Id.; payment of; or sale subject to.

Where the interlocutory judgment directs a sale, if the right of dower of the plaintiff is inferior to any other lien upon the property, the judgment may, in the discretion of the court, direct that the property be sold either subject to the lien, or discharged from the lien; and, in the latter case, that the officer making the sale pay the amount of the lien, out of the proceeds of the sale.

From L. 1870, c. 717, § 4.

§ 1623. Report of sale.

Immediately after completing the sale, and executing the proper conveyance to the purchaser, the officer making the sale must make and file with the clerk a report thereof, showing the name of the purchaser, and the purchase-price paid by him, or, if the property was sold in parcels, the name of each purchaser, and the price and a description of the parcel sold to him; the sums which the officer has paid out of the proceeds of the sale, pursuant to the interlocutory judgment; the purpose for which each payment was made; the amount and items of his fees and expenses; and the net amount of the proceeds, after deducting the payments.

From Id., § 5.

§ 1624. Final judgment thereon.

Upon confirming the sale, the court must ascertain, by a reference or otherwise, the rights and interests of each of the parties in and to the proceeds of the sale, and also what gross sum of money is equal to the value of the plaintiff's dower in the net proceeds of the sale, calculated upon the principles applicable to life annuities. The court must thereupon render final judgment, confirming the sale, and directing that the gross sum so ascertained be paid to the plaintiff, in full satisfaction of her right of dower; and that the remainder of the proceeds of the sale be distributed among the persons entitled thereto.

From Id., § 5.

§ 1625. Certain provisions of article second made applicable.

The provisions of article second of this title, relating to a sale made as prescribed in that article, and to the distribution, investment, and care of the proceeds, apply, as far as they are applicable, to a sale made as prescribed in this article, and to the distribution of the proceeds of a sale, as prescribed in the last section.

New.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Action to foreclose a mortgage.

Sec. 1626. Final judgment; what to contain.
1627. Person liable for mortgage debt may be made defendant, etc.
1628. Other actions for mortgage debt, when prohibited.
1629. Complaint to state whether such action brought.
1630. If judgment rendered therein, execution must be returned.
1631. Notice of pendency of action to be filed.
1632. Effect of conveyance upon sale.
1633. Disposition of surplus.
1634. When complaint to be dismissed on payment of sum due.
1635. Payment after judgment; when proceedings to be stayed.
1636. When part only of the property to be sold.
1637. When the whole property may be sold.

§ 1626. Final judgment; what to contain.

In an action to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, if the plaintiff becomes entitled to final judgment, it must direct the sale of the property mortgaged, or of such part thereof as is sufficient to discharge the mortgage debt, the expenses of the sale, and the costs of the action.

From 2 R. S. 191 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 151.

§ 1627. [Am'd, 1899, 1908, 1911, 1912, 1916.] Person liable for mortgage debt may be made defendant, etc.

2. The people of the state of New York may be made a party defendant to an action for the foreclosure of a mortgage on real property, where the people of the state of New York have an interest in or a lien on the said real property subsequent to the lien of the mortgage sought to be foreclosed in said action, in the same manner as a private person. In such a case, the summons must be served upon the attorney-general, who must appear in behalf of the people, but where the people of the state of New York are made a party defendant, as herein provided, the complaint shall set forth, in addition to the other matters required to be set forth by the code of civil procedure detailed facts showing the particular nature of the interest in or the lien on the said real property of the people of the state of New York, and the reason for making the people a party defendant. Upon failure to state such facts, the complaint shall be dismissed as to the people of the state of New York. The commissioners of the land office, whenever they deem it for the best interests of the state may order the treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, to pay off and cancel any mortgage, or encumbrance or any amount due thereon existing on any lands belonging to the state, or in which the state has an interest, to perfect in the state a title to any such lands or to protect the state's interests therein. And the plaintiff shall not be entitled to costs in an action wherein the people of the state are made a party defendant, unless the commissioners of the land office, after a full presentation of the facts to them, shall have determined before the action of foreclosure is brought against the state that the interests of the state did not warrant their making an order for the payment or cancellation of said mortgage, or encumbrance, or any amount due thereon, or unless the commissioners of the land office shall have failed to make such determination within three months after such full presentation of facts shall have been made to them by verified statement in writing, and duly filed with the secretary of said commissioners at his office in the city of Albany, nor unless a certified copy of the referee's or sheriff's report of sale filed in the action shall have first been duly served upon the attorney-general; nor in any event shall an additional allowance under sections 3252 or 3253 of this act be made to the plaintiff, in an action wherein the people of the state of New York is made a party defendant.

3. In all cases where, prior to September first, 1908, the attorney-general shall have appeared in behalf of the people of this state, in an action for the foreclosure of a mortgage, such appearance shall be as valid and effectual as though chapter 284 of the laws of 1908 had been in force at the time of such appearance, whether such actions were pending or concluded when such chapter took effect, anything in such chapter to the contrary notwithstanding, provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall affect the right or title of any person claiming such real property under letters patent issued by the people of the state, for a valuable consideration before this act shall take effect.

From Id., §§ 152, 154; Co. Proc., § 167. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 528; L. 1908, c. 284; L. 1911, c. 25; L. 1912, c. 388; L. 1916, c. 331 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1628. Other actions for mortgage debt, when prohibited.

While an action to foreclose a mortgage upon real property is pending, or after final judgment for the plaintiff therein, no other action shall be commenced or maintained, to recover any part of the mortgage debt, without leave of the court in which the former action was brought.

From 2 R. S. 191, § 153.

§ 1629. Complaint to state whether such action brought.

The complaint, in an action to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, must state, whether any other action has been brought to recover any part of the mortgage debt, and, if so, whether any part thereof has been collected.

From Id., § 155.

§ 1630. If judgment rendered therein, execution must be returned.

Where final judgment for the plaintiff has been rendered, in an action to recover any part of the mortgage debt, an action shall not be commenced or maintained to foreclose the mortgage, unless an execution against the property of the defendant has been issued, upon the judgment, to the sheriff of the county where he resides, if he resides within the State, or, if he resides without the State, to the sheriff of the county where the judgment-roll is filed; and has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied.

From Id., § 156.

§ 1631. Notice of pendency of action to be filed.

The plaintiff must, at least twenty days before a final judgment directing a sale is rendered, file, in the clerk's office of each county where the mortgaged property is situated, a notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in section 1670 of this act; which must specify, in addition to the particulars required by that section, the date of the mortgage, the parties thereto, and the time and place of recording it.

From Co. Proc., § 132.

§ 1632. Effect of conveyance upon sale.

A conveyance upon a sale, made pursuant to a final judgment, in an action to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, vests in the purchaser the same estate, only, that would have vested in the mortgagee, if the equity of redemption had been foreclosed. Such a conveyance is as valid, as if it was executed by the mortgagor and mortgagee, and is an entire bar against each of them, and against each party to the action who was duly summoned, and every person claiming from, through or under a party, by title accruing after the filing of the notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in the last section.

From 2 R. S. 191, § 158.

§ 1633. [Am'd, 1908, 1915.] Disposition of surplus; duties of officer making sale.

If there is any surplus of the proceeds of the sale, after paying the expenses of the sale, and satisfying the mortgage debt and the costs of the action, it must be paid into court, for the use of the person or persons entitled thereto. If any part of the surplus remains in court for the period of three months, the court must, if no application has been made therefor, and may, if an application therefor is pending, direct it to be invested at interest, for the benefit of the person or persons entitled thereto, to be paid upon the direction of the court. Within thirty days after completing the sale, and executing the proper conveyance to the purchaser, unless such time be extended by an order of the court entered in the office of the clerk within said thirty days, the officer making the sale must file with the clerk his report under oath of the disposition of the proceeds of the sale, accompanied by the vouchers of the persons to whom payments were ordered to be made.

Where real property, or an interest in real property, liable to be disposed of as prescribed in article third of title four of chapter eighteen of this act, is sold in an action or special proceeding, or otherwise, to satisfy a mortgage or other lien thereupon, which accrued during the decedent's lifetime, the surplus money must be paid into the surrogate's court having jurisdiction to issue letters testamentary or of administration upon the estate of the decedent, in the following cases:

1. Where eighteen months have not elapsed since the date when letters testamentary or of administration were first issued.

2. Where a proceeding for a judicial settlement of the accounts of such executor or administrator has been commenced within eighteen months from the date of the issue of such letters and is still pending.

3. Where no such letters have been issued and two years have not elapsed since the death of the decedent.

Money paid into the surrogate's court, as herein provided, may be paid out to the executor or administrator of the decedent, as directed by an order of the surrogate's court, to be accounted for by him upon the judicial settlement of his accounts; or, in a special proceeding brought for that purpose in the surrogate's court, an order may be entered directing distribution to the persons entitled thereto, in case eighteen months have elapsed since letters testamentary or of administration were first issued upon the estate of the decedent, or, in case no such letters have been issued, and two years have elapsed since the death of the decedent.

From Id., §§ 159, 160. Am'd by L. 1908, c. 294; L. 1915, c. 643 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 1634. When complaint to be dismissed on payment of sum due.

Where an action is brought to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, upon which a portion of the principal or interest is due, and another portion of either is to become due, the complaint must be dismissed, without costs against the plaintiff, upon the defendant paying into court, at any time before a final judgment directing a sale is rendered, the sum due, and the plaintiff's costs.

From Id., § 161.

§ 1635. Payment after judgment; when proceedings stayed.

In a case specified in the last section, if, after a final judgment directing a sale is rendered, but before the sale is made, the defendant pays into court the amount due for principal and interest, and the costs of the action, together with the expenses of the proceedings to sell, if any, all proceedings upon the judgment must be stayed; but, upon a subsequent default in the payment of principal or interest, the court may make an order, directing the enforcement of the judgment, for the purpose of collecting the sum then due.

From Id., § 162.

§ 1636. When part only of the property to be sold.

Where the mortgage debt is not all due, and the mortgaged property is so circumstanced, that it can be sold in parcels without injury to the interests of the parties, the final judgment must direct, that no more of the property be sold, in the first place, than is sufficient to satisfy the sum then due, with the costs of the action and expenses of the sale; and that upon a subsequent default in the payment of principal or interest, the plaintiff may apply for an order, directing the sale of the residue, or of so much thereof as is necessary to satisfy the amount then due, with the costs of the application and the expenses of the sale. The plaintiff may apply for and obtain such an order, as often as a default happens.

From Id., §§ 163, 164.

§ 1637. When the whole property may be sold.

If, in a case specified in the last three sections, it appears that the mortgaged property is so circumstanced, that a sale of the whole will be most beneficial to the parties, the final judgment must direct, that the whole property be sold; that the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the action, and the expenses of the sale, be either applied to the satisfaction of the whole sum secured by the mortgage, with such a rebate of interest, as justice requires; or be first applied to the payment of the sum due, and the balance, or so much thereof as is necessary, be invested at interest, for the benefit of the plaintiff, to be paid to him from time to time, as any part of the principal or interest becomes due.

From Id., §§ 165, 166.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Action to compel the determination of a claim to real property.

Sec. 1638. Who may maintain action.
1639. Complaint.
1640. Proceedings when defendant denies plaintiff's title.
1641. Id.; when he pleads title.
1642. Proceedings the same as in ejectment.
1643. Proceedings when defendant claims in reversion or remainder.
1644. Judgment awarding defendant possession, etc.
1645. Judgment for plaintiff.
1646. Effect of judgment.
1647. Action to determine widow's dower.
1648. Proceedings, if plaintiff admits defendant's claim.
1649. Id.; when defendant's claim is denied.
1650. This article applies to corporations.

§ 1638. [Am'd, 1891, 1904, 1910.] Who may maintain an action.

Where a person has been, or he and those whose estates he has, have been for one year in possession of real property, or of any undivided interest therein, claiming it in fee, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten, he may maintain an action against any other person to compel the determination of any claim adverse to that of the plaintiff which the defendant makes, or which it appears from the public records, or from the allegations of the complaint, the defendant might make to any estate in that property in fee, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten, in possession, reversion or remainder, or to any interest in that property, including any claim in the nature of an easement therein, whether appurtenant to any other estate or lands or not, and also including any lien or incumbrance upon said property, of the amount or value of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars. But this section does not apply to a claim for dower.

From 2 R. S. 312 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 2), § 1, 3; Co. Proc., § 449; L. 1848, c. 50; L. 1854, c. 116; L. 1855, c. 511; L. 1860, c. 173; L. 1864, c. 219. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210; L. 1904, c. 526; L. 1910, c. 203 (in effect May 2, 1910).

§ 1639. [Am'd, 1891, 1904, 1910.] Complaint.

The complaint in such an action must set forth facts showing:

1. The plaintiff's right to the real property; whether his estate therein is in fee, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten; and whether he holds it as heir, devisee or purchaser, with the source from or means by which his title immediately accrued to him.

2. That the property, at the commencement of the action was, and, for the one year next preceding, has been in his possession, or in the possession of himself and those from whom he derives his title, either as sole tenant, or as joint tenant, or tenant in common with others.

3. That the defendant unjustly claims, or that it appears from the public records, or from the allegations of the complaint, that the defendant might unjustly claim an estate or interest or easement therein, or a lien or incumbrance thereupon of the character specified in the last section.

The complaint must describe the property as prescribed in section 1511 of this act and may contain an allegation that no personal claim is made against any defendant other than a defendant who shall assert a claim adverse to the claim of the plaintiff set forth in the complaint. The demand for judgment may be to the effect that the defendant and every person claiming under him to be barred from all claim to an estate in the property described in the complaint, or from all claim to an interest or easement therein, or a lien or incumbrance thereupon, of the character specified in the last section, or it may combine two or more of said demands with other demand for appropriate relief.

From 2 R. S. 312, § 2. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210; L. 1904, c. 526; L. 1910, c. 203 (in effect May 2, 1910).

§ 1640. Proceedings when defendant denies plaintiff's title.

If the defendant, in his answer, puts in issue the matters specified in subdivision second of the last section, and succeeds upon that defence, final judgment must be rendered in his favor, dismissing the complaint, and awarding to him costs against the plaintiff.

From 2 R. S. 312, § 7; L. 1855, c. 511.

§ 1641. [Am'd, 1891.] Id.; when he pleads title.

The defendant may, in his answer, either with or without the defense specified in the last section, set forth facts, showing that he has an estate in the property or any part thereof, adverse to the plaintiff, in fee, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten, in possession, reversion, or remainder, as in a complaint for the same cause of action; or the defendant may set forth facts showing that he has an interest or an easement in, or a lien or incumbrance upon, said property; and thereupon he may demand that the complaint be dismissed, or any judgment to which he would be entitled in an action brought by him to recover that estate in said property, or to enforce in any manner the interest or easement therein, or the lien or incumbrance thereupon which he asserts; or he may combine any two or more of said demands.

New. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210.

§ 1642. [Am'd, 1891.] Proceedings the same as in ejectment.

Where an issue of fact is joined in an action brought as prescribed in this article, unless the defendant merely demands that the complaint be dismissed, if the defendant claims an estate in said property, the subsequent proceedings, including the trial, judgment and execution, are the same as if it was an action of ejectment, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this title; if the defendant claims an interest or easement in, or a lien or incumbrance upon, said property, the subsequent proceedings are the same as if it was an action brought by the defendant to establish or enforce the said interest, easement, lien or incumbrance, and the court may award any appropriate relief except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this title.

New. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210.

§ 1643. Proceedings when defendant claims in reversion or remainder.

Where the defendant claims the property in question, or any part thereof, by virtue of an estate in remainder or reversion, he need not establish a right to the immediate possession thereof; but where the verdict, report, or decision finds that he has such an estate, it must specify the time when, or the contingency upon which, he will be entitled to possession; and final judgment to that effect must be rendered accordingly, without damages. In such a case, an execution for the delivery of the possession of the property may be issued upon the judgment; but only by the special order of the court, made upon an application by the defendant, or a person claiming under him, and satisfactory proof that the time has arrived when, or the contingency has happened upon which, the applicant is entitled to possession by the terms of the judgment.

From 2 R. S. 314, 315, §§ 13, 16; L. 1855, c. 511.

§ 1644. Judgment awarding defendant possession, etc.

Where a final judgment, in favor of the defendant, determines that he is entitled to the immediate possession of the property, it must award him possession accordingly. The final judgment must also award to him his damages for the withholding of the property, as in an action of ejectment.

From 2 R. S. 314, § 15; L. 1855, c. 511.

§ 1645. [Am'd, 1891, 1910.] Judgment for plaintiff.

Final judgment for the plaintiff must be to the effect that the defendant, and every person claiming under him, by title accruing after the filing of the judgment-roll, or of the notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in article ninth of this title, be forever barred from all claim to any estate of inheritance, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten, in the property; or such judgment must be that the defendant and every person claiming under him, as above stated, be forever barred from all claim to any interest or easement in, or lien or incumbrance upon, the said property, of any kind or nature whatsoever, or of any particular interest, easement, lien or incumbrance specified in said judgment; and the court may direct any instrument purporting to create any such interest, easement, lien or incumbrance to be delivered up or to be canceled of record; or two or more of said forms of judgment may be awarded in the same action. If such a judgment is taken upon the defendant's default in appearing or pleading, it shall not award costs to either party, unless it be taken upon a default in answering, after the decision of a demurrer to the complaint. A defendant against whom no personal claim is made in the complaint shall not be entitled to costs unless awarded by the court when such defendant asserts in his answer and establishes a claim in said lands adverse to the claim of the plaintiff in said action.

From 2 R. S. 313, § 6; L. 1855, c. 511. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210; L. 1910, c. 203 (in effect May 2, 1910).

§ 1646. [Am'd, 1891.] Effect of judgment.

A final judgment in favor of either party, in an action brought as prescribed in this article, is conclusive against the other party, as to the title established in the action; and also against every person claiming from, through, or under that party, by title accruing after the filing of the judgment-roll, or of the notice of the pendency of the action, as prescribed in article ninth of this title. A new trial of said action after judgment shall not be granted as a matter of right, but the court may, in its discretion in the interest of justice, grant a new trial upon an application made by any party within one year after said judgment. But where a defendant is an infant, an idiot, a lunatic, an habitual drunkard, or imprisoned on a criminal charge or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offense for a term less than life, the said defendant shall have the right, within one year after his disability is terminated, to apply for and obtain a new trial of said action, and the representatives of such a defendant shall have the same right within one year after the death of said defendant, if such death occurs while the disability continues. Upon any new trial of an action, brought as prescribed in this article, the record of the evidence given upon the previous trial, may be again offered to the court by either party, and may be received in evidence, in case the same evidence cannot be again procured. The courts may make such rules and orders as to preserving the record of the evidence given in such actions and perpetuating the proofs produced therein, either with or without the awarding of any other relief to the party whose proofs are so perpetuated, as shall be necessary or proper, and may embrace such directions in the judgment.

From 2 R. S. 314, § 14. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210.

§ 1647. [Am'd, 1891.] Action to determine widow's dower.

A person claiming, as owner, an estate in fee, for life, or for years, in real property, may maintain an action against a woman, who claims to have a right of dower in the whole or a part of the property, to compel the determination of her claim. But such an action cannot be commenced until after the expiration of four months after the death of defendant's husband. If the defendant is under any of the disabilities specified in the last section, the provisions of that section relating to new trials and to perpetuating proofs, shall apply to her case.

From 2 R. S. 489 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 7), §§ 6, 7, 8. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210.

§ 1648. Proceedings, if plaintiff admits defendant's claim.

In an action brought as specified in the last section, if the complaint admits the defendant's right of dower in the property described therein, or any part thereof, it must demand judgment that her dower be admeasured. In that case, if the defendant does not, by her answer, set forth facts, showing that she is entitled to a greater right of dower, or another estate or interest in the property, than is so admitted, and demand judgment therefor, as if she was the plaintiff in an action for dower, the court must render an interlocutory judgment, directing her dower to be admeasured, with or without damages for its detention, as in an action for dower. The subsequent proceedings are the same, as if the defendant had, as plaintiff recovered an interlocutory judgment in an action for dower.

New.

§ 1649. Id.; when defendant's claim is denied.

Where the plaintiff insists, in his complaint, that the defendant has not a right of dower in the property, he must demand judgment that she be forever barred from such a claim. In that case, or where the plaintiff admits a right of dower in the defendant, and the defendant in her answer demands judgment for a greater right of dower, or another estate or interest in the property, than is so admitted, the provisions of this article, relating to an action to compel the determination of an adverse claim in fee, or for life, or for a term of years not less than ten, apply to all proceedings subsequent to the answer.

New.

§ 1650. [Am'd, 1891.] This article applies to corporations.

An action may be maintained, as prescribed in this article, by or against a corporation, or by or against an unincorporated association, as if it was a natural person, or such an action may be maintained by, or against the receiver or other successor of any such corporation or association.

From L. 1854, c. 116, § 1. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 210.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

Action for waste.

Sec. 1651. Who liable to action for waste.
1652. Action by heir, devisee, or grantor of reversion.
1653. Id.; by ward against guardian.
1654. Id.; by grantee of real property, sold under execution.
1655. Judgment in action against tenant of particular estate.
1656. Action against joint tenant or tenant in common.
1657. Id.; interlocutory judgment for partition.
1658. Id.; damages to be deducted from defendant's share.
1659. View; when not necessary; when and how made.

§ 1651. Who liable to action for waste.

An action for waste lies against a tenant by the curtesy, in dower, for life, or for years, or the assignee of such a tenant, who, during his estate or term, commits waste upon the real property held by him, without a special and lawful written license so to do; or against such a tenant, who lets or grants his estate, and, still retaining possession thereof, commits waste without a like license.

From 2 R. S. 334 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 5), §§ 1, 2.

§ 1652. Action by heir, devisee, or grantor of reversion.

An heir or devisee may maintain an action for waste, committed in the time of his ancestor or testator, as well as in his own time. The grantor of a reversion may maintain an action for waste, committed before he aliened the same.

From Id., § 4.

§ 1653. Id.; by ward against guardian.

Such an action may also be maintained against a guardian by his ward, either before or after the termination of the guardianship, for waste, committed upon the real property of the ward, during the guardianship.

From Id., part of § 1.

§ 1654. Id.; by grantee of real property sold under execution.

Where real property is sold by virtue of an execution, the person, to whom a conveyance is executed pursuant to the sale, may maintain an action for waste, committed thereon after the sale, against the person, who was then in possession of the property.

From Id., § 20.

§ 1655. Judgment in action against tenant of particular estate.

If the plaintiff recovers in an action for waste, other than an action brought as prescribed in the next section, the final judgment must award to him treble damages. Where the action is brought by the person next entitled to the reversion, and it appears, in like manner, that the injury to the estate in reversion is equal to the value of the tenant's estate or unexpired term, or that it was done maliciously, the final judgment must also award to the plaintiff the forfeiture of the defendant's estate, and the possession of the place wasted.

From Id., § 10; Co. Proc., § 452.

§ 1656. Action against joint tenant or tenant in common.

An action for waste may also be maintained, by a joint tenant or tenant in common, against his co-tenant, who commits waste upon the real property held in joint tenancy or in common. If the plaintiff recovers therein, he is entitled, at his election, either to a final judgment for treble damages, as specified in the last section, or to have partition of the property, as prescribed in the next two sections.

From Id., §§ 3, 11.

§ 1657. Id.; interlocutory judgment for partition.

Where the plaintiff elects to have partition, as prescribed in the last section, if the pleadings, verdict, report, or decision, do not determine the rights and interests of the several parties in the property so held in joint tenancy or in common, the court must ascertain them, by a reference or otherwise. If it appears that there are persons, not parties to the action, who must have been made parties to an action for the partition of the property, they must be brought in by supplemental summons, and, if necessary, supplemental pleadings must be made. When the rights and interests of all the parties are ascertained, an interlocutory judgment for the partition or sale of the property must be rendered, and the subsequent proceedings thereon must be the same, as in an action for the partition of the property, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

From Id., §§ 12, 13, 14, 17.

§ 1658. Id.; damages to be deducted from defendant's share.

The plaintiff may elect to take final judgment for the single damages awarded to him, or that, in making the partition, or in dividing the proceeds of a sale, so much of the share of the defendant in the real property, or the proceeds thereof, as will be sufficient to compensate the plaintiff for his single damages, and the costs of the action, other than the expenses of making the partition or sale, be laid off or paid, as the case may be, to the plaintiff. The residue of the property or proceeds, not laid off or distributed to the plaintiff or the defendant, must be laid off or paid to the persons entitled thereto, according to their respective rights and interests.

From Id., §§ 15, 16, 17.

§ 1659. View; when not necessary; when and how made.

In an action for waste, it is not necessary, either upon the execution of a writ of inquiry, or upon the trial of an issue of fact, that the jury, the judge, or the referee, should view the property. Where the trial is by a referee, or by the court without a jury, the referee or the judge may, in his discretion, view the property, and direct the attorneys for the parties to attend accordingly. In any other case, the court may, in its discretion, by order, direct a view by the jury.

From Id., §§ 8, 10.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

Action for a nuisance.

Sec. 1660. When action may be brought.
1661. Defendants therein.
1662. Final judgment.
1663. Application of this article.

§ 1660. When action may be brought.

An action for a nuisance may be maintained in any case, where such an action might have been maintained under the laws in force, immediately before this act takes effect.

From 2 R. S. 332 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 4), § 1; Co. Proc., § 454.

§ 1661. Defendants therein.

A person by whom the nuisance has been erected, and a person to whom the real property has been transferred, may be joined as defendants in such an action.

From 2 R. S. 332, § 2.

§ 1662. Final judgment.

A final judgment in favor of the plaintiff, may award him damages, or direct the removal of the nuisance, or both.

From Id., § 7; Co. Proc., § 454.

§ 1663. Application of this article.

This article does not affect an action, wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money only.

New.

ARTICLE EIGHTH.

Other actions relating to real property.

Sec. 1664. Certain persons holding over deemed trespassers. Action against them.
1665. Reversioner, etc., may maintain action.
1666. Joint tenant, etc., may maintain action against his co-tenant.
1667. Action for cutting, etc., trees.
1668. Id.; when treble damages may be recovered.
1669. Treble damages for forcible entry or detainer.

§ 1664. Certain persons holding over deemed trespassers. Action against them.

A person in possession of real property, as guardian or trustee for an infant, or having an estate determinable upon one or more lives, who holds over and continues in possession, after the determination of his trust or particular estate, without the express consent of the person then immediately entitled, is a trespasser. An action may be maintained against him, or his executor or administrator, by the person so entitled, or his executor or administrator, to recover the full value of the profits, received during the wrongful occupation.

From 1 R. S. 749 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 5), § 7.

§ 1665. Reversioner, etc., may maintain action.

A person, seised of an estate in remainder or reversion, may maintain an action founded upon an injury done to the inheritance, notwithstanding any intervening estate for life or for years.

From Id., § 8.

§ 1666. Joint tenant, etc., may maintain action against his co-tenant.

A joint tenant or a tenant in common of real property, or his executor or administrator, may maintain an action to recover his just proportion against his co-tenant, who has received more than his own just proportion, or against his executor or administrator.

From Id., § 9.

§ 1667. Action for cutting, etc., trees.

If any person cuts down or carries off any wood, underwood, tree, or timber, or girdles or otherwise despoils a tree on the land of another, without the owner's leave; or on the common, or other land, of a city, village, or town, without having right or privilege in those lands, or license from the proper officer; an action may be maintained against him, by the owner, or the city, village or town, as the case may be.

From 2 R. S. 338 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 6), § 1.

§ 1668. Id.; when treble damages may be recovered.

In an action brought as prescribed in the last section, the plaintiff may state in his complaint the amount of his damages, and demand judgment for treble the sum so stated. Thereupon, if the inquisition, or, where issues of fact are tried, the verdict, report or decision, awards him any damages, he is entitled to judgment for treble the sum so awarded, except that in either of the following cases, judgment must be rendered for single damages only:

1. Where the verdict, report, or decision finds affirmatively that the injury, for which the action was brought, was casual and involuntary; or that the defendant, when he committed the injury, had probable cause to believe that the land was his own.

2. Where the defendant has pleaded, and the verdict, report, or decision finds affirmatively, that the injury, for which the action was brought, was committed by taking timber, for the purpose of making or repairing a public road, or a public bridge, or by taking any wood, underwood, or tree, for a like purpose, by authority of a commissioner or overseer of highways.

From Id., §§ 2, 3, and part of § 1.

§ 1669. Treble damages for forcible entry or detainer.

If a person is disseized, ejected, or put out of real property, in a forcible manner; or, after he has been put out, is held and kept out, by force, or by putting him in fear of personal violence, he is entitled to recover treble damages, in an action therefor against the wrong-doer.

From Id., § 4.

§ 1670. [Am'd, 1904.] Notice of pendency of action by plaintiff.

In an action brought to recover a judgment affecting the title to, or the possession, use, or enjoyment of, real property, if the complaint is verified the plaintiff may, when he files his complaint, or at any time afterwards before final judgment, file, in the clerk's office of each county where the property is situated, a notice of the pendency of the action, stating the names of the parties, and the object of the action, and containing a brief description of the property in that county, affected thereby. Such a notice may be filed with the complaint, before the service of the summons; but, in that case, personal service of the summons must be made upon a defendant, within sixty days after the filing, or else, before the expiration of the same time, publication of the summons must be commenced, or service thereof must be made without the state, pursuant to an order obtained therefor, as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act.

From Co. Proc., § 132. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 518 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 1671. [Am'd, 1905.] Effect of notice; cancellation of notice upon making deposit or giving undertaking.

Where a notice of the pendency of an action may be filed, as prescribed in the last section, the pendency of the action is constructive notice, from the time of so filing the notice only, to a purchaser or incumbrancer of the property affected thereby, from or against a defendant, with respect to whom the notice is directed to be indexed, as prescribed in the next section. A person, whose conveyance or incumbrance is subsequently executed, or subsequently recorded, is bound by all proceedings taken in the action, after the filing of the notice, to the same extent as if he was a party to the action. In any action, other than an action to foreclose a mortgage or for the partition of real property or for dower, in which a notice of the pendency thereof has been filed, and in which it shall appear to the court upon a motion made as hereinafter provided, that adequate relief can be secured to the plaintiff by a deposit of money, or in the discretion of the court by the giving of an undertaking, as hereinafter provided, where the cancellation of such notice is not otherwise expressly provided for or regulated, any defendant or any other person having an interest in the property affected by the action, may apply for the cancellation of such notice. Such application shall be by motion made in the action upon notice, to be directed and approved by the court, to all the parties to the action and to such other persons as the court may direct. If the court on the hearing of the motion shall decide that adequate relief can be secured to the plaintiff and that the case is one in which the judgment sought to be enforced against the real property mentioned in said notice of pendency of action may be secured by the deposit of the amount claimed or by the giving of an undertaking, the court may make an order directing that the applicant make a deposit in court of a sum of money, or in the discretion of the court, give an undertaking with at least two sufficient sureties for the payment of any amount which the party filing such notice of pendency of action, or any other party to the action claiming an interest or lien upon such real property may recover in the action, and will pay the judgment sought to be enforced against said real property, in the event that a final judgment shall be recovered therein and conditioned for the performance of such other terms as the court may direct, and that thereupon, and upon such other terms, if any, as the court shall deem equitable, an order be made cancelling such notice of record. The sum required to be paid into court or the amount of the undertaking, shall be at least the amount claimed by the plaintiff or the value of the property affected by the action or the interest of the party filing such notice therein, with interest and costs, and if the court allow an undertaking to be given, a copy thereof with notice of filing of the same, shall be served upon the attorney for the plaintiff and upon such other parties as the court may direct and notice of not less than two days of the justification of the sureties. Upon the deposit of the sum required into court, or if an undertaking is given, upon the approval of such undertaking by the court or a judge thereof and the compliance with such other terms as may have been imposed, the court may direct that the notice of pendency of action be cancelled of record by a particular clerk or by all the clerks with whom it is filed and recorded, which cancellation must be made by a note to that effect, on the margin of the record, referring to the order. Unless the order is entered in the same clerk's office, a certified copy thereof must be filed therein, before the notice is cancelled. After a notice of pendency of action has been cancelled as herein provided, neither the proceedings in the action, nor any judgment which may be rendered therein, shall affect the real property described in any notice of pendency which has been cancelled pursuant to the provisions of this section.

Id. Am'd by L. 1905, c. 60 (in effect September 1, 1905).

§ 1671a. [Added, 1916.] Additional persons bound in actions for partition, for dower, and to foreclose a mortgage.

In an action or proceeding specified in articles second, third or fourth of this title, all the proceedings and the judgment shall bind, in addition to the persons who are bound pursuant to the provisions of section 1670, all persons who acquire inchoate dower in the real property described in the notice of pendency of the action after the filing of such notice and also all persons born between the filing of such notice of pendency of action and the entry of judgments in such action who would have been bound by such proceedings if born after such judgment; provided the court may in its discretion at any time before final judgment allow any such person to intervene or may require that he be brought in as party, or may make such other order or provision for the protection or recognition of his rights as justice may require and the circumstances of the case permit. In admitting such new party or requiring such new party to be brought in the court may give or refuse leave to answer; may permit or direct that the answer of any other defendant or defendants stand as his answer; may direct that the action retain its place on the calendar; may require or dispense with the appointment of guardian ad litem; may allow a new trial or any re-hearing; or direct that all or any part of the proceedings stand and bind such new party or make or impose any other provision, term or condition that to the court may seem proper.

Added by L. 1916, c. 518 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1672. [Am'd, 1913.] Notice to be recorded and indexed.

Each county clerk, with whom such a notice is filed, must immediately record it, in a book kept in his office for that purpose, and index it to the name of each defendant, specified in a direction, appended at the foot of the notice, and subscribed by the attorney for the plaintiff. The notice filed in partition suits must be indexed against the name of each plaintiff and of each defendant having any interest or estate in the premises. The expense of procuring a new book, when necessary, must be paid out of the county treasury, as other county charges.

From L. 1884, c. 53, §§ 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 69 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 1673. Notice of pendency of action by defendant.

Where a defendant sets up in his answer a counterclaim, upon which he demands an affirmative judgment affecting the title to, or the possession, use, or enjoyment of, real property, he may, at the time of filing his answer, or at any time afterwards before final judgment, file a like notice. The last three sections apply to such a notice. For the purpose of such an application, the defendant filing such a notice is regarded as a plaintiff, and the plaintiff is regarded as a defendant.

From Co. Proc., § 132.

§ 1674. [Am'd, 1892.] When and how lis pendens cancelled.

After the action is settled, discontinued or abated, or final judgment is rendered therein against the party filing the notice, and the time to appeal therefrom has expired, or if a plaintiff filing the notice unreasonably neglects to proceed in the action, the court may, in its discretion, upon the application of any person aggrieved, and upon such notice as may be directed or approved by it, direct that a notice of the pendency of an action, filed as prescribed in the last four sections, be cancelled of record by a particular clerk, or by all the clerks, with whom it is filed and recorded. The cancellation must be made by a note to that effect, on the margin of the record, referring to the order. Unless the order is entered in the same clerk's office, a certified copy thereof must be filed therein, before the notice is cancelled. In a judgment creditor's action, the court may, at any stage of the proceeding, upon notice to the plaintiff or to the judgment creditor to be affected thereby, direct that a notice of the pendency thereof be cancelled, upon payment into court of the amount of the judgment or judgments sought to be enforced in such action, together with the accrued interest and such sum in addition thereto as the court may deem sufficient to cover interest likely to accrue during the pendency of the action and costs. Or, in lieu thereof, the court may, in its discretion, order that an undertaking be given in a sum double the amount of the judgment or judgments sought to be enforced, with two sufficient sureties to be approved by the court or a judge thereof, conditioned that the defendant or defendants applying therefor will pay the judgment or judgments sought to be enforced against said property, with interest and costs, in the event that a final judgment shall be entered in such judgment creditor's action in favor of the judgment creditor or creditors to the effect that such real estate was, at the time of the filing of said notices of pendency of action, equitably chargeable therewith. A copy of said undertaking, with notice of the filing of the same, shall be served upon the attorney for the judgment creditor, and notice of not less than two days of the justification of the sureties. Upon the approval of such undertaking by the court or a judge thereof, the court may direct that the notice of pendency of action be cancelled of record, in the manner above provided. Where a judgment creditor's action is brought by the plaintiff, as well on his own behalf as on behalf of such other creditors as may come in and contribute to the expense of such action, notice of the application to cancel such lis pendens shall be given, as well to the plaintiff as to such other judgment creditors as shall, before the service of the notice of motion or order to show cause, have served upon the attorney appearing for the defendant in whose name the title shall stand at the time of the commencement of the action, a notice to the effect that such judgment creditor elects to come in and contribute to the expenses of such action, which notice shall also describe the judgment, by giving the name of the court in which it was recovered, such recovery and the amount thereof, and shall be accompanied by an affidavit of the judgment creditor or his attorney to the effect that such judgment has been duly docketed, giving the date and place of such docket, and that an execution has been issued thereon to the sheriff of the proper county, and has been returned unsatisfied, and the amount claimed to be due thereon. In such case the court shall provide for like deposit or like security, as the case may be, for the benefit of the judgment creditor giving such notice before the cancellation of such notice of pendency of action.

§ 1675. When and how court may compel delivery of possession of real property to purchaser.

Where a judgment, in an action specified in this title, allots to any person a distinct parcel of real property, or contains a direction for the sale of real property, or confirms such an allotment or sale, it may also, except in a case where it is expressly prescribed in this act that the judgment may be enforced by execution, direct the delivery of the possession of the property to the person entitled thereto. If a party, or his representative or successor, who is bound by the judgment, withholds possession from the person thus declared to be entitled thereto, the court, besides punishing the disobedience as a contempt, may, in its discretion, by order, require the sheriff to put that person into possession. Such an order must be executed, as if it was an execution for the delivery of the possession of the property.

From 2 R. S. 191 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 152.

§ 1676. Upon sale of real property, officer to pay taxes, etc.

Where a judgment, rendered in an action for partition, for dower, or to foreclose a mortgage upon real property, directs a sale of the real property, the officer making the sale must, out of the proceeds, unless the judgment otherwise directs, pay all taxes, assessments, and water rates, which are liens upon the property sold, and redeem the property sold from any sales for unpaid taxes, assessments, or water rates, which have not apparently become absolute. The sums, necessary to make those payments and redemptions, are deemed expenses of the sale, within the meaning of that expression, as used in any provision of article second, third, or fourth of this title.

From L. 1870, c. 717, § 2.

§ 1677. Judgment to be entered in county where real property is situated.

Where real property, sold by virtue of a judgment rendered in an action specified in the last section, is situated in a county, other than that in which the judgment is entered, the judgment must be also entered in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the property is situated, before the purchaser can be required to pay the purchase-money, or to accept a deed. The clerk of the latter county must enter it in the judgment-book kept by him, upon filing with him a copy thereof, certified by the clerk with whom it is entered.

New.

§ 1678. [Am'd, 1881, 1894, 1896, 1898, 1915, 1916.] Sale; notice of; how conducted.

A sale made in pursuance of any provision of this title, must be at public auction to the highest bidder. Notice of such sale must be given by the officer making it, as prescribed in section 1434 of this act for the sale by a sheriff of real property, by virtue of an execution, unless the property is situated wholly or partly in a city or in an incorporated village of the first class in which a daily, semi-weekly or tri-weekly newspaper is published, and, in that case, by publishing notice of the sale in such a daily, semi-weekly or tri-weekly paper, at least twice in each week for three successive weeks, or in a weekly paper published in a city or in such incorporated village of the first class, once in each of the six weeks, immediately preceding the sale, or in the counties of New York and Kings in two such daily papers, which, if the property be located in the county of New York, shall be designated for that purpose by and in the judgment directing such sale. If the officer appointed to make such sale does not appear at the time and place where such sale has been advertised to take place, then in that case the attorney for the plaintiff may postpone or adjourn such sale not to exceed four weeks, during which time such attorney may make application to the court to have another person appointed to make such sale. Notice of the postponement of the sale must be published in the paper or papers wherein the notice of sale was published. The terms of the sale must be made known at the sale, and if the property, or any part thereof, is to be sold subject to the right of dower, charge or lien, that fact must be declared at the time of the sale. If the property consists of two or more distinct buildings, farms or lots they shall be sold separately, unless otherwise ordered by the court; and provided, further, that where two or more buildings are situated on the same city lot, they be sold together.

§ 1679. [Am'd, 1916.] Purchases by certain officers prohibited. Penalty.

A commissioner, or other officer making a sale as prescribed in this title, or a guardian of an infant party to the action, shall not, nor shall any person, for his benefit, directly or indirectly, purchase, or be interested in the purchase of, any of the property sold; except that a guardian may, where he is lawfully authorized so to do, purchase for the benefit or in behalf of his ward. The violation of this section is a misdemeanor; and a purchase, made contrary to this section, is void. But no action shall be brought for or in respect to real property by a person claiming that the property has been heretofore sold under a judgment in an action directing the sale wherein there were infant defendants for whom a guardian ad litem had been appointed, and the premises were sold at public auction and purchased by or on behalf of such guardian ad litem, commissioner or other officer and where the deed to the premises so purchased has been recorded in the proper office for thirty years, unless such action shall be commenced within six months after this act takes effect.

From 2 R. S. 326, § 58. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 585 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1680. Reversioner, etc., may bring action after tenant's default.

Where a tenant for life, or for a term of years suffers judgment to be taken against him, by consent or by default, in an action of ejectment, or an action for dower, the heir, or person owning the reversion or remainder, may, after the determination of the particular estate, maintain an action of ejectment to recover the property.

From 2 R. S. 339 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 7), § 2.

§ 1681. Defendant, how prevented from committing waste, etc.

If, during the pendency of an action specified in this title, the defendant commits waste upon, or does any other damage to the property in controversy, the court, or a judge thereof, may, upon the application of the plaintiff, and due proof of the facts by affidavit, grant, without notice or security, an order, restraining him from the commission of any further waste upon or damage to the property. Disobedience to such an order may be punished, as a contempt of the court. This section does not affect the plaintiff's right to a permanent or a temporary injunction in such an action.

From 2 R. S. 336 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 5), §§ 18, 19.

§ 1682. When order for survey may be made.

If the court, in which an action relating to real property is pending, is satisfied that a survey of any of the property, in the possession of either party, or of a boundary line between the parties, or between the property of either of them, and of another person, is necessary or expedient, to enable either party to prepare a pleading, or prepare for trial, or for any other proceeding in the action, it may, upon the application of either party, upon notice to the party in possession, make an order, granting to the applicant leave to enter upon that party's property, to make such a survey.

From 2 R. S. 341 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 7), § 13.

§ 1683. Contents and service of order.

An order, made as prescribed in the last section, must specify, by a description as definite as may be, the property or boundary line to be surveyed, and the real property of the adverse party, upon which it is necessary to enter for that purpose. A copy thereof must be served on the owner or occupant of that property, before entry thereupon.

From Id., § 14.

§ 1684. Authority of party under order.

After serving a copy of the order, as prescribed in the last section, the party obtaining it, his necessary surveyors, servants, and agents, may enter, for the purpose of making the survey, upon the real property described in the order, and may there make the survey; but each person so entering is responsible for any unnecessary injury done by him; and the party procuring the order is responsible for such an injury, done by any person so entering.

From Id., § 15.

§ 1685. Liability of purchaser, pending an action.

If the defendant, in an action of ejectment or an action for dower, aliens the real property in question, after the filing of a notice, as specified in section 1670 of this act, and an execution against him for the plaintiff's damages is returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, an action may be maintained by the plaintiff against any person, who has been in possession of the property, under the defendant's conveyance, to recover the unsatisfied portion of the damages, for a time not exceeding that, during which he possessed the property.

From Id., § 19.

§ 1686. Infant may maintain, etc., real action in his own name.

Any action specified in this title may be maintained by or against an infant in his own name; and article fourth of title second of chapter fifth of this act applies to such an action, except as otherwise prescribed in sections 1535 and 1536 of this act.

New.

§ 1687. Joinder of real actions with others.

Nothing contained in this title is to be construed, as to prevent the plaintiff from uniting in the same complaint two or more causes of action, in any case specified in section 484 of this act.
New.

§ 1688. When special proceeding to recover real property not allowed.

A special proceeding to recover real property cannot be taken, except in a case specially prescribed by law.

ARTICLE TEN.

Evidence in actions or proceedings involving a title to real property.

Sec. 1688a. Testimony perpetuated pursuant to this article may be received.
1688b. Effect of documentary evidence.
1688c. Mode of introducing testimony.
1688d. Application to take deposition and perpetuate testimony.
1688e. Petition, what to contain.
1688f. Appointment of referee; notice to appear.
1688g. Referee to take deposition.
1688h. Examination; deposition to be signed and certified.
1688i. Depositions as evidence.

§ 1688a. [Added, 1901.] Testimony perpetuated pursuant to this article may be received.

In any action or proceeding involving a question as to title to real property in the state of New York, the court shall upon the offer of any party receive in evidence testimony perpetuated pursuant to the provisions of this article; provided that the testimony of a witness shall not be admissible under the provisions hereof, until the court is satisfied that such witness is deceased, or is unable personally to attend by reason of insanity, sickness or other infirmity, or is confined in a prison or jail, or is absent from the state, and his attendance cannot with reasonable diligence be compelled by subpœna or his testimony taken by commission.
Added by L. 1901, c. 303 (in effect Sept. 1, 1901).

§ 1688b. [Added, 1901.] Effect of documentary evidence.

No provision of this article shall give to any documentary evidence introduced in connection with such testimony any greater or different effect than may be due to it by reason of the testimony relative thereto or its own character.
Id.

§ 1688c. [Added, 1901.] Mode of introducing testimony.

Such testimony may be introduced in such action or proceeding in any mode established by the practice of the courts for the introduction of testimony given upon a former trial of an action by a witness who has since died, and subject to objections as to the competency of a witness or the relevancy or competency of a question put to him or the answer given by him, as if the witness were personally examined, and without being noted upon the deposition.
Id.

§ 1688d. [Added, 1901.] Application to take deposition and to perpetuate testmony.

Where a person has been, or he and those under whom he claims have been, for one year in possession of real property or of an undivided interest therein, claiming it in fee or for life or for a term of years, not less than ten, he may apply to the supreme court, by petition, to take the deposition of any person or persons and to perpetuate such testimony to be received in evidence pursuant to the provisions of this article.

Id.

§ 1688e. [Added, 1901.] Petition, what to contain. 2 Dem. Rules 138

The person desiring to take a deposition and to perpetuate testimony as prescribed in this article may present to a justice of the supreme court a petition duly verified, setting forth as follows:

First. A description of the real property in relation to which the petitioner desires testimony taken and perpetuated, the estate of the petitioner therein, whether in fee or for life, or for a term of years, and whether he holds as heir, devisee or purchaser, or as trustee of an express trust.

Second. That the property at the date of the petition is and for one year next preceding has been in his possession or the possession of himself and those from whom he derives title, either as sole owner or as joint tenant or as tenant in common.

Third. A general statement of the facts as to which testimony is to be taken and the circumstances which render it necessary for the protection of the petitioner's rights that the proposed testimony should be perpetuated.

Fourth. The names and residences of the persons to be examined.

Fifth. The names and residences of persons having interests which may be adversely affected by the testimony sought to be taken, so far as such names and residences are within the knowledge of the petitioner; or, where such names and residences cannot be ascertained, a statement of the class of persons having interests which may be so adversely affected.

Sixth. Any other fact necessary to show that the case comes within the provisions of this article.

Id.

§ 1688f. [Added, 1901; am'd, 1913.] Appointment of referee; notice to appear.

Upon the presentation of the petition, the judge shall make an order containing directions as to the persons to whom, and the manner in which, notice shall be given of the time and place at which such application will be heard; and at the time fixed in said notice for that purpose, if it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the court that the case comes within the provisions of this article, the court shall make an order appointing a referee to take such testimony and prescribing the manner in which and the persons to whom notice shall be given of the time and place at which the testimony will be taken before said referee.

If it shall appear from the petition that the person or persons to be examined reside without the state, the judge to whom the petition may be presented may direct that a commission be issued to one or more competent persons named therein to examine the person or persons named therein under oath upon the interrogatories annexed to the commission; to take and certify the deposition of each witness, and to return the same and the commission according to the directions given in or with the commission; and for this purpose the judge shall make an order directing that interrogatories be settled on notice to persons who, from the petition it may appear, may be adversely affected by the testimony sought to be taken. All the provisions of chapter nine, title three, article two of the code of civil procedure shall apply to depositions taken without the state as herein provided; and a deposition taken and filed in accordance with the provisions thereof and of this article, shall have the same force and effect as the depositions of a witness before a referee as herein provided, if, before it may be read in evidence, the petition and order under which it was taken and proof of service of all the notices required by this article, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the real estate is situated, and the deposition or a certified copy thereof shall be recorded in the office of the register, or, if there be none, of the county clerk, of the county in which the real estate is situated.

Id. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 140 (in effect March 27, 1913).

§ 1688g. [Added, 1901; am'd, 1913.] Referee to take deposition.

Before proceeding with the testimony, the referee shall require proof that due notice of the hearing has been given in accordance with the directions in said order contained, and thereupon the referee must proceed to take the depositions of the persons proposed to be examined, as stated in the petition, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, and may from time to time adjourn the examination to another day and another place within the same county. All the provisions of sections 854, 855, 856, 857 and 858 of the code of civil procedure apply to the examination of a person taken before a referee as prescribed in this article.

Id. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 140 (in effect March 27, 1913).

§ 1688h. [Added, 1901.] Examination; deposition to be signed and certified.

The referee upon every examination taken as prescribed in this article must insert therein every answer or declaration of the person examined, which any party to the said proceeding requires to be inserted. If upon the examination before the referee the person examined refuses to answer any question, the referee must report the fact to the court or a judge thereof, who must determine whether the witness is bound to answer the question. The deposition when completed must be read and subscribed by the persons examined, certified to by the referee, and within ten days thereafter must, together with the petition and order under which it was taken, and proof of service of all the notices required by this article, be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which it was taken, and the said deposition or a certified copy thereof must be recorded in the office of the register (or clerk where there is no register) of the county in which the real estate is situated.

Id.

§ 1688i. [Added, 1901; am'd, 1913.] Depositions as evidence.

Subject to the provisions of this article, the depositions taken before a referee or pursuant to a commission or a certified copy thereof may be read in evidence by any party to an action or proceeding, which shall involve the title to such real property, as against the person on whose petition said depositions were taken, each person to whom notice of the taking of such depositions was given as directed in the order appointing the referee, and all persons claiming from, through or under them or any of them.

Id. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 140 (in effect March 27, 1913).

1732. Id.; sheriff's power to take chattel.
1733. Action on undertaking; when maintainable.
1734. Sheriff's return, evidence therein.
1735. Injury, etc., no defence.
1736. Abatement and revival of action.

§ 1689. Joinder of action with others.

Nothing in this title is to be so construed, as to prevent the plaintiff from uniting, in the same complaint, two or more causes of action, in any case specified in section 484 of this act.

New.

§ 1690. [Am'd, 1894.] When it cannot be maintained.

An action to recover a chattel cannot be maintained in either of the following cases:

1. Where the chattel was taken by virtue of a warrant, against the plaintiff, for the collection of a tax, assessment or fine, issued in pursuance of a statute of the State or of the United States; unless the taking was, or the detention is, unlawful, as specified in section 1695 of this act.

2. Where it was seized by virtue of an execution, or a warrant of attachment, against the property of the plaintiff, unless it was legally exempt from such seizure, or is unlawfully detained, as specified in section 1695 of this act.

3. Where is[1] was seized by virtue of an execution, or a warrant of attachment, against the property of a person other than the plaintiff, and at the time of the commencement of the action the plaintiff had not the right to reduce it into his possession.

From 2 R. S. 522 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), §§ 4, 5. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 305.

§ 1691. Id.; after judgment against the plaintiff.

Where a chattel is replevied, in an action to recover the same, and a final judgment awarding the possession thereof to the defendant is rendered, a subsequent action to recover the same chattel cannot be maintained by the plaintiff, for the same cause of action. But the judgment does not affect his right to maintain an action to recover damages, for taking or detaining the same or any other chattel, unless it was rendered against him upon the merits.

From 2 R. S. 532, § 62.

§ 1692. Id.; by an assignee.

An action to recover a chattel, the title to which has been transferred to the plaintiff, since the wrongful taking, or during the wrongful detention thereof, with or without the damages sustained by the taking, withholding, or detention, may be maintained in any case, where, except for the transfer, such an action might be maintained, by the person from or through whom the plaintiff derives title; but not otherwise.

New.

§ 1693. Jurisdiction, etc., when replevin precedes summons.

Where a chattel is replevied before the service of the summons, as prescribed in this article, the seizure thereof by the sheriff is regarded as equivalent to the granting of a provisional remedy, for the purpose of giving jurisdiction to the court, and enabling it to control the subsequent proceedings in the action; and as equivalent to the commencement of the action, for the purpose of determining, whether the plaintiff is entitled to maintain the action, or the defendant is liable thereto.

New.

§ 1694. Plaintiff may require sheriff to replevy.

The plaintiff may, when the summons is issued, or at any time afterwards, and before the service of a copy of the defendant's answer, or, where judgment is taken by default for want of an appearance or pleading, before the entry of the final judgment, cause the chattel, to recover which the action is brought, to be replevied by the sheriff of the county where it is found. For that purpose, he must deliver to the sheriff an affidavit and a written undertaking, as prescribed in the following sections of this article, with a written requisition, indorsed upon or annexed to the affidavit, and subscribed by his attorney, to the effect, that the sheriff is required to replevy the chattel described therein. The requisition may be directed to the sheriff of a particular county, or, generally, to the sheriff of any county where the chattel is found. It is deemed the mandate of the court.

From Co. Proc., §§ 206, 209.

§ 1695. Affidavit therefor, before commencement of action.

The affidavit, to be delivered to the sheriff, as prescribed in the last section, must particularly describe the chattel to be replevied; and must contain the following allegations:

1. That the plaintiff is the owner of the chattel, or is entitled to the possession thereof, by virtue of a special property therein; the facts with respect to which must be set forth.

2. That it is wrongfully detained by the defendant.

3. The alleged cause of the detention thereof, according to the best knowledge, information, and belief of the person making the affidavit.

4. That it has not been taken by virtue of a warrant, against the plaintiff, for the collection of a tax, assessment, or fine, issued in pursuance of a statute of the State, or of the United States; or, if it has been taken under color of such a warrant, either that the taking was unlawful, by reason of defects in the process, or other causes specified, or that the detention is unlawful, by reason of facts specified, which have subsequently occurred.

5. That it has not been seized by virtue of an execution or warrant of attachment, against the property of the plaintiff, or of any person from or through whom the plaintiff has derived title to the chattel, since the seizure thereof; or, if it has been so seized, that it was exempt from the seizure, by reason of facts specified, or that its detention is unlawful, by reason of facts specified which have subsequently occurred.

6. Its actual value.

From Co. Proc., § 207.

§ 1696. Id.; after commencement of action.

But where the affidavit is made after the service of the summons, the allegations, required to be inserted therein by subdivisions first and second of the last section, must be to the effect, that the plaintiff, at the time of the commencement of the action, was the owner of the chattel, or was entitled to the possession thereof by virtue of a special property therein; and that it was then wrongfully detained by the defendant, as prescribed in those subdivisions.

New.

§ 1697. Id.; where several chattels are to be replevied.

Where the affidavit describes two or more chattels of the same kind, it must state the number thereof, and where it describes a chattel in bulk, it must state the weight, measurement, or other quantity. Where it describes two or more chattels to be replevied, it may, at the election of the plaintiff, state the aggregate value of all; or, separately, the value of any chattel or of any class of chattels, and the aggregate value of the remainder, if any. Where it states separately the value of one or more chattels or classes of chattels, the defendant may require, as prescribed in the following provisions of this article, the return of any or all of the chattels or classes of chattels, the value of which is thus stated, or of the portion thereof which has been replevied. If he procures such a return, the remainder must be delivered to the plaintiff, except as is otherwise prescribed in this article.

New.

§ 1698. Provision where a part only is replevied.

The sheriff must replevy a smaller number or a smaller quantity, if the whole of the chattel or chattels described in the affidavit cannot be found. In that case, if the aggregate value only is stated in the affidavit, the value of the entire chattel or class of chattels, as so stated, is to be deemed the value of the part replevied, for the purposes of the proceedings to procure a return thereof to the defendant.

New.

§ 1699. Plaintiff's undertaking for replevin.

The undertaking to be delivered to the sheriff, with a requisition to replevy a chattel, must be executed by at least two sureties, who must be approved by the sheriff. It must be to the effect, that the sureties are bound in a specified sum, not less than twice the value of the chattel, as stated in the affidavit, for the prosecution of the action; for the return of the chattel to the defendant, if possession thereof is adjudged to him, or if the action abates, or is discontinued, before the chattel is returned to the defendant; and for the payment to the defendant of any sum, which the judgment awards to him against the plaintiff.

From Co. Proc., part of § 209.

§ 1700. How chattel to be replevied.

If any chattel, described in the affidavit, is found in the possession of the defendant, or of his agent, the sheriff, to whom an affidavit, requisition, and undertaking are delivered, as prescribed in the foregoing sections of this article, must forthwith replevy it, by taking it into his possession. He must thereupon, without delay, serve on the defendant a copy of the affidavit, requisition, and undertaking, by delivering the same to him personally, if he can be found within the county; or, if he cannot be so found, to his agent, if any, from whose possession the chattel is taken; or, if neither can be found within the county, by leaving the copy at the usual place of abode of either, with a person of suitable age and discretion.

From Co. Proc., rest of § 209.

§ 1701. Id.; how taken from a building, etc.

If any chattel, described in the affidavit, is secured or concealed in a building or inclosure, the sheriff must publicly demand its delivery. If it is not delivered, pursuant to the demand, he must cause the building or inclosure to be broken open, and must take the chattel into his possession.

From Co. Proc., § 214.

§ 1702. Replevied chattel; how kept, etc.

A sheriff, who has replevied a chattel, must retain it in his possession, keeping it in a secure place, until the person, who is entitled to the possession thereof, is ascertained, as prescribed in this article. He must then deliver it to that person, upon request and payment of his lawful fees, and necessary expenses for taking and keeping it, as taxed by a judge of the court, or the county judge of the county where the chattel was replevied, upon such a notice as the judge deems proper.

From Co. Proc., § 215.

§ 1703. When defendant may except to sureties; proceedings thereupon.

Within three days after the chattel is replevied, and a copy of the affidavit, requisition, and undertaking is served, the defendant, unless he requires a return of the chattel replevied, or of one or more of them, where two or more chattels are replevied, may serve upon the sheriff a notice, that he excepts to the plaintiff's sureties; otherwise he is deemed to have waived all objections to them. Where the defendant has not appeared, the notice must be subscribed either by him, or by his agent or attorney. The person so subscribing the notice must add to his signature his office address, as prescribed by law, with respect to a notice of appearance. Within ten days after service of such a notice, the plaintiff's attorney must serve upon the defendant's attorney, or, if the defendant has not appeared, upon the sheriff, notice of the justification of the sureties. If the notice of justification is served upon the sheriff, he must immediately serve it upon the person, whose name is subscribed to the notice of exception, in the mode prescribed by law, for service of a paper upon an attorney in an action.

From Id., § 210.

§ 1704. When defendant may reclaim chattel; proceedings thereupon.

The defendant, if he does not except to the plaintiff's sureties, as prescribed in the last section, may, within the time allowed to him for such an exception, serve upon the sheriff, a notice that he requires a return of the chattel replevied. With the notice, he must deliver to the sheriff the following papers:

1. An affidavit, containing an allegation, either that the defendant is the owner of the chattel, or that he is lawfully entitled to the possession thereof, by virtue of a special property therein, the facts with respect to which must be set forth.

2. An undertaking, executed by at least two sureties, to the effect that they are bound, in a specified sum, not less than twice the value of the chattel, as stated in the affidavit of the plaintiff, for the delivery thereof to the plaintiff, if delivery thereof is adjudged, or if the action abates in consequence of the defendant's death; and for the payment to him of any sum, which the judgment awards against the defendant.

Within three days after serving a notice, requiring a return of the chattel, as prescribed in this section, the defendant must serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, notice of the justification of the sureties to the undertaking.

From Id., § 211.

§ 1705. Sureties; when and how to justify.

The justification of sureties, as prescribed in either of the last two sections, must take place, either in the county where the chattel was replevied, or in the county where one of the sureties resides. The provisions, regulating the justification of bail, contained in article third of title first of chapter seventh of this act, govern, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article, with respect to the notice of justification of the sureties; the officer before whom they must justify; the substitution of new sureties or a new undertaking; the examination and qualifications of the sureties; and the allowance of the undertaking. But after the allowance, the undertaking and examination must be delivered to the sheriff.

From Id., §§ 210, 212, 213.

§ 1706. When and to whom sheriff must deliver chattel.

If the defendant neither excepts to the plaintiff's sureties, nor requires the return of the chattel, within the time prescribed for that purpose; or if he makes default in serving notice of the justification of his sureties, or in procuring the allowance of his undertaking; or if the plaintiff, after the defendant has excepted to his sureties, duly procures the allowance of his undertaking; the sheriff must, except in the case specified in section 1709 of this act, immediately deliver the chattel to the plaintiff. If the plaintiff, after the defendant has excepted to his sureties, makes default in serving notice of justification, or in procuring the allowance of his undertaking; or if the defendant, after he has required the return of the chattel, duly procures the allowance of his undertaking; the sheriff must immediately deliver the chattel to the defendant. When the chattel is delivered by the sheriff to either party, as prescribed in this section, the sheriff ceases to be responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties of either party; until then, he is responsible for the sufficiency of the sureties of the plaintiff or of the defendant, as the case may be.

From Id., §§ 210, 211, 212.

§ 1707. Penalty for wrong delivery by sheriff.

A sheriff, who delivers to either party, without the consent of the other, a chattel replevied by him, except as prescribed in the last section, or by virtue of an execution issued upon a judgment in the action, forfeits, to the party aggrieved, two hundred and fifty dollars; and is also liable to him for all damages which he sustains thereby.

From 2 R. S. 525 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), § 18.

§ 1708. Undertaking; to whom delivered.

Where the sheriff duly delivers a chattel to either party, as prescribed in the last section but one, he must, at the same time, deliver to the adverse party the undertaking, received by him from the party to whom the chattel is delivered, together with the examination of the sureties, and the judge's allowance, if any.

From Co. Proc., § 423.

§ 1709. Claim of title by third person; proceedings thereupon.

At any time before a chattel, which has been replevied, is actually delivered to either party, if a person, not a party to the action, claims, as against the defendant, a right to the possession thereof, existing at the time when it was replevied, an affidavit may be made and delivered to the sheriff, in his behalf, stating that he makes such a claim; specifying the chattel or chattels to which it relates, if two or more chattels have been replevied, and the claim relates only to part of them; and setting forth the facts upon which his right of possession depends. In that case, the sheriff may, in his discretion, before he delivers the chattel to the plaintiff, serve upon the plaintiff's attorney a copy of the affidavit, with a notice that he requires indemnity against the claim. If the indemnity is not furnished, within a reasonable time after the plaintiff becomes entitled to the delivery of the chattel, the sheriff may, in his discretion, deliver it to the claimant, without incurring any liability to the plaintiff, by reason of so doing.

From Id., § 216.

§ 1710. Action against sheriff upon such claim.

A person, not a party to the action, who has served an affidavit, as prescribed in the last section, may maintain an action against the sheriff, who has delivered the chattel to the plaintiff, to recover his damages, by reason of the taking, detention, or delivery of the chattel. But the summons in such an action must be issued, within three months after the delivery of the chattel to the plaintiff, and must be served, within three months after it is issued. An action cannot be maintained against a sheriff, by a person so entitled to make a claim, except as prescribed in this section.

From Id., § 216, last sentence.

§ 1711. Indemnity to sheriff against such action.

The indemnity, to be furnished to the sheriff by the plaintiff, as prescribed in the last section but one, must consist of a written undertaking to him, executed by at least two sureties, to the effect that they will indemnify him against any liability for damages, costs, or expenses, to be incurred in an action brought against him by the claimant, or a person deriving title from or through the claimant, by reason of the taking or detention of the chattel, or its delivery to the plaintiff, not exceeding a sum, to be specified in the undertaking, which must be at least five hundred dollars, and not less than the actual value of the chattel claimed, and two hundred and fifty dollars in addition thereto. Each of the sureties, besides possessing the other qualifications required by law, must be a freeholder or a householder of the sheriff's county. The sheriff, before delivering the chattel, may require the persons offered as sureties to submit to an examination, before the officer who takes the acknowledgment of the undertaking, as where persons are offered to him as bail upon an arrest. The sureties are entitled to be substituted as defendants in an action, brought as prescribed in the last section, as if the chattel had been levied upon by virtue of an execution.

From Co. Proc., § 216.

§ 1712. When agent, etc., may make affidavit for replevin or return.

The affidavit, to be delivered to the sheriff in behalf of the plaintiff, with a requisition to replevy a chattel, may be made by the plaintiff's agent or attorney, if the material facts are within his personal knowledge; or if the plaintiff is not within the county where the attorney resides, or has his office, or is not capable of making the affidavit. The affidavit, to be delivered to the sheriff, either in behalf of the defendant, with a notice that he requires the return of the chattel, or in behalf of a person, not a party, who makes a claim as prescribed in section 1709 of this act, may be made by an agent or attorney, if the material facts are within his personal knowledge, or if the defendant or claimant, as the case may be, is not within the county where the property was replevied, and capable of making the affidavit. When the affidavit is made by an attorney or agent, he must state therein what allegations, if any, are made upon his information and belief; and he must set forth therein the grounds of his belief, as to all matters not stated upon his knowledge, and the reason why the affidavit is not made by the party or the claimant.

New.

§ 1713. Second and subsequent replevin; proceedings thereupon.

Where the sheriff has replevied a part only of a chattel, or of two or more chattels, described in the plaintiff's affidavit, and has served upon the defendant the papers required upon such a replevin, the plaintiff may, at any time before the service of a copy of the defendant's answer, or before judgment by default, for want of an appearance or pleading, require the same or any other sheriff, to replevy any other part thereof. For that purpose, he must deliver to the sheriff an affidavit, containing the same allegations, and a requisition and undertaking, with respect to the part yet to be replevied, as if the action was brought to recover that part only. Where a second or subsequent replevin is made, as prescribed in this section, the proceedings are the same, as if a former replevin had not been made.

New.

§ 1714. Replevin, where order of arrest has been granted.

Where an order of arrest is granted, as prescribed in title first of chapter seventh of this act, the plaintiff's right to a replevin is subject to the following regulations:

1. If the defendant has been arrested, pursuant to the order, a subsequent replevin cannot be made of a chattel, with respect to which the order was granted.

2. If the defendant has not been arrested, a subsequent replevin of a chattel, with respect to which the order was granted, supersedes the order.

New. See § 550, subd. 1, ante.

§ 1715. Return, etc., by sheriff.

The sheriff must, within twenty days after he has delivered a chattel replevied by him, to the party entitled to the possession thereof, or to a third person, as prescribed in this article, file with the clerk the plaintiff's affidavit, and the accompanying requisition, with a return, stating in what manner he has executed the latter. If he has omitted to replevy a part of the chattel, or of two or more chattels, described in the affidavit, the return must state the cause of the omission.

From Co. Proc., § 217.

§ 1716. Id.; how compelled.

If the sheriff fails to comply with the last section, either party may require him to do so, within ten days after service of a notice to that effect, or to show cause, at a term of the court designated in the notice, why he should not be punished for a contempt of the court. The notice may be served at any time before final judgment, except that it cannot be served on the part of the defendant, before answer. An omission to comply with such a notice is punishable as a contempt of the court.

New.

§ 1717. Replevin papers to be made part of judgment-roll, etc.

The plaintiff's affidavit, with the accompanying requisition, and the return of the sheriff, must be made a part of the judgment-roll in the action; and a copy of each of them must be furnished to the court, or the referee, upon the trial of an issue of fact, with a copy of the summons and of the pleadings.

New.

§ 1718. Action not affected by failure to replevy.

The plaintiff may proceed in the action, and recover therein the chattel, or its value, although he has not required the sheriff to replevy it, or the sheriff has not been able to replevy it.

From 2 R. S. 525 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), § 19.

§ 1719. When and how plaintiff may abandon his claim as to part.

Where part only of two or more distinct chattels, specified in the complaint, has been replevied, the plaintiff's attorney may, with or before the notice of trial, serve upon the defendant's attorney a notice, that he abandons so much of his claim, as relates to those which have not been replevied; and thenceforth the proceedings are the same, as if the action had been brought to recover only the chattels which have been replevied. A copy of the notice must be furnished to the court, or to the referee, upon the trial of an issue of fact, with a copy of the summons and of the pleadings.

New.

§ 1720. Title; how stated in pleading.

An allegation, in a pleading interposed by either party, to the effect that the party pleading, or a third person, was, at the time when the action was commenced, or the chattel was replevied, as the case may be, the owner of the chattel, or that it was then his property, is a sufficient statement of title, unless the right of action or defence rests upon a right of possession, by virtue of a special property; in which case, the pleading must set forth the facts, upon which the special property depends, so as to show, that at the time when the action was commenced, or the chattel was replevied, as the case may be, the party pleading, or the third person, was entitled to the possession of the chattel.

New.

§ 1721. Taking, etc.; how stated in complaint.

Where the complaint contains a sufficient statement of the plaintiff's title, a general allegation, that the defendant wrongfully took the chattel, is sufficient, without setting forth the facts, showing that the taking was wrongful. Where the taking of the chattel is not complained of, but the action is founded upon its wrongful detention, the complaint must set forth the facts, showing that the detention was wrongful.

From 2 R. S. 523 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), § 36.

§ 1722. Damages when chattel injured, etc., by defendant.

Where the plaintiff recovers a chattel which was injured, or otherwise depreciated in value, while it was in the possession or under the control of the defendant, under such circumstances, that the plaintiff might recover damages for the injury or depreciation, in an action brought against the defendant therefor, he may recover the same damages, in an action brought as prescribed in this article. In that case, he must set forth the facts in his complaint, and demand judgment for damages accordingly.

New.

§ 1723. Answer of title in third person.

The defendant may by answer defend, on the ground that a third person was entitled to the chattel, without connecting himself with the latter's title.

New.

§ 1724. Answer that property was distrained doing damage.

Where the defence is, that a chattel, to recover which the action is brought, was distrained doing damage, an allegation that the defendant, or the person by whose command he acted, was then lawfully possessed of the real property, and that the chattel was distrained, while it was doing damage thereupon, is sufficient, without setting forth the title to the real property.

From Co. Proc., § 166; 2 R. S. 528 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), § 37.

§ 1725. Defendant may demand judgment for return.

Where a chattel has been replevied and delivered to the plaintiff, or to a person not a party to the action, as prescribed in the foregoing sections of this article, the defendant's attorney may, within the time allowed to him for the service of a notice of trial, serve upon the plaintiff's attorney, a notice, that the defendant demands judgment for the return of the chattel, or for its value, either with or without damages for the detention thereof. Upon the trial, a copy of such a notice must be furnished to the court or referee, with a copy of the summons and of the pleadings.

New.

§ 1726. Verdict, etc., what to state.

The verdict, report, or decision must fix the damages, if any, of the prevailing party. Where it awards to the plaintiff a chattel, which has not been replevied, or where it awards to the prevailing party a chattel, which has been replevied, and afterwards delivered by the sheriff to the unsuccessful party, or to a person not a party, it must also, except in a case specified in the next section, fix the value of the chattel, at the time of the trial.

From Co. Proc., § 261, first sentence.

§ 1727. Substitute in certain cases for finding as to value.

A verdict, report, or decision, in favor of the defendant, shall not fix the value of the chattel, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the plaintiff is the general owner of the chattel; but it was rightfully distrained doing damage, and its value is greater than the damages sustained by the defendant, by the injury for which it was distrained; in which case, those damages must be fixed.

2. Where the plaintiff is the general owner of the chattel, but the defendant had a special property therein, and the value of the chattel is greater than the value of the special property, or the sum charged upon the chattel by reason thereof; in which case, the value of the special property, or the sum so charged, must be fixed.

In either of the cases specified in this section, the verdict, report, or decision must set forth the reason, why the value of the chattel is not fixed.

New.

§ 1728. Verdict, etc., for part of several chattels; judgment thereupon.

Where the action is brought to recover two or more chattels, the verdict, report, or decision may award to one party one or more distinct chattels, which can be identified, and set apart from the others, and the residue to the other party; and, if necessary, the complaint must be amended so as to conform thereto. The final judgment, rendered thereupon, must award to each party the same relief, with respect to the finding in his favor, as if separate judgments were rendered; except that, where each party is entitled to an absolute award of a sum of money, against the other, the smaller sum must be deducted from the greater, and the balance only must be awarded.

New.

§ 1729. Damages, how ascertained on default.

Where the plaintiff is entitled to judgment by default, for want of an appearance or pleading, the court, to which he applies for judgment, may ascertain and determine the damages to which he is entitled, and the value of the chattel, if necessary; or may direct a reference, or a writ of inquiry, for that purpose.

New.

§ 1730. Final judgment; docketing the same.

Final judgment for the plaintiff must award to him possession of the chattel recovered by him, with his damages, if any. If a chattel recovered was not replevied, or if, after it was replevied, it was delivered to the defendant, or to a person not a party, as prescribed in this article, the final judgment must also award to the plaintiff the sum fixed as the value thereof, to be paid by the defendant, if possession thereof is not delivered to the plaintiff. If the defendant has demanded judgment for the return of a chattel, which was replevied, and afterwards delivered to the plaintiff, or to a person not a party, as prescribed in this article, final judgment in his favor therefor must award to him possession thereof, with his damages, if any; and it must also award to him the sum fixed as the value thereof, to be paid by the plaintiff, if possession is not delivered to the defendant. But if the case is one of those specified in section 1727 of this act, final judgment in favor of the defendant must award to him the sum, fixed as therein specified, and, if it is not collected, the delivery of the chattel; or, if the chattel has not been replevied, or has been returned to him after replevin, that he is entitled to possession thereof, until the sum so awarded is collected, or otherwise paid. The judgment may be docketed, and the docket thereof creates a lien, as if it was a judgment for the full amount of the money, including costs, which it awards, either absolutely or conditionally.

From 2 R. S. 582 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 12), § 61; Co. Proc., § 277.

§ 1731. Execution; contents thereof.

An execution for the delivery of the possession of a chattel, and to satisfy, out of the property of the judgment debtor, a sum of money contingently awarded against him, must contain, in addition to the other matters prescribed by law, the following directions:

1. Where the judgment is rendered in favor of the defendant, in a case specified in section 1727 of this act, the execution must require the sheriff to deliver possession of the chattel to the defendant, unless the plaintiff, before the delivery, pays to him the sum of money awarded to the defendant, with interest and the sheriff's fees; and, in case the chattel cannot be found within his county, then to satisfy that sum out of the property of the plaintiff.

2. In any other case, where the judgment awards a sum of money, if possession of the chattel is not delivered to the prevailing party, the execution must require the sheriff, if the chattel cannot be found within his county, to satisfy the sum so awarded, with interest and his fees, out of the property of the party against whom the judgment is rendered.

A direction to satisfy a sum of money out of property, as prescribed in this section, must be in the form required by law for a like direction, where an execution against property is issued upon a judgment for a sum of money.

From Co. Proc., § 289, subd. 4; 2 R. S. 530, § 50.

§ 1733. Id.; sheriff's power to take chattel.

For the purpose of taking possession of a chattel, by virtue of such an execution, the powers of the sheriff are the same, as where he is required to replevy a chattel.

From 2 R. S. 530, § 51.

§ 1733. Action on undertaking; when maintainable.

A plaintiff, who has recovered a final judgment, cannot maintain an action against the sureties in an undertaking, given in behalf of the defendant to procure a return of the chattel, or against the bail of a defendant, who has been arrested, until after the return, wholly or partly unsatisfied or unexecuted, of an execution in his favor for the delivery of the possession of the chattel, or to satisfy a sum of money out of the property of the defendant, or for both purposes, as the case requires. A defendant, who has recovered a final judgment, cannot maintain an action against the sureties in the plaintiff's undertaking, given to procure a replevin, until after a like return of a similar execution against the plaintiff.

From 2 R. S. 533, § 64.

§ 1734. Sheriff's return, evidence therein.

In such an action against the sureties, the sheriff's return to the execution is presumptive evidence of a failure to deliver, or to return a chattel, or to pay a sum of money, according to the terms of the undertaking.

From 2 R. S. 533, § 65.

§ 1735. Injury, etc., no defence.

It is not a defence to such an action, that the chattel was injured or destroyed, after it was replevied, unless the injury or destruction was effected by the act, or with the consent of the plaintiff in the action, or occurred after the chattel was taken by virtue of the execution.

New. See Suydam v. Jenkins, 3 Sandf. S. C. 614.

§ 1736. Abatement and revival of action.

In an action to recover a chattel, the cause of action survives or continues, notwithstanding the death of either party, in favor of or against his executor or administrator. Where the court makes an order, directing the abatement of such an action, as prescribed in section 761 of this act, an action may be maintained, upon an undertaking, given for the purpose of procuring a delivery or return of a chattel, as if final judgment, awarding to the adverse party possession thereof, had been rendered in the first action, and an execution thereupon had been returned unexecuted and unsatisfied; except that damages cannot be recovered therein for a wrongful taking, withholding, or detention. An action to recover the chattel cannot be maintained, after an action has been commenced upon an undertaking, as prescribed in this section.

New.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Action to foreclose a lien upon a chattel.

Sec. 1737. Action; when and in what courts maintainable.
1738. Warrant to seize chattel; proceedings thereupon.
1739. Judgment.
1740. Action in inferior court.
1741. Application of this article.

§ 1737. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Action; when and in what courts maintainable.

An action may be maintained to foreclose a lien upon a chattel for a sum of money, in any case where such a lien exists at the commencement of the action. The action may be brought in any court, of record or not of record, which would have jurisdiction to render a judgment, in an action founded upon a contract, for a sum equal to the amount of the lien.

From L. 1869, c. 738, § 1.

§ 1738. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Warrant to seize chattel; proceedings thereupon.

Where the action is brought in the supreme court, the city court of the city of New York, or a county court, if the plaintiff is not in possession of the chattel, a warrant may be granted by the court, or a judge thereof, commanding the sheriff to seize the chattel, and safely keep it to abide the final judgment in the action. The provisions of title third of chapter seven of this act apply to such warrant, and to the proceedings to procure it and after it has been issued, as if it was a warrant of attachment, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1739. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judgment.

In an action brought in a court specified in the last section, final judgment, in favor of the plaintiff, must specify the amount of the lien, and direct a sale of the chattel to satisfy the same and the costs, if any, by a referee appointed thereby, or an officer designated therein, in like manner as where a sheriff sells personal property by virtue of an execution; and the application by him of the proceeds of the sale, less his fees and expenses, to the payment of the amount of the lien, and the costs of the action. It must also provide for the payment of the surplus to the owner of the chattel, and for the safe keeping of the surplus, if necessary, until it is claimed by him. If a defendant, upon whom the summons is personally served, is liable for the amount of the lien, or for any part thereof, it may also award payment accordingly.

From L. 1869, c. 738, § 3.

§ 1740. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Action in inferior court.

Where the action is brought in a court, other than one of those specified in the last section but one, if the plaintiff is not in possession of the chattel, a warrant, commanding the proper officer to seize the chattel, and safely keep it to abide the judgment, may be issued, in like manner as a warrant of attachment may be issued in an action founded upon a contract, brought in the same court; and the provisions of law, applicable to a warrant of attachment, issued out of that court, apply to a warrant, issued as prescribed in this section, and to the proceedings to procure it, and after it has been issued; except as otherwise specified in the judgment. A judgment in favor of the plaintiff, in such an action, must correspond to a judgment, rendered as prescribed in the last section, except that it must direct the sale of the chattel by an officer to whom an execution, issued out of the court, may be directed; and the payment of the surplus, if its safe keeping is necessary, to the county treasurer, for the benefit of the owner.

From L. 1869, c. 738, §§ 1-3.

§ 1741. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Application of this article.

This article does not affect any existing right or remedy to foreclose or satisfy a lien upon a chattel, without action; and it does not apply to a case, where another mode of enforcing a lien upon a chattel is specially prescribed by law.

From Id., § 5.

CHAPTER XV.

Special Provisions, Regulating Other Particular Actions and Rights of Action, and Actions by or against Particular Parties.

TITLE I.— Matrimonial Actions.
TITLE II.— Actions Relating to a Corporation.
TITLE III.— Actions Relating to the Estate of a Decedent.
TITLE IV.—Other Special Actions and Rights of Action.
TITLE V.— Other Actions by or against Particular Parties.

TITLE I.

Matrimonial actions.

Article 1. Action to annul a void or voidable marriage.
2. Action for a divorce.
3. Action for a separation.
4. Provisions applicable to two or more of the actions specified in this title.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action to annul a void or voidable marriage.

Sec. 1742. Action by woman, married under 16, to annul marriage.
1743. In what other cases marriage may be annulled.
1744. Action when party was under the age of consent.
1745. Id.; when former husband or wife was living.
1746. Id.; where party was an idiot.
1747. Id.; where party was a lunatic.
1748. Action by next friend of idiot or lunatic.
1749. Issue; when entitled to succeed, etc.
1750. Action on the ground of force, fraud, etc.
1751. Custody, maintenance, etc., of issue of such a marriage.
1752. Action on the ground of physical incapacity.
1753. Certain proceedings regulated in action to annul marriage.
1754. Judgment annulling a marriage; how far conclusive.
1755. How next friend of infant, lunatic, etc., allowed to sue, etc.

§ 1742. [Am'd, 1887.] Action by woman, married under 16, to annul marriage.

An action may be maintained, by the woman, to procure a judgment, declaring a marriage contract void, and annulling the marriage, under the following circumstances:

1. Where the plaintiff had not attained the age of sixteen years at the time of the marriage.

2. Where the marriage took place without the consent of her father, mother, guardian, or other person having the legal charge of her person.

3. Where it was not followed by consummation or cohabitation, and was not ratified by any mutual assent of the parties, after the plaintiff attained the age of sixteen years.

From L. 1841, c. 257. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 22. See § 7 of the Domestic Relations Law, which declares the age of consent to marry to be eighteen years, but does not amend this section.

§ 1743. [Am'd, 1916.] In what other cases marriage may be annulled.

An action may also be maintained to procure a judgment, declaring a marriage contract heretofore or hereafter entered into void and annulling the marriage, for either of the following causes, existing at the time of the marriage:

1. That one or both of the parties had not attained the age of legal consent or the age under which the consent of parents or guardians was required by the laws of the state where the marriage was contracted.

2. That the former husband or wife of one of the parties was living, and that the marriage with the former husband or wife was then in force.

3. That one of the parties was an idiot or a lunatic.

4. That the consent of one of the parties was obtained by force, duress, or fraud.

5. That one of the parties was physically incapable of entering into the marriage state. But an action can be maintained, under this subdivision, only where the incapacity continues, and is incurable.

From 2 R. S. 142 (Part 2, c. 8, tit. 1), § 20; L. 1862, c. 246, § 2; L. 1916, c. 605 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1744. [Am'd, 1916.] Action when party was under the age of consent.

An action to annul a marriage heretofore or hereafter contracted, on the ground that one of the parties had not attained the age of legal consent, or the age under which the consent of parents or guardians was required by the laws of the state where the marriage was contracted, may be maintained by the infant, or by either parent of the infant, or by the guardian of the infant's person; or the court may allow the action to be maintained by any person, as the next friend of the infant. But a marriage shall not be annulled, at the suit of a party who was of the age under which the consent of parents or guardians was required by the laws of the state where the marriage was contracted when it was contracted, or where it appears that the parties, for any time after they attained that age, freely cohabited as husband and wife.

From 2 R. S. 142, § 21. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 605 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 1745. [Am'd, 1882, 1913.] Id.; when former husband or wife was living.

An action to annul a marriage, upon the ground that the former husband or wife of one of the parties was living, the former marriage being in force, may be maintained by either of the parties during the life-time of the other, or by the former husband or wife. Where it appears, and the judgment determines, that the subsequent marriage was contracted by at least one of the parties thereto in good faith, and with the full belief that the former husband or wife was dead or that the former marriage had been annulled or dissolved, or without any knowledge on the part of the innocent party of such former marriage, the issue of the subsequent marriage, born or begotten before the final judgment, are deemed for all purposes, the legitimate children of the parent, who at the time of the marriage was competent to contract, and are entitled to succeed as such, in the same manner as other legitimate children, to the real and personal estate of said parent; and the issue so entitled must be specified in the judgment, and the innocent party must be awarded their custody, and he or she is entitled to appoint a guardian of their persons by will.

This section shall be construed to extend to all cases where the judgment or decree of nullity of such subsequent marriage is rendered after the passage of this act, whether such subsequent marriage was contracted before or after the passage hereof.

From Id., §§ 22, 23. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 401; L. 1913, c. 444 (in effect May 8, 1913).

§ 1746. Id.; where party was an idiot.

An action to annul a marriage, on the ground that one of the parties thereto was an idiot, may be maintained, at any time during the life-time of either party, by any relative of the idiot, who has an interest to avoid the marriage.

From 2 R. S. 142, § 24.

§ 1747. Id.; where party was a lunatic.

An action to annul a marriage, on the ground that one of the parties thereto was a lunatic, may be maintained, at any time during the continuance of the lunacy, or, after the death of the lunatic in that condition, and during the life of the other party to the marriage, by any relative of the lunatic, who has an interest to avoid the marriage. Such an action may also be maintained by the lunatic, at any time after restoration to a sound mind; but in that case, the marriage shall not be annulled, if it appears that the parties freely cohabited as husband and wife, after the lunatic was restored to a sound mind.

From Id., §§ 25, 27.

§ 1748. Action by next friend of idiot or lunatic.

Where no relative of the idiot or lunatic brings an action to annul the marriage, as prescribed in either of the last two sections, the court may allow an action for that purpose to be maintained, at any time during the life-time of both the parties to the marriage, by any person as the next friend of the idiot or lunatic. But this section does not apply, where the marriage might have been annulled, at the suit of the lunatic, as prescribed in the last section.

From Id., § 26.

§ 1749. [Am'd, 1903.] Issue; when entitled to succeed, etc.

A child of a marriage, which is annulled on the ground of the idiocy or lunacy of one of its parents, is deemed, for all purposes, the legitimate child of the parent who is of sound mind. A child of a marriage, which is annulled on the ground that one or both of the parties had not attained the age of legal consent, is deemed, for all purposes, the legitimate child of both parents.

From Id., § 28. Am'd by L. 1903, c. 225 (in effect Sept. 1, 1903).

§ 1750. Action on the ground of force, fraud, etc.

An action to annul a marriage, on the ground that the consent of one of the parties thereto was obtained by force, duress, or fraud, may be maintained, at any time, by the party whose consent was so obtained. Such an action may also be maintained, during the life-time of the other party, by the parent or the guardian of the person of the party, whose consent was so obtained, or by any relative of that party, who has an interest to avoid the marriage. But a marriage shall not be annulled on the ground of force or duress, if it appears that, at any time before the commencement of the action, the parties thereto voluntarily cohabited as husband and wife; or on the ground of fraud, if it appears that, at any time before the commencement thereof, the parties voluntarily cohabited as husband and wife, with a full knowledge of the facts constituting the fraud.

From Id., §§ 30, 31; L. 1862, c. 246.

§ 1751. Custody, maintenance, etc., of issue of such a marriage.

The court must, upon the application of the plaintiff, award the custody of the children of a marriage, which is annulled on the ground of force, duress, or fraud, to the innocent parent, unless it appears that the latter is unfit, for any reason, to have the custody of one or more of the children, in which case the court must give such directions relating thereto, as the interests of the child or children require. The judgment may make provision for the education and maintenance of the children, out of the property of the guilty parent.

From 2 R. S. 142, § 32.

§ 1752. [Am'd, 1895.] Action on the ground of physical incapacity.

An action to annul a marriage, on the ground that one of the parties was physically incapable of entering into the marriage state, may be maintained by the injured party against the party whose incapacity is alleged; or such an action may be maintained by the party who was incapable against the other party, provided the incapable party was unaware of the incapacity at the time of marriage, or if aware of such incapacity, did not know it was incurable. Such an action must be commenced before five years have expired since the marriage.

From Id., § 33. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 809.

§ 1753. Certain proceedings regulated in action to annul marriage.

In an action brought as prescribed in this article, a final judgment, annulling the marriage, shall not be rendered by default, for want of an appearance or pleading, or upon the trial of an issue, without proof of the facts, upon which the allegation of nullity is founded. And the declaration or confession of either party to the marriage is not alone sufficient as proof; but other satisfactory evidence of the facts must be produced. In such an action, except where it is founded upon an allegation of the physical incapacity of one of the parties thereto, the court must, upon the application of either of the parties, make an order directing the trial, by a jury, of all the issues of fact; or it may, of its own motion, make an order directing the trial, by a jury, of one or more issues of fact; for which purpose, the questions to be tried must be prepared and settled, as prescribed in section 970 of this act.

From 2 R. S. 142, §§ 35, 36; Id., 175, § 45.

§ 1754. Judgment annulling a marriage; how far conclusive.

A final judgment, annulling a marriage, rendered during the life-time of both the parties, is conclusive evidence of the invalidity of the marriage, in every court, of record or not of record, in any action or special proceeding, civil or criminal. Such a judgment, rendered after the death of either party to the marriage, is conclusive only as against the parties to the action, and those claiming under them.

From 2 R. S. 142, § 37.

§ 1755. How next friend of infant, lunatic, etc., allowed to sue, etc.

An order, allowing a person to maintain an action, as the next friend of an infant, as prescribed in section 1744 of this act, or as the next friend of an idiot or lunatic, as prescribed in section 1748 of this act, may be granted by the court, in its discretion, without notice, or upon notice to such persons and in such a manner, as it deems proper. A motion to vacate such an order must be made at a term held by the judge who granted it, unless he is dead, out of office, or unable to hear it by reason of sickness or otherwise; or unless he expressly directs it to be heard at a term held by another judge. But where such an order has been granted, the court, to which application for final judgment is made, may dismiss the complaint, if justice so requires, although, in a like case, the party to the marriage, if plaintiff, would be entitled to judgment.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Action for a divorce.

Sec. 1756. In what cases action may be maintained.
1757. Answer; mode of trial; judgment by default.
1758. When divorce denied, although adultery proved.
1759. Regulations when action brought by wife.
1760. Id.; when action brought by husband.
1761. Regulation when action brought by either husband or wife.

§ 1756. In what cases action may be maintained.

In either of the following cases, a husband or a wife may maintain an action, against the other party to the marriage, to procure a judgment, divorcing the parties and dissolving the marriage, by reason of the defendant's adultery.

1. Where both parties were residents of the State, when the offence was committed.
2. Where the parties were married within this State.
3. Where the plaintiff was a resident of the State, when the offence was committed, and is a resident thereof, when the action is commenced.
4. Where the offence was committed within the State, and the injured party, when the action is commenced, is a resident of the State.

From 2 R. S. 144 (Part 2, c. 3, tit. 1), § 38; L. 1862, c. 246, § 1.

§ 1757. [Am'd, 1899, 1911.] Answer; mode of trial; judgment by default.

1. The answer of the defendant may be made, without verifying it, notwithstanding the verification of the complaint, except that an answer containing a counterclaim, which charges adultery must be verified in respect of such counterclaim, where the complaint is verified. If the answer puts in issue the allegation of adultery, the court must, upon the application of either party, or it may, of its own motion, make an order directing the trial, by a jury, of that issue; for which purpose the questions to be tried must be prepared and settled, as prescribed in section 970 of this act. If the answer does not put in issue the allegation of adultery, or if the defendant makes default in appearing or pleading, the plaintiff before he is entitled to judgment, must nevertheless satisfactorily prove the material allegations of his complaint, and also, by his own testimony or otherwise, that there is no judgment or decree, in any court of the State of competent jurisdiction, against him in favor of the defendant for a divorce on the ground of adultery.

2. In an action brought to obtain a divorce on the ground of adultery, the plaintiff or defendant may serve a copy of his pleading on the co-respondent named therein. At any time within twenty days after such service on said co-respondent, he may appear to defend such action, so far as the issues affect such co-respondent. If no such service be made, then at any time before the entry of judgment any co-respondent named in any of the pleadings shall have the right, at any time before the entry of judgment, to appear either in person or by attorney, in said action and demand of plaintiff's attorney a copy of the summons and complaint, which must be served within ten days thereafter, and he may appear to defend such action, so far as the issues affect such co-respondent. In case no one of the allegations of adultery controverted by such co-respondent shall be proved, such co-respondent shall be entitled to a bill of costs against the person naming him as such co-respondent, which bill of costs shall consist only of the sum now allowed by law as a trial fee, and disbursements, and such co-respondent shall be entitled to have an execution issue for the collection of the same.

From 2 R. S. 144, §§ 39, 40, 41; L. 1877, c. 168. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 661; L. 1911, c. 311 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 1758. When divorce denied, although adultery proved. In either of the following cases, the plaintiff is not entitled to a divorce, although the adultery is established:

1. Where the offence was committed by the procurement or with the connivance of the plaintiff.

2. Where the offence charged has been forgiven by the plaintiff. The forgiveness may be proved, either affirmatively, or by the voluntary cohabitation of the parties, with the knowledge of the fact.

3. Where there has been no express forgiveness, and no voluntary cohabitation of the parties, but the action was not commenced within five years after the discovery, by the plaintiff, of the offence charged.

4. Where the plaintiff has also been guilty of adultery, under such circumstances, that the defendant would have been entitled, if innocent, to a divorce.

From 2 R. S. 144, § 42.

§ 1759. [Am'd, 1894, 1895, 1900.] Regulations when action brought by wife. Where the action is brought by the wife, the following regulations apply to the proceedings:

1. The legitimacy of any child of the marriage, born or begotten before the commencement of the action, is not affected by the judgment dissolving the marriage.

2. The court may, in the final judgment dissolving the marriage, require the defendant to provide suitably for the education and maintenance of the children of the marriage, and for the support of plaintiff, as justice requires, having regard to the circumstances of the respective parties; and may, by order, upon the application of either party to the action, and after due notice to the other, to be given in such manner as the court shall prescribe, at any time after final judgment whether heretofore or hereafter rendered, annul, vary or modify such a direction. But no such application shall be made by a defendant unless leave to make the same shall have been previously granted by the court by order made upon or without notice as the court in its discretion may deem proper after presentation to the court of satisfactory proof that justice requires that such an application should be entertained.

3. If, when final judgment is rendered, dissolving the marriage, the plaintiff is the owner of any real property; or has, in her possession, or under her control, any personal property, or thing in action, which was left with her by the defendant, or acquired by her own industry, or given to her by bequest or otherwise; or if she is or may thereafter become entitled to any property, by the decease of a relative intestate; the defendant shall not have any interest therein, absolute or contingent, before or after her death.

4. Where final judgment is rendered dissolving the marriage, the plaintiff's inchoate right of dower, in any real property, of which the defendant then is or was theretofore seized, is not affected by the judgment.

From 2 R. S. 144, §§ 43, 45, 46. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 729; L. 1895, c. 884; L. 1900, c. 742 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 1760. Id.; when action brought by husband.

Where the action is brought by the husband, the following regulations apply to the proceedings:

1. The legitimacy of a child, born or begotten before the commission of the offence charged, is not affected by a judgment dissolving the marriage; but the legitimacy of any other child of the wife may be determined, as one of the issues in the action. In the absence of proof to the contrary, the legitimacy of all the children, begotten before the commencement of the action, must be presumed.

2. A judgment dissolving the marriage does not impair, or otherwise affect, the plaintiff's rights and interests, in and to any real or personal property, which the defendant owns or possesses, when the judgment is rendered.

3. Where judgment is rendered dissolving the marriage, the defendant is not entitled to dower in any of the plaintiff's real property, or to a distributive share in his personal property.

From 2 R. S. 144, §§ 44, 47, 48.

§ 1761. [Added, 1913.] Regulations when action brought by either husband or wife.

Whenever the relation of husband and wife ceases by the entry of a judgment dissolving the marriage, the defendant guilty of adultery is not entitled to any interest in any policy of insurance on the life of the plaintiff, wherein such defendant is named as a beneficiary, and the plaintiff may apply to the court granting the final decree or to a special term of the supreme court on notice to the defendant, or the attorney who appeared for defendant in action for divorce, and to the insurance company issuing the policy or policies, for an order directing the insurance company issuing the policy or policies to substitute therein such beneficiary as the plaintiff may nominate. In case where it is shown that the defendant has contributed from his or her separate estate toward the payment of the premiums on such policy, the court shall grant such order on such terms as in the discretion of the court shall be equitable. This section shall also apply in like manner when the defendant obtains a decree against the plaintiff on a counterclaim.

Added by L. 1913, c. 536 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

ARTICLE THIRD.

Action for a separation.

Sec. 1762. For what causes action may be maintained.
1763. Id.; in what cases.
1764. Requisites of complaint.
1765. Defendant may set up plaintiff's misconduct.
1766. Support, maintenance, etc., of wife and children.
1767. Judgment for separation may be revoked.

§ 1762. For what causes action may be maintained.

In either of the cases specified in the next section, an action may be maintained, by a husband or wife, against the other party to the marriage, to procure a judgment, separating the parties from bed and board, forever, or for a limited time, for either of the following causes:

1. The cruel and inhuman treatment of the plaintiff by the defendant.
2. Such conduct, on the part of the defendant towards the plaintiff, as may render it unsafe and improper for the former to cohabit with the latter.
3. The abandonment of the plaintiff by the defendant.
4. Where the wife is plaintiff, the neglect or refusal of the defendant to provide for her.

From 2 R. S. 146 (Part 2, c. 8, tit. 1), §§ 50, 51.

§ 1763. Id.; in what cases.

Such an action may be maintained, in either of the following cases:

1. Where both parties are residents of the State, when the action is commenced.
2. Where the parties were married within the State, and the plaintiff is a resident thereof, when the action is commenced.
3. Where the parties, having been married without the State, have become residents of the State, and have continued to be residents thereof at least one year; and the plaintiff is such a resident, when the action is commenced.

Id.

§ 1764. Requisites of complaint.

The complaint in such an action must specify particularly the nature and circumstances of the defendant's misconduct, and must set forth the time and place of each act complained of, with reasonable certainty.

From Id., § 52.

§ 1765. Defendant may set up plaintiff's misconduct.

The defendant may set up, in justification, the misconduct of the plaintiff; and if that defence is established to the satisfaction of the court, the defendant is entitled to judgment.

From Id., § 53.

§ 1766. Support, maintenance, etc., of wife and children.

Where the action is brought by the wife, the court may, in the final judgment of separation, give such directions, as the nature and circumstances of the case require. In particular, it may compel the defendant to provide suitably for the education and maintenance of the children of the marriage, and for the support of the plaintiff, as justice requires, having regard to the circumstances of the respective parties. And the court may, in such an action, render a judgment, compelling the defendant to make the provision specified in this section, where, under the circumstances of the case, such a judgment is proper, without rendering a judgment of separation.

From Id., §§ 54, 55.

§ 1767. Judgment for separation may be revoked.

Upon the joint application of the parties, accompanied with satisfactory evidence of their reconciliation, a judgment for a separation, forever, or for a limited period, rendered as prescribed in this article, may be revoked, at any time, by the court which rendered it, subject to such regulations and restrictions as the court thinks fit to impose.

From Id., § 56.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Provisions applicable to two or more of the actions specified in this title.

Sec. 1768. Married woman deemed a resident in certain cases.
1769. Alimony, expenses of action, and costs; how awarded.
1770. What is deemed a counterclaim.
1771. Custody and maintenance of children and support of plaintiff.
1772. Support, maintenance, etc., of wife and children. Sequestration.
1773. Id.; when enforced by punishment for contempt.
1774. Regulations respecting judgment by default.

§ 1768. Married woman deemed a resident in certain cases.

If a married woman dwells within the State, when she commences an action against her husband, as prescribed in either of the last two articles, she is deemed a resident thereof, although her husband resides elsewhere.

From 2 R. S. 147 (Part 2, c. 8, tit. 1), § 57.

§ 1769. Alimony, expenses of action, and costs; how awarded.

Where an action is brought, as prescribed in either of the last two articles, the court may, in its discretion, during the pendency thereof, from time to time, make and modify an order or orders, requiring the husband to pay any sum or sums of money, necessary to enable the wife to carry on or defend the action, or to provide suitably for the education and maintenance of the children of the marriage, or for the support of the wife, having regard to the circumstances of the respective parties. The final judgment in such an action may award costs, in favor of or against either party, and an execution may be issued for the collection thereof, as in an ordinary case; or the court may, in the judgment, or by an order made at any time, direct the costs to be paid out of any property sequestered, or otherwise in the power of the court.

From Id., § 58.

§ 1770. [Am'd, 1881.] What is deemed a counterclaim.

Where an action is brought by either husband or wife, as prescribed in either of the last two articles, a cause of action, against the plaintiff and in favor of the defendant, arising under either of the said articles, may be interposed, in connection with a denial of the material allegations of the complaint, as a counterclaim.

New. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 703.

§ 1771. [Am'd, 1895, 1904, 1906.] Custody and maintenance of children, and support of plaintiff.

Where an action is brought by either husband or wife, as prescribed in either of the last two articles, the court must, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in those articles, give, either in the final judgment, or by one or more orders, made from time to time, before final judgment, such directions as justice requires, between the parties, for the custody, care, education, and maintenance of any of the children of the marriage, and where the action is brought by the wife, for the support of the plaintiff. The court may, by order, upon the application of either party to the action after due notice to the other, to be given in such manner as the court shall prescribe, at any time after final judgment, annul, vary or modify such directions, or in case no such direction or directions shall have been made, amend it by inserting such direction or directions as justice requires for the custody, care, education and maintenance of any such child or children in such final judgment or order or orders. But no such application shall be made by a defendant unless leave to make the same shall have been previously granted by the court by order made upon or without notice as the court in its discretion may deem proper after presentation to the court of satisfactory proof that justice requires that such an application should be entertained. Where an action is brought by a wife, as prescribed in article second of this chapter, and a final judgment of divorce has been rendered in her favor, the court, upon the application of the defendant on notice, and on proof of the marriage of the plaintiff after such final judgment, must by order modify such final judgment and any orders made with respect thereto, by annulling the provisions of such final judgment or orders, or of both, directing payments of money for the support of the plaintiff.

§ 1772. [Am'd 1904.] Support, maintenance, etc., of wife and children. Sequestration.

Where a judgment rendered, or an order made, as prescribed in this article, or in either of the last two articles, or a judgment for divorce or separation rendered in another state, upon the ground of adultery upon which an action has been brought in this state, and judgment rendered therein, requires a husband to provide for the education or maintenance of any of the children of a marriage, or for the support of his wife, the court may, in its discretion, also direct him to give reasonable security, in such a manner, and within such a time, as it thinks proper, for the payment, from time to time, of the sums of money required for that purpose. If he fails to give the security, or to make any payment required by the terms of such a judgment or order, whether he has or has not given security therefor; or to pay any sum of money which he is required to pay by an order, made as prescribed in section 1769 of this act; the court may cause his personal property, and the rents and profits of his real property, to be sequestered, and may appoint a receiver thereof. The rents and profits, and other property, so sequestered, may be, from time to time, applied, under the direction of the court, to the payment of any of the sums of money specified in this section, as justice requires.

From 2 R. S. 147, § 60. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 318 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 1773. [Am'd, 1909.] Id.; when enforced by punishment for contempt.

Where the husband makes default in paying any sum of money specified in the last section, as required by the judgment or order directing the payment thereof; and it appears presumptively, to the satisfaction of the court, that payment cannot be enforced by means of the proceedings prescribed in the last section, or by resorting to the security, if any, given as therein prescribed, the court may, in its discretion, make an order requiring the husband to show cause before it, at a time and place therein specified, why he should not be punished for his failure to make the payment; and thereupon proceedings must be taken to punish him, as prescribed in article 19 of the Judiciary Law for the punishment of a contempt of court, other than a criminal contempt. Such an order to show cause may also be made, without any previous sequestration, or direction to give security, where the court is satisfied that they would be ineffectual.

New. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 1774. [Am'd, 1902, 1903, 1905.] Regulations respecting judgment.

In an action brought as prescribed in this title, a final judgment shall not be rendered in favor of the plaintiff upon the defendant's default in appearing or pleading, unless either the summons and a copy of the complaint were personally served upon the defendant; or the copy of the summons delivered to the defendant, upon personal service of the summons, or delivered to him without the state, or published, pursuant to an order for that purpose, obtained as prescribed in chapter fifth of this act, contains the following words, or words to the same effect, legibly written or printed upon the face thereof, to wit: "Action to annul a marriage;" "Action for a divorce;" or "Action for a separation;" according to the article of this title, under which the action is brought. Where the summons is personally served, but a copy of the complaint is not served therewith; or where a copy of the summons and copy of the complaint are delivered to the defendant without the state, the certificate or affidavit proving service must affirmatively state, in the body thereof, that such an inscription, setting forth a copy thereof, was so written or printed upon the face of the copy of the summons delivered to the defendant. No final judgment annulling a marriage, or divorcing the parties and dissolving a marriage, shall be entered, in an action brought under either article first or article second of this title, until after the expiration of three months after the filing of the decision of the court or report of the referee. Such decision or report must be filed and interlocutory judgment thereon must be entered within fifteen days after the party becomes entitled to file or enter the same, and can not be filed or entered after the expiration of said period of fifteen days unless by order of the court upon application and sufficient cause being shown for the delay. Within thirty days after the expiration of said period of three months final judgment shall be entered as of course upon said decision or report, unless for sufficient cause the court in the meantime shall have otherwise ordered. Upon filing the decision of the court or report of the referee, a judgment annulling a marriage or divorcing the parties and dissolving a marriage, shall be interlocutory only and shall provide for the entry of final judgment granting such relief three months after entry of interlocutory judgment unless otherwise ordered by the court. The final judgment must be entered within thirty days after the expiration of said period of three months and can not be entered after the expiration of such period of thirty days except by order of the court on application and sufficient cause being shown for the delay. The interlocutory judgment may, in the discretion of the court, provide for the payment of alimony until the entry of final judgment; it may include a judgment for costs, when costs are awarded, in which case said judgment for costs shall be docketed by the clerk, and thereupon shall have the same force and effect as if docketed upon the entry of final judgment therein, except that it shall not be enforceable by execution or punishment until the entry of final judgment in said action.

New. Am'd by L. 1902, c. 264; L. 1903, c. 482; L. 1905, c. 397 (in effect Sept. 1, 1905).

TITLE II.

Actions relating to a corporation.

Article 1. Action by a corporation, and action against a corporation, to recover damages or property.
2. Judicial supervision of a corporation, and of the officers and members thereof.
3. Actions to procure the dissolution of a corporation, and actions to enforce the individual liability of the officers or members of a corporation, with or without a dissolution thereof.
4. Action by the people to annul a corporation.
5. Provisions applicable to two or more of the actions specified in this title.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action by a corporation, and action against a corporation, to recover damages or property.

Sec. 1775. Complaint in actions by or against corporations.
1776. When proof of corporate existence unnecessary.
1777. Misnomer, when waived.
1778. Action against a corporation, upon a note, etc.
1779. When foreign corporation may sue.
1780. When foreign corporation may be sued.

§ 1775. Complaint in actions by or against corporations. In an action brought by or against a corporation, the complaint must aver that the plaintiff, or the defendant, as the case may be, is a corporation; must state whether it is a domestic corporation or a foreign corporation; and, if the latter, the state, country, or government, by or under whose laws it was created. But the plaintiff need not set forth, or specially refer to, any act or proceeding, by or under which the corporation was created.

From 2 R. S. 459 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 4), § 13.

§ 1776. When proof of corporate existence unnecessary. In an action, brought by or against a corporation, the plaintiff need not prove, upon the trial, the existence of the corporation, unless the answer is verified, and contains an affirmative allegation that the plaintiff, or the defendant, as the case may be, is not a corporation.

From Id., § 3; L. 1864, c. 422; L. 1875, c. 508.

§ 1777. Misnomer, when waived. In an action or special proceeding, brought by or against a corporation, the defendant is deemed to have waived any mistake in the statement of the corporate name, unless the misnomer is pleaded in the answer, or other pleading in the defendant's behalf.

From 2 R. S. 459, § 14.

default in pleading, at the expiration of twenty days after service of a copy of the complaint, either personally with the summons, or upon the defendant's attorney, pursuant to his demand therefor; or, if the service of the summons was otherwise than personal, at the expiration of twenty days after the service is complete.

From 2 R. S. 459, §§ 8, 9, 10.

§ 1779. When foreign corporation may sue.

An action may be maintained by a foreign corporation, in like manner, and subject to the same regulations, as where the action is brought by a domestic corporation, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law. But a foreign corporation cannot maintain an action, founded upon an act, or upon a liability or obligation, express or implied, arising out of, or made and entered into in consideration of, an act, which the laws of the State forbid a corporation or association of individuals to do, without express authority of law. This section does not affect the validity of a meeting of the stockholders or directors of a foreign corporation, held within the State, where such a meeting is authorized by the laws of the state, country, or government by or under which the corporation is created; or of an act, done at such a meeting, which is not in conflict with the same laws, or the laws of the State.

From Id., §§ 1, 2; L. 1873, c. 634.

§ 1780. [Am'd, 1913.] When foreign corporation may be sued.

An action against a foreign corporation may be maintained by a resident of the State, or by a domestic corporation, for any cause of action. An action against a foreign corporation may be maintained by another foreign corporation, or by a non-resident, in one of the following cases only:

1. Where the action is brought to recover damages for the breach of a contract, made within the State, or relating to property situated within the State, at the time of the making thereof.

2. Where it is brought to recover real property situated within the State, or a chattel, which is replevied within the State.

3. Where the cause of action arose within the State, except where the object of the action is to affect the title to real property situated without the State.

4. Where a foreign corporation is doing business within this State.

From Co. Proc., § 427; 2 R. S. 459, § 15; L. 1849, c. 107. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 60 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

ARTICLE SECOND.

Judicial supervision of a corporation, and of the officers and members thereof.

[N. B.—Of this title there has been transferred to the General Corporation Law of the "Consolidated Laws" the whole of Article II (comprising §§ 1781-1783); the whole of Article III (comprising §§ 1784-1796); the whole of Article IV (comprising §§ 1797-1803); and the whole of Article V (comprising §§ 1804-1813), except §§ 1809, 1812 and 1813 (which have, however, been amended).]

§§ 1781-1783. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

ARTICLE THIRD.

Actions to procure the dissolution of a corporation, and actions to enforce the individual liability of the officers or members of a corporation, with or without a dissolution thereof.

§§ 1784-1796. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Action by the people to annul a corporation.

§§ 1797-1803. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Provisions applicable to two or more of the actions specified in this title.

Sec. 1809. Requisites of injunction against joint-stock associations in certain cases.
1812. Application of certain provisions to joint-stock associations.
1813. In action against stockholders, misnomer not available.

§§ 1804-1808. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

§ 1809. [Am'd, 1909.] Requisites of injunction against joint-stock associations in certain cases.

An injunction order, suspending the general and ordinary business of a joint-stock association, consisting of seven or more persons, or suspending from office, or restraining from the performance of his duties, a trustee, director, or other officer thereof, can be granted only by the court, upon notice of the application therefor, to the proper officer of the association, or to the trustee, director, or other officer enjoined. If such an injunction order is made, otherwise than as prescribed in this section, it is void.

From L. 1870, c. 151, § 1. See § 1919, post. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§§ 1810, 1811. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

§ 1812. [Am'd, 1909.] Application of certain provisions to joint-stock associations.

Section 1809 of the Code of Civil Procedure and sections 306 and 307 of the General Corporation Law apply to an action or special proceeding, against a joint-stock association created by or under the laws of the State, or a trustee, director, or other officer thereof; or against a joint-stock association created by or under the laws of another state, government, or country, or a trustee, director, or other officer thereof, where the association does business within the State, or has, within the State, a business agency or a fiscal agency or an agency for the transfer of its stock.

From Id., § 5; L. 1875, c. 428. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 1813. [Am'd, 1909.] In action against stockholders, misnomer not available.

Where an action, authorized by a law of the State, is brought against one or more persons, as stockholders of a joint-stock association, an objection to any of the proceedings cannot be taken, by a person properly made a defendant in the action, on the ground that the plaintiff has joined with him, as a defendant in the action, a person, whose name appears on the stock-books of the association, as a stockholder thereof, by the name so appearing; but who is misnamed, or dead, or is not liable for any cause. In such a case, the court may, at any time before final judgment, upon motion of either party, amend the pleadings and other papers, without prejudice to the previous proceedings, by substituting the true name of the person intended, or by striking out the name of the person who is dead, or not liable, and, in a proper case, inserting the name of his representative or successor.

From L. 1869, c. 157, § 2. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

TITLE III.

Actions relating to the estate of a decedent.

Article 1. Action by or against an executor or administrator.
2. Action by a creditor against his debtor's next of kin, legatee, heir, or devisee.
3. Action to establish or impeach a will.
4. General and miscellaneous provisions.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action by or against an executor or administrator.

Sec. 1814. Action, etc., by and against executor, etc., to be brought in representative capacity.
1815. When personal and representative causes of action may be joined.
1816. Id.; separate dockets and executions.
1817. Regulations, when some of the executors, etc., are not summoned.
1818. Executors who have not qualified, not necessary parties.
1819. Action by legatee, etc., against executor, etc.
1820. Id.; by infant; guardian's bond.
1821. When action barred by judgment against heir, etc.
1822. [Repealed.]
1823. Decedent's real property not bound by judgment against executor, etc.
1824. Want of assets not to be pleaded by executor, etc.
1825. Leave to issue execution against executor, etc.
1826. Id.; how procured; order; and contents thereof.
1827. Security may be required from a legatee.
1828. Actions, etc., when not to abate.
1829. Execution on former judgment.
1830. Action against executor, etc., who has been superseded.
1831. False pleading by executor, etc.
1832. When inventory may be contradicted.
1833. Liability for uncollected demands.
1834. The last two sections qualified.
1835. Costs; how awarded.
1836. Id.; when awarded.

§ 1814. Action, etc., by and against executor, etc., to be brought in representative capacity.

An action or special proceeding, hereafter commenced by an executor or administrator, upon a cause of action, belonging to him in his representative capacity, or an action or special proceeding, hereafter commenced against him, except where it is brought to charge him personally, must be brought by or against him in his representative capacity. A judgment, in an action hereafter commenced, recovered against an executor or administrator, without describing him in his representative capacity, cannot be enforced against the property of the decedent, except by the special direction of the court, contained therein.

New.

§ 1815. When personal and representative causes of action may be joined.

An action may be brought against an executor or administrator, personally, and also in his representative capacity, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the complaint sets forth a cause of action against him in both capacities, or states facts, which render it uncertain, in which capacity the cause of action exists against him.

2. Where the complaint sets forth two or more causes of action against the defendant, in different capacities, all of which grow out of the same transaction, or transactions connected with the same subject of action; do not require different places or modes of trial; and are not inconsistent with each other.

In a case specified in this section, a judgment for the plaintiff for a sum of money must distinctly show, whether it is awarded against the defendant personally, or in his representative capacity.

New.

§ 1816. Id.; separate dockets and execution.

In a case specified in the last section, or where costs, to be collected out of the individual property of an executor or administrator, are awarded in an action by or against him in his representative capacity, so much of the judgment, as awards a sum of money against him personally, may be separately docketed, and a separate execution may be issued thereupon, as if the judgment contained no award against him in his representative capacity.

New.

§ 1817. Regulations, when some of the executors, etc., are not summoned.

In an action or special proceeding against two or more executors or administrators, representing the same decedent, all are considered as one person; and those who are first served with process, or first appear, must answer the plaintiff. Separate answers, by different executors or administrators cannot be required or allowed, except by direction of the court. Judgment in favor of the plaintiff may be entered, and, in a proper case, execution may be issued, against all the defendants, as if all had appeared. But this section does not affect the plaintiff's right to bring into court all the executors or administrators, who are parties.

From 2 R. S. 448 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), §§ 5, 7.

§ 1818. Executors who have not qualified, not necessary parties.

One of two or more executors, to whom letters testamentary have not been issued, is not a necessary party to an action or special proceeding, in favor of or against the executors, in their representative capacity.

From L. 1838, c. 149, § 1.

§ 1819. Action by legatee, etc., against executor, etc.

If, after the expiration of one year from the granting of letters testamentary or letters of administration, an executor or administrator refuses, upon demand, to pay a legacy, or distributive share, the person entitled thereto may maintain such an action against him, as the case requires. But for the purpose of computing the time, within which such an action must be commenced, the cause of action is deemed to accrue, when the executor's or administrator's account is judicially settled, and not before.

From 2 R. S. 114 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5), § 9.

§ 1820. Id.; by infant; guardians' bond.

The guardian ad litem of an infant, in whose favor an action is brought, as prescribed in the last section, must, unless he is also the general guardian, execute and file with the clerk, before the commencement of the action, a bond to the infant, with at least two sufficient sureties, in a penalty fixed by a judge of the court conditioned that the guardian will duly account to the infant, when he attains full age, or, in case of his death, to his personal representatives, for all money or property, which the guardian may receive, by reason of the legacy or distributive share.

From Id., § 12.

§ 1821. When action barred by judgment against heir, etc.

A final judgment against an heir or devisee bars an action against the executor or administrator of the decedent, for the same cause, and every other remedy to enforce payment thereof out of the decedent's property; unless an execution against property, issued upon the judgment, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, or sufficient real property to satisfy the judgment has not descended, or been devised, to the judgment debtor. But, if the judgment was recovered for a debt or legacy, expressly charged upon the estate descended or devised, the bar is absolute.

From Id., §§ 7, 8.

§ 1822. [Repealed by L. 1914, c. 448, (in effect Sept. 1, 1914). Superseded by § 2681 of this Code.]

§ 1823. Decedent's real property not bound by judgment against executor, etc.

Real property, which belonged to a decedent, is not bound, or in any way affected, by a judgment against his executor or administrator, and is not liable to be sold by virtue of an execution issued upon such a judgment, unless the judgment is expressly made, by its terms, a lien upon specific real property therein described, or expressly directs the sale thereof.

From 2 R. S. 449 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), § 12.

§ 1824. Want of assets not to be pleaded by executor, etc.

In an action against an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money, the existence, sufficiency, or want of assets, shall not be pleaded by either party; and the plaintiff's right of recovery is not affected thereby, except with respect to the costs to be awarded, as prescribed by law. A judgment in such an action is not evidence of assets in the defendant's hands.

New. Supersedes 2 R. S. 88, 89, §§ 31, 39, 40, and Id., 448, 450, 451, §§ 6, 19–22.

amended by chap 96 1917 Laws

§ 1825. Leave to issue execution against executor, etc.

An execution shall not be issued, upon a judgment for a sum of money, against an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, until an order, permitting it to be issued, has been made by the surrogate, from whose court the letters were issued. Such an order must specify the sum to be collected; and the execution must be indorsed with a direction to collect that sum.

From 2 R. S. 88 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 3), § 32.

§ 1826. Id.; how procured; order; and contents thereof.

At least six days' notice of the application for an order specified in the last section, must be personally served upon the executor or administrator, unless it appears that service cannot be so made with due diligence; in which case, notice must be given to such persons, and in such manner, as the surrogate directs, by an order to show cause why the application should not be granted. Where it appears that the assets, after payment of all sums chargeable against them for expenses, and for claims entitled to priority as against the plaintiff, are not, or will not be, sufficient to pay all the debts, legacies, or other claims of the class to which the plaintiff's claim belongs, the sum, directed to be collected by the execution, shall not exceed the plaintiff's just proportion of the assets. In that case, one or more orders may be afterwards made in like manner, and one or more executions may be afterwards issued, whenever it appears that the sum, directed to be collected by the first execution, is less than the plaintiff's just proportion.

From Id., § 32; 2 R. S. 115 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5), § 13.

§ 1827. Security may be required from a legatee.

Where a judgment has been rendered against an executor or administrator, for a legacy or distributive share, the surrogate, before granting an order, permitting an execution to be issued thereupon, may, and, in a proper case, must, require the applicant to file in his office, an undertaking to the defendant, in such a sum, and with such sureties, as the surrogate directs, to the effect that if, after collection of any sum of money by virtue of the execution, the remaining assets are not sufficient to pay all sums, for which the defendant is chargeable, for expenses, claims entitled to priority as against the applicant, and the other legacies or distributive shares, of the class to which the applicant's claim belongs, the plaintiff will refund to the defendant, the sum so collected, or such ratable part thereof, with the other legatees or representatives of the same class, as is necessary to make up the deficiency.

From 2 R. S. 114, 115 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5), §§ 10, 11.

§ 1828. Actions, etc., when not to abate.

An executor, administrator, or a person appointed by the surrogate, as prescribed in chapter eighteen of this act, to dispose of the real property of a decedent, is deemed a trustee, appointed by virtue of a statute, within the meaning of that expression, as used in section 766 of this act.

Supersedes 2 R. S. 77, § 40; Id., 115, § 14; L. 1850, c. 162.

§ 1829. Execution on former judgment.

An execution may be issued, in the name of an executor or administrator, in his representative capacity, upon a judgment recovered by any person who preceded him in the administration of the same estate, in any case where it might have been issued in favor of the original plaintiff, and without a substitution.

From 2 R. S. 449 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), § 13.

§ 1830. Action against executor, etc., who has been superseded.

If an executor or administrator is defendant in an action or special proceeding, pending when his powers cease, the plaintiff may, in a proper case, proceed therein against him, to charge him personally; but a judgment or other determination, thereafter rendered or made against him, is not of any force, as against the estate of the decedent, or a person succeeding to the administration thereof.

From 2 R. S. 115 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5), § 15.

§ 1831. False pleading by executor, etc.

An executor or administrator cannot be made personally liable to the adverse party, for a debt or for damages, by reason of his having made a false allegation in pleading.

From 2 R. S. 438 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), § 10.

§ 1832. When inventory may be contradicted.

In an action or special proceeding, to which an executor or administrator is a party, wherein the question, whether he has administered the estate of the decedent, or any part thereof, is in issue, or is the subject of inquiry, and the inventory of assets, filed by him, is given in evidence, either party may rebut the same, by proof, either:

1. That any property was omitted in the inventory, or was not returned therein at its true value; or,
2. That any property has perished, or has been lost, without the fault of the executor or administrator; or has been fairly sold by him, at private or public sale, at a less price than the value so returned; or that, since the return of the inventory, it has deteriorated or enhanced in value.

From Id., § 14.

§ 1833. Liability for uncollected demands.

In such an action or special proceeding, the executor or administrator shall not be charged with a demand or right of action, included in the inventory, unless it appears that the same has been collected, or might have been collected, with due diligence.

From Id., § 15.

§ 1834. The last two sections qualified.

The last two sections do not vary any rule of evidence, respecting any proof, which an executor or administrator may now make.

From Id., § 16.

§ 1835. Costs; how awarded.

Where a judgment for a sum of money only is rendered against an executor or administrator, in an action brought against him in his representative capacity, costs shall not be awarded against him, except as prescribed in the next section.

From 2 R. S. 90 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 3), § 41. See Co. Proc., § 317.

§ 1836. [Am'd, 1895, 1897, 1906, 1915.] Id.; when awarded, etc.

Where it appears in a case specified in the last section that the plaintiff's demand was presented within the time limited by a notice, published as prescribed by law, requiring creditors to present their claims and that the payment thereof was unreasonably resisted or neglected, the court may award costs and disbursements or disbursements without costs against the executor or administrator, to be collected either out of his individual property or out of the property of the decedent as the court directs, having reference to the facts which appear upon the trial. Where the action is brought in the supreme court, or any county court, the facts must be certified by the judge or referee before whom the trial took place.

From 2 R. S. 90, § 41. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 595 and c. 946; L. 1897, c. 469; L. 1906, c. 60; L. 1915, c. 638 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 1836-a. [Added, 1911.] Actions by or against foreign executors or administrators.

An executor or administrator duly appointed in any other state, territory or district of the United States or in any foreign country may sue or be sued in any court in this state in his capacity of executor or administrator in like manner and under like restrictions as a nonresident may sue or be sued, if, within twenty days after any such executor or administrator shall commence, or appear in, any action or proceeding in any court in this state or within twenty days after he shall be required or directed by summons or otherwise to appear therein, there shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court, in which such action or proceeding shall be brought or be pending, a copy of the letters testamentary or letters of administration issued to such executor or administrator duly authenticated as prescribed by section 2704 [1] of the code of civil procedure; in default whereof all proceedings in such action or proceeding may be stayed until such duly authenticated copy of such letters shall be so filed.

Added by L. 1911, c. 631 (in effect July 8, 1911).

[1] Section 2704 of the Code is now section 45 of the Decedent Estate Law.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Action by a creditor, against his debtor's next of kin, legatee, heir or devisee.

SEC. 1837. When action lies against next of kin, legatees, etc.
1838. Action may be joint or several.
1839. In joint action, recovery to be apportioned.
1840. Recovery in a several action.
1841. Requisites to recovery in action against legatee.
1842. Id.; in action against a preferred legatee.
1843. Liability of heirs and devisees.
1844. When action may be brought against heirs and devisees.
1845. Effect of application to sell real property.
1846. Action must be joint.
1847. Recovery to be apportioned.
1848. Requisites to recovery against heirs.
1849. Id.; against devisees.
1850. Deductions for prior recoveries.
1851. Complaint to describe land descended, etc.
1852. Judgment; when to be satisfied out of land.
1853. Id.; when not a lien on land aliened.
1854. How judgment taken, when land aliened.
1855. Classification of debts to be enforced under this article.
1856. Defence by reason of other prior or equal claims.
1857. Id.; when such a claim is paid.
1858. Action not suspended by infancy.
1859. This article not applicable, where will charges real property, etc.
1860. One action, where same person is heir, devisee, etc.

§ 1837. When action lies against next of kin, legatees, etc.

An action may be maintained, as prescribed in this article, against the surviving husband or wife of a decedent, and the next of kin of an intestate, or the next of kin or legatees of a testator, to recover, to the extent of the assets paid or distributed to them, for a debt of the decedent, upon which an action might have been maintained against the executor or administrator. The neglect of the creditor to present his claim to the executor or administrator, within the time prescribed by law for that purpose, does not impair his right to maintain such an action.

From 2 R. S. 90 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 3), § 42.

§ 1838. Action may be joint or several.

An action, specified in the last section, must be brought, either jointly against the surviving husband or wife, and all the legatees or all the next of kin, as the case may be, or at the plaintiff's election, against one of them only. But where a legacy is received by two or more persons jointly, they are deemed one legatee, within the meaning of each provision of this article, relating to legatees.

From 2 R. S. 451 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), §§ 23, 26.

§ 1839. In joint action, recovery to be apportioned.

Where a joint action is brought, as prescribed in the last section, the whole sum, which the plaintiff is entitled to recover, must be apportioned among the defendants, in proportion to the legacy or distributive share, as the case may be, received by each of them; and the final judgment must award, against each defendant separately, the proportionate sum thus ascertained. The costs of the action, if the plaintiff is entitled to costs, must be apportioned in like manner; except that the expenses of serving the summons upon each defendant must be taxed against him only; and one sheriff's fee, for returning an execution, may be taxed against each defendant, against whom any sum is awarded.

From Id., §§ 28–31, 34.

§ 1840. Recovery in a several action.

Where an action is brought against the surviving husband or wife only, or against one only of the next of kin, or legatees, the sum, which the plaintiff is entitled to recover, cannot exceed the sum which he would have been entitled to recover from the same defendant, in an action brought, as prescribed in the last section.

From Id., §§ 24, 25, 28.

§ 1841. Requisites to recovery in action against legatee.

If the action is brought against a legatee, or against all the legatees, the plaintiff must show, either

1. That no assets were delivered by the executor or administrator of the decedent, to the surviving husband or wife, or next of kin; or

2. That the value of assets, so delivered, has been recovered by some other creditor; or

3. That those assets, after payment of the expenses of administration and preferred demands, are not sufficient to satisfy the demand of the plaintiff; in which case, he can recover only for the deficiency.

From Id., § 27.

§ 1842. Id.; in action against a preferred legatee.

Where some of the legatees are preferred to others, an action may be maintained, as prescribed in the last five sections, against one or all of those who are equally preferred, or equally deferred, as if the legatees of that class were all the legatees. But where it is brought against a preferred legatee, or a class of preferred legatees, the plaintiff must show, in addition to the matters, with respect to the next of kin, required by the provisions of the last section, the same matters, with respect to each legatee, or class of legatees, to whom the defendant or defendants are preferred.

New.

§ 1843. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Liability of heirs and devisees.

The heirs of an intestate, and the heirs and devisees of a testator, are respectively liable for the debts of the decedent, arising by simple contract, or by specialty, to the extent of the estate, interest, and right in the real property, which descended to them from, or was effectually devised to them by, the decedent.

From 2 R. S. 452 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), § 32.

§ 1844. [Am'd, 1909, 1915.] When action may be brought against heirs and devisees.

An action, to enforce the liability declared in section 101 of the Decedent Estate Law,[1] cannot be maintained, except in one of the following cases:

1. Where one year has elapsed since the death of the decedent, and no letters testamentary, or letters of administration, upon his estate, have been granted within the State.

2. Where eighteen months have elapsed, since letters testamentary, or letters of administration, upon his estate, were granted, within the State.

From 2 R. S. 109 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 4), § 53. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65; L. 1915, c. 636 (in effect May 14, 1915). (See Table, p. iii, ante.)

[1] Section 101 of the Decedent Estate Law is the same as former § 1843 of this Code, which, for convenience sake, is retained in this edition.

§ 1845. [Am'd, 1916.] Effect of application to sell real property.

Where it appears that, at the time of the commencement of an action to enforce the liability declared in section 101 of the decedent estate law, a proceeding for the judicial settlement of the accounts of the executor or administrator of decedent in which an order to dispose of real property of the decedent for the payment of his debts may be made, is pending in a surrogate's court, having jurisdiction, the proceedings in the action, subsequent to the complaint, must be stayed by the court, until the proceeding is disposed of, unless the plaintiff elects to discontinue. If an order to dispose of real property is granted, the action must be dismissed, unless the plaintiff has alleged in his complaint, or alleges in a supplemental complaint, that real property, other than that included in the decree, descended or was devised to the defendants. If the plaintiff elects to proceed under such an allegation, he is entitled to a preference in payment, out of the real property, with respect to which the allegation is made; but he cannot share, as a creditor, in the distribution of the money, arising from the disposal of the real property, described in the order, and the judgment in the action does not charge, or in any way affect, that property.

From id., § 53. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 444 (in effect May 9, 1916).

§ 1846. [Am'd, 1909.] Action must be joint.

An action against heirs or devisees, brought as prescribed in section 101 of the Decedent Estate Law and the last two sections of this act, must be brought jointly against all the heirs, to whom any real property descended from the decedent, or jointly against all the devisees, as the case may be.

From L. 1837, c. 460, § 73. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante.)

§ 1847. Recovery to be apportioned.

In such an action, the sum, which the plaintiff is entitled to recover, for damages and costs, must be apportioned among all the defendants, in proportion to the value of the real property descended to each heir, or devised to each devisee, as the case may be, as prescribed in section 1839 of this act, for a similar apportionment among legatees or next of kin, in proportion to the assets received by them. The final judgment must, in like manner, award against each defendant the proportionate sum, with which he is chargeable.

From 2 R. S. 455 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), §§ 52, 53.

§ 1848. Requisites to recovery against heirs.

Where the action is brought against heirs, the plaintiff must show, either

1. That the decedent's assets, if any, within the State were not sufficient to pay the plaintiff's debt, in addition to the expenses of administration, and debts of a prior class; or

2. That the plaintiff has been unable, or will be unable, with due diligence, to collect his debt, by proceedings in the proper surrogate's court, and by action against the executor or administrator, and against the surviving husband or wife, legatees, and next of kin.

The executor's or administrator's account, as rendered to, and settled by, the surrogate, may be used as presumptive evidence of any of the facts, required to be shown by this section.

From 2 R. S. 452 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), §§ 33, 36; L. 1859, c. 110.

§ 1849. Id.; against devisees.

Where the action is brought against devisees, the plaintiff must show, in addition to the matters specified in the last section, either that the real property of the decedent, which descended to his heirs, was not sufficient to pay the plaintiff's debt, or that the plaintiff has been unable, or will be unable, with due diligence, to collect his debt by an action against the heirs.

From Id., 455, §§ 56, 59.

§ 1850. Deductions for prior recoveries.

Where the assets, applicable to the plaintiff's debt, were sufficient to pay a part thereof, or a part thereof has been collected from the executor or administrator, or from the surviving husband or wife, next of kin, or legatees, the plaintiff can recover only for the residue, remaining unpaid or uncollected; and if the action is against devisees, he can recover only for the residue, which the real estate descended, or the amount of his recovery against the heirs, is insufficient to discharge.

From Id., §§ 34, 57.

§ 1851. Complaint to describe land descended, etc.

The complaint must describe, with common certainty, the real property, descended or devised to the defendant; and must specify its value.

From Id., §§ 44, 60.

§ 1852. Judgment; when to be satisfied out of land.

If it appears that any of the real property, which descended or was devised to a defendant, had not been aliened by him at the time of the commencement of the action, the final judgment must direct, that the debt of the plaintiff, or the proportion thereof which he is entitled to recover against that defendant, be collected out of that real property. Such a judgment is preferred, as a lien upon that property, to a judgment obtained against the defendant, for his individual debt or demand.

From Id., §§ 47, 48.

§ 1853. Id.; when not a lien on land aliened.

But a judgment, rendered as prescribed in the last section, does not bind, and the execution thereupon cannot in any way affect, the title of a purchaser, in good faith and for value, acquired before a notice of the pendency of the action is filed, or final judgment is entered, and the judgment-roll filed.

From Id., §§ 51, 61.

§ 1854. How judgment taken, when land aliened.

If it appears that, before the commencement of the action, or afterwards and before the filing of a notice of the pendency of the action, the defendant aliened the real property descended or devised to him, or any part thereof, the plaintiff may, at his election, take a final judgment against him for the value of the property so aliened, or so much thereof as may be necessary, as in an action for the defendant's own debt.

From Id., §§ 49, 61.

§ 1855. [Am'd, 1909.] Classification of debts, to be enforced under this article.

Where the surviving husband or wife, next of kin, legatees, heirs, or devisees, are liable for demands against the decedent, as prescribed in this article or section 101 of the Decedent Estate Law, they must give preference in the payment thereof, and they are so liable therefor, in the order prescribed by law, for the payment of debts by an executor or administrator. Preference of payment cannot be given to a demand, over another of the same class, except where a similar preference by an executor or administrator is allowed by law. The commencement of an action, under any provision of this article or section 101 of the Decedent Estate Law,[1] does not entitle the plaintiff's demand to preference over another of the same class, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From Id., §§ 37, 38. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 1856. Defense, by reason of other prior or equal claims.

Where it appears, in an action brought as prescribed in this article, that there are unsatisfied demands against the decedent's estate, of a class prior to that of the plaintiff's demand, the defendant is entitled to judgment, if the value of the property, which was received, devised, or inherited, as the case may be, by the class to which he belongs, does not exceed the amount of the valid demands of a prior class. If it exceeds the amount of those demands, the judgment against the defendant cannot exceed such a proportion of the plaintiff's demand, as the total amount of the valid demands of his class bears to the excess.

From Id., §§ 39, 40.

§ 1857. Id.; when such a claim is paid.

Where a defendant, or a person belonging to his class, has paid a demand against the decedent's estate, of a class prior to that of the plaintiff's demand, or has paid a demand of the same class, the amount of the demand so paid must be estimated, in ascertaining the amount to be recovered, as if it was outstanding and unpaid.

From Id., § 41.

§ 1858. Action not suspended by infancy.

An action against heirs or devisees, brought as prescribed in this article, is not delayed, nor is the remedy of the plaintiff suspended, by reason of the infancy of any of the parties; except that an execution shall not be issued against an infant heir or devisee, until the expiration of one year after final judgment is rendered, and the judgment-roll filed.

From Id., §§ 43, 54.

§ 1859. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] This article not applicable, where will charges real property, etc.

This article does not affect the liability of an heir or devisee, for a debt of a testator, where the will expressly charges the debt exclusively upon the real property descended or devised, or makes it payable exclusively by the heir or devisee, or out of the real property descended or devised, before resorting to the personal property, or to any other real property descended or devised.

From Id., §§ 55, 58.

§ 1860. One action, where same person is heir, devisee, etc.

Where a person, who takes real property of a decedent by devise, and also by descent; or who takes personal property as next of kin, and also as legatee; or who takes both real and personal property in either capacity; or who is executor or administrator, and also takes in either of the before mentioned capacities; would be liable, in one capacity, for a demand against the decedent, after the exhaustion of the remedy against him in another capacity; the plaintiff, in any action to charge him, which can be maintained, without joining with him any other person, except a person whose liability is in all respects the same, may recover any sum, for which he is liable, although the remedy against him in another capacity was not exhausted. But this section does not increase the sum, which the plaintiff is entitled to recover against him, in the capacity in which he is actually liable; nor does it charge a defendant individually, who is liable only in a representative capacity.

[1] As to § 101 of the Decedent Estate Law, see foot-note on page 506.

New.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Action to establish or impeach a will.

Sec. 1861. When action to establish a will may be brought.
1862. Judgment, that will be established.
1863. Judgment admitting the will to probate.
1864. Contents of judgment; surrogate's duty.
1865. Proof of lost will in certain cases.
1866. Action to establish, etc., will, relating to real property.
1867. Retrospective effect of this article.

§ 1861. When action to establish a will may be brought.

An action to procure a judgment, establishing a will, may be maintained, by any person interested in the establishment thereof, in either of the following cases:

1. Where a will of real or personal property, or both, has been executed, in such a manner and under such circumstances, that it might, under the laws of the State, be admitted to probate in a surrogate's court; but the original will is in another state or country, under such circumstances that it cannot be obtained for that purpose; or has been lost or destroyed, by accident or design, before it was duly proved and recorded within the State.

2. Where a will of personal property, made by a person, who resided without the State, at the time of the execution thereof, or at the time of his death, has been duly executed, according to the laws of the state or country in which it was executed, or in which the testator resided at the time of his death, and the case is not one, where the will can be admitted to probate in a surrogate's court, under the laws of the State.

From 2 R. S. 67 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 1), §§ 63a, 63b, 64a, 67a, 68a, 69a.

§ 1862. Judgment, that will be established.

If, in such an action, the facts necessary to establish the validity of the will, as prescribed in the last section, are satisfactorily proved, final judgment must be rendered, establishing the will accordingly. But where the will of a person, who was a resident of the State at the time of his death, is established as prescribed in the last section, the judgment establishing it does not affect the construction or validity of any provision contained therein; and such a question arising with respect to any provision, must be determined in the same action, or in another action or a special proceeding, as the case requires, as if the will was executed within the State.

From Id., § 65a.

§ 1863. Judgment admitting the will to probate.

Where the parties to the action, who have appeared or have been duly summoned, include all the persons, who would be necessary parties to a special proceeding, in a surrogate's court, for the probate of the same will and the grant of letters thereupon, if the circumstances were such that it could have been proved in a surrogate's court; the final judgment, rendered as prescribed in the last section, must direct, that an exemplified copy thereof be transmitted to the surrogate having jurisdiction, and be recorded in his office; and that letters testamentary, or letters of administration with the will annexed, be issued thereupon from his court, in the same manner, and with like effect, as upon a will duly proved in that court.

From Id., § 67a.

§ 1864. Contents of judgment; surrogate's duty.

A copy of the will so established, or, if it is lost or destroyed, the substance thereof must be incorporated into a final judgment, rendered as prescribed in the last section; and the surrogate must record the same and issue letters thereupon, as directed in the judgment.

New.

§ 1865. Proof of lost will in certain cases.

But the plaintiff is not entitled to a judgment, establishing a lost or destroyed will, as prescribed in this article, unless the will was in existence at the time of the testator's death, or was fraudulently destroyed in his lifetime; and its provisions are clearly and distinctly proved by at least two credible witnesses, a correct copy or draft being equivalent to one witness.

From 2 R. S. 67, § 67b.

§ 1866. Action to establish, etc., will, relating to real property.

The validity, construction or effect, under the laws of the State, of a testamentary disposition of real property situated within the State, or of an interest in such property, which would descend to the heir of an intestate, may be determined, in an action brought for that purpose, in like manner as the validity of a deed, purporting to convey land, may be determined. The judgment in such an action may perpetually enjoin any party, from setting up or from impeaching the devise, or otherwise making any claim in contravention to the determination of the court, as justice requires. But this section does not apply to a case, where the question in controversy is determined by the decree of a surrogate's court, duly rendered upon allegations for that purpose, as prescribed in article first of title third of chapter eighteen of this act, where the plaintiff was duly cited, in the special proceeding in the surrogate's court, before the commencement of the action.

From L. 1858, c. 238, § 1.

§ 1867. Retrospective effect of this article.

The provisions of this article apply as well to wills made before, as to those made after, this article takes effect.

From 2 R. S. 68 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 1), §§ 66b, 67a, 68b.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

General and miscellaneous provisions.

Sec. 1868. Action by child born after will, or by witness to will.
1869. Receiver, as successor of surviving executor, etc.
1870. Next of kin defined.

§ 1868. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Action by child born after will, or by witness to will.

A child, born after the making of a will, who is entitled to succeed to a part of the real or personal property of the testator, or a subscribing witness to a will, who is entitled to succeed to a share of such property, may maintain an action against the legatees or devisees, as the case requires, to recover his share of the property; and he is subject to the same liabilities, and has the same rights, and is entitled to the same remedies, to compel a distribution or partition of the property, or a contribution from other persons interested in the estate, or to gain possession of the property, as any other person who is so entitled to succeed.

From 2 R. S. 456 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 3), §§ 62-66.

§ 1869. [Am'd, 1895.] Receiver, as successor of surviving executor, etc.

Where the estate of a decedent has been brought under the jurisdiction of the supreme court, by an action for partition or distribution, or for the construction or establishment of a will, the court may, upon the death of the sole surviving executor, appoint a receiver of the estate, pending the action, upon such terms and conditions, and upon such notice to the parties interested, as the court directs, and upon such security, if any, as to the court seems proper. For the purpose of carrying into effect the judgment and orders of the court, in relation to the estate, a receiver so appointed is the successor in interest of the surviving executor; and has, subject to the direction of the court, the like power, as an administrator with the will annexed.

From L. 1863, c. 466. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1870. Next of kin defined.

The term "next of kin," as used in this title, includes all those entitled, under the provisions of law relating to the distribution of personal property, to share in the unbequeathed assets of a decedent, after payment of debts and expenses, other than a surviving husband or wife.

§ 1871. When judgment creditor may bring action.

When an execution against the property of a judgment debtor, issued out of a court of record, as prescribed in the next section, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the judgment creditor may maintain an action against the judgment debtor, and any other person, to compel the discovery of any thing in action, or other property belonging to the judgment debtor, and of any money, thing in action, or other property due to him, or held in trust for him; to prevent the transfer thereof, or the payment or delivery thereof, to him, or to any other person; and to procure satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand, as prescribed in the next section but one. Where the execution was issued as prescribed in section 1934 of this act, and a defendant not summoned in the original action is made a defendant in an action brought under this section, personal property, owned by him jointly with the defendants summoned or with any of them, may be applied to the satisfaction of the plaintiff's demand as prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 173 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 38.

§ 1872. To what county execution must have issued.

To entitle the judgment creditor to maintain an action as prescribed in the last section, the execution must have been issued as follows:

1. If, at the time of the commencement of the action, the judgment debtor is a resident of the State, to the sheriff of the county where he resides.

2. If he is not then a resident of the State, to the sheriff of the county where he has an office, for the regular transaction of business in person; or, if he has no such office within the State, to the sheriff of the county where the judgment-roll is filed, unless the execution was issued out of a court, other than the court in which the judgment was rendered; in which case, it must have been issued to the sheriff of the county where a transcript of the judgment is filed.

New.

§ 1873. What property may be reached.

The final judgment in the action must direct and provide for the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, out of any money, thing in action, or other personal property, belonging to, or due to the judgment debtor, or held in trust for him, which is discovered in the action; whether the same might or might not have been originally taken, by virtue of an execution.

From 2 R. S. 174 (Part 3, c. 1, tit. 2), § 39.

§ 1874. Interest of judgment debtor in land contract may be reached.

The final judgment in the action must also direct and provide for the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, out of the interest, if any, of the judgment debtor, in a contract for the purchase of real property by him; either by selling the interest, or by transferring it to the judgment creditor, in such a manner and upon such terms, as the court deems most conducive to the interests of the parties. Where the person, bound to perform the contract to the judgment debtor, is a defendant in the action, the final judgment may direct a specific performance of the contract to the judgment creditor, or, where the interest in the contract is directed to be sold, to the purchaser.

From 1 R. S. 744 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 4), §§ 4, 5.

§ 1875. Id.; how applied.

In a case specified in the last section, the value of the interest of the judgment debtor holding the contract must be ascertained, under the direction of the court; and so much thereof as is necessary must be applied to the payment of the sum due to the plaintiff, and the residue, if any, to the benefit of the judgment debtor.

From Id., § 6.

§ 1876. Injunction may be issued.

A temporary injunction, restraining the transfer to any person, or the payment or delivery to the judgment debtor, of any money, thing in action, or other property or interest, which may, by the provisions of this article, be applied to the satisfaction of the sum due to the plaintiff, may be granted in the action. The injunction, and the proceedings before and after it is granted, are governed by the provisions of article first of title second of chapter seventh of this act; for which purpose, the injunction is deemed to be one of those specified in section 603 of this act.

From 2 R. S. 174, § 39.

§ 1877. Receiver may be appointed.

The court may, by an order, or by the interlocutory or final judgment in the action, appoint a receiver of any or all of the property of the judgment debtor; and may direct the judgment debtor, or any other defendant in the action, to convey or deliver to the receiver, as justice requires, any property, real or personal, book, voucher, or other paper, or to execute any instrument, which it deems necessary, for perfecting or assuring the receiver's title or possession.

New.

§ 1878. How discovery may be compelled.

A discovery may be compelled in an action, brought as prescribed in this article, by directing the person, required to make it, to appear before the court, or a referee appointed by it, and to be examined under oath, concerning the matters pertaining to the discovery. But this section does not affect the right of the plaintiff, to cause the deposition of a defendant to be taken, as prescribed in article first of title third of chapter ninth of this act.

New.

§ 1879. Application of this article; what property cannot be reached.

This article does not apply to a case, where the judgment debtor is a corporation, created by or under the laws of the State. Nor does it authorize the discovery or seizure of, or other interference with, any property, which is expressly exempted by law from levy and sale, by virtue of an execution; or any money, thing in action, or other property, held in trust for a judgment debtor, where the trust has been created by, or the fund so held in trust has proceeded from, a person other than the judgment debtor; or the earnings of the judgment debtor for his personal services, rendered within sixty days next before the commencement of the action, where it is made to appear, by his oath or otherwise, that those earnings are necessary for the use of a family, wholly or partly supported by his labor.

From L. 1870, c. 151, § 3, subd. 1; 2 R. S. 173, 174, §§ 38, 39; Co. Proc., § 297. See § 2463, post.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Action by a private person upon an official bond.

Sec. 1880. Application for leave to sue sheriff's bond; proof required.
1881. Order granting leave; action thereupon.
1882. Successive actions.
1883. Indorsement upon execution.
1884. Collection of execution; when a defence to subsequent action.
1885. When claimants entitled to ratable distribution.
1886. Action upon a surrogate's bond.
1887. Action upon a county treasurer's bond.
1888. Actions upon official bonds of other officers.
1889. Actions, etc., under the last three sections regulated.
1890. Receivers, etc., deemed public officers.
1891. Demand of money; when necessary before application.
1892. Application may be made ex parte.

§ 1880. [Am'd, 1895.] Application for leave to sue sheriff's bond; proof required.

Where a sheriff is liable for the escape of a prisoner committed to his custody, or is guilty of any other actionable default or misconduct in his office, the person injured thereby may apply to the supreme court, for leave to prosecute the sheriff's official bond. The application must be accompanied with proof, by affidavit, of the default or misconduct complained of, and that satisfaction of the same has not been received; and with a certified copy of the official bond.

From 2 R. S. 476 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 5), §§ 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1881. Order granting leave; action thereupon.

Upon such an application, the court must grant an order, permitting the applicant to maintain an action upon the bond. The action must be brought, in the court which granted the order, by the applicant as plaintiff; and it may be maintained, as if the applicant was the obligee named in the bond, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 476, § 3. See, also, 1 R. S. 378 (Part 1, c. 12, tit. 2), § 67.

§ 1882. [Am'd, 1895.] Successive actions.

The same, or any other applicant, may, in like manner, either before or after judgment in the first action, obtain an order, permitting him to maintain another action, in the same court, upon the same bond, for another default or misconduct. Any number of such orders may be successively made; and neither of the actions authorized thereby is affected by the pendency of, or the recovery of judgment in, any other, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this article.

From 2 R. S. 476, §§ 5, 6, 7, 8. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1883. Indorsement upon execution.

Where an execution is issued upon a judgment, recovered against the sheriff and any of his sureties, in an action, brought pursuant to the last four sections, the plaintiff's attorney must indorse thereon a direction to collect the same, in the first place, out of the property of the sheriff, and, if sufficient property of the sheriff cannot be found, then to collect the deficiency out of the property of the surety or sureties.

From 2 R. S. 478, § 15.

§ 1884. Collection of execution; when a defence to subsequent action.

It is a defence by a surety, against whom an action is brought upon a sheriff's official bond, that he, or any other surety or sureties, have been or will be compelled, for want of sufficient property of the sheriff, to pay, upon one or more judgments recovered against him or them, upon the same bond, an aggregate amount, exclusive of costs, officers' fees, and expenses, equal to the sum for which the defendant is liable, by reason of the bond. It is a partial defence, that the difference between the aggregate amount, so paid, or to be paid, and the sum for which the defendant is thus liable, is less than the amount of the plaintiff's demand.

From 2 R. S. 478, §§ 12, 13, 14.

§ 1885. When claimants entitled to ratable distribution.

If the aggregate amount of the liabilities, which might be recovered by actions upon the sheriff's official bond, as prescribed in this article, exceeds the sum for which the sureties are liable, the court must, upon the application of a person who has obtained leave to prosecute the bond, made upon notice to the plaintiff's attorney, in each action then pending upon the sheriff's official bond, and in each uncollected judgment recovered thereupon, direct and provide for the distribution of the money, collected out of the property of the sureties, among the persons in favor of whom the liabilities have accrued, in proportion to the amount which each one is entitled to recover; to be ascertained by a reference, or in such other manner as the court directs. For the purposes of the motion, an order may be made by a judge, forbidding the payment, to the plaintiff in any action, of the sum collected or to be collected, by virtue of a judgment therein. But this section does not authorize the court to compel a plaintiff to refund any money, collected and received by him, in good faith, before service of notice of such an order.

From Id., §§ 17, 18.

§ 1886. Action upon a surrogate's bond.

Where a surrogate, or an officer acting as surrogate, is guilty of any actionable default or misconduct in his office, the person injured thereby may apply for leave to prosecute the delinquent's official bond.

From Id., §§ 19, 20; L. 1858, c. 213.

§ 1887. Action upon a county treasurer's bond.

Where a certified copy of the order or judgment of a court, directing a county treasurer to pay or deliver, to one or more persons designated therein any money, stocks, securities, or other investments held by him, subject to the direction of that court, is served upon the county treasurer, if he fails to obey the direction, the person injured thereby may apply for leave to prosecute his official bond. Service upon a county treasurer, as required by this section, may be made personally, or by leaving the paper, either at his office, during his absence therefrom, with a person of suitable age and discretion, having charge of the office, or at his residence, or his last residence within the county, with a person of suitable age and discretion.

From L. 1874, c. 524, §§ 1, 2.

§ 1888. Actions upon official bonds of other officers.

Where a public officer is required to give an official bond to the people, and special provision is not made by law, for the prosecution of the bond, by or for the benefit of a person, who has sustained, by his default, delinquency, or misconduct, an injury, for which the sureties upon the bond are liable, such a person may apply for leave to prosecute the delinquent's official bond.

Substituted for 2 R. S. 479, 480, §§ 21-27.

§ 1889. Actions, etc., under the last three sections regulated.

Sections 1880 to 1885 of this act, both inclusive, govern an application, made as prescribed in either of the last three sections, and each action brought pursuant to an order made thereupon, as if the delinquent officer and his sureties were named therein instead of the sheriff and his sureties.

From the same sources as the last three sections.

§ 1890. Receivers, etc., deemed public officers.

A receiver, an assignee of an insolvent debtor, or a trustee or other officer, appointed by a court or a judge, is a public officer, within the meaning of the last section but one; but where he was appointed by or pursuant to the order of a court, or in a special proceeding specified in title twelfth of chapter seventeenth of this act, the application for leave to prosecute his official bond must be made to the court by which, or pursuant to whose order, he was appointed, or in which the judgment was rendered, as the case may be. An action, brought as prescribed in this section, must be brought in the court to which application is made for leave to bring it.

New.

§ 1891. Demand of money; when necessary before application.

Where the default, by reason of which an application for leave to prosecute an official bond is made, as prescribed in this article, consists of the non-payment of money, and special provision is not otherwise made by law, the applicant must prove a demand of the money from the officer, or that a demand cannot be made, with due diligence. But such proof is not necessary, where the applicant has recovered a judgment against the officer.

New.

§ 1892. Application may be made ex parte.

An application for leave to prosecute an official bond, as prescribed in this article, may be made without notice; but, in that case, the officer, or either of his sureties, may apply, upon notice, to vacate an order permitting the applicant to maintain an action, upon any ground, showing that it ought not to have been granted.

New.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Action by a private person for a penalty or forfeiture.

Sec. 1893. Action by person specially aggrieved.
1894. Action by common informer.
1895. Id.; service of summons.
1896. Id.; when not barred by a collusive recovery.
1897. Indorsement upon summons.
1898. When part of a penalty may be recovered.

§ 1893. Action by person specially aggrieved.

Where a penalty or forfeiture is given, by a statute, to a person aggrieved by the act or omission of another, the person to whom it is given, may, if it is pecuniary, maintain an action to recover the amount thereof; or, if it consists of the forfeiture of a chattel, he may maintain an action to recover the chattel, or its value, or other damages, as the case requires.

From 2 R. S. 480 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 6), § 1.

§ 1894. Action by common informer.

Where a penalty or forfeiture is given, by a statute, to any person who sues therefor, an action to recover it may be maintained, by any person, in his own name; but the action cannot be compromised or settled, without the leave of the court in which it is brought.

From Id., §§ 5, 6.

§ 1895. Id.; service of summons.

The summons in an action, brought as prescribed in the last section, can be served only by an officer, authorized by law to collect an execution, issued out of the same court. The summons, when issued, cannot be countermanded by the plaintiff, before the service thereof; and, immediately after it has been served, the officer, who served it, must file it, with his certificate of service, in the office of the clerk, or deliver it, with a like certificate, to the magistrate by whom it was issued, as the case requires.

From Id., part of § 6.

§ 1896. Id.; when not barred by a collusive recovery.

In an action to recover a penalty or forfeiture, given by a statute, brought by any person, other than the person aggrieved or a public officer, the plaintiff may recover, notwithstanding the recovery of a judgment, for or against the defendant, in an action brought thereof by another person, if he establishes that the former judgment was recovered collusively and fraudulently.

From Id., § 14.

§ 1897. Indorsement upon summons.

In an action to recover a penalty or forfeiture, given by a statute, if a copy of the complaint is not delivered to the defendant with a copy of the summons, a general reference to the statute must be indorsed upon the copy of the summons so delivered, in the following form: "According to the provisions of," etc.; adding such a description of the statute, as will identify it with convenient certainty, and also specifying the section, if penalties or forfeitures are given, in different sections thereof, for different acts or omissions.

From Id., § 7.

§ 1898. When part of a penalty may be recovered.

Where a statute gives a pecuniary penalty or forfeiture, not exceeding a specified sum, an action may be maintained to recover the sum specified; and the court, jury, or referee, by which or by whom the issues of fact are tried, or, where judgment is taken by default for failure to appear or plead, the damages are ascertained, may award to the plaintiff the whole sum, or such a part thereof, as it or he deems proportionate to the offence.

From 2 R. S. 488, § 15.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Certain actions to recover damages for wrongs.

Sec. 1899. Civil and criminal prosecutions not merged.
1900. Action for suing, etc., in name of another. Made also a misdemeanor.
1901. Treble and other increased damages to be recovered.
1902. Action for causing death by negligence, etc.
1903. Distribution of damages recovered.
1904. Id.; amount of recovery.
1905. Next of kin defined.
1906. Action for slander of a woman.
1907. When action for libel cannot be maintained.
1908. The last section qualified.

§ 1899. Civil and criminal prosecutions not merged.

Where the violation of a right admits of a civil and also of a criminal prosecution, the one is not merged in the other.

From Co. Proc. § 7.

§ 1900. Action for suing, etc., in name of another. Made also a misdemeanor.

If a person, vexatiously or maliciously, in the name of another but without the latter's consent, or in the name of an unknown person, commences or continues, or causes to be commenced or continued, an action or special proceeding, in a court, of record or not of record, or a special proceeding before a judge or a justice of the peace; or takes, or causes to be taken, any proceeding, in the course of an action or special proceeding in such a court, or before such an officer, either before or after judgment or other final determination; an action, to recover damages therefor, may be maintained against him, by the adverse party to the action or special proceeding; and a like action may be maintained by the person, if any, whose name was thus used. He is also guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment, not exceeding six months.

From 2 R. S. 550 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 1.

§ 1901. Treble and other increased damages to be recovered.

In an action, brought by the adverse party, as prescribed in the last section, the plaintiff, if he recovers final judgment, is entitled to recover treble damages. In an action, brought by the person whose name was used, as prescribed in the last section, the plaintiff is entitled to recover his actual damages, and two hundred and fifty dollars in addition thereto.

From Id., part of § 1.

§ 1902. [Am'd, 1909, 1915.] Action for causing death by negligence, etc.

The executor or administrator duly appointed in this state, or in any other state, territory or district of the United States, or in any foreign country, of a decedent, who has left, him or her surviving a husband, wife, or next of kin, may maintain an action to recover damages for a wrongful act, neglect, or default, by which the decedent's death was caused, against a natural person who, or a corporation which, would have been liable to an action in favor of the decedent by reason thereof if death had not ensued. Such an action must be commenced within two years after the decedent's death. When the husband, wife or next of kin do not participate in the estate of decedent, under a will appointing an executor, other than such husband, wife or next of kin, who refuses to bring such action, then such husband, wife or next of kin shall be entitled to have an administrator appointed for the purpose of prosecuting such action for their benefit.

From L. 1847, c. 450, §§ 1, 2; L. 1849, c. 256; L. 1870, c. 78. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 221; L. 1915, c. 620 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 1903. [Am'd, 1904, 1911, 1915.] Distribution of damages recovered.

The damages recovered in an action, brought as prescribed in the last section, or obtained through settlement without action, are exclusively for the benefit of the decedent's husband or wife, and next of kin; and, when they are collected, they must be distributed by the plaintiff, or representative, as if they were unbequeathed assets, left in his hands, after payment of all debts, and expenses of administration; subject however to the following provisions, to wit:

1. In case the decedent shall have left him surviving a wife or husband, but no children, the damages recovered shall be for the sole benefit of such wife or husband.

2. In case the decedent leaves neither husband, wife, nor issue, but leaves a mother, and a father who has abandoned him, or who has left the maintenance and support of their child to the mother, the damages or recovery shall be for the sole benefit of such mother.

3. In case the decedent leaves no husband or wife, issue or father, or having left a father entitled to recovery, who dies prior to the recovery or verdict, the damages or recovery shall be for the sole benefit of the mother if then living.

The reasonable expenses of the action, or settlement, the reasonable funeral expenses of the decedent, and the commissions of the plaintiff or representative, upon the residue may be fixed by the surrogate, upon notice, given in such a manner and to such persons, as the surrogate deems proper or upon the judicial settlement of the account of the plaintiff, or representative, and may be deducted from the recovery.

Id. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 515; L. 1911, c. 122; L. 1915, c. 641 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 1904. [Am'd, 1895, 1913.] Id.; amount of recovery.

The damages awarded to the plaintiff may be such a sum as the jury, upon a writ of inquiry, or upon a trial, or, where issues of fact are tried without a jury, the court or the referee deems to be a fair and just compensation for the pecuniary injuries, resulting from the decedent's death, to the person or persons, for whose benefit the action is brought. If the decedent leaves surviving a father and a mother, the death of such father prior to the verdict shall not affect the amount of damages recoverable. When final judgment for the plaintiff is rendered, the clerk must add to the sum so awarded, interest thereupon from the decedent's death, and include it in the judgment. The inquisition, verdict, report or decision, may specify the day from which interest is to be computed; if it omits so to do, the day may be determined by the clerk, upon affidavits.

From L. 1847, c. 450, § 2; L. 1849, c. 256; L. 1870, c. 78. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1913, c. 756 (in effect September 1, 1913).

§ 1905. [Am'd, 1913.] Next of kin defined.

The term "next of kin," as used in the foregoing sections, has the meaning specified in section 1870 of this act, except if decedent leaves surviving a father and mother but no widow, child or descendant, it shall mean both the father and the mother.

New. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 756 (in effect September 1, 1913).

§ 1906. Action for slander of a woman.

In an action of slander, brought by a woman, for words imputing unchastity to her, it is not necessary to allege or prove special damages. If the plaintiff is married, the damages recovered are her separate property.

From L. 1871, c. 219, § 1.

§ 1907. When action for libel cannot be maintained.

An action, civil or criminal, cannot be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher, or proprietor of a newspaper, for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative, or other public and official proceedings, without proving actual malice in making the report.

From L. 1854, c. 130.

§ 1908. The last section qualified.

The last section does not apply to a libel, contained in the heading of the report; or in any other matter, added by any person concerned in the publication; or in the report of any thing said or done, at the time and place of the public and official proceedings, which was not a part thereof.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Miscellaneous actions and rights of action.

Sec. 1909. When transferee of claim or demand may sue. Rights of defendant, etc.
1910. What claims or demands may be transferred.
1911. Id.; cause of action for usury.
1912. Judgment, when assignable.
1913. Action upon judgment regulated.
1914. Ancillary action for discovery abolished.
1915. Action upon a penal bond.
1916. Action by surety or trustee to recover costs, etc.
1917. Action upon lost negotiable paper.
1918. The last section qualified.

§ 1909. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When transferee of claim or demand may sue. Rights of defendant, etc.

Where a claim or demand can be transferred, the transfer thereof passes an interest, which the transferee may enforce by an action or special proceeding, or interpose as a defence or counterclaim, in his own name, as the transferor might have done; subject to any defence or counterclaim, existing against the transferor, before notice of the transfer, or against the transferee. But this section does not apply, where the rights or liabilities of a party to a claim or demand, which is transferred, are regulated by special provision of law; nor does it vary the rights or liabilities of a party to a negotiable instrument, which is transferred.

New. See § 502, ante.

§ 1910. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] What claims or demands may be transferred.

Any claim or demand can be transferred, except in one of the following cases:

1. Where it is to recover damages for a personal injury, or for a breach of promise to marry.

2. Where it is founded upon a grant, which is made void by a statute of the State; or upon a claim to or interest in real property, a grant of which, by the transferor, would be void by such a statute.

3. Where a transfer thereof is expressly forbidden by a statute of the State, or of the United States, or would contravene public policy.

See Co. Proc., §§ 111, 112.

§ 1911. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; cause of action for usury.

A cause of action to cancel, or otherwise affect, an instrument executed, or an act done, as security for a usurious loan or forbearance, can be thus transferred, where the instrument or act creates a specific charge upon property, which is also transferred in disaffirmance thereof, and not otherwise; but, in that case, the transferee does not succeed to the right, conferred by statute upon the borrower, to procure relief, without paying, or offering to pay, any part of the sum or thing loaned.

New.

§ 1912. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Judgment, when assignable.

A judgment for a sum of money, or directing the payment of a sum of money, recovered upon any cause of action, may be transferred; but if it is vacated or reversed, the transfer thereof does not transfer the cause of action, unless the latter was transferable before the judgment was recovered.

New.

§ 1913. [Am'd, 1896.] Action upon judgment regulated.

Except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed in this act, an action upon a judgment for a sum of money, rendered in a court of record of the State, cannot be maintained, between the original parties to the judgment, unless, either

1. Ten years have elapsed since the docketing of such judgment; or,

2. It was rendered against the defendant by default, for want of an appearance or pleading, and the summons was served upon him, otherwise than personally; or,

3. The court in which the action is brought has previously made an order, granting leave to bring it. Notice of the application for such an order must be given to the adverse party, or the person proposed to be made the adverse party, personally, unless it satisfactorily appears to the court, that personal notice cannot be given, with due diligence; in which case, notice may be given in such a manner as the court directs.

From Co. Proc., § 71. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 568 (in effect Sept. 1, 1896). See § 3154, post.

§ 1914. Ancillary action for discovery abolished.

An action cannot be maintained, to obtain a discovery under oath, in aid of the prosecution or defence of another action.

From Co. Proc., § 389.

§ 1915. Action upon a penal bond.

A bond in a penal sum, executed within or without the State, and containing a condition to the effect, that it is to be void, upon performance of any act, has the same effect, for the purpose of maintaining an action or special proceeding, or two or more successive actions or special proceedings thereupon, as if it contained a covenant to pay the sum, or to perform the act, specified in the condition thereof. But the damages to be recovered for a breach, or successive breaches, of the condition, cannot, in the aggregate, exceed the penal sum, except where the condition is for the payment of money; in which case, they cannot exceed the penal sum, with interest thereupon, from the time when the defendant made default in the performance of the condition.

See 2 R. S. 353 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 2), §§ 12, 13; 2 Id., 378, 379 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), art. 2.

§ 1916. Action by surety or trustee to recover costs, etc.

A surety, including a drawer or indorser, may recover, in an action against his principal; and an executor, administrator, or other trustee, may, where the trust estate is insufficient to reimburse him, recover, in an action against the beneficiary whom he represents; his reasonable costs and other expenses, incurred necessarily and in good faith, in the prosecution or defence, by the express or implied consent of the principal or beneficiary, of an action or special proceeding, relating to the demand secured, or to the trust estate, as the case requires. This section does not affect any special agreement relating to those costs and expenses.

From L. 1858, c. 314, § 3.

§ 1917. Action upon lost negotiable paper.

Where it appears, upon the trial of an action, that a negotiable promissory note or bill of exchange, upon which the action or a counterclaim interposed in the action, is founded, was lost, while it belonged to the party claiming the amount due thereupon, he may prove the contents thereof, by parol or other secondary evidence, and may recover or set off the amount due thereupon, as if it was produced. But for that purpose, he must give to the adverse party a written undertaking, in a sum fixed by the judge or the referee, not less than twice the amount of the note or bill, with at least two sureties, approved by the judge or the referee, to the effect, that he will indemnify the adverse party, his heirs and personal representatives, against any claim by any other person, on account of the note or bill, and against all costs and expenses, by reason of such a claim.

From 2 R. S. 406 (Part 3, c. 7, tit. 3), §§ 75, 76.

§ 1918. The last section qualified.

But where an action is prosecuted or defended by the people of the State, or by a public officer in their behalf, the people, or the public officer, may prove the contents of a lost note or bill of exchange, by parol or other secondary evidence, and may recover or set off the amount due thereupon, without giving any security to the adverse party.

See L. 1855, c. 85.

TITLE V.

Other actions by or against particular parties.

Article 1. Action by or against an unincorporated association.
2. Action by or against certain county, town, and municipal officers.
3. Actions, and rights of action, against and between joint debtors.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action by or against an unincorporated association.

Sec. 1919. Actions, etc., by or against associations of seven or more persons.
1920. Proceedings in case of death, etc.
1921. Effect of judgment; execution thereupon.
1922. Subsequent action against members.
1923. This article permissive; effect upon statute of limitations.
1924. When objection of misnomer, etc., of parties not available.

§ 1919. [Am'd, 1900.] Actions, etc., by or against associations of seven or more persons.

An action or special proceeding may be maintained, by the president or treasurer of an unincorporated association, consisting of seven or more persons, to recover any property, or upon any cause of action, for or upon which all the associates may maintain such an action or special proceeding, by reason of their interest or ownership therein, either jointly or in common. An action may likewise be maintained by such president or treasurer to recover from one or more members of such association his or their proportionate share of any moneys lawfully expended by such association for the benefit of such associates, or to enforce any lawful claim of such association against such member or members. An action or special proceeding may be maintained, against the president or treasurer of such an association, to recover any property, or upon any cause of action, for or upon which the plaintiff may maintain such an action or special proceeding, against all the associates, by reason of their interest or ownership, or claim of ownership therein, either jointly or in common, or their liability therefor, either jointly or severally. Any partnership, or other company of persons, which has a president or treasurer, is deemed an association within the meaning of this section.

From L. 1849, c. 258, § 1; L. 1851, c. 455. Am'd by L. 1900, c. 184 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 1920. Proceedings in case of death, etc.

The death or legal incapacity of a member of the association does not affect an action or special proceeding, brought as prescribed in the last section. If the officer, by or against whom it is brought, dies, is removed, resigns, or becomes otherwise incapacitated, during the pendency thereof, the court must make an order, directing it to be continued by or against his successor in office, or any other officer, by or against whom it might have been originally commenced.

From L. 1849, c. 258, § 2.

§ 1921. [Am'd, 1899.] Effect of judgment; execution thereupon.

In such an action, the officer against whom it is brought cannot be arrested; and a judgment against him does not authorize an execution to be issued against his property, or his person; nor does the docketing thereof bind his real property, or chattels real. Where such a judgment is for a sum of money, an execution issued thereupon must require the sheriff to satisfy the same, out of any personal or real property belonging to the association, or owned, jointly or in common, by all the members thereof.

From Id., §§ 1, 3. Am'd by L. 1898, c. 293 (in effect Oct. 1, 1898).

§ 1922. Subsequent action against members.

Where an action has been brought against an officer, or a counterclaim has been made, in an action brought by an officer, as prescribed in the last three sections, another action, for the same cause, shall not be brought against the members of the association, or any of them, until after final judgment in the first action, and the return, wholly or partly unsatisfied or unexecuted, of an execution issued thereupon. After such a return, the party in whose favor the execution was issued, may maintain an action, as follows:

1. Where he was the plaintiff, or a defendant recovering upon a counterclaim, he may maintain an action against the members of the association, or, in a proper case, against any of them, as if the first action had not been brought, or the counterclaim had not been made, as the case requires; and he may recover therein, as part of his damages, the costs of the first action, or so much thereof, as the sum, collected by virtue of the execution, was insufficient to satisfy.

2. Where he was a defendant, and the case is not within subdivision first of this section, he may maintain an action, to recover the sum remaining uncollected, against the persons who composed the association, when the action against him was commenced, or the survivors of them.

But this section does not affect the right of the person, in whose favor the judgment in the first action was rendered, to enforce a bond or undertaking, given in the course of the proceedings therein.

From L. 1849, c. 258, § 4; L. 1853, c. 158.

§ 1923. This article permissive; effect upon statute of limitations.

This article does not prevent an action from being brought by or against all the members of an association, except as prescribed in the last section. Where an action is brought against the members of the association, as prescribed in subdivision first of the last section, the time between the commencement of the action by or against the officer, and the return of the first execution issued upon the final judgment rendered therein, is not a part of the time limited by law, for the commencement of the second action.

New.

§ 1924. When objection of misnomer, etc., of parties not available.

Section 1813 of this act applies to an action brought, as prescribed in the last section but one, against the members of any association, which keeps a book for the entry of changes in the membership of the association, or the ownership of its property; and to each book so kept.

New. See § 1813, ante.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Actions by or against certain county, town, and municipal officers.

Sec. 1925. Action by a taxpayer against a public officer.
1926. Actions by certain specified officers.
1927. Actions against such officers.
1928. The last two sections qualified.
1929. Designation of such officers in the summons, etc.
1930. Successor may be substituted.
1931. When execution against officer not to issue.

§ 1925. [Am'd, 1892.] Action by a tax payer against a public officer.

An action to obtain a judgment, preventing waste of, or injury to, the estate, funds, or other property of a county, town, city, or incorporated village of the State, may be maintained against any officer thereof, or any agent, commissioner, or other person, acting in its behalf, either by a citizen, resident therein, or by a corporation, who is assessed for and is liable to pay, or, within one year before the commencement of the action, has paid, a tax therein. This section does not affect any right of action in favor of a county, city, town, or incorporated village, or any public officer.

From L. 1872, c. 161. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 524.

§ 1926. [Am'd, 1897.] Actions by certain specified officers.

An action or special proceeding may be maintained, by the trustee or trustees of a school district; the overseer or overseers of the poor of a village, or city; the county superintendent or superintendents of the poor; or the supervisors of a county, upon a contract, lawfully made with those officers or their predecessors, in their official capacity; to enforce a liability created, or a duty enjoined, by law, upon those officers, or the body represented by them; to recover a penalty or a forfeiture, given to those officers, or the body represented by them; or to recover damages for an injury to the property or rights of those officers, or the body represented by them; although the cause of action accrued before the commencement of their term of office.

From 2 R. S. 473 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 4), § 92. Am'd by L. 1897, c. 302 (in effect Sept. 1, 1897).

§ 1927. Actions against such officers.

An action or special proceeding may be maintained, against any of the officers specified in the last section, upon any cause of action, which accrues against them, or has accrued against their predecessors, or upon a contract made by their predecessors in their official capacity, and within the scope of their authority.

From 2 R. S. 474, § 98.

§ 1928. The last two sections qualified.

The last two sections do not apply to a case, where it is specially prescribed by law, that an action may be maintained, by or against the body, represented by an officer designated in those sections; but, in such a case, the prosecution or defence of the action, as the case may be, must be conducted by the persons then in office, who represent that body.

From id., § 94.

§ 1929. Designation of such officers in the summons, etc.

In an action or special proceeding, brought pursuant to section 1926 or section 1927 of this act, the officer, by or against whom it is brought, must be described in the summons, or other process by which it is commenced, and in the subsequent proceedings therein, by his individual name, with the addition of his official title. An objection, growing out of an omission to join any officer, who ought to be joined with the others, must be taken by the answer, or, in a special proceeding, before the close of the case, on the part of the defendant; otherwise it is waived.

From Id., §§ 93, 96, 99.

§ 1930. Successor may be substituted.

In such an action or special proceeding, the court must, in a proper case, substitute a successor in office, in place of a person made a party in his official capacity, who has died or ceased to hold office; but such a successor shall not be substituted as a defendant, without his consent, unless at least fourteen days' notice of the application for the substitution, has been personally served upon him.

From Id., §§ 100, 101.

§ 1931. When execution against officer not to issue.

An execution cannot be issued upon a judgment for a sum of money, rendered against an officer in an action or special proceeding, brought by or against him, in his official capacity, pursuant to this article; except where it is rendered against the trustee or trustees of a school district, or the commissioner or commissioners of highways of a town. In either of those cases, an execution may be issued against and be collected out of the property of the officer, and the sum collected must be allowed to him, in the settlement of his official accounts, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law.

From Id., §§ 107, 108.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Actions and rights of action against and between joint debtors.

Sec. 1932. Judgment against defendants jointly indebted, when all are not served.
1933. Effect of such judgment.
1934. Execution; indorsement thereupon.
1935. How collected.
1936. Judgment, how docketed; effect of docketing.
1937. Action to charge defendants not personally summoned.
1938. Complaint in such action.
1939. Answer.
1940. Provisional remedies.
1941. Judgment.
1942. Joint debtors may compound separately. Mode and effect.
1943. Satisfying judgment.
1944. Rights of the debtors not released.
1945. Action against persons engaged in transportation.
1946. When partner not sued remains liable.
1947. Continuance of partnership business during action for accounting, etc.

§ 1932. Judgment against defendants jointly indebted, when all are not served.

In an action, wherein the complaint demands judgment for a sum of money against two or more defendants, alleged to be jointly indebted upon contract, if the summons is served upon one or more, but not upon all of the defendants, the plaintiff may proceed against the defendant or defendants, upon whom it is served, unless the court otherwise directs; and, if he recovers final judgment, it may be taken against all the defendants thus jointly indebted.

From Co. Proc., § 136, subd. 1.

§ 1933. Effect of such judgment.

Such a judgment is conclusive evidence of the liability of each defendant, upon whom the summons was personally served, or who appeared in the action. Where it is taken against a defendant, upon whom the summons was served by publication, or without the State, pursuant to an order for that purpose, it has the effect, as against that defendant, specified in section 445 of this act. As against such a defendant, who is allowed to defend after judgment, or as against a defendant not summoned, it is evidence only of the extent of the plaintiff's demand, after the liability of that defendant has been established, by other evidence.

From 2 R. S. 377 (Part 3, c. 6, tit. 6), § 2.

§ 1934. Execution; indorsement thereupon.

An execution upon such a judgment must be issued, in form, against all the defendants; but the attorney for the judgment creditor must indorse thereupon a direction to the sheriff, containing the name of each defendant, who was not summoned, and restricting the enforcement of the execution, as prescribed in the next section.

From Id., § 3.

§ 1935. How collected.

An execution against the person, issued upon such a judgment, shall not be enforced against the person of a defendant, whose name is so indorsed thereupon. An execution against property, issued upon such a judgment, shall not be levied upon the sole property of such a defendant; but it may be collected out of personal property, owned by him, jointly with the other defendants, who were summoned, or with any of them; and out of the real and personal property of the latter, or of any of them.

From Id., § 4.

§ 1936. Judgment, how docketed; effect of docketing.

Where a judgment has been taken, as prescribed in section 1932 of this act, the clerk, with whom the judgment-roll is filed, must write upon the docket, opposite or under the name of each defendant, upon whom the summons was not served, the words, "not summoned;" and a like entry must be made by each county clerk, with whom the judgment is afterwards docketed. The judgment does not, by virtue of its being docketed, bind any real property, or chattel real, owned by such a defendant. But this section does not affect the plaintiff's right of action, to charge the judgment upon any real property.

New.

§ 1937. Action to charge defendants not personally summoned.

After the recovery of a judgment against joint debtors, as prescribed in section 1932 of this act, an action may be maintained by the judgment creditor, against one or more of the defendants, who were not summoned in the original action, to procure a judgment, charging his or their property with the sum remaining unpaid upon the original judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 375.

§ 1938. Complaint in such action.

The complaint in such an action must be verified; must contain an allegation that the judgment has not been paid; and must state the sum, remaining unpaid thereupon, at the time of the verification.

From Id., § 378.

§ 1939. Answer.

The defendant's answer is restricted to defences or counterclaims, which he might have made in the original action, if the summons therein had been served upon him, when it was first served upon a defendant jointly indebted with him; objections to the judgment; and defences or counterclaims, which have arisen since it was rendered.

From Id., § 379.

§ 1940. Provisional remedies.

For the purpose of obtaining an order of arrest, an injunction order, or a warrant of attachment, the action is regarded as being founded upon the contract, upon which the original judgment was recovered.

New.

§ 1941. Judgment.

Where the judgment is in favor of the plaintiff, it must determine the sum remaining unpaid upon the original judgment; and it may be docketed, and an execution may be issued thereupon, as if it was a judgment for the sum so remaining unpaid, and the costs, if any. Costs must be awarded, as if the action was brought upon the original contract, and the sum so remaining unpaid had been recovered therein.

From Co. Proc., § 380.

§ 1942. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Joint debtors may compound separately. Mode and effect.

A joint debtor may make a separate composition with his creditor, as prescribed in this section. Such a composition discharges the debtor making it; and him only. The creditor must execute to the compounding debtor a release of the indebtedness, or other instrument exonerating him therefrom. A member of a partnership cannot thus compound for a partnership debt, until the partnership has been dissolved by consent or otherwise. In that case the instrument must release or exonerate him, from all liability incurred by reason of his connection with the partnership. An instrument, specified in this section, does not impair the creditor's right of action against any other joint debtor, or his right to take any proceeding against the latter; unless an intent to release or exonerate him, appears affirmatively upon the face thereof.

From L. 1838, c. 257, §§ 1, 2, 5; L. 1845, c. 348.

§ 1943. [Am'd, 1909.] Satisfying judgment.

An instrument, specified in section 230 of the Debtor and Creditor Law[1] is deemed a satisfaction-piece, for the purpose of discharging, as prescribed in section 1260 of this act, the docket of a judgment, recovered upon an indebtedness released or discharged thereby, as far as the judgment affects the compounding debtor. Where the docket of a judgment is discharged thereupon, a special entry must be made upon the docket, to the effect, that the judgment is satisfied, as to the compounding debtor only.

From L. 1838, c. 257, § 2. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 310 (in effect May 11, 1909).

§ 1944. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Rights of the debtors not released.

Where a joint debtor has thus compounded, a joint debtor, who has not compounded, may make any defence or counterclaim, or have any other relief, as against the creditor, to which he would have been entitled, if the composition had not been made. He may require the compounding debtor to contribute his ratable proportion of the joint debt, or of the partnership debts, as the case may be, as if the latter had not been discharged.

From Id., §§ 3, 4.

§ 1945. Action against persons engaged in transportation.

In an action brought against one or more persons, engaged, as a joint-stock association, partnership, or otherwise, in the periodical transportation of passengers or property, an objection, to any of the proceedings, cannot be taken by a person properly made a defendant, on the ground that the plaintiff had joined with him, as a defendant, a person not jointly engaged with him in that business, or on the ground that the plaintiff has failed so to join with him a person so jointly engaged, unless the persons so engaged have, at least thirty days before the commencement of the action, filed in the clerk's office of each county, in which they transport passengers or property, a statement showing the names of all of them. A statement so filed, is conclusive, for the purposes specified in this section, as against the persons filing it, until thirty days after filing, in like manner, a new statement, showing a change of interest.

From L. 1836, c. 385.

§ 1946. When partner not sued remains liable.

Where, for any cause, one or more partners have not been joined as defendants in an action upon a partnership liability,

[1] Section 230 of the Debtor and Creditor Law is the same as former § 1942 of this Code (except the last sentence thereof), which, for convenience sake, is retained in this edition. The last sentence of said § 1942 now forms § 231 of the Debtor and Creditor Law.

and final judgment has been taken against the persons made defendants therein, the plaintiff, if the judgment remains unsatisfied, may maintain a separate action upon the same demand, against each omitted partner, setting forth in the complaint the facts specified in this section, as well as the facts constituting his cause of action upon the demand.

From Co. Proc., § 136, subd. 4.

§ 1947. Continuance of partnership business during action for accounting, etc.

In an action brought to dissolve a partnership, or for an accounting between partners, or affecting the continued prosecution of the business, the court may, in its discretion, by order, authorize the partnership business to be continued, during the pendency of the action by one or more of the partners, upon their executing and filing with the clerk an undertaking, in such a sum and with such sureties as the order prescribes, to the effect that they will obey all orders of the court, in the action, and perform all things which the judgment therein requires them to perform. The court may impose such other conditions, as it deems proper, and it may in its discretion at any time thereafter require a new undertaking to be given. The court may also ascertain the value of the partnership property, and of the interest of the respective partners by a reference or otherwise, and may direct an accounting between any of the partners; and the judgment may make such provision for the payment to the retiring partners, for their interest, and with respect to the rights of creditors, the title to the partnership property, and otherwise, as justice requires, with or without the appointment of a receiver, or a sale of the partnership property.

New.

CHAPTER XVI.

Actions in Behalf of the People, and Special Proceedings Instituted, in Their Behalf, by State Writ.

TITLE I.— Actions in Behalf of the People.
TITLE II.— Special Proceedings Instituted by State Writ.

TITLE I.

Actions in behalf of the people.

Article 1. Action against the usurper of an office or franchise.
2. Action to vacate letters-patent.
3. Action for a fine, penalty, or forfeiture, or upon a forfeited recognisance.
4. Certain actions, founded upon the spoliation, or other misappropriation of public property.
5. Action to recover property escheated, or forfeited for treason.
6. Miscellaneous provisions, relating to actions, etc., in behalf of the people.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Action against the usurper of an office or franchise.

Sec. 1948. Attorney-general may maintain action.
1949. Proceedings when complaint names rightful incumbent.
1950. Action triable by jury.
1951. Assumption of office by person entitled.
1952. Proceedings to obtain books and papers.
1953. Damages; how recovered.
1954. One action against several persons.
1955. When injunction may be granted.
1956. Final judgment in action for usurping office, etc.

§ 1948. [Am'd, 1896, 1909.] Attorney-general may maintain action.

The attorney-general may maintain an action, upon his own information, or upon the complaint of a private person, in either of the following cases:

1. Against a person who usurps, intrudes into, or unlawfully holds or exercises within the State, a franchise or a public office, civil or military, or an office in a domestic corporation.

2. Against a public officer, civil or military, who has done or suffered an act, which by law works a forfeiture of his office.

3. Against one or more persons who act as a corporation, within the State, without being duly incorporated; or exercises within the State, any corporate rights, privileges or franchises, not granted to them by the law of the State.

4. Against a foreign corporation which exercises within the state any corporate rights, privileges or franchises, not granted to it by the law of this state; or which within the state, has violated any provision of law, or, contrary to law, has done or omitted any act, or has exercised a privilege or franchise, not conferred upon it by the law of this state, where, in a similar case, a domestic corporation would, in accordance with section 131 of the General Corporation Law, be liable to an action to vacate its charter and to annul its existence; or which exercises within the state any corporate rights, privileges or franchises in a manner contrary to the public policy of the state.

From Co. Proc., § 432; 2 R. S. 462 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 4), § 31. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 902; L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 1949. Proceedings when complaint names rightful incumbent.

In an action, brought as prescribed in the last section, for usurping, intruding into, unlawfully holding, or exercising an office, the attorney-general, besides stating the cause of action in the complaint, may, in his discretion, set forth therein the name of the person rightfully entitled to the office, and the facts showing his right thereto; and thereupon, and upon proof, by affidavit, that the defendant, by means of his usurpation or intrusion, has received any fees or emoluments belonging to the office, an order to arrest the defendant may be granted by the court, or a judge. The provisions of title first of chapter seventh of this act apply to such an order, and the proceedings thereupon and subsequent thereto, except where special provision is otherwise made in this title. For that purpose, the order is deemed to have been made as prescribed in section 549 of this act. Judgment may be rendered upon the right of the defendant, and of the party so alleged to be entitled; or only upon the right of the defendant, as justice requires.

From Co. Proc., §§ 435, 436; see 2 R. S. 532, §§ 30, 31.

§ 1950. Action triable by jury.

An action, brought as prescribed in this article, is triable, of course and of right, by a jury, in like manner as if it was an action specified in section 968 of this act, and without procuring an order, as prescribed in section 970 of this act.

New.

§ 1951. Assumption of office by person entitled.

Where final judgment is rendered, upon the right and in favor of the person so alleged to be entitled, he may, after taking the oath of office, and giving an official bond, as prescribed by law, take upon himself the execution of the office. He must, immediately thereafter, demand of the defendant in the action, delivery of all the books and papers in the custody, or under the control, of the defendant, belonging to the office from which the defendant has been so excluded.

From Co. Proc., § 437; see 2 R. S. 582, § 32.

§ 1952. Proceedings to obtain books and papers.

If the defendant refuses or neglects to deliver any of the books or papers, demanded as prescribed in the last section, he is guilty of a misdemeanor; and the same proceedings must be taken to compel the delivery thereof, as are now or shall hereafter be prescribed by law, where a person, who has held an office, refuses or neglects to deliver the official books or papers to his successor.

From Co. Proc., § 438; 2 R. S. 582, § 33.

§ 1953. [Am'd, 1884.] Damages; how recovered.

Where final judgment has been rendered, upon the right and in favor of the person so alleged to be entitled, he may recover, by action, against the defendant, the damages which he has sustained, in consequence of the defendant's usurpation, intrusion into, unlawful holding, or exercise of the office.

From Co. Proc., § 439; see 2 R. S. 582, §§ 34–38. Am'd by L. 1884, c. 399.

§ 1954. One action against several persons.

Where two or more persons claim to be entitled to the same office or franchise, the attorney-general may bring the action against all, to determine their respective rights thereto.

From Co. Proc., § 440; see 2 R. S. 584, § 45.

§ 1955. [Am'd, 1896.] When injunction may be granted. In an action, brought as prescribed in subdivision third or fourth of section 1948 of this act, the final judgment, in favor of the plaintiff, must perpetually restrain the defendant or defendants from the commission or continuance of the act or acts complained of. A temporary injunction to restrain the commission or continuance thereof may be granted, upon proof, by affidavit, that the defendant or defendants have violated any of the provisions of either of the said subdivisions third or fourth of section 1948 of this act. The provisions of title second of chapter seventh of this act apply to such a temporary injunction, and the proceedings thereupon, except where provision is otherwise made in this title. For that purpose, the injunction order is deemed to have been granted as prescribed in section 603 of this act. In the trial of an action brought as prescribed in subdivisions third or fourth of section 1948 of this act, a party or a witness is not excused from answering a question on the ground that such answer will tend to incriminate him; but such answer cannot be used as evidence against the person so answering, in a criminal action or criminal proceeding.

From 2 R. S. 462 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 4), §§ 31, 32. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 963 (in effect May 28, 1896).

§ 1956. Final judgment in action for usurping office, etc. In any other action, brought as prescribed in this article, where a defendant is adjudged to be guilty of usurping or intruding into, or unlawfully holding or exercising, an office, franchise, or privilege, final judgment must be rendered, ousting and excluding him therefrom, and in favor of the people or the relator, as the case requires, for the costs of the action. As a part of the final judgment, the court may, in its discretion, also award, that the defendant, or, where there are two or more defendants, that one or more of them, pay to the people a fine, not exceeding two thousand dollars. The judgment for the fine may be docketed, and execution may be issued thereupon, in favor of the people, as if it had been rendered in an action to recover the fine. The fine, when collected, must be paid into the treasury of the State.

From Co. Proc., § 441; see 2 R. S. 585, § 48.

ARTICLE SECOND.

Action to vacate letters-patent.

Sec. 1957. When attorney-general may maintain action.
1958. Action triable by jury.
1959. Copy of judgment-roll to be filed, etc.
1960. Transcript to be sent to county clerk, etc.

§ 1957. When attorney-general may maintain action.

The attorney-general may maintain an action to vacate or annul letters-patent, granted by the people of the State, in either of the following cases:

1. Where they were obtained by means of a fraudulent suggestion, or concealment of a material fact, made by, or with the knowledge or consent of, the person to whom they were issued.

2. Where they were issued in ignorance of a material fact, or through mistake.

3. Where the patentee, or those claiming under him, have done or omitted an act, in violation of the terms and conditions upon which the letters-patent were granted, or have, by any other means, forfeited the interest acquired under the same.

Whenever the attorney-general has good reason to believe that any act or omission, specified in this section, can be proved, and that the person to be made defendant has no sufficient legal defence, he must commence such an action.

From Co. Proc., § 433.

§ 1958. Action triable by jury.

An action, brought as prescribed in this article, is triable, of course and of right, by a jury, as if it was an action specified in section 968 of this act, and without procuring an order, as prescribed in section 970 of this act.

New. See § 1950, ante.

§ 1959. Copy of judgment-roll to be filed, etc.

Where final judgment, vacating or annulling letters-patent, is rendered in an action, brought as prescribed in the last section, the attorney-general must cause a copy of the judgment-roll to be forthwith filed in the office of the secretary of State; who must make an entry, in the records of the commissioners of the land office, stating the substance and effect of the judgment, and the time when the judgment-roll was filed. The real property, granted by those letters-patent, may thereafter be disposed of by the commissioners of the land office, as if the letters-patent had not been issued.

From Co. Proc., §§ 445, 446; see 2 R. S. 580, §§ 24, 25.

§ 1960. Transcript to be sent to county clerk, etc.

Immediately after making the entry prescribed in the last section, the secretary of State must transmit a certified transcript thereof to the clerk, or the register, as the case requires, of each county, in which the real property affected by the judgment is situated. The clerk or register must file it; and, if the letters-patent are recorded in his office, he must note the contents of the transcript in the margin of the record.

New. See L. 1845, c. 110, § 1.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Action for a fine, penalty, or forfeiture, or upon a forfeited recognizance.

Sec. 1961. When action cannot be maintained.
1962. Action for forfeiture, etc.
1963. Money recovered; how disposed of.
1964. Certain proceedings in the action regulated.
1965. Recognizance; how forfeited.
1966. Action on recognizance.
1967. Money received by district-attorney; how disposed of.
1968. District-attorney to render account.

§ 1961. [Am'd, 1895.] When action cannot be maintained.

Whenever, by the decision of the appellate division of the supreme court, a construction is given to a statute, an act done, in good faith, and in conformity to that construction, after the decision was made, and before a reversal thereof by the court of appeals, is so far valid, that the party doing it is not liable to any penalty or forfeiture, for an act that was adjudged lawful by the decision of the court below. But this section does not control or affect the decision of the court of appeals, upon an appeal actually taken before the reversal.

From 2 R. S. 602 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 3), § 66. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 1962. Action for forfeiture, etc.

Where real or personal property has been forfeited, or a penalty incurred, to the people of the State, or to an officer, for their use, pursuant to a provision of law, the attorney-general, or the district-attorney of the county in which the action is triable, must bring an action to recover the property or penalty, in a court having jurisdiction thereof. Where the supreme court and a justice's court have concurrent jurisdiction of the action, it may be brought in either, at the election of the attorney-general or district-attorney. A recovery in such an action bars a recovery, in any other action, brought for the same cause.

From Co. Proc., § 447; 2 R. S. 481 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 6), § 3.

§ 1963. Money recovered; how disposed of.

Money recovered in such an action, which is not otherwise specially granted or appropriated by law, must, when collected, be paid into the treasury of the State.

From 2 R. S. 481, § 3.

§ 1964. Certain proceedings in the action regulated.

Sections 1897 and 1898 of this act apply to an action, brought as prescribed in the last two sections.

From Id., §§ 7, 15.

§ 1965. Recognizance; how forfeited.

Where the condition of a recognizance is broken, an order of the court, directing the prosecution of the recognizance, is a sufficient forfeiture thereof.

From 2 R. S. 486, § 31.

§ 1966. [Am'd, 1909.] Action on recognizance.

Where a recognizance to the people is forfeited, and the district-attorney of the county in which it was taken brings an action to recover the penalty thereof, it is not necessary, in such an action, to allege or prove any damages, by reason of the breach of the condition; but where the people are entitled to judgment therein, they must have judgment absolute, for the penalty of the recognizance.

From 2 R. S. 485, § 29. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 1967. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Money received by district-attorney; how disposed of.

Within thirty days after a district-attorney receives or collects money upon a recognizance or for a penalty or forfeiture, belonging to the county, he must pay it to the county treasurer of his county, deducting only his necessary disbursements; except that, where he does not receive, as his compensation, a salary fixed pursuant to law, the county court may, by an order entered in its minutes, allow him to retain also a sum, specified in the order, for his reasonable costs and expenses, and a reasonable counsel fee.

From Id., § 32; L. 1852, c. 304, §§ 1, 6; L. 1870, c. 752, § 1.

§ 1968. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] District-attorney to render account.

Each district-attorney must render to the first term of the county court of his county, held in each calendar year, a written account, verified by his affidavit, of all actions brought by him upon recognizances, or for penalties or forfeitures belonging to the county, or to the State; of all his proceedings therein; of all judgments recovered by him therein; and of all money, collected by him from any person, belonging to the county or to the State. This section applies to a district-attorney who has gone out of office, during the preceding calendar year.

From 2 R. S. 486, §§ 34, 35, 36.

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Certain actions, founded upon the spoliation, or other misappropriation of public property.

Sec. 1969. Action in court of the State for public funds illegally obtained, converted, etc.
1970. Stay of other domestic actions; parties thereto to be brought in.
1971. Actions, etc., in foreign courts.
1972. Money, damages, etc., vest in people, on commencement of action.
1973. Limitation of action.
1974. Ultimate disposition of proceeds of action, in court of the State.
1975. Id.; upon petition of corporation, etc., aggrieved.
1976. Attorney-general must bring action.

§ 1969. Action in court of the State for public funds illegally obtained, converted, etc.

Where any money, funds, credits, or other property, held or owned by the State, or held or owned, officially or otherwise, for or in behalf of a governmental or other public interest, by a domestic municipal, or other public corporation, or by a board, officer, custodian, agency, or agent of the State, or of a city, county, town, village or other division, subdivision, department, or portion of the State, has heretofore been, or is hereafter, without right obtained, received, converted, or disposed of, an action to recover the same, or to recover damages, or other compensation, for so obtaining, receiving, paying, converting, or disposing of the same, or both, may be maintained by the people of the State, in any court of the State having jurisdiction thereof, although a right of action, for the same cause, exists by law in some other public authority, and whether an action therefor, in favor of the latter, is or is not pending, when the action in favor of the people is commenced.

From L. 1875, c. 49, § 1. See §§ 549, 637, 789, ante.

§ 1970. Stay of other domestic actions; parties thereto to be brought in.

Where an action is commenced by the people, for a cause specified in the last section, the court in which it is brought, may, upon the application of any party thereto, grant an order staying proceedings in any other action, brought, for the same cause, in the same or any other court of the State, by a public authority, other than the people; and, if necessary or proper, it may vacate any order or interlocutory judgment, made or rendered in such an action; and it may, by the same order, or by a subsequent order, granted upon the application of any party to either action, direct that any party to the action so stayed, be brought in, as a party to the action commenced by the people.

From Id., § 2.

§ 1971. Actions, etc., in foreign courts.

The people of the State may commence and maintain, in their own name, or otherwise, as is allowable, one or more actions, suits, or other judicial proceedings, in any court, or before any tribunal, of the United States, or of any other state, or of any territory of the United States, or of any foreign country, for any cause specified in the last section but one.

From Id., § 1.

§ 1972. Money, damages, etc., vest in people, on commencement of action.

Upon the commencement, by the people of the State, of any action, suit, or other judicial proceeding, as prescribed in this article, the entire cause of action, including the title to the money, funds, credits, or other property, with respect to which the suit or action is brought, and to the damages or other compensation, recoverable for the obtaining, receipt, payment, conversion, or disposition thereof, if not previously so vested, is transferred to, and becomes absolutely vested in, the people of the State.

From Id., § 1.

§ 1973. Limitation of action.

The people of the State will not sue for a cause of action, specified in this article, unless it accrued within ten years before the action is commenced.

From Id., § 1.

§ 1974. Ultimate disposition of proceeds of action, in court of the State.

Any court of the State, in which an action is brought by the people, as prescribed in this article, may, by the final judgment therein, or by a subsequent order, direct that any money, funds, damages, credits, or other property, recovered by, or awarded to, the plaintiff therein, which, if that action had not been brought, would not have vested in the people, be disposed of, as justice requires, in such a manner as to re-instate the lawful custody thereof, or to apply the same, or the proceeds thereof, to the objects and purposes for which they were authorized to be raised or procured; after paying into the State treasury, out of the proceeds of the recovery, all expenses incurred by the people in the action.

From Id., § 3.

§ 1975. Id.; upon petition of corporation, etc., aggrieved.

Any corporation, board, officer, custodian, agency, or agent, may, in behalf of any city, county, town, village, or other division, subdivision, department, or portion of the State, which was not a party to an action, brought as prescribed in this article, and which claims to be entitled to the custody or disposition of any of the money, funds, damages, credits, or other property, recovered by, or awarded to the plaintiff, by the final judgment in the action, or any of the proceeds thereof, and not disposed of as prescribed in the last section, present, at any time after the actual collection of the money, and its payment into the State treasury, or the actual receipt of the property by the people, to the supreme court, at a special term thereof held in the county of Albany, a verified petition, setting forth the facts, and praying for the relief to which he or it is entitled. Notice of the application and a copy of the petition must be served upon the attorney-general. Upon the hearing the court may make such a final order, as justice requires, for the disposition of the money or other property, as prescribed in the last section.

From Id., § 3

§ 1976. Attorney-general must bring action

The attorney-general must commence an action, suit, or other judicial proceeding, as prescribed in this article, whenever he deems it for the interests of the people of the State so to do; or whenever he is so directed, in writing, by the governor.

From Id., § 4.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

Action to recover property escheated, or forfeited for treason.

Sec. 1977. Attorney-general to bring ejectment for real property, escheated or forfeited.
1978. Notice to be published before trial or judgment.
1979. When unknown claimants may be made defendants.
1980. Effect of judgment against unknown claimants.
1981. Attorney-general to report recoveries to commissioners of land office.
1982. Action to recover personal property forfeited for treason.

§ 1977. Attorney-general to bring ejectment for real property, escheated or forfeited.

Whenever the attorney-general has good reason to believe, that the title to, or right of possession of, any real property, has vested in the people of the State, by escheat, or by conviction or outlawry for treason, he must commence an action of ejectment, to recover the property.

From 1 R. S. 282 (Part 1, c. 9, tit. 12), § 1.

§ 1978. Notice to be published before trial or judgment.

The attorney-general must cause a notice, specifying the names of the parties, and the object of the action, and containing a brief description of the property affected thereby, to be published in the newspaper printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published, in a newspaper published in the city of New-York, and in a newspaper published in each county in which any part of the property is situated, at least once in each week, for twelve successive weeks, before an issue of fact, joined in the action, is brought to trial; or, where judgment is rendered therein in favor of the plaintiff, otherwise than upon the trial of an issue of fact, before final judgment is rendered.

From Id., §§ 2, 3.

§ 1979. When unknown claimants may be made defendants.

If the property is not occupied, and no person is known to the attorney-general, as claiming title thereto, the defendant or defendants may be designated as "unknown claimants," without any other description. In all other respects, section 451 of this act applies to an action, in which the defendant or defendants are thus designated.

From Id., § 1.

§ 1980. Effect of judgment against unknown claimants.

Where, in an action of ejectment, to recover property alleged to be escheated, brought as prescribed in the last section, final judgment in favor of the people is rendered against unknown claimants, and the real property recovered thereby is afterwards sold and conveyed, under the direction of the commissioners of the land office, the judgment is conclusive upon the title of that property, as against all persons, except those who commence an action of ejectment for the recovery thereof, or of a part thereof, within five years after the final judgment was rendered in the action in favor of the people, and the judgment-roll was filed thereupon. But section 375 of this act applies to such an action.

From Id., § 4.

§ 1981. Attorney-general to report recoveries to commissioners of land office.

The attorney-general must, from time to time, make a report to the commissioners of the land office, of all the real property recovered by the people, in any action brought pursuant to this article.

From Id., § 9.

§ 1982. Action to recover personal property forfeited for treason.

Where personal property is forfeited to the people, upon a conviction of outlawry for treason, the attorney-general must bring, and may maintain, an action to recover the same, or the value thereof, or such other action, founded upon the forfeiture, as might be maintained by a private person, who had acquired title to the property.

From 1 R. S. 284 (Part 1, c. 9, tit. 13), § 2.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

Miscellaneous provisions, relating to actions, etc., in behalf of the people.

Sec. 1983. Scire facias, quo warranto, etc., abolished.
1984. Actions to be brought in the name of the people.
1985. Judgment for costs may be taken against the people.
1986. Relator; when to be joined as plaintiff; compensation of attorney-general.
1987. Costs; how collected against corporation and usurpers of franchise.
1988. Joinder of causes of action against same person.
1989. Consolidation of actions against several defendants.
1990. When people, municipal corporation, etc., not required to give security.

§ 1983. Scire facias, quo warranto, etc., abolished.

The writ of scire facias, the writ of quo warranto, and proceedings by information in the nature of quo warranto, have been abolished. The relief, formerly obtained by means of either of those writs, may be obtained by action, where an appropriate action therefor is prescribed in this act.

From Co. Proc., § 428.

§ 1984. Actions to be brought in the name of the people.

An action, brought as prescribed in this title, except an action to recover a penalty or forfeiture, expressly given by law to a particular officer, must be brought in the name of the people of the State; and the proceedings therein are the same, as in an action by a private person, except as otherwise specially prescribed in this title.

New.

§ 1985. Judgment for costs may be taken against the people.

Where judgment is rendered, or a final order is made, against the people, in a civil action brought, or special proceeding instituted, in their name, by a public officer, pursuant to a provision of law, it must be to the same effect, and in the same form, as against a private individual, who brings a like action, or institutes a like special proceeding, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law. But an execution shall not be issued against the people.

From 2 R. S. 552 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 17), § 18.

§ 1986. Relator; when to be joined as plaintiff; compensation of attorney-general.

Where an action is brought by the attorney-general, as prescribed in this title, on the relation or information of a person, having an interest in the question, the complaint must allege, and the title of the action must show, that the action is brought upon the relation of that person. In such a case, the attorney-general must, as a condition of bringing the action, require the relator to give satisfactory security to indemnify the people against the costs and expenses thereof. Where security is so given, the attorney-general is entitled to compensation for his services, to be paid by the relator, in like manner as the attorney and counsel for a private person.

From Co. Proc., § 434.

amended by Chap. 104 – Laws 1918

§ 1987. Costs; how collected against corporation and usurpers of franchise.

Where final judgment in an action, brought as prescribed in this title, is rendered against a corporation, or persons claiming to be a corporation, the court may direct the costs to be collected by execution against any of the persons claiming to be a corporation; or by warrant of attachment, or other process, against the person of any director or other officer of the corporation.

From Co. Proc., § 443.

§ 1988. Joinder of causes of action against same person.

Where two or more causes of action exist, in favor of the people, against the same person, for money due upon, or damages for the non-performance of, one or more contracts of the same nature, the attorney-general must join all those causes in one action.

From 1 R. S. 180 (Part 1, c. 8, tit. 5), § 13.

§ 1989. Consolidation of actions against several defendants.

Where two or more actions, brought in behalf of the people, upon the same mortgage or other contract, are pending against separate defendants, claiming or defending under the same title, the attorney-general must, upon the request of the defendants, cause them to be consolidated into one action; and only one bill of costs can be taxed against the defendants.

From Id., § 14.

§ 1990. [Am'd, 1894.] When people, municipal corporation, etc., not required to give security.

Each provision of this act, requiring a party to give security, for the purpose of procuring an order of arrest, an injunction order, or a warrant of attachment, or as a condition of obtaining any other relief, or taking any proceeding; or allowing the court, or a judge, to require such security to be given, is to be construed as excluding an action brought by the people of the state, or by a domestic municipal corporation; or by a public officer, in behalf of the people, or of such a corporation; except where the security, to be given in such an action, is specially regulated by the provision in question; but in any action in which a domestic municipal corporation, or a public officer in behalf of such corporation, shall be, by the foregoing provisions of this section, excused from giving security on procuring an order of arrest, an order of injunction or a warrant of attachment, such corporation shall be liable for all damages that may be so sustained by the opposite party by reason of such order of arrest, attachment or injunction in the same case and to the same extent as sureties to an undertaking would have been, if such an undertaking had been given.

From L. 1876, c. 449, § 11. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 90.

TITLE II.

Special proceedings instituted by State writ.

Article 1. Provisions applicable to two or more State writs.
2. The writ of habeas corpus, to bring up a person to testify.
3. The writ of habeas corpus, and the writ of certiorari, to inquire into the cause of detention.
4. The writ of mandamus.
5. The writ of prohibition.
6. The writ of assessment of damages.
7. The writ of certiorari, to review the determination of an inferior tribunal.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Provisions applicable to two or more State writs.

Sec. 1991. State writs enumerated.
1992. To be under seal of court.
1993. State writ at the instance of the people.
1994. Relator, when joined with people; parties how styled.
1995. Parties may appear by attorney.
1996. Allowance to be indorsed and signed.
1997. Final order; certain proceedings same as in actions.
1998. When writ returnable.
1999. How served.
2000. Habeas corpus, how served; fees and undertaking, when required.
2001. Fees to persons not officers.
2002. Last two sections qualified.
2003. Mode of serving writ, when person conceals himself, etc.
2004. Person served to obey habeas corpus.
2005. Id.; as to certiorari.
2006. Time of returning habeas corpus.
2007. Punishment for non-payment of costs.

§ 1991. State writs enumerated.

The writ of habeas corpus to bring up a person to testify, or to answer; the writ of habeas corpus, and the writ of certiorari, to inquire into the cause of detention; the writ of mandamus; the writ of prohibition; the writ of assessment of damages, which is substituted for the writ heretofore known as the writ of ad quod damnum; and the writ of certiorari to review the determination of an inferior tribunal, which may be called the writ of review, shall hereafter be styled, collectively, State writs.

New.

§ 1992. To be under seal of court.

A State writ must be issued under the seal of the court, by which it is awarded. Where it is allowed by a judge out of court, and is returnable before a court of record, it must be issued under the seal of the court before which it is returnable. Where it is returnable before a judge out of court, or before a body or tribunal, other than a court of record, it must be issued under the seal of the supreme court. Where the seal of the supreme court is to be used, as prescribed in this section, it may be the seal of the county wherein the writ is awarded, or wherein it is returnable.

From 2 R. S. 574 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 1), § 74.

§ 1993. State writ at the instance of the people.

Where a State writ is required, in an action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, to which the people are a party, or in which they are interested, it may be awarded upon the application of the attorney-general, or of the district-attorney having charge of the action or special proceeding; and the indorsement of the allowance thereof must state, that it was issued upon such an application.

From Id., § 77.

§ 1994. Relator, when joined with people; parties, how styled.

A State writ must be issued in behalf of the people of the State; but where it is awarded upon the application of a private person, it must show that it was issued upon the relation of that person. The officer or other person, against whom the writ is issued, shall be styled the defendant therein.

New.

§ 1995. Parties may appear by attorney.

The parties to a special proceeding, instituted by State writ, may appear by attorney, with like effect as in an action brought in the supreme court; but a return to such a writ must be made under the hand of the defendant, except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, or where the court or judge, for good cause shown by affidavit, otherwise directs. Where the attorney-general or the district-attorney does not appear for the people, the attorney for the relator is deemed also the attorney for the people.

New.

§ 1996. Allowance to be indorsed and signed.

The presiding judge of a court, by which a State writ is awarded, or the judge who allows such a writ out of court, as the case may be, must sign an allowance thereof indorsed thereupon, stating the date of the allowance.

From 2 R. S. 574, § 76.

§ 1997. Final order; certain proceedings same as in actions.

The final determination of the rights of the parties to a special proceeding instituted by State writ, is styled a final order. The provisions of this act, relating to amendments, motions, and intermediate orders, in an action, are applicable to similar acts in such a special proceeding; except where special provision is otherwise made therein, or where the proceeding is repugnant to the object of the State writ, or the mode of procedure thereunder.

New.

§ 1998. When writ returnable.

Except where special provision is otherwise made in this act, a State writ may be made returnable forthwith, or on a future day certain, as the case requires.

From 2 R. S. 574, § 75.

§ 1999. How served.

Except where special provision is otherwise made in this act, a State writ must be personally served, in like manner as a summons, issued out of the supreme court; and each provision of this act, relating to the personal service of such a summons upon a defendant, applies to the service of a State writ.

New.

§ 2000. [Am'd, 1910.] Habeas corpus, how served; fees and undertaking, when required.

A writ of habeas corpus can be served by any person of the age of twenty-one years and upwards. Where the prisoner is in custody of a sheriff, coroner, constable, or marshal, the service is not complete, unless the person serving the writ tenders to the officer, the fees allowed by law for bringing up the prisoner, and delivers to him an undertaking, with at least one surety, in a sum specified therein, to the effect, that the surety will pay the charges of carrying back the prisoner, if he shall be remanded; and that the prisoner will not escape by the way, either in going to, remaining at, or returning from the place to which he is to be taken. The sum so specified must be, at least, twice the sum for which the prisoner is detained, if he is detained for a specific sum of money; if not, it must be one thousand dollars.

From 2 R. S. 574, § 78. Am'd by L. 1910, c. 120 (in effect Sept. 1, 1910).

§ 2001. Fees to persons not officers.

A court or a judge, allowing a writ of habeas corpus, directed to any person other than a sheriff, coroner, constable, or marshal, may, in its or his discretion, require the applicant, in order to render the service thereof complete, to pay the charges of bringing up the prisoner. In that case, the amount of the charges, not to exceed the fees allowed by law to a sheriff for a similar service, must be specified in the certificate allowing the writ.

From Id., § 84.

§ 2002. Last two sections qualified.

The last two sections are not applicable to a case, where the writ is allowed upon the application of the attorney-general or a district-attorney.

From Id., § 79.

§ 2003. Mode of serving writ, when person conceals himself, etc.

A writ of habeas corpus or of certiorari, issued as prescribed in article second or article third of this title, may be served by delivering it to the person to whom it is directed. If he cannot be found, with due diligence, it may be served by leaving it, at the jail or other place in which the prisoner is confined, with any under officer, or other person of proper age, having charge, for the time, of the prisoner, and paying or tendering to him the fees or charges for bringing up the prisoner. If the person, upon whom the writ ought to be served, keeps himself concealed, or refuses admittance to the person attempting to serve it, it may be served by affixing it in a conspicuous place, on the outside, either of his dwelling-house, or of the place where the prisoner is confined. In that case, the service is complete, without tendering the fees or charges for bringing up the prisoner.

From Id., §§ 80, 81.

§ 2004. Person served to obey habeas corpus.

A sheriff, coroner, constable, or marshal, upon whom complete service of a writ of habeas corpus is made, as prescribed in this article, must obey and make return to the writ, according to the exigency thereof, whether it is directed to him or not. Any other person, upon whom such a writ is served, having the custody of the individual for whose benefit it was issued, must obey and execute it, according to the command thereof, without requiring any bond, or the payment of any charges, except such as are specified in the certificate allowing the writ.

From Id., § 82.

§ 2005. Id.; as to certiorari.

A person, upon whom a writ of certiorari, issued as prescribed in this title, is served, must, in like manner, upon payment or tender of the fees allowed by law for making a return to the writ, and for copying the warrant, or other process or proceeding, to be annexed thereto, obey and return the writ, according to the exigency thereof.

From Id., § 83.

§ 2006. Time of returning habeas corpus.

Where a writ of habeas corpus is returnable on a day certain, the return must be made at the time and place specified therein. Where such a writ is returnable forthwith, at a place within twenty miles of the place of service, the return must be made, and the prisoner must be produced, within twenty-four hours after service; and the like time must be allowed, for each additional twenty miles.

From Id., § 85.

§ 2007. Punishment for non-payment of costs.

For non-payment, upon demand, of the costs awarded by a final order, made in a special proceeding instituted by State writ, except where a peremptory writ of mandamus is awarded, after the issuing of an alternative mandamus, the person required to pay the same may be punished for a contempt of the court awarding them, or of which the judge awarding them is a member, as if the final order was a final judgment of the court.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The writ of habeas corpus, to bring up a person to testify.

Sec. 2008. Habeas corpus to testify; when allowed by court or judge.
2009. Id.; when allowed by judge.
2010. Id.; in suit before justice of the peace, etc.
2011. The last three sections qualified.
2012. Application, how made.
2013. Certain prisoners to be remanded.
2014. Officer to obey and return writ.

§ 2008. Habeas corpus to testify; when allowed by court or judge.

A court of record, other than a justices' court of a city, or a judge of such a court, or a justice of the supreme court, has power, upon the application of a party to an action or special proceeding, civil or criminal, pending therein, to issue a writ of habeas corpus, for the purpose of bringing before the court a prisoner, detained in a jail or prison within the State, to testify as a witness in the action or special proceeding, in behalf of the applicant.

From 2 R. S. 559 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 1), § 1.

§ 2009. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; when allowed by judge.

Such a writ may also be issued by a justice of the supreme court, upon the application of a party to a special proceeding, civil or criminal, pending before any officer or body, authorized to examine a witness therein. In a case specified in this section, the writ may also be issued by a county judge or a special county judge, residing within the county where the officer resides, before whom, or the court or other body sits, in or before which, the special proceeding is pending.

From Id., § 3. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2010. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; in suit before justice of the peace, etc.

Such a writ may also be issued by a justice of the supreme court, upon the application of a party to an action, pending before a justice of the peace, or in a justices' court of a city, or a district court of the city of New-York, to bring before the justice or court, to be examined as a witness, a prisoner confined in the jail of the county where the action is to be tried, or an adjoining county. In a case specified in this section, the writ may also be issued by a county judge, or a special county judge, residing within the county where the justice resides, or the court is located, or the prisoner is confined, as the case may be.

From 2 R. S. 559, § 4. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2011. [Am'd, 1880, 1895, 1914, 1915.] The last three sections qualified.

Such a writ may be issued by the appellate division of the supreme court in any department, or by the presiding justice thereof, upon such terms and conditions, and under such regulations as such appellate division or presiding justice prescribes, to bring up a prisoner sentenced to death, upon the application of or upon notice to the district attorney of the county in which the attendance of the prisoner is desired and upon proof that such prisoner is a necessary and material witness in a criminal action then pending and that the interests of public justice require his attendance.

A writ shall not be issued, by virtue of either of the last three sections, or in any way except as in this section provided for, to bring up a prisoner sentenced to death. Nor shall it be issued to bring up a prisoner confined under any other sentence for a felony; except by and in the discretion of a justice of the supreme court upon such notice to the district-attorney of the county wherein the prisoner was convicted, and upon such terms and conditions, and under such regulations, as the judge prescribes.

From 2 R. S. 559, § 1. Am'd by L. 1880, c. 301; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1914, c. 133; L. 1915, c. 354 (in effect April 23, 1915).

§ 2013. Application, how made.

An application for a writ, made as prescribed in either of the foregoing sections of this article, must be verified by affidavit, and must state:

1. The title and nature of the action or special proceeding, in regard to which the testimony of the prisoner is desired; and the court, or body, in or before which, or the officer before whom, it is pending.

2. That the testimony of the prisoner is material and necessary to the applicant, on the trial of the action, or the hearing of the special proceeding, as he is advised by counsel and verily believes.

3. The place of confinement of the prisoner.

4. Whether the prisoner is or is not confined under a sentence for a felony.

But where the attorney-general or district-attorney makes the application, he need not swear to the advice of counsel.

From 2 R. S. 559, § 2.

§ 2013. Certain prisoners to be remanded.

The return to a writ, issued as prescribed in this article, must state for what cause the prisoner is held; and if it appears therefrom, that he is held by virtue of a mandate in a civil action or special proceeding, or by virtue of a commitment upon a criminal charge, he must, after having testified, be remanded, and again committed to the prison, from which he was taken.

From Id., § 15.

§ 2014. Officer to obey and return writ.

Any officer to whom a writ, issued as prescribed in this article, is delivered, must obey the same, according to the exigency thereof, and make a return thereto accordingly. If he refuses or neglects so to do, he forfeits, to the people, if the writ was issued upon the application of the attorney-general or a district-attorney, or, in any other case, to the party on whose application the writ was issued, the sum of five hundred dollars. But where the prisoner is confined under a sentence to death, a return to that effect is a sufficient obedience to the writ, without producing him.

From Id., § 20.

ARTICLE THIRD.

The writ of habeas corpus, and the writ of certiorari, to inquire into the cause of detention.

2064. Recognizance valid for adjourned terms.
2065. Penalty for refusing copy of process, etc.
2066. Application of this article to other writs of habeas corpus.

§ 2015. Who entitled to prosecute the writs. Habeas corpus may issue on Sunday.

A person imprisoned or restrained in his liberty, within the State, for any cause, or upon any pretence, is entitled, except in one of the cases specified in the next section, to a writ of habeas corpus, or a writ of certiorari, as prescribed in this article, for the purpose of inquiring into the cause of the imprisonment or restraint, and, in a case prescribed by law, of delivering him therefrom. A writ of habeas corpus may be issued and served under this section, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday; but it cannot be made returnable on that day.

From 2 R. S. 563 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 1), § 21.

§ 2016. When neither writ shall be allowed.

A person is not entitled to either of the writs specified in the last section, in either of the following cases:

1. Where he has been committed, or is detained, by virtue of a mandate, issued by a court or a judge of the United States, in a case where such courts or judges have exclusive jurisdiction under the laws of the United States, or have acquired exclusive jurisdiction by the commencement of legal proceedings in such a court.

2. Where he has been committed, or is detained, by virtue of the final judgment or decree, of a competent tribunal of civil or criminal jurisdiction; or the final order of such a tribunal, made in a special proceeding, instituted for any cause, except to punish him for a contempt; or by virtue of an execution or other process, issued upon such a judgment, decree, or final order.

From Id., § 22.

§ 2017. [Am'd, 1895.] How and to whom application for habeas corpus or certiorari made.

Application for the writ must be made, by a written petition, signed, either by the person for whose relief it is intended, or by some person in his behalf, to either of the following courts or officers:

1. The supreme court, at a special term or the appellate division thereof, where the prisoner is detained within the judicial district within which the term is held.

2. A justice of the supreme court, in any part of the State.

3. An officer authorized to perform the duties of a justice of the supreme court at chambers, being or residing within the county,[1] where the prisoner is detained; or, if there is no such officer within that city or county, capable of acting, or, if all those who are capable of acting and authorized to grant the writ, are absent, or have refused to grant it, then to an officer, authorized to perform those duties, residing in an adjoining county.

From Id., § 23. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2018. Application in another county; proof required.

Where application for either writ is made as prescribed in subdivision third of the last section, without the county where the prisoner is detained, the officer must require proof, by the oath of the person applying, or by other sufficient evidence, of the facts which authorize him to act as therein prescribed; and if a judge in that county, authorized to grant the writ, is said to be incapable of acting, the cause of the incapacity must be specially set forth. If such proof is not produced, the application must be denied.

From 2 R. S. 563, § 24.

§ 2019. Contents of petition.

The petition must be verified by the oath of the petitioner, to the effect that he believes it to be true; and must state, in substance:

1. That the person in whose behalf the writ is applied for, is imprisoned, or restrained in his liberty; the place where, unless it is unknown, and the officer or person by whom, he is so imprisoned or restrained, naming both parties, if their names are known, and describing either party, whose name is unknown.

[1] When this section was amended by L. 1895, c. 946, the words "city or," preceding this word "county," were omitted, apparently by mistake.

2. That he has not been committed, and is not detained, by virtue of any judgment, decree, final order, or process, specified in section 2016 of this act.

3. The cause or pretence of the imprisonment or restraint, according to the best knowledge and belief of the petitioner.

4. If the imprisonment or restraint is by virtue of a mandate, a copy thereof must be annexed to the petition; unless the petitioner avers, either, that by reason of the removal or concealment of the prisoner before the application, a demand of such a copy could not be made, or that such a demand was made, and the legal fees for the copy were tendered to the officer or other person, having the prisoner in his custody, and that the copy was refused.

5. If the imprisonment is alleged to be illegal, the petition must state in what the alleged illegality consists.

6. It must specify whether the petitioner applies for the writ of habeas corpus, or for the writ of certiorari.

From Id., § 25.

§ 2020. When writ must be granted; penalty for refusing.

A court or a judge, authorized to grant either writ, must grant it without delay, whenever a petition therefor is presented, as prescribed in the foregoing sections of this article, unless it appears, from the petition itself, or the documents annexed thereto, that the petitioner is prohibited by law from prosecuting the writ. For a violation of this section, a judge, or, if the application was made to a court, each member of the court, who assents to the violation, forfeits to the prisoner one thousand dollars, to be recovered by an action in his name, or in the name of the petitioner to his use.

From Id., §§ 26, 31.

§ 2021. [Am'd, 1895.] Form of writ of habeas corpus.

The writ of habeas corpus, issued as prescribed in this article, must be substantially in the following form, the blanks being properly filled up:

"The People of the State of New York,
To the Sheriff of," etc. (or "to A. B.")

"We command you, that you have the body of C. D., by you imprisoned and detained, as it is said, together with the time and cause of such imprisonment and detention, by whatsoever name the said C. D. is called or charged, before .....", ("the supreme court, at a special term or term of the appellate division thereof, to be held", or "E. F., justice of the supreme court", or otherwise, as the case may be) "at ..... on ....." [or "immediately after the receipt of this writ",] "to do and receive what shall then and there be considered, concerning the said C. D. And have you then there this writ.

"Witness, ..., one of the justices" (or "judges") "of the said court", (or "county judge", or otherwise, as the case may be,) "the ..... day of ....., in the year eighteen hundred and .....".

From Id., § 27. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2022. [Am'd, 1895.] Form of writ of certiorari.

The writ of certiorari, issued as prescribed in this article, must be substantially in the following form, the blanks being properly filled up:

"The People of the State of New York,
To the Sheriff of," etc. (or "to A. B.")

"We command you, that you certify fully and at large, to .....", ("the supreme court, at a special term or term of the appellate division thereof, to be held", or "E. F., justice of the supreme court", or otherwise, as the case may be,) "at ....., on .....", [or "immediately after the receipt of this writ",] "the day and cause of the imprisonment of C. D., by you detained, as it is said, by whatsoever name the said C. D. is called or charged. And have you then there this writ".

"Witness, ..., one of the justices", (or "judges") "of the said court", (or "county judge," or otherwise, as the case may be,) "the ..... day of ....., in the year eighteen hundred and .....".

From 2 R. S. 565, § 28. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2023. When writ returnable before another judge.

If application for either writ is made to the supreme court, or to a justice thereof, in a county other than that where the person is imprisoned or confined, the writ may be made returnable, in its or his discretion, before any judge authorized to grant it, in the county of the imprisonment or confinement.

From L. 1837, c. 240, § 1.

§ 2024. When writ sufficient.

The writ of habeas corpus or the writ of certiorari shall not be disobeyed, for any defect of form, and particularly in either of the following cases:

1. If the person having the custody of the prisoner, is designated, either by his name of office, if he has one, or by his own name; or, if both names are unknown or uncertain, by an assumed appellation. Any person upon whom the writ is served, is deemed to be the person to whom it is directed, although it is directed to him by a wrong name or description, or to another person.

2. If the prisoner directed to be produced, is designated by name, or otherwise described in any way, so as to be identified as the person intended.

From 2 R. S. 565, § 29.

§ 2025. When writ to issue without application.

Where a justice of the supreme court, in court or out of court, has evidence, in a judicial proceeding taken before him, that any person is illegally imprisoned or restrained in his liberty, within the State; or where any other judge, authorized by this article to grant the writs, has evidence, in like manner, that any person is thus imprisoned or restrained, within the county where the judge resides; he must issue a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, for the relief of that person, although no application therefor has been made.

From Id., § 30.

§ 2026. Return; its contents.

The person upon whom either writ has been duly served, must state, plainly and unequivocally, in his return:

1. Whether or not, at the time when the writ was served, or at any time theretofore or thereafter, he had in his custody, or under his power or restraint, the person for whose relief the writ was issued.

2. If he so had that person, when the writ was served, and still has him, the authority and true cause of the imprisonment or restraint, setting it forth at length. If the prisoner is detained by virtue of a mandate, or other written authority, a copy thereof must be annexed to the return, and, upon the return of the writ, the original must be produced, and exhibited to the court or judge.

3. If he so had the prisoner at any time, but has transferred the custody or restraint of him to another, the return must conform to the return required by the second subdivision of this section, except that the substance of the mandate or other written authority may be given, if the original is no longer in his hands; and that the return must state particularly to whom, at what time, for what cause, and by what authority, the transfer was made.

The return must be signed by the person making it, and, unless he is a sworn public officer, and makes his return in his official capacity, it must be verified by his oath.

From 2 R. S. 566, § 32.

§ 2027. Habeas corpus; body of prisoner to be produced, unless, etc.

The person, upon whom a writ of habeas corpus has been duly served, must also bring up the body of the prisoner in his custody, according to the command of the writ; unless he states, in his return, that the prisoner is so sick or infirm, that the production of him would endanger his life or his health.

From Id., §§ 33, 49.

§ 2028. Proceedings on disobedience of writ.

Where a person, who has been duly served with either writ, refuses or neglects, without sufficient cause shown by him, fully to obey it, as prescribed in the last two sections, the court or judge, before which or whom it is made returnable, upon proof of the due service thereof, must forthwith issue a warrant of attachment, directed generally to the sheriff of any county where the delinquent may be found, or, if the delinquent is a sheriff, to any coroner of his county, or to a particular person specially appointed to execute the warrant, and designated therein; commanding such officer or other person forthwith to apprehend the delinquent, and bring him before the court or judge. Upon the delinquent being so brought up, an order must be made, committing him to close custody in the jail of the county in which the court or judge is; or, if he is a sheriff, in the jail of a county, other than his own, designated in the order; and, in either case, without being allowed the liberties of the jail. The order must direct that he stand committed, until he makes return to the writ, and complies with any order, which may be made by the court or judge, in relation to the person for whose relief the writ was issued.

From Id., §§ 34, 35.

§ 2029. Id.; precept to bring up prisoner.

The court or judge may also, in its or his discretion, at the time when the warrant of attachment is issued, or afterwards, issue a precept to the sheriff, coroner, or other person, to whom the warrant is directed, commanding him forthwith to bring before the court or judge the person for whose benefit the writ was granted, who must thereafter remain in the custody of the officer or person executing the precept, until discharged, bailed, or remanded, as the court or judge directs.

From 2 R. S. 567, § 36.

§ 2030. Id.; power of county may be called.

The sheriff, coroner, or other person, to whom a warrant of attachment or precept is directed, as prescribed in either of the /ast two sections, may, in the execution thereof, call to his aid the power of the county, as the sheriff may do, in the execution of a mandate issued from a court of record.

From Id., § 37.

§ 2031. Proceedings on return of habeas corpus.

The court or judge, before which or whom the prisoner is brought by virtue of a writ of habeas corpus, issued as prescribed in this article, must, immediately after the return of the writ, examine into the facts alleged in the return, and into the cause of the imprisonment or restraint of the prisoner; and must make a final order to discharge him therefrom, if no lawful cause for the imprisonment or restraint, or for the continuance thereof, is shown; whether the same was upon a commitment for an actual or supposed criminal matter, or for some other cause.

From Id., §§ 38, 39.

§ 2032. [Am'd, 1909.] When prisoner to be remanded.

The court or judge must forthwith make a final order to remand the prisoner, if it appears that he is detained in custody for either of the following causes, and that the time for which he may legally be so detained has not expired:

1. By virtue of a mandate issued by a court or a judge of the United States, in a case where such courts or judges have exclusive jurisdiction.

2. By virtue of the final judgment or decree of a competent tribunal, of civil or criminal jurisdiction; or the final order of such a tribunal, made in a special proceeding, instituted for any cause, except to punish him for a contempt; or by virtue of an execution or other process, issued upon such a judgment, decree, or final order.

3. For a criminal contempt, defined in section 750 of the Judiciary Law, and specially and plainly charged in a commitment, made by a court, officer, or body, having authority to commit for the contempt so charged.

From Id., § 40. Am'd by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 2033. When to be discharged in civil cases.

If it appears upon the return, that the prisoner is in custody by virtue of a mandate in a civil cause, he can be discharged, only in one of the following cases:

1. Where the jurisdiction of the court which, or of the officer who, issued the mandate, has been exceeded, either as to matter, place, sum, or person.

2. Where, although the original imprisonment was lawful, yet by some act, omission, or event, which has taken place afterwards, the prisoner has become entitled to be discharged.

3. Where the mandate is defective in a matter of substance required by law, rendering it void.

4. Where the mandate, although in proper form, was issued in a case not allowed by law.

5. Where the person, having the custody of the prisoner under the mandate, is not the person empowered by law to detain him.

6. Where the mandate is not authorized by a judgment, decree, or order of a court, or by a provision of law.

From 2 R. S. 568, § 41.

§ 2034. The last section qualified.

But a court or judge, upon the return of a writ issued as prescribed in this article, shall not inquire into the legality or justice of any mandate, judgment, decree, or final order, specified in the last section but one, except as therein stated.

From Id., § 42.

§ 2035. Proceedings on irregular commitment.

If it appears that the prisoner has been legally committed for a criminal offence, or if he appears, by the testimony offered with the return, or upon the hearing thereof, to be guilty of such an offence, although the commitment is irregular, the court or judge, before which or whom he is brought, must forthwith make a final order, to discharge him upon his giving bail, if the case is bailable; or, if it is not bailable, to remand him. Where bail is given pursuant to an order, made as prescribed in this section, the proceedings are the same as upon the return to a writ of certiorari, where it appears that the prisoner is entitled to be bailed.

From Id., § 43.

§ 2036. Id.; when prisoner may be committed to another officer.

Where a prisoner is not entitled to his discharge, and is not bailed, he must be remanded to the custody, or placed under the restraint, from which he was taken, unless the person, in whose custody or under whose restraint he was, is not lawfully entitled thereto; in which case, the order remanding him must commit him to the custody of the officer or person so entitled.

From Id., § 44.

§ 2037. Custody of prisoner pending the proceedings.

Pending the proceedings, and before a final order is made upon the return, the court or judge, before which or whom the prisoner is brought, may either commit him to the custody of the sheriff of the county wherein the proceedings are pending, or place him in such care or custody, as his age and other circumstances require.

From Id., § 45.

§ 2038. Notice to person interested in detention.

Where it appears, from the return to either writ, that the prisoner is in custody by virtue of a mandate, an order for his discharge shall not be made, until notice of the time when, and the place where, the writ is returnable, or to which the hearing has been adjourned, as the case may be, has been either personally served, eight days previously, or given in such other manner, and for such previous length of time, as the court or judge prescribes, as follows:

1. Where the mandate was issued or made in a civil action or special proceeding, to the person who has an interest in continuing the imprisonment or restraint, or his attorney.

2. In every other case, to the district attorney of the county, within which the prisoner was detained, at the time when the writ was served.

For the purpose of an appeal, the person to whom notice is given, as prescribed in the first subdivision of this section, becomes a party to the special proceeding.

From Id., §§ 46, 47; L. 1837, c. 240, § 2.

§ 2039. Prisoner may controvert return; proofs thereupon.

A prisoner, produced upon the return of a writ of habeas corpus may, under oath, deny any material allegation of the return, or make any allegation of fact, showing either that his imprisonment or detention is unlawful, or that he is entitled to his discharge. Thereupon the court or judge must proceed, in a summary way, to hear the evidence, produced in support of or against the imprisonment or detention, and to dispose of the prisoner as the justice of the case requires.

From 2 R. S. 569, § 48.

§ 2040. Proceedings upon sickness, etc., of prisoner.
Where the return to a writ of habeas corpus states that the prisoner is so sick or infirm, that the production of him would endanger his life or health, and the return is otherwise sufficient, the court or judge, if satisfied of the truth of that statement, must decide upon the return, and dispose of the matter, as if a writ of certiorari had been issued.
From Id., § 49.

§ 2041. When certiorari to issue on application for habeas corpus.
Where an application is made for a writ of habeas corpus, as prescribed in this article, and it appears to the court or judge, upon the petition and the documents annexed thereto, that the cause or offence, for which the party is imprisoned or detained, is not bailable, a writ of certiorari may be granted, instead of a writ of habeas corpus, as if the application had been made for the former writ.
From Id., § 50.

§ 2042. Proceedings upon its return.
Upon the return to such a writ of certiorari, the court or judge, before which or whom it is returnable, must proceed as upon a return to a writ of habeas corpus, and must hear the proofs of the parties, in support of and against the return.
From Id., § 51.

§ 2043. [Am'd, 1913.] Id.; when discharge to be granted; when proceedings to cease.
If it appears, that the prisoner is unlawfully imprisoned or restrained in his liberty, the court or judge must make a final order, discharging him forthwith. If it appears that he is lawfully imprisoned or detained, and is not entitled to be bailed, the court or judge must make a final order, dismissing the proceedings.
A final order made in a proceeding brought on behalf of a person imprisoned or detained in any of the state hospitals mentioned in section forty of the insanity law or in the Matteawan State Hospital or in the Dannemora hospital for insane convicts, shall be conclusive evidence, upon a hearing of any subsequent proceeding involving the detention of the same person, of all the facts determined by the court, unless such final order shall otherwise specify.
From Id., § 52. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 544 (in effect May 15, 1913).

§ 2044. When certiorari does not prevent habeas corpus.
Notwithstanding a writ of certiorari has been issued or returned, as prescribed in this article, the court or judge, before which or whom it is returnable, may issue a writ of habeas corpus, which is, in all respects, subject to the foregoing provisions of this article, relating to the latter writ. If the court or judge refuses a writ of certiorari, or, upon the return thereof, refuses to discharge the prisoner, the latter may claim, and is entitled to, the writ of habeas corpus, as prescribed in this article.
From Id., § 53.

§ 2045. Bail on certiorari; when and how ordered.
If, upon the return to a writ of certiorari, issued as prescribed in this article, it appears, that the person imprisoned or detained is entitled to be bailed, the court or judge must make a final order, fixing the sum in which he is to be admitted to bail; specifying the court, and the term thereof, at which he is required to appear; and directing his discharge, upon bail being given accordingly, as required by law. If sufficient bail is immediately offered, the court or judge must take it; otherwise, bail may be given afterwards, as prescribed in the next section.

From Id., § 54.

§ 2046. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; by whom and how taken.

Upon the production of the order, or, if it was made by a court, of a certified copy thereof, to a justice of the supreme court, or to the county judge or special county judge of the county, where the prisoner is detained, the judge must take the recognizance of the prisoner, with two sureties, in the sum so fixed, conditioned for the appearance of the prisoner, as prescribed in the order. Each person, offering himself as a surety, must show, by his oath, to the satisfaction of the judge, that he is a householder in the county, and worth twice the sum in which he is required to be bound, over and above all demands against him. It is not necessary, that the prisoner should appear in person before the judge, to acknowledge the recognizance; but it may be acknowledged by the prisoner, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county.

§ 2047. Discharge of prisoner bailed.

The judge must immediately file the recognizance with the clerk of the court, before which the prisoner is bound to appear. He must also make a certificate upon the order, or the certified copy thereof, to the effect that it has been complied with. Upon production of the certificate, the prisoner is entitled to his discharge from imprisonment, for any cause stated in the return to the certiorari.

From 2 R. S. 570, § 56.

§ 2048. Order substituted for writ of discharge; service and effect thereof.

The writ of discharge is abolished. A final order to discharge a prisoner, made as prescribed in this article, may be served in like manner as an injunction order, and when so served, it may be enforced in the same manner as a final judgment in a civil action, except where special provision for its enforcement is otherwise made in this act. Where such an order directs a discharge, upon giving bail, the service thereof is not complete until service of the certificate, or other proof prescribed by law, showing that bail has been given, as required thereby.

New.

§ 2049. Enforcing order for discharge; penalty, etc.

Obedience to a final order to discharge a prisoner, made as prescribed in this article, may be enforced by the court which, or the judge who, made the same, by attachment, as for a neglect to make a return to a writ of habeas corpus, and with like effect. A person guilty of such disobedience forfeits, to the prisoner aggrieved, one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to the damages which the latter sustains.

From 2 R. S. 570, § 57.

§ 2050. When prisoner discharged not to be re-imprisoned; when he may be.

A prisoner, who has been discharged by a final order, made upon a writ of habeas corpus or certiorari, issued as prescribed in this article, shall not be again imprisoned, restrained, or kept in custody, for the same cause. But it is not deemed to be the same cause, in either of the following cases:

1. Where he has been discharged from a commitment on a criminal charge; and is afterwards committed for the same offence, by the lawful order or other mandate of the court, wherein he was bound by recognizance to appear, or in which he has been indicted or convicted for the same offence.

2. Where he has been discharged, in a criminal cause, for defect of proof, or for a material defect in the commitment; and is afterwards arrested on sufficient proof, and committed by a lawful mandate, for the same offence.

3. Where he has been discharged, in a civil action or special proceeding, for an illegality in the judgment, final order, or other mandate, as prescribed in this article; and is afterwards imprisoned, by virtue of a lawful judgment, final order, or other mandate, for the same cause of action.

4. Where he has been discharged, in a civil action or special proceeding from imprisonment by virtue of an order of arrest; and is afterwards taken in execution, or other final process, in the same action or special proceeding, or arrested in another action or special proceeding, after the first was discontinued.

From 1., § 59.

§ 2051. Penalty for violating the last section.

If a court, or judge, or any other person, in the execution of a judgment, order, or other mandate, or otherwise, knowingly violates, causes to be violated, or assists in the violation of, the last section, he, or if the act or omission was that of a court, each member of the court assenting thereto, forfeits, to the prisoner aggrieved, one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars. He is also guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by fine, not exceeding one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment, not exceeding six months, or by both, in the discretion of the court.

From id., §§ 60, 64.

§ 2052. Id.; for concealing prisoner, etc., to avoid writ.

Any one, having in his custody, or under his power, a person entitled to a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, as prescribed in this article, or a person for whose relief a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari has been duly issued, as prescribed in this article, who, with intent to elude the service of the writ, or to avoid the effect thereof, transfers the prisoner to the custody, or places him under the power or control, of another, or conceals him, or changes the place of his confinement, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as specified in the last section.

From id., §§ 61, 62, 64.

§ 2053. Id.; for aiding, etc.

A person who knowingly assists in the violation of the last section, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished as specified in the last section but one.

From id., § 63.

From Id., § 65.

§ 2055. When offender to be arrested.

Where the proof, specified in the last section, is also sufficient to justify an arrest of the person having the prisoner in his custody, as for a criminal offence, committed in taking or detaining him, the warrant must also contain a direction to arrest that person, for the offence.

From Id., § 66.

§ 2056. Execution of warrant; proceedings to relieve prisoner.

The officer or other person, to whom the warrant is directed and delivered, must execute it by bringing the prisoner therein named, and also, if so commanded in the warrant, the person who detains him, before the court or judge issuing it; and thereupon the person detaining the prisoner must make a return, in like manner, and the like proceedings must be taken, as if a writ of habeas corpus had been issued in the first instance.

From Id., § 67.

§ 2057. Id.; proceedings to punish offender.

If the person, having the prisoner in his custody, is brought before the court or judge, as for a criminal offence, he is entitled to be examined, and must be committed, bailed, or discharged, by the court or judge, as in any other criminal case of the same nature.

From Id., § 68.

§ 2058. When appeal may be taken in cases under this article.

An appeal may be taken from an order refusing to grant a writ of habeas corpus, or a writ of certiorari, as prescribed in this article, or from a final order, made upon the return of such a writ, to discharge or remand a prisoner, or to dismiss the proceedings. Where a final order is made, to discharge a prisoner, upon his giving bail, an appeal therefrom may be taken, before bail is given; but where the appeal is taken by the people, the discharge of the prisoner upon bail shall not be stayed thereby. An appeal does not lie, from an order of the court or judge, before which or whom the writ is made returnable, except as prescribed in this section.

From Id., § 69.

§ 2059. Id.; by people.

An appeal from a final order, discharging a prisoner committed upon a criminal accusation, or from the affirmance of such an order, may be taken, in the name of the people, by the attorney-general or the district-attorney.

From Id., §§ 70, 71.

§ 2060. Prisoner who appeals may be admitted to bail.

Where a prisoner, who stands charged, upon a criminal accusation, with a bailable offence, has perfected, or intends to take, an appeal from a final order dismissing the proceedings, remanding him, or otherwise refusing to discharge him, made as prescribed in this article, the court or judge, upon his application, either before or after the final order, must, upon such notice to the district-attorney as the court or judge thinks proper, make an order, fixing the sum in which the applicant shall be admitted to bail, pending the appeal; and thereupon, when his appeal is perfected, he must be admitted to bail accordingly.

From L. 1873, c. 663, § 1.

§ 2061. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; recognizance, etc.

The recognizance for that purpose must be conditioned, that the prisoner will appear, at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court to be held at a time and place designated in the order, and abide by and perform the judgment of[1] order of the appellate court. It must be taken and approved by a justice of the supreme court, or by the court or judge from whose order the appeal is taken, or by the county judge of the county in which the order was made. In all other respects, the proceedings are the same as prescribed in this article, where it appears, upon the return of a writ of certiorari, that the prisoner is entitled to be admitted to bail.

From Id. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2062. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; on appeal to court of appeals.

Where a prisoner, who stands charged with an offence, specified in the last section, has perfected an appeal, to the court of appeals, from a final order of the supreme court, affirming an order refusing his discharge, or reversing an order granting his discharge; the court, from whose order the appeal is taken, or a judge thereof, must, upon his application, admit him to bail, as prescribed in the last section; except that the recognizance must be conditioned to appear, at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court from which the appeal is taken, to abide by and perform its judgment or order, made after the determination of the appeal.

§ 2063. Custody of prisoner until he gives bail.

Where the sum, in which a prisoner shall be admitted to bail, has been fixed, as prescribed in either of the last two sections, he must remain in the custody of the sheriff of the county in which he then is, until he is admitted to bail, as therein prescribed; or, if he does not give the requisite bail, until the time to appeal has expired or the appeal is disposed of, and the further direction of the court, made thereupon.

From L. 1873, c. 663, § 1.

[1] So in the original ("of" for "or").

§ 2064. [Am'd, 1895.] Recognizance valid for adjourned terms.

Where no order or other direction of the court, relating to the disposition of the prisoner, is made at the term specified in a recognizance, given as prescribed in section 2061 or section 2062 of this act, the matter is deemed adjourned, without an order to that effect, to the next term of the appellate division of the supreme court, to be held in the same department; and thereafter to each successive term, until such an order or direction is made. The prisoner is bound to attend at each successive term of the appellate division; and the recognizance is valid for his attendance accordingly, without any notice or other formal proceedings.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2065. Penalty for refusing copy of process, etc.

An officer or other person, who detains any one by virtue of a mandate, or other written authority, must; upon reasonable demand, and tender of his fees, deliver a copy thereof to any person who applies therefor, for the purpose of procuring a writ of habeas corpus or a writ of certiorari, in behalf of the prisoner. If he knowingly refuses so to do, he forfeits two hundred dollars to the prisoner.

From 2 R. S. 573, § 72.

§ 2066. Application of this article to other writs of habeas corpus.

Except as otherwise expressly prescribed by statute, the provisions of this article apply to and regulate the proceedings upon every common law or statutory writ of habeas corpus, as far as they are applicable; and the authority of a court or a judge, to grant such a writ, or to proceed thereupon, by statute or the common law, must be exercised in conformity to this article, in any case therein provided for.

From Id., §§ 78, 86.

2090. Fine in certain cases.

§ 2067. [Am'd, 1913.] Kinds of writ; how alternative writ granted.

A writ of mandamus is either alternative or peremptory. The alternative writ may be granted upon an affidavit, or other written proof, showing a proper case therefor. Previous notice of the application must be given to a judge of the court, or to the corporation board, or other body, officer, or other person to which or to whom it is directed.

New. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 574 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2068. [Am'd, 1895.] When writ granted at special term.

Except where special provision therefor is otherwise made in this article, a writ of mandamus can be granted only at a special term of the supreme court held within the judicial district embracing the county, wherein an issue of fact, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus is triable, as prescribed in this article.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2069. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; at term of the appellate division of the supreme court.

A writ of mandamus may be granted, at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court only, directed generally to any judge holding, or to hold, a special term of the same court, or directed to one or more judges of the same court named therein, in any case where such a writ may be issued out of the supreme court, directed to any other court, or to a judge thereof. Such a writ can be granted only at a term of the appellate division of the judicial department embracing the county, wherein the action is triable, or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter sought to be enforced by the mandamus originated, unless that term is not in session; in which case, it may be granted at a term of the appellate division of an adjoining judicial department.

§ 2070. [Am'd, 1895.] When peremptory mandamus to issue in first instance.

A peremptory writ of mandamus may be issued, in the first instance, where the applicant's right to the mandamus depends only upon questions of law, and notice of the application has been given to a judge of the court, or to the corporation, board, or other body, officer, or other person, to which or to whom it is directed. The notice must be served, at least eight days before the application is heard; unless a shorter time is prescribed by an order to show cause, made, where the application is to the special term, by the court, or a judge thereof; or where the application is to the appellate division, by the appellate division, or a justice of the appellate division of that judicial department. In such a case the application must be founded upon affidavits, or other written proofs, a copy of which must be served with the notice, or order to show cause. Where the court, board or other body to be served, consists of three or more members, the notice or order to show cause, and the papers upon which the application is to be made, may be served, as prescribed in the next section for service of an alternative writ of mandamus. Except as prescribed in this section, or by special provision of law, a peremptory mandamus cannot be issued, until an alternative mandamus has been issued and duly served, and the return day thereof has elapsed.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2071. Alternative writ; how served.

An alternative writ of mandamus must be served, by showing the original writ, and delivering a copy thereof, to the person to be served. Where it is directed to a court, or to the judge or judges of a court, it must be served, either in term time or in vacation, upon the judge or judges of the court; except that, where the court consists of three or more judges, service upon a majority of them is sufficient. Where it is to be served upon a board or body, other than a corporation, service must be made upon a majority of the members thereof, unless the board or body was created by law, and has a chairman or other presiding officer, appointed pursuant to law; in which case, service upon him is sufficient. Where the writ is to be served upon a corporation, service thereof may be made upon any officer, upon whom a summons, issued out of the supreme court, may be served. Where one or more of the persons, upon whom to make service, as prescribed in this section, cannot, after due diligence, be found, the exhibition of the original writ may be dispensed with, and service may be made upon him or them, as prescribed by law for the service of a summons, issued out of the supreme court.

New.

§ 2072. [Am'd, 1895.] Writ; how returnable.

An alternative writ must be made returnable twenty days after the service thereof, at the office of the clerk of the county, designated therein, in which an issue of fact joined thereupon is triable. A peremptory writ must be made returnable at a special term or a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, designated therein, to which application for the alternative writ might have been made.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2073. Return or demurrer to first writ.

Where the first writ of mandamus has been duly served, a return must be made to the same, as therein required, unless it is an alternative writ, and a demurrer thereto is taken. In default of a return, the person or persons, upon whom the writ was served, may be punished, upon the application of the people, or of the relator, for a contempt of court.

From 2 R. S. 586 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 2), § 54.

§ 2074. [Am'd, 1895.] Return, how made.

The return to an alternative writ of mandamus must be annexed to a copy of the writ; and must be filed, in the office of the clerk, where it is returnable, within the time specified in the writ. The return to a peremptory writ of mandamus must be likewise annexed to a copy thereof; and must, before the expiration of the first day of the term at which it is returnable, be either delivered in open court, or filed in the office of the clerk of the county wherein the term is to be held.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2075. Motion to set aside writ.

An alternative writ of mandamus cannot be quashed or set aside upon motion, for any matter involving the merits. A motion to set aside such a writ, for any other cause, or to set aside or quash a peremptory writ of mandamus, or to set aside the service of either writ, must be made at a term, whereat the writ might have been granted.

New.

§ 2076. Contents of alternative writ; demurrer thereto.

The statement, contained in an alternative writ of mandamus, of the facts constituting the grievance, to redress which it is issued; the joinder therein of two or more such grievances; and the command of the writ, are subject to the provisions of chapter sixth of this act, respecting the statement, in a complaint, of the facts constituting a cause of action; the joinder therein of two or more causes of action; and the demand of judgment thereupon. The person, upon whom the writ is served, instead of making a return thereto, may file in the office where the writ is returnable, a demurrer to the writ; or he may file a demurrer to a complete statement of facts contained in the writ, as constituting a separate grievance, and make a return to the remainder of the writ. A demurrer may be thus taken, in a case where a defendant may demur to a complaint, or to a cause of action separately stated in a complaint, as prescribed in chapter sixth of this act; and it must be in like form.

New.

§ 2077. Form and contents of return.

The provisions of chapter sixth of this act, relating to the form and contents of an answer, containing denials and allegations of new matter, except those provisions which relate to the verification of an answer, and to a counterclaim contained therein, apply to a return to an alternative writ of mandamus, showing cause against obeying the command of the writ. For the purpose of the application, each complete statement of facts, assigning a cause why the command of the writ ought not to be obeyed, is regarded as a separate defence, and must be separately stated, and numbered.

New.

§ 2078. Further return cannot be compelled; demurrer to return.

A person, who has made a return to an alternative mandamus, cannot be compelled to make a further return. The people, or the relator, may demur to the return, or to any complete statement of facts, therein separately assigned as a cause for disobeying the command of the writ, on the ground that the same is insufficient in law, upon the face thereof.

New.

§ 2079. Issue of fact; when it arises.

An issue of fact arises upon a denial, contained in the return, of a material allegation of the writ, or upon a material allegation of new matter, contained in a return; unless a demurrer thereto is taken. Where the people or the relator demur to a complete statement of facts, separately assigned as cause for disobeying the command of the writ, an issue of fact arises, with respect to the remainder of the return.

New.

§ 2080. Application of certain provisions of chapter sixth.

Oral pleadings upon a writ of mandamus are abolished, and no pleadings are allowed, except as prescribed in the foregoing sections of this article. The provisions of title second of chapter sixth of this act apply to the writ and the return; except that it is not necessary to serve a copy of either, upon the attorney for the adverse party, or to verify either, and that neither can be amended, without special application to the court, or stricken out as sham.

New.

§ 2081. Service of notice of filing return, and demurrer.

Where a return to an alternative writ of mandamus has been filed, the attorney for the defendant making it must serve, upon the attorney for the people or the relator, a notice of the filing thereof. Where the people or the relator demur to the return, or to a part thereof, a copy of the demurrer must be served upon the attorney for the defendant, within twenty days after the service of such a notice. Where the defendant demurs to the writ, or to a part thereof, a copy of the demurrer must be served upon the attorney for the people or the relator, within the time prescribed by law for filing it.

New.

§ 2082. Subsequent proceedings the same as in an action.

Except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this act, the proceedings, after issue is joined, upon the facts or upon the law, are, in all respects, the same as in an action; and each provision of this act, relating to the proceedings in an action, apply thereto. For the purpose of the application, the writ, the return, and the demurrer are deemed to be pleadings in an action; and the final order is deemed to be a final judgment, and may be entered and docketed, and enforced, with respect to such parts thereof as are not enforced by a peremptory mandamus, as a final judgment in an action. But before the final order can be docketed, or an execution issued thereupon, an enrollment must be filed thereupon, as a judgment-roll in an action. For that purpose, the clerk must attach together and file in his office, a certified copy of the final order; the writ and the return, or copies thereof; together with the same papers, which are required by law to be incorporated into a judgment-roll in an action. Where the final order is in favor of the people or the relator, it must award a peremptory mandamus, to be forthwith issued.

From 2 R. S. 586 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 2), §§ 55, 57; Co. Proc., § 471.

§ 2083. Issue of fact; how triable.

An issue of fact, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus, must be tried by a jury, as if it was an issue joined in an action specified in section 968 of this act; unless a jury trial is waived, or a reference is directed by consent of parties. Where the writ was issued upon the relation of a private person, the relator or the defendant is entitled to a verdict, report or decision, where he would be entitled thereto, if the issue was joined in an action, brought by the relator against the defendant, to recover damages for making a false return.

From 2 R. S. 586, § 55.

§ 2084. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; where triable.

An issue of fact, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus, granted at a special term of the supreme court, is triable in the county, wherein it is alleged in the writ, that the material facts took place, unless the court directs it to be tried elsewhere. An issue of fact, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus, granted at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, is triable in the county, which determines the judicial department wherein the application for the writ must be made; unless the appellate division directs it to be tried in another county of the same judicial department. Upon the trial of an issue of fact, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus, the verdict, report or decision must be returned to, and the final order thereupon must be made by, the appellate division or the special term, as the case requires.

From Id., § 56. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2085. [Am'd, 1895.] Issue of law upon appellate division mandamus; how and where triable.

An issue of law, joined upon an alternative writ of mandamus, granted by the appellate division, must be tried, and the final order thereupon must be made, by the appellate division.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2086. [Am'd, 1899.] Costs.

Where an alternative writ of mandamus has been issued, costs may be awarded, as in an action; except that, upon making a final order, the costs are in the discretion of the court. Where an application for a peremptory writ of mandamus is granted or denied, without a previous alternative mandamus, costs not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, may be awarded to either party, as upon a motion.

From L. 1883, c. 271, § 6; L. 1854, c. 270, § 8. Am'd by L. 1899, c. 527 (in effect Sept. 1, 1899).

§ 2087. [Am'd, 1895, 1913.] Appeals.

An appeal from an order granting a peremptory writ of mandamus, where an alternative writ of mandamus was not previously issued, and an appeal from an order granting or denying an application for an alternative writ of mandamus, must be taken as from a final order made in a special proceeding. An appeal from a final order made upon an alternative mandamus, must be taken, as an appeal from a judgment; and each provision of law, relating to an appeal from a judgment, either to the appellate division or to the court of appeals, is applicable thereto. But where an appeal is taken, as prescribed in this section, from an order of the appellate division, granting a peremptory mandamus, made upon an original application, or from a final order, made upon an alternative mandamus, granted at the appellate division, the execution of the order appealed from shall not be stayed, except by the order of the same appellate division, made upon such terms, as to security or otherwise, as justice requires.

§ 2088. [Am'd, 1913.] When relator to recover damages.

Where a return has been made to an alternative writ of mandamus, issued upon the relation of a private person, the court, upon making a final order for a peremptory mandamus, must also, except where said writ is directed to a state officer or officers, or an officer or officers of a municipal or private corporation, if the relator so elects, award to the relator, against the defendant who made the return, the same damages, if any, which the relator might recover, in an action against that defendant, for a false return. The relator may require his damages where entitled thereto as aforesaid, to be assessed upon the trial of an issue of fact, if the verdict, report, or decision is in his favor. Such an assessment of damages bars an action for a false return.

From 2 R. S. 587 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 2), §§ 57, 58. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 574 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2089. [Am'd, 1895.] Stay of proceedings; enlargement of time.

The proceedings upon a writ of mandamus, granted at a special term, may be stayed, and the time for making a return, or for doing any other act thereupon, as prescribed in this article, may be enlarged, as in an action, by an order made by a judge of the court, but not by any other officer. Where the writ was granted at a term of the appellate division, an order staying the proceedings, or enlarging the time to make a return, can be made only by a justice of the appellate division of the same department; and where notice has been given of an application for a mandamus at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, or an order has been made to show cause, at such term, why a mandamus should not issue, a stay of proceedings shall not be granted, before the hearing, by any court or judge.

From Id., § 59; L. 1873, c. 70, § 3. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2090. Fine in certain cases.

Where a final order awards a peremptory mandamus, directed to a public officer, board, or other body, commanding him or them to perform a public duty, enjoined upon him or them by special provision of law, if it appears to the court, that the officer, or one or more members of the board or body, have, without just excuse, refused or neglected to perform the duty so enjoined, the court, besides awarding to the relator his damages and costs, as prescribed in this article, may, in the same order, impose a fine, not exceeding two hundred and fifty dollars, upon the officer, or upon each member of the board, who has so refused or neglected. The fine, when collected, must be paid into the treasury of the State; and the payment thereof bars any action for a penalty, incurred by the person so fined, by reason of his refusal or neglect to perform the duty so enjoined.

ARTICLE FIFTH.

The writ of prohibition.

Sec. 2091. Kinds of writ; how granted.
2092. When writ granted at special term.
2093. Id.; by the appellate division of the supreme court.
2094. Alternative writ must issue first; its contents.
2095. Id.; when returnable; how served.
2096. Absolute writ issues, unless return made.
2097. Legal objections, how taken; motion to quash or set aside writ.
2098. Return by party; proceedings when he adopts judge's return.
2099. Proceedings after return; trial by jury.
2100. Final order; costs.
2101. Appeals.
2102. Stay of proceedings; enlargement of time.

§ 2091. [Am'd, 1913.] Kinds of writ; how granted.

A writ of prohibition is either alternative or absolute. The alternative writ may be granted upon an affidavit, or other written proof, showing a proper case therefor. Previous notice of the application must be given to a judge of the court, or to the corporation board, or other body, officer, or other person to which or to whom it is directed.

From 2 R. S. 587 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 2), § 61. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 573 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2092. When writ granted at special term.

Except where special provision therefor is otherwise made in this article, an alternative writ of prohibition can be granted only at a special term of the court. In the supreme court, the special term must be one held within the judicial district, embracing the county, wherein the action is triable, or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter, sought to be prohibited by the writ, originated.

New.

§ 2093. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; by the appellate division of the supreme court.

An alternative writ of prohibition may be granted at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court only, directed generally to any judge holding, or to hold, a special term of the same court, or directed to one or more judges of the same court, named therein, in any case where such a writ may be issued out of the supreme court, directed to any other court, or to a judge thereof. Such a writ can be granted only at the term of the appellate division of the judicial department, embracing the county, wherein the action is triable, or the special proceeding is brought, in the course of which the matter, sought to be prohibited by the writ, originated, unless a term of the appellate division of said department is not in session; in which case, it may be granted at a term of the appellate division in an adjoining judicial department.

§ 2094. Alternative writ must issue first; its contents.

Except as otherwise specially prescribed by law, an absolute writ of prohibition cannot be issued, until an alternative writ has been issued and duly served, and the return day thereof has elapsed. The alternative writ must be directed to the court in which, or to the judge before whom, and also to the party in whose favor, the proceedings to be restrained were taken, or are about to be taken. It must command the court or judge, and also the party, to desist and refrain from any further proceedings in the action or special proceeding, or with respect to the particular matter or thing described therein, as the case may be, until the further direction of the court issuing the writ; and also to show cause, at the time when, and the place where, the writ is made returnable, why they should not be absolutely restrained from any further proceedings in that action, special proceeding, or matter. The writ need not contain any statement of the facts or legal objections, upon which the relator founds his claim to relief.

From 2 R. S. 587, § 61.

§ 2095. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; when returnable; how served.

The writ must be made returnable, either forthwith or at a day certain, before the term which granted it, or upon the first day of a future term, therein specified, at which application for the writ might have been made. Where it is granted at a term of the appellate division in a judicial department, adjoining that wherein the matter originated, it may, in the discretion of the court, be made returnable at a term of the appellate division of either department. The writ must be served on the court or judge, and also upon the party, as prescribed by law for the service of an alternative writ of mandamus. A copy of the papers, upon which it was granted, must be delivered with each copy of the writ.

From Id., § 61; L. 1873, c. 70, §§ 1, 4. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2096. [Am'd, 1895.] Absolute writ issues, unless return made.

Where the alternative writ has been duly served upon the court or judge, and upon the party, the relator is entitled to an absolute writ, unless a return is made by the court or judge, and by the party, according to the exigency of the alternative writ, or within such further time as may be granted for the purpose. The return must be annexed to a copy of the writ; and it must be either delivered in open court, or filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the writ is returnable. Where the party makes a return, the court or judge must also make a return. In default thereof, the judge, or the members of the court, may be punished, upon the application of the people or of the relator, for a contempt of the court issuing the writ. A return to an alternative writ of prohibition cannot be compelled in any other case.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2097. Legal objections, how taken; motion to quash or set aside writ.

An alternative writ of prohibition cannot be quashed or set aside, upon motion, for any matter involving the merits. An objection to the legal sufficiency of the papers, upon which the writ was granted, may be taken in the return. A motion to quash an absolute writ of prohibition, or to set aside an alternative writ, for any matter not involving the merits, must be made at a term where the writ might have been granted.

New.

§ 2098. Return by party; proceedings when he adopts judge's return.

A return to an alternative writ, when made by a party, must be verified by his affidavit, as required for the verification of a pleading in a court of record; unless it consists only of objections to the legal sufficiency of the papers upon which the writ was granted. Where the party unites with the court or judge in a return, or annexes, to the court's or the judge's return, an instrument in writing, subscribed by him, to the effect that he adopts it, and relies upon the matters therein contained, as sufficient cause why the court or judge should not be restrained, as mentioned in the writ, he is thenceforth deemed the sole defendant in the special proceeding; except that where a final order is made, awarding an absolute writ of prohibition, such a writ must be directed to the party, and also to the court or the judge.

From 2 R. S. 587, § 63.

§ 2099. [Am'd, 1895.] Proceedings after return; trial by jury.

Pleadings are not allowed upon a writ of prohibition. Where an alternative writ has been issued, the cause may be disposed of without further notice, at the term at which the writ is returnable. If it is not then disposed of, it may be brought to a hearing, upon notice, at a subsequent term. It must be heard at a term of the appellate division in the same judicial department, or at a special term held in the same judicial district, as the case may be. The relator may controvert, by affidavit, any allegation of new matter contained in the return. The court may direct the trial of any question of fact by a jury, in like manner and with like effect, as where an order is made for the trial, by a jury, of issues of fact, joined in an action triable by the court. Where such a direction is given, the proceedings must be the same, as upon the trial of issues so joined in an action.

From Id., § 64. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2100. Final order; costs.

Where a final order is made in favor of the relator, it must award an absolute writ of prohibition; and it may also direct that all proceedings, or any specified proceeding, theretofore taken in the action, special proceeding, or matter, as to which the prohibition absolute issues, be vacated and annulled. The writ of consultation is abolished. Where a final order is made against the relator, it must authorize the court or judge, and the adverse party, to proceed in the action, special proceeding, or matter, as if the alternative writ had not been issued. Costs, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, may be awarded to either party, as upon a motion.

From Id., §§ 63, 64, 65.

§ 2101. [Am'd, 1895, 1913.] Appeals.

An order granting or denying an application for an alternative writ of prohibition, and a final order, made as prescribed in the last section, can be reviewed only by appeal. Where the order was made by the appellate division, the execution of the order appealed from shall not be stayed, except by an order made at a term of the appellate division in the same department upon such terms as to security, or otherwise, as justice requires.

From L. 1873, c. 70, § 3. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 573 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2102. [Am'd, 1895.] Stay of proceedings; enlargement of time.

The proceedings upon a writ of prohibition, granted at a special term, may be stayed, and the time for making a return, or for doing any other act thereupon, as prescribed in this article, may be enlarged, as in an action, by an order made by the judge of the court, but not by any other officer. Where the writ was granted at a term of the appellate division, an order staying the proceedings, or enlarging the time to make a return, can be made only by a justice of the appellate division of the judicial department within which the writ is returnable; and where notice has been given of an application for a prohibition at a term of the appellate division, or an order has been made to show cause at such term, why a prohibition should not issue, a stay of proceedings shall not be granted, before the hearing, by any court or judge.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896). See § 2089, ante.

ARTICLE SIXTH.

The writ of assessment of damages.

Sec. 2103. Writ defined.
2104. Application therefor.
2105. When made by attorney-general or district-attorney.
2106. Writ; to whom directed.
2107. Contents of writ.
2108. Notice of execution.
2109. Jury; how procured.
2110. Juror to be sworn.
2111. Jury to make inquisition.
2112. Notice of application to court thereupon.
2113. Court may set aside inquisition.
2114. Order on confirming inquisition.
2115. State treasurer to pay damages, etc., to governor.
2116. Governor to pay damages into court.
2117. Investment of money so paid.
2118. How obtained by claimant.
2119. Taking lands by United States.

§ 2103. Writ defined.

The writ, heretofore known as the writ of ad quod damnum, shall hereafter be styled the writ of assessment of damages.

New.

§ 2104. Application therefor.

Whenever the governor of the State is authorized by law, to take possession of any real property within the State, for the use of the people of the State, and he cannot agree with the owner or owners thereof for its purchase, he may cause application to be made to the supreme court, at a special term thereof, for a writ of assessment of damages, which must be granted accordingly.

From 2 R. S. 588 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 2), § 66.

§ 2105. When made by attorney-general or district-attorney.

The attorney-general, or the district-attorney of the county in which the real property is situated, must, when the governor so directs, make the application, in the name of the governor; and must conduct the subsequent proceedings, under the governor's direction.

New.

§ 2106. Writ; to whom directed.

The writ must be directed to the sheriff of the county in which the real property to be taken is situated, unless the court directs the damages for the taking to be assessed by a jury of another county; in which case, the writ must be issued to the sheriff of the county, from which the jury is directed to be taken.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 66.

§ 2107. Contents of writ.

The writ must describe the real property to be taken, with the like certainty as is required in a complaint in an action of ejectment. It must command the sheriff, to whom it is directed, to inquire, by the oaths of twelve men of his county, qualified to act as trial jurors in a court of record, whether the owner or owners of the real property, or any of them, will sustain any damages by the taking thereof, for the use of the people of the State; and, if so, the amount thereof; and that he return the writ to the supreme court, without delay, with the finding of the jury thereupon.

From Id., § 67.

§ 2108. Notice of execution.

The sheriff, immediately after the delivery of the writ to him, must give notice of the time when, and the place where, the writ will be executed, by publishing the notice, once in each week, for at least three successive weeks, in a newspaper printed in his county.

From Id., § 68.

§ 2109. [Am'd, 1895.] Jury; how procured.

The sheriff must notify twelve men of his county, qualified to act as trial jurors in a court of record, to attend at the time and place, and for the purpose specified in the notice. Each juror must be notified, as a juror is notified to attend a trial term of the supreme court. Upon his failure to attend, when duly notified, his attendance may be compelled by attachment, and proceedings may be taken against him, and he may be punished thereupon, by the supreme court, as where a juror, duly notified, fails to attend at a trial term thereof. The sheriff may require the attendance of a talesman, in place of a juror notified and not appearing; or he may adjourn the proceedings, for the purpose of punishing the defaulting juror, or compelling his attendance.

From Id., § 69. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2110. Juror to be sworn.

When a jury has been procured, the sheriff must, before the jurors proceed to the inquiry commanded by the writ, administer to each of them an oath, that he will diligently inquire concerning the matters specified in the writ, and will give a true verdict, according to the best of his judgment, without favor or partiality.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 69.

§ 2111. Jury to make inquisition.

After being sworn as prescribed in the last section, the jury must view all the real property described in the writ, and consider the value thereof. They may, in the discretion of a majority of them, hear such testimony as may be offered by any person appearing, respecting the value. They must thereupon assess the damages, which the owner or owners of the real property will sustain, by being deprived thereof. When the real property consists of two or more distinct parcels, owned, or claimed to be owned, by different persons, the jury must assess separately the value of each distinct parcel, if the writ requires them so to do, or if a majority of them think proper so to do. If they cannot agree, after a reasonable time, the sheriff may discharge them, and publish a new notice, and procure a new jury. When the jurors have agreed, they must make an inquisition, stating the sum to be paid, by the people of the State, for taking each distinct parcel, or the whole, as the case requires. The inquisition must be signed by each juror, and by the sheriff; and the sheriff must immediately thereafter file the inquisition and the writ, with his return to the writ, in the office of the clerk of the county in which the real property is situated.

From Id., § 70.

§ 2112. Notice of application to court thereupon.

Within three months after the writ, and the return thereto with the inquisition thereupon, have been filed, as prescribed in the last section, the attorney-general, or district-attorney, having charge of the proceedings, must cause to be published, a notice, directed, generally, to all the owners and persons interested in the real property; describing the property, in general concise terms; stating when and where the writ, return, and inquisition were filed; and requiring the persons notified to show cause, at a special term of the supreme court, to be held at a time and at a place specified in the notice, why the inquisition should not be confirmed; or, if the governor so directs, why the inquisition should not be set aside. The notice must be published, at least once in each week, for three successive weeks, in a newspaper printed in the county, and also in the newspaper printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required to be published.

New.

§ 2113. Court may set aside inquisition.

At the time and place specified in the notice, the court must examine into the inquisition, and hear such allegations, and affidavits, or other written proofs, as may be presented in behalf of the people, or any owner, or person interested. If the court then, or at the time and place to which the matter is adjourned, determines that the inquisition is, in any respect, excessive, unjust, or otherwise materially defective, it may set aside the whole or any part thereof; and may direct that another writ issue, or another inquisition be taken, to supply the defects.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 71.

§ 2114. Order on confirming inquisition.

If it appears to the court, that the writ has been duly executed, an order must be made, and entered in the office of the clerk of the county, in which the real property to be taken is situated, declaring that the people of the State, upon paying into court the amount of the damages assessed by the inquisition, shall be entitled to an absolute estate in the real property described in the writ, and in the appurtenances belonging thereto.

From id., § 72.

§ 2115. State treasurer to pay damages, etc., to governor.

The State treasurer, on the warrant of the comptroller, must pay to the governor, out of any money in the treasury, appropriated for that purpose, sufficient money to pay the damages assessed, pursuant to the foregoing provisions of this article, and the costs and expenses of the proceedings.

From id., § 73; 1 R. S. 170, 177 (Part 1, c. 8, tit. 3 and tit. 4), § 1, subd. 9, and § 5.

§ 2116. Governor to pay damages into court.

Immediately after the receipt by the governor, as prescribed in the last section, of sufficient money to pay the damages, he must pay it into court; and thereupon the absolute title to the real property so to be taken, vests in the people of the State.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 72.

§ 2117. [Am'd, 1895.] Investment of money so paid.

If an application for the money paid into court is not made, as prescribed in the next section, within sixty days after the payment into court, the appellate division of the supreme court in that judicial department, may provide, by order, for the investment, under the direction of the court, of the money, and of the interest to arise therefrom, in permanent securities, for the benefit of the owners.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 74. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2118. [Am'd, 1895.] How obtained by claimant.

A person claiming to have been an owner of or interested in, the property, when it was so taken, may present to the appellate division of the supreme court, at a term thereof, held in the judicial department embracing the county, wherein the property is situated, a petition, praying for the payment to him of the whole or any part of the money so paid into court, or of the income remaining uninvested, or both; or for the transfer to him of the whole or any part of the securities, in which it has been invested. The court must thereupon take such measures, as it deems proper, to ascertain the rights and interests of the petitioner, and of all other persons, who were owners of or interested in the property, or who are personal representatives, or heirs, of owners or persons so interested, and to cause notice of the application to be given to those persons; and it must cause the money to be paid, or the securities to be transferred, to the several persons entitled thereto, in accordance with the rights and interests thus ascertained.

From 2 R. S. 588, §§ 74, 75. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2119. Taking lands by United States.

When the legislature of the State consents to the taking of any real property within the State, for the use of the people of the United States, a writ of assessment of damages may be issued; and the proceedings thereupon must be in accordance with the provisions of this article; except that the application for the writ must be made, and the subsequent proceedings must be conducted, by the attorney of the United States, for the district embracing the county wherein the real property is situated.

From 2 R. S. 588, § 76.

ARTICLE SEVENTH.

The writ of certiorari, to review the determination of an inferior tribunal.

Sec. 2120. Cases where writ may issue.
2121, 2122. Cases where it cannot issue.
2123. When issued from supreme court.
2124. When from another court.

2135. Id ; how compelled; fees for making.
2136. Id.; after term of office expired.
2137. When third person may be brought in.
2138. Hearing upon return.
2139. Id.; upon affidavits.
2140. Questions to be determined.
2141. Final order upon the hearing.
2142. Restitution may be awarded.
2143. Costs.
2144. Entry and enrollment of final order.
2145. Effect thereof.
2146. "Body or officer"; "determination"; what they include.
2147. Application of this article to certain special cases.
2148. Id.; to civil cases only.
2148a. Substitution by amendment of remedy by mandamus for that by certiorari, and vice versa.

§ 2120. Cases where writ may issue.

The writ of certiorari regulated in this article, except the writ specified in section 2124 of this act, is issued to review the determination of a body or officer. It can be issued in one of the following cases only:

1. Where the right to the writ is expressly conferred, or the issue thereof is expressly authorized, by a statute.

2. Where the writ may be issued at common law, by a court of general jurisdiction, and the right to the writ, or the power of the court to issue it, is not expressly taken away by a statute.

New.

§ 2121. Cases where it cannot issue.

A writ of certiorari cannot be issued, to review a determination, made, after this article takes effect, in a civil action or special proceeding, by a court of record, or a judge of a court of record.

New.

§ 2122. The same.

Except as otherwise expressly prescribed by a statute, a writ of certiorari cannot be issued, in either of the following cases:

1. To review a determination, which does not finally determine the rights of the parties, with respect to the matter to be reviewed.

2. Where the determination can be adequately reviewed, by an appeal to a court, or to some other body or officer.

3. Where the body or officer, making the determination, is expressly authorized, by statute, to rehear the matter, upon the relator's application; unless the determination to be reviewed was made upon a rehearing, or the time within which the relator can procure a rehearing has elapsed.

New.

§ 2123. [Am'd, 1895.] When issued from supreme court.

A writ of certiorari can be issued only out of the supreme court, except in a case where another court is expressly authorized by statute to issue it.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2124. When from another court.

Any court of record, exercising jurisdiction of an appellate nature, may issue a writ of certiorari, requiring the body or officer whose proceedings are under review, to make a return to the court issuing the writ, at a time and place, fixed by the court, and designated in the writ, for the purpose of supplying any diminution, variance, or other defect, in the record or other papers, before the court issuing the writ, in any case where justice requires that the defect should be supplied, and adequate relief cannot be obtained by means of an order.

From 2 R. S. 599 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 3), § 45.

§ 2125. Limitation of time for review.

Subject to the provisions of the next section, a writ of certiorari to review a determination must be granted and served, within four calendar months after the determination to be reviewed becomes final and binding, upon the relator, or the person whom he represents, either in law or in fact.

New.

§ 2126. [Am'd, 1895.] Id.; in case of disability.

The appellate division of the supreme court may grant the writ, at any time within twenty months after the expiration of the time limited in the last section, where the relator, or the person whom he represents, was at the time when the determination to be reviewed became final and binding upon him, either

1. Within the age of twenty-one years; or
2. Insane; or
3. Imprisoned on a criminal charge, or in execution upon conviction of a criminal offence, for a term less than for life.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2127. [Am'd, 1895.] Application for writ; where and how made.

An application for the writ must be made by, or in behalf of, a person aggrieved by the determination to be reviewed; must be founded upon affidavit, or a verified petition, which may be accompanied by other written proof; and must show a proper case for the issuing of the writ. It can be granted only at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court or at special term; and the granting or refusal thereof is discretionary with the court.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2128. When notice necessary; service thereof.

Until provision is made, in the general rules of practice, for requiring, or dispensing with notice of the application for the writ, the court, to which the application for the writ is made, may, in its discretion, require or dispense with notice. A notice, when it is necessary, must be served, with copies of the papers upon which the application is to be made, upon the body or officer, whose determination is to be reviewed, or upon such other person as the court directs, as prescribed in this article for the service of a writ of certiorari. The service must be made, at least eight days before the application, unless the court, by an order to show cause, prescribes a shorter time. Where notice is given, the person served may produce affidavits or other written proofs, upon the merits, in opposition to the application.

New.

§ 2129. To whom writ directed.

The writ must be directed to the body or officer, whose determination is to be reviewed; or to any other person having the custody of the record or other papers to be certified; or to both, if necessary. Where it is brought to review the determination of a board or body, other than a court, if an action would lie against the board or body, in its associate or official name, it must be directed to the board or body, by that name; otherwise it must be directed to the members thereof, by their names.

New.

§ 2130. Mode of service.

A writ of certiorari must be served as follows, except where different directions, respecting the mode of service thereof, are given by the court granting it:

1. Where it is directed to a person or persons by name, or by his or their official title or titles, or to a municipal corporation, it must be served, upon each officer or other person, to whom it is so directed, or upon the corporation, in the same manner as a summons in an action brought in the supreme court, except as prescribed in the next two subdivisions of this section.

2. Where it is directed to a court, or to the judges of a court, having a clerk appointed pursuant to law, service upon the court, or the judges thereof, may be made by filing the writ with the clerk.

3. Where it is to be served upon any other board or body, or upon the members thereof, it may be served as prescribed in section 2071 of this act, for service, upon a like board or body, of an alternative writ of mandamus.

New. See 2 R. S. 602, § 68, and Id., 599, § 45.

§ 2131. Stay of proceedings.

Except as prescribed in this section, a writ of certiorari does not stay the execution of the determination to be reviewed, or affect the power of the body or officer, to which or to whom it is addressed. The court, which grants the writ, may, in its discretion, and upon such terms, as to security or otherwise, as justice requires, direct, by a clause in the writ, or by a separate order, that the execution of the determination be stayed, pending the certiorari, and until the further direction of the court. A bond, undertaking, or other security, given to procure such a stay, is valid and effectual, according to its terms, in favor of a person beneficially interested in upholding the determination to be reviewed, who is admitted as a party to the special proceeding, as prescribed in section 2137 of this act.

New.

§ 2132. When and where writ returnable.

A writ of certiorari must be made returnable, within twenty days after the service thereof, at the office of the clerk of the court. If it was issued from the supreme court, it must be made returnable at the office of the clerk of the county, designated therein, wherein the determination to be reviewed was made; and if the county, designated in the writ, is not the proper county, the court, upon motion, may amend the writ accordingly. Thereupon all papers on file must be transferred to the clerk of the county, where the writ is made returnable by the amendment.

New.

§ 2133. Subsequent proceedings as in an action.

After a writ of certiorari has been issued, the time to make a return thereto may be enlarged, or any other order may be made, or proceeding taken, in the cause, in relation to any matter not provided for in this article, as a similar proceeding may be taken in an action, brought in the same court, and triable in the county where the writ is returnable.

New.

§ 2134. Return; when and how made.

The clerk, with whom a writ of certiorari is filed, and each person, upon whom a writ of certiorari is served, as prescribed in section 2130 of this act, must make and annex to the writ, or to the copy thereof served upon him, a return, with a transcript annexed, and certified by him, of the record or proceedings, and a statement of the other matters, specified in and required by the writ. The return must be filed in the office where the writ is returnable, according to the command thereof.

From 2 R. S. 599 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 3), §§ 45, 46.

§ 2135. Id.; how compelled; fees for making.

If a return is defective, the court may direct a further return. An omission to make a return, as required by a writ of certiorari, or by an order for a further return, may be punished, as a contempt of the court. But a judge or clerk shall not be thus punished, unless the relator, before the time when the return is required, pays him, for his return, the sum of two dollars, and, in addition, ten cents for each folio of the copies of papers required to be returned.

New. See § 2005, ante.

§ 2136. Id.; after term of office expired.

A writ of certiorari may be issued to, and a return to a writ of certiorari may be made by, an officer, whose term of office has expired. Such an officer may be punished for a failure to make a return to the writ, as required thereby; or to make a further return, as required by an order for that purpose.

New.

§ 2137. [Am'd, 1895.] When third person may be brought in.

Upon the application of a person, specially and beneficially interested in upholding the determination to be reviewed, the court may, in its discretion, admit him as a party defendant in the special proceedings, upon such terms as justice requires. And a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, at which the cause is noticed for hearing, and is placed upon the calendar, may, in a proper case, direct that notice of the pendency of the special proceeding be given to any person, in such a manner as it thinks proper; and may suspend the hearing until notice is given accordingly.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2138. [Am'd, 1895.] Hearing upon return.

The cause must be heard at a term of the appellate division of the supreme court, held within the judicial department, embracing the county where the writ was returnable. Either party may notice it for hearing, at any time after the return is complete. Except as prescribed in the next section, it must be heard upon the writ and return, and the papers upon which the writ was granted.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2139. Id.; upon affidavits.

If the officer or other person, whose duty it is to make a return, dies, absconds, removes from the State, or becomes insane, after the writ is issued, and before making a return, or after making an insufficient return; and it appears that there is no other officer or person, from whom a sufficient return can be procured by means of a new certiorari; the court may, in its discretion, permit affidavits, or other written proofs, relating to the matters not sufficiently returned, to be produced, and may hear the cause accordingly. The court may also, in its discretion, permit either party to produce affidavits, or other written proofs, relating to any alleged error of fact, or any other question of fact, which is essential to the jurisdiction of the body or officer, to make the determination to be reviewed, where the facts, in relation thereto, are not sufficiently stated in the return, and the court is satisfied that they cannot be made to appear, by means of an order for a further return.

New. See 2 R. S. 271 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 4), § 261; Co. Proc., § 368.

§ 2140. Questions to be determined.

The questions, involving the merits, to be determined by the court upon the hearing, are the following, only:

1. Whether the body or officer had jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the determination under review.
2. Whether the authority, conferred upon the body or officer, in relation to that subject-matter, has been pursued in the mode required by law, in order to authorize it or him to make the determination.
3. Whether, in making the determination, any rule of law, affecting the rights of the parties thereto, has been violated, to the prejudice of the relator.
4. Whether there was any competent proof of all the facts, necessary to be proved, in order to authorize the making of the determination.
5. If there was such proof, whether there was, upon all the evidence, such a preponderance of proof, against the existence of any of those facts, that the verdict of a jury, affirming the existence thereof, rendered in an action in the supreme court, triable by a jury, would be set aside by the court, as against the weight of evidence.

New.

§ 2141. Final order upon the hearing.

The court, upon the hearing, may make a final order, annulling or confirming, wholly or partly, or modifying, the determination reviewed, as to any or all of the parties.

New.

§ 2142. Restitution may be awarded.

Where the determination reviewed is annulled or modified, the court may order and enforce restitution, in like manner, with like effect and subject to the same conditions, as where a judgment is reversed upon appeal.

New.

§ 2143. Costs.

Costs, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, may be awarded by the final order, in favor of or against either party, in the discretion of the court.

New.

§ 2144. Entry and enrollment of final order.

The final order of the court upon the certiorari must be entered in the office of the clerk where the writ was returnable. But before it can be enforced, an enrollment thereof must be filed. For that purpose, the clerk must attach together, and file in his office, the papers upon which the cause was heard; a certified copy of the final order; and a certified copy of each order, which in any way involves the merits, or necessarily affects the final order.

New.

§ 2145. Effect thereof.

The filing of the enrollment in the office of the clerk where the final order is entered, as prescribed in the last section, is a sufficient authority for any proceeding, by or before the body which, or the officer who, made the determination reviewed, which the final order of the court directs or permits. But where the execution of the final order is stayed by an appeal to the court of appeals, the proceedings below are stayed in like manner.

New.

§ 2146. "Body or officer"; "determination"; what they include.

The expression, "body or officer", as used in this article, includes every court, tribunal, board, corporation, or other person, or aggregation of persons, whose determination may be reviewed by a writ of certiorari; and the word, "determination", as used in this article, includes every judgment, order, decision, adjudication, or other act of such a body or officer, which is subject to be so reviewed.

New.

§ 2147. Application of this article to certain special cases.

Where the right to a writ of certiorari is expressly conferred, or the issuing thereof is expressly authorized, by a statute, passed before, and remaining in force after, this article takes effect, this article does not vary, or affect in any manner, any provision of the former statute, which expressly prescribes a different regulation, with respect to any of the proceedings upon the certiorari to be issued thereunder.

New.

§ 2148. Id.; to civil cases only.

This article is not applicable to a writ of certiorari, brought to review a determination made in any criminal matter, except a criminal contempt of court.

New.

§ 2148a. [Added, 1915.] Substitution by amendment of remedy by mandamus for that by certiorari, and vice versa.

Whenever a writ of certiorari shall be applied for or granted under this article, and it shall appear at any stage of the proceedings, or upon appeal, that the appropriate remedy upon the facts pleaded or proved is mandamus, the proceedings may be amended upon such terms as may be just, and may be continued and determined by the court and at the term where then pending, or remitted to the proper term or court to be disposed of, in order that the relief may be finally granted which is appropriate to the facts, to the same extent as if the application had been in the first instance for a writ of mandamus under article four of this title; and likewise, if a writ of mandamus is applied for or issued under article four of this title, and it shall appear, at any stage of the proceedings, or upon appeal, that certiorari under this article is the appropriate remedy, the proceedings may be amended accordingly upon such terms as are just, and continued and determined by the court and at the term where then pending, or be remitted to the proper term or court to be disposed of; and such relief may be finally ordered as might have been granted if such writ of certiorari had been issued or applied for in the first instance. And in either case, the court may correct by amendment all defects and irregularities in matters of form, or procedure, and may bring in all parties necessary to completely determine the matter and award the appropriate relief upon the facts established.

§ 2231. [Am'd, 1885, 1894, 1913.] When tenant may be removed. In either of the following cases, a tenant or lessee at will, or at sufferance, or for part of a year, or for one or more years, of real property, including a specific or undivided portion of a house, or other dwelling, and his assigns, undertenants, or legal representatives, may be removed therefrom, as prescribed in this title:

1. When he holds over and continues in possession of the demised premises, or any portion thereof, after the expiration of his term,[1] without the permission of the landlord; including, elsewhere than in the city of New York and Brooklyn, a case where the person to be removed became the occupant of the premises as a servant or employee and the relation of master and servant or employer and employee has been lawfully terminated or the time fixed for such occupancy by the agreement between the parties, has expired; but if by such agreement the servant was to be permitted to occupy such premises for a period beyond the term of employment such removal shall not be had under this subdivision unless such period so permitted for occupancy has expired, or the relation of master and servant or employer and employee was lawfully terminated before the expiration of such term of employment; but nothing in this subdivision contained shall be construed as preventing the removal of such occupant in any other lawful manner.

[1] A special rule applies by statute to monthly tenants in New York city and Brooklyn. The statute is as follows:—"No monthly tenant shall hereafter be removed from any lands or tenements in the city of New York or in the city of Brooklyn on the grounds of holding over his term (except when the same expires on the first day of May) unless at least five days before the expiration of the term the landlord or his agent serves upon the tenant, in the same manner in which a summons in summary proceedings is now allowed to be served by law, a notice in writing to the effect that the landlord elects to terminate the tenancy, and that unless the tenant removes from said premises on the day on which his term expires the landlord will commence summary proceedings under the statute to remove such tenant therefrom." (L. 1889, c. 357.)

2. Where he holds over, without the like permission, after a default in the payment of rent, pursuant to the agreement under which the demised premises are held, and a demand of the rent has been made, or at least three days' notice in writing, requiring, in the alternative, the payment of the rent, or the possession of the premises, has been served, in behalf of the person entitled to the rent, upon the person owing it, as prescribed in this title for the service of a precept.

3. Where in any city in this State he holds over and continues in possession of the demised premises, or any portion thereof, after default in the payment, for sixty days after the same shall be payable, of any taxes or assessments levied on such demised premises which he has agreed in writing to pay pursuant to the agreement under which the demised premises are held, and a demand for the payment of such taxes or assessments has been made, or at least three days' notice in writing, requiring, in the alternative, the payment thereof and of any interest and penalty thereon, or the possession of the premises, has been served, in behalf of the landlord, upon the lessee, as prescribed in this title for the service of a precept. An acceptance of any rent by the lessor or his legal representatives shall not be construed as a waiver of the agreement of the lessee to pay taxes or assessments, so as to preclude the lessor from the benefits of this chapter.

4. Where he, being in possession under a lease for a term of three years or less, has, during the term, taken the benefit of an insolvent act, or has been adjudicated a bankrupt, under a bankrupt law of the United States.

5. Where the demised premises, or any part thereof, are used or occupied as a bawdy-house or house or place of assignation for lewd persons, or for purposes of prostitution, or for any illegal trade or manufacture, or other illegal business.

From 2 R. S. 512 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 10), § 28; L. 1849, c. 193; L. 1868, c. 764, § 1; L. 1873, c. 583, § 1; see also L. 1879, c. 101. Am'd by L. 1885, c. 13; L. 1894, c. 333; L. 1913, c. 448 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2232. [Am'd, 1894.] Person holding over land sold, etc., may be removed.

In either of the following cases, a person, who holds over and continues in possession of real property, after notice to quit the same has been given, as prescribed in section 2236 of this act, and his assigns, tenants, or legal representatives, may be removed therefrom, as prescribed in this title:

1. Where the property has been sold by virtue of an execution against him, or a person under whom he claims, and a title under the sale has been perfected.

2. Where the property has been duly sold, upon the foreclosure, by proceedings taken as prescribed in title ninth of this chapter, of a mortgage, executed by him, or a person under whom he claims, and the title under the foreclosure has been duly perfected.

3. Where he occupies or holds the property, under an agreement with the owner to occupy and cultivate it upon shares, or for a share of the crops, and the time, fixed in the agreement for his occupancy, has expired.

4. Where he, or the person to whom he has succeeded, has intruded into, or squatted upon, any real property, without the permission of the person entitled to the possession thereof, and the occupancy, thus commenced, has continued without permission from the latter; or, after a permission given by him has been revoked, and notice of the revocation given to the person or persons to be removed.

From 2 R. S. 512, §§ 28, 31; L. 1874, c. 208 and c. 471. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 232.

§ 2233. Id.; in case of forcible entry or detainer.

An entry shall not be made into real property, but in a case where entry is given by law; and, in such a case, only in a peaceable manner, not with strong hand, nor with multitude of people. A person who makes a forcible entry forbidden by this section, or who, having peaceably entered upon real property, holds the possession thereof by force, and his assigns, undertenants, and legal representatives, may be removed therefrom, as prescribed in this title.

From 2 R. S. 507 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 10), §§ 1, 2.

§ 2234. [Am'd, 1881, 1884, 1895.] Application; to whom made.

Application for removal of a person from real property, as prescribed in this title, may be made to the county judge or special county judge of the county or a justice of the peace of the city or town or the mayor or recorder of the city wherein the real property, or a portion thereof, is situated. Application may also be made, if the property, or a portion thereof, be situated in the city of New York, to a judge of the city court of the city of New York or the district court of the district within which the property, or a portion thereof, is situated; or if the judge of such court be for any reason disqualified, to the district court of an adjoining district; if in the city of Brooklyn, to a police justice of that city; if in the city of Albany, or the city of Troy, to a justice of the justices' court of that city; if in the city of Yonkers, to the city judge of that city; if in the cities of Syracuse, Rochester or Buffalo, to a judge of the municipal court of said cities. Where the property is situated in an incorporated village, the boundaries of which embrace portions of two or more towns, application may be made to a justice of the peace of either town, who keeps an office in the village.

From 2 R. S. 512, § 28. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 122; L. 1884, c. 405; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2235. [Am'd, 1913.] Who can maintain proceedings. Contents of petition.

The application may be made by the landlord or lessor of the demised premises; the purchaser upon the execution or foreclosure sale; the person forcibly put out or kept out; the person with whom, as owner, the agreement was made, or the owner of the property occupied under an agreement, to cultivate the property upon shares, or for a share of the crops; or the person lawfully entitled to the possession of the property intruded into or squatted upon, as the case requires; or by the legal representative, agent, or assignee of the landlord, purchaser, or other person, so entitled to apply; or by the person or corporation authorized to proceed under section 2237 of this act. The applicant must present to the judge or justice, a written petition, verified in like manner as a verified complaint in an action brought in the supreme court; describing the premises of which the possession is claimed, and the interest therein of the petitioner, or the person whom he represents; stating the facts, which, according to the provisions of this title, authorize the application by the petitioner, and the removal of the person in possession; naming, or otherwise intelligibly designating, the person or persons against whom the special proceeding is instituted, and, if there are two or more such persons, and some are undertenants or assigns, specifying who are principals or tenants, and who are undertenants or assigns; and praying for a final order to remove him or them respectively.

From 2 R. S. 507 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 10), §§ 2, 3; Id., 513, § 29. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 448 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2236. Notice to be given in certain cases.

Where the person to be removed is a tenant at will, or at sufferance, the petition must state the facts, showing that the tenancy has been terminated, by giving notice, as required by law.[1] Where the application is made in a case specified in section 2232 of this act, the petition must state that a notice, in behalf of the applicant, requiring all persons occupying the property to quit the same, by a day therein specified, has been either served personally upon the person or persons to be removed, or affixed conspicuously upon the property, at least ten days before the day specified therein.

From Id., 513, § 31; L. 1857, c. 396, §§ 2, 3.

§ 2237. [Am'd, 1913.] Petition by neighbor of bawdy-house, etc.

An owner or tenant including a tenant of one or more rooms of an apartment house or tenement house, of any premises within two hundred feet from other demised real property used or occupied in whole or in part, as a bawdy-house, or house, or place of assignation for lewd persons, or for purposes of prostitution, or any domestic corporation organized for the suppression of vice, subject to or which submits to visitation by the state board of charities, and possesses a certificate from such board of such fact and of conformity with its regulations, may serve personally upon the owner or landlord of the premises, so used or occupied, or upon his agent, a written notice, requiring the owner or landlord to make an application for the removal of the person so using or occupying the same. If the owner or landlord, or his agent, does not make such application, within five days thereafter; or, having made it, does not in good faith diligently prosecute it; the person or corporation giving the notice may make an application for such removal on a petition stating the jurisdictional facts, which application shall have the same effect, except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this title, as though the applicant were the owner or landlord of the premises, and shall have precedence over any similar application thereafter made by such owner or landlord or to one theretofore made by him and not prosecuted diligently and in good faith. Proof of the ill repute of the demised premises or of the inmates thereof or of those resorting thereto shall constitute presumptive evidence of the unlawful use of the demised premises, required to be stated in the petition for removal.

From L. 1868, c. 764, §§ 56, 61. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 448 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2238. Precept.

The judge or justice, to whom a petition is presented, as prescribed in either of the foregoing sections of this title, must thereupon issue a precept, directed to the person or persons designated in the petition, as being in possession of the property, and requiring him or them forthwith to remove from the property, describing it, or to show cause, before him, at a time and place specified in the precept, why possession of the property should not be delivered to the petitioner, or, in the case specified in the last section, to the owner or landlord. The precept must be returnable, not less than three nor more than five days after it is issued; except that, where the proceeding is taken, upon the ground that a tenant continues in possession of demised premises, after the expiration of his term, without the permission of his landlord, and the application is made on the day of the expiration of the lease, or on the next day thereafter, the precept may, in the discretion of the judge or justice, be made returnable on the day on which it is issued, at any time after twelve o'clock, noon, and before six o'clock in the afternoon.

§ 2239. Id.; in New York city.

In the city of New York, where the application is made to a district court, the petition must be filed with, and the precept must be issued by, the clerk of the court; and the precept must be made returnable before the court, at the place designated, pursuant to law, for holding the court; and all subsequent proceedings in the cause must be had at that place, except as otherwise prescribed in § 2246 of this act. If, upon the return of the precept or upon an adjourned day, the justice is unable, by reason of absence from the court room or sickness, to hear the cause, or it is shown by affidavit that he is for any reason disqualified to sit in the cause, or is a necessary and material witness for either party, a justice of any other district court of the city may act in his place at the same court room.

From L. 1863, c. 189; Co. Proc., § 66; L. 1876, c. 356, § 1; L. 1877, c. 187, § 1.

§ 2240. [Am'd, 1913.] Id.; how served.

The precept must be served as follows:

1. By delivering, to the person to whom it is directed, or, if it is directed to a corporation, to an officer of the corporation, upon whom a summons, issued out of the supreme court, in an action against the corporation, might be served, a copy of the precept, together with a copy of the petition, and at the same time showing him the original precept.

2. If the person, to whom the precept is directed, resides in the city or town in which the property is situated, but is absent from his dwelling-house, service may be made by delivering a copy thereof, together with a copy of the petition, at his dwelling-house, to a person of suitable age and discretion, who resides there; or, if no such person can, with reasonable diligence, be found there, upon whom to make service, then by delivering a copy of the precept and petition, at the property sought to be recovered, either to some person of suitable age and discretion residing there, or if no such person can be found there, to any person of suitable age and discretion employed there.

3. Where service cannot, with reasonable diligence, be made, as prescribed in either of the foregoing subdivisions of this section, by affixing a copy of the precept and petition upon a conspicuous part of the property.

If the precept is returnable on the day on which it is issued, it must be served at least two hours before the hour at which it is returnable; in every other case, it must be served at least two days before the day on which it is returnable.

From 2 R. S. 513, § 32; L. 1857, c. 684; L. 1868, c. 828. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 277 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2241. Duty of person to whom copy of precept is delivered.

A person, to whom a copy of a precept, directed to another, is delivered, as prescribed in this title, must, without any avoidable delay, deliver it to the person to whom it is directed, if he can be found within the same town or city; or, if he cannot be so found, to his agent therein; and if neither can be so found, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, before the time when the precept is returnable, to the judge or justice who issued the same, at the time of the return thereof, with a written statement indorsed thereupon, that he has been unable, after the exercise of reasonable diligence, to find the person to whom the precept is directed, or his agent, within the town or city. A person, who wilfully violates any provision of this section, is guilty of a misdemeanor; and, if he is a tenant upon the property, forfeits to his landlord the value of three years' rent of the premises occupied by him. A copy of this section must be indorsed upon each copy of a precept, served otherwise than personally upon the person to whom it is directed.

From L. 1868, c. 828, § 8; 1 R. S. 748 (Part 2, c. 1, tit. 4), § 27.

§ 2242. When precept to be served on landlord of bawdy-house, etc.

Where the case is within section 2237 of this act, the precept must be directed to and served upon the owner or landlord, or his agent, and also upon the tenant or occupant of the property. Either or both of them may, upon the return day, appear and show cause why the tenant or occupant should not be removed from the property.

From L. 1868, c. 764, §§ 63, 64.

§ 2243. Proof of service of precept.

At the time when the precept is returnable, the petitioner must, unless the adverse party appears, make due proof of the service thereof, showing the time, and the place and manner of service; and, unless service was made personally upon the adverse party, or by affixing a copy of the precept, the name of the person to whom a copy of the precept was delivered, if his name can be ascertained with reasonable diligence. Where service is made by a sheriff, constable, or marshal, it may be proved by his certificate, stating the facts.

From 2 R. S. 513, §§ 32, 33; L. 1868, c. 828.

§ 2244. [Am'd, 1882, 1893.] Answer.

At the time when the precept is returnable without waiting as prescribed in an action before a justice of the peace, or in a district court in the city of New York, the person to whom it is directed or his landlord, or any person in possession or claiming possession of the premises, or a part thereof, may file with the judge or justice who issued the precept, or with the clerk of the court, a written answer, verified in like manner as a verified answer in an action in the supreme court, denying generally the allegations, or specifically any material allegation of the petition, or setting forth a statement of any new matter constituting a legal or equitable defence, or counterclaim. Such defence or counterclaim may be set up and established in like manner as though the claim for rent in such proceeding was the subject of an action.

Grenenberg Chap 132 Laws 1920

§ 2245. Issues upon forcible entry or detainer.

Where the application is founded upon an allegation of forcible entry or forcible holding out, the petitioner must allege and prove that he was peaceably in actual possession of the property, at the time of a forcible entry, or in constructive possession, at the time of a forcible holding out; and the adverse party must either deny the forcible entry, or the forcible holding out, or allege, in his defence, that he, or his ancestor, or those whose interest he claims, had been in quiet possession of the property, for three years together next before the alleged forcible entry or detainer; and that his interest is not ended or determined, at the time of the trial.

From 2 R. S. 508, 509, §§ 6, 11.

§ 2246. In N. Y. district court, cause may be transferred to another court for trial.

In a district court of the city of New-York, at the time of joining issue, the justice sitting in the cause may, in his discretion, upon motion of either party, or, if no justice is present, the clerk may, by consent of both parties, make an order transferring the cause for trial, to a district court of an adjoining district, which thereupon has the same jurisdiction and power, at its own court house, as if the property was situated within its district.

From L. 1877, c. 187, § 2.

§ 2247. [Am'd, 1881, 1882.] Trial.

The issues joined by the petition and answer must be tried by the judge or justice, unless either party to such proceedings shall, at the time designated in such precept for showing cause, demand a jury, and at the time of such demand pay to such judge or justice the necessary costs and expenses of obtaining such jury. If a jury be demanded, and such costs and expenses be paid, the judge or justice with whom such petition shall be filed shall nominate twelve reputable persons, qualified to serve as jurors in courts of record, and shall issue his precept, directed to the sheriff or one of the constables of the county, or any constable or marshal of the city or town, commanding him to summon the persons so nominated to appear before such judge or justice, at such time or place as he shall therein appoint, not more than three days from the date thereof, for the purpose of trying the said matters in difference. Six of the persons so summoned shall be drawn in like manner as jurors in justices' courts, and shall be sworn by such judge or justice well and truly to hear, try and determine the matters in difference between the parties. After hearing the allegations and proofs of the parties, the said jury shall be kept together until they agree on their verdict, by the sheriff or one of his deputies, or a constable, or by some proper person appointed by the judge or justice for that purpose, who shall be sworn to keep such jury, as is usual in like cases of courts of record. If such jury cannot agree, after being kept together for such time as such judge or justice shall deem reasonable, he may discharge them and nominate a new jury, and issue a new precept in manner aforesaid.

From 2 R. S. 514, §§ 34-38; L. 1862, c. 368. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 122; L. 1882, c. 114.

§ 2248. Adjournment.

At the time when issue is joined, the judge or justice may, in his discretion, at the request of either party, and upon proof to his satisfaction, by affidavit or orally, that an adjournment is necessary, to enable the applicant to procure his necessary witnesses, or by consent of all the parties who appear, adjourn the trial of the issue, but not more than ten days; except by consent of all parties.

From 2 R. S. 515 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 10), § 41.

§ 2249. Final order upon trial.

If sufficient cause is not shown upon the return of the precept; or if the verdict of the jury, or the decision of the judge or justice, upon a trial without a jury, is in favor of the petitioner; the judge or justice must make a final order, awarding to the petitioner the delivery of the possession of the property; except that, where the case is within section 2237 of this act, the final order must direct the removal of the occupant. In either case, the final order must award to the petitioner the costs of the special proceeding. If the verdict or decision is in favor of the person answering, the judge or justice must make a final order accordingly, and awarding to him the costs of the special proceeding.

From Id., §§ 33, 39, 51; L. 1849, c. 193.

§ 2250. [Am'd, 1882.] Amount of costs; how collected.

Costs, when allowed, and the fees of officers, except where a fee is specially given in chapter twenty-one of this act, must be at the rate allowed by law in an action in a justice's court, and are limited in like manner; unless the application is founded upon an allegation of forcible entry or forcible holding out; in which case, the judge or justice may award to the successful party a fixed sum as costs, not exceeding fifty dollars, in addition to his disbursements. If the final order is made by a county judge, or a special county judge, or by a mayor or recorder, an execution to collect the costs may be issued thereupon, as if it was a judgment of a justice of the peace of the same city or county; and for that purpose the officer takes the place of a justice of the peace. In every other case an execution may be issued to collect the costs awarded thereby, in like manner as if the final order was a judgment, rendered in the court, of which the judge or justice is the presiding officer.

§ 2251. [Am'd, 1882.] Warrant to dispossess defendant.

Where the final order is in favor of the petitioner, the judge or justice must thereupon issue a warrant under his hand, directed to the sheriff of the county, or to any constable or marshal of the city, in which the property, or a portion thereof, is situated, or if it is not situated in a city, to any constable of any town in the county, describing the property, and commanding the officer to remove all persons therefrom, and also, except where the case is within section 2237 of this act, to put the petitioner into the full possession thereof.

From 2 R. S. 509, 513, §§ 13, 33, 39; L. 1857, c. 684; L. 1868, c. 764, §§ 58, 59, 63, 64. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 399.

§ 2252. Execution of warrant.

The officer, to whom the warrant is directed and delivered, must execute it, according to the command thereof, between the hours of sunrise and sunset.

From 2 R. S. 515, § 40.

§ 2253. When warrant cancels lease; exception.

The issuing of a warrant, for the removal of a tenant from demised premises, cancels the agreement for the use of the premises, if any, under which the person removed held them; and annuls accordingly the relation of landlord and tenant, except that it does not prevent a landlord from recovering, by action, any sum of money, which was, at the time when the precept was issued, payable by the terms of the agreement, as rent for the premises; or the reasonable value of the use and occupation thereof, to the time when the warrant was issued, for any period of time, with respect to which the agreement does not make any special provision for payment of rent.

From Id., § 43; L. 1868, c. 764, § 60.

§ 2254. [Am'd, 1885.] Warrant; when and how stayed.

The party, against whom a final order is made, requiring the delivery of possession to the petitioner, may, at any time before a warrant is issued, stay the issuing thereof; and also stay an execution to collect the costs, as follows:

1. Where the final order establishes that a lessee or tenant holds over, after a default in the payment of rent, or of taxes or assessments, he may effect a stay, by payment of the rent due, or of such taxes or assessments, and interest and penalty, if any thereon due, and the costs of the special proceeding; or by delivering to the judge or justice, or the clerk of the court, his undertaking to the petitioner, in such sum and with such sureties as the judge or justice approves, to the effect that he will pay the rent, or such taxes or assessments, and interest and penalty and costs, within ten days, at the expiration of which time a warrant may issue, unless he produces to the judge or justice satisfactory evidence of the payment.

2. Where the final order establishes that a lessee or tenant has taken the benefit of an insolvent act, or has been adjudicated a bankrupt, he may effect a stay, by paying the costs of the special proceeding, and by delivering to the judge or justice, or the clerk of the court, his undertaking to the petitioner, in such a sum and with such sureties as the judge or justice approves, to the effect, that he will pay the rent of the premises, as it has become, or thereafter becomes due.

3. Where the final order establishes that the person, against whom it is made, continues in possession of real property, which has been sold by virtue of an execution against his property, he may effect a stay, by paying the costs of the special proceeding, and delivering to the judge or justice, or the clerk of the court, an affidavit, that he claims the possession of the property, by virtue of a right or title, acquired after the sale, or as guardian or trustee for another; together with his undertaking to the petitioner, in such a sum and with such sureties as the judge or justice approves, to the effect, that he will pay any costs and damages, which may be recovered against him, in an action of ejectment to recover the property, brought against him by the petitioner within six months thereafter; and that he will not commit any waste upon or injury to the property, during his occupation thereof.

§ 2255. Undertaking; how disposed of.

Where an undertaking is given, in a case specified in subdivision first of the last section, the judge or justice must deliver it to the person against whom the final order was made, upon his producing the evidence of payment, mentioned in that subdivision. If he does not produce such evidence within ten days, the judge or justice must deliver it to the petitioner. In every other case specified in the last section, the judge or justice must deliver the undertaking to the petitioner, immediately after his approval thereof.

New.

§ 2256. Redemption by lessee.

Where the special proceeding is founded upon an allegation that a lessee holds over, after a default in the payment of rent, and the unexpired term of the lease, under which the premises are held, exceeds five years, at the time when the warrant is issued; the lessee, his executor, administrator, or assignee, may, at any time within one year after the execution of the warrant, pay or tender to the petitioner, his heir, executor, administrator, or assignee, or if, within five days before the expiration of the year, he cannot, with reasonable diligence, be found within the city or town, wherein the property, or a portion thereof, is situated, then to the judge or justice who issued the warrant, or his successor in office, all rent in arrear at the time of the payment or tender, with interest thereupon, and the costs and charges incurred by the petitioner. Thereupon the person, making the payment or tender, shall be entitled to the possession of the demised premises, under the lease, and may hold and enjoy the same, according to the terms of the original demise, except as otherwise prescribed in the next section but one.

From L. 1842, c. 240, § 1.

§ 2257. Id.; by creditor of lessee.

In a case specified in the last section, a judgment creditor of the lessee, whose judgment was docketed in the county, before the precept was issued, or a mortgagee of the lease, whose mortgage was duly recorded, in the county, before the precept was issued, may, at any time before the expiration of one year after the execution of the warrant, unless a redemption has been made as prescribed in the last section, file with the judge or justice who issued the warrant, or with his successor in office, a notice, specifying his interest and the sum due to him; describing the premises; and stating that it is his intention to redeem, as prescribed in this section. If a redemption is not made by the lessee, his executor, administrator, or assignee, within a year after the execution of the warrant, the person so filing a notice, or, if two or more persons have filed such notices, the one who holds the first lien, may, at any time before two o'clock of the day, not a Sunday or a public holiday, next succeeding the last day of the year, redeem for his own benefit, in like manner as the lessee, his executor, administrator, or assignee might have so redeemed. Where two or more judgment creditors or mortgagees have filed such notices, the holder of the second lien may so redeem, at any time before two o'clock of the day, not a Sunday or a public holiday, next succeeding that in which the holder of the first lien might have redeemed; and the holder of the third and each subsequent lien, may redeem, in like manner, at any time before two o'clock of the day, not a Sunday or a public holiday, next succeeding that in which his predecessor might have redeemed. But a second or subsequent redemption is not valid, unless the person redeeming pays or tenders to each of his predecessors who has redeemed, the sum paid by him to redeem, and also the sum due upon his judgment or mortgage; or deposits those sums with the judge or justice, for the benefit of his predecessor or predecessors.

From L. 1842, c. 240.

§ 2258. The last two sections qualified.

Where a redemption is made, as prescribed in either of the last two sections, the rights of the person redeeming are subject to a lease, if any, executed by the petitioner, since the warrant was issued, so far that the new lessee, his assigns, undertenants, or other representatives, may, upon complying with the terms of the lease, hold the premises so leased until twelve o'clock, noon, of the first day of May, next succeeding the redemption. And, in all other respects, the person so redeeming, his assigns and representatives, succeed to all the rights and liabilities of the petitioner, under such a lease.

New.

§ 2259. Order to be made thereupon; liability of person redeeming.

The person redeeming, as prescribed in the last three sections, or the owner of the property so redeemed, may present to the judge or justice who issued the warrant, or to his successor in office, a petition, duly verified, setting forth the facts of the redemption, and praying for an order, establishing the rights and liabilities of the parties upon the redemption. Whereupon the judge or justice must make an order, requiring the other party to the redemption to show cause before him, at a time and place therein specified, why the prayer of the petition should not be granted. The order to show cause must be made returnable, not less than two nor more than ten days, after it is granted; and it must be served at least two days before it is returnable. Upon the return thereof, the judge or justice must hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, and must make such a final order as justice requires. The costs and expenses must be paid by the petitioner. The final order, or a certified copy thereof, may be recorded in like manner as a deed. A person, other than the lessee, who redeems as prescribed in the last three sections, succeeds to all the duties and liabilities of the lessee, accruing after the redemption, as if he was named as lessee in the lease.

New.

§ 2260. Appeal.

An appeal may be taken from a final order, made as prescribed in this title, to the same court, within the same time, and in the same manner, as where an appeal is taken from a judgment rendered in the court, of which the judge or justice is the presiding officer, and with like effect; except as otherwise prescribed in the next two sections.

Substituted for 2 R. S. 516, § 47; L. 1868, c. 828; L. 1849, c. 193.

§ 2261. [Am'd, 1868, 1895.] Effect of appeal limited in certain cases.

The issuing or execution of the warrant cannot be stayed by such an appeal, or by the giving of an undertaking thereupon, otherwise than as prescribed in the next section. An appeal cannot be taken to the court of appeals, from a final determination of the appellate division of the supreme court upon such an appeal, unless the latter court, by an order, made at the term of the appellate division where the final order is made, or the next term thereafter, allows it to be taken.

From Id. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 705; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2262. [Am'd, 1868, 1895.] Warrants; how stayed on appeal.

Where an appeal is taken from a final order, awarding delivery of possession to the petitioner, which establishes that a lessee or tenant holds over, after a default in payment of rent or from an order or judgment affirming such final order, the issuing and execution of the warrant may be stayed by the order of the county judge, and in the city and county of New York by a justice of the supreme court, upon the appellant's giving the security required to perfect the appeal, and to stay the execution of the order appealed from and also an undertaking to the petitioner in a sum and with sureties approved by the county judge or in the city and county of New York by a justice of the supreme court to the effect that if, upon the appeal, a final determination is rendered against the appellant he will pay all rents accruing or to accrue upon the premises, or if there is no lease thereof, the value of the use and occupation of the premises subsequent to the institution of the special proceedings.

From 2 R. S. 516, § 52; L. 1849, c. 193. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 705; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2263. Appellate court may award restitution; action for damages.

If the final order is reversed upon the appeal, the appellate court may award restitution to the party injured, with costs; and it may make any order, or issue any other mandate, necessary to carry its determination into effect. The person dispossessed may also maintain an action, to recover the damages which he has sustained by the dispossession.

From 2 R. S. 516, §§ 48, 49.

§ 2264. Application of this title; effect of final order.

This title does not impair the rights of a landlord, lessor, or tenant, in a case not therein provided for. Where a special statutory provision confers a right to take proceedings, in the manner heretofore prescribed by law, for the summary removal of a person in possession of real property, the proceedings thereunder must be taken as prescribed in this title. A final order, made in a special proceeding, taken as prescribed in this title, is not a bar to an action of ejectment, to recover the property affected thereby.

From Id., § 50.

§ 2265. How proceedings under this title to be stayed.

Where a petition is presented, as prescribed in this title, the proceedings thereupon before the final order, and, if the final order awards delivery of the possession to the petitioner, the issuing or execution of the warrant thereupon, cannot be stayed or suspended by any court or judge, except in one of the following methods:

1. By an order made, or an undertaking filed, upon an appeal, in a case and in the manner specially prescribed for that purpose in this title.

2. By an injunction order, granted in an action against the petitioner. Such an injunction shall not be granted before the final order in the special proceeding, except in a case where an injunction would be granted to stay the proceedings, in an action of ejectment, brought by the petitioner, and upon the like terms; or after the final order, except in a case where an injunction would be granted to stay the execution of the final judgment in such an action, and upon the like terms.

950 Laws 1920

TITLE III.

Proceedings to punish a contempt of court, other than a criminal contempt.

Sec. 2266. Cases to which this title applies.
2267. When punishment may be summary.
2268. When warrant to commit may issue without notice.
2269. Order to show cause, or warrant to attach offender.
2270. Notice to delinquent officer to show cause.
2271. Order or warrant; when granted out of court.
2272. Id.; when contempt was committed before a referee.
2273. Effect of order to show cause, and of warrant.
2274. Copy affidavit, etc., to be served with warrant.
2275. Indorsement upon warrant.
2276. Warrant; how executed.
2277. Undertaking to procure discharge.
2278. When habeas corpus may issue.
2279. Sheriff to file undertaking with return.
2280. Interrogatories and proofs.
2281. When and how accused to be punished.
2282. Id.; upon return of habeas corpus.
2283. Id.; upon return of order to show cause.
2284. Amount of fine.
2285. Length of imprisonment.
2286. When court may release offender.
2287. Offender liable to indictment.
2288. Proceedings when accused does not appear.
2289. Undertaking; when prosecuted by person aggrieved.
2290. Id.; by attorney-general, etc.
2291. Sheriff liable for taking insufficient sureties.
2292. Punishment of misconduct at trial term.

§ 2266. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Cases to which this title applies.

In a case specified in section 14 of this act, or in any other case where it is specially prescribed by law, that a court of record, or a judge thereof, or a referee appointed by the court, has power to punish, by fine and imprisonment, or either, or generally as a contempt, a neglect or violation of duty, or other misconduct; and a right or remedy of a party to a civil action or special proceeding pending in the court, or before the judge or the referee, may be defeated, impaired, impeded, or prejudiced thereby, the offence must be punished as prescribed in this title.

New.

§ 2267. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When punishment may be summary.

Where the offence is committed in the immediate view and presence of the court, or of the judge or referee, upon a trial or hearing, it may be punished summarily. For that purpose, an order must be made by the court, judge, or referee, stating the facts which constitute the offence, and bring the case within the provisions of this section, and plainly and specifically prescribing the punishment to be inflicted therefor.

From 2 R. S. 535 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 13), § 2.

§ 2268. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When warrant to commit may issue without notice.

Where the offence consists of a neglect or refusal to obey an order of the court, requiring the payment of costs, or of a specified sum of money, and the court is satisfied, by proof, by affidavit, that a personal demand thereof has been made, and that payment thereof has been refused or neglected; it may issue, without notice, a warrant to commit the offender to prison, until the costs or other sum of money, and the costs and expenses of the proceeding, are paid, or until he is discharged according to law.

From Id., § 4. See L. 1847, c. 390, § 2.

§ 2269. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Order to show cause, or warrant to attach offender.

The court or judge, authorized to punish for the offence, may, in its or his discretion, where the case is one of those specified in either of the last two sections, and, in every other case, must, upon being satisfied, by affidavit, of the commission of the offence, either

1. Make an order, requiring the accused to show cause before it, or him, at a time and place therein specified, why the accused should not be punished for the alleged offence; or

2. Issue a warrant of attachment, directed to the sheriff of a particular county, or, generally, to the sheriff of any county where the accused may be found, commanding him to arrest the accused, and bring him before the court or judge, either forthwith, or at a time and place therein specified, to answer for the alleged offence.

From 2 R. S. 535, §§ 3, 5.

§ 2270. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Notice to delinquent officer to show cause.

Where it is prescribed by law, or by the general rules of practice, that a notice may be served in behalf of a party, upon a sheriff or other person, requiring him to return a mandate, delivered to him, or to show cause, at a term of a court, why he should not be punished, or why an attachment should not be issued against him, for a contempt of the court; the party, in whose behalf the notice is served, may, at the time specified therein, file with the clerk, proof, by affidavit or other written evidence, of the delivery of the mandate to the accused; of the default or other act, upon the occurrence of which, he was entitled to serve the notice; of the service of the notice; and of the failure to comply therewith. Thereupon the proceedings are the same, as where an order to show cause is made, and it, and a copy of the affidavits upon which it is granted, are served upon the accused.

From Id., § 6.

§ 2271. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Order or warrant; when granted out of court.

Where the order to show cause, or the warrant, is returnable before the court, it may be made, or issued, as prescribed in the last section but one, by any judge authorized to grant an order without notice, in an action pending in the court; and it must be made returnable at a term of the court, at which a contested motion may be heard.

New. See 37 N. Y. 235.

§ 2272. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; when contempt was committed before a referee.

An order to show cause may be made, or a warrant may be issued, as prescribed in section 2269 of this act, by a referee appointed by the court, where the offence is committed upon the trial of an issue referred to him, or consists of a witness's non-attendance, or refusal to be sworn or to testify, before him. The order or warrant may, in the discretion of the referee, be made returnable before him, or before the court. Where it is made returnable before the referee, he has all the power and authority of the court, with respect to the motion or special proceeding, instituted thereby.

New.

§ 2273. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Effect of order to show cause, and of warrant.

An order to show cause may be made, either before or after the final judgment in the action, or the final order in the special proceeding. It is equivalent to a notice of motion; and the subsequent proceedings thereupon are taken in the action or special proceeding, as upon a motion made therein. A warrant of attachment is a mandate, whereby an original special proceeding is instituted against the accused, in behalf of the people, upon the relation of the complainant.

New. See 37 N. Y. 235.

§ 2274. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Copy affidavit, etc., to be served with warrant.

A copy of the warrant, and of the affidavit upon which it is issued, must be served upon the accused, when he is arrested by virtue thereof.

From 2 R. S. 535, § 3. See 37 N. Y. 235.

§ 2275. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Indorsement upon warrant.

Where a warrant of attachment is issued, the court, judge, or referee, may, in its or his discretion, by an indorsement thereupon, fix a sum, in which the accused may give an undertaking for his appearance to answer.

From 2 R. S. 535 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 13), § 10.

§ 2276. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Warrant; how executed.

If an indorsement is not made upon the warrant, as prescribed in the last section; or if such an indorsement is made and an undertaking is not given, as prescribed in the next section; the sheriff, after making the arrest, as required by the warrant, must keep the accused in his custody, until the further direction of the court, judge, or referee. Where, from sickness or any other cause, the accused is physically unable to attend before the court, judge, or referee, that fact is a sufficient excuse to the sheriff for not producing him as required by the warrant. In that case, the sheriff must produce him, as directed by the court, judge, or referee, after he becomes able to attend. The sheriff need not, in any case, confine the accused in prison, or otherwise restrain him of his liberty, except as far as it is necessary so to do, in order to secure his personal attendance.

From Id., §§ 12, 14, 37.

§ 2277. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Undertaking to procure discharge.

Where an indorsement is made upon the warrant, as prescribed in the last section but one, the accused must be discharged from arrest, upon his executing and delivering to the sheriff, at any time before the return day of the warrant, an undertaking to the people, in the sum specified in the indorsement, with two sufficient sureties, to the effect that he will appear, at the time when, and the place where, the warrant is returnable, and then and there abide the direction of the court, judge, or referee, as the case requires. The officer, taking the acknowledgment of the undertaking, must, if the sheriff so requires, examine under oath, to a reasonable extent, the persons offered as sureties, concerning their property and circumstances.

From Id., § 13.

§ 2278. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When habeas corpus may issue.

If the accused is in the custody of a sheriff, or other officer, by virtue of an execution against his person, or by virtue of a mandate for any other contempt or misconduct, or a commitment on a criminal charge, a warrant of attachment cannot be issued. In that case, the court, upon proof of the facts, must issue a writ of habeas corpus, directed to the officer, requiring him to bring the accused before it, to answer for the offence charged. The officer to whom the writ is directed, or upon whom it is served, must, except in a case where the production of the accused under a warrant of attachment would be dispensed with, bring him before the court, and detain him at the place where the court is sitting, until the further order of the court.

From Id., §§ 7, 9.

§ 2279. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriff to file undertaking with return.

The sheriff or other officer must file the undertaking, if any, taken by him, with the return to the warrant or writ of habeas corpus.

From Id., § 16.

§ 2280. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Interrogatories and proofs.

When the accused is produced, by virtue of a warrant, or a writ of habeas corpus, or appears upon the return of a warrant, the court, judge, or referee, must, unless he admits the offence charged, cause interrogatories to be filed, specifying the facts and circumstances of the offence charged against him. The accused must make written answers thereto, under oath, within such reasonable time as the court, judge, or referee allows therefor; and either party may produce affidavits, or other proofs, contradicting or corroborating any answer. Upon the original affidavits, the answers, and subsequent proofs, the court, judge, or referee must determine, whether the accused has committed the offence charged.

From Id., § 18.

§ 2281. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When and how accused to be punished.

If it is determined that the accused has committed the offence charged; and that it was calculated to, or actually did, defeat, impair, impede, or prejudice the rights or remedies of a party to an action or special proceeding, brought in the court, or before the judge or referee; the court, judge, or referee must make a final order accordingly, and directing that he be punished by fine or imprisonment, or both, as the nature of the case requires. A warrant of commitment must issue accordingly.

From Id., § 20.

§ 2282. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; upon return of habeas corpus.

Where the accused is brought up by virtue of a writ of habeas corpus, he must, after the final order is made, be remanded to the custody of the sheriff, or other officer, to whom the writ was directed. If the final order directs that he be punished by imprisonment, or committed until the payment of a sum of money, he must be so imprisoned or committed, upon his discharge from custody under the mandate, by virtue of which he is held by the sheriff, or other officer.

See 2 R. S. 560 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 1), § 5.

§ 2283. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; upon return of order to show cause.

Upon the return of an order to show cause, the questions which arise must be determined, as upon any other motion; and, if the determination is to the effect specified in the last section but one, the order thereupon must be to the same effect as the final order therein prescribed. Upon a certified copy of the order so made, the offender may be committed, without further process.

New. See 37 N. Y. 285.

§ 2284. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Amount of fine.

If an actual loss or injury has been produced to a party to an action or special proceeding, by reason of the misconduct proved against the offender, and the case is not one where it is specially prescribed by law, that an action may be maintained to recover damages for the loss or injury, a fine, sufficient to indemnify the aggrieved party, must be imposed upon the offender, and collected, and paid over to the aggrieved party, under the direction of the court. The payment and acceptance of such a fine constitute a bar to an action by the aggrieved party, to recover damages for the loss or injury. Where it is not shown that such an actual loss or injury has been produced, a fine must be imposed, not exceeding the amount of the complainant's costs and expenses, and two hundred and fifty dollars in addition thereto, and must be collected and paid, in like manner. A corporation may be fined as prescribed in this section.

From 2 R. S. 538, §§ 21, 22.

§ 2285. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Length of imprisonment

Where the misconduct proved consists of an omission to perform an act or duty, which it is yet in the power of the offender to perform, he shall be imprisoned only until he has performed it, and paid the fine imposed. In such a case, the order, and the warrant of commitment, if one is issued, must specify the act or duty to be performed, and the sum to be paid. In every other case, where special provision is not otherwise made by law, the offender may be imprisoned for a reasonable time, not exceeding six months, and until the fine, if any, is paid; and the order, and the warrant of commitment, if any, must specify the amount of the fine, and the duration of the imprisonment.

From Id., §§ 23, 24, 25.

§ 2286. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] When court may release offender.

Where an offender, imprisoned as prescribed in this title, is unable to endure the imprisonment, or to pay the sum, or perform the act or duty, required to be paid or performed, in order to entitle him to be released, the court, judge, or referee, or, where the commitment was made as prescribed in section 2457 of this act, the court, out of which the execution was issued, may, in its or his discretion, and upon such terms as justice requires, make an order, directing him to be discharged from the imprisonment.

From Id., § 20; L. 1848, c. 9; Co. Proc., § 302.

§ 2287. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Offender liable to indictment.

A person, punished as prescribed in this title, may, notwithstanding, be indicted for the same misconduct, if it is an indictable offence; but the court, before which he is convicted, must, in forming its sentence, take into consideration the previous punishment.

From 2 R. S. 538, § 26.

§ 2288. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Proceedings when accused does not appear.

Where a person, arrested by virtue of a warrant of attachment, has given an undertaking for his appearance, as prescribed in this title and fails to appear, on the return day of the warrant, the court may either issue another warrant, or make an order, directing the undertaking to be prosecuted; or both.

From Id., § 27.

§ 2289. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Undertaking; when prosecuted by person aggrieved.

The order directing the undertaking to be prosecuted, may, in the discretion of the court, direct the prosecution thereof, by and in the name of any party aggrieved by the misconduct of the accused. In such a case, the plaintiff may recover damages, to the extent of the loss or injury sustained by him, by reason of the misconduct, together with the costs and expenses of prosecuting the special proceeding in which the warrant was issued; not exceeding the sum specified in the undertaking.

From Id., §§ 28, 29.

§ 2290. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Id.; by attorney-general, etc.

If no party is aggrieved by the misconduct of the accused, the order must, and, in any case where the court thinks proper so to direct, it may, direct the prosecution of the undertaking, by the attorney-general, or by the district-attorney of the county in which it was given, in the name of the people. In an action, brought pursuant to the order, the people are entitled to recover the entire sum, specified in the undertaking. Out of the money collected, the court, which directed the prosecution, must direct that the person, at whose instance the warrant was issued, be paid such a sum as it thinks proper, to satisfy the costs and expenses incurred by him, and to compensate him for any loss or injury sustained by him, by reason of the misconduct. The residue of the money must be paid into the treasury of the State.

From Id., §§ 30, 31.

§ 2291. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Sheriff liable for taking insufficient sureties.

After the return of an execution, issued upon a judgment, rendered in an action upon the undertaking, an action, to recover the amount of the judgment, may be maintained against the sheriff, where it appears that, at the time when the undertaking was given, the sureties were insufficient, and the sheriff had reasonable grounds to doubt their sufficiency. Such an action may be maintained by the plaintiff, in whose favor the judgment was recovered. If the people were plaintiffs, the action must be prosecuted by the attorney-general or the district-attorney; and any money collected therein must be disposed of, as prescribed in the last section.

From Id., § 32.

§ 2292. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Punishment of misconduct at trial term.

Where a misconduct, which is punishable by fine or imprisonment, as prescribed in this title, occurs at a trial term, or with respect to a mandate returnable at such term, and was not punished at the term at which it occurred; the supreme court may inquire into and punish the misconduct, as if it had occurred at a special term of the supreme court, held in the same county, or with respect to a mandate returnable at such a special term.

From Id., § 33. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

TITLE IV.

Proceedings to collect a fine.

[N. B.—This Title (comprising §§ 2293-2301) has been transferred to the Judiciary Law of the "Consolidated Laws."]

§§ 2293-2301. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

TITLE V.

Proceedings to discover the death of a tenant for life.

Sec. 2302. Petition for production of tenant for life.
2303. Contents of petition.
2304. Service of petition and notice.
2305. Proceedings upon presentation of petition.
2306. Service of order; powers, etc., of referee.
2307. Habeas corpus.
2308. Report of referee.
2309. Dismissal of petition when order complied with.
2310. When life-tenant deemed dead, and petitioner let into possession.
2311. Commission to be issued if life-tenant is without the State.
2312. General provisions respecting the commission.
2313. Petitioner to give notice of its execution.
2314. Execution thereof.
2315. Proceedings on return of commission.
2316. Costs.
2317. Property; when restored.
2318. Remedy of person evicted for profits, etc.
2319. Order not conclusive in ejectment.

§ 2302. Petition for production of tenant for life.

A person entitled to claim real property, after the death of another who has a prior estate therein, may, not oftener than once in each calendar year, apply by petition to the supreme court, at a special term thereof, held within the judicial district, wherein the property, or a part thereof, is situated, for an order, directing the production of the tenant for life, as prescribed in this title, by a person, named in the petition, against whom an action of ejectment to recover the real property can be maintained, if the tenant for life is dead; or, where there is no such person, by the guardian, husband, trustee, or other person, who has, or is entitled to, the custody of the person of the tenant for life, or the care of his estate.

From 2 R. S. 343 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 8), § 1.

§ 2303. Contents of petition.

The petition must be in writing, and verified by the affidavit of the petitioner, to the effect, that the matters of fact therein set forth are true. It must contain:

1. A description of the real property, and a statement of the petitioner's interest therein, and of such other facts as show that the case is within the provisions of the last section.

2. An averment that the petitioner believes that the person, upon whose life the prior estate depends, is dead, together with a statement of the grounds upon which the petitioner's belief is founded.

From Id., §§ 2, 3.

§ 2304. Service of petition and notice.

A copy of the petition, including the affidavit, together with notice of the time and place at which the petition will be presented, must be personally served, at least fourteen days before its presentation, upon the person required, by the prayer thereof, to produce the tenant for life.

From Id., § 3.

§ 2305. Proceedings upon presentation of petition.

Upon the presentation of the petition and affidavit, with due proof, by affidavit, of service of a copy thereof, and of the notice, if sufficient cause to the contrary is not shown by the adverse party, the court must either issue a commission, as prescribed in the following sections of this title; or make an order, directing the adverse party, at a time and place therein specified, before the court, or a referee therein designated, to produce the person upon whose life the prior estate depends, or, in default thereof, to prove that he is living.

From Id., § 4.

§ 2306. Service of order; powers, etc., of referee.

Where an order, requiring the production of the tenant for life, or proof that he is living, is made as prescribed in the last section, a certified copy thereof must be served, at least fourteen days before the time therein specified, upon the person required to make the production or proof, or upon his attorney. Upon presentation of proof of service, by affidavit, the court or the referee must, at the time and place specified in the order, or at the time and place to which the hearing may be adjourned, hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, respecting the identity of any person produced, with the person whose death is in question; or, if the latter person is not produced, respecting the reasons for the failure to produce him, and whether he is living. Where a referee is appointed, he has the same powers, and is entitled to the same compensation, as a referee appointed for the trial of an issue in an action.

From Id., § 5.

§ 2307. Habeas corpus.

If it appears, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the court, that the person required to be produced is imprisoned within the State, for any cause, except upon a sentence for a felony, or is kept or detained, within the State, by any person, the court may, either before or after making the order for production, issue a writ of habeas corpus to bring him before it, or before the referee, as the case requires. The writ must be served and executed, and disobedience thereto may be punished, as where a writ of habeas corpus is issued, to inquire into the cause of the detention of a prisoner.

From Id., § 7.

§ 2308. Report of referee.

The referee must deliver his report to the petitioner, or file it with the clerk, within ten days after the case is closed. He must state therein, whether any person was or was not produced before him, as being the person whose death is in question. He must append thereto, in the form of depositions, the proofs, if any, respecting the identity of any person so produced, with the person whose death is in question; or, if no one is so produced, upon the question whether the latter person is living. He must also state, in his report, his conclusions upon the questions controverted before him.

From Id., § 8.

§ 2309. Dismissal of petition when order complied with.

If it appears, to the satisfaction of the court, upon the referee's report, and the proofs thereto appended; or, where a referee is not appointed, upon the allegations and proofs of the parties before the court; that the party, required to produce the tenant for life, or to prove his existence, has fully complied with the order, the court must make an order, dismissing the petition, and requiring the petitioner to pay the costs of the proceedings.

From Id., § 9.

§ 2310. When life-tenant deemed dead, and petitioner let into possession.

If it appears, from the referee's report, or upon the hearing before the court, that the person, upon whose life the prior estate depends, was not produced; and if the party required to produce him, or to prove his existence, has not proved, to the satisfaction of the court, that he is living; a final order must be made, declaring that he is presumed to be dead, for the purpose of the proceedings, and directing that the petitioner be forthwith let into possession of the real property, as if that person was actually dead.

From Id., § 10.

§ 2311. Commission to be issued if life-tenant is without the State.

If before or at the time of the presentation of the referee's report to the court, or, where a referee is not appointed, at any time before the final order is made, the party, upon whom the petition and notice are served, presents to the court presumptive proof, by affidavit, that the person, whose death is in question, is, or lately was, at a place certain, without the State, the court must make an order, requiring the petitioner to take out a commission, directed to one or more persons, residing at or near that place, either designated in the order, or to be appointed upon a subsequent application for the commission, for the purpose of obtaining a view of the person, whose death is in question, and of taking such testimony, respecting his identity, as the parties produce. The order must also direct that the proceedings upon the petition be stayed, until the return of the commission; and that the petition be dismissed with costs, unless the petitioner takes out the commission, within a time specified in the order, and diligently procures it to be executed and returned, at his own expense.

From Id., § 11.

§ 2312. General provisions respecting the commission.

It is not necessary, unless the court specially so directs, that the witnesses to be examined should be named in the commission, or that interrogatories should be annexed thereto. The commission must be executed and returned, and the deposition taken must be filed and used, as prescribed for those purposes in article second of title third of chapter ninth of this act, except as otherwise specially prescribed in this title.

New.

§ 2313. Petitioner to give notice of its execution.

The petitioner must give to the adverse party, or his attorney, written notice of the time when, and the place where, the commissioner or commissioners will attend, for the purpose of executing the commission, as follows:

1. If the place, where the commission is to be executed, is within the United States, or the dominion of Canada, he must give at least two months' notice.

2. If it is within either of the West India islands, he must give at least three months' notice.

3. In every other case, he must give at least four months' notice.

Notice may be given, as required by this section, by serving it as prescribed in this act for the service of a paper upon an attorney, in an action in the supreme court.

From 2 R. S. 343 (Part 3, c. 5, tit. 9), § 12.

§ 2314. Execution thereof.

The commissioner or commissioners possess the same powers, and must proceed in the same manner, as a referee, appointed by an order requiring the production of the tenant for life, or proof of his existence; except that they cannot proceed, unless a person is produced before them, as being the person whose death is in question. The return to the commission must expressly state whether any person was or was not so produced. The testimony, respecting the identity of a person so produced, must be taken, unless otherwise specially directed by the court, as prescribed in chapter ninth of this act, for taking the deposition of a witness upon oral interrogatories; except that it is not necessary to give any other notice of the time and place of examination, than that prescribed in the last section.

From Id., § 13.

§ 2315. Proceedings on return of commission.

Upon the return of the commission, the proceedings are the same as upon the report of a referee, as prescribed in sections 2309 and 2310 of this act; but the court may, in its discretion, receive additional proofs from either party.

From Id., §§ 13, 14, 15, 16.

§ 2316. Costs.

Where costs of a special proceeding, taken as prescribed in this title, are awarded, they must be fixed by the court at a gross sum, not exceeding fifty dollars, in addition to disbursements. Where provision is not specially made in this title for the award of costs, they may be denied, or awarded to or against either party, as justice requires.

From Id., § 18.

§ 2317. Property; when restored.

The possession of real property, which has been awarded to the petitioner, as prescribed in this title, upon the presumption of the death of the person, upon whose life the prior estate depends, must be restored, by the order of the court, to the person evicted, or to his heirs or legal representatives, upon the petition of the latter, and proof, to the satisfaction of the court, that the person presumed to be dead is living. The proceedings upon such an application are the same, as prescribed in this title, upon the application of the person to whom possession is awarded.

From Id., § 19.

§ 2318. Remedy of person evicted for profits, etc.

A person evicted, as prescribed in this title, may, if the presumption, upon which he is evicted, is erroneous, maintain an action against the person who has occupied the property, or his executor or administrator, to recover the rents and profits of the property, during the occupation, while the person, upon whose life the prior estate depends, is or was living.

From Id., § 20.

§ 2319. Order not conclusive in ejectment.

A final order, made as prescribed in this title, awarding to the petitioner the possession of real property, is presumptive evidence only, in an action of ejectment, brought against him by the person evicted, or in an action brought as prescribed in the last section, of the life or death of the person, upon whose life the prior estate depends.

New.

2330. Jury to be procured. Proceedings thereupon.
2331. Proceedings upon the hearing.
2332. Return of inquisition and commission.
2333. Expenses of commission.
2334. Proceedings upon trial by jury in court.
2335. Subject of inquiry in cases of lunacy.
2336. Proceedings upon verdict, or return of commission.
2336a. Sections of this title not applicable when application for committee is made under authority of this State.
2337. Security to be given by committee.
2338. Compensation of committee.
2339. Committee under control of court; limitation of powers.
2340. Committee of property may maintain actions, etc.

2342. Id.; may be compelled to file the same, or render an additional account, etc.
2343. Property, when to be restored.
2344. Id.; disposition in case of death.
2344a. Court may compel performance of contract made by incompetent person in certain cases.

§ 2320. [Am'd, 1894, 1895.] Jurisdiction; concurrent jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction of the supreme court extends to the custody of the person, and the care of the property, of a person incompetent to manage himself or his affairs, in consequence of lunacy, idiocy, habitual drunkenness, or imbecility arising from old age or loss of memory and understanding, or other cause. Where a county court has jurisdiction of those matters, concurrent with that of the supreme court, the jurisdiction of the court first exercising it, as prescribed in this title, is exclusive of that of the others, with respect to any matter within its jurisdiction, for which provision is made in this title. In all proceedings under this title for the appointment of a committee of such a person, he shall be designated "an alleged incompetent person;" and after the appointment of a committee of such person, in all subsequent proceedings the lunatic, idiot, habitual drunkard or imbecile shall be designated "an incompetent person."

From L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 1. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 504; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2321. Duty of court having jurisdiction.

The court exercising jurisdiction over the property of either of the incompetent persons, specified in the last section, must preserve his property from waste or destruction; and, out of the proceeds thereof, must provide for the payment of his debts, and for the safe keeping and maintenance, and the education, when required, of the incompetent person and his family.

From L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 1.

§ 2322. Committee may be appointed.

The jurisdiction, specified in the last two sections, must be exercised by means of a committee of the person, or a committee of the property, or of a particular portion of the property, of the incompetent person, appointed as prescribed in this title. The committee of the person and the committee of the property may be the same individual, or different individuals, in the discretion of the court.

New.

§ 2323. [Am'd, 1895.] Application for committee; by whom made.

An application for the appointment of such a committee must be made by petition, which may be presented by any person. Except as provided in the next section, where the application is made to the supreme court, the petition must be presented at a special term held within the judicial district, or to a justice of said court within such judicial district at chambers, where the person alleged to be incompetent resides; or if he is not a resident of the State, or the place of his residence cannot be ascertained, where some of his property is situated, or the State institution is situated of which he is an inmate.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 824 (in effect June 18, 1895).

§ 2323a. [Added, 1895; am'd, 1897, 1904, 1912.] Application when incompetent person is in a state institution; petition, by whom made; contents and proceedings upon presentation thereof.

Where an incompetent person has been committed to a state institution in any manner provided by law, and is an inmate thereof, the petition may be presented on behalf of the state by a state officer having special jurisdiction over the institution where the incompetent person is confined or the superintendent or acting superintendent of said institution; the petition must be in writing and verified by the affidavit of the petitioner or his attorney, to the effect that the matters therein stated are true to the best of his information or belief; it must show that the person for whose person or property, or both, a committee is asked has been legally committed to a state institution over which the petitioner has special jurisdiction, or of which he is superintendent or acting superintendent, and is at the time an inmate thereof; it must also state the institution in which he is an inmate, the date of his admission, his last known place of residence, the name and residence of the husband or wife, if any, of such person, if known to the petitioner, and if there be none known to the petitioner, the name and residence of the next of kin of such person living in this state so far as known to the petitioner; the nature, extent and income of his property, so far as the same is known to the petitioner, or can with reasonable diligence be ascertained by him. The petition may be presented to the supreme court at any special term thereof, held either in the judicial district in which such incompetent person last resided, or in the district in which the state institution in which he is committed is situated, or to a justice of the supreme court at chambers within such judicial district, or to the county court of the county in which the incompetent person resided at the time of such commitment, or of the county in which said institution is situated. Notice of the presentation of such petition shall be personally given to such person, and also to the husband or wife, if known to the petitioner, or if none is known to the petitioner, to the next of kin named in the petition and to the officer in charge of the institution in which such person is an inmate, unless sufficient reasons for dispensing therewith are set forth in the petition or shown by affidavit. When notice is required, it may be given in any manner which the court deems proper. Upon the presentation of such petition, and proof of the service of such notice, the court or justice may, if satisfied of the truth of the facts required to be stated in such petition, immediately appoint a committee of the person or property, or both, of such incompetent person or may require any further proof which it or he may deem necessary before making such appointment.

Added by L. 1895, c. 824. Am'd by L. 1897, c. 149; L. 1904, c. 509; L. 1912, c. 98 (in effect Sept. 1, 1912).

§ 2323b. [Added, 1895.] Costs of proceeding.

Upon the presentation of a petition and the appointment of a committee, as provided in section 2323a, the court or justice may award costs of the proceeding, not exceeding twenty-five dollars in addition to necessary disbursements, to the petitioner, payable from the estate of the incompetent person, and upon denial of an application to set the same aside, costs as of a motion.

Added by L. 1895, c. 824.

§ 2324. Duty of certain officers to apply.

Where the incompetent person has property, which may be endangered in consequence of his incompetency, and no relative or other person applies for the appointment of a committee of his property, the overseer or superintendent of the poor of the town, district, county, or city, in which he resides, or, where there is no such officer, the officer or officers performing corresponding functions under another official title, must apply to the proper court, for the appointment of such a committee. The expenses of conducting the proceedings thereupon must be audited and allowed, in the same manner as other official expenses of those officers are audited and allowed.

From 2 R. S. 52, 53 (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 2), §§ 2–7.

§ 2325. [Am'd, 1891.] Contents, etc., of petition; proceedings upon presentation thereof.

The petition must be in writing, and verified by the affidavit of the petitioner, or his attorney, to the effect that the matters of fact therein stated are true. It must be accompanied with proof, by affidavit, that the case is one of those specified in this title. It must set forth the names and residences of the husband or wife, if any, and of the next of kin and heirs, of the person alleged to be incompetent, as far as the same are known to the petitioner, or can, with reasonable diligence, be ascertained by him; and also the probable value of the property possessed and owned by the alleged incompetent person, and what property has been conveyed during said alleged incompetency and to whom, and its value and what consideration was paid for it, if any, or was agreed to be paid. The court must, unless sufficient reasons for dispensing therewith are set forth, in the petition or accompanying affidavit, require notice of the presentation of the petition to be given to the husband or wife, if any, or to one or more of the relatives of the person alleged to be incompetent, or to an officer specified in the last section. When notice is required, it may be given in any manner, which the court deems proper; and for that purpose, the hearing may be adjourned to a subsequent day, or to another term, at which the petition might have been presented.

Substituted for 2 R. S. (Part 2, c. 5, tit. 2), §§ 2–7. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 263.

§ 2325a. [Added, 1913.] Notice to be filed, recorded and indexed.

In all proceedings taken under this title, if real property or any interest therein is intended to be affected, the petitioner shall file in the clerk's office of each county where the property is situated, a notice of the pendency of such proceeding, which shall set forth the general nature and object of the proceeding and a brief description of the real property in that county to be affected thereby, and which notice must be filed with the petition or any time thereafter and before any final adjudication in the proceeding. The clerk shall index such notice against the name of the alleged incompetent. The pendency of the proceeding is constructive notice from the time of so filing the notice only to a purchaser or incumbrancer of the property affected thereby from or against the alleged incompetent with respect to whom the notice is directed to be indexed as aforesaid. A person whose conveyance or incumbrance is subsequently executed or subsequently recorded is bound by all proceedings taken after the filing of the notice to the same extent as if he was a party to the proceeding. But this provision shall not prevent a jury in a proper proceeding, on sufficient proof, from rendering a verdict that shall overreach any conveyance or incumbrance theretofore executed by the alleged incompetent, so as to make such conveyance or incumbrance prima facie void.

Added by L. 1913, c. 69 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2326. [Am'd, 1898.] When foreign committee may be appointed.

Where the person alleged to be incompetent resides without the state, and a committee, curator or guardian of his property, by whatever name such officer may be designated, has been duly appointed pursuant to the laws of any other state, territory or country where he resides, the court may, in its discretion, make an order appointing the foreign committee, curator or guardian, the committee of all or of a particular portion of the property of the incompetent person, within the state, on his giving such security for the discharge of his trust as the court thinks proper.

New. Am'd by L. 1898, c. 294 (in effect Sept. 1, 1898).

§ 2327. [Am'd, 1891, 1895.] Order for commission, or for trial by jury in courts.

Unless an order is made, as prescribed in the last section, if it presumptively appears, to the satisfaction of the court, from the petition and the proofs accompanying it, that the case is one of those specified in this title; and that a committee ought, in the exercise of a sound discretion, to be appointed; the court must make an order, directing, either

1. That a commission issue, as prescribed in the next section, to one or more fit persons, designated in the order; or

2. That the question of fact, arising upon the competency of the person, with respect to whom the petition prays for the appointment of a committee, be tried by a jury at a trial term of the court.

3. When it satisfactorily appears from the petition and accompanying affidavits that any person or persons having acquired from the alleged incompetent person, real or personal property during the time of such alleged incompetency without adequate consideration, the court may issue an order, with or without security, restraining such person or persons from selling, assigning, disposing of or incumbering said property, or confessing judgment which shall become a lien upon said property, during the pendency of the proceeding for the appointment of a committee, and said order may in the discretion of the court be continued for ten days after the appointment of such committee. Notice of the execution of the commission shall be given to the person or persons enjoined in such manner as the court may direct.

New. Am'd by L. 1891, c. 263; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2328. Contents of commission.

The commission must direct the commissioners to cause the sheriff of a county, specified therein, to procure a jury; and that they inquire, by the jury, into the matters set forth in the petition; and also into the value of the real and personal property of the person alleged to be incompetent, and the amount of his income. It may contain such other directions, with respect to the subjects of inquiry, or the manner of executing the commission, as the court directs to be inserted therein.

New.

§ 2329. Commissioners to be sworn; vacancies, how filled.

Each commissioner, before entering upon the execution of his duties, must subscribe and take, before one of the officers specified in section 842 of this act, and file with the clerk, an oath, faithfully, honestly, and impartially to discharge the trust committed to him. If a commissioner becomes incompetent, or neglects or refuses to serve, or removes from the State, the court may remove him. The court may, from time to time, fill any vacancy created by death, removal, or resignation.

New.

§ 2330. [Am'd, 1895.] Jury to be procured; proceedings thereupon.

The commissioners, or a majority of them, must immediately issue a precept to the sheriff, designated in the commission, requiring him to notify, not less than twelve nor more than twenty-four indifferent persons, qualified to serve, and not exempt from serving, as trial jurors in the same court, to appear before the commissioners, at a specified time and place, within the county, to make inquiry, as commanded by the commission. The sheriff must notify the jurors accordingly; and must return the precept, and the names of the persons notified, to the commissioners at the time and place specified in the precept. The commissioners, or a majority of them, must determine a challenge made to a juror. Upon the failure to attend, of a person who has been duly notified, his attendance may be compelled; and he may be punished by the court for a contempt, as where a juror, duly notified, fails to attend at a trial term of the court. The commissioners may require a sheriff to cause a talesman to attend, in place of a juror notified, and not attending, or who is excused or discharged; or they may adjourn the proceedings, for the purpose of punishing the defaulting juror, or compelling his attendance. But it is not necessary to cause any talesman to attend, if at least twelve of the persons, notified by the sheriff, appear and are sworn.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2331. Proceedings upon the hearing.

All the commissioners must attend and preside at the hearing; and they, or a majority of them, have, with respect to the proceedings upon the hearing, all the power and authority of a judge of the court, holding a trial term, subject to the directions contained in the commission. Either of the commissioners may administer the usual oath to the jurors. At least twelve jurors must concur in a finding. If twelve do not concur, the jurors must report their disagreement to the commissioners, who must thereupon discharge them, and issue a new precept to the sheriff, to procure another jury.

New.

§ 2332. Return of inquisition and commission.

The inquisition must be signed by the jurors concurring therein, and by the commissioners, or a majority of them, and annexed to the commission. The commission and inquisition must be returned by the commissioners, and filed with the clerk.

New.

§ 2333. Expenses of commission.

The commissioners are entitled to such compensation for their services, as the court directs. The jurors are entitled to the same compensation, as jurors upon the trial of an issue in an action in the same court. The petitioner must pay the compensation of the commissioners, sheriff, and jurors.

New.

§ 2334. [Am'd, 1895.] Proceedings upon trial by jury in court.

Where an order is made, directing the trial, by a jury, at a trial term, of the questions of fact, arising upon the competency of the person, with respect to whom the petition prays for the appointment of a committee, the order must state, distinctly and plainly, the questions of fact to be tried; which may be settled as where an order for a similar trial is made in an action. The court may, in that or in a subsequent order, direct that notice of the trial be given to such persons, and in such a manner as is deemed proper. The trial must be reviewed in the same manner, with like effect, and, except as otherwise directed in the order, the proceedings thereupon are, in all respects, the same as where questions of fact are tried, pursuant to an order for that purpose. The court may make inquiry by means of a reference or otherwise, as it thinks proper, with respect to any matter, not involved in the questions tried by the jury, the determination of which is necessary in the course of the proceedings. The expenses of the trial, and of such an inquiry, must be paid by the petitioner.

New. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2335. [Am'd, 1895.] Subject of inquiry in cases of lunacy.

Where the petition alleges, that the person, with respect to whom it prays for the appointment of a committee, is incompetent, by reason of lunacy, the inquiry with respect to his competency, upon the execution of a commission, or the trial at a trial term, as prescribed in this title, must be confined to the question, whether he is so incompetent, at the time of the inquiry; and testimony, respecting any thing said or done by him, or his demeanor or state of mind, more than two years before the hearing or trial, shall not be received as proof of lunacy, unless the court otherwise specially directs, in the order granting the commission, or directing the trial by jury.

From L. 1874, c. 446, § 2. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2336. Proceedings upon verdict, or return of commission.

Upon the return of the commission, with the inquisition taken thereunder, or the rendering of the verdict of the jury, upon the questions submitted to it by the order for a trial by a jury, the court must either direct a new trial or hearing, or make such a final order upon the petition, as justice requires. Where a final order is made, dismissing a petition, the court may, in its discretion, award in the order a fixed sum, as costs, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, to be paid by the petitioner to the adverse party. Where a committee of the property is appointed, the court must direct the payment by him, out of the funds in his hands, of the necessary disbursements of the petitioner, and of such a sum, for his costs and counsel fees, as it thinks reasonable; and it may, in its discretion, direct the committee to pay a sum, not exceeding fifty dollars and disbursements, to the attorney for any adverse party.

New.

§ 2336a. [Added, 1895.] Sections of this title not applicable when application for committee is made under authority of this State.

Sections 2325 to 2336, both inclusive, of this title shall not apply to applications for the appointment of a committee made by it on behalf of the State to secure reimbursement, in whole or in part, for maintenance and support in a State institution.

Added by L. 1895, c. 824.

§ 2337. [Am'd, 1887, 1915.] Security to be given by committee.

The provisions of sections 2576, 2650 and 2652 of this act, respecting the security to be given by the guardian of the person or of the property of an infant, appointed by a surrogate's court, except that part thereof authorizing the appointment of an associate with the guardian and the security to be given in such a case, apply to a committee of the person or of the property, appointed as prescribed in this article. A committee of the property cannot enter upon the execution of his duties, until security is given, as prescribed by the court. A committee of the person cannot enter upon the execution of his duties, until security is given, if required by the court.

New. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 681; L. 1915, c. 637 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 2338. [Am'd, 1890, 1895, 1915.] Compensation of committee.

A committee of the property is entitled to the same compensation as an executor, administrator, or testamentary trustee. But in a special case, where his services exceed those of an executor or administrator, the supreme court or a county court within the county may allow him such an additional compensation for such additional services, as it deems just. The compensation of a committee of the person must be fixed by the court, and paid by the committee of the property, if any, out of the funds in his hands. The additional compensation authorized by this section may be allowed to the committee upon any judicial settlement made by him, and shall be for such additional services up to and including such settlement.

New. Am'd by L. 1890, c. 516; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1915, c. 652 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 2339. Committee under control of court; limitation of powers.

A committee, either of the person or of the property, is subject to the direction and control of the court by which he was appointed, with respect to the execution of his duties; and he may be suspended, removed, or allowed to resign, in the discretion of the court. A vacancy created by death, removal, or resignation may be filled by the court. But a committee of the property cannot alien, mortgage, or otherwise dispose of, real property, except to lease it for a term not exceeding five years, without the special direction of the court, obtained upon proceedings taken for that purpose, as prescribed in title seventh of this chapter.

In part from L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 27.

§ 2340. Committee of property may maintain actions, etc.

A committee of the property, appointed as prescribed in this title, may maintain, in his own name, adding his official title, any action or special proceeding, which the person, with respect to whom he is appointed, might have maintained, if the appointment had not been made.

From Id., § 5.

§ 2341. [Am'd, 1894, 1906, 1915.] Id.; to file inventory and account.

The provisions of sections 2660 and 2661 of this act, requiring the general guardian of an infant's property, appointed by a surrogate's court, to file in the month of January in each year an inventory, account and affidavit, and prescribing the form of the papers so to be filed, apply to a committee of the property appointed, as prescribed in this title. For the purpose of making that application the committee is deemed a general guardian of the property; the person with respect to whom he is appointed, is deemed a ward and the papers must be filed in the office of the clerk of the court by which the committee was appointed, or if he was appointed by the supreme court, in the clerk's office where the order appointing him is entered, and, if the incompetent person for whom such committee is appointed has been committed to a state institution, and is an inmate thereof, a duplicate of such inventory, account, and affidavit, shall be filed also by said committee with the superintendent or officer having special jurisdiction over the institution where the incompetent person is confined. In every case where a committee has used or employed the services of an incompetent person, with respect to whom he has been appointed a committee, or where moneys have been earned by or received on behalf of such incompetent person, the committee must account for any moneys so earned or derived from such services, the same as for other property or assets of the incompetent person.

Substituted for 2 R. S. 53 (part 2, c. 5, tit. 2), §§ 8, 9. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 51; L. 1906, c. 181; L. 1915, c. 630 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 2342. [Am'd, 1895, 1899, 1914, 1916.] Id.; may be compelled to file the same, or to render an additional account, etc.

In the month of February of each year, the presiding judge of the court, by which the committee of the property was appointed, or if he was appointed by the supreme court, the county judge of the county where the order appointing him is entered, must examine, or cause to be examined under his direction, all accounts and inventories filed by committees of the person and property, since the first day of February of the preceding year. If it appears, upon the examination, that a committee appointed as prescribed in this title, has omitted to file his annual inventory or accounting, or the affidavit relating thereto, as prescribed in the last section, or if the judge is of the opinion that the interest of the person, with respect to whom the committee was appointed, requires that he should render a more full or satisfactory inventory or account, the judge must make an order requiring the committee to supply the deficiency, and also, in his discretion, personally to pay the expense of serving the order upon him. An order so made may be entered and enforced, and the failure to obey it may be punished, as if it were made by the court. Where the committee fails to comply with the order, within three months after it is made, or, where the judge has reason to believe that sufficient cause exists for the removal of the committee, the judge may, in his discretion, appoint a fit person special guardian of the incompetent person with respect to whom the committee was appointed, for the purpose of filing a petition in his behalf for the removal of the committee and prosecuting the necessary proceedings for that purpose. The committee may be compelled in the discretion of the court, to pay personally the costs of the proceedings so instituted. Where the examination of the accounts and inventories of committees of incompetent persons provided for herein is made pursuant to the order or direction of a county judge, the expense of such examination as allowed by the county judge directing the examination shall be payable by the county treasurer of the county out of any court funds in his hands upon the order of the county judge directing such examination. The committee of the property of an incompetent person appointed as prescribed in this title, may apply to the court making the appointment, for an order to permit him to render to such court an intermediate judicial account of all his proceedings affecting the property of the incompetent person to the date of the filing thereof. And the court upon examination may, in its discretion, make an order directing that such account be filed with the clerk of the court where the application is made, on or before the date determined by the order.

The account to be filed pursuant to such order shall be verified and contain a just, true and proper statement of all the acts of the committee, and an itemized statement of the receipts and disbursements of any and all moneys and properties that have come into hand covering the whole of the period for which the accounting is asked. A summary statement shall be included in the account and all vouchers shall be filed therewith. Notice of the filing of such account pursuant to such order and of an application for the judicial settlement thereof shall be given in the manner in which and to the persons to whom notice of application for the appointment of a committee of the person or property of an alleged incompetent person, lunatic, idiot or habitual drunkard is required to be given by title six of chapter 17 of the code of civil procedure. Upon the return day of the notice of such application the court shall have the power to appoint a referee to take and state such account and to report to the court with his opinion thereon as to all matters embraced in said account. The court shall have power and it shall be its duty to appoint a suitable person as special guardian of the incompetent person for the protection of his rights and interests in said proceeding.

Upon the motion for a confirmation of the report of a referee appointed pursuant to the provisions hereof or if the accounting be had before the court, upon the court's determination, said account shall be then judicially adjusted, determined, fixed and filed.

The compensation of the referee and of the special guardian appointed under the provisions of this chapter shall in every instance be fixed by the court to be paid out of the estate, if any, of the incompetent person. The judicial settlement of the final account of a committee shall be made in the same manner, so far as may be applicable, as provided in this section for the judicial settlement of an intermediate account.

Substituted for L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 4, last sentence. Am'd by L. 1895, c. 746; L. 1899, c. 350; L. 1914, c. 344; L. 1916, c. 535 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

§ 2343. Property, when to be restored.

Where a person, with respect to whom a committee is appointed, as prescribed in this title, becomes competent to manage himself or his affairs, the court must make an order, discharging the committee of his property, or the committee of his person, or both, as the case requires, and requiring the former committee to restore to him the property, remaining in the committee's hands. Thereupon the property must be restored accordingly.

From L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 28.

§ 2344. [Am'd, 1908, 1915.] Id.; disposition in case of death.

Where a person, of whose property a committee has been appointed, as prescribed in this title, dies during his incompetency, the power of the committee ceases; and the property of the decedent must be administered and disposed of, as if a committee had not been appointed. The committee may, in such case, render to the court by which he was appointed, a final account of his proceedings touching the property of the incompetent. Such account shall contain an inventory in the form prescribed by section 2660 of this act and a full and true account in form of debtor and creditor of all his receipts and disbursements, and there shall be appended thereto an affidavit of the committee in the form prescribed by section 2661 of this act. Notice of the application for settlement of such account shall be given in such manner as the court may direct, to the sureties on the official bond of the committee or the legal representatives of such sureties, and to the executor or administrator of the decedent, if any; and, if there be no executor or administrator, to the decedent's husband or wife, and heirs and next of kin, or if any of those persons shall have died, to his executor or administrator. Such account shall be judicially settled, adjusted and determined, and, as to the proofs and vouchers in support thereof, shall be subject to the provisions of article one of title five of chapter eighteen of this act with respect to the accounting of executors and administrators.

From Id., § 29; 2 R. S. 55, § 25; L. 1865, c. 724. Am'd by L. 1908, c. 271; L. 1915, c. 632 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 2344a. [Added, 1900.] Court may compel performance of contract made by incompetent person in certain cases.

The supreme court shall have authority to decree and compel the specific performance of any bargain, contract or agreement which may have been made by any idiot, lunatic or habitual drunkard, while such person was capable to contract; and of any contract in relation to lands made by the ancestor of such person from whom such person inherits or takes as devisee or otherwise; and to direct the committee of such person to do and execute all necessary conveyances and acts for that purpose; and in case the person entitled to such conveyance is the committee of such incompetent person the said court may, upon the petition of said committee, appoint some suitable and proper person to execute the said conveyance in the name of such incompetent person upon payment by the vendee of any sum remaining due to such person upon said contract, or upon the fulfillment of the contract on the part of the party who contracted with the person represented by said committee.

From 2 R. S. (pt. 2, c. 5, tit. 2, § 22), as am'd by L. 1880, c. 423, § 1. Added by L. 1900, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1900).

From Id. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 399.

§ 2347. Judgment; effect thereof.

A judgment, directing such a conveyance, shall not be rende unless the court, after hearing the parties, is satisfied that conveyance ought to be made. Upon rendering final judgment that effect, the court has power to direct the guardian of the fant's property, or the committee of the property of the lunatic or other incompetent person, or a special guardian appointed in the action, to execute any conveyance, or to do any other act, which is necessary, in order to carry the judgment into effect.

From 2 R. S. 194, § 169; Id., 55, §§ 19, 22.

§ 2348. [Am'd, 1890, 1893, 1903, 1907.] Application to dispose of real property or an interest therein.

In either of the following cases real property or a term, estate or other interest in real property of an infant in being or the contingent interest therein of an infant not in being or of a person incompetent to manage his affairs by reason of lunacy, idiocy or habitual drunkenness, or an inchoate right of dower in real property belonging to an infant or an incompetent person or the possibility that upon breach of a condition a right of re-entry will vest in or real property will revert to an infant or an incompetent person or his heirs solely or in common with others may be sold, conveyed, mortgaged, released or leased as prescribed in the following sections of this title:

1. Where the personal property, and the income of the real property, of the infant or incompetent person, are, together, insufficient for the payment of his debts, or for the maintenance and necessary education of himself and his family.

2. Where the interest of the infant in being or the contingent interest of an infant not in being, or the interest of an incompetent person require or will be substantially promoted by such disposition, on account of the real property or term, or estate, or other interest in real property being exposed to waste or dilapidation; or being wholly unproductive, or for the purpose of raising funds to preserve or to improve the same, or for other peculiar reasons, or on account of other peculiar circumstances.

3. Where an action might be maintained against the infant or incompetent person, to procure a judgment, directing the conveyance of the real property, or interest in real property, as prescribed in sections 2345 and 2346 of this act.

4. Where the interest of the infant or incompetent person will be substantially promoted by releasing or joining with others in releasing for a valuable consideration the possibility that upon breach of a condition a right of re-entry will vest in or real property will revert to the infant or incompetent person or his heirs solely or in common with others. Such possibility is referred to in the following sections of this title as a possibility of reverter.

§ 2350. [Am'd, 1893, 1910.] Contents of petition.

The petition must be verified in like manner as a verified p ing in an action in the supreme court. It must set forth grounds of the application; and in a case specified in subdivi first and second of the last section but one, other than a where the application is made for the sale of an undivided int of the infant or incompetent person in one or more parcels of in order to avoid an action of partition on the part of his c ants, or for the dower of a widow therein, it must also state particulars and value of the real and personal property, and amount of the income of the infant or incompetent person: disposition which has been made of his personal property, an account of the debts or demands, if any, existing against estate. In the case above specified where the application is for the sale of an undivided interest of the infant or incomp person, the petition must state the particulars and value of real property in respect to which a sale is desired.

§ 2351. [Am'd, 1893, 1903, 1907, 1915.] Bond of committee of lunatic

An application to sell, mortgage, release, or lease real prop or an interest in real property, of a lunatic, idiot or habitual dr ard, cannot be granted, unless a committee of his property been appointed. Upon such an application, if it is made by committee, the court must make an order, directing him to with the clerk, a bond, with either individual or corporate su approved by the court as to form, amount and sufficiency of su conditioned for the faithful discharge of his trust; for the paying and investing of, and accounting for, all moneys received by hi the special proceeding, according to the direction of any court ha authority to give directions in the premises; and for the observ of the directions of the court, in relation to the trust. If the app tion is made by any other person, an order must be made thereu requiring the committee to show cause why he should not file a bond. If, after hearing the committee, the court is of the ion, that there is a probable cause for granting the applica it may make an order, requiring the committee to file such a b or, if the committee so elects, or fails to file the bond as dir in the order, it may appoint a suitable person to be the sp guardian of the incompetent person, with respect to the ceedings, who must thereupon file such a bond. Wher application is made to release an inchoate right of dower, app tion must be made by the husband of the lunatic, idiot or hab drunkard and may be made before or after a committee has appointed, except that application may be made by the committee of the property of the lunatic, idiot, or habitual drunkard in any case where, at the time of the application, the property to which the inchoate right of dower attaches has already been sold by the husband and the wife has not joined in the conveyance or otherwise released her inchoate right of dower. When the application is made by the husband, the court may appoint him special guardian, and he must file a bond as herein provided.

From 2 R. S. 54, § 14; L. 1864, c. 417, § 2; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 7, 20. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 639; L. 1903, c. 368; L. 1907, c. 49; L. 1915, c. 241 (in effect September 1, 1915).

§ 2352. [Am'd, 1893, 1907.] Id.; of guardian of infant.

Upon an application to sell, mortgage, release or lease real property or an interest in real property of an infant, the court must appoint a suitable person to be the special guardian of the infant with respect to the proceedings, who must thereupon file with the clerk a bond as prescribed in the last section. Any trust company authorized by the laws of this state to act as general guardian of the estate of an infant without giving security may be appointed such special guardian and in such case the court in the order of appointment may dispense with the giving and filing of any such bond.

From 2 R. S. 54, 55, §§ 13, 16, 18, 19, 22; Id., 194, §§ 167, 175; L. 1864, c. 417, § 5; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 9, 19, 22, 23, 26; Id., tit. 1, § 38. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 268; L. 1907, c. 49 (in effect March 14, 1907).

§ 2353. Bond; how prosecuted.

Upon a breach of the condition of a bond, given as prescribed in either of the last two sections, the court must direct it to be prosecuted for the benefit of the person injured.

From 2 R. S. 194, § 173; L. 1864, c. 417, § 3; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 8.

§ 2354. [Am'd, 1893.] Reference to inquire into the application.

Upon the presentation of the petition, and the filing of the bond, where the filing of such a bond shall be necessary, the court must make an order appointing a suitable person a referee to inquire into the merits of the application. The referee must examine into the truth of the allegations of the petition; hear the allegations and proofs of all persons interested in the property, or otherwise interested in the application; and report his opinion thereupon, together with the testimony, with all convenient speed.

From 2 R. S. 54, § 12; L. 1864, c. 417, § 4; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 8, 18; Id., tit. 1, § 38; 2 R. S. 195, § 174. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 268.

§ 2355. [Am'd, 1893, 1907.] Final order.

Upon the filing of the referee's report, and after examining into the matter, the court must make a final order upon the application. In a proper case a final order, confirming the referee's report, must direct that the real property or term, estate, possibility of reverter or other interest in real property or a part thereof or an inchoate right of dower therein, as is necessary, or as justice requires, be mortgaged, let for a term of years, sold, released or conveyed by the special guardian appointed as prescribed in this title, or by the committee of the property of the lunatic or other incompetent person. The final order must also contain such directions, respecting the time, manner and conditions of the sale, release or conveyance directed thereby, as the court thinks proper to insert therein.

From 2 R. S. 54, §§ 13, 16, 18, 19, 22; Id., 194, 195, §§ 167, 175; L. 1864, c. 417, § 5; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 9, 19, 22, 23, 26; Id., tit. 1, § 38. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 639; L. 1907, c. 49 (in effect March 14, 1907).

§ 2356. [Am'd, 1893.] Report of sale, etc.

Before a sale, mortgage, release, or lease can be made pursuant to the final order, the special guardian or the committee must enter into an agreement therefor, subject to the approval of the court; and must report the agreement to the court under oath. Upon the confirmation thereof by the order of the court, he must execute, as directed by the court, a deed, mortgage, release or lease. Where the final order directs the execution of a conveyance in the first instance, for the purpose of fulfilling a contract, or because the property is held by way of mortgage, or in trust only, the guardian or committee, executing the conveyance, must report the conveyance to the court, under oath.

From 2 R. S. 195, § 177; L. 1864, c. 417, § 7; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 11. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 639.

§ 2357. Certain sales, etc., prohibited.

Real property, or an interest in real property, shall not be sold, leased, or mortgaged, as prescribed in this title, contrary to the provisions of a will, by which it was devised, or of a conveyance or other instrument, by which it was transferred, to the infant or incompetent person.

From 2 R. S. 195, § 176; L. 1864, c. 417, § 6; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 10.

§ 2358. [Am'd, 1893, 1906, 1907.] Effect of conveyance, etc.

A deed, mortgage, release or lease, made in good faith, as prescribed in this title, either upon an application in behalf of the infant or an incompetent person or pursuant to the directions contained in a judgment rendered against him, has the same validity and effect, as if executed by the person in whose behalf it was executed, and as if the infant was of full age or the lunatic, idiot, or habitual drunkard was of sound mind and competent to manage his or her affairs. And the same shall be valid and effectual to vest in any purchaser or purchasers any interest therein of any infant not in being, at the time of the said sale, and any mortgage so executed shall be a valid lien and charge upon the contingent interest of any infant not in being, at the time of the execution and delivery of the same. And a release of an inchoate right of dower as authorized by this title shall have the same effect as if the wife had joined with the husband in a deed or conveyance of the property affected thereby and had duly acknowledged the same in the manner required by law to pass the estate of married women.

From 2 R. S. 55, § 21; L. 1864, c. 417, § 8; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 12, 25; 2 R. S. 194, §§ 168, 178. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 639; L. 1906, c. 127; L. 1907, c. 49 (in effect March 14, 1907).

§ 2359. [Am'd, 1892, 1907.] Proceeds of sale deemed real property.

A sale of real property, or of an interest in real property, other than a possibility of reverter of an infant or incompetent person, made as prescribed in this title, does not give to the infant or incompetent person, any other or greater interest in the proceeds of the sale, than he or she had in the property or interest sold. Those proceeds are deemed property of the same nature, as the estate or interest sold, until the infant arrives at full age, or the incompetency is removed. The proceeds of the release of a possibility of reverter shall be deemed and treated as if they were proceeds of real property of which the infant was seized and possessed. If the infant should die before arriving at full age, or the incompetent person should die before the incompetency is removed not leaving any personal property, or not leaving sufficient personal property to pay funeral expenses and expenses that may be necessary or necessarily incurred, then in either or each case the proceeds are to be deemed personal property so far as may be necessary to pay the funeral and other necessary expenses. The proceeds are to be paid upon order of the surrogate's court or court having jurisdiction of the estate of the deceased, to an administrator appointed by the surrogate to administer upon decedent's estate, and after paying all funeral expenses and expenses of administration and any indebtedness, the remainder, if any there be, shall, upon the order of the surrogate, be paid into the hands of the trustee who held the same, to be distributed as the law directs. This act is to include the said proceeds of any infant or incompetent person that has died prior to this amendment, the proceeds now remaining in the hands of a trustee.

From 2 R. S. 195, § 180; L. 1864, c. 417, § 10; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, § 14. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 523; L. 1907, c. 49 (in effect March 14, 1907).

§ 2360. Infant deemed a ward of court.

From the time of the filing of a petition, by or in behalf of an infant, praying for an order directing a conveyance, or a sale, mortgage, or lease of his real property, or of an interest in real property, the infant is considered a ward of the court, with respect to that real property or interest, and the income and proceeds thereof.

From 2 R. S. 195, § 179.

§ 2361. [Am'd, 1880, 1882, 1902, 1906, 1907, 1915.] Disposition of proceeds; accounting.

The court must, by order, direct the disposition of the proceeds of such a sale, mortgage, release or lease. It must direct the investment of any portion thereof belonging to the infant or incompetent person, which is not needed for the payment of debts or the safe keeping, or the immediate maintenance and education, of himself or his family, or for the preservation or improvement of his real property or his interest in real property. It must require a report, under oath, of the disposition and investment thereof, to be made as soon as practicable, and must compel periodical accounts to be rendered thereafter by each person, who is intrusted with the proceeds, or any part thereof. Where an inchoate right of dower is released as prescribed in this title and such release is to accompany a sale by the husband of the property to which the inchoate right of dower attaches, the court shall make an order requiring one-third of the amount realized on the sale of the property to which the inchoate right of dower attached to be invested by the special guardian, or paid into the court to be held for the benefit of the husband during his life and upon his death for the benefit of the wife during her life, or the court may direct said amounts to be paid to the husband upon his giving a bond in the penalty of at least double the amount so received for such release, with at least two sureties, who shall justify in double the amount of such penalty, conditioned for the repayment as the court shall direct by his executors or administrators of such amount upon the death of the husband. Where an inchoate right of dower is released as prescribed in this title, and, at the time of the application, the property to which the inchoate right of dower attaches has already been sold by the husband, and the wife has not joined in the conveyance or otherwise released her inchoate right of dower, the court shall make an order that, as the consideration for the release, or as part of the consideration therefor, there be paid to the special guardian or into the court an amount to be fixed by the court as equal to one-third of the fair market value of the property, to be invested by the special guardian or held by the court for the benefit of the person making such payment during the life of the husband, and upon his death for the benefit of the wife during her life, and upon her death to be returned to the person making such payment or to his executors, administrators or assigns; or in lieu of such payment the court may allow a bond to be given in the penalty of at least double the amount so fixed as equal to one-third of the fair market value of the property, with at least two sureties, who shall justify in double the amount of such penalty, conditioned for the payment as the court shall direct, upon the death of the husband leaving the wife surviving, of the said sum so fixed as equal to one-third of the fair value of the property, to be held for the benefit of the wife during her life and upon her death to be returned to the person giving such bond or to his executors, administrators or assigns. In case by any contingency, infants not in being may thereafter become possessed of any interest in said premises so sold, mortgaged or leased, the court, in case of a sale, shall cause the proceeds of the sale, after paying the cost and expenses of the same, to be placed at interest for the benefit of the persons who are, or who may ultimately be entitled to the same, and shall not authorize the distribution of the same in advance of said contingency, except upon a petition of some person entitled thereto, and upon filing a bond in such penalty as the court shall direct, with two or more sureties approved by the court, and conditioned that in case of any contingency by which any infant not then in being shall thereafter become entitled to any of the proceeds of the sale, that said petitioner will pay to said person or persons his or their proportionate share of the money so paid over to said petitioner; and in the case of the mortgaging of said real estate the proceeds of the same, after paying costs and expenses, shall be paid out and disbursed under the direction of the court only for the purpose of paying lawful charges thereon or repairing, improving, building upon or otherwise enhancing in value any real estate so mortgaged as aforesaid.

In the case of an infant residing without the state, and having in the state or country where he or she resides a general guardian or person duly appointed under the laws of such state or country, to the control and entitled, by the laws of such state or country, to the custody of the money of said infant, the court, upon satisfactory proof of such facts and the sufficiency of the bond or security given by such general guardian or person in such state or country by the certificate of a judge of a court of record of such state or country, or otherwise, may direct that the portion of such infant arising upon such sale shall be paid over to such general guardian or person.

From 2 R. S. 195, § 179; Id., 54, §§ 14, 17; L. 1864, c. 417, §§ 2, 9; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 7, 13, 20. Am'd by L. 1890, c. 237; L. 1893, c. 639; L. 1903, c. 368; L. 1906, c. 127; L. 1907, c. 49; L. 1915, c. 629 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 2362. Particular estates; when included in sale.

Where the real property, or the estate, term, or other interest in real property, directed to be sold, is subject, absolutely or contingently, to a right of dower, or an estate for life, or is subject to an estate for years, in the whole or any part thereof, the person, having the prior right or estate, may manifest in writing his consent, either to receive, from the proceeds of the sale, a gross sum, to be fixed according to the principles of law applicable to annuities, in satisfaction of his right or estate; or to have a proportionate share of the proceeds of the sale invested, and the interest thereof paid to him, from the time of the investment, or of the commencement of his right or estate, as justice requires, until the determination of his right or estate. Upon filing the consent with the clerk, the final order may, in the discretion of the court, direct a sale of the entire property, to which the right or estate attaches. In such a case, the court must, after the sale, ascertain the value of the right or interest of the person so consenting; and the final order must either direct the payment, from the proceeds of the sale, of the gross sum so ascertained as the value, or the investment of a just proportion of the proceeds, and the payment to him of the interest thereof. But such a gross sum shall not be paid, nor shall such an investment be made, until an effectual release of the right or estate of the person so consenting, executed to the satisfaction of the court, and duly acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded in the county, has been filed with the clerk.

From 2 R. S. 196, §§ 181, 182; L. 1864, c. 417, §§ 11, 12; L. 1874, c. 446, tit. 2, §§ 13, 15, 16.

§ 2363. Id.; when belonging to infant, etc.

Where the interest of the infant, or of the lunatic or other incompetent person, consists of a right of dower, or an estate for life, or for years, the final order may authorize the special guardian or committee to join, with the person or persons holding the reversionary estate, in a conveyance of the property to which the interest attaches, so as to release the right of dower, or fully convey the particular estate, on receiving, from the proceeds of the sale, a gross sum, in satisfaction of that interest, or a proportionate part of the proceeds, to be invested until the determination of the particular estate; and, in either case, to be ascertained as prescribed in the last section. Where a proportion of the proceeds is so received by the guardian or committee, for investment, the final order must provide for the investment thereof, until the determination of the particular estate; and then for the payment thereof to the person entitled thereto.

New.

§ 2364. Debts of infant, etc., to be paid equally.

In the application of money, arising from a sale, mortgage, or lease, made for the purpose of paying debts, as prescribed in this title, the special guardian of the infant, or the committee of the property of the incompetent person, must pay all debts, in equal proportion, without giving a preference to a debt founded upon a specialty, or upon which judgment has been taken.

TITLE VIII.

Arbitrations.

Sec. 2365. When submission to arbitration cannot be made.
2366. What controversies may be submitted, and how.
2367. Appointment of additional arbitrator, or umpire.
2368. Time for hearing; adjournment, etc.
2369. Arbitrators to be sworn.
2370. Attendance of witnesses, etc.
2371. All the arbitrators to meet; when majority may award. Fees.
2372. Award; to be authenticated, etc.
2373. Motion to confirm award.
2374. Id.; to vacate award.
2375. Id.; to modify or correct award.
2376. Motions; when to be made.
2377. Costs on vacating award.
2378. Judgment on award; when and how entered. Costs.
2379. Judgment-roll.
2380. Effect of judgment; how enforced.
2381. Appeal.
2382. Effect of party's death, lunacy, etc.; proceedings thereupon.
2383. Revocation of submission.
2384. Liability of party who revokes.
2385. Limitation of recovery against him.
2386. Application of this title.

§ 2365. When submission to arbitration cannot be made.

A submission of a controversy to arbitration cannot be made, either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, in either of the following cases:

1. Where one of the parties to the controversy is an infant, or a person incompetent to manage his affairs, by reason of lunacy, idiocy, or habitual drunkenness.

2. Where the controversy arises respecting a claim to an estate in real property, in fee or for life.

But where a person, capable of entering into a submission, has knowingly entered into the same with a person incapable of so doing, as prescribed in subdivision first of this section, the objection, on the ground of incapacity, can be taken only in behalf of the person so incapacitated. And the second subdivision of this section does not prevent the submission of a claim to an estate for years, or other interest for a term of years, or for one year or less, in real property; or of a controversy respecting the partition of real property between joint tenants or tenants in common; or of a controversy respecting the boundaries of lands, or the admeasurement of dower.

From 2 R. S. 541 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 14), §§ 1, 2.

§ 2366. What controversies may be submitted, and how.

Except as otherwise prescribed in the last section, two or more persons may, by an instrument in writing, duly acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded, submit, to the arbitration of one or more arbitrators, any controversy, existing between them at the time of the submission, which might be the subject of an action. They may, in the submission, agree that a judgment of a court of record, specified in the instrument, shall be rendered upon the award, made pursuant to the submission. If the supreme court is thus specified, the submission may also specify the county in which the judgment shall be entered. If it does not, the judgment may be entered in any county.

From id., § 1.

§ 2367. Appointment of additional arbitrator, or umpire.

Where a submission is made as prescribed in this title, an additional arbitrator or an umpire cannot be selected or appointed, unless the submission expressly so provides. Where a submission, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, provides that two or more arbitrators, therein designated, may select or appoint a person as an additional arbitrator or as an umpire, the selection or appointment must be in writing. An additional arbitrator or umpire must sit with the original arbitrators upon the hearing. If testimony has been taken before his selection or appointment, the matter must be reheard, unless a rehearing is waived in the submission, or by the subsequent written consent of the parties, or their attorneys.

New.

§ 2368. Time for hearing; adjournment, etc.

Subject to the terms of the submission, if any are specified therein, the arbitrators, selected as prescribed in this title, must appoint a time and place for the hearing of the matters submitted to them; and must cause notice thereof to be given to each of the parties. They, or a majority of them, may adjourn the hearing, from time to time, upon the application of either party, for good cause shown, or upon their own motion; but not beyond the day fixed in the submission for rendering their award, unless the time so fixed is extended by the written consent of the parties to the submission, or their attorneys.

From 2 R. S. 541, § 3.

§ 2369. Arbitrators to be sworn.

Before hearing any testimony, arbitrators selected either as prescribed in this title or otherwise must be sworn, by an officer designated in section 842 of this act, faithfully and fairly to hear and examine the matters in controversy, and to make a just award, according to the best of their understanding; unless the oath is waived, by the written consent of the parties to the submission, or their attorneys.

From Id., §§ 4, 5.

§ 2370. Attendance of witnesses, etc.

The arbitrators, selected either as prescribed in this title, or otherwise, or a majority of them, may require any person to attend before them as a witness; and they have, and each of them has, the same powers, with respect to all the proceedings before them, which are conferred, by the provisions of title second of chapter ninth of this act, upon a board, or a member of a board, authorized by law to hear testimony.

From Id., § 6.

§ 2371. All the arbitrators to meet; when majority may award. Fees.

All the arbitrators, selected as prescribed in this title, must meet together, and hear all the allegations and proofs of the parties; but an award by a majority of them is valid, unless the concurrence of all is expressly required in the submission. Unless it is otherwise expressly provided in the submission, the award may require the payment, by either party, of the arbitrators' fees, not exceeding the fees allowed to a like number of referees in the supreme court; and also their expenses.

From Id., § 7.

§ 2372. Award; to be authenticated, etc.

To entitle the award to be enforced, as prescribed in this title, it must be in writing; and, within the time limited in the submission, if any, subscribed by the arbitrators making it; acknowledged or proved, and certified, in like manner as a deed to be recorded; and either filed in the office of the clerk of the court, in which, by the submission, judgment is authorized to be entered upon the award, or delivered to one of the parties, or his attorney.

From Id., §§ 8, 9.

§ 2373. Motion to confirm award.

At any time within one year after the award is made, as prescribed in the last section, any party to the submission may apply to the court, specified in the submission, for an order confirming the award; and thereupon the court must grant such an order, unless the award is vacated, modified or corrected, as prescribed in the next two sections. Notice of the motion must be served, upon the adverse party to the submission, or his attorney, as prescribed by law for service of notice of a motion upon an attorney in an action in the same court. In the supreme court, the motion must be made within the judicial district, embracing the county where the judgment is to be entered.

From Id., § 9.

§ 2374. Id.; to vacate award.

In either of the following cases, the court, specified in the submission, must make an order vacating the award, upon the application of either party to the submission:

1. Where the award was procured by corruption, fraud, or other undue means.
2. Where there was evident partiality or corruption in the arbitrators, or either of them.
3. Where the arbitrators were guilty of misconduct, in refusing to postpone the hearing, upon sufficient cause shown, or in refusing to hear evidence, pertinent and material to the controversy; or of any other misbehavior, by which the rights of any party have been prejudiced.
4. Where the arbitrators exceeded their powers, or so imperfectly executed them, that a mutual, final, and definite award, upon the subject-matter submitted, was not made.

Where an award is vacated, and the time, within which the submission requires the award to be made, has not expired, the court may, in its discretion, direct a rehearing by the arbitrators.

From Id., §§ 10, 13.

§ 2375. Id.; to modify or correct award.

In either of the following cases, the court, specified in the submission, must make an order modifying or correcting the award, upon the application of either party to the submission:

1. Where there was an evident miscalculation of figures, or an evident mistake in the description of any person, thing, or property, referred to in the award.
2. Where the arbitrators have awarded upon a matter not submitted to them, not affecting the merits of the decision upon the matters submitted.
3. Where the award is imperfect in a matter of form, not affecting the merits of the controversy, and, if it had been a referee's report, the defect could have been amended or disregarded by the court.

The order may modify and correct the award, so as to affect the intent thereof, and promote justice between the parties.

From Id., §§ 11, 13.

§ 2376. Motions; when to be made.

Notice of a motion to vacate, modify, or correct an award, must be served upon the adverse party to the submission, or his attorney, within three months after the award is filed or delivered, as prescribed by law for service of notice of a motion upon an attorney in an action. For the purposes of the motion, any judge, who might make an order to stay the proceedings, in an action brought in the same court, may make an order, to be served with the notice of motion, staying the proceedings of the adverse party to enforce the award.

From Id., § 12.

§ 2377. Costs on vacating award.

Where the court vacates an award, costs, not exceeding twenty-five dollars and disbursements, may be awarded to the prevailing party; and the payment thereof may be enforced, in like manner as the payment of costs upon a motion in an action.

From Id., § 19.

§ 2378. Judgment on award; when and how entered. Costs.

Upon the granting of an order, confirming, modifying, or correcting an award, judgment may be entered in conformity therewith, as upon a referee's report in an action, except as is otherwise prescribed in this title. Costs of the application, and of the proceedings subsequent thereto, not exceeding twenty-five dollars and disbursements, may be awarded by the court, in its discretion. If awarded, the amount thereof must be included in the judgment.

From Id., § 14.

§ 2379. Judgment-roll.

Immediately after entering judgment, the clerk must attach together and file the following papers, which constitute the judgment-roll:

1. The submission; the selection or appointment, if any, of an additional arbitrator, or umpire; and each written extension of the time, if any, within which to make the award.
2. The award.
3. Each notice, affidavit, or other paper, used upon an application to confirm, modify, or correct the award, and a copy of each order of the court, upon such an application.
4. A copy of the judgment.

The judgment may be docketed, as if it was rendered in an action.

From Id., §§ 15, 16.

§ 2380. Effect of judgment; how enforced.

The judgment so entered has the same force and effect, in all respects, as, and is subject to all the provisions of law relating to, a judgment in an action; and it may be enforced, as if it had been rendered in an action in the court in which it is entered.

From Id., § 15.

§ 2381. Appeal.

An appeal may be taken from an order vacating an award, or from a judgment entered upon an award, as from an order or judgment in an action. The proceedings upon such an appeal, including the judgment thereupon, and the enforcement of the judgment, are governed by the provisions of chapter twelfth of this act, as far as they are applicable.

From Id., §§ 16, 17, 20, 21.

§ 2382. Effect of party's death, lunacy, etc.; proceedings thereupon.

The death of a party to a submission, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, or the appointment of a committee of the person or property of such a party, as prescribed in title sixth of this chapter, operates as a revocation of the submission, if it occurs before the award is filed or delivered; but not afterwards. Where a party dies afterwards, if the submission contains a stipulation, authorizing the entry of a judgment upon the award, the award may be confirmed, vacated, modified, or corrected, upon the application of, or upon notice to, his executor or administrator, or a temporary administrator of his estate; or, where it relates to real property, his heir or devisee, who has succeeded to his interest in the real property. Where a committee of the property, or of the person, of a party, is appointed, after the award is filed or delivered, the award may be confirmed, vacated, modified, or corrected, upon the application of, or notice to, a committee of the property; but not otherwise. In a case specified in this section, a judge of the court may make an order, extending the time within which notice of a motion to vacate, modify, or correct the award, must be served. Upon confirming an award, where a party has died since it was filed or delivered, the court must enter judgment in the name of the original party; and the proceedings thereupon are the same, as where a party dies after a verdict.

New.

§ 2383. Revocation of submission.

A submission to arbitration, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, cannot be revoked by either party, after the allegations and proofs of the parties have been closed, and the matter finally submitted to the arbitrators for their decision. A revocation, when allowed, must be made by an instrument in writing, signed by the revoking party, or his authorized agent, and delivered to the arbitrators, or one of them; and it is not necessary, in any case, that the instrument of revocation should be under seal. Any party to a submission may thus revoke it; whether he is a sole party to the controversy, or one of two or more parties on the same side.

From Id., § 23

§ 2384. Liability of party who revokes.

Where a party expressly revokes a submission, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, any other party to the submission may maintain an action against him, and also against his sureties, if any, upon the submission, or any instrument collateral thereto, in which action the plaintiff may recover all the costs and other expenses, and all the damages, which he has incurred in preparing for the arbitration, and in conducting the proceedings to the time of the revocation. Either of the arbitrators may recover, in an action against the revoking party, his reasonable fees and expenses.

From Id., §§ 23, 24.

§ 2385. Limitation of recovery against him.

A sum, penalty, forfeiture, or damages, shall not be recovered for a revocation of a submission to arbitration, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, except as prescribed in the last section; notwithstanding any stipulated damages, penalty, or forfeiture, expressed in the submission, or in any instrument collateral thereto.

From Id., § 25.

§ 2386. Application of this title.

This title does not affect any right of action in affirmance, disaffirmance, or for the modification of a submission, made either as prescribed in this title or otherwise, or upon an instrument collateral thereto, or upon an award made or purporting to be made in pursuance thereof. And, except as otherwise expressly prescribed therein, this title does not affect a submission, made otherwise than as prescribed therein, or any proceedings taken pursuant to such a submission, or any instrument collateral thereto.

From Id., § 22.

2408a. Delivery of certain affidavits to purchaser.
2409. Application of this title to mortgages to the State.

§ 2387. [Am'd, 1913.] When mortgage may be foreclosed.

A mortgage upon real property, situated within the State, containing therein a power to the mortgagee, or any other person, to sell the mortgaged property, upon default being made in a condition of the mortgage, may be foreclosed, in the manner prescribed in this title, where the following requisites concur:

1. Default has been made in a condition of the mortgage, whereby the power to sell has become operative.

2. An action has not been brought to recover the debt secured by the mortgage, or any part thereof, or, if such an action has been brought, it has been discontinued, or final judgment has been rendered therein against the plaintiff, or an execution, issued upon a judgment rendered therein in favor of the plaintiff, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied.

3. The mortgage has been recorded in the proper book for recording mortgages, in the county wherein the property is situated.

4. The first notice required by subdivision one of the next section is published within the time in which an action could be maintained to foreclose such mortgage.

From 2 R. S. 545 (Part 3, c. 8, tit. 15), §§ 1, 2. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 486 (in effect Sept. 1, 1913).

§ 2388. [Am'd, 1894, 1900, 1904, 1905.] Notice of sale; how given.

The person entitled to execute the power or sale, must give notice, in the following manner, that the mortgage will be foreclosed, by a sale of the mortgaged property, or a part thereof, at a time and place specified in the notice:

1. A copy of the notice must be published, at least once in each of the twelve weeks, immediately preceding the day of sale, in a newspaper published in the county or in a municipal corporation a part of which is within the county in which the property to be sold, or a part thereof, is situated.

2. A copy of the notice must be fastened up, at least eighty-four days before the day of sale, in a conspicuous place, at or near the entrance of the building, where the county court of each county, wherein the property to be sold is situated, is directed to be held; or, if there are two or more such buildings in the same county, then in a like place, at or near the entrance of the building nearest to the property; or, in the city and county of New York, in a like place, at or near the entrance of the building where the trial and special terms of the supreme court of the first judicial district are directed by law to be held.

3. A copy of the notice must be delivered, at least eighty-four days before the day of sale, to the clerk of each county, wherein the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, is situated.

4. A copy of the notice must be served, as prescribed in the next section, upon the mortgagor, or, if he is dead, upon his executor or administrator, if an executor or administrator has been appointed, and also upon his heirs, providing he died the owner of the mortgaged premises. A copy of the notice may also be served, in a like manner, upon a subsequent grantee or mortgagee of the property, whose conveyance was recorded, in the proper office for recording it in the county, at the time of the first publication of the notice of sale; upon the wife or widow of the mortgagor, and the wife or widow of each subsequent grantee whose conveyance was so recorded, then having an inchoate or vested right of dower, or an estate in dower, subordinate to the lien of the mortgagee; or in the event of the death of the subsequent grantee who was at the time of his death the owner of the mortgaged premises, then upon his heirs; or upon any person, then having a lien upon the property, subsequent to the mortgage by virtue of a judgment or decree duly docketed in the county clerk's office and constituting a specific or general lien upon the property. The notice, specified in this section, must be subscribed by the person entitled to execute the power of sale, unless his name distinctly appears in the body of the notice, in which case it may be subscribed by his attorney or agent.

From Id., § 3; L. 1842, c. 277, § 5; L. 1844, c. 346, § 1; L. 1857, c. 308, § 1. Am'd by L. 1894, c. 730; L. 1900, c. 766; L. 1904, c. 49; L. 1905, c. 433 (in effect Sept. 1, 1905).

§ 2389. [Am'd, 1887.] Id.; how served.

Service of notice of the sale, as prescribed in subdivision fourth of the last section, must be made as follows:

1. Upon the mortgagor, his wife, widow, executor, or administrator, or a subsequent grantee of the property, whose conveyance is upon record, or his wife or widow; by delivering a copy of the notice, as prescribed in article first of title first of chapter fifth of this act, for delivery of a copy of a summons, in order to make personal service thereof upon the person to be served; or by leaving such a copy, addressed to the person to be served, at his dwelling-house, with a person of suitable age and discretion, at least fourteen days before the day of sale. If said mortgagor is a foreign corporation, or being a natural person, he, or his wife, widow, executor or administrator, or a subsequent grantee of the property whose conveyance is upon record, or his wife or widow, is not a resident of or within the State, then service thereof may be made upon them in like manner without the State, at least twenty-eight days prior to the day of sale.

2. Upon any other person, either in the same method, or by depositing a copy of the notice in the post-office, properly inclosed in a postpaid wrapper, directed to the person to be served, at his place of residence, at least twenty-eight days before the day of sale.

From 2 R. S. 545, § 3; L. 1844, c. 346. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 685.

§ 2390. Duty of county clerk.

A county clerk, to whom a copy of a notice of sale is delivered, as prescribed in subdivision third of the last section but one, must forthwith affix it in a book, kept in his office for that purpose; must make and subscribe a minute, at the bottom of the copy, of the time when he received and affixed it; and must index the notice to the name of the mortgagor.

From 2 R. S. 545, § 3; L. 1857, c. 308, § 1.

§ 2391. Contents of notice of sale.

The notice of sale must specify:

1. The names of the mortgagor, of the mortgagee, and of each assignee of the mortgage.

2. The date of the mortgage, and the time when, and the place where, it is recorded.

3. The sum claimed to be due upon the mortgage, at the time of the first publication of the notice; and, if any sum secured by the mortgage is not then due, the amount to become due thereupon.

4. A description of the mortgaged property, conforming substantially to that contained in the mortgage.

From 2 R. S. 545, § 4.

§ 2392. Sale; how postponed.

The sale may be postponed, from time to time. In that case, a notice of the postponement must be published, as soon as practicable thereafter, in the newspaper in which the original notice was published; and the publication of the original notice, and of each notice of postponement, must be continued, at least once in each week, until the time to which the sale is finally postponed.

From Id., § 5.

§ 2393. Id.; how conducted.

The sale must be at public auction, in the day-time, on a day other than Sunday or a public holiday, in the county in which the mortgaged property, or a part thereof, is situated; except that, where the mortgage is to the people of the State, the sale may be made at the Capitol. If the property consists of two or more distinct farms, tracts, or lots, they must be sold separately; and as many only of the distinct farms, tracts, or lots, shall be sold, as it is necessary to sell, in order to satisfy the amount due at the time of the sale, and the costs and expenses allowed by law. But where two or more buildings are situated upon the same city lot, and access to one is obtained through the other, they must be sold together.

From Id., § 6.

§ 2394. Mortgagee, etc., may purchase.

The mortgagee, or his assignee, or the legal representative of either, may, fairly and in good faith, purchase the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, at the sale.

From Id., § 7.

§ 2395. [Am'd, 1889.] Effect of sale.

A sale, made and conducted as prescribed in this title, to a purchaser in good faith, is equivalent to a sale, pursuant to judgment in an action to foreclose the mortgage, so far only as to be an entire bar of all claim or equity of redemption, upon, or with respect to, the property sold, of each of the following persons:

1. The mortgagor, his heir, devisee, executor, or administrator.

2. Each person, claiming under any of them, by virtue of a title, or of a lien by judgment or decree, subsequent to the mortgage, upon whom the notice of sale was served, as prescribed in this title.

3. Each person so claiming, whose assignment, mortgage, or other conveyance was not duly recorded in the proper book for recording the same in the county, or whose judgment or decree was not duly docketed in the county clerk's office, at the time of the delivery of a copy of the notice of said sale to the clerk of the county; and the executor, administrator, or assignee of such a person.

4. Every other person, claiming under a statutory lien or incumbrance, created subsequent to the mortgage, attaching to the title or interest of any person, designated in either of the foregoing subdivisions of this section.

5. The wife or widow of the mortgagor, or of a subsequent grantee, upon whom notice of the sale was served as prescribed in this title, where the lien of the mortgage was superior to her contingent or vested right of dower, or her estate in dower.

From Id., § 8; L. 1842, c. 277; L. 1844, c. 346, § 4. Am'd by L. 1889, c. 209.

§ 2396. [Am'd, 1908, 1912.] Affidavit of sale, and of posting, serving, etc., notice.

An affidavit of the sale, stating the time when, and the place where, the sale was made; the sum bid for each distinct parcel, separately sold; the name of the purchaser of each distinct parcel, and the name of the person or persons, court officer or other officer, to whom the proceeds of the sale were paid, and the sums thereof must be made by the person, who officiated as auctioneer upon the sale. An affidavit of the publication of the notice of sale, and of the notice or notices of postponement, if any, may be made by the publisher or printer of the newspaper in which they were published, or by his foreman or principal clerk. An affidavit of the affixing of a copy of the notice, at or near the entrance of the proper court-house, may be made by the person who so affixed it, or by any person who saw it so affixed, at least eighty-four days before the day of sale. An affidavit of the affixing of a copy of the notice in the book, kept by the county clerk, may be made by the county clerk, or by any person who saw it so affixed, at least eighty-four days before the day of sale. An affidavit of the service of a copy of the notice upon the mortgagor, or upon any other person, upon whom the notice must or may be served, may be made by the person who made the service. Where two or more distinct parcels are sold to different purchasers, separate affidavits may be made with respect to each parcel, or one set of affidavits may be made for all the parcels.

From 2 R. S. 545, §§ 9, 10; L. 1844, c. 346; L. 1857, c. 308. Am'd by L. 1908, c. 294; L. 1912, ch. 343 (in effect Sept. 1, 1912).

§ 2397. [Am'd, 1882.] When one affidavit suffices; printed notice to be annexed.

The matters, required to be contained in any or all of the affidavits, specified in the last section, may be contained in one affidavit, where the same person deposes with respect to them. A printed copy of the notice of sale must be annexed to each affidavit; and a printed copy of each notice of postponement must be annexed to the affidavit of publication, and to the affidavit of sale. But one copy of the notice suffices for two or more affidavits, where they all refer to it, and are annexed to each other, and filed and recorded together.

In part from 2 R. S. 545, § 9. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 399.

§ 2398. [Am'd, 1904.] Affidavits may be filed and recorded.

The affidavits, specified in the last two sections, may be filed in the office for recording deeds and mortgages, in the county where the sale took place. They must be recorded at length by the officer with whom they are filed, in the proper book for recording deeds. The original affidavits, so filed, the record thereof, and a certified copy of the record, are presumptive evidence of the matters of fact therein stated, with respect to any property sold, which is situated in that county. Where the property sold is situated in two or more counties, a copy of the affidavits, certified by the officer with whom the originals are filed, may be filed and recorded in each other county, wherein any of the property is situated. Thereupon the copy and the record thereof have the like effect, with respect to the property in that county, as if the originals were duly filed and recorded therein.

From 2 R. S. 547, §§ 11, 12. Am'd by L. 1904, c. 679 (in effect Sept. 1, 1904).

§ 2399. Note upon record of mortgage.

A clerk or a register, who records any affidavit, or a certified copy thereof, filed with him, must make a note, upon the margin of the record of the mortgage, in his office, referring to the book and page, or the copy thereof, where the affidavits are recorded.

From Id., § 13.

§ 2400. Deed not necessary.

The purchaser of the mortgaged premises, upon a sale conducted as prescribed in this title, obtains title thereto, against all persons bound by the sale, without the execution of a conveyance. Except where he is the person authorized to execute the power of sale, such a purchaser also obtains title, in like manner, upon payment of the purchase-money, and compliance with the other terms of sale, if any, without the filing and recording of the affidavits, as prescribed in the last section but one. But he is not bound to pay the purchase-money, until the affidavits, specified in that section, with respect to the property purchased by him, are filed, or delivered or tendered to him for filing.

From Id., § 14; L. 1838, c. 266, § 8.

§ 2401. Costs allowed.

The following costs, in addition to the expenses specified in the next section, are allowed, in proceedings taken as prescribed in this title:

1. For drawing a notice of sale, a notice of the postponement of a sale, or an affidavit, made as prescribed in this title, for each folio, twenty-five cents; for making each necessary copy thereof, for each folio, thirteen cents.

2. For serving each copy of the notice of sale, required or expressly permitted to be served by this title, and for affixing each copy thereof, required to be affixed upon the court-house, as prescribed in this title, one dollar.

3. For superintending the sale, and attending to the excution of the necessary papers, ten dollars.

From 2 R. S. 552 (Part 3, c. 10, tit. 5), § 4, subds. 1, 2, 3; L. 1844, c. 346, § 3.

§ 2402. Expenses allowed.

The sums actually paid for the following services, not exceeding the fees allowed by law for those services, are allowed in proceedings, taken as prescribed in this title:

1. For publishing the notice of sale, and the notice or notices of postponement, if any, for a period not exceeding twenty-four weeks.

2. For the services specified in section 2390 of this act.
3. For recording the affidavits; and also, where the property sold is situated in two or more counties, for making and recording the necessary certified copies thereof.
4. For necessary postage and searches.

From 2 R. S. 652, § 4.

§ 2403. Taxation thereof.

The costs and expenses must be taxed, upon notice, by the clerk of the county where the sale took place, upon the request and at the expense of any person, interested in the payment thereof. Each provision of this act, relating to the taxation of costs in the supreme court, and the review thereof, applies to such a taxation.

From Id., § 3.

§ 2404. Surplus money to be paid into supreme court.

An attorney or other person who receives any money, arising upon a sale, made as prescribed in this title, must, within ten days after he receives it, pay into the supreme court the surplus, exceeding the sum due and to become due upon the mortgage, and the costs and expenses of the foreclosure, in like manner and with like effect, as if the proceedings to foreclose the mortgage were taken in an action, brought in the supreme court, and triable in the county where the sale took place.

From L. 1858, c. 804, §§ 1, 2, 4; L. 1870, c. 706, § 1.

§ 2405. Claimant of surplus money to file petition.

A person, who had, at the time of the sale, an interest in or lien upon the property sold, or a part thereof, may, at any time before an order is made, as prescribed in the next section but one, file in the office of the clerk of the county, where the sale took place, a petition, stating the nature and extent of his claim, and praying for an order, directing the payment to him of the surplus money, or a part thereof.

From L. 1858, c. 804, § 3.

§ 2406. Application for surplus money.

A person filing a petition, as prescribed in the last section, may, after the expiration of twenty days from the day of sale, apply to the supreme court, at a term held within the judicial district, embracing the county where his petition is filed, for an order, pursuant to the prayer of his petition. Notice of the application must be served, in the manner prescribed in this act for the service of a paper upon an attorney in an action, upon each person, who has filed a like petition, at least eight days before the application; and also upon each person, upon whom a notice of sale was served, as shown in the affidavit of sale, or upon his executor or administrator. But, if it is shown to the court, by affidavit, that service upon any person, required to be served, cannot be so made with due diligence, notice may be given to him in any manner which the court directs.

From Id., § 3.

§ 2407. Order for distribution.

Upon the presentation of the petition, with due proof of notice of application, the court must make an order referring it to a suitable person to ascertain and report the amount due to the petitioner, and to each other person, which is a lien upon the surplus money; and the priorities of the several liens thereupon.

Upon the coming in and confirmation of the referee's report, the court must make such an order, for the distribution of the surplus money, as justice requires.

From id., § 8.

§ 2408. [Am'd, 1915.] Limitation of last four sections.

The last four sections do not apply to surplus money, arising upon the sale of real property, of which a decedent died seized, where letters testamentary or letters of administration, upon the decedent's estate, were, within two years before the sale, issued from a surrogate's court within the State, having jurisdiction to issue them.

See L. 1867, c. 658; L. 1870, c. 170; L. 1871, c. 834. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 626 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 2408a. [Added, 1909.] Delivery of certain affidavits to purchaser.

Each county clerk and register in this state, in whose office, affidavits in foreclosure of mortgages by advertisement, or the certified copies thereof, have been or shall be filed and recorded pursuant to the provisions of this title is hereby authorized to deliver the same to the purchaser of the mortgaged property on the foreclosure sale, and such purchaser shall be entitled to such delivery.

From L. 1900, c. 223, § 1. Added by L. 1909, c. 65 (in effect Feb. 17, 1909).

§ 2409. [Am'd, 1882.] Application of this title to mortgages to the State.

This title does not affect any provision of law, inconsistent therewith, especially relating to the foreclosure of mortgages to the people of the State, or to the commissioners for loaning certain moneys of the United States.

From 2 R. S. 547, § 15. Am'd by L. 1882, c. 399.

TITLE X.

Proceedings to change the name of an individual.

Sec. 2410. Petition by individual.
2411. [Omitted.]
2412. Contents of petition.
2413. Notice of presentation of petition.
2414. Order.
2415. When change to take effect.
2416, 2417. [Omitted.]
2418. [Repealed.]

[N. B.—The portions of §§ 2410-2417, which related to changing the name of a corporation, have been transferred to the General Corporation Law, the County Law, etc., of the "Consolidated Laws;" see Table, p. iii, ante.]

§ 2410. [Am'd, 1887, 1893, 1895.] Petition by individual.

A petition for leave to assume another name may be made by a resident of the state to the county court of the county in which he resides, or, if he resides in the city of New York, either to the supreme court, or to the city court of New York. The petition of an infant shall be made by his general guardian, or by the guardian of his person, or by his next friend.

From L. 1847, c. 464, § 1; L. 1860, c. 80, § 1. Am'd by L. 1887, c. 194; L. 1893, c. 366; L. 1895, c. 946 (in effect Jan. 1, 1896).

§ 2411. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

§ 2412. [Am'd, 1893, 1909.] Contents of petition.

The petition must be in writing, signed by the petitioner and verified in like manner as a pleading in a court of record, and must specify the grounds of the application, the name, age and residence of the individual whose name is proposed to be changed and the name which he proposes to assume.

From L. 1847, c. 464, § 2. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 366; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 2413. [Am'd, 1893, 1894, 1901, 1904, 1906, 1909.] Notice of presentation of petition.

If the petition be to change the name of an infant, and is made by the infant's next friend, notice of the time and place when and where the petition will be presented must be served upon the father, or if he is dead or cannot be found, upon the mother, or if both are dead or cannot be found, upon the general guardian or guardian of the person of the infant, in like manner as a notice of a motion upon an attorney in an action, unless it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the infant has no father or mother, or that both reside without the state or cannot be found, and that he has no guardian residing within this state, in which case the court may dispense with notice or require notice to be given to such persons and in such manner as the court thinks proper.

From L. 1847, c. 464, § 1. Am'd by L. 1893, c. 366; L. 1894, c. 264; L. 1901, c. 374; L. 1904, c. 110; L. 1906, c. 89; L. 1909, c. 65. (See Table, p. iii, ante).

§ 2414. [Am'd, 1893, 1895, 1901, 1909.] Order.

If the court to which the petition is presented is satisfied thereby, or by the affidavit and certificate presented therewith, that the petition is true, and that there is no reasonable objection to the change of name proposed, and if the petition be to change the name of an infant, that the interests of the infant will be substantially promoted by the change, the court shall make an order authorizing the petitioner to assume the name proposed on a day specified therein, not less than thirty days after the entry of the order. The order shall be directed to be entered and the papers on which it was granted to be filed within ten days thereafter in the clerk's office of the county in which the petitioner resides if he be an individual, or in the office of the clerk of the city court of New York if the order be made by that court. Such order shall also direct the publication, within ten days after the entry thereof of a copy thereof in a designated newspaper, in the county in which the order is directed to be entered, at least once.

§ 2415. [Am'd, 1887, 1893, 1894, 1909.] When change to take effect.

If the order shall be fully complied with, and within forty days after the making of the order, an affidavit of the publication thereof shall be filed and recorded in the office in which the order is entered, and in each office in which certified copies thereof are required to be filed, if any, the petitioner shall, on and after the day specified for that purpose in the order, be known by the name which is thereby authorized to be assumed, and by no other name.

TITLE XI.

Proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of a corporation.

[N. B.—The whole of this Title (comprising §§ 2419-2431b) has been transferred to the General Corporation Law of the "Consolidated Laws."]

§§ 2419–2431b. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.]

TITLE XII.

Proceedings supplementary to an execution against property.

Article 1. Proceedings to compel an examination of the judgment debtor, and of his debtor or bailee.
2. The receiver.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Proceedings to compel an examination of the judgment debtor, and of his debtor or bailee.

2461. Proceedings where judgment is against joint debtors.
2462. Proceedings commenced before one judge may be continued before another.
2463. Cases where this chapter is not applicable; what property cannot be reached.

§ 2432. [Am'd, 1896.] The different remedies under this title.

This title provides for three distinct remedies, as follows:

1. An order made or a warrant issued against a judgment debtor, after return of an execution.

2. An order made, or a warrant issued against a judgment debtor, after the issuing and before the return of an execution.

3. An order, made after the issuing, and either before or after the return, of an execution, against the person who has property of the judgment debtor, or is indebted to him.

The proceedings under subdivision third of this section, may be pursued either alone or simultaneously with the proceedings under subdivision first or subdivision second. The party to whom costs are awarded in a special proceeding shall be entitled to the same remedies under this title, under the same circumstances, as near as may be, as a judgment creditor. And for the purposes of this title, the party to whom such costs are awarded shall be deemed a judgment creditor, and the party against whom they are awarded shall be deemed a judgment debtor.

New. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 176 (in effect September 1, 1896).

§ 2433. Nature of the remedies. Review of orders.

Each of those remedies is a special proceeding. But an order, made in the course thereof, can be reviewed only as follows:

1. An order, made by a judge, out of court, may be vacated or modified by the judge who made it, as if it was made in an action: or it, or the order of the judge vacating or modifying it, may be vacated or modified, upon motion, by the court out of which the execution was issued.

2. Where the execution was issued out of a county court, an appeal from an order, made in the course of the proceedings, may be taken in like manner, as if the order was made in an action brought in the same court.

New.

§ 2434. [Am'd, 1881, 1884, 1895, 1897, 1911.] What judge may entertain the proceedings.

Either special proceedings may be instituted before a judge of the court, out of which, or the county judge, the special county judge, or the special surrogate, of the county to which the execution was issued, or where it was issued to the city and county of New York, from a court other than the city court of that city, before a justice of the supreme court for that city and county. Where the execution was issued out of a court other than the supreme court, and it is shown by affidavit, that each of the judges, before whom the special proceedings might be instituted, as prescribed by this section, is absent from the county, or, for any reason, unable or disqualified to act, the special proceedings may be instituted before a justice of the supreme court. In that case, if he does not reside within the judicial district embracing the county to which the execution was issued, the order made or warrants issued by him must be returnable to a justice of the supreme court, residing in that district, or the county judge, or the special[1] judge, or special surrogate, or that or an adjoining county, as directed in the order or warrant. Where the judgment upon which the execution was issued was recovered in a municipal court of the city of New York, either special proceeding shall be instituted before a justice of the city court of the city of New York.

From Co. Proc., § 292. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 683; L. 1884, c. 407; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1897, c. 476; L. 1911, cc. 558 and 831 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 2435. [Am'd, 1896.] Order to examine judgment debtor after return of execution.

At any time within ten years after the return, wholly or partly unsatisfied, of an execution against property, issued upon a judgment, as prescribed in section 2458 of this act, or, in case of an order, issued in the same manner so far as the provisions of said section can be applied in substance, the creditor under such judgment or order, upon proof of the facts, by affidavit or other competent written evidence, is entitled to an order, requiring the debtor under the judgment or order, to attend and be examined concerning his property, at a time and place specified in the order.

From Co. Proc., § 292. Am'd by L. 1896, c. 176 (in effect September 1, 1896).

[1] When this section was amended by L. 1895, c. 946, the word "county" was omitted at this point between "special" and "judge," apparently by mistake.

§ 2436. Id.; before return of execution.

At any time after the issuing of an execution against property, as prescribed in section 2458 of this act, and before the return thereof, the judgment creditor, upon proof, by affidavit, or other competent written evidence, that the judgment debtor has property, which he unjustly refuses to apply towards the satisfaction of the judgment, is entitled to an order, requiring the judgment debtor to attend and be examined concerning his property, at a time and place specified in the order.

From Co. Proc., § 292.

§ 2437. Warrant of arrest instead of order.

Upon proof entitling a judgment creditor to an order, under either of the last two sections; and also proof, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the judge, that there is danger that the judgment debtor will leave the State, or conceal himself, and that there is reason to believe that he has property, which he unjustly refuses to apply to the payment of the judgment; the judge may, instead of making an order, issue a warrant under his hand, reciting the facts and requiring the sheriff of any county, where the judgment debtor may be found, to arrest him, and bring him before the same judge, or before another judge, if the case is one where the warrant must be returnable to another judge.

From Id., § 292.

§ 2438. Id.; after the order has been made.

Where the facts, specified in the last section, are made to appear, as therein stated, at any time after the making of an order, requiring the judgment debtor to attend and be examined, and before the close of his examination, the judge may issue a warrant, as therein prescribed; and, if necessary, may direct the adjournment, or, if the return day of the order has elapsed, the continuance of the proceedings under the order, until after the return of the warrant, and his decision thereupon.

New.

§ 2439. Warrant; how vacated, etc.

A warrant, issued as prescribed in the last two sections, may be vacated or modified, as prescribed in section 2433 of this act, with respect to an order.

New.

§ 2440. Undertaking may be required, etc.

Where a judgment debtor has been arrested and brought before a judge, by virtue of a warrant, issued as prescribed in this article; and it appears, to the satisfaction of the judge, from his examination, or other proof, that there is danger that he will leave the State, or conceal himself, and that he has property, which he has unjustly refused to apply to the satisfaction of the judgment; the judge may make an order, requiring him to give an undertaking, with one or more sureties, in a sum fixed and within a time specified in the order, to the effect, that he will, from time to time, as the judge directs, attend before the judge, or before a referee, appointed or to be appointed in the proceedings; and that he will not, until discharged from arrest by virtue of the warrant, dispose of any of his property, which is not exempted from seizure by section 2463 of this act. If he fails to comply with the order, the judge must forthwith, by warrant, commit him to prison, there to remain until the close of the examination, or the giving of the required undertaking; except that the judge may direct the sheriff to produce him, from time to time, as required in the course of the proceedings.

From Co. Proc., § 292.

§ 2441. Order to examine person having property, etc., of judgment debtor.

Upon proof, by affidavit, or other competent written evidence, to the satisfaction of the judge, that an execution against property has been issued, as prescribed in section 2458 of this act, and either that it has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, or that it has not been returned; and also that any person or corporation has personal property of the judgment debtor, exceeding ten dollars in value, or is indebted to him in a sum exceeding ten dollars; the judgment creditor is entitled to an order, requiring that person or corporation to attend and be examined concerning the debt, or other property, at a time and place specified in the order. The judge may, in his discretion, require notice of the subsequent proceedings to be given to the judgment debtor, in such a manner as he deems just. But a receiver shall not be appointed without such a notice, except as otherwise prescribed in article second of this title.

From Co. Proc., § 294.

§ 2442. Either order may require attendance before a referee.

An order, requiring a person to attend and be examined, made pursuant to any provision of this article, must require him so to attend and be examined, either before the judge to whom the order is returnable, or before a referee designated therein. Where the examination is taken before a referee, he must certify, to the judge to whom the order is returnable, all the evidence and the other proceedings taken before him.

From Id., § 296.

§ 2443. Reference may be ordered at any time.

At any stage of the proceedings, the judge to whom the order is returnable may, in his discretion, make an order, directing that any other examination, or testimony, be taken by, or that a question arising be referred to, a referee, designated in the order. Where a question is so referred, the referee may be directed to report either the evidence or the facts.

From Id., § 300.

§ 2444. Proceedings upon examination; adjournment.

Upon an examination under this article, each answer of a party or witness examined must be under oath. A corporation must attend by, and answer under the oath of, an officer thereof; and the judge may, in his discretion, specify the officer. Either party may be examined as a witness, in his own behalf, and may produce and examine other witnesses, as upon the trial of an action. The judge or referee may adjourn any proceedings, under this article, from time to time, as he thinks proper.

See Co. Proc., §§ 292, 295, 296.

§ 2445. Referee to be sworn.

Unless the parties expressly waive the referee's oath, a referee, appointed as prescribed in this article, must, before entering upon an examination, or taking testimony, subscribe and take an oath, that he will faithfully and fairly discharge his duty upon the reference, and make a just and true report, according to the best of his understanding. The oath may be administered by an officer designated in section 842 of this act, and must be returned to the judge, with the report or testimony.

New.

§ 2446. Order permitting person indebted to pay debt to sheriff.

At any time after the commencement of a special proceeding, authorized by this article, and before the appointment of a receiver therein, or the extension of a receivership thereto, the judge, by whom the order or warrant was granted, or to whom it is returnable, may, in his discretion, upon proof, by affidavit, to his satisfaction, that a person or corporation is indebted to the judgment debtor, and upon such a notice, given to such persons, as he deems just, or without notice, make an order, permitting the person or corporation, to pay to a sheriff, designated in the order, a sum, on account of the alleged indebtedness, not exceeding the sum which will satisfy the execution. A payment thus made is, to the extent thereof, a discharge of the indebtedness, except as against a transferee from the judgment debtor, in good faith and for a valuable consideration, of whose rights the person or corporation had actual or constructive notice, when the payment was made.

See Co. Proc., §§ 293, 297.

§ 2447. Order requiring delivery of money or property to sheriff or receiver.

Where it appears, from the examination or testimony taken in a special proceeding authorized by this article, that the judgment debtor has, in his possession or under his control, money or other personal property, belonging to him; or that one or more articles of personal property, capable of delivery, his right to the possession whereof is not substantially disputed, are in the possession or under the control of another person; the judge, by whom the order or warrant was granted, or to whom it is returnable, may, in his discretion, and upon such a notice, given to such persons, as he deems just, or without notice, make an order, directing the judgment debtor, or other person, immediately to pay the money, or deliver the articles of personal property, to a sheriff, designated in the order, unless a receiver has been appointed, or a receivership has been extended to the special proceeding, and in that case to the receiver.

Id.

§ 2448. Duty of the sheriff.

If the sheriff, to whom money is paid, or other property is delivered, pursuant to an order made as prescribed in either of the last two sections, does not then hold an execution upon the judgment against the property of the judgment debtor, he has the same rights and powers, and is subject to the same duties and liabilities, with respect to the money or property, as if the money had been collected, or the property had been levied upon by him, by virtue of such an execution; except as otherwise prescribed in the next section.

Id.

§ 2449. [Am'd, 1892.] How money or property applied to pay the judgment.

After a receiver has been appointed, or a receivership has been extended to the special proceeding, the judge must, by order, direct the sheriff to pay the money or the proceeds of the property, deducting his fees, to the receiver; or, if the case so requires, to deliver to the receiver the property in his hands. But if it appears, to the satisfaction of the judge, that an order, appointing a receiver or extending a receivership, is not necessary, he may, by an order reciting that fact, direct the sheriff to apply the money so paid, or the proceeds of the property so delivered, upon an execution in favor of the judgment creditor, issued either before or after the payment or delivery to the sheriff. And a receiver, appointed pursuant to the provisions of this article, may, on leave of a judge having power to appoint such receiver, lease the real property that shall come into his possession for such time as shall be necessary to realize moneys sufficient to satisfy the judgment, with interest thereon and costs of the special proceeding.

Id. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 292.

§ 2450. Balance to be paid or delivered to judgment debtor, etc.

Where money is paid, or property is delivered, as prescribed in the last four sections, and afterwards the special proceeding is discontinued or dismissed; or the judgment is satisfied, without resorting to that money or property; or a balance of the money, or of the proceeds of the property, or a part of the property, remains in the sheriff's or the receiver's hands, after satisfying the judgment, and the costs and expenses of the special proceeding; the judge must make an order, directing the sheriff or receiver to pay the money, or deliver the property, so remaining in his hands, to the judgment debtor, or to such other person as appears to be entitled thereto, upon payment of his fees, and all other sums legally chargeable against the same.

See Co. Proc., §§ 298, 297.

§ 2451. Judge may enjoin transfer, etc., of property.

The judge by whom the order or warrant was granted or to whom it is returnable, may make an injunction order, restraining any person or corporation, whether a party or not a party to the special proceeding, from making or suffering any transfer or other disposition of, or interference with, the property of the judgment debtor, or the property or debt, concerning which any person is required to attend and be examined, until further direction in the premises. Such an injunction order may be made simultaneously with the order or warrant, by which the special proceeding is instituted, and upon the same papers; or afterwards, upon an affidavit, showing sufficient grounds therefor. The judge or the court may, as a condition of granting an application to vacate or modify the injunction order, require the applicant to give security, in such a sum and in such a manner, as justice requires.

From Co. Proc., §§ 298, 299.

§ 2452. Mode of service of certain orders.

An injunction order, or an order requiring a person to attend and be examined, made as prescribed in this article, must be served as follows:

1. The original order, under the hand of the judge making it, must be exhibited to the person to be served.

2. A copy thereof, and of the affidavit upon which it was made, must be delivered to him.

Service upon a corporation is sufficient, if made upon an officer, to whom a copy of a summons must be delivered, where a summons is personally served upon the corporation; unless the officer is specially designated by the judge, as prescribed in section 2444 of this act.

New.

§ 2453. Service of a warrant.

The sheriff, when he arrests a judgment debtor by virtue of a warrant, issued as prescribed in this article, must deliver to him a copy of the warrant, and of the affidavit upon which it was granted.

New.

§ 2454. How proceedings discontinued or dismissed.

A special proceeding, instituted as prescribed in this article, may be discontinued at any time, upon such terms as justice requires, by an order of the judge, made upon the application of the judgment creditor. Where the judgment creditor unreasonably neglects or delays to proceed, or where it appears that his judgment has been satisfied, his proceedings may be dismissed, upon like terms, by a like order, made upon the application of the judgment debtor, or of the plaintiff in a judgment creditor's action against the debtor, or of a judgment creditor who has instituted either of the special proceedings, authorized by this article. Where an order appointing a receiver, or extending a receivership, has been made, in the course of the special proceeding, notice of the application for an order specified in this section, must be given, in such a manner as the judge deems proper, to all persons interested in the receivership, as far as they can conveniently be ascertained.

New.

§ 2455. Costs to judgment creditor.

The judge may make an order, allowing to the judgment creditor a fixed sum, as costs, consisting of his witnesses' fees and other disbursements, and of a sum, in addition thereto, not exceeding thirty dollars; and directing the payment thereof, out of any money which has come, or may come, to the hands of the receiver, or of the sheriff; or, within a time specified in the order, by the judgment debtor, or other person against whom the special proceeding is instituted.

From Co. Proc., § 301.

§ 2456. Id.; to judgment debtor, etc.

Where the judgment debtor, or other person against whom the special proceeding is instituted, has been examined, and property, applicable to the payment of the judgment, has not been discovered in the course of the special proceeding, the judge may make an order, allowing him a like sum as costs; and directing the payment thereof, within a time specified in the order, by the judgment creditor; or, except where it is allowed to the judgment debtor, out of any money which has come, or may come, to the hands of the receiver or of the sheriff.

From Id., § 301.

§ 2457. [Am'd, 1911.] Disobedience to order; how punished.

A person who refuses, or without sufficient excuse neglects, to obey an order of a judge or referee, made pursuant to the last two sections, or to any other provision of this article, and duly served upon him, or an oral direction, given directly to him by a judge or referee, in the course of the special proceedings; or to attend before a judge or referee, according to the command of a subpoena, duly served upon him, may be punished by the judge of, or by the court out of which the execution was issued, by the county judge, the special county judge, or the special surrogate of the county to which the execution was issued, or by the city court of the city of New York or a justice thereof, if the proceedings were instituted before such court or any justice thereof, as for a contempt.

From Co. Proc., § 302. Am'd by L. 1911, c. 558 (in effect Sept. 1, 1911).

§ 2458. [Am'd, 1881, 1897.] Upon what judgment and to what county the execution must have issued.

In order to entitle a judgment-creditor to maintain either of the special proceedings authorized by this article, the judgment must have been rendered upon the judgment debtor's appearance or personal service of the summons upon him, for a sum not less than twenty-five dollars or substituted service of the summons upon him in accordance with section 436 of the code of civil procedure; and the execution must have been issued out of a court of record; and either:

1. To the sheriff of the county where the judgment debtor has, at the time of the commencement of the special proceedings, a place for the regular transaction of business in person; or,

2. If the judgment debtor is then a resident of the state, to the sheriff of the county where he resides; or,

3. If he is not then a resident of the state, to the sheriff of the county where the judgment-roll is filed unless the execution was issued out of a court other than that in which the judgment was rendered, and, in that case, to the sheriff of the county where the transcript of the judgment is filed.

From Id., § 292. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 122; L. 1897, c. 189 (in effect Sept. 1, 1897).

§ 2459. In what county judgment debtor, his bailee, etc., must attend.

If the judgment debtor, or other person, required to attend and be examined, as prescribed in this article, or the officer of a corporation, required to attend in its behalf, is, at the time of the service of the order upon him, a resident of the State, or then has an office, within the State, for the regular transaction of business in person, he cannot be compelled to attend, pursuant to the order, or to any adjournment, at a place without the county wherein his residence or place of business is situated.

From Co. Proc., § 292.

§ 2460. [Am'd, 1881.] No person excused from answering on the ground of fraud.

A party or a witness, examined in a special proceeding, authorized by this article, is not excused from answering a question, on the ground that his examination will tend to convict him of the commission of a fraud; or to prove that he has been a party or privy to, or knowing of, a conveyance, assignment, transfer, or other disposition of property for any purpose; or that he or another person claims to be entitled, as against the judgment creditor, or a receiver appointed or to be appointed in the special proceeding, to hold property, derived from or through the judgment debtor, or to be discharged from the payment of a debt which was due to the judgment debtor, or to a person in his behalf. But an answer cannot be used, as evidence against the person so answering, in a criminal action or criminal proceeding.

From Co. Proc., § 292. Am'd by L. 1881, c. 122.

§ 2461. [Am'd, 1900.] Proceedings where judgment is against joint debtors.

Where the execution was issued as prescribed in section 1934 or section 1941 of this act, a debt due to, or other personal property owned by, one or more of the defendants not summoned, jointly with the defendants summoned, or with any of them, may be reached by a special proceeding, instituted as prescribed in this article, and founded upon the judgment.

From Co. Proc., § 294. Am'd by L. 1900, c. 217 (in effect Sept. 1, 1900).

§ 2462. Proceedings commenced before one judge may be continued before another.

Sections 26, 52, and 279[1] of this act apply to a special proceeding, instituted as prescribed in this article; and the judge before whom it is continued, as prescribed in either of those sections, is deemed to be the judge to whom an order or warrant is returnable, for the purpose of any provision of this or the next article.

New.

§ 2463. [Am'd, 1886, 1908.] Cases where this chapter is not applicable; what property cannot be reached.

This article does not authorize the seizure of, or other interference with, any property, which is expressly exempt by law from levy and sale by virtue of an execution; or any money, thing in action, or other property, held in trust for a judgment debtor, where the trust has been created by, or the fund so held in trust has proceeded from a person, other than the judgment debtor; or the earnings of the judgment debtor for his personal services, rendered within sixty days, next before the institution of the special proceeding; when it is made to appear, by his oath or otherwise, that those earnings are necessary for the use of a family, wholly or partly supported by his labor.

In part from Co. Proc., § 297. Am'd by L. 1886, c. 26; L. 1908, c. 278 (in effect Sept. 1, 1908). See § 1879, ante.

[1] This refers to § 279 of the Code as it read before Jan. 1, 1896. It was repealed by L. 1895, c. 946, § 2. The present § 279 was enacted by L. 1897, c. 36. See § 263, ante, footnote.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The receiver.

Sec. 2464. When and how receiver may be appointed.
2465. Notice to other creditors.
2466. Only one receiver to be appointed. Former receivership may be extended.
2467. Order to be filed and recorded.
2468. When property is vested in receiver.
2469. How receiver's title to personal property extended by relation.
2470. County clerk to record orders, etc.; penalty for neglect.
2471. Receiver and his accounts are subject to the control of the court.

§ 2464. When and how receiver may be appointed.

At any time after making an order, requiring the judgment debtor, or any other person, to attend and be examined, or issuing a warrant, as prescribed in article first of this title, the judge to whom the order or warrant is returnable may make an order, appointing a receiver of the property of the judgment debtor. At least two days' notice of the application for the order appointing a receiver, must be given personally to the judgment debtor, unless the judge is satisfied that he cannot, with reasonable diligence, be found within the State; in which case, the order must recite that fact, and may dispense with notice, or may direct notice to be given in any manner which the judge thinks proper. But where the order to attend and be examined, or the warrant, has been served upon the judgment debtor, a receiver may be appointed upon the return day thereof, or at the close of the examination, without further notice to him.

From Co. Proc., § 298.

§ 2465. Notice to other creditors.

The judge must ascertain, if practicable, by the oath of the judgment debtor, or otherwise, whether an action, specified in article first of title fourth of chapter fifteenth of this act, or a special proceeding instituted as prescribed in article first of this title, is pending against the judgment debtor. If either is pending, and a receiver has not been appointed therein, notice of the application for the appointment of a receiver, and of all the subsequent proceedings respecting the receivership, must be given, in such a manner as the judge directs, to the judgment creditor prosecuting it.

From Id., § 298.

§ 2466. Only one receiver to be appointed. Former receivership may be extended.

Only one receiver of the property of a judgment debtor shall be appointed. Where a receiver thereof has already been appointed, the judge, instead of making the order prescribed in the last section but one, must make an order, extending the receivership to the special proceeding before him. Such an order gives to the judgment creditor the same rights, as if a receiver was then appointed upon his application; including the right to apply to the court to control, direct, or remove the receiver, or to subordinate the proceedings in or by which the receiver was appointed, to those taken under his judgment.

From Id., § 298.

§ 2467. Order to be filed and recorded.

An order appointing a receiver, or extending a receivership, must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county, wherein the judgment-roll in the action is filed; or, if the special proceeding is founded upon an execution issued out of a court, other than that in which the judgment was rendered, in the office of the clerk of the county, wherein the transcript of the judgment is filed.

From Id., § 298.

§ 2468. When property is vested in receiver.

The property of the judgment debtor is vested in a receiver, who has duly qualified, from the time of filing the order appointing him, or extending his receivership, as the case may be; subject to the following exceptions:

1. Real property is vested in the receiver, only from the time when the order, or a certified copy thereof, as the case may be, is filed with the clerk of the county where it is situated.

2. Where the judgment debtor, at the time when the order is filed, resides in another county of the State, his personal property is vested in the receiver, only from the time when a copy of the order, certified by the clerk in whose office it is recorded, is filed with the clerk of the county where he resides.

From Id., § 298.

§ 2469. [Am'd, 1892.] How receiver's title to personal property extended by relation.

Where the receiver's title to personal property has become vested, as prescribed in the last section, it also extends back, by relation, for the benefit of the judgment creditor in whose behalf the special proceeding was instituted, as follows:

1. Where an order, requiring the judgment debtor to attend and be examined, or a warrant, requiring the sheriff to arrest him and bring him before the judge, has been served, before the appointment of the receiver, or the extension of the receivership, the receiver's title extends back, so as to include the personal property of the judgment debtor, at the time of the service of the order or warrant.

2. Where an order or warrant has not been served, as specified in the foregoing subdivision, but an order has been made, requiring a person to attend and be examined, concerning property belonging, or a debt due, to the judgment debtor, the receiver's title extends to the personal property, belonging to the judgment debtor, which was in the hands, or under the control, of the person or corporation thus required to attend, at the time of the service of the order; and to a debt then due to him from that person or corporation.

3. In every other case, where notice of the application for the appointment of the receiver was given to the judgment debtor, the receiver's title extends to the personal property of the judgment debtor, at the time when the notice was served, either personally, or by complying with the requirements of an order, prescribing a substitute for personal service.

4. Where the case is within two or more of the foregoing subdivisions of this section, the rule most favorable to the judgment creditor must be adopted.

5. No person shall be appointed a receiver in this State who is not a resident thereof, nor shall any person continue to act as receiver after he ceases to be a resident thereof. And the judgment creditor may apply to the court or judge that appointed such receiver, within thirty days after said receiver ceases to be a resident of this State, for the appointment of another person in his place, upon such notice to the persons interested as the court or judge may direct.

But this section does not affect the title of a purchaser in good faith, without notice, and for a valuable consideration; or the payment of a debt in good faith, and without notice.

New. Am'd by L. 1892, c. 85.

§ 2470. County clerk to record orders, etc.; penalty for neglect.

Each county clerk must keep in his office a book, indexed to the names of the judgment debtors, styled "book of orders appointing receivers of judgment debtors". A county clerk, in whose office an order or a certified copy of an order is filed, as prescribed in section 2467 or section 2468 of this act, must immediately note thereupon the time of filing it, and, as soon as practicable, must record it, in the book so kept by him. He must also, upon request, furnish forthwith to any party or person interested, one or more certified copies thereof. For each omission to comply with any provision of this section, a county clerk forfeits, to the party aggrieved, two hundred and fifty dollars, in addition to all damages sustained by reason of the omission.

From Co. Proc., § 298.

§ 2471. [Am'd, 1913, 1915.] Receiver and his accounts are subject to the control of the court.

A receiver, appointed as prescribed in this article, is subject to the direction and control of the court out of which the execution was issued, except where a receiver is appointed by the city court of the city of New York or by a county court, or a justice of said courts, he is subject to the direction and control of the said court or justice. Where an order has been made, extending a receivership to a special proceeding founded upon a subsequent judgment, the control over, and direction of, the receiver, with respect to that judgment, remain in the court or justice to whose control and direction he was originally subject. He shall keep accounts of his receivership and vouchers for all moneys paid out. An interested party may appear by serving upon the receiver and filing in the court a written notice.

The receiver may file his account and thereupon move for either an intermediate or final judicial settlement thereof. Should the receiver fail to file an account and apply for the above relief within a reasonable time, an interested party may apply for an order directed to the receiver. The account must contain a full and true statement as to all property and the disposition thereof. It must be verified to the effect, that it is true to the knowledge of the receiver, except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters, he believes it to be true, that the sources of his information and grounds of his belief are as therein set forth, and he knows of no error or omission to the prejudice of the judgment debtor, creditor, surety, or other person interested. All vouchers must be numbered and classified and a summary of the totals, together with the total payment made or due to each person, shall be made part of and accompany the account. The court may direct the receiver to attend and be examined under oath as to the account, the discharge of his duties, or any other matter relating to the administration thereof. He may be allowed without a voucher, any proper item of expenditure for postage, affidavits or acknowledgments, or other item, not exceeding five dollars, for which a voucher is not customarily given or obtainable, upon specifying in his account when, to whom and for what the payment was made; but all the items so allowed shall not exceed one hundred dollars. An interested party may contest the account after appearing by filing written objections thereto and serving a copy thereof upon the receiver or his attorney either before or after service upon him of a written notice of the filing of said account. The time within which to contest the account may be limited by the court. The contest shall be confined to the items or matters thus objected to. A settlement of the account may be ordered subject to said objections. The court may allow or disallow any item of the account and decree either an intermediate or final settlement, conclusive upon all parties, appearing therein or who have been served with notice of filing of said account.

From Id., § 298. Am'd by L. 1913, c. 480; L. 1915, cc. 255, 634 (in effect September 1, 1915).

TITLE XIII.

Proceedings to compel the delivery of books to a public officer.

Sec. 2471a. Delivery of books and papers, how enforced.

§ 2471a. [Omitted; see Table, p. iii.] Delivery of books and papers, how enforced.

A public officer may demand from any person in whose possession they may be, a delivery to such officer of the books and papers belonging or appertaining to such office. If such demand is refused, such officer may make complaint thereof to any justice of the supreme court of the district, or to the county judge of the county in which the person refusing resides. If such justice or judge be satisfied that such books or papers are withheld, he shall grant an order directing the person refusing to show cause before him at a time specified therein, why he should not deliver the same. At such time, or at any time to which the matter may be adjourned, on proof of the due service of the order, such justice or judge shall proceed to inquire into the circumstances. If the person charged with withholding such books or papers makes affidavit before such justice or judge that he has delivered to the officer all books and papers in his custody which, within his knowledge, or to his belief belong or appertain thereto, such proceedings before such justice or judge shall cease, and such person be discharged. If the person complained against shall not make such oath, and it appears that any such books or papers are withheld by him, such justice or judge shall commit him to the county jail until he delivers such books and papers, or is otherwise discharged according to law. On such commitment, such justice or judge, if required by the complainant, shall also issue his warrant directed to any sheriff or constable, commanding him to search, in the daytime, the places designated therein, for such books and papers, and to bring them before such justice or judge. If any such books and papers are brought before him by virtue of such warrant, he shall determine whether they appertain to such office, and if so shall cause them to be delivered to the complainant.

Added by L. 1893, c. 179.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Surrogates' Courts, and Proceedings Therein.[1]

(Revised by Laws of 1914, Chapter 443 [in effect Sept. 1, 1914].)

TITLE I.—The surrogate and acting surrogate, and their powers and duties. The surrogate's court, its officers and their powers and duties; the surrogate's court and its general jurisdiction.

TITLE II.—Special proceedings; pleadings, process and its service; appearance; trial by court or jury; taking and preserving testimony; orders and decrees, their effect and enforcement. Letters, their requisites, effect, issue and revocation. Bonds and undertakings, their requisites, approval, prosecution and discharge. Sureties, their rights and obligations.

TITLE III.—Granting letters of administration. Probating and construing wills. Issuing letters testamentary, and ancillary letters testamentary and of administration. Appointment and qualification of testamentary trustee. Appointment and qualification of general, ancillary and testamentary guardians, and guardian by deed. Annual accounts by such guardians.

TITLE IV.—Ascertaining assets and debts. Payment of debts and legacies. Powers and duties of executors and administrators. Mortgage, lease or sale of real property for payment of debts, funeral expenses, expenses of administration, and to satisfy charges thereon, and for distribution.

TITLE V.—Accounting and judicial settlement. Effect and contents of decree on judicial settlement. Costs, their amount, allowance and payment. Fees of appraisers, referees, jurors and witnesses. Commissions and allowances. Appeals, how and to what court taken; undertakings and stay of execution. Probate of heirship. Definitions and application of other sections.

TITLE I.

The Surrogate and acting surrogate, and their powers and duties; the surrogate's court, its officers and their powers and duties; the surrogate's court and its general jurisdiction.

Article 1. The surrogate and acting surrogate; their powers and duties; when disqualified and how office filled.
2. The officers of the surrogate's court; their appointment, powers, duties, salaries and fees.
3. The surrogate's court and its general jurisdiction.

ARTICLE FIRST.

The surrogate and acting surrogate; their powers and duties; when disqualified and how office filled.

Sec. 2472. Surrogate and acting surrogate; their official designations.
2473. Seal of the surrogate and surrogate's court.
2474. Surrogate, when not to be counsel.
2475. Surrogate liable for clerk's acts.
2476. Surrogate, when disqualified.
2477. Disqualification; when objection must be taken.
2478. Vacancy or disability; who to act as surrogate.

[1] This "Surrogates' Courts Act" and the "Decedent Estate Law" are so closely interrelated that the one is the necessary complement of the other. The "Decedent Estate Law" is therefore incorporated in this edition of the Code as Appendix II (beginning on page 1022a).

2479. If surrogate disqualified, who to act.
2480. Id., in New York county.
2481. Proof of authority.
2482. Id., when and how made.
2483. How authority superseded.
2484. Temporary surrogate; when board of supervisors may appoint.
2485. Compensation of person acting as surrogate in case of vacancy, disability or disqualification.
2486. Books to be kept by surrogate.
2487. Books to be indexed; notation on margin as to certain decrees.
2488. Papers and books to be preserved and bonds filed.
2489. What papers to be transmitted to secretary of state or state comptroller; expenses thereof.
2490. Incidental powers of the surrogate.

§ 2472. Surrogate and acting surrogate; their official designations.

Where the county judge is also surrogate, he may be designated, in any paper or proceeding relating to the office of surrogate, as the surrogate of the county, without any addition referring to his office as county judge. A local officer elected, as prescribed in the constitution, to discharge the duties of surrogate, or of county judge and surrogate, is designated in this act, and, when acting as surrogate, may be designated as the "special surrogate" of his county. Where an officer, other than the surrogate, or special surrogate, acts as surrogate in a case prescribed by law, he must be designated by his official title with the addition of the words, "and acting surrogate."

Former § 2483 of this Code. From L. 1853, c. 648.

§ 2473. Seal of the surrogate and surrogate's court.

The seal of the surrogate of each county shall continue to be the seal of the surrogate's court of that county, and must be used as such by an officer who discharges the duties of the surrogate. A description of each of such seals must be deposited and recorded in the office of the secretary of state, unless it has already been done; and must remain of record.

Former § 2507 of this Code. From 2 R. S., §§ 3, 4, 5, as am'd by L. 1909, c. 65.

§ 2474. Surrogate, when not to be counsel.

A surrogate shall not be counsel, solicitor or attorney in a civil action or special proceeding for or against any executor, administrator, temporary administrator, testamentary trustee, guardian or infant, over whom, or whose estate or accounts, he could have any jurisdiction by law.

Former § 2495 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 223 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1) § 13, as am'd by L. 1893, c. 686.

§ 2475. Surrogate liable for clerk's acts.

A surrogate hereafter elected or appointed, and the sureties on his official bond, are liable for any act of the clerk or deputy clerk of the surrogate's court in the discharge of his official duties, during the surrogate's term of office, as if the act were performed by the surrogate. The surrogate may take security from the clerk or deputy clerk, or either of them, to indemnify him against the liability created by this section.

Former § 2511 of this Code. See L. 1857, c. 789, § 5; L. 1893, c. 686; L. 1907, c. 209.

§ 2476. Surrogate, when disqualified.

In addition to his general disqualifications as a judicial officer, a surrogate is disqualified from acting upon an application for probate of a will, where he is a subscribing witness, or is necessarily examined or to be examined as a witness.

A surrogate is also disqualified in any matter in his court where he files a certificate that his relations to the parties or the subject-matter are such that it is improper for him to act.

Former § 2496 of this Code, modified. From 2 R. S. 79 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 48; L. 1847, c. 470, § 32; L. 1871, c. 859, § 8.

§ 2477. Disqualification; when objection must be taken.

An objection to the power of a surrogate to act, based upon a disqualification, is waived by an adult party to a special proceeding unless it is taken at or before the joinder of issue by that party, or, where an issue is not framed, at or before the submission of the matter or question to the surrogate.

Former § 2497 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 276 (Part 3, c. 3, tit. 1), § 14; L. 1844, c. 300, § 6.

§ 2478. Vacancy or disability; who to act as surrogate.

Where in any county, except New York, the office of surrogate is vacant; or the surrogate is disabled by reason of sickness, absence or lunacy, or is disqualified in a particular matter, and special provision is not made by law for the discharge of the duties of his office in that contingency; the duties of his office must be discharged, until the vacancy is filled or the disability ceases, as follows:

1. By the special surrogate.
2. If there is no special surrogate, or he is in like manner disabled, or is precluded or disqualified, by the special county judge.
3. If there is no special county judge, or he is in like manner disabled, or is precluded or disqualified, by the county judge.
4. If there is no county judge, or he is in like manner disabled, or is precluded or disqualified, by the district attorney.

But before an officer is entitled to act as prescribed in this section, proof of his authority to act as prescribed in section 2481 of this chapter must be made. In any proceeding in the surrogate's court of the county of Kings, before either of the officers authorized in this section to discharge the duties of the office of surrogate of such county for the time being, if an issue is joined or a contest arises either on the facts or the law, such officer, in his discretion, may, by order, transfer such cases to the supreme court to be heard and decided at a special term thereof, held in such county, which order shall be recorded in the surrogate's office. A certified copy of such order, together with the appropriate certificate or certificates of the authority of the officer to act as surrogate, shall be sufficient and conclusive evidence of the jurisdiction and authority of the supreme court in such matter or cause. After a final order or decree is made in the matter or cause so transferred to the supreme court, the court shall direct the papers to be returned and filed, and transcripts of all orders and decrees made therein to be recorded in the surrogate's office of such county; and when so filed and recorded, they shall have the same effect as if they were filed and recorded in a case pending in the surrogate's court of such county.

Former § 2484 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 79 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), §§ 49-54; L. 1847, c. 470, § 32; L. 1871, c. 839, § 8; L. 1877, c. 285; L. 1879, c. 151; L. 1893, c. 686.

§ 2479. If surrogate disqualified, who to act.

Where the surrogate of any county, except New York, is precluded or disqualified from acting with respect to any particular matter, his powers with respect to that matter, or if he be temporarily absent, his powers with respect to all matters, shall be discharged by the several officers designated in the last section, in the order therein provided. If there is no such officer qualified to act therein, the surrogate may file in his office a certificate, stating that fact; specifying the reason why he is disqualified or precluded; and designating the surrogate of any county, other than New York, to act in his place in the particular matter or during his absence. The surrogate so designated has, with respect to that matter, or generally when the designation is made on account of absence of the surrogate, all the powers of the surrogate making the designation, and may exercise the same in either county.

Former § 2485 of this Code. From L. 1877, c. 285; L. 1879, c. 311; L. 1893, c. 686.

§ 2480. Id., in New York county.

In the county of New York the supreme court, at a special term thereof, on the presentation of proof of its authority, as prescribed in the next section, must exercise all the powers and jurisdiction of the surrogate's court, as follows:

1. Where the surrogate is precluded or disqualified from acting with respect to a particular matter, it must exercise all the powers and jurisdiction of that court with respect to that matter.

2. Where the office of surrogate of the county is vacant, or the surrogate is disabled by reason of sickness, absence or lunacy, it must exercise all the powers and jurisdiction of that court, until the vacancy is filled or the disability ceases, as the case may be.

Former § 2486 of this Code. See L. 1881, c. 535; L. 1893, c. 686; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2481. Proof of authority.

The authority of another officer, or, in the county of New York, of the supreme court, to act as prescribed in the last three sections, must be proved in one of the following modes:

1. Where the surrogate is disqualified or precluded from acting in a particular matter, that fact may be proved by the surrogate's certificate thereof. Where the surrogate is temporarily absent, that fact may be proved by the certificate of the surrogate, or of the clerk of the surrogate's court, or of the county clerk.

2. The fact that the surrogate is disabled by reason of sickness, or lunacy, or that the office is vacant, and also the authority of the officer, or of the court, as the case may be, to act in his place, may be proved and are deemed conclusively established by an order of a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the county.

Former § 2487 of this Code. See L. 1887, c. 684; L. 1893, c. 686; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2482. Id., when and how made.

An order may be made as prescribed in subdivision second of the last section upon or without notice, as a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the county thinks proper. It must recite the cause of the making thereof, and must designate the officer or court empowered to discharge the duties of the office of surrogate.

It may, in the discretion of the justice, require an officer to give security for the due discharge of the duties therein. Where the office of surrogate is vacant, or the surrogate is disabled by reason of lunacy, the attorney-general, if directed by the governor must, or the district attorney upon his own motion may, apply for the order, and a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the county must grant it upon his application. A justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the county may also grant the order upon the application of a party or a person about to become a party to any special proceeding in the surrogate's court. Where the surrogate is sick, the granting of an order rests in the discretion of the justice, and its effect may be qualified as the justice thinks proper.

Former § 2488 of this Code. From same sources as § 2478, ante. Am'd by L. 1889, c. 495, § 1.

§ 2483. How authority superseded.

Where an order is made by a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the county, as prescribed in the last two sections, or an appointment is made as prescribed in section 2484 of this chapter for any cause except a vacancy in the office of surrogate, it may be revoked, without prejudice to any proceeding theretofore taken by virtue thereof, by a justice of the supreme court of the judicial district embracing the surrogate's county, upon proof that it was improvidently made, or that the cause of making it has become inoperative. Such an order or appointment, made upon the ground that the surrogate's office is vacant, is superseded without any formal revocation, by the filling of the vacancy. After the order of appointment is revoked, or the vacancy is filled, as the case may be, the unfinished business, in any proceeding taken by virtue of the order or appointment, must be transferred to, and may be completed by, the surrogate, in the same manner and with like effect as where a new surrogate completes the unfinished business of his predecessor.

Former § 2489 of this Code. See L. 1889, c. 495, § 2.

§ 2484. Temporary surrogate; when board of supervisors may appoint.

In any county, except New York, if the surrogate is disabled by reason of sickness, and there is no special surrogate, or special county judge of the county, the board of supervisors, or in the counties embraced within the city of New York, the board of aldermen, may, in its discretion, appoint a suitable person to act as surrogate until the surrogate's disability ceases, or until a special surrogate or a special county judge is elected or appointed. A person so appointed must, before entering on the execution of the duties of his office, take and file an oath of office and give an official bond as prescribed by law with respect to a person elected to the office of surrogate.

Former § 2492 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 79, § 54; L. 1830, c. 320, § 21; L. 1893, c. 686.

§ 2485. Compensation of person acting as surrogate in case of vacancy, disability or disqualification.

An officer, or a person appointed by the board of supervisors, or board of aldermen, who acts as surrogate of any county during a vacancy in the office, or in consequence of disability, as prescribed in this title must be paid, for the time during which he so acts, a compensation equal pro rata to the salary of the surrogate; or, in a county where the county judge is also surrogate, to the salary of the county judge. The amount of his compensation must be audited and paid in like manner as the salary of the surrogate, or of the county judge, as the case may be. Where an officer of the county performs the duties of the surrogate with respect to a particular matter wherein the surrogate is disqualified or precluded from acting, the supervisors of the county, or board of aldermen, must allow him a compensation equal pro rata to the salary of the surrogate to be audited and collected in the same manner.

Former § 2493 of this Code. From L. 1871, c. 359, § 8.

§ 2486. Books to be kept by surrogate.

Each surrogate must provide and keep the following books:

1. A record-book of wills, in which must be recorded, at length, every will required by law to be recorded in his office and the decree admitting it to probate.

2. A record-book of letters testamentary, letters of administration and letters of guardianship, in which must be recorded all such letters issued out of his court.

3. A record-book in which must be recorded every decree whereby the account of an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, or guardian is settled.

4. A book containing a minute of every paper filed, or other proceeding taken, relating to the disposition of the real property of a decedent, and a record of every order or decree made thereupon; with a memorandum of every report made, and other proceeding taken, founded upon a decree for such a disposition.

5. A book containing a minute or record of every decree or order, the record of which is not required by this section to be kept elsewhere; together with a memorandum of each execution issued, and of the satisfaction of each decree recorded therein.

6. A book in which must be recorded, upon the application of any person, all instruments acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified, settling estates or accounts or assigning, mortgaging, charging or releasing any interest in any estate or fund.

7. A book known as the Court and Trust Fund Register.

8. A book in which all bonds and undertakings filed in his court must be recorded.

The expense of providing the books required by law to be kept and used by the surrogate is a county charge, and such books must be open at all reasonable times to the inspection of any person.

Former § 2498 of this Code, modified, with parts of §§ 2499, 2502, 2509. From 2 R. S. 222 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 7; Id., 110 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 4), § 60; L. 1837, c. 460, § 3.

§ 2487. Books to be indexed; notation on margin as to certain decrees.

To each of the books kept as prescribed in the last section must be attached an alphabetical index referring to the page of the book where each subject may be found. The surrogate may keep two or more books for a further division of the subjects specified in either subdivision of the last section; in which case he must keep a separate index to each set of books. Each decree or judgment affecting a will, its probate or construction, or revoking or otherwise affecting letters testamentary, letters of administration, or letters of guardianship, or suspending or removing a testamentary trustee, or modifying or otherwise affecting any other decree, must be plainly noted at the end or in the margin of the record of the will, letters, or original decree, with a reference to the book and page where the subsequent decree is recorded.

Former § 2499 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 222 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 7; L. 1837, c. 460, § 2.

§ 2488. Papers and books to be preserved and bonds filed.

The surrogate must carefully file and preserve in his office every deposition, affidavit, petition, report, account, voucher, or other paper relating to any proceeding in his court and deliver to his successor all the papers and books kept by him, except that vouchers may be returned to the accounting party after two years, or destroyed after five years from the date of the decree which allowed the payments represented by them.

Former § 2500 of the Code. From 2 R. S. 223, § 8; Id., 102, § 13; L. 1837, c. 460, § 2; L. 1893, c. 686.

§ 2489. What papers to be transmitted to secretary of state or state comptroller; expenses thereof.

A surrogate who admits to probate the will of a person who was not a resident of the state at the time of his death, or grants original or ancillary letters testamentary upon such a will, or original or ancillary letters of administration upon the estate of such a person, must, within ten days thereafter, transmit to the secretary of state, to be filed in his office, a certified copy of the will or letters.

The surrogate must, within ten days after granting letters of administration to a county treasurer, transmit to the state comptroller a certified copy of such letters.

Former § 2503 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 80 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 59.

§ 2490. Incidental powers of the surrogate.

A surrogate, in or out of court, as the case requires, has power:

1. To issue citations and other process authorized by law to parties, in any matter within the jurisdiction of his court; and, in a case prescribed by law, to compel the attendance of a party.

2. To adjourn, from time to time, a hearing or other proceeding in his court; and where all persons who are necessary parties have not been cited or notified, and citation or notice has not been waived by appearance or otherwise, it is his duty, before proceeding further, so to adjourn the same, and to issue a supplemental citation, or require the petitioner to give an additional notice, as may be necessary.

3. To issue, under the seal of the court, a subpœna requiring the attendance of a witness, or of a person, residing or being in any part of the state, for examination as to any matter or subject about which it is necessary or proper for the surrogate to inquire in order that he may properly perform any duty imposed upon him by law; or a subpœna duces tecum requiring such attendance and the production of a book or paper material to an inquiry pending in the court.

4. To enjoin by order, an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee or guardian, to whom a citation or other process has been duly issued from his court, from acting as such until the further order of the court.

5. To require, by order, an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, or guardian subject to the jurisdiction of his court, to perform any duty imposed upon him by statute, or by the surrogate's court, under authority of a statute.

6. To open, vacate, modify, or set aside, or to enter as of a former time, a decree or order of his court; or to grant a new trial or a new hearing for fraud, newly discovered evidence, clerical error, or other sufficient cause. The powers conferred by this subdivision must be exercised only in a like case, and in the same manner, as a court of record and of general jurisdiction exercises the same powers.

7. To punish any person for a contempt of his court, civil or criminal, in any case where it is expressly prescribed by law that a court of record may punish a person for a similar contempt, and in like manner.

8. Subject to the provisions of law relating to the disqualification of a judge in certain cases, to complete any unfinished business pending before his predecessor in the office, including proofs, accountings and examinations.

9. To complete and certify and sign in his own name, adding to his signature the date of so doing, all records or papers left uncompleted or unsigned by any of his predecessors.

10. To exemplify and certify transcripts of all records of his court, or other papers remaining therein.

11. With respect to any matter not expressly provided for in the foregoing subdivisions of this section, to proceed, in all matters subject to the cognizance of his court, according to the course and practice of a court having by the common law jurisdiction of such matters, except as otherwise prescribed by statute; and to exercise such incidental powers as are necessary to carry into effect the powers expressly conferred.

12. A surrogate has power to administer oaths, to take affidavits and the proof and acknowledgment of deeds and all other instruments in writing, and certify the same with the same force and effect as if taken and certified by a county judge; and in any proceeding of which he has jurisdiction, he may administer oaths, take affidavits, testimony and depositions, and certify the same at any place within the state of New York, with the same force and effect as if taken in his county.

Former § 2481 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 221 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), §§ 6, 11; L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 9, 61; L. 1870, c. 74, § 2; Id., c. 359, § 1; see L. 1871, c. 424, § 2; L. 1874, c. 9; L. 1909, cc. 65 and 510, § 1.

ARTICLE SECOND.

The officers of the surrogate's court; their appointment, powers, duties, salaries and fees.

Sec. 2491. Clerk and deputy clerk of surrogate's court, and clerks in surrogate's office; appointment; salary.
2492. Chief clerk of surrogate's court of Kings county; compensation of clerks and officers.
2493. Appointment of court officers and attendants.
2494. Interpreters in surrogate's court of Kings county.
2495. Stenographer for surrogates' courts in New York, Kings, Erie, Westchester and Queens counties.
2496. Id.; in other counties.
2497. Duty of stenographer.
2498. How minutes of testimony authenticated and bound.
2499. Fees for copying or recording papers.
2500. Fees of stenographer acting or taking testimony in surrogate's court.
2501. Expenses of surrogate or clerk.
2502. Clerk of surrogate's court; deputy clerk of surrogate's court; their powers.
2503. Clerk to keep court and trust fund register.

§ 2491. Clerk and deputy clerk of surrogate's court, and clerks in surrogate's office; appointment; salary.

By a written order filed and recorded in his office, which he may in like manner revoke at pleasure, a surrogate may appoint a clerk of the surrogate's court, and in any county containing a city of the second class, and in the counties of Monroe and Erie the surrogate may also appoint a deputy clerk of said court.

Each surrogate may appoint, and at pleasure remove, as many other clerks for his office, to be paid by the county, as the board of supervisors of his county, or in the city of New York the board of aldermen, authorize him so to appoint.

The board of supervisors or, in the counties embraced within the city of New York, the board of aldermen, as the case requires, must fix the compensation of the clerk or clerks appointed under this section; and may authorize them, or either of them, to receive, for their or his own use, any legal fees permitted to be charged by law. A surrogate may appoint, and at pleasure remove, as many additional clerks to be paid by him as he thinks proper.

Former § 2608 and part of § 2509 of this Code, consolidated and amended.

§ 2492. Chief clerk of surrogate's court of Kings county; compensation of clerks and officers.

The surrogate of the county of Kings may appoint a chief clerk of the court and office of such surrogate, who shall hold office for five years unless sooner removed by the surrogate for cause, after trial, upon charges duly served upon him and an opportunity to be heard and defend. Whenever a vacancy exists for any cause in such office, the surrogate shall appoint a person to fill such office for the full term of five years. Such chief clerk shall, before entering upon the performance of his duties, take the constitutional oath of office and shall file the same with the county clerk of Kings county, together with a bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars, with sureties approved by the surrogate, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such chief clerk. Such chief clerk shall perform such duties as now pertain to the office of chief clerk and clerk of the surrogate's court in such county, and such other duties as the surrogate may from time to time by rule of the court or otherwise impose upon him. The compensation of such chief clerk and of the other clerks and officers of the court and office of such surrogate shall, notwithstanding any other provision of law, be fixed by the said surrogate, and the same shall be a county charge. The compensation of the chief clerk shall not be decreased during his term of office.

Former § 2509a of this Code. From L. 1911, c. 688.

§ 2493. [Am'd, 1915.] Appointment of court officers and attendants.

The surrogates of Kings county may appoint, and at pleasure remove, all attendants, messengers and court officers in his court, who must attend, from day to day, the terms and sittings of the court to preserve order, and to perform whatever services may be required of him by the surrogate.

The surrogates of Erie, Bronx, Queens and Richmond counties may severally appoint, and at pleasure remove, as many attendants, messengers and court officers in their courts, to be paid by the county, as the board of supervisors of Erie county or the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York, respectively, authorize them so to appoint. The court officer or officers so appointed shall possess all the powers of officers designated by sheriffs to attend upon courts, and shall perform whatever services may be required by the surrogate.

The surrogate of any other county may appoint, and at pleasure remove, one or more court officers to attend his court and to perform such duties in respect thereto as the said surrogate may prescribe, who shall be paid by the county treasurer upon the certificate of the surrogate, a sum not to exceed three dollars per day for the days actually spent by him in attendance upon a session of the surrogate's court. Such officers shall also have all the powers of officers designated by sheriffs to attend upon courts of record.

The first part of this section is taken from former § 2512 of this Code; the rest is new. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 546 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 2494. Interpreters in surrogate's court of Kings county.

The surrogate of Kings county must from time to time appoint and may at pleasure remove an interpreter to be attached to the surrogate's court of said county. Such interpreter shall receive a salary of eighteen hundred dollars per annum to be paid by the comptroller of the city of New York, in monthly instalments, and shall, before entering upon his duties, file in the office of the clerk of the county of Kings the constitutional oath of office in which there shall also be incorporated language to the effect that he will fully and correctly interpret and translate each question propounded through him to a witness and each answer thereto in said courts. The compensation for the above interpreter to be taken out of the amount appropriated for the support of the said surrogate's court, or from any other contingent city fund.

Former § 2513a of this Code. From L. 1909, c. 65; see Judiciary Law, §§ 198, 382-385.

§ 2495. Stenographer for surrogates' courts in New York, Kings, Erie, Albany, Westchester and Queens counties.

The surrogate of each of the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Erie, Albany and Westchester must appoint, and may, for cause, remove, a stenographer for his court.

In the counties of New York and Kings such stenographers shall receive a salary fixed by law, to be paid as the salaries of clerks in the surrogate's office are paid.

In the counties of Erie, Albany, Westchester and Queens the salary of said stenographer shall be fixed by the board of supervisors, or by the board of estimate and apportionment, as the case may be, and the payment of such salary shall be provided for by such board in the same manner as other county salaries are paid.

From former § 2512 of this Code, in part.

§ 2496. [Am'd, 1915.] Id.; in other counties.

The surrogate of each county, except New York, Kings, Bronx, Albany, Westchester, Hamilton, Queens, Richmond, and Erie may, in his discretion, appoint, and at pleasure remove, a stenographer for his court, who, except in Sullivan county, shall receive a salary to be fixed by such surrogate, not exceeding in counties having a population less than thirty thousand, eight hundred dollars per annum; in counties having a population of thirty thousand and not more than fifty thousand, not exceeding one thousand dollars per annum, and in counties having a population exceeding fifty thousand, not exceeding twelve hundred dollars per annum, except that in counties in which are located cities of the second class, or in counties in which are located three cities of the third class, such salary shall not exceed eighteen hundred dollars per annum; and in any county wholly containing a city of the first class, such salaries shall not exceed two thousand dollars per annum. The population of the several counties shall be determined by the last preceding census. If a regular stenographer is appointed in Sullivan county, his salary shall be five hundred dollars per annum. The board of supervisors shall provide for the payment of such salary in the same manner as other county salaries are paid. When not actually engaged in the discharge of his duties as stenographer, he shall perform such clerical duties in connection with the surrogate's court as the surrogate directs. In counties wherein the surrogate is also county judge, the stenographer so appointed shall be the stenographer of the county court, and shall perform the duties pertaining to a stenographer of the county court without additional compensation. In counties where, for any cause, a regular stenographer for his court has not been appointed, as provided by this section, the surrogate may, in individual proceedings requiring the services of a stenographer, appoint a stenographer who shall be paid a reasonable compensation, certified by the surrogate in every case in which he takes notes of testimony, from the estate or matter in which such services are rendered.

When the regular stenographer appointed under this or the last section is sick, absent, on his vacation, or unable to act for other good cause, the surrogate may designate a stenographer to act temporarily in his place, who shall be paid by the county a reasonable compensation certified by the surrogate.

From former § 2513 of this Code, in part. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 221 (in effect April 5, 1915).

§ 2497. Duty of stenographer.

The stenographer of a surrogate's court must, under the direction of the surrogate, take full stenographic notes of all proceedings, in which oral proofs are given, except where the surrogate otherwise directs. The testimony must be legibly written out at length by him, from his notes when required by the surrogate; and the minutes thereof, as so written out, must, after being authenticated, as prescribed in the next section, be filed in the surrogate's office, and in all cases his stenographic books must be so filed and remain in the surrogate's office five years.

Former § 2541 of this Code. From L. 1871, c. 874, § 1.

§ 2498. How minutes of testimony authenticated and bound.

The minutes of testimony written out as prescribed in the last section, or taken by the surrogate, or under his direction, while the witness is testifying, must, before being filed, be authenticated by the signature of the stenographer, referee, the surrogate or the clerk of the surrogate's court, as the case may be, to the effect that they are correct.

The minutes of testimony written out by the stenographer must be bound, at the expense of the county, in volumes of convenient size and shape, indorsed "Stenographic minutes," and numbered consecutively.

Former §§ 2542, 2543 of this Code. From L. 1877, c. 206; L. 1881, c. 535.

§ 2499. Fees for copying or recording papers.

The clerk of the surrogate's court may charge and receive to the use of the county the following fees, except that where the board of supervisors or board of aldermen have allowed him to receive fees for his own use the same may be received and retained by said clerk:

1. For furnishing a transcript of a decree to be filed in the county clerk's office, fifty cents.

2. For making a copy of the proceedings and evidence in any matter, six cents per folio.

3. For recording agreements settling estates or accounts, releases, assignments, or mortgages of, or liens upon, any interest in an estate or fund; wills probated in another county or state, and the papers required to be recorded therewith, ten cents for each folio.

4. For a certificate, other than a certificate that a paper, for the copying of which he is entitled to a fee, is a copy, twenty-five cents.

5. For making and certifying a copy of a will, or paper on file or recorded in such office, ten cents for each folio.

6. For comparing and certifying that a paper is a copy of a record or paper on file, twenty-five cents and five cents for each folio; and for comparing and certifying a case on appeal where printed copies thereof are presented by any party to any proceeding, one cent for each folio.

7. For recording the official bond or undertaking of an executor, administrator, guardian or trustee, ten cents a folio, except that where the clerk receives a salary as full compensation for his services no fee shall be charged for such recording.

The board of supervisors, or board of aldermen, may fix a different rate of compensation, and may require the clerk to keep an account of all such fees and make report thereof whenever requested by such board.

On the appointment of a guardian, if it appears that the application is made for the purpose of enabling the minor to receive bounty, arrears of pay or prize money, or pension due, or other dues or gratuity from the federal or state government, for the services of the parents or brother of such minor in the military or naval service of the United States, no fees shall be charged or received.

From former §§ 2501, 2502, 2566, 2567 of this Code, in part.

§ 2500. Fees of stenographer acting or taking testimony in surrogate's court.

A stenographer, appointed or acting pursuant to sections 2496 and 2497 of this act, may charge and receive a sum not exceeding six cents per folio for furnishing a copy of the minutes, proceedings and testimony taken in surrogate's court to any person who applies for the same.

From former § 2513 of this Code, in part.

§ 2501. Expenses of surrogate or clerk.

Where, upon the application of any party, the surrogate, or the clerk of the surrogate's court, goes to a place other than the surrogate's office, or the court room where surrogate's court is regularly held, in order to take testimony, he shall be paid by such party his actual and necessary expenses.

From former § 2567 of this Code, in part.

§ 2502. [Am'd, 1915.] Clerk of surrogate's court; deputy clerk of surrogate's court; their powers.

The clerk and deputy clerk of the surrogate's court may severally exercise, concurrently with the surrogate, the following powers of the surrogate:

1. He may certify and sign as clerk of the court, or as deputy clerk of the court, as the case may be, any of the records of the court, and the records and papers specified in subdivision nine of section 2490 of this chapter.

2. He may issue any citation, subpœna or other mandate to which a party is entitled as of course, either unconditionally or on the filing of any paper; and may sign, as clerk of the court, or as deputy clerk of the court, as the case may be, and affix the seal of the court to any letters or mandate issued from the court.

3. He may certify in the manner prescribed by chapter ninth of this act, a copy of any paper, required or permitted by law to be filed or recorded in the surrogate's office.

4. He may adjourn to a definite time, not exceeding thirty days, any matter, when the surrogate is absent from his office, or unable, by reason of other engagements, to attend to the same.

5. He may administer oaths, take affidavits and the proof and acknowledgment of deeds and all other instruments in writing and certify the same with the same force and effect as if taken and certified by the county judge; and in any proceeding of which the court has jurisdiction, he may administer oaths, take affidavits, testimony and depositions, and certify the same at any place within the state of New York, with the same force and effect as if taken in his county.

6. The clerk of the surrogate's court of each of the counties of Kings, Bronx, Queens and New York may, with the approval of the surrogate or surrogates of his county, authorize or deputize one or more of the other clerks, employed in the surrogate's office of his county, to sign his name, and exercise such of the other powers conferred upon him by this section, as he shall designate. The surrogate may prohibit the clerk and deputy clerk, or either of them, from exercising any powers specified in this subdivision, but the prohibition does not affect the validity of any act of the clerk or deputy clerk done in disregard of the prohibition.

7. The clerk or deputy clerk or other person employed in any capacity in a surrogate's office, shall not act as appraiser, as attorney or counsel, or as referee, or special guardian, in any matter before the surrogate.

8. The clerk and deputy clerk of the surrogate's court, and in the county of Kings two other clerks and in the counties of Bronx and of Queens one other clerk, to be designated by the surrogate, in addition to the powers above enumerated may exercise, concurrently with the surrogate of the county, the power to take the proof of a will, unless demand be made for an oral examination or cross-examination of the subscribing witnesses, or objections to such probate are pending.

Former §§ 2509, 2510 of this Code, consolidated. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 61 (in effect March 11, 1915.

§ 2503. Clerk to keep court and trust fund register.

Whenever there shall be filed in the office of the surrogate any decree or order of the surrogate or of the surrogate's court directing the deposit of money, either actually in the hands of some person or persons or thereafter arising from the sale of real estate described in any such decree or order, with the county treasurer of his county, or with the chamberlain of the city of New York, or upon the filing in the said surrogate's office of any treasurer's or chamberlain's receipt stating that a sum of money has been deposited with such treasurer or chamberlain, in accordance with a decree or order of any such surrogate's court, the clerk of the surrogate's court shall enter in the court and trust fund register, the title of the proceeding, or the name of the estate in which such decree or order was made, together with a statement of the amount so deposited, or ordered to be deposited, if said decree or order contains the amount of same, and the name of the person or persons, if any, to whom said money is ordered to be paid, and the date of the filing of the same or of such receipt as herein mentioned.

From § 2509 of this Code, in part, modified.

ARTICLE THIRD.

The surrogate's court and its general jurisdiction.

Sec. 2504. Surrogate's court; when to be open; times and places of holding court.
2505. When and where court held by county judge; proceedings where county judge is also surrogate.
2506. Terms of surrogates' courts in New York county and powers of surrogates.
2507. Proceedings in supreme court regulated.
2508. Id.; transfer of proceedings to surrogate's court.
2509. Proceedings, etc., of acting surrogates, where and how recorded.
2510. General jurisdiction of surrogate's court.
2511. Jurisdiction of persons; when and how obtained.
2512. Jurisdiction of subject-matter; objection to defect in record.
2513. Presumption of jurisdiction.
2514. Effect of exercise of jurisdiction.
2515. Exclusive jurisdiction.
2516. Concurrent jurisdiction of two or more surrogates.
2517. Jurisdiction, how affected by locality of debts.

§ 2504. Surrogate's court; when to be opened; times and places of holding court.

The surrogate's court is always open for the transaction of any business within its powers and jurisdiction.

The surrogate may, from time to time, appoint, and may alter, the times and places of holding said court for the transaction of any business which may come before it. The surrogate may sign orders, decrees, letters testamentary, of administration and of guardianship, and approve bonds wherever he may be at any time.

From former §§ 2504, 2505 of this Code, in part.

§ 2505. When and where court held by county judge. Proceedings where county judge is also surrogate.

The surrogate's court, in a county where the county judge is also surrogate, may be held at the time and place at which the county court is held; and the jury in attendance may constitute the jury for the trial of any issue arising in the surrogate's court.

Former § 2506 of this Code, in part. From L. 1847, c. 280, § 32.

§ 2506. Terms of surrogates' courts in New York county and powers of surrogates.

The surrogates of the county of New York, from time to time must appoint and may alter the times of holding terms of that court for the trial of probate proceedings and for the hearing of motions and other chamber business. They must prescribe the duration of such terms, and assign the surrogate to preside and attend at the terms so appointed. In case of the inability of a surrogate of that county to preside or attend, the other surrogate may preside or attend in his place. Two or more terms of the surrogate's court may be appointed to be held at the same time. The term of that court held at the chambers shall dispose of all business except contested probate proceedings; all contested probate proceedings shall be disposed of at the trial term. An appointment must be published in two newspapers published in the city of New York during or before the first week in January in each year. All the powers conferred by law upon the surrogate of the county of New York may be exercised by either of the surrogates of the said county. There shall be published in the official law paper published in said county, upon Monday of every week, under the name of the surrogate making the several appointments, a full and true list of the names of all appraisers, transfer tax appraisers, special guardians, referees and temporary administrators, which either surrogate shall have designated or appointed during the preceding week together with the names of the proceedings in which they were appointed and the dates of said appointments.

Former § 2504 of this Code, in part. From 2 R. S. 221 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 2; L. 1893, c. 9; L. 1899, c. 605.

§ 2507. Proceedings in supreme court regulated.

In a special proceeding cognizable before a surrogate, taken in the supreme court, as prescribed in section 2480 of this chapter, the seal of the court in which it is taken, must be used, where a seal is necessary. The special proceeding must be entitled in that court; and the papers therein must be filed or recorded, as the case may be, and issues therein must be tried, as in an action brought in that court. The clerk of that court must sign each record, which is required to be signed by the surrogate or the clerk of the surrogate's court. The issuing of a citation may be directed, and any order intermediate the citation and the decree may be made by a judge of the court.

Former § 2490 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 79, § 52; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2508. Id.; transfer of proceedings to surrogate's court.

The court may, at any time, in its discretion, upon being satisfied that the reason for the exercise of its powers and jurisdiction has ceased to operate, make an order to transfer to the surrogate's court any matter then pending before it. Such an order operates to transfer the same accordingly. Immediately after such a transfer, or after the revocation of the order of the justice of the supreme court as prescribed in section 2483, the surrogate must cause entries to be made in the proper book in his office referring to all the papers filed, and orders entered, or other proceedings taken in the supreme court; and he may cause copies of any of the orders or papers to be made, and recorded or filed in his office, at the expense of the county.

Former § 2491 of this Code. See L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2509. Proceedings, etc., of acting surrogates, where and how recorded.

Where an act is done, or a proceeding is taken by, before, or by authority of, an officer, or a person appointed by the board of supervisors, or by the board of aldermen, temporarily acting as surrogate of any county as prescribed in this chapter, the same must be recorded, or the proper minutes thereof must be entered, in the books of the surrogate's court, in like manner as if the same were done or taken by, before, or by authority of the surrogate of the county; and the officer or person so acting, or the clerk of the surrogate's court, must sign the certificate of probate and any letters so issued, and must certify the record thereof in the book.

Former § 2494 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 80, § 53.

§ 2510. General jurisdiction of surrogate's court.

Each surrogate must hold, within his county, a court, which has, in addition to the powers conferred upon it, or upon the surrogate, by special provision of law, jurisdiction, as follows:

To administer justice in all matters relating to the affairs of decedents, and upon the return of any process to try and determine all questions, legal or equitable, arising between any or all of the parties to any proceeding, or between any party and any other person having any claim or interest therein who voluntarily appears in such proceeding, or is brought in by supplemental citation, as to any and all matters necessary to be determined in order to make a full, equitable and complete disposition of the matter by such order or decree as justice requires.

And in the cases and in the manner prescribed by statute;

1. To take the proof of wills; to admit wills to probate; and to take and revoke probate of heirship.

2. To grant and revoke letters testamentary and letters of administration, and to appoint a successor in place of a person whose letters have been revoked.

3. To direct and control the conduct, and settle the accounts, of executors, administrators, and testamentary trustees; to remove testamentary trustees, and to appoint a successor in place of a testamentary trustee.

4. To enforce the payment of debts and legacies; the distribution of the estates of decedents; and the payment or delivery, by executors, administrators, and testamentary trustees, of money or other property in their possession, belonging to the estate or fund.

5. To direct the disposition of real property, and interests in real property of decedents, and the disposition of the proceeds thereof.

6. To appoint and remove guardians for infants; to compel the payment and delivery by them of money or other property belonging to their wards; to direct and control their conduct, and settle their accounts.

7. To settle the accounts of a father, mother or other relative having the rights, powers and duties of a guardian in socage, and to compel the payment and delivery of money or other property belonging to the ward.

8. To determine the validity, construction or effect of any disposition of property contained in any will proved in his court, whenever a special proceeding is brought for that purpose, or whenever it is necessary to make such determination as to any will in a proceeding pending before him, or whenever any party to a proceeding for the probate of any will, who is interested thereunder, demands such determination in such proceeding.

Former §§ 2472, 2472a of this Code, modified. From 2 R. S. 220 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 1; L. 1871, c. 482; L. 1874, c. 267; L. 1903, c. 407; L. 1910, c. 576.

§ 2511. Jurisdiction of persons; when and how obtained.

The surrogate's court, in any proceeding before it, shall have jurisdiction of the following described persons:

1. The petitioner.

2. Parties who have been duly cited, including all those described as being persons belonging to a class, or connected with the decedent, or as interested in the property or matter in question, whether designated by their full and correct names or not.

3. Persons of full age who have not been judicially declared to be incompetent to manage their affairs.

a. Who shall, either before or after the filing of the petition, waive the issue or service, or both, of the citation by an instrument in writing signed, acknowledged, or proved and duly certified.

b. Who, whether named in the petition or citation or not, shall appear personally in court and file written signed notice of appearance acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified.

c. Who, whether named in the petition or citation or not, shall appear by attorney whose authority in writing to appear, so signed, acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified, shall be filed.

From former § 2528 of this Code (in part) and provisions found in various other sections in relation to obtaining jurisdiction of the person.

§ 2512. Jurisdiction of subject-matter; objection to defect in record.

The surrogate's court obtains jurisdiction in every case to make a decree or other determination by the existence of the jurisdictional facts prescribed by statute. When the decree or other determination fails to recite the existence or proof of a jurisdictional fact, and such fact actually existed; or when any party has failed to take any intermediate proceeding required by law to be taken, an objection to such decree or determination based thereon is available only upon appeal; and the surrogate's court may, in its discretion, allow such a defect to be supplied by amendment.

Former § 2474 of this Code, modified. See L. 1869, c. 260, § 1; L. 1870, c. 359, § 1; L. 1872, c. 92.

§ 2513. Presumption of jurisdiction.

Where the jurisdiction of a surrogate's court to make a decree or other determination, is drawn in question collaterally, the jurisdiction is presumptively, and, in the absence of fraud or collusion, conclusively, established, by an allegation of the jurisdictional facts, contained in a written petition or answer, duly verified, used in the surrogate's court. The fact that jurisdiction of the parties was obtained is presumptively proved, by a recital to that effect in the decree.

Former § 2473 of this Code. See L. 1870, c. 359, § 1; L. 1910, c. 576.

§ 2514. Effect of exercise of jurisdiction.

Jurisdiction, once duly exercised over any matter by a surrogate's court, excludes the subsequent exercise of jurisdiction by another surrogate's court, over the same matter, and all its incidents, except as otherwise specially prescribed by law. Where a guardian has been duly appointed by, or letters testamentary or of administration have been duly issued from, or any other special proceeding has been duly commenced in, a surrogate's court having jurisdiction, all further proceedings to be taken in a surrogate's court, with respect to the same estate or matter, must be taken in the same court.

Former § 2475 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 223 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 12; Id., 61 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 1), § 28; Id., 117 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5), § 24.

§ 2515. Exclusive jurisdiction.

The surrogate's court of each county has jurisdiction, exclusive of every other surrogate's court, to take the proof of a will, and to grant letters testamentary thereupon, or to grant letters of administration, as the case requires, in either of the following cases:

1. Where the decedent was, at the time of his death, a resident of that county, whether his death happened there or elsewhere.

2. Where the decedent, not being a resident of the state, died within that county, leaving personal property within the state, or leaving personal property which has, since his death, come into the state, and remains unadministered.

3. Where the decedent, not being a resident of the state, died without the state, leaving personal property within that county, and no other; or leaving personal property which has since his death, come into that county, and no other, and remains unadministered.

4. Where the decedent was not, at the time of his death, a resident of the state, and a petition for probate of his will, or for a grant of letters of administration, under subdivision second or third of this section, has not been filed in any surrogate's court; but real property of the decedent, to which the will relates, or which is subject to disposition under title fourth of this chapter, is situated within that county, and no other.

Former § 2476 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 73 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 23; L. 1837, c. 260, § 1.

§ 2516. Concurrent jurisdiction of two or more surrogates.

Where personal property of the decedent is within, or comes into, two or more counties, under the circumstances specified in subdivision third of the last section; or real property of the decedent is situated in two or more counties, under the circumstances specified in subdivision fourth of the last section; the surrogates' courts of those counties have concurrent jurisdiction, exclusive of every other surrogate's court, to take the proof of the will and grant letters testamentary thereupon, or to grant letters of administration, as the case requires. But where a petition for probate of a will, or for letters of administration, has been duly filed in either of the courts so possessing concurrent jurisdiction, the jurisdiction of that court excludes that of the other.

Former § 2477 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 73, § 24.

§ 2517. Jurisdiction, how affected by locality of debts.

For the purpose of conferring jurisdiction upon a surrogate's court, a debt owing to a decedent by a resident of the state is regarded as personal property situated within the county where the debtor, or either of two or more joint debtors, resides; and a debt owing to him by a domestic corporation is regarded as personal property situated within the county where the principal office of the corporation is situated. But the foregoing provision does not apply to a debt evidenced by a bond, promissory note, or other instrument for the payment of money only, in terms negotiable, or payable to the bearer or holder. Such a debt, whether the debtor is a resident or a non-resident of the state, or a foreign or a domestic government, state, county, public officer, association, or corporation, is, for the purpose of so conferring jurisdiction, regarded as personal property at the place where the bond, note or other instrument is, either within or without the state.

Former § 2478 of this Code.

TITLE II.

Special proceedings, pleadings, process and its service; appearance; trial by court or jury; taking and preserving testimony; orders and decrees, their effect and enforcement; letters, their requisites, effect, issue and revocation; bonds, their requisites, approval, prosecution and discharge; sureties, their rights and obligations.

Article 1. Special proceedings, how begun; pleadings and process; service of citation and other process, and proof thereof.
2. Appearance, appointment of special guardian; consolidation of proceedings. Reference, trial, decision, exceptions and testimony. Orders and decrees, effect and enforcement; docketing, discharging and staying.
3. Letters, their requisites, priority and authority; how, when and to whom granted; revocation. Removal of trustee.
4. Bonds and undertakings; approval, recording, prosecution and discharge; sureties, their release, rights and obligations.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Special proceedings, how begun; pleadings and process; service of citation and other process, and proof thereof.

Sec. 2518. Proceeding commenced by petition; statute of limitations.
2519. Written pleadings required.
2520. Verification thereof.
2521. General contents of petition.
2522. Process; how executed and returnable.
2523. General contents of citation.
2524. General contents of citation; persons constituting a class; persons unknown or whose names or parts of names are unknown.
2525. Citation; how served within state.
2526. Service personally without the state, or by publication; when ordered.
2527. Application for order permitting service by publication; or personally without the state.
2528. Order, when and how made; contents thereof.
2529. When service of citation shall be made; manner of service without the state or by publication.
2530. Id.; upon infant, etc.; additional requirement in certain cases.
2531. Proof of service of citation, subpœna, etc.
2532. Publication of citation, etc

§ 2518. Proceeding commenced by petition; statute of limitations.

Every proceeding in surrogate's court shall be commenced by the filing of a petition. In any case where the time in which to begin such proceeding is limited, a citation, or an order to show cause, on such petition must, within sixty days thereafter, be issued and be served, as prescribed in this chapter upon the adverse party, or upon one of two or more adverse parties, who are jointly liable, or otherwise united in interest; or, within the same time, the first publication thereof must be made pursuant to an order made as prescribed in this chapter.

From former §§ 2516, 2517 of this Code.

§ 2519. Written pleadings required.

All petitions, answers, and objections shall contain a plain and concise statement of the facts constituting the claim, objection or defence, and a demand for the decree, order, or other relief, to which the party supposes himself to be entitled, and shall be duly verified. The surrogate may require that a copy thereof be served upon any person interested in such manner as he may direct. A party who fails to comply with such requirement may be treated as a party in default.

Former § 2533 of this Code, modified.

§ 2520. Verification thereof.

The provisions of sections 523, 524, 525 and 526 of this act apply to a verification made pursuant to this chapter, and to the petition or other paper so verified, where they can be so applied in substance, without regard to the form of the proceeding.

Former § 2534 of this Code.

§ 2521. General contents of petition.

A petition must substantially set forth:

1. The title of the proceeding, the name and residence of the person to whose estate or fund the proceeding relates, and the name and residence of the petitioner.

2. The facts upon which the jurisdiction of the court depends to entertain the application and grant the relief asked for.

3. So far as they can be ascertained with due diligence, the names and post-office addresses of all the persons interested in the proceeding who are required to be cited upon the application, or concerning whom the court is required to have information; and if the name or post-office address of any of such persons is unknown, the facts which show what effort has been made to ascertain the same.

4. That there are no other persons than those mentioned interested in the application or proceeding.

5. A request for the relief or action of the court to which the petitioner deems himself entitled.

Before any process shall be issued on a petition the petitioner may be required to show by his petition or otherwise the following matters:

If any person named be an infant there shall be set forth:

a. His age, and whether or not he has a general or testamentary guardian.

b. Whether or not his father, or if he be dead, his mother is living, giving the name and post-office address of such person.

c. The person with whom such infant resides and his post-office address.

If any person named be an adjudged, or an alleged, incompetent there shall be set forth:

a. The name and post-office address of the committee, if any, and the name and post-office address of the person or institution having the care or custody of such incompetent.

b. The facts regarding his incompetency, and the name and post-office address of a relative or friend having an interest in his welfare.

If any of such persons be included in a class, and his name be unknown there shall be set forth:

The names and post-office addresses of those persons of the class who are known, and a general description of all other persons belonging to such class, showing their connection with the decedent or fund and their interest in the property or matter in question.

If any of such persons be unknown or his name be unknown there shall be set forth:

A general description of such person showing his connection with the decedent or fund, and his interest in the property or matter in question.

New. See former §§ 2513, 2662 of this Code.

§ 2522. Process; how executed and returnable.

The process of the surrogate's court shall be a citation to show cause, an order to show cause, and such other process and mandate as the surrogate is or shall be authorized by law to issue and employ in the performance of the duties imposed on him and in the enforcing of his orders and decrees.

A citation or other mandate of a surrogate's court must, except where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, be made returnable before the surrogate's court from which it was issued, and may be served or executed in any county. A warrant of attachment must be directed to the sheriff of the surrogate's county, who may execute it in any county, and must convey the person arrested to the place where it is returnable.

Former § 2515 of this Code, in part. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 66, 67.

§ 2523. General contents of citation.

A citation must substantially set forth:

1. The name and residence of the petitioner, and of the person to whose estate or fund the proceeding relates.

2. The names of all the persons to be cited who have not waived its issue and service, or have not appeared, so far as the same can be ascertained.

3. The time and place when the citation is returnable, which time must not be more than four months after the date thereof.

4. The object of the proceeding in regard to which the persons cited are required to show cause.

5. The date when the citation issues.

6. It must be attested in the name of the surrogate, and by the seal of his court.

New. See former § 2519 of this Code.

§ 2524. General contents of citation; persons constituting a class; persons unknown or whose names or parts of names are unknown.

In addition to the requirements of the last section, a citation must substantially set forth:

1. Where the names of some persons to be cited comprising a class are unknown, the names of those persons of the class who are known, and a general description of all other persons belonging to such class, showing their connection with the decedent and their interest in the property or matter in question.

2. Where the persons to be cited are unknown, a general description of such persons showing their connection with the decedent and their interest in the property or matter in question.

In either of said cases where the petitioner is ignorant of the name of a person to be cited, he may designate that person in the citation by a fictitious name or by so much of his name as is known, adding a description identifying the person intended.

3. In every case where it appears that there is no heir-at-law or next of kin, as the case may be; or that it is not known whether or not there be such; or when all of the parties interested are non-resident aliens, the citation shall be issued to the attorney-general of the state.

Former §§ 2518, 2616 of this Code, in part. From 2 R. S. 74 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 26; L. 1908, c. 272.

§ 2525. Citation; how served within state.

Personal service of a citation within the state shall be made as follows:

Upon an adult person, or upon an infant of the age of fourteen years or upwards, by delivering a copy thereof to the person to be served.

Upon an infant under the age of fourteen years, by delivering a copy thereof to the infant in person, and to his father, mother or guardian; or if there be none within the state, or if the infant does not reside with a parent, to the person having the care and control of him, or with whom he resides, or in whose service he is employed.

Upon a person judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs by reason of lunacy, idiocy, or habitual drunkenness, or upon a corporation by delivering a copy thereof in the manner prescribed for personal service of a summons upon such a person, or upon a corporation in article first of title first of chapter fifth of this act. Upon a public officer by delivering a copy thereof to such officer, or to one of his duly constituted deputies.

Where it appears, by affidavit, to the satisfaction of the surrogate from whose court a citation is issued, that proper and diligent effort has been made to serve it as hereinbefore prescribed in this section upon a resident of the state whose place of residence or place of business is known, and that the person to be served cannot be found at his residence or place of business, and cannot be elsewhere served within the state within a reasonable time, or, if found, that he evades service, so that it cannot be made; the surrogate may make an order directing that service thereof be made, as prescribed in section 436 of this act; and the provisions of that section and of section 437 of this act, relating to the service of a summons, apply to the service of a citation, pursuant to an order made as prescribed in this section.

Where it is necessary in any special proceeding to cite known creditors, and it appears that the number of creditors or persons claiming to be creditors, residing within the state of New York, upon whom citation is required to be served, exceeds fifty, service thereof may be made upon them by publication thereof in such newspaper or newspapers and for such a length of time as shall be fixed by the surrogate, and by the mailing of a copy of such citation to each of them by deposit of a copy thereof in the post-office, properly enclosed in a postpaid sealed wrapper addressed to each of them at his last known post-office address as stated in the order, at least twenty days prior to the return day thereof.

From §§ 2520, 2521, 2526 of this Code.

§ 2526. Service personally without the state, or by publication; when ordered.

The surrogate from whose court a citation is issued may make an order directing the service thereof personally without the state, or by publication, in either of the following cases:

1. Where it is to be served upon a foreign corporation, or upon a person who is not a resident of the state.

2. Where the person to be served is a resident of the state, and substituted service upon him cannot be authorized as provided in section 2525 of this chapter.

3. Where it is to be served upon a party, or a person required to be made a party, whose name, or residence, cannot be ascertained.

4. Where it is to be served upon one or more unknown creditors, next of kin, heirs, legatees or other persons, either individually or included in a class, to whom a citation has been directed, designating them by a general description, as prescribed in this chapter.

From §§ 2522, 2523, of this Code.

§ 2527. Application for order permitting service by publication or personally without the state.

Application for an order permitting service of a citation by publication or personally without the state of New York must be made upon the petition, or upon an affidavit, which must set forth to the satisfaction of the surrogate the facts which show that the case is one of those specified in section 2526 of this chapter and that the petitioner has used due diligence to ascertain the names and post-office addresses of the parties whose names or post-office addresses are unknown.

From former § 2524 of this Code.

§ 2528. Order, when and how made; contents thereof.

When an order, directing the service of a citation personally without the state, or by publication, is made, if the order authorizes service by publication, it must direct that the citation be served upon the persons named or described in the order, by publication of the citation in two newspapers, therein designated, unless from the petition or affidavit filed it appears that the estate or fund amounts to less than five thousand dollars, in which case only one newspaper shall be designated, for such specified time as the surrogate deems reasonable, not less than once in each of four successive weeks, and by mailing a copy of such citation as provided in section 2529 of this chapter; except that the order may dispense with such mailing to persons whose names or addresses are alleged in the petition or affidavit to be unknown.

If the order authorizes personal service without the state of New York, it must direct that service be made upon the parties named therein in the manner prescribed in section 2529 of this chapter.

The order may authorize both modes of service at the option of the petitioner, or may direct that service be made by either mode without embodying the other. The granting of an order for service by publication, or personally without the state, shall not prevent the personal service of such citation within the state.

Former § 2524 of this Code, in part; See L. 1881, c. 664; L. 1899, c. 606.

§ 2529. When service of citation shall be made; manner of service without the state or by publication.

Any person over eighteen years of age, although a party to the special proceeding, may serve a citation.

Service of a citation upon a resident of the state, or upon a non-resident within the state, must be made, if within the county of the surrogate, or in an adjoining county, at least eight days before the return day thereof; and if in any other county of the state, at least ten days before the return day thereof.

Service of a citation personally without the state of New York, pursuant to an order therefor, must be made in the same manner as is required by this chapter for the personal service of a citation within the state, by delivering a copy of such citation, if within the United States at least twenty days, and if without the United States at least thirty days before the return day thereof.

Service of citation by publication must be made by publication of the citation as prescribed in such order, and by the deposit, on or before the day of the first publication, in a specified postoffice, of a copy of the citation, contained in a securely closed postpaid wrapper, directed to the person to be served, at a place specified in the order; and if the person to be served is an infant under the age of fourteen years, a further copy, likewise contained in a securely closed postpaid wrapper directed to the father, or the mother, or the guardian, and the person with whom such infant is sojourning; unless by the terms of the order mailing is dispensed with.

From §§ 2520, 2524, 2526 of this Code, combined and modified. See L. 1837, c. 460, § 8; L. 1840, c. 384, § 1; L. 1863, c. 382; L. 1864, c. 71, § 3; L. 1881, c. 664; L. 1882, c. 399; L. 1899, c. 606; L. 1913, c. 535.

§ 2530. Id.; upon infant, etc.; additional requirement in certain cases.

Where a person cited, or to be cited, is an infant, or where the surrogate has, in his opinion, reasonable grounds to believe, that a person cited, or to be cited, is an habitual drunkard, or for any cause mentally incapable adequately to protect his rights, although not judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, the surrogate may, in his discretion, with or without an application therefor, and in the interest of that person, make an order requiring that a copy of the citation be delivered, in behalf of that person, to a person designated in the order and that service of the citation shall not be deemed complete until such delivery.

Former § 2527 of this Code, modified. See L. 1872, c. 693.

§ 2531. [Am'd, 1916.] Proof of service of a subpœna, citation or other process.

Proof of service of a subpœna, citation or other process issued from a surrogate's court, must be made by the certificate of the sheriff, when served by him, and in any other case by the affidavit of the person so serving it; or, where the person served is of full age and not incompetent, by a written admission signed by him, accompanied with proof, by acknowledgment, affidavit or otherwise, of the genuineness of his signature. Proof of publication and deposit in a post-office may be made as prescribed in section 444 of this act.

From former §§ 2525, 2532 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 223 (Part 3, c. 2, tit. 1), § 9; L. 1837, c. 460, § 9. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 445 (in effect May 9, 1916).

§ 2532. Publication of citation, et cetera.

Where a provision of this chapter, or an order made pursuant to such a provision, directs the publication of a citation, notice, or other paper, or the service thereof by publication, the publication must be made in a newspaper published in the county. The surrogate may, also, in his discretion, direct the publication thereof in any other newspaper published in the same or another county, as he deems proper, for the purpose of giving notice to the persons intended to be served or notified. If no newspaper is published in the county, the citation, notice or other paper, must be published in the newspaper printed at Albany, in which legal notices are required by law to be published.

2554. Id.; by punishment for contempt.
2555. Effect and contents of decree revoking letters.
2556. The last section qualified.
2557. When execution of decree or order is stayed by appeal.

§ 2533. Appearance; how made and effect thereof.

In a surrogate's court, a party of full age may, unless he has been judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, appear and prosecute or defend a special proceeding in person, or by attorney regularly admitted to practice in the courts of record, at his election, except in a proceeding to punish him for contempt, or where he is required to appear in person, by special provision of law, or by a special order of the surrogate. An appearance must be evidenced by a notice of appearance signed by the party or by his attorney, and filed in the surrogate's court; and where no citation has been served on the person appearing, such notice must be signed by him and be acknowledged or proved, and duly certified.

Former § 2528 of this Code. See L. 1870, c. 359, § 2; L. 1896, c. 570; L. 1911, c. 330.

§ 2534. [Am'd. 1915.] Special guardian; when to be appointed.

Where a party, who is an infant, does not appear by his general guardian; or where a party, who is a lunatic, idiot, or habitual drunkard, does not appear by his committee; or where any party is an infant, or an habitual drunkard, or for any cause is mentally incapable adequately to protect his rights, although not judicially declared to be incompetent to manage his affairs, the surrogate must appoint a competent and responsible person, to appear as special guardian for that party. Where an infant appears by his general guardian, or where a lunatic, idiot, or habitual drunkard, appears by his committee, the surrogate must inquire into the facts, and must, in like manner, appoint a special guardian, if there is any ground to suppose that the interest of the general guardian or committee is adverse to that of the infant, or incompetent person; or that for any other reason, the interests of the latter require the appointment of a special guardian. Where there are unknown persons, or persons whose whereabouts are unknown, the surrogate may, in his discretion, appoint a special guardian for such persons. A person cannot be appointed such a special guardian who is nominated by any party; but this prohibition shall not preclude an infant over fourteen years of age from nominating his own special guardian.

Before entering upon his duties such special guardian shall file his consent to so act.

Former § 2530 of this Code, modified, see 2 R. S. 100 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 4), § 3; L. 1837, c. 460; L. 1863, c. 362, §§ 1, 6; L. 1870, c. 170, § 4; L. 1872, c. 693, § 2; Am'd by L. 1915, c. 315 (in effect September 1, 1915.)

§ 2535. Consolidation of proceedings.

At any time when two or more proceedings are pending involving in whole, or in part, the same matters, the surrogate may, in his discretion, consolidate such proceedings upon such terms as shall appear to him to be equitable and just; but without prejudice to the power of the surrogate to make any subsequent order or decree in either or any of them.

(67)

New. See former §§ 2606, 2727 of this Code.

§ 2536. Surrogate may refer questions of fact.

In a special proceeding other than one instituted for probate of a will, and subject to the right of trial by jury of any question of fact, the surrogate may, in his discretion, appoint a referee to take and report to the surrogate the evidence upon the facts, or upon a specific question of fact; to examine an account rendered; to hear and determine all questions, arising upon the settlement of such an account, which the surrogate has power to determine; and to make a report thereon, subject, however, to confirmation or modification by the surrogate. But no referee to examine an account rendered, whether intermediate or final, or to hear and determine all questions arising upon the settlement of such an account, shall be appointed, where the estate or fund does not exceed one thousand dollars in value, or in any case where the item or items in such account to which objections have been made do not aggregate more than two hundred dollars. Such a referee has the same power, and is entitled to the same compensation as a referee appointed by the supreme court for the trial of an issue of fact in an action; and the provisions of this act, applicable to a reference by the supreme court, apply to a reference made as prescribed in this section, so far as they can be applied in substance without regard to the form of proceeding. The surrogate of the county of New York, may on the written consent of all parties appearing in a probate case, appoint a referee, or may, in his discretion, direct an assistant to take and report the testimony, but without authority to pass upon the issues involved therein. Unless a referee's report is passed upon and confirmed, approved, modified or rejected by a surrogate within ninety days after it has been submitted to him, it shall be deemed to have been confirmed as of course and a decree to that effect may be entered by any party interested in the proceeding upon two days' notice.

Former § 2546 of this Code. From L. 1870, c. 359, § 6; L. 1881, c. 535; L. 1887, § 2537. Right to trial by jury preserved, how waived.

Whenever in any proceeding in the surrogate's court, the order or decree of the court will determine any issue or fact as to which any party has a right of trial by jury in any court, such trial shall be deemed to be waived, unless such party, personally, or through his attorney, guardian, committee, or special guardian appears and seasonably demands the same, in which case such trial shall be had according to the practice of such court. And whenever such trial is demanded, the same may be waived in any of the modes prescribed with respect to the trial of an action in section 1009 of this act.

New.

§ 2538. [Am'd, 1915.] Trial by jury.

In any proceeding in which any controverted question of fact arises, of which any party has constitutional right of trial by jury, and in any proceeding for the probate of a will in which any controverted question of fact arises, the surrogate must make an order directing the trial by jury of such controverted question of fact, if any party appearing in such proceeding seasonably demands the same, and in any proceeding in which any controverted question of fact arises, of which any party has, or has not, constitutional right of trial by jury, the surrogate may, in his discretion, make such order without such demand. The surrogate in such order must direct that such trial be had either before himself and a jury, or at a trial term of the supreme court to be held within the county, or in the county court of the county. Either of the surrogates of the county of New York may, in his discretion, make an order transferring to the supreme court any special proceeding for the probate of a will pending in said county. If the trial shall not take place in the surrogate's court the order must state distinctly and plainly each question of fact to be tried, and shall be the only authority necessary for the trial of such question. The verdict, if not set aside by the judge before whom the question is tried, shall be certified to the surrogate's court by the clerk of the court in which the trial took place, and shall be conclusive except upon appeal.

Former § 2547 of this Code modified. From 2 R. S. 102 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 4), § 11; L. 1847, c. 280, § 45; L. 1886, c. 119; L. 1895, c. 946; L. 1910, c. 576. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 275 (in effect April 13, 1915).

§ 2539. Trial by jury; power of surrogate; motion to set aside verdict and for new trial.

The surrogate has jurisdiction to conduct a trial by jury in any case in which he is permitted or required by this act to order such trial, and in any case where he shall conduct such trial the same shall be had before the surrogate and a jury, and the trial shall proceed in the same manner as if such trial were had in the supreme court at a trial term thereof held in and for the county of such surrogate.

The provisions of this act relating to trial by the court and a jury, or to a motion for new trial, shall apply to surrogates' courts and to the proceedings therein so far as they can be applied to the substance and subject-matter of such proceedings without regard to form, but the surrogate shall have no power to set aside a verdict or to grant a motion for a new trial in any proceeding in which the trial took place in a court other than the surrogate's court.

New.

§ 2540. Jury in surrogate's court; how obtained; fees of jurors and officers.

The surrogate may at any time order the drawing of a jury for service in surrogate's court, upon reasonable notice to the parties who have appeared, stating the day, hour and place of such drawing.

For the purpose of procuring the drawing and attendance of a jury, the surrogate shall have all the powers of a justice of the supreme court specified in sections 527 and 528 of the Judiciary Law and in sections 1171 and 1172 of the Code of Civil Procedure; and the clerk of the county of the surrogate shall, upon receiving the order of the surrogate, perform such duties in relation thereto as he is required to perform under a like order of a justice of the supreme court as specified in such sections.

Such jury shall be drawn in the presence of the surrogate, either in his office or in the office of the county clerk, and the minutes thereof shall be made in triplicate, and be signed by the surrogate and the county clerk, and one copy thereof filed in the office of the surrogate, one copy filed in the office of the county clerk, and one copy delivered to the sheriff of the county.

The names of the jurors so drawn shall be returned to the jury box by the county clerk, but if any such juror is again drawn for service in any court, the fact that he served as a juror in surrogate's court shall, upon his request, be a sufficient excuse for not being required to again serve.

In counties where by special act an officer other than the county clerk is designated to draw juries and perform corresponding acts, such officer shall cause the necessary jurors to be summoned and drawn as though a justice of the supreme court had made such order.

The provisions of law applicable to the summoning of jurors, the return of the sheriff, the fees of the sheriff and jurors and their payment, in supreme court, shall apply where jurors are drawn and summoned for service in surrogate's court; and where the county clerk is not a salaried officer, he shall be entitled for his services to such compensation as shall be audited by the board or body entitled to fix his compensation.

The number of days' service of each juror in surrogate's court shall be certified to the county clerk by the clerk of the surrogate's court.

New.

§ 2541. Decision by surrogate after trial without a jury.

Upon a trial before the surrogate without a jury, the surrogate must file in his office his decision in writing which shall direct the decree to be entered, which, except for such direction, need not contain either the facts found or the conclusions of law. No party shall have the right, after the close of the trial, to request a finding upon any question of fact or a ruling upon a question of law. For the purposes of appeal or other form of review, the decree made by the surrogate upon the trial by him of an issue of fact shall have the same effect as the general verdict of a jury would have if the same issues were triable before a court and a jury and were so tried and a general verdict rendered thereon.

Former § 2545 of this Code, in part, modified.

§ 2542. Exceptions upon a trial.

An exception may be taken to a ruling by a surrogate upon the trial by him of an issue of fact, in a case where such an exception may be taken to a ruling of the court upon a trial, without a jury, of an issue of fact, as prescribed in article third of title first of chapter tenth of this act. The provisions of that article, relating to the manner and effect of taking such an exception, and the settlement of a case containing the exceptions, apply to such a trial before a surrogate; for which purpose, the decree is regarded as a judgment, and notice of an exception may be filed in the surrogate's office.

Former § 2545 of this Code, in part, modified.

§ 2543. Testimony of witness; how taken.

Where it appears to the satisfaction of the surrogate, that the testimony of a witness is material and necessary, the surrogate may, in his discretion, proceed to the place where the witness is, and there, as in open court, take his examination. Such notice of the time and place of taking the examination, as the surrogate prescribes, must be given, by the party applying therefor.

Former § 2539 of this Code, modified. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 12; L. 1841, c. 129, §§ 1, 2, 3.

§ 2544. [Am'd, 1916.] Id.; by the surrogate of another county.

Where the surrogate has good reason to believe that a subscribing or a material witness who is in another county of the state cannot conveniently attend before him, and no issue is pending therein, he may make an order, directing that the witness be examined before the surrogate of the county in which he is; specifying by an order the nature and manner of the examination. A copy of the order must be transmitted by him to the surrogate designated in the order, together with the original will, where the testimony relates to the execution of a written will. The examination may be taken by one of the clerks described in section 2502 of this chapter. The examination, after it is reduced to writing and subscribed by the witness or otherwise duly authenticated, together with a statement of the proceedings upon the execution of the order, must be certified by the surrogate or clerk taking the examination, attested by the seal of his court, and returned without delay, with the original will, if any, to the surrogate who directed the examination, who must file the same in his office. A surrogate may appoint a referee to take the testimony, who shall report the same to the surrogate who makes the appointment. An examination so taken has the same effect as if it was taken by commission.

Former § 2540 of this Code, modified. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 13, 14, 15; L. 1881, c. 535; L. 1911, c. 105. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 446 (in effect May 9, 1916).

§ 2545. Bequest, etc., does not disqualify, etc., witness.

A person is not disqualified or excused from testifying respecting the execution of a will, by a provision therein, whether it is beneficial to him or otherwise.

Former § 2544 of this Code. See 2 R. S. 57, 65 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 1), §§ 6, 50.

§ 2546. Uncontroverted allegations constitute due proof.

Except as otherwise provided by law, a petition, affidavit or account filed in a special proceeding shall be due proof of the facts therein stated, unless controverted by answer, objection or other proof.

New.

§ 2547. Filing testimony taken out of court by commission.

Where in any matter before the surrogate or in a surrogate's court the testimony of any witness shall be taken by or on commission, the same, together with the commission on which it is taken, shall be duly filed in the office of the surrogate but need not be recorded.

From former § 2620 of this Code, in part.

§ 2548. Definition of decree and order; how order enforced.

The determination of the rights of the parties to a special proceeding in a surrogate's court, is a decree.

A direction of a surrogate's court, made or entered in writing, and not included in a decree, is an order. It may be enforced in like manner as a similar order, made by the supreme court in an action.

Former §§ 2550, 2556 of this Code, consolidated.

§ 2549. Decree or order; when evidence of assets.

A decree directing payment by an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee, to a creditor of, or a person interested in, the estate or fund, or an order permitting a judgment creditor to issue an execution against an executor or administrator, is, except upon an appeal therefrom, conclusive evidence that there are sufficient assets in his hands to satisfy the sum which the decree directs him to pay, or for which the order permits the execution to issue. A decree charging a deceased executor, administrator, guardian or trustee with assets upon an accounting under section 2725 of this chapter, is not evidence of assets in the hands of such accounting executor, administrator, guardian or trustee.

From former §§ 2552, 2606 of this Code. See 2 R. S. 116 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 5, § 21).

§ 2550. Force and effect of a decree of surrogate's court.

Every decree of a surrogate's court is conclusive as to all matters embraced therein against every person of whom jurisdiction was obtained.

New.

§ 2551. Decree for money; how docketed; effect; assignment and discharge.

Where a decree directs the payment of a sum of money into court, or to one or more persons therein designated, the surrogate, or the clerk of the surrogate's court, must furnish to any person applying therefor one or more transcripts, duly attested, stating all the particulars with respect to the decree which are required by law to be entered in the clerk's docket-book, where a judgment for a sum of money is rendered in the supreme court, so far as the provisions of law directing such entries are applicable to such a decree. Each county clerk to whom such a transcript is presented must, upon payment of his fees, immediately file it, and docket the decree in the appropriate docket-book kept in his office as prescribed by law for docketing a judgment of the supreme court. The docketing of such a decree has the same force and effect, the lien thereof may be suspended or discharged, and the decree may be assigned or satisfied, as if it were such a judgment.

Former § 2553 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 53, 64; L. 1844, c. 104, § 2; L. 1867, c. 782, § 9.

§ 2552. Decree; partial satisfaction of.

Upon the application of any person interested, there may be recorded in the surrogate's office any instrument acknowledging payment of moneys pursuant to the provisions of decrees for the judicial settlement of accounts of executors, administrators, testamentary trustees and guardians. Every such instrument to be recorded shall be acknowledged, or proved and duly certified, and the record thereof, or a certified copy of such record, shall be presumptive evidence of the contents of such instrument and its due execution, and shall be presumptively a satisfaction and discharge of such decree as to any payment of money or delivery of property therein acknowledged.

From former § 2502 of this Code, in part.

§ 2553. Enforcement of decree by execution.

A decree directing the payment of a sum of money into court, or to one or more parties, may be enforced by an execution against the property of the party directed to make the payment. The execution must be issued by the surrogate, or the clerk of the surrogate's court, under the seal of the court, and must be made returnable to the court. In all other respects the provisions of this act relating to an execution against the property of a judgment-debtor issued upon a judgment of the supreme court, and the proceedings to collect it, apply to an execution issued from the surrogate's court, and the collection thereof, the decree being, for that purpose, regarded as a judgment; except that the proceedings prescribed in title twelfth of chapter seventeenth of this act, if founded upon such a decree, must be taken as if the decree was a judgment of the county court, or, in the city of New York, of the supreme court.

Former § 2554 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 64; L. 1895, c. 946.

§ 2554. Id.; by punishment for contempt.

In either of the following cases, a decree of a surrogate's court directing the payment of money, or requiring the performance of any other act, may be enforced by serving a certified copy thereof upon the party against whom it is rendered, or the officer or person who is required thereby, or by law, to obey it; and if he refuses or wilfully neglects to obey it, by punishing him for a contempt of court:

1. Where it cannot be enforced by execution, as prescribed in the last section.

2. Where part of it cannot be so enforced by execution; in which case, the part or parts which cannot be so enforced may be enforced as prescribed in this section.

3. Where an execution issued as prescribed in the last section to the sheriff of the surrogate's county has been returned by him wholly or partly unsatisfied.

4. Where the delinquent is an executor, administrator, guardian, or testamentary trustee, and the decree relates to the fund or estate, in which case the surrogate may enforce the decree as prescribed in this section, either without issuing an execution, or after the return of an execution, as he thinks proper.

If the delinquent has given an official bond, his imprisonment, by virtue of proceedings to punish him for a contempt, as prescribed in this section, or a levy upon his property by virtue of an execution, issued as prescribed in the last section, does not bar, suspend, or otherwise affect an action against the sureties on his official bond.

Former § 2555 of this Code.

§ 2555. Effect and contents of decree revoking letters.

Upon the entry of a decree, made as prescribed in this chapter, revoking letters issued by a surrogate's court to an executor, administrator or guardian, his powers cease. The decree may, in the discretion of the surrogate, require him to account for all money and other property received by him; and to pay and deliver over all money and other property in his hands into the surrogate's court, or to his successor in office, or to such other person as is authorized by law to receive the same; or it may be made without prejudice to an action or special proceeding for that purpose, then pending, or thereafter to be brought. The revocation does not affect the validity of any act, within the powers conferred by law upon the executor, administrator, or guardian, done by him before the service of the citation, where the other party acted in good faith; or done after the service of the citation, and before entry of the decree, where his powers with respect thereto were not suspended by service of the citation, or where the surrogate, in a case prescribed by law, permitted him to do the same, notwithstanding the pendency of the special proceeding against him; and he is not liable for such an act done by him in good faith.

Former § 2603 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 62, (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 1), § 38; Id., 77, 79, §§ 40, 46, 47.

§ 2556. The last section qualified.

The last section does not affect the liability of a person to whom money or other property has been paid or delivered, as husband, wife, next of kin, or legatee, to respond to the person lawfully entitled thereto, where letters are revoked, because a supposed decedent is living; or because a will is discovered, after administration has been granted in a case of supposed intestacy, or revoking a prior will upon which letters were granted.

Former § 2604 of this Code.

§ 2557. When execution of decree or order is stayed by appeal.

An appeal from a decree or an order directing the commitment of an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, guardian, or other person appointed by the surrogate's court; or an attorney or counsel employed therein, for disobedience to a direction of the surrogate's court, or for neglect of duty; or directing the commitment of a person refusing to obey a subpoena, or to testify when required according to law; does not stay the execution of the decree or order appealed from unless the appellant gives the undertaking required by section 2761 of this chapter.

An appeal from a decree of a surrogate admitting a will to probate, or granting letters testamentary, or letters of administration, or from an order or judgment of the appellate division of the supreme court affirming a decree of the surrogate admitting a will to probate, or granting letters testamentary or letters of administration does not stay the issuing of letters where, in the opinion of the surrogate manifested by an order, the preservation of the estate requires that the letters should issue.

An appeal from a decree revoking letters testamentary, letters of administration, or letters of guardianship; or from a decree or an order, suspending an executor, administrator, or guardian, or removing or suspending a testamentary trustee, or appointing a temporary administrator, or an appraiser of personal property does not stay the execution of the decree or order appealed from.

Except as otherwise expressly prescribed in this chapter a perfected appeal has the effect, as a stay of the proceedings to enforce the decree or order appealed from, prescribed in section 1310 of this act, with respect to a perfected appeal from a judgment.

Parts of former §§ 2579, 2582, 2583, 2584 of this Code, combined. See 2 R. S. 610, 611 (Part 3, c. 9, tit. 3), §§ 110–116.

ARTICLE THIRD.

Letters, their requisites, priority and authority; how, when and to whom granted; revocation; removal of trustee.

Sec. 2558. Requisites of letters.
2559. Limited and restrictive letters.
2560. Letters evidence of authority; effect of appeal.
2561. Priority among different letters.
2562. Time, how reckoned upon successive letters.
2563. When surviving or remaining representative may act; when successor must be appointed.
2564. Persons incompetent to receive letters, or act as testamentary trustee.
2565. Surrogate may refuse letters under certain conditions.
2566. Objections to grant of letters.
2567. Bond; when required.
2568. Official oaths of executors, etc.
2569. Removal, or revocation of letters for disqualification, misconduct, etc.
2570. Petition; citation thereupon; suspension.
2571. Hearing; decree; testamentary trusts not affected.
2572. Application by executor, etc., for permission to resign.
2573. Proceedings thereupon.
2574. In what cases letters may be revoked or trustee removed without a citation.

§ 2558. Requisites of letters.

Letters testamentary, letters of administration, and letters of guardianship must be in the name of the people of the state. Where they are granted by a surrogate, they must be attested in the name of the officer granting them, signed by him, or by the clerk of the surrogate's court, and sealed with the seal of the surrogate's court. Where they are issued out of another court, they must be attested in the name of the judge holding the court, signed by the clerk thereof, and sealed with its seal.

To all letters of guardianship of the property of an infant the surrogate must cause a copy of sections 2660 and 2661 of this chapter to be annexed or to be printed thereupon.

From former §§ 2590, 2843 of this Code. See 2 R. S. 80 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 55; L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 57, 58.

§ 2559. Limited and restrictive letters.

Letters may be granted limiting and restricting the powers and rights of the holders thereof as follows:

To an executor or administrator where a right of action exists.

To a general guardian where his possession and control of certain property of his ward is limited as provided in section 2650 of this chapter.

New; compare former §§ 2664, 2830 of this Code.

§ 2560. Letters evidence of authority; effect of appeal.

Subject to the provisions of the next section, regulating the priority among different letters, letters testamentary, letters of administration, and letters of guardianship, granted by a court or officer having jurisdiction to grant them, are conclusive evidence of the authority of the persons to whom they are granted, until the decree granting them is reversed upon appeal, or the letters are revoked.

When letters testamentary or letters of administration have been issued in accordance with an order of the surrogate as authorized in section 2557 of this act, such letters so issued confer upon the person named therein all the powers and authority, and subject him to all the duties and liabilities of an executor or administrator in an ordinary case, except that they do not confer power to sell real property by virtue of a provision in the will, or to pay or to satisfy a legacy, or distribute the unbequeathed property of the decedent, until after the final determination of the appeal; and in case letters shall have been issued before such appeal, the executor or administrator, on a like order of the surrogate, may exercise the powers and authority, subject to the duties, liabilities and exceptions above provided.

Former §§ 2591, 2682 of this Code, consolidated. From 2 R. S. 80 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), § 56; L. 1871, c. 603; § 1; L. 1881, c. 535; L. 1900, c. 191.

§ 2561. Priority among different letters.

A person to whom letters are first issued from a surrogate's court having jurisdiction to issue them, has sole and exclusive authority, pursuant to the letters, until the letters are revoked; and he is entitled to demand and recover from any person, to whom letters are afterwards issued, by any other surrogate's court, the property in his hands belonging to the estate or fund. But the acts of a person, to whom letters were afterwards issued, done in good faith, before notice of the letters first issued, are valid; and an action or special proceeding commenced by him, may be continued by and in the name of the person or persons to whom the letters were first issued.

Former § 2592 of this Code, modified. From 2 R. S. 74, § 25.

§ 2562. Time, how reckoned upon successive letters.

Where it is prescribed by law, that an act must or may be done within a specified time after letters are issued, and successive or supplementary letters are issued upon the same estate, the time so specified must be reckoned from the issuing of the first letters, except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law; or where the first or any subsequent letters are revoked, as prescribed in section 2624 of this chapter, by reason of the want of power in the surrogate's court to issue the same, for any cause.

Former § 2593 of this Code.

§ 2563. When surviving or remaining representative may act; when successor must be appointed.

Where one of two or more executors or administrators dies, or where letters are revoked with respect to one of them, a successor to the person who dies, or whose letters are revoked, shall not be appointed, except where such an appointment is necessary, in order to comply with the express terms of a will; but the others may proceed and complete the administration of the estate pursuant to the letters, and may continue any action or special proceeding brought by or against all.

Where all the persons to whom letters have been issued die, or where the letters of all have been revoked by a decree of the surrogate's court, that court has, except in a case where it is otherwise specially prescribed by law, the same power to appoint a successor to the person or persons whose powers have ceased, as if the letters had not been issued. The successor may complete the execution of the trust committed to his predecessor; he may continue in his own name, a civil action, or special proceeding, pending in favor of his predecessor; and he may enforce a judgment, order, or decree, in favor of the latter.

Former §§ 2692, 2695, combined and modified. From 2 R. S. 77, 78 (Part 2. c. 6, tit. 2), §§ 40, 44; Id. 153, § 17; L. 1837, c. 460, § 33; L. 1865, c. 733, § 1.

§ 2564. Persons incompetent to receive letters, or act as testamentary trustee.

No person is competent to serve as an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee or guardian, who is:

1. Under the age of twenty-one years;
2. An adjudged incompetent;
3. An alien not an inhabitant of this state;
4. A felon;
5. Incompetent to execute the duties of such trust by reason of drunkenness, dishonesty, improvidence or want of understanding.

Except as prescribed in section 2567, an executor, testamentary guardian or testamentary trustee, who is not by law required to give a bond, shall not qualify or serve as such where, after objection filed and proof taken, the surrogate finds that:

1. His circumstances are such that they do not afford adequate security to the creditors, or persons interested in the estate or fund for the due administration thereof.
2. He is not a resident of the state of New York.

Former §§ 2612, 2661 of this Code, in part. From 2 R. S. 69, (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2). §§ 3, 4; Id., 75, § 32; L. 1867, c. 782, § 5; L. 1873, c. 79; L. 1893, c. 696.

§ 2565. Surrogate may refuse letters under certain conditions.

The surrogate may, in his discretion, refuse to grant letters to any person unable to read and write the English language; or to any person who does not file in the surrogate's office an instrument acknowledged or proved, and duly certified designating the clerk of the surrogate's court and his successor in office, on whom service of any process issuing from the surrogate's court may be made in like manner and with like effect as if it were served personally upon himself, whenever the person so receiving letters can not be found and served within the state of New York, after due diligence used.

From former § 2612 of this Code, in part.

§ 2566. Objections to grant of letters.

Any person interested in the estate or fund may, before letters testamentary, of administration or of guardianship are granted or a testamentary guardian or trustee is allowed to qualify and serve, file objections showing his interest in the estate or fund, and setting forth specifically one or more legal objections to granting the letters to one or more of the persons about to receive the same, or to allowing a testamentary guardian or trustee to qualify and serve. Where such objections are filed, the surrogate must stay the granting of letters or refuse to allow the testamentary guardian or trustee to qualify until the matter is disposed of.

From former §§ 2636, 2641, 2852 of this Code, in part.

§ 2567. Bond; when required.

In either of the following cases, a person named as executor in a will, or a testamentary guardian or trustee who is not required by the will to give a bond, may entitle himself to letters or to act thereunder by giving a bond as prescribed by law, although an objection against him has been established to the satisfaction of the surrogate:

1. That his circumstances are such, that they do not afford adequate security to the creditors, or persons interested in the estate or fund, for the due administration of the same.

2. That he is not a resident of the state; and he is a citizen of the United States.

Former § 2638 of this Code, modified. From 2 R. S. 70, § 6; L. 1873, c. 657.

§ 2568. Official oaths of executors, etc.

The official oath or affirmation of an executor, administrator, guardian, or testamentary trustee, to the effect that he will well, faithfully, and honestly discharge the duties of his office, describing it, must be filed in the surrogate's office, before letters are issued to him, or he is permitted to act. The oath may be taken before any officer who is authorised to administer oaths.

Former § 2594 of this Code, modified. From 2 R. S. 71, 77, §§ 13, 41; L. 1837, c. 460, § 59.

§ 2569. Removal, or revocation of letters for disqualification, misconduct, etc.

In either of the following cases, a creditor, or person interested in the estate of a decedent, or a ward or friend of a ward, or a person beneficially interested in the execution of a trust, or any surety on a bond of a person to whom letters have been granted or of a trustee may present to the surrogate's court having jurisdiction a petition, praying for a decree revoking those letters, or removing such trustee, and that the respondent may be cited to show cause why a decree should not be made accordingly:

1. Where the respondent was, when appointed or when letters were issued to him, or has since become incompetent, or disqualified by law to act as such, and the grounds of the objection did not exist, or the objection was not taken by the petitioner, or a person whom he represents, before the letters were granted or the appointment made.

2. Where, by reason of his having wasted or improperly applied the money or other assets in his hands, or invested money in securities unauthorized by law, or otherwise improvidently managed or injured the property committed to his charge; or by reason of other misconduct in the execution of his office, or dishonesty, drunkenness, improvidence, or want of understanding; he is unfit for the due execution of his office.

3. Where he has wilfully refused, or, without good cause, neglected, to obey any lawful direction of the surrogate contained in a decree or order, or any provision of law relating to the discharge of his duty.

4. Where the grant of his letters, or his appointment was obtained by a false suggestion of a material fact.

5. Where by the terms of a will, deed or order his office was to cease upon a contingency which has happened.

6. In the case of an executor, who has not been required to give a bond, where his circumstances are such that they do not afford adequate security to the creditors or persons interested for the due administration of the estate; or where he has removed or is about to remove from the state.

7. In case of a guardian where he has removed or is about to remove from the state, or where the interest of the infant will be promoted by the appointment of another person as guardian.

8. In the case of a temporary administrator, appointed upon the estate of an absentee, where it is shown that the absentee has returned; or that he is living, and capable of returning and resuming the management of his affairs; or that an executor, or administrator-in-chief has been appointed upon his estate; or that a committee of his property has been appointed by a competent court of the state.

Former §§ 2685, 2817, 2832, 2858 of this Code, combined. From 2 R. S. 72, § 18; Id., 152, § 14; L. 1837, c. 460.

§ 2570. Petition; citation thereupon; suspension.

A petition presented as prescribed in the last section, must set forth the facts showing that the case is one of those therein specified, and unless the surrogate declines to entertain the proceeding, a citation must be issued according to the prayer thereof.

If such citation be issued the surrogate may, in his discretion, make an order suspending the respondent wholly or partly, from the exercise of his powers and authority, during the pendency of the special proceeding. A certified copy of an order so made must accompany the citation, and be served therewith; but, from the time when it is made, the order is binding upon the respondent and upon all other persons, without service thereof, subject to the exceptions and limitations prescribed in sections 2555 and 2556 of this chapter, with respect to a decree revoking letters.

Former §§ 2686, 2833, 2834 of this Code, consolidated. See L. 1837, c. 460, § 61.

§ 2571. Hearing; decree; testamentary trusts not affected.

Upon the return of a citation, issued as prescribed in the last section, the surrogate may make a decree revoking the letters issued to, or removing, the respondent, or may, in his discretion, dismiss the proceedings upon such terms as justice requires.

Where an executor or an administrator is also a testamentary trustee, a decree revoking his letters does not affect his power or authority as testamentary trustee, except in the case specially prescribed for that purpose, in section 2640 of this chapter.

From former §§ 2687, 2688, 2833 of this Code, in part. From 2 R. S. 72, §§ 20, 21; Id., 152, §§ 14, 16.

§ 2572. Application by executor, etc., for permission to resign.

An executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee may, at any time, present to the surrogate's court a petition, praying that his account may be judicially settled; that a decree may thereupon be made, revoking his letters or permitting him to resign, and discharging him accordingly; and that the same persons may be cited to show cause why such a decree should not be made who must be cited upon a petition for a judicial settlement of his account. The petition must set forth the facts upon which the application is founded; and it must, in all other respects, conform to a petition praying for a judicial settlement of his account. The surrogate may, in his discretion, entertain or decline to entertain the application.

Former §§ 2689, 2814, 2835, 2859 of this Code, consolidated. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 51-56; L. 1870, c. 59, § 3; L. 1879, c. 406.

§ 2573. Proceedings thereupon.

If the surrogate entertains an application, made as prescribed in the last section, the proceedings thereupon must be the same as upon a petition for a judicial settlement of the petitioner's account; except that the surrogate must first determine whether sufficient reasons exist for granting the prayer of the petition. Upon his fully accounting, and paying over all money which is found to be due from him, and delivering over all books, papers, and other property in his hands, either into the surrogate's court, or in such a manner as the surrogate directs, a decree may be made, revoking the petitioner's letters, or removing him, and discharging him accordingly.

Former §§ 2690, 2836 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 51–56; L. 1870, c. 359, § 3; L. 1879, c. 406.

§ 2574. [Am'd, 1916.] In what cases letters may be revoked or trustee removed without a citation.

In either of the following cases, the surrogate may make a decree revoking letters testamentary, of administration or of guardianship, issued from his court, or removing a testamentary trustee, without a petition or the issuing of a citation:

1. Where the executor, administrator, guardian or trustee is not a resident of the state, or is absent therefrom, and upon being duly cited to account, neglects to appear upon the return of the citation, without showing a satisfactory excuse therefor, and the surrogate has not sufficient reason to believe that such an excuse can be made.

2. Where a citation or order issued to such a person, in a case prescribed by law, cannot be personally served upon him, by reason of his having absconded or concealed himself.

3. Where, by reason of his default in returning an inventory, or his neglect or refusal to obey an order, such a person has remained, for thirty days, committed to jail.

4. Where by the judgment of another court of competent jurisdiction the will under which letters have been issued is declared to be invalid.

5. Where an executor or administrator has failed to give the bond required to sell real estate, or to give a new bond, or a new surety when required to do so by an order or decree of the surrogate's court.

6. Where such person has been convicted of a felony.

7. [Added, 1916.] Where such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee mingles the funds of such estate with his own or deposits the same with any person, association or corporation authorized to do business under the banking law, in an account other than as such executor, administrator, guardian or trustee.

Former §§ 2599, 2691 of this Code, modified. From L. 1846, c. 288, § 1; 2 R. S. 85 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 3), § 19. Am'd by L. 1916, c. 588 (in effect Sept. 1, 1916).

ARTICLE FOURTH.

Bonds and undertakings, approval, recording, prosecution and discharge; sureties, their release, rights and obligations.

Sec. 2575. Approval and recording of bonds and undertakings.
2576. Deposit of securities to reduce penalty of bond.
2577. When new bond or new sureties may be required.
2578. Id.; how principal may be required to give a new bond, etc.
2579. Sureties may apply to be released, as to future breaches.
2580. Release of old sureties on the giving of new.
2581. Principal may substitute new bond or surety after judicial settlement.
2582. Sureties liable for money, etc., received in another capacity.
2583. When bond may be prosecuted.
2584. Successor may prosecute official bond.
2585. Action on official bond, when no successor appointed.
2586. Discharge of bond or undertaking given on appeal, or for the performance of an act.
2587. Application of this article to executors, etc., heretofore appointed.

§ 2575. Approval and recording of bonds and undertakings.

All bonds and undertakings filed in the surrogate's court must be approved as provided in section 812 of this act, except that in counties containing a city of the first or second class or a part of such city, the surrogate or surrogates may, in writing, designate a clerk in the office to approve all or any class of bonds or undertakings, and when approved such bonds and undertakings must be recorded.

New.

§ 2576. Deposit of securities to reduce penalty of bond.

In a case where a bond, or new sureties on a bond, may be required by a surrogate from an executor, administrator, guardian, or testamentary trustee, if the value of the estate or fund is so great that the surrogate deems it inexpedient to require security in the full amount prescribed by law, he may direct that any securities for the payment of money, belonging to the estate or fund, be delivered to the county treasurer, or chamberlain, or be deposited subject to the order of the executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee, countersigned by the surrogate, with a trust company, bank or safe deposit company. After such a deposit has been made, the surrogate may fix the amount of the bond with respect to the value of the remainder only of the estate or fund. A security thus deposited shall not be withdrawn from the custody of the depository, and no person other than the county treasurer, chamberlain or the proper officer of the depository, shall receive or collect any of the principal or interest secured thereby, without the special order of the surrogate. Such an order can be made in favor of such executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee, only where an additional bond has been given by him, or upon proof that the estate or fund has been so reduced, by payments or otherwise, that the penalty of the bond originally given will be sufficient in amount to satisfy the provisions of law relating to the penalty thereof, if the security so withdrawn is also reckoned in the estate or fund.

Former § 2595 of this Code. See L. 1885, c. 516.

§ 2577. [Am'd, 1915.] When new bond or new sureties may be required.

Any person interested in an estate or fund, may present to the surrogate's court a petition, setting forth that a surety on a bond, taken as prescribed in this chapter, is insufficient, or has removed, or is about to remove, from the State, or is dead, or that the bond is inadequate in amount; and praying that the principal in the bond may be required to give a new bond, in a larger penalty, or new or additional sureties, as the case requires; or in default thereof, that he may be removed from his office, and that letters issued to him may be revoked. Where the bond so taken is that of a guardian, the petition may also be presented by any relative of the infant. When the bond is that of an executor, or administrator, the petition may also be presented by any creditor of the decedent. If it appears to the surrogate that there is reason to believe that the allegations of the petition are true, a citation shall issue to the principal on the bond to show cause why the prayer of the petition should not be granted.

Former § 2597 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 25, 26, 35; L. 1862, c. 229. Am'd by L. 1915, c. 622 (in effect May 14, 1915).

§ 2578. Id.; how principal may be required to give a new bond, etc.

Upon the return of a citation, issued as prescribed in the last section, the surrogate must hear the allegations and proofs of the parties; and if the allegations, or any of them, are found to be valid, he must make an order, requiring the principal on the bond to give new or additional sureties, or a new bond in a larger penalty, as the case requires, within such reasonable time, not exceeding twenty days, as the surrogate fixes; and directing that, in default thereof, he be removed or his letters be revoked.

Former § 2598 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 27; L. 1862, c. 229.

§ 2579. Sureties may apply to be released as to future breaches.

Any or all of the sureties on a bond taken as prescribed in this chapter, may present a petition to the surrogate's court praying to be released from responsibility on account of any future breach of the condition of the bond, and that the principal on the bond be required to give new sureties and to render and settle his account, and that a citation issue to said principal to show cause why the application should not be granted.

Former § 2600 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, §§ 29, 30; L. 1862, c. 229; L. 1876, c. 278; L. 1901, c. 524.

§ 2580. Release of old sureties on the giving of new.

Upon the return of the citation issued as prescribed in the last section, if the principal on the bond does not file a new bond in the usual form with new sureties to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the surrogate must make an order requiring said principal to file such new bond within such reasonable time, not exceeding twenty days, as the surrogate fixes. Should the principal file such new bond upon the return of such citation or within the time fixed by such order, the surrogate must thereupon make a decree releasing the petitioner from liability upon the bond for any subsequent act or default of the principal, and requiring the principal to render and settle his account to and including the date of such decree, and to file such account within a time fixed, not exceeding twenty days from such date; otherwise he must make a decree removing such principal or revoking his letters.

Former § 2601 of this Code. From L. 1887, c. 460, §§ 31, 32; L. 1901, c. 524.

§ 2581. Principal may substitute new bond or surety after judicial settlement.

Whenever there is pending in surrogate's court a proceeding for the intermediate judicial settlement of the account of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee who has been required to file an official bond, such principal may ask in such proceeding, upon good cause shown, for leave to file a new bond or a new surety. If the surrogate grants such application he shall thereupon fix the penalty of the new bond, or the amount in which the new surety must justify, and upon the filing and approval of such new bond, or of the undertaking of the new surety, the surrogate may provide in the decree of judicial settlement that the former bond or surety be discharged from and after the date of such decree from all liability, except upon appeal therefrom, as to all matters embraced in said account and decree.

New.

§ 2582. Sureties liable for money, etc., received in another capacity.

A person to whom letters are issued is liable for money or other personal property of the estate which was in his hands, or under his control, when his letters were issued, in whatever capacity it was received by him, or came under his control. Where it was received by him, or came under his control, by virtue of letters previously issued to him in the same or another capacity, an action to recover the money, or damages for failure to deliver the property, may be maintained upon both official bonds; but, as between the sureties upon the official bond given upon the issue of the prior letters, and those upon the official bond given upon the issue of the subsequent letters, the latter are liable over to the former.

Former § 2596 of this Code.

§ 2583. When bond may be prosecuted.

Where an execution, issued upon a surrogate's decree, against the property of an executor, administrator, testamentary trustee, or guardian, has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, an action to recover the sum remaining uncollected may be maintained upon his official bond by and in the name of the person in whose favor the decree was made. If the principal debtor is a resident of the state, the execution must have been issued to the county where he resides.

Former § 2607 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 65.

§ 2584. Successor may prosecute official bond.

Where a successor of an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been appointed, he may maintain an action upon his predecessor's official bond, in which he may recover any money, or the full value of any other property, received by the principal in the bond, and not duly administered by him; and to the full extent of any injury, sustained by the estate of the decedent, infant or beneficiary as the case may be, by any act or omission of the principal.

The money recovered in such an action shall be part of the estate or fund in the hands of the successor and must be distributed or otherwise disposed of accordingly; except that a recovery for an act or omission, respecting a right of action, or other property, appropriated by law for the benefit of the husband, wife, family, or next of kin of a decedent, or disposed of by a will for the benefit of any person is for the benefit of the person or persons so entitled thereto.

A decree against such decedent's executor, or administrator, rendered upon an accounting under section 2725 of this chapter, has the same effect as if an execution issued upon a surrogate's decree against the property of decedent had been returned unsatisfied during decedent's life time.

Former § 2608 of this Code, with part of § 2606. From 2 R. S. 85 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 3), § 21.

§ 2585. Action on official bond, when no successor appointed.

Where an executor, administrator, guardian or testamentary trustee has been removed, or his letters have been revoked, and no successor is appointed, any person aggrieved may, upon obtaining an order from the surrogate granting him leave so to do, maintain an action upon the official bond of the person so removed or whose letters have been revoked in behalf of himself and all others interested; in which the plaintiff may recover any money, or the full value of any other property, received by the principal on the bond, and not duly administered by him, and to the full extent of any injury sustained by the estate of the decedent, infant or beneficiary by any act or omission of the principal. The money recovered in such an action must be paid, by the sheriff or other officer who collects it, into the surrogate's court to be paid to a successor when appointed and distributed to the persons entitled thereto.

Former § 2609 of this Code, modified.

§ 2586. Discharge of bond or undertaking given on appeal, or for the performance of an act.

Any party to a bond or undertaking given upon appeal, or to insure the performance of an act by himself or another, as to which no accounting is required by law for its discharge, may apply to the surrogate's court, upon notice to all parties interested in the subject-matter, or in the proceeding in which the bond or undertaking was given, for the discharge of the obligation or liability, in whole or in part. The court may thereupon by order certify that the whole obligation or liability on the bond or undertaking is discharged, or may direct that such obligation or liability be discharged in such amount as may be just, and that the bond or undertaking shall thereafter have the same force and effect as if given in terms for the remaining obligation or liability.

New.

§ 2587. Application of this article to executors, etc., heretofore appointed.

The provisions of this article apply to an executor, administrator, or guardian, to whom letters have been issued, and to a testamentary trustee whose trust has been created before this chapter takes effect; except that it does not affect, in any manner, the liability of the sureties on a bond executed before this chapter takes effect.

Former § 2610 of this Code.

TITLE III.

Granting letters of administration, probating and construing wills; issue of letters testamentary, and ancillary letters testamentary and of administration; appointment and qualification of testamentary trustee; appointment and qualification of general, ancillary and testamentary guardian, and guardian by deed; annual accounts by such guardians.

Article 1. Grant of letters of administration, and qualification of administrators; public and temporary administrators; administrator with the will annexed and de bonis non.
2. Production and probate of wills; objections and their trial; construction of wills; qualification of executors; grant of ancillary letters testamentary and of administration; qualification of testamentary trustee; security from testamentary trustees and executors acting as trustees.
3. Appointment and qualification of general, ancillary and testamentary guardians, and guardians by deed; filing and examining guardians' annual accounts.

ARTICLE FIRST.

Grant of letters of administration, and qualification of administrator; public and temporary administrator; administrator with the will annexed, and de bonis non.

Sec. 2588. Who entitled to letters of administration.
2589. Application for letters.
2590. Citation; proceedings upon return thereof.
2591. Administrator's bond.
2592. Limited letters may be issued; bond.
2593. County treasurer appointed administrator to qualify and have fees.
2594. Public administrator of Kings county.
2595. Public administrator of Erie county.
2596. When and how temporary administrators may be appointed.
2597. General powers, etc., of temporary administrator.
2598. Id.; as to requiring creditors to present claims.
2599. Id.; as to paying debts.
2600. Id.; as to real property.
2601. Special powers of temporary administrator of absentee; may provide for family.

2604. Id.; renunciation or exclusion of persons having prior right.
2605. How executor or administrator with the will annexed qualifies.
2606. Appointment of administrator de bonis non.

§ 2588. Who entitled to letters of administration.

Administration in case of intestacy must be granted to the persons entitled to take or share in the personal property, who are competent and will accept the same, in the following order:

1. To the surviving husband or wife.
2. To the children.
3. To the grandchildren.
4. To the father.
5. To the mother.
6. To the brothers.
7. To the sisters.
8. To any other next of kin entitled to share in the distribution of the estate, preference being given to the person entitled to take the largest share in the estate, except as hereinafter provided.

If a person entitled to take all the personal estate is an infant, or an incompetent, or has died, his guardian, committee or legal representative, as the case may be, shall have a prior right to letters in his place and stead.

If all the persons entitled to take the personal estate are infants, or adjudged incompetents, or, if no adult or competent person entitled to take or share in the estate will accept the same, letters may be granted to the general guardian of an infant or to the committee of an incompetent, in the place of such infant or incompetent.

If no person entitled to take or share in the estate will accept the same or an appointment is not made by consent as hereinafter provided, then administration shall be granted as follows:

a. To the public administrator.

b. To the county treasurer of the county, or to the petitioner, in the discretion of the surrogate.

c. To any other person or persons.

If several persons have an equal right to administration, they must be preferred in the following order: First, men to women; second, relatives of the whole blood to those of the half blood; third, unmarried women to married. If there are several persons equally entitled to administration, the surrogate may grant letters to one or more of such persons. Administration may be granted to one or more competent persons, jointly with, and upon the application of, a person entitled; or to a competent person or persons not entitled, upon the consent of all of the persons entitled to take or share in the estate who are within this state and competent, which consent must be in writing, and filed in the office of the surrogate. For the purposes of this section a trust company or other corporation authorized to act as administrator shall be included in the word "person."

Former § 2660 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 74, 75 (Part 2, c. 6, tit. 2), §§ 27, 28, 33, 34; L. 1867, c. 782, § 6; L. 1893, c. 686; L. 1894, c. 503; L. 1897, c. 177; L. 1909, c. 65; L. 1913, c. 403.

§ 2589. Application for letters.

A creditor, or person interested in the estate of an intestate, or interested in an action brought or about to be brought in which the intestate, if living, would be a proper party, may present to the surrogate's court having jurisdiction, a petition, praying for a decree awarding letters of administration, either to him, or to another person. A citation shall not be issued, and a decree shall not be made where a citation is not necessary, until the petitioner shows to the satisfaction of the surrogate, the existence of all the jurisdictional facts, and particularly that the decedent left no will.

Former § 2662 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 74, § 26; L. 1909, c. 184.

§ 2590. Citation; proceedings upon return thereof.

Every person, being a resident of the state and competent, who has a right to administration prior or equal to that of the petitioner and who has not renounced, must be cited upon a petition for letters of administration; and where the petitioner is not entitled to share in the distribution of the estate there must also be cited all resident infants and adjudged incompetents who are so entitled. The surrogate may, in his discretion, issue a citation to non-residents, or those who have renounced, or to any or all other persons interested in the estate. Where it is not necessary to cite any person, a decree, granting letters may be made on presentation of the petition. Any person who has a right to administration, prior or equal to that of the petitioner, may renounce his right by a written instrument, acknowledged, or proved, and duly certified which must be filed in the surrogate's office; except that a public administrator or county treasurer may not renounce his right and may only be excused from acting as such upon his motion duly made and upon an order made and entered thereupon by the surrogate.

Former § 2663 of this Code. From 2 R. S. 76, §§ 35, 37; L. 1878, c. 298, § 2; L. 1911, c. 431.

§ 2591. Administrator's bond.

Before letters are issued to an administrator he must file his official oath, and execute to the people of the state, and file with the surrogate, the joint and several bond of himself and two or more sureties, in a penalty fixed by the surrogate, not less than the value of the personal property of which the decedent died possessed and of the probable amount to be recovered by reason of any right of action, granted to an executor or administrator, by special provision of law, or by reason of a cause of action which existed in behalf of decedent; except that where the person or persons about to be appointed is or are entitled to the whole estate, the surrogate may dispense with a bond or fix the penalty at such sum as will adequately protect the rights of all creditors. The sum to be fixed as the amount of the penalty must be ascertained by the surrogate, by the examination on oath of the applicant or any other person, or otherwise, as the surrogate thinks proper. The bond must be conditioned that the administrator will faithfully discharge the trust reposed in him as such and obey all lawful decrees and orders of the surrogate's court touching the administration of the estate committed to him.

In cases where the husband or wife and all the next of kin of the decedent or all the persons entitled to share in the estate consent, the penalty of the bond need not exceed double the amount of the claims of the creditors, against the estate, presented to the surrogate, pursuant to a notice to be published once a week for four weeks in such newspaper or newspapers as the surrogate shall direct, reciting an intention to apply for letters under this provision, and notifying creditors to present their claims to the surrogate's court on or before a day to be fixed in such notice, which shall be at least thirty days after the first publication thereof; but no bond so given shall be for less than five thousand dollars; and such bond may be increased by order of the surrogate for cause shown. Pending such application, no temporary administrator shall be appointed, except on petition of such next of kin.

§ 2592. Limited letters may be issued; bond.

Where a right of action is granted to an executor or administrator by special provision of law, or it is alleged that a cause of action existed in behalf of decedent, and it appears to be impracticable to give a bond sufficient to cover the probable amount to be recovered in the case of an executor, or such probable recovery and the existing personal estate in the case of an administrator, the surrogate may dispense with a bond, or fix the penalty at such sum as he shall deem sufficient, and issue letters which as to such cause of action shall be limited to the prosecution thereof, and restraining the executor or administrator from compromise of the action or the enforcement of any judgment recovered therein until the further order of the surrogate made upon filing satisfactory security.

From former § 2664 of this Code, in part.

§ 2593. County treasurer appointed administrator to qualify and have fees.

A county treasurer appointed administrator of an estate shall qualify in the manner prescribed in section 2501; shall be vested with all the powers and rights of other administrators and be subject to the same duties and obligations; and shall be allowed the same fees for his services as are now allowed by law to administrators, which fees shall be in addition to the salary and fees now allowed by law to such county treasurer. Such treasurer may employ an attorney to act for him as such administrator other than the one, if any, appointed to act as the county attorney or the official attorney of such treasurer.

New.

§ 2594. Public administrator of Kings county.

The surrogate of the county of Kings shall, on or before the nineteenth day of October, nineteen hundred and eleven, and every five years thereafter, except as hereinafter provided, appoint a suitable person as public administrator of said county to hold office for the term of five years unless sooner removed for cause, the said term beginning on the nineteenth day of October, 1911. In case of a vacancy in said office by reason of death, resignation or otherwise said surrogate shall fill the same by appointing a suitable person as public administrator for the full term of five years from the date of such appointment and qualification. Before entering upon the performance of the duties of his office the person so appointed must take and subscribe before the county clerk, or a justice of the supreme court, the constitutional oath of office, and execute a bond with sureties to be approved by a justice of the supreme court, to the county of Kings, in a penal sum of fifty thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of all the duties of his office, and that he will fully and correctly account for and pay over all moneys and property that may come into his hands as such public administrator, according to law, which bond must be filed with the clerk of the county. He shall be entitled to retain from all moneys or property of any intestate that come into his hands after deducting all actual and necessary expenses the same commissions as are now allowed by law to executors or administrators, and he shall receive a salary for his services to be fixed by the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York upon the recommendation of the surrogate of the county of Kings, the same to be raised and paid each year in the same manner as are other county charges. The public administrator shall not receive to his own use any fees or emoluments in addition to his salary, and he shall pay into the treasury of the city of New York all commissions and costs received by him from any source whatever; such payments shall be made monthly and shall be accompanied by a sworn statement in such form as the comptroller of the city of New York shall prescribe, showing in detail the costs and commissions received and allowed to him. A suitable office for said public administrator shall be provided for him in one of the county buildings in the county of Kings. The surrogate shall also appoint a counsel and a clerk to said public administrator, their salaries to be fixed by the board of estimate and apportionment of the city of New York upon the recommendation of said surrogate and to be raised and paid each year in the same manner as are other county charges. He shall have the prior right and authority to collect, take charge of and administer upon the goods, chattels, personal property and debts of persons dying intestate, and for that purpose to maintain suits as such public administrator as any executor or administrator might by law in the following cases:

1. Whenever such person dies leaving any assets or effects in the county of Kings, and there is no widow, husband or next of kin entitled to a distributive share in the estate of such intestate, entitled, competent or willing to take out letters of administration on such estate.

2. Whenever assets or effects of any person dying intestate, after his death, come into the county of Kings and there is no such person entitled, competent or willing to take administration of the estate. In such cases intestacy is presumed until a will is proved and letters testamentary issued thereon. All provisions of law conferring jurisdiction, authority or power on, or otherwise relating to, the office of public administrator of the city of New York and to the office of public administrator in the several counties of the state, so far as applicable apply to and are conferred on the office hereby created. The surrogate of the county of Kings, in cases where now authorized by law to issue letters of temporary administration, may in his discretion issue letters of temporary administration to such administrator without further security than required by this section.

§ 2595. Public administrator of Erie county.

The surrogate of the county of Erie shall, within ten days after the passage of this act, and every five years thereafter, except as hereinafter provided, appoint a suitable person as public administrator of and for said county, to take office immediately, and to hold office for the term of five years from the first day of January succeeding his appointment, unless sooner removed for cause.

In case of a vacancy in said office by reason of death, resignation or otherwise, said surrogate shall fill the same by appointing a suitable person as public administrator, to take office immediately upon his appointment and qualification, and hold for the term of five years from the first day of January succeeding his appointment, unless sooner removed for cause.

Before entering upon the performance of the duties of his office, the person so appointed shall take and subscribe before the county clerk, or a justice of the supreme court, the constitutional oath of office, and execute a bond, with sufficient sureties to be approved by a justice of the supreme court, to the county of Erie, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of his office, and that he will fully and correctly account for and pay over all moneys and property that may come into his hands as such public administrator, according to law, which bond shall be filed with the clerk of said county.

Said public administrator shall be entitled to retain from all moneys or property that come into his hands, after deducting all actual and necessary expenses, the same commissions as are now allowed by law to executors or administrators, and all provisions of law conferring jurisdiction, authority or power on, or otherwise relating to, the office of public administrator of the city of New York, and to the office of public administrator of the county of Kings, and in the several counties of the state apply to and are conferred on the office hereby created.

The surrogate of the county of Erie, where now authorized by law to issue letters of temporary administration, may, in his discretion, issue letters of temporary administration to such public administrator, without further security than required by this section.

New.

§ 2596. When and how temporary administrators may be appointed.

On the application of a creditor, or a person interested in the estate, the surrogate may, in his discretion, issue to one or more persons letters of temporary administration, in either of the following cases:

1. When for any cause, delay necessarily occurs in the granting of letters testamentary or letters of administration, or in probating a will.

An appointment of a temporary administrator, in a case specified in this subdivision must be made by an order, if a proceeding for grant of letters of administration or probate of a will is then pending. At least ten days' notice of the application for such an order must be given to each party to the proceeding who has appeared, unless the surrogate is satisfied by proof that the safety of the estate requires the notice to be shortened, in which case he may shorten the time of service to not less than two days. If no proceeding is pending, application shall be by petition and a citation shall issue in the usual manner directed to the persons entitled to letters of administration in a case where no will is known to exist; or to the executor or executors, trustee or trustees if any, and such legatees and devisees as the surrogate may direct to be cited, in cases where a will has been filed.

2. Where a person of whose estate the surrogate would have jurisdiction, if he were shown to be dead, disappears or is missing, so that, after diligent search, his abode cannot be ascertained, and under circumstances which afford reasonable ground to believe either that he is dead, or that he has become a lunatic, or that he has been secreted, confined, or otherwise unlawfully made away with; and the appointment of a temporary administrator is necessary for the protection of his property, and the rights of creditors or of those who will be interested in the estate, if it is found that he is dead.

Application for such an appointment, in a case specified in this subdivision must be made by petition, in like manner as where an application is made for administration in case of intestacy; and the proceedings are the same as prescribed in this title, relating to such last-mentioned application.

Such an application for the appointment of a temporary administrator in either case may also be made, with like effect, and in like manner, as if made by a creditor, by the county treasurer of the county where the person whose estate is in question last resided; or, if he was not a resident of the state, of the county where any of his property, real or personal, is situated. A temporary administrator must qualify as prescribed in section 2591 of this chapter with respect to an administrator-in-chief.

Former § 2670 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 23; L. 1864, c. 71, §§ 5, 11; L. 1867, c. 782, § 7; L. 1875, c. 519; L. 1893, c. 686; L. 1901, c. 20.

§ 2597. [Am'd, 1915.] General powers, etc., of temporary administrator.

A temporary administrator, appointed as prescribed in this article, has authority to take into his possession personal property; to secure and preserve it; and to collect choses in action; and, for either of these purposes, or for the purpose of determining the title to personal property in his possession, he may maintain any action or special proceeding. An action may be maintained against him, by leave of the surrogate, upon a debt of the decedent, or of the absentee whom he represents, or upon any cause of action to which the decedent or absentee would have been a party in like manner and with like effect as if he were an administrator-in-chief. The surrogate may, by an order made upon at least ten days' notice to all the parties who have appeared in the special proceeding, authorize the temporary administrator to sell, after appraisal, such personal property, specifying it, of the decedent, or of the absentee whom he represents, as it appears to be necessary to sell, for the benefit of the estate; or, if it appears that the safety of the estate requires the notice to be shortened, the surrogate may shorten the notice to not less than two days. The surrogate may, also, by order, authorize him to pay funeral expenses, or any expenses of the administration of his trust, or stenographer's or referee's fees on contest of a will or administration; and he may also direct the payment of a legacy or other pecuniary provision under a will or a distributive share or just proportionate part thereof, according to sections 2687 and 2688 of this chapter as though he were an executor or administrator.

Former § 2672 of this Code. From L. 1837, c. 460, § 24; L. 1864, c. 71, § 9; L. 1881, c. 535; L. 1915, c. 621 (in effect Sept. 1, 1915).

§ 2598. Id.; as to requiring creditors to present claims.

A temporary administrator, appointed upon the estate of either a decedent or an absentee, has the same power as an administrator-in-chief to publish a notice requiring creditors of the decedent or absentee to exhibit their demands to him. The publication thereof has the same effect, with respect to the temporary administrator, and also an executor or administrator, subsequently appointed upon the same estate, as if the temporary administrator were the executor or an administrator-in-chief, and the person to whom the subsequent letters are issued were his successor.

Former § 2673 of this Code. From L. 1870, c. 359, § 10.

§ 2599. Id.; as to paying debts.

At any time after the completion of the publication of the notice to creditors by a temporary administrator, the surrogate may, upon proof, to his satisfaction, that the assets exceed the debts, make an order, permitting the temporary administrator to pay the whole or any part of a debt, due to a creditor of the decedent or absentee; or, upon the petition of a creditor, a citation may issue to the temporary administrator, requiring him to show cause why he should not pay the petitioner's debt. When such a petition is presented, the proceedings are, in all respects, the same as where a creditor presents a petition, praying for a decree directing an executor or administrator to pay his debt, as prescribed in this chapter.

Former § 2674 of this Code. From L. 1870, c. 359, § 10.

§ 2600. Id.; as to real property.

When a temporary administrator is appointed and a proceeding is pending for the probate of a will of real property, or there is a delay in the granting of letters testamentary or administration on such a will or in the qualification of a trustee named therein, the order appointing him may confer upon him authority to take possession of real property, in the same or another county, which is affected by the will, and to receive the rents and profits thereof. The surrogate may, by an order, confer upon him authority to lease any or all of the real property, for a term not exceeding one year; or to do any other act with respect thereto, except to sell it, which is, in the surrogate's opinion, necessary for the execution of the will, or the preservation or benefit of the real property. For either of these purposes, he may maintain or defend any action or special proceeding.

Former § 2675 of this Code. From L. 1870, c. 359, § 13; L. 1901, c. 21.

§ 2601. Special powers of temporary administrator of absentee; may provide for family.

A temporary administrator, appointed upon the estate of an absentee, has all the powers and authority enumerated in the last section, with respect to the real property of the absentee. His acts, done in pursuance of that authority, bind the absentee, if living, or his heir or devisee, if he be dead, in the same manner as the acts of an executor or administrator bind his successor.

Upon proof, satisfactory to the surrogate, that the wife or any infant child of an absentee upon whose estate a temporary administrator has been appointed, is in such circumstances as to require provision to be made out of the estate for his or her maintenance, clothing, or education, the surrogate may make an order, directing the temporary administrator to make such provision therefor as the surrogate deems proper, out of any personal property in his hands, not needed for the payment of debts.

Former §§ 2676, 2677 of this Code. From L. 1875, c. 519, § 4.

§ 2602. Notices required by this article; how given.

A notice required to be given, as prescribed in this article, to a party other than the temporary administrator, must be served upon the attorney of the party to whom notice is to be given; or, if he has not appeared by an attorney, upon the party, in like manner as a notice may be served upon an attorney in a civil action, brought in the supreme court. But where the attorney or party to be served does not reside in the surrogate's county; or where the attorney for a party has died, and no other appearance for that party has been filed in the surrogate's office; the surrogate may, by order, dispense with notice to that party; or may require notice to be given to him in any manner which he thinks proper.

Former § 2681 of this Code.

§ 2603. Letters of administration with will annexed; when and to whom granted.
